The house from the recent Cooper-Gaga Star is Born movie.

Lebanon tries to save an Oscar Niemeyer building.

The architect who designed modern Boston, Henry Cobb.

And here's what happens when you don't bother to get a building permit. For over a century. Hat tips to Daniel Perrin.

New book: Hollywood Modern, Houses of the Stars, by Michael Stern and Alan Hess. Most celebs in the 1950's and 1960's went for the big Spanish or Italian villa McMansions but a few were into the coolness of Modernism.

Celebrating 100 years of Paul Rudolph, with celebrations and conferences this fall. Hat tip to Iva Kravitz and Seth Weine.

Bob Thomas won the prestigious AIA North Carolina Henry Kamphoefner Prize for demonstrating "... a consistent integrity and devotion over an acceptable period of time to further the modern movement in architecture without yielding to any of the undesirable current cliches, neo-modernistic mannerisms, or artless historicism that have flawed the building culture of today." Good ol' Henry, he did not mince words!

The City of Durham just put out bids to develop the city-owned property containing the Milton Small designed Home Security Life building, now vacant. For the first time, the City has expressed a preference for saving the building, but that is no guarantee. More.
