Many Little Ones in Our Business

Ninety-five out of every hundred telephone calls are local. Average sale is smaller than the neighborhood drug store or grocery store.

When you think of the Bell System you're likely to think of some big figures. But we're pretty much of a small-town business and our average sale is small

More than nine out of every ten cities and towns in which we operate have less than fifty thousand population. Ninety-five out of every hundred telephone calls are purely local.

The Bell Telephone Companies own property

locally, pay taxes locally and hire local men and women.

The Bell telephone business is owned by people living in cities, towns and rural areas all over America. It is as much a part of the community as Main Street.

Matter of fact, our average sale is smaller than the neighborhood grocery or drug store. For toll and local calls combined it averages only 7 cents.

BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM

LOCAL to serve the community. Nationwide to serve the nation.

Plus Easiest Installation Ever!

Installs in your laundry! This topconnecting G-E Water Heater installs easily anywhere in your house, even on concrete floors. You'll get constant-temperature hot water for all your appliances!

Installs in your basement! Your automatic, electric G-E Water Heater installs anywhere you wish! Gives you oceans of economical hot water! You can depend on your better-built G-E Water Heater.

Installs in your garage! G. E.'s installation anywhere means greater convenience for you. And G-E Water Heaters are safe! There's no pilot light to go out and no dangerous fumes, either!

A G-E Exclusive! G-E Water Heater tanks have fewer openings than any other nationally known brand! This means fewer critical places for leaks to occur

HIS EXQUISITE 6-PIECE PASTRY

IF YOU JOIN THE AROUND-THE-WORLD SHOPPERS CLUB NOW

To demonstrate the quality and uniqueness of the Around-the-World Shoppers Club selections sent to members every month from abroad, we want to send you this beautiful 6-piece nickel silver Pastry Set, with our compliments if you join the club now.

This set is the famous LOXLEY, one of the most honored products of Sheffield, England, and if obtainable here, would probably be priced at $5.00 retail. It is typical of the values and quality of the gifts our members receive every month for only $2.00, postpaid, duty free.

Imagine yourself shopping in the tiny villages and the big cities of Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, the Near East and the Far East. Imagine yourself examining the hundreds of unusual articles peculiar to each foreign land, many of them hand made, then selecting the very choicest in interest, usefulness, beauty and value, and having them sent to you for only $2.00 each!

Yes, you can now enjoy the thrill of receiving a surprise package every month from France, Italy, Spain, Holland, Swed-en, England, India, Japan or some other distant shore—for only $2.00, delivered to your door. You pay no postage, no duty. The value is guaranteed to be more than satisfactory to you in every instance.

How, you ask, can this be done? The secret is in the new, unique service offered by the Around-the-World Shoppers Club -plus the magic of the American dollar.

conditions by lending a helping hand to our neighbors around the world.

CONVERSATION PIECES FROM ABROAD

Our representatives abroad are constantly searching for the best items and the big-gest bargains available. They not only attend the great international fairs and exhibitions, but they travel the highways and byways of foreign lands to discover the unique, the unusual, the beautiful articles which are destined to become conversation pieces when worn, displayed or used in America.

A THRILLING SURPRISE EACH MONTH

With each package will come the fascinating story of the origin and significance of the article you receive-adding glamour to each shipment.

Think of the fun of receiving such ex-otic "surprise packages" month by month! It is like shopping around the world! That is the thrill of membership in the Aroundthe-World Shoppers Club. Each month you'll look forward to the arrival of your foreign shipment with eager anticipation. Each month you'll experience the crowning thrill of the treasure-hunter when you open it to see what delightful surprise it has brought.

YOU PAY NOTHING EXTRA FOR MEMBERSHIP

It costs nothing to join the Around-the-World Shoppers Club. There are no member-ship fees or dues. You pay only for the regular monthly selections of merchandise on any of the following plans:

3 MONTHS MEMBERSHIP (3 consecutive shipments).

YOU CAN CANCEL AT ANY TIME

You may cancel your membership at any time (please give 30 days' notice to allow for transmittal to our foreign office) and the unused portion of your payment will be refunded in full. Even will be refunded in full. Even better, if you are not delighted upon receiving your first regular monthly selection, you may keep it free of charge along with your LOXLEY Pastry Fork Setting gift and receive a full refund of the total amount paid.

EXTRA REWARD FOR JOINING NOW!

Why not start your membership right now, while you can have this 6-piece pas-try setting as an EXTRA GIFT sent to you direct from Sheffield, and get the benefit of the really remarkable values now available? You won't want to miss a single shipment!

Use the coupon below or write, enclosing remittance for the membership term desired.

GIVE A MEMBERSHIP TO SOMEONE SPECIAL!

What could make a more interesting and out-of-the-ordinary gift than a membership in the Around-the-World Shoppers Club? Who would imagine that such lovely foreign products cost only $2.00 each in American dollars? Month after month they are delivered to the recipient from abroad to serve as continuing reminders of your thoughtfulness.

READ WHAT MEMBERS SAY ABOUT THE CLUB:

"I experienced all the delight I originally anticipated when the exquisite flacon from Paris was opened today. I have wrapped it up again as it was when I first picked it up so that my husband may have all the thrill I did from opening it — foreign postmarks and all! Thank you so much for this lovely idea. It has been well worth my money just for the pleasure I received today."

—M. L., New Cumberland, Pa.

"I think the idea of bringing the crafts of the world's artists and artisans to us who do not have the opportunity to seek them out for ourselves, is one offering great advantage to all con-cerned, and with, perhaps, unexpected and indirect results that will make for the accomplishment of decidedly better understanding and relationship between ourselves and our world neighbors."

—Mrs. T. J. McA., Marblehead, Mass.

"I want to take this opportunity to thank you most heartily for the two gifts which have come to me thus far, as a member of the Around-the-World Shoppers Club. I can assure you they were received with genuine delight, showing exquisite taste in their selection."—M. Q., Philadelphia, Pa.

Yours for the Making. Published by De Walt, Lancaster, Penna. Price 25¢ each. . . There are two booklets: one featuring ten authentic designs in early American furniture, and one showing ten exciting designs in modern furniture. All designs shown are American Home patterns. These booklets will show you how to bring new beauty to your home, inside and out, in your spare time. What's more, you can save up to 80%! Booklets also contain facts you should know when buying wood, clear-cut drawings of wood joints, practical tips on finishing the furniture you build, plus an excellent selection of De Walt power tools.

Interior Decorating for You by Florence B. Terhune. (M. Barrows & Co., Inc.) Price $4.95... A complete guide for the beginner; helpful for doing one room, or a country or suburban home. There is an excellent chapter on color: how to use it and how to understand its use. Several chapters are devoted to the art of buying furniture to suit your own requirements; what to look for in furniture; how to select draperies, paint, wallpaper, rugs, accessories. Lots of clever ideas for entire house; many drawings and photographs.

Gardening the Small Place by William H. Clark. (Little, Brown) Price $3.00. . . If you accept "gardening" as a transitive verb and can adapt advice based on "a climate like southern New England's," you will find this a compact little guide to making, and keeping, a garden of from 10,000 to 25,000 sq. ft. It can even help you to think more clearly

This is to suggest that there is far more than the pleasure of making music in playing the Hammond Organ.

And whether or not you now know music, you can be playing the Hammond Organ in a month or less. Many thousands have.

If you do play any other instrument you'll be amazed at how much more beautiful your music is, how much more professional you sound on a Hammond Organ.

Prices? You can own the world's leading organ for as little as $1285 f.o.b. Chicago (Spinet Model), including tone equipment and bench. What this instrument can do to enrich every day of your life—for all the years to come—makes this price absurdly low.

Why not see and hear the Hammond Organ at your dealer soon? Or mail the coupon.

The Trees of Long Island by Geo. H. Peters. (L. I. Horticultural Soc'y) Price $1.00. . . This 64-page, well-illustrated report of a 3-year survey records the history and present status of the trees of an interesting ecological region, and sums up the results of a "big-tree census" indicating, among other things, that the largest U.S. specimens of at least seven tree species are on Long Island. A good model for similar studies in other regions.

Primer of Drawing for Adults by Howard Simon. (Sterling Publishing Co., Inc.) Price $5.00... If you are in serious pursuit—albeit a hobby—of drawing, Mr. Simon's Primer (a year's course in drawing) emphasizes a truly creative approach with old and modern masters as inspiration—underlined with careful technical advice. Profusely illustrated. It's elementary enough for beginners, and thought-clarifying if you've been at this business of drawing a while.

Modern Gardening by P. P. Pirone. (Simon & Schuster) Price $3.50. . . Especially timely and valuable in these days of so-called "miracle-working" garden aids, this is a frank, practical review of basic gardening practices in relation to the many new chemicals available. The latter half is in question-answer form.

Beautify Your Home Grounds by Peter Rhodes. (Garden City Books) Price $1.50. . . Another "complete guide to small-plot improvement and landscaping," which presents its good advice about equally in easy-to-grasp text and some 250 rather crude but effective plans, sketches, and diagrams.

ore you a young wife losing sleep about this intimate problem?

How much happier and healthier is the wife who knows! was developed by a famous French

Any wife who is doubtful about how to practice feminine hygiene and what to use should profit immensely by these scientific facts.

Women have long recognized the value of a cleansing, deodorizing and antiseptic douche for vaginal cleanliness. The woman who uses ZONITE can relax and be assured she is using a perfect solution for this purpose. ZONITE is powerfully effective yet cannot harm you. No other type liquid antiseptic-germicide for the douche is so powerful yet absolutely safe to body tissues as ZONITE. You can use ZONITE as needed without the slightest risk of injury!

ZONITE'S Fabulous History

was developed by a famous French surgeon and English scientist. It was truly a miracle! The first antiseptic in the world to be powerfully germicidal yet positively non-poisonous, non-irritating. Its fame soon spread far and wide, and women were quick to take advantage of its miracle-working action for intimate feminine hygiene.

•ZONITE completely deodorizes. It flushes away waste accumulations and deposits. (Be sure to use a ZONITE douche after monthly periods.) ZONITE helps guard against infection and kills every germ it touches. It's not always possible to contact all the germs in the tract, but you can BE SURE ZONITE instantly kills every reachable germ. ZONITE is one of the greatest contributions science has made to womankind! Costs only a few cents per douche. Always use ZONITE as directed.

A SMART JUNE BRIDE will select stainless steel for her flatware, not to supplement her sterling, but to use Sundays, Mondays, and always. It needs no special care and is now beautifully designed. Our favorite pattern, Facette, is softly curved and slightly concave, satin finished. From Sweden, $8 for a 6-piece setting. Ppd. Studio Shop, Dept. AH-1, 557 Boylston St., Boston 16, Mass.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG WE had a wonderful toy box to hold our toys, our secrets, our treasures. It was our favorite seat in the nursery. So for your toy collector, a toy chest-bench. 31½" x 16½", 20" high; made of solid pine, antiqued and hand-rubbed; cut-out handles. With or without decal decoration. $14.95 express collect. "If you can trim the bushes, you can insulate your attic with KIMSUL* -it's easy as ABC!"

You don't have to be a carpenter - you need no special tools or equipment - to install Reflective KIMSUL* insulation in your home this weekend! KIMSUL is the easiest of all insulations to apply, and complete attic coverage of the average 5-room home costs less than $70! Simply carry the rolls home in your car, cut each blanket to proper length and staple in place. It's easy, easy, easy!

KIMSUL employs the world's most effective barrier to heat loss:

- 1. Thick Fiber Blanket
- 2. Reflective Aluminum Cover
- 3. Positive Vapor Barrier

That's triple protection in one application - reduces winter fuel bills up to 33%, keeps rooms as much as 15° cooler on hottest summer days and protects against condensation.

Start enjoying the exclusive advantages of America's finest insulation now. Look for the KIMSUL dealer who displays Mr. "Do-it-yourself" (shown below), or write to Kimberly-Clark Corporation, Neenah, Wisconsin.

oes a 62% decrease in traffic deaths impress you as a wonderful statistic? It should, for it means that in Vance County, North Carolina, at least 11 lives were saved last year. The Henderson Woman's Club feels proudly responsible for saving some of those lives, and for her own contribution, Mrs. Joan Hight, chairman of the club's Safety Committee, was presented with one of the Carol Lane Awards, the National Safety Council's highest honor, established by the women's travel director of the Shell Oil Co.

Like other communities, Vance County had long been worried about its growing number of traffic and other accidents. And, as in too many other communities, only inadequate measures had been taken. Then C. B. Fort, president of Post 1, Travelers' Protective Association, offered a $100 prize for the civic club doing the best job of promoting safety for one month. tention of every Hendersonite from the tricycle traffic up.

Mrs. Hight set about recruiting help at once, although the month assigned to the club was more than a half-year away. The Safety Committee first invited prominent townspeople to meet with them and present their ideas for effectively bringing safety problems to public attention. The response was enthusiastic, and the members collected a good supply of suggestions and safety material. The mayor of Henderson proclaimed April 1, Safety Day. By the time Safety Day arrived, Mrs. Hight's plans were well formulated, and each member of the committee knew precisely what her job was. Safety Day began the campaign with a huge safety parade, followed by a rally featuring a speakers' panel, a barbecue-brunswick stew supper, and a square dance. Throughout the month, tags resembling parking tickets, but reading "Help us arrest careless driving," were placed on the windshields of parked cars. The committee felt certain that motorists read them with a sigh of relief and a

It's as easy as ABC Almays Be Careful.

Imagination and psychology were used to dramatize safety. Cards asking, "Are you looking at Vance County's next accident victim?" were placed on mirrors all over town. Wrecked automobiles were stationed, sentry-like, at danger spots, reminders of the perils of carelessness. Teasers: "Got one—Get two," appeared on sidewalks.

When curiosity had reached its peak, it was revealed that "one" referred to 100 deathless days, "two" to the goal of another 100 such days private vow not to earn a real violation. Safety poster and safety essay contests were held in the 27 schools of the county. Prizes, donated by local merchants, were awarded, and the winning entries were displayed downtown, and printed in the Henderson Daily Dispatch. Safety films were shown in the classrooms, and a new safety slogan appeared on blackboards weekly. One afternoon, the committee, equipped with 123 prizes, visited the schools, choosing students at random to recite the slogans.

Mrs. Hight's program won the immediate approval of Henderson merchants who co-operated by including safety messages in their advertising. Milk, water, and electric bills brought with them pamphlets and cards regarding safety measures. Filling station attendants and police distributed others. The light and power company provided a window for the month. The committee used it to set up a grim calendar, the accident days blacked out. Bumper strips appeared on motor vehicles, and the "Voice of the Woman's Club" issued warningly from a hidden microphone at a busy intersection. The local radio station broadcast "spot" safety announcements, and a quiz program asked questions from the North Carolina Driver's Handbook for the entire month.

The first five months of 1952 were entirely accident free in Vance County! Throughout the year there were only seven fatalities although there had been 18 in 1951.

The Asphalt Tile of Enduring Beauty

We took the Children with us

ANNE GAJDA

Wacationing by auto with children can be fun—and not despite the kids, but because of them! We have five happy witnesses and a bushel of snapshots to prove it. Five-year-old Jay and eight-year-old Bobby were in on the plans from the start, and voted strongly for visiting cowboy country until we explained that we could hardly do it justice in two weeks. They settled cheerfully for a "foreign" land—Canada. Anne Beth, just under two, cared not where we went, so long as she could ride happily along—and even feeding her was no problem since we discovered that her food, sealed in its jars, could be warmed by the motor.

To avoid restlessness and make it a real vacation, we planned the trip in easy stages. We stopped to see all the places of historic and geographical interest along the way, but most of our stops were just for fun—to sit on grassy banks, to wade in cool streams, to see the logs being sped downstream to the mill. The motels where we slept were excellent, and the boys could hardly wait to explore their new "home" when we stopped each evening about 5 o'clock. Dinner in restaurants was a great treat, as was the daily luncheon, picnic style. We all went to bed at the same time, so there was no trouble on that score.

And when it was all over, we still had our trip with us, because we kept a full photographic log of every stage and every stop, and we relive it repeatedly at home, while we look forward to just such a vacation every year from now on.

Falls and Old Fort Henry broke up the trip to Quebec City. Jay took some fine snaps. Home again, we set the family camera on a tripod and enlisted a nine-year-old neighbor to click the shutter when John shouted. You can see that everybody's still doing his part

"Here's how this barn of a kitchen ought to look! my wife told me, brandishing a magazine with a Gold Bond ad in it. It was a knockout of a kitchen, all right, but how could we afford it? All that wood paneling made it look like a millionaire's dream.

But it wasn't wood. It was Gold Bond Gypsum Grainboard...and it costs little more than standard gypsum board! Our Gold Bond dealer figured our needs.

The dealer gave us simple instructions to follow. We started by nailing "filler" strips to make the wainscoting and upper wall even, so the final grainboard wall would be flush from ceiling to floor.

Then we nailed up planks of Gold Bond Gypsum Grainboard with a finish that looks just like knotty-pine and gives the walls a "fine antique" look. Planks are lightweight and easy to handle. You can saw and nail them as easily as wood. And they're fireproof!

We decorated the ceiling with new Gold Bond Velvet. Made with latex! The easiest of all paints to apply...with either brush or roller. Wonderful new colors! And Velvet is "scrubable"!

Grainboard comes in new Bleached Walnut, Knotty Pine and Dark Walnut. See your Gold Bond lumber and building material dealer. NATIONAL GYPSUM CO., BUFFALO 2, N. Y.

Beauty treatment for an old cellar

Visitors to Armstrong's Idea House in Lancaster, Pa., are finding loads of ideas in its ten remodeled rooms. Here, for example, is how imagination and low-cost materials changed a dingy 65-year-old cellar into a gay playroom. You can do the same with your basement by using Armstrong's Temlok® for walls and ceiling.

Temlok is an attractive insulation board material with a handy joint that speeds installation. It comes in three prefinished formstile, plank, and big boards. Light Ivory Temlok Tile was used for the ceiling, and the walls were finished with Temlok Plank in the new random Suntan Blend.

If you're thinking of converting your attic or basement into extra living space, ask your lumber or building supply dealer for more information about Armstrong's Temlok. He'll be glad to show you samples and help you along with your plans.

LIVE WITHIN YOUR MEANS

Dear Editors:

I read with interest your March article, "Live Within Your Means." As the wife of a school teacher, I have worked and reworked our budget in a vain attempt to do just that . . . There are some things I would question in your . . . budget. The first . . . is food. $120 for a family of four is not enough if it includes milk. I use $25 a week, not including milk, and we do not eat very well. I shop in supermarkets, buy meat on sale, read and compare labels, so it's not careless shopping that uses $25 a week, it's high prices!----MRS. R. S. E.

At no time in our history have we ever been able to come close to clothing three of us on $25 per month.

. . . Do the children have music lessons? Are musical instruments bought? Concert tickets? Do the Hardings own a book? Do they subscribe to magazines? Do they take a newspaper?-____J. D.

. Some of the expenses seem distinctly low. For instance: how much insurance (life, fire, and auto) is obtainable for $20 per month? In what area can light, gas, and telephone be obtained for $16? . . . I likewise suspect that $120 per year for house repairs is a little low. _____J. E. P.

. . When illness strikes and is almost constant for over a period of years, you just can't put anything by.

-MRS. E. K.

The article is good, but apparently the family are heathens, since there is not one mention of any contribution of any kind to anything. Do they not support the Red Cross, the Boy Scouts, or any church or synagogue?

-J. S. M.

Please continue with the start you have made in making people budget conscious-and don't tuck the articles away in the back of your magazine. Living within an income should be a wonderful source of satisfaction, not a dreary task. --- MRS. D. K.

All budgets, no matter how well drawn, are subject to some criticism and more or less controversy. "Where Does the Money Go?" or "Who Gets the Money?" are favorite topics for political debate and more violent action. Whether the butcher, the baker, or the candlestick maker gets the money appears to be the $64 question in many American homes today. The latest available government statistics indicate that food and tobacco accounted for 35.5% of consumer spending while less than 1% went for religious and welfare activities.

Provision for church and charitable donations was included in the individual allowances of John and Mary and the "Children's Spending Money" for the children's contributions. John and Mary felt that the amount each should give was a matter of individual judgment and responsibility. Hence, a separate breakdown of this item was not deemed advisable. As a matter of fact, John contributed $9 per month and Mary $6.

The perfect budget is yet to be devised and the purpose of my article was to make people more budget conscious rather than to set up any hardand-fast monetary schedule. If a budget could be arranged to meet successfully every family's income, what a perfect world we would have!

We Pay a Call on The DARBYS

JAMES M. WILEY

We stopped the car just down the street and switched off the ignition. The appointment was for four o'clock; we were a few minutes early. It was hot in the car, but these few minutes gave us a chance to study the house. Yesterday, when we had telephoned Mrs. Roy Darby from the hotel in Cleveland, she had told us some of the interesting details about her house. The style is Western Reserve; in fact, the little town in which it stands is only 60 miles from the westerly boundary line of the old Connecticut

Western Reserve Territory, settled by a deed of cession in 1786 as lying 120 miles west of the western boundary line of Pennsylvania. Originally this vast tract granted by the English Crown in 1630 to the Council of Plymouth extended westward "... to the South Sea," and was settled by people from Connecticut. Its early architecture closely resembles that it was merely a year old. It was four o'clock; we rang the bell—

Mrs. Darby greeted us. A small fine-boned woman with auburn hair and fresh clear skin; the smile, the manner of a gracious hostess that quickly put a guest at ease. Mrs. Darby invited us in and closed the door behind us. As we chatted in the hall and our eyes made the transition from the brilliant sunshine outside, we had our first impression of the house—cool greens and yellows, soft, quiet. A pretty arrangement just inside the door, a place to put down a parcel, examine the morning mail, the rich burl of curly maple table and mirror pleasant against moss-

green dado . . . yellow and olive paper above with plumaged birds

on the branch, bayberry candles in bright brass brackets, a pair of fine Hitchcock chairs. Just down the hall, a long pine bench opposite what must be the door to the living room. Mrs. Darby waved us in, and we seated ourselves around the fireplace, closed now for the summer with a pleated paper fan behind the screen. It was a pleasant room to be in. Cool it felt for June—the coloring helped that—with late afternoon sun making patterns on the green carpet, reflected light playing soft shadows across the paneling on one wall. Then, as Mrs. Darby busied herself with tea in the next room, we did what I suppose every first-time visitor to a home does. The eyes wander over the room, aware of its beauty as an entity, then discovering the little bits and pieces that make up its component charm. Before us on the coffee table was an arrangement of flowers that seemed hardly true, so quaint was it, so miniature, not as big as your hand. The line is flowering crab, with limelight marigolds set in a Chinese rice bowl on a little teakwood stand. Behind us, on another table, this one not so small, asters, rose Celosia and Hosta leaves in an emerald bowl. Above the fireplace, a curious primitive portrait of a child; near the secretary, a group of miniatures framed in old daguerreotype cases. Treasured in a little hanging cabinet, small ceramic figures—Mrs. Darby caught our curiosity and pointed out Sairey Gamp, the original Dickens character that started her collection of the Dickens Doulton figurines. 18 she has, in all.

. Then we Saw the Kitchen

• Tea was ready . . . in the kitchen. Through the wide louvered doors from the living room, one step down into the big cheerful room, gathered around the Larry Survey to be a controlled to the big cheerful room.

the big cheerful room, gathered around the Lazy-Susan table. As we munched crispy water-cress sandwiches, Mrs. Darby told us the story of the room . . . how she had worked for weeks to achieve just the right color in the pine paneling, not too red, not too yellow. The curved hearth she wanted, and the patience of the workmen laying the bricks just so, and fitting the flooring to it. The bay window looking out front, designed as a setting for the colorful pieces of old glass she has picked up from Maine to California. Near the middle of the room we saw the big screen which separates cooking and clean-up area from dining area. Mounted on a ball-bearing ceiling track, it's big enough to do the job, yet easy enough for a small woman to push around. In the working part of the kitchen, Mrs. Darby demonstrated another of her prides—the way she planned the washer and the automatic dishwasher to fit neatly into the pine cupboards. Open the doors, flip up top, and everything's ready for action. Humanly, she also told us about the one-inch miscalculation—the day the washer arrived and wouldn't fit, and the night of despair until she figured out a way that it would work. Opening directly off the kitchen at the back of the house, there's a big screened porch with easy chairs and a table. Mr. and Mrs. Darby share another hobby which porch visitors can enjoy all summer long—a beautiful bed of tuberous begonias planted along the porch edge.

TO SEE THE BEDROOMS, TURN THE PAGE

Exquisite detailing is the hallmark of this inviting house, for Mrs. Darby worked with an artist's eye and a craftsman's pride in the kind of perfection that rewards the effort it requires. The just-right shade of the floors and walls was no accident; neither was the engaging, precise curve of the hearth. A fine collection of glass is finer still displayed against the light and used as excellent "curtaining" for the windows

Mrs. Darby asked us if we'd like to see the bedrooms and of course we said yes and she led us down the little hall and opened the door of the master bedroom. We had admired the choice of wallpapers in the hall, the living room and kitchen; here again in this room the paper was disarming. White wainscoting accented its freshness-Mrs. Darby commented that it might have been too heavy had the design run from ceiling to floor. Prominent in the room were the beautiful rug made in Portland, Maine, and the antique maple beds. But there were little treasures, too, that we found-the old Pennsylvania Dutch quilts from Lancaster County with a border of hearts; a small maple dressing table set into a niche, matched groupings of miniature pictures hung in the reveals.

Turning a corner in the hall another picture met the eye—the guest bedroom as you see it through the doorway at left. Just a glimpse of its clean blue and white sparkle framed in the soft green woodwork of the doorway. Story-book stuff, this, we thought: the prim paper, its blue against warm white, old-fashioned muslin curtains at the window. Those starched, beruffled pillow shams—what could be more inviting to a road-weary guest than to climb that high old bed and go back in a dream to Grandmother's time? Mrs. Darby took us over to the silhouettes hanging on the wall . . . the lower silhouette is that of her daughter when she was about eight years old. The two pictures above are her granddaughters,

Darby Lee and Deborah Ann. On the night table beside the bed, on a dressing table, and an antique chest, Mrs. Darby has used pieces of milk glass and blue glass to accent the color in the room. Here again, we spied another Darby miniature—this one a tiny lacquered box burgeoning with red berries. Perched atop it and to one side, two inquisitive bluebirds, each hardly bigger than a fingernail. As all nice things must, our visit with Mrs.

Darby ended too soon. We said good-by, with our thanks for us and for you, and she waved us on our way. A lovely person, we thought, and a lovely home. Don't you think so, too?

ARCHITECT FOR REMODELING: JEROME ARMSTRONG LANDSCAPE ARCHITECT: WARREN JONES DECORATOR: JOHN GARNER

Rebuilding the drive, changing the color, and adding a Chinese fretwork motif, turned an undistinguished modern into a fitting treasure chest for a collection of Chinese art. Sliding screens over west-facing window give importance to a difficult wall, filter out excessive sun, and carry the Chinese motif into a living room finished to compliment works of art. Since living room was small, a wallwide cornice adds to its apparent width. Subtly toned grasscloth on the walls was cut into narrow strips—in better scale with the room than panels of the normal width would have been

If one trait most distinguishes us Americans from other peoples, it is our happy habit of refusing to leave well enough alone—if we can improve it, that is, as the George Hertzes did in perfecting this "well-enough" house. It certainly did not look like a candidate for remodeling when they bought it—a good, though undistinguished, contemporary structure of fieldstone and varnished redwood, well set on its corner lot, and only a few years old.

But it did have its faults. For one thing, the front lawn was badly cut up by a driveway which entered sharply at one side and exited as sharply at the other. Then, the exterior color wasn't quite to the taste of the new owners, collectors of Chinese art who wanted a more subtle setting for themselves and their treasures. Another thing in need of correction was the living room's picture window, which faced due west and admitted much too much sun on hot summer afternoons. So they called in professionals to improve it.

First, the architect added a new garage to the rear, turned the existing garage into an additional room, and faced it with fieldstone to match and balance the fieldstone near the entry. Next, he widened the entry itself. Then he designed sliding panels to shade that west window, backed them with matchstick blinds, and embellished them with a handsome Chinese fretwork motif which became an appropriate theme song for the house. Finally, the whole exterior was painted a soft shade of beige, punctuated by bright coral accents.

A landscape architect took over to restore the front lawn and add a garnishing of shrubs. Now a single driveway, wide enough for two cars, curves gracefully to the house and exits to the side street. A decorator completed the job by making the smallish rooms look larger, and by pointing up the Hertz possessions while giving first consideration to the comfort of their owners.

And so a good existing house became a perfect one for the people who occupy it —for a much smaller investment than a new custom job would have required.

Remember Grandmother's linen closet, with its stock of hand-monogrammed bed linens, all immaculately white—and really rather monotonous? In her day, even colored borders on blankets were daring! But we've learned how much color and pattern, properly handled, can do to gladden the eye—and we can have them in fresh new bedtime fashions like these. The whole bedding industry is style-conscious nowadays, so there's no trick at all to finding blankets which harmonize with your décor, and a variety of sheets to go with them. The big news, of course, is the pattern on sheets and on cases—all gay, all in excellent scale, and all woven or printed in color-fast hues which are no washday problem. MARY E. MONZE

JOHN L. SPRINGER

Soon after the war, a middle-aged couple bought a television receiver and signed a contract to have it cared for by a factory-approved serviceman. Once they learned to operate the controls, they sat back without worry to enjoy a program. For years the arrangement worked perfectly. Only twice did the receiver need adjustments, and calls to the repairman resulted in quick, courteous service.

Then the husband decided that he was "wasting" his money, and canceled the service contract. Three months later, the picture tube went black. Casually the husband phoned a serviceman who had recently sent him a post card soliciting business. An unshaven youth arrived, poked his grimy fingers into the set, and announced: "Looks like it needs a new resistor, at least. That will be $21." The owner shrugged helplessly. With a knowing smile, the serviceman investigated further and announced that three other tubes needed replacing—at $3 each. After two months, the set balked again. Another call for service brought another discovery of new parts needed, another exorbitant bill. For two years, the couple went through a nightmare of increasingly poor reception and increasingly larger repair bills.

Gradually, the husband began to suspect that his ignorance of the simple fundamentals of television might be making him easy prey for unscrupulous repairmen. He computed the costs of maintaining the old set for a single year, and found that they came to more than half the cost of the latest model receiver.

A great number of the 17 million TV sets now in use are five years of age or older, and every year, millions of others become middle aged. When this happens, more and more parts need replacement. To avoid being victimized, as was the man in the sad story above, you have two alternatives. First, you can continue to sign yearly service contracts which, if taken with reputable servicemen, guarantee a minimum of maintenance headaches. But you have to buy such freedom from care at a price which is too high for many families. Your other alternative is to learn to diagnose and cure common TV troubles without the help of a serviceman. This often is simpler than most people believe—if you learn what you can't do yourself along with what you can. (You should never monkey with the big picture tube, for example, or put your hand into the set unless you know that the set is disconnected, and the cord is removed from the plug—otherwise, you may get a lethal shock.)

Whichever course you follow, there are many things you should know to keep your set in its best operating condition. Researchers asked a dozen of the country's foremost authorities—manufacturers and maintenance experts of the nation's most respected brands—to tell what the average American can do to keep performance high and repair bills low. Their following easy-to-follow suggestions will improve reception, lengthen your set's life, and protect you against needlessly high bills when repairs are necessary.

Understand the Simple Principles of TV. Like a radio aerial, the TV antenna catches signals transmitted through the air and sends them through a lead-in wire to your receiver. These signals are weak. When you turn on your set, you supply power to vacuum tubes which magnify the signals hundreds of times. Then the sound signals are carried to the loudspeaker on one circuit, while the picture signals head for the picture tube on another circuit. As these approach, they hit "sweep" circuits which operate at the same rate of speed as the camera in the television station. Aided by tremendous electric voltages, which have been built up inside the receiver, these circuits direct a stream of electrons at the neck of the picture tube to follow the example of the TV camera. At a rate of thousands per second, electrons strike the fluorescent screen of the picture tube, causing it to glow. The contrast in light and shadow, caused by these flying electrons, produces the picture you see. If you keep this operation in mind, you will realize that every device from the antenna to the picture tube is important to good TV reception, and that for best results, every part should be kept in good working order.

Recognize TV'S Limitations. To avoid useless attempts to repair your set, or needless calls to a serviceman, learn to recognize the common causes of temporary interference about which you can do nothing. Automobile motors running nearby will produce a speckled, streaked picture. Diathermy equipment may cause a distinctive herringbone pattern or fog the image. Other radio signals transmitted nearby will produce moving ripples or diagonal streaks.

Some repairs require professionals—but there are many ways to save money by keeping your own set on the beam

One night recently, a home owner in a New York suburb settled back to enjoy his new set. Every few minutes, however, the picture became wavy and weak. The owner awakened his serviceman then and there to complain, but the cause was beyond anybody's control: commercial airliners, flying to a nearby airport, cut across the path of signals from the broadcasting station and caused the interference. In such cases, the TV owner must learn to bear momentary inconvenience—or move away.

Place Your Receiver with Care. "An all-too-common error," says one authority, "is placing the set too close to windows, radiators, or warm air registers. Excessive cold, heat, or dampness will upset its intricate mechanism. Once you find the best position, don't move your set unnecessarily, for moving it upsets certain adjustments. Also, avoid slamming doors in your TV room."

TV sets generate heat and can be a fire hazard, if they are not correctly placed—at least seven inches from the wall, so that air can circulate freely around all sides. Don't let it touch curtains or other inflammable materials.

A TV's heat may cause other problems, too. Last summer, a young couple placed their new receiver against an inside wall, and viewed it in comfort. When autumn arrived, they became chilled while watching TV, and in winter the cold became unbearable. After studying the problem in vain, the husband consulted his dealer—who smiled. "Without hearing more," he said, "I'll bet your set stands under your thermostat. Naturally, the heat affects the thermostat so that it does not call for more heat from your furnace." So the set was moved to another wall.

Check Your Antenna Regularly. "No set is better than its antenna," experts agree. They recommend that you examine it if your receiver does not provide good, sharp, steady images.

Is it in the best location? In most cases, an outdoor antenna should be placed as high as possible, preferably with no obstacles between it and the transmitting stations. Usually, however, the shorter the distance between antenna and receiver, the better your reception.

Is it securely attached? Reception will be poor if it sways under heavy winds. If attached to a chimney, the connecting straps should run around the brickwork, rather than around mortar which may crumble. Lead-in wires running to the receiver should not touch the antenna's metal mast, and should be continuous, without splices or frayed parts. You will have interference if they run long distances paralled to electrical lines, rainspouts, gutters, or other metal trimming.

Does it capture signals strong enough for your needs? If you are troubled by weak reception, the cause may be improper installation of the antenna. If you don't know enough about electricity to first make very sure that your antenna is properly grounded and can't give you a shock, call in a serviceman to check the antenna. But if you are absolutely certain of the proper grounding, you can make the following check yourself. When all stations in your community are on the air, tune into the lowest-numbered channel and ask a helper to turn the outdoor antenna slowly. Where reception is sharpest, he should mark the antenna's location and channel number with a piece of chalk on the chimney, roof, or wall next to it. Follow this procedure for all stations, and carefully recheck your markings. Now you know the direction providing the strongest signal for most, or all, channels. Attach the antenna as tightly as possible at this point.

If you have an indoor or built-in antenna, you can make the same tests without assistance. If you cannot tune in some stations clearly, you may need an outdoor antenna.

Does it often "snow" on your screen? This may be due to a weak signal. With more elements added, your antenna could produce a stronger signal. For an investment of about $20 or so, you can usually increase by ten times the signal receiving power of your antenna. A reputable parts dealer will know what equipment is needed for your locality, and will show you how to install it.

Are you bothered by "ghost" images—two pic-PLEASE TURN TO PAGE 86

16th-century proverb tells us that "a little house well fill'd, a little field well till'd, and a little wife well will'd are great riches." Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Benjamin, of Cleveland, Ohio, can supply a convincing example and endorsement of the second part of that statement, for the 50-ft.-wide half of their property that adjoins the portion on which their house stands is so "well till'd" that it not only matches up to the tasteful, immaculate front yard on the other side and presents a most attractive view from the street, but also supports a varied collection of plantings that give them beauty and fragrance for enjoyment outdoors and indoors. For good measure, it yields an annual harvest bounty that generously enhances and reinforces their diet for a good part of each year. The crops they grow in their 45-ft.-square vegetable garden behind a privet hedge, faced with geraniums and sweet alyssum, may surprise some gardeners, but they are the kinds that the Benjamins especially enjoy. And one of the first rules in wise home food production is: "Grow what the family likes."

Mr. Benjamin devotes his thought, skill, and energy to growing those crops to perfection. Mrs. Benjamin then takes over and either prepares them for the table in an appetizing variety of forms, or "puts them down," according to modern methods, for use during the "closed" gardening season. Similarly, they divide the care and utilization of the annual and perennial flowers, roses, shrubs, and other ornamentals, and share the enjoyment of the flowers "on the hoof" as it were, as arrangements in the house, and as gifts for friends. A particular feather in his cap (or should we say "helmet," since he is fire chief of his community?) is his immaculate lawns, which have been known to prompt the accusation from visitors that he "must use manicure scissors in cutting the grass." But since one of Mrs. Benjamin's hobbies is rug making, it seems proper that her husband should take pride in giving his garden the best possible floor covering.

Get the Most out of (and into) Your Freezer erhaps the best thing about owning a food freezer is that you get out of it more than you put into it-in terms of convenience, that is, and money saving as well. But this supermarket in your home, and its contents, represent quite an investment. You have a lot of frozen assets in that cold storage vault, and they must be protected if they are going to pay dividends. And so-what are you doing to protect that investment? Have you read the service manual that the manufacturer supplied with the freezer? Would you know what to do, and what to look for, if suddenly the current went off in your freezer? Would you become panicky and make an unnecessary service call before making a few fundamental and logical checks first?

In the following paragraphs we discuss various freezer problems, with the possible causes—the easy-to-fix problems which do not involve the compressor, the condenser, the lock, seal, and the controls. After you've checked these, if you suspect trouble with the parts just mentioned, call in a qualified service man.

If the automatic warning bell should ring or the signal light go out, some of the conditions that a might have caused this to happen are:

- 1. Blown house fuse.
- 2. Accidental removal of power-cord plug from the outlet.
- 3. Temporary failure of the electric power source.
- 4. Exceptionally large quantities of warm food placed in the freezer at one time.

The remedy for any of these four conditions can be duck soup in your capable hands.

But in the event old Mother Nature does cause a power failure, keep the door of the freezer CLOSED all the time. Your food will keep well in that insulated box for 24 to 36 hours without thawing. If at the end of that time it is apparent that the power will not be restored, then take the food to a locker plant for emergency storage, or spread small pieces of dry ice on top of the food-and be sure to wear gloves when you handle dry ice. Examine the melting food carefully. Officials say that so long as the temperature does not rise above 50°, food will not be spoiled.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR FREEZER

1. Defrost the freezer periodically according to the manufacturer's instructions. It is time to defrost when the frost is from 3/8 to 1/2 in. thick. If it is necessary to remove any food while performing this chore, wrap it in several thicknesses of newspaper or pack it tightly in a heavy carton. Then scrape the frost down with a wooden butter paddle, a plastic scraper, or one of the special frost scraper tools that are sold for that purpose. Never use a sharp tool to scrape off the frost. It might puncture the shell.

2. Clean the outside by wiping with a damp cloth. You can even make it easier on yourself by occasionally polishing the entire outside with a refrigerator wax, then only a wipe-off with a damp cloth will be necessary.

3. Keep oil and grease off of the gaskets. (These are the sealing strips on the inside of the lid or door; some are made of vinyl plastic, some of rubber.)

Periodically, clean the dirt and dust from the compressor. A vacuum cleaner is excellent for this purpose. Remember these dirt accumulations make the freezer work harder and run longer.
 Do not push the freezer tight against the wall. Give the air a chance to circulate through the condenser so it will not have to work so hard or run so much.

6. Keep it level. Your freezer probably has leveling devices on the legs; if it doesn't, you can always use a wedge of some kind.

of their freezers are the ones who keep the stock turning over, just as if it were a retail store. Since it requires a great deal of space to store even a six-months supply of food, only by rotating the food in your freezer can you cut down on food costs and make the freezer pay off in cash savings as well as in convenience. The more turnover, the lower will be the cost per pound of the frozen food.

New freezer owners seem to have a natural tendency to overbuy on one item—they will proudly tote home a whole side of beef, and then suddenly wake up to the fact that there is no space left to store anything else. Also, we should keep the growing season in mind when we're purchasing anything in large quantities —buy things when they are cheapest and best. It isn't necessary to raise a garden to justify the use of a food freezer, although it certainly helps as far as budget cutting is concerned.

FREEZER INVENTORIES PAY OFF
An inventory list of things in your freezer helps to jog your memory about what is there and where. If you can work out an inventory system and keep it up to date—marking the withdrawals as well as the deposits—you will find it one of the best ways to accomplish that constant turnover that we have been talking about. It is surprising how really easy it is to forget, and at times it can be doggone embarrassing to find the "cupboard bare," especially when unexpected company drops in.

Some freezers are made with built-in files, or it is the easiest thing in the world to tape a list right on the door or lid. A book diary with one date to a page makes an excellent locker "logbook" too. The date of freezing is very important, because experts tell us that most foods have a maximum storage period which should be closely observed to gain top flavor and vitamin content.

the fine art of food freezing in detail. Much excellent material on the details of processing is available free of charge—write to the U. S. Government Department of Agriculture, or ask the home economics department of your local schools, colleges, or utility companies.

But in addition to processing, you should cook for your freezer. It is fun to experiment with the favorite dishes of the family, even though you may not have heard that they can be frozen. For other ideas, watch the various varieties of new commercially frozen foods. Anything that a commercial packer freezes, you can freeze, but when you do decide to freeze something new, don't go overboard before you do some experimenting with a few sample packs first. You will find it is just as easy to double or triple a recipe, and freeze the remainder of the food for future meals, as it is to make up a single recipe. And by developing this habit you will soon start thinking in term of days, weeks, and even months in advance in your meal planning, and that will make marketing and cooking so much easier.

proper packaging is important. If you want quality frozen food, use only packaging materials that are specifically recommended for that purpose—and use these materials properly. We've known homemakers who have tried to economize by using ordinary waxed paper, butchers' paper, and even ice cream cartons. But the most expensive freezer wraps will be cheaper than the cheapest paper if you lose even five pounds of meat as a result of false economy. Kits containing a complete assortment of freezing materials can be purchased in house-ware departments. Why not start with one of these, and then make your own decisions as to what kinds of freezer packaging

They Won Their Battle-for a Home

ETHEL McCALL HEAD

It's a sparkling October day. Strictly the California kind, pungent with the smell of burning eucalyptus leaves. Across the lawn, the sea shimmers in the noonday sunshine. Benny, lunch tray in hand, picks his way along the terrace between the scattered toys and chubby Johanna in her oversize play pen. Nancy comes out of the bedroom-study and flops in a deck chair. She gives the baby a hug before she reaches for a sandwich. "Tve licked Chapter 20 this morning, Ben. The bugs are really out of it now."

Ben, who is feeding Johanna between bits of his own lunch, nods.

This is a typical day for Nancy and Benedict Freedman, the young authors of the best seller and motion picture, Mrs. Mike, and the recent novel, This and No More, who are also regular writers for the Red Skelton radio program. While Nancy is closed in the big bedroom writing, Benny, on the morning shift in their servantless household, takes full charge of 16-month-old Johanna, does the daily chores, and cooks lunch. In the afternoon, Ben writes and Nancy is on duty. But once Johanna is bedded down for the night, this husband-wife writer team have a leisurely dinner with music, talk over the work accomplished during the day, or check the voluminous research files for documentation of their new novel, a story set in Palestine at the turn of the century. Benny is Jewish but Nancy is not, and the good adjustment they have made to the religious problem is only one of many problems which this couple have successfully faced and conquered. Their handsome redwood and glass modern house, designed by the

Their handsome redwood and glass modern house, designed by the famous architect, Richard Neutra, and set high above the Pacific with garden on one side and secluded swimming pool on the other, looks like a pretty elegant setup for a pair of youngsters. In the jargon of Hollywood, it looks as if the kids "got all the breaks," an easy success story of Horatio Alger dimensions. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

When Nancy and Benedict were married in June, 1941, an impressive battery of heart specialists gave her three months to live. That Nancy stood up beside her bed for the ceremony, as a gesture of defiance, was the cause of grave concern on the part of the medical men. That at 22 Benny was without a job, had only a little money, and was marrying a girl condemned to die within three months, a girl whom he had seen only five times in his life, was hardly an auspicious start.

Benny removed the front seat from his old car to make room for a bed for Nancy, rolled down the top, and under a spring moon the two set out for a honeymoon in the woods of northern Wisconsin. Benny was convinced that could he but get Nancy away from the supervision of doctors (and her own father was one) to the healing quiet of the Wisconsin woodland in spring, she would recover. Even if she were to die, there might be a little time of happiness.

And so began the Freedman daily battle for life and happiness. It was a fight which was to last for several years. They had to grow up fast, for it was always possible that they didn't have much time. It didn't take long, however, for the ugly bugaboo of money—or rather, of no money—to intrude upon their idyll. And so, in the same old car which had carried them to the Wisconsin woods, they set out for California where Benny had an opportunity to write for the Red Skelton program. His grandfather, David, had been a well-known drama critic for a Yiddish newspaper; his father, David, had made a name as a writer on Broadway. Benny figured that with the same blood flowing in his veins, the same desire to write, he too, could succeed. What matter that he was only 22, and that he had left Columbia University at 17 upon his father's death? Benny had a wisdom beyond his years. He realized that Nancy must share in his work despite her ill health. She had no background for writing-her interest had been the theatre. At the age of seven, she was dancing professionally, and when forced by the early evidence of a heart condition to abandon such an energetic form of expression, she had turned to the stage. Eventually, Nancy became a protégée of Max Reinhardt, played dramatic roles on stage and radio, and toured in summer stock. But Benny's attempts to interest Nancy in his radio writing worked well. In their spare time, they wrote a short novel, published in Bluebook in the fall of 1942. Back to the Sea, Viking, a story about Norway during the war, was the first collaboration of the Freedmans. But fame did not start hounding them as soon as their first works were published. It was not until a full five years later that they hit the jackpot with Mrs. Mike.

In the meantime, Nancy was steadily improving and able to be out of bed a part of each day. And day by day, the slow way, the Freedmans were fighting their own battle for health and happiness. In 1946, a writers' agent came to them with the idea of writing a novel based on the life of Katherine Mary Flannigan, the widow of a Canadian Mountie. Since the material seemed to represent a struggle for existance somewhat similar to their own, Nancy and Ben agreed to meet Mrs. Flannigan, and when they did, they became so enthusiastic about her story that they were writing a book almost before they realized it.

Mrs. Mike was published in February 1947, appeared serially in The Atlantic Monthly, was condensed for the Reader's Digest, got the Literary Guild windfall in March, and was purchased for an almost astronomical figure for the motion pictures. All this, just six years after Benny had placed his invalid bride in a makeshift bed and headed for the Wisconsin woods.

It seemed a likely time for the Freedmans to build a house on a piece of land practically within spitting distance of the Pacific. It was a magnificent site. Towering eucalyptus trees with branches bent into a beautiful pattern by the sea wind, stood against the sky. Down the coast, a gentle view of the beach towns; to the north, a rugged panorama of mountains meeting the sea.

The day the property was cleared through escrow, Ben and Nancy went to walk about their domain and, standing knee-deep in weeds, they tried to visualize the dream house they had so often talked about when neither of them knew for sure that it could ever be realized. Like a benediction, the beauty of mountains and trees, sea and sky touched them. And Nancy, sun-tanned and healthy now, said that she suddenly was aware of the miracle that had happened to her—she would never be standing there had it not been for Benny's indomitable faith.

The Freedmans knew that with such a spectacular site only a modern house could bring the sea and garden in to them. They engaged Richard Neutra to design it, and spent much time poring over plans for the perfect little house. A small kitchen, a pleasant living-dining room with a wall of glass on one side opening to the sea view, and on the other to the swimming pool, and a single spacious bedroom which could double as a study. That was all they needed. Three rooms.

But with the inconsistency of women, after the house was under construction, Nancy decided that since she had come out of the woods, both figuratively and literally, the only thing she needed to complete her happiness was a baby. That there was only one bedroom in the house seemed unimportant, but what would the heart specialist have to say? After a thorough examination, he gave a favorable verdict. Jubilant, the Freedmans notified Mr. Neutra that somewhere in the modern house of redwood and glass they would have to find a spot for a baby.

Leisure House for $97500

This one should make you stop dreaming and start doing, for it is the most handsome, durable, and adaptable low-cost prefabricated vacation house we've seen. Designed by the prize-winning San Francisco architects, Campbell and Wong, it has already earned many honors. And no wonder, for its revolutionary triangular form is both logical and economical. It doesn't remotely resemble the peeled-down, poor man's version of a conventional house most of us mean when we say "weekend" shack, and it makes an ingratiating background for the most sophisticated, or the most rusfic, of furnishings. Two people—and they needn't be husky—can put it together in three to five days.

What it costs to complete depends upon the foundation your site requires, and how fancy you get in the way of equipment. The basic unit, at $975 F.O.B. San Francisco, includes all wooden members for a living-bedroom, plus kitchen, bath, and deck. Finished, it is 18 ft. wide, 24 ft. long (without the deck), and 16 ft. high. Additional 4-ft. sections, at $115 each, add space, and three make a good bedroom. The package does not include plumbing, fixtures, electrical supplies, paint, glass, nails, hardware, fireplace—and if you use the structure as a beach cabaña, or playhouse or studio near your home, you may skip some of the PLEASE TURN TO PAGE 89

At the Beach With the Leisure House as its focal point, your family or a group of friends can have a private beach club—in little more time than it takes to discuss the matter. The foundations can be simple, and you needn't install full housekeeping equipment. The living room makes a fine "social hall" extended by shaded decks. For more dressing-room space, just add 4-ft. section the Leisure House also becomes an ideal ski lodge if you add a stove or a fireplace. Since the exterior walls are waterproof marine plywood, it is cozy inside even when the snow is piled high • Use brilliant colors to paint this jaunty motif on any outdoor furniture (or indoor furniture, for that matter). Here it perks up a simple-to-make table, fashioned from a nail keg plus a plywood top. PATTERN 1260.

This can be simple or complex as you please. Small brick fireplace has broiling grate plus oven, is complete in itself. Brick storage units which flank it are welcome additions but not essential to good cooking. Building PATTERN 876.

● Your refreshments can move around with you. Compact bar harbors 12 glasses, four bottles, an ice bucket, plus two ample drawers for silver and the like. Closes up to form a small cabinet, and rolls around on six easy-rolling wheels. Building PATTERN 868.

o Complete outdoor kitchen with everything, including a sink! There's a brick barbecue with grill, oven, space for wood storage. There's a sink, and there are plenty of weather esistant pine cupboards for dishes and utensils—so it's no hard job to make the most of outdoor cooking. Blueprint PATTERN 1259.

36 Patterns for Living Outdoors

DOROTHY LAMBERT TRUMM

Dear Old Friends:

You long-time fans of AMERICAN HOME patterns, bless you, have already met up with some of these good numbers, and have used them in your own back yards—for they are the most popular outdoor patterns we published during the past few years. And that's exactly why we gathered them together to introduce to thousands of new readers who may have missed them—and to give you a chance to renew your acquaintance. So whether you're planning to build a swimming pool, or want no project more ambitious than painting a pretty motif on a chair, get to know them! They are priced at 20 cents to a dollar. See page 117.

Hold that tiger—for there'll be no holding the kids when they see this fabulous slide, just like the headline-making one in Oakland Park, Calif. Build it of plywood, and . . . well, we can't tell you here, but you'll find full specifications for making it in our Blueprint PATTERN 2006.

Look to the tiger slide and clown see-saw, and you'll guess that this King of Beasts swing was also inspired by one in Oakland Park playground—which means that it performs as well as it looks. Use any of these three, or use them all, to make your kids the luckiest in town. PATTERN 2005.

Here's one with a long-range plan in mind: a simple brick barbecue that easily converts into an incinerator should you decide later to build one of our more elaborate productions. Built-in seats, angled at sides, are ideal for toasting—"franks" or toes. PATTERN 651.

Set it up by your barbecue—or just beyond your kitchen door. Either way, this Lazy-Susan table will make good times even better. The revolving center serves your slightest beckon. Along with the table, the sturdy little stools are included in our Blueprint PATTERN 1265.

The snips-and-snails, and the sugar-and-spice will all be delighted with this junior gym. Three swing-minded moppets can use it at once, while an individualist swoops down the slide which is part of the ensemble. PATTERN 1127.

Did you know that a pattern could show you how to build a cement walk, or a whole large terrace? This one has been a record best-seller, and it includes full instructions for layout, for casting "stones" from cement mix, and for coloring them if you want to. Blueprint PATTERN 2009.

orn—or what have you? Wings are seats for spectators. Perfect for the seashore—or inland as well. PATTERN 770.

One of the best looking of portable bars is this one which wheels from indoors to out, is at home wherever you put it. Stacks glasses in individual sections and accommodates bottles, ice bucket, and snacks. PATTERN 867.

(Begins on page 56)

o If there are boulders around your property, here's a good way to put them to work. You could incorporate an old stove into this framework—or use standard barbecue equipment. Blueprint PATTERN 1355. We dressed storage cabinets with cowboy motifs from Painting PATTERNS 999 and 1000.

● We'll not only show you how to build this slide for a small young'un, but how to decorate it as well, for full-size motifs of the jaunty painted birds, blossoms, and scallops are included. And there's nothing to keep you from using them all around the nursery, as well. PATTERN 742.

Not just a dunking pond, but an honest-to-goodness swimming pool, 30-ft. long, 6-ft. deep at one end. With our pattern, even a layman can build it, but if you have special problems, consult your building supply dealer. Blueprint PATTERN 2017.

This big brick barbecue is excellent set in a corner, and gives the cook plenty of scope. It has an open fireplace, a spit, a grill, and conveniently placed tile counter tops. And there is also ample room for storing your wood and utensils. PATTERN 679.

You'll agree that this is one of the best outdoor patterns ever if you live where winged things fly around on summer nights. The pattern for this screened summer house includes barbecue-fireplace, brick floor. Add canvas curtains, and it's rainproof—a fine guest house. Blueprint PATTERN 2019.

Adirondack furniture like this lasts almost forever, can take exposure, and is pitched for comfortable sitting. Settee and chair are both included in PATTERN 741. They are fine plain, but for fun, we decorated them with motifs from Painting PATTERN 1003.

Make a portable barbecue of metal, and use it wherever you please. If you wish, build a permanent home for it too, stone or brick shell where you use it when you need a good draft or work surface. Both the portable unit and the shell outline are included in Blueprint PATTERN 2023.

If handsome is as handsome does, this practical garden dump cart which performs many garden jobs is bound to be handsome. We took the trouble to make its lines pleasing too, and to include a pert little painted decoration in our PATTERN 1136.

rve bread, and dill pickles-and there are none better. We can buy French bread, Swedish bread, Italian bread. We have everythingbut pride in what we have. So we journey far, to pay obeisance to a girl queen who has pride, even though her country is on severe rations, her far-flung kingdom fast diminishing.

Now, perhaps a surfeit makes for frustration. Perhaps American women, who have everything, serve up prosaic food because they do not have a challenge, or having everything, become fatuous. I have journeyed over the wide world. I love to cook. I love to eat. But in the whole world, what more elegant dinner than this little dinner for middle-class Americans, such as myself and my guests?

Beef tenderloin (served with Madeira Sauce, the recipe French, completely dependent on good Madeira made of grapes grown off the coast of Africa, in a Portuguese possession). Fresh garden peas -only in the United States can you procure peas so beautiful, so fresh from garden to table-peas so fresh they need but a few minutes of cooking between vine and stove, and no seasonings at all to be beautiful. Certainly, I have given you peas bonne femme -onions, bouillon, and lettuce. But in America, with our rich American gardens, they are also good plain. And next on our simple, elegant dinner menu, Braised Endive, a salad plant of the chicory family. brought from China to Europe in the 16th Century and related to the dandelion. Braised celery or leek may be substituted-and are equally good. In America, we eat what's in season, what our beautiful, rich soil produces.

Then our dessert, named after my honor guest, Lucille Wiley. The shell, a meringue (French); the filling, a California, U.S.A., concoction of raisins cooked in orange juice and honey (Greek)-and topped with rum-raisin ice cream, or whipped cream-according to the predominant sex of your party. Demitasse. Meaning Italian coffee with chicory or French coffee-also with chicory. A strictly American-heritage dinner-possible in Paris, of course, but the beef not quite so tender, the peas not so greenly fresh, the golden orange juice obtainable, but at a king's ransom—and the cost of our little dinner a staggering l'addition, si'l vous plaît!

And now to my facing page, the queenly ingredient, the American strawberry. And here, I must, with your consent, mount the soapbox again, with only one slender foot very briefly poised. I used the word "surfeit" once before, and I beg your indulgence to use it again. Come the end of June, in this land of plenty, we think if we ever eat a strawberry again, strawberries will run out of our ears. But halt! Halt right here. There isn't a girl in America who dislikes more the cooking and eating of the same thing twice, thrice, ad nauseam. You can call it a leftover, even a fancy plan-over-and me, I don't like it! When strawberries are cheap, strawberries are best. Sun-ripened, rushed to market via American transportation—and good, good, good.

So, with about a million good things that call for strawberries, major or minor, what need to repeat ourselves with ordinary, prosaic strawberry shortcake recipes? I give you PLEASE TURN TO PAGE 79

Your budget doesn't like your food bills no-how? What you need is some of our good Cheapies know-how!

erhaps the word "budget" rhymes with "fudge it" for a good reason! And perhaps we would all do well to mentally connect the two more often. For the words "to fudge it" express to perfection the very essence of budget, but never boring, cooking, because the right kind of "fudging" can be a good thing. Look at our Vichyssoise recipe for a right good example. Here is what we can unabashedly call a gourmet food; yet if you will glance at the ingredients you will see how we have converted this to a Cheapie. Be it fudging or faking or what you will, just you try it, and taste for yourself how completely successful this wee deceit is. Little white lies, they tell us, are social necessities, but Cheapies cooks know that they are also economical necessities!

Even steak makes its appearance in Cheapies this month as a wonderful sandwich. Sear any tough old cut, then bake it a while on a nice, thick slab of good bread. The bread blots up the good juices, while the baking tenderizes. This recipe can be your social success this summer-you needn't invest in great thick steaks for an outdoorsy kind of entertaining!

"The Works" is a chant you hear in hamburger stands. Well, if everyone wants them that way, let them have it. As easy to prepare as regular hamburgers, these will give you a new way to serve the same old thing. Do them outdoors or in your kitchen-they'll be a hit either way. Bread crumbs can be mixed into the meat, too, for stretching purposes.

for our Eggs in Aspic recipe. Did you ever get deflated by the expression on your man's face as you proudly served a pretty molded salad or dessert? The molded creation was no doubt a sight to behold—but so was his face, for most men do not react well to what they consider food "fit for the girls." Yet we gals rightly feel that all the advantages of such dishes warrant our serving them! Therefore a compromise is needed. To satisfy the men, let's first catch their eyes with their old favorites, red and yaller; and then let's see to it that it's a filling kind of aspic, not one with ninetenths gelatin to one-tenth food! Then from the gal's angle, make it in the cool of the morning, unmold, garnish well in advance of serving. No

STEAK SANDWICH

Cut steak in individual portions, sear in very hot oil. Slice thick slabs of Vienna, or any good crusty bread, and place in shallow pan. Put steak on top, add slice of tomato, green pepper ring, onion rings and lemon slice. Season and cover with slice of bacon. Sprinkle with a little water and olive oil, bake at 400° for 30–45 min.

Plan one per person.

Boil potatoes until mealy. Put aside to cool. Use only white bottoms of leeks or spring onions. (Save tops to chop fine.) Cut coarsely, sauté in margarine until just transparent—not brown. Pour over 1 cup of stock and simmer over very low heat about 15 min. Combine potatoes, leeks, and juice, mash thoroughly with a fork so leek flavor permeates, add some of liquid until it is "workable"; put through sieve. Combine with rest of stock, beat smooth. Or use your Waring mixer for combining and beating. Refrigerate.

BEFORE SERVING: Put 2 cups of milk and 2 heaping tablespoons dried milk in Waring mixer, or into a bowl; beat thoroughly with electric beater until thick and creamy. matter how steaming hot the day turns out to be, we have tempting food for our family, without wondering what we can cook at the last minute, without cooking the cook! A variation of this recipe is to devil the eggs, then put them in the aspic. But that's not all there is about this recipe, for, believe it or not, if you are still meek and timid about attempting fancy molds, this one is for you. It is truly a good one for beginners, for all that it looks so out-andout professional. So better get busy, members. The recipe for Man-Cakes will be a basic for you, I hope. Flavor pancakes to match or contrast with any one of a dozen fillings. Use eggs, creamed leftovers or cheese. Wrap, pierce a toothpick through, so it holds firmly. Place them in your refrigerator and forget them until dinner time. Then pour over them a sauce which will either brown or glaze. Man-cakes they are, for men go for them-try them on 'em and see. Now that chicken parts are for sale in so many areas, let's take a look at them for possibilities. Chicken wings would be hard to beat for flavor or sweetness, but they're slim pickings. Overcome this by serving Wing-Ding a whole mound of them with a spicy dunking sauce. A new casserole for your collection is our Drumstick de luxe. Coconut makes this different and delicious. Add it to your must-list for it's easy to do and mighty easy to eat! Know-how, we said and we meant, for you can't get your real Cheapies cook down, no how!

EGGS IN ASPIC 6 or 8 hard-boiled eggs

2 cans chicken consommé

1 pkg. unflavored gelatin salt and pepper

Dissolve gelatin in heated consommé. To garnish as shown, arrange strips of pimiento in bottom of oiled ring mold. Gently, spoon in enough of gelatin mixture to cover; chill until firm. If using large ring mold, add another ½ in. of gelatin to mold, chill again. Space eggs evenly in ring, cover with gelatin mixture. Chill till firm.

utdoor cooking can be the most wonderful thing imaginable, or it can be a nightmare beyond belief. We've all had to endure grim creations of the overzealous chef, and some of us have even been guilty ourselves. So let's take a look at this subject, and find out a few of the fundamental tricks of the trade.

We have shown you on pages 56-62 all the wonderful new accessories for outdoor living and cooking. The only things missing are pointers for successful chef-ery!

Here they are: nothing, but nothing, is more important than the fire itself. Now when all this interest in barbecuing began, it was the popular misconception that a good broiling job was one which succeeded in blacking the outside while not cooking the inside. But now most of us are willing to admit that this type of preparation only dries the surface, and that a really raw inside is not particularly our favorite way to waste costly steaks. Don't misunderstand, we're not proposing well-done meat! But darned if any of us can rave about some wizened-up leather. So to prevent this, take unto yourself that old song "Fireman, spare my steak!" And see to it that your fire tending gets under way in time to have a controlled fire. The heat should be maintained without flaming; then the heat can penetrate deep into the meat. Most people use much more charcoal than they really need. A flameless fire will not ignite the dripping fat which, when ignited, causes loss of juiciness and flavor. Also, keep your fire out of strong drafts which might cause it to misbehave.

Turn your meats often—the reward in taste warrants the work of doing so.

Though we have used steak as the bone of contention in our scolding about flame throwing instead of fire building, don't think for a minute

What's better, we ask you, than cold melon with a good squeeze of fresh lemon? The tantalizing droplets make cantaloupe, watermelon and honeydews an extra special treat. Try it!

This is iced tea time. And tea just isn't at its flavorful best without plenty of fresh lemon. Not flat slices, but generous, easy-to-squeeze wedges. Delicious-and so refreshing!

You know what lemon does for fish. Well, it works the same flavor magic for soups, salads, meats, vegetables - even eggs and chili! Serve a dish of lemon wedges morning, noon and night.

LOW- SALT DIET?

Has the doctor put you on a lowsalt or low-sodium diet? Fresh lemons can make the difference between flat, insipid dishes and tempting, appetizing ones. Reason? The taste of salt is replaced by the sharp tang and aromatic flavor of fresh lemon. Foods are made instantly more flavorful with a few drops of tangy, fresh lemon.

Coeur à la Crème-mostly cheese, but definitely needing strawberriesa French recipe. Then a compote of fresh pineapple (Hawaiian), no good at all without the beautiful red of sliced strawberries, marinated in sweet maraschino. Serve, if you wish, with "popovers" of sponge cake. And that marvelous orange-marmalade soufflé recipe I gave you some months ago-a soufflé made in a double boiler that is put on the top of stove when you sit down for dinner and stays and stays-upright! Soufflé, French. The double boiler and hostess who cooks her own dinners, enjoys her own parties-strictly American. With strawberries red and lush, we substitute apricots for the marmalade, apricots because they are a wonderful foil for strawberries. You slice up some strawberries in a sauce, and la! And here may I inject a testimonial. Any good food editor avoids soufflés like the black plague for picture taking. That delicate, unpredictable product, a soufflé, is famous for its insistence on rushing direct from oven to table. A trying test for any hostess, much less a good editor who runsnot walks-and sets it tremulously under kleig lights. There are a lot of professional tricks-but Good Victuals are cooked, plopped into the serving dishes I have used for longer than I will tell you-and photographed. No "rehearsals," no extra gelatin, no anything to keep them erect for kleig lights. That's why anything you see in Good Victuals you can do better! Good Victuals come directly from stove to brutal camera lights, and this soufflé is a very minor example of what you can do-no lights, no camera to contend with. Not only did this soufflé survive this ordeal-it was put back in the doubleboiler top, taken home by our Doris Brian, reheated, served-and in Doris's own writing-it was very, very good. Now-my real old-fashioned sponge cake. You know what? Most women (and I talk of smart women) cook for men. Again and again there is the same old record put on by men: "I don't eat cake." Put before a man a raisin pie (and you have a raisin pie version in my Meringue Lucille) or a sponge cake-this kind-and he'll retract every unkind word he ever said about cake, declare: "Only kind of cake I like is sponge cake." This is the real old-fashioned version. Sure, you can make it year 'round, but it's silly not to do it in the good, old summertime when eggs, like berries, are bountiful, and cheap-and it's silly not to do Vera's Ice Cream Strawberry Cool that complements the cake so beautifully, right now. Sauces are all-important. A lean meat particularly needs some swabbing with oil or sauce to keep it moist and succulent. Swabbing, we said, though, not splashing. Chicken livers, bacon, mushrooms, Bacon, meat balls, tomato, onion. Green pepper, lamb, onion, tomato. Frankfurter pieces, bacon, pickle. Scallops, bacon, tomato, mushrooms. (For other combinations, see page 61.)

Tips on Cooking

Use bacon with lean meats, or baste with oil.

Use small green onions, or quarter regular onions.

Use tomato wedges, not skinned. Mushrooms are best at end of skewer to prevent splitting.

Squeeze all close together so as to mingle flavors.

If you wish to combine slower cooking foods, slightly pre-cook; all kinds of shellfish, sausages and canned meats can be used.

Marinating before cooking adds flavor, spice, and tenderness.

Use leafy end of celery stalk for basting, or pastry brush.

Heat sauces before basting.

Sauces are endless-try lemon juice and herbs for fish; honey or brown sugar to glaze fruits.

An added feature is a helpful weights and measures table, which can be mounted on the inside of the Menu Maker cover and will always be in view for ready reference. With the Menu Maker comes an augmented and newly organized set of stiff, preprinted index cards—35 of them—making your new Menu Maker fingertip convenient and every recipe instantly available.

Cellophane Envelopes to Protect Your Recipes

Also included without additional cost is a sample of a specially designed cellophane envelope into which you can place each recipe to keep it spotless while in use. These envelopes are water-resistant and greaseproof. They can be filed so easily and are so practical that our readers have purchased 30 million of them. $1.00 a hundred or 250 for $2.00.

This unusual gift does double duty!

 Makes delicious grilled sandwiches! With its big grill plates in position, it serves up delicious, sizzling-hot sandwiches right at the table. Or you can cook eggs and bacon on it, without going near the kitchen!

2. Turns out golden-brown waffles! When the family clamors for waffles, just insert the aluminum grids.

This "dining-room chef" keeps 'em coming, four sections at a timeeach done to a golden-brown turn!

The G-E Combination Sandwich Grill and Waffle Iron!

No need to keep hopping out to the kitchen when this automatic General Electric appliance is on the job!

Right where you sit, you can serve the family hot sandwiches and waffles the very way they like them - as many cooked-to-order helpings as they want!

Temperature Selector gives the correct heat quickly. And a "tell-youwhen" light flicks off the instant the heat is right.

evening out is a good thing. But . . did you ever watch a hamster on its exercise wheel? The little creature leaps on, the wheel turns. Slowly, Then faster. The hamster's feet fly, and the wheel spins faster still.

It's easy to jump on the wheel. When you're mopping up milk from your freshly waxed floor for the fourth time in one day, the business of being a homemaker and mother loses a big chunk of its appeal. And you have a compelling urge to get away from it all.

You need diversion, you tell yourself, an outlet for your creative ability. Perhaps your civic spirit could stand some bolstering, too. So you join Sally's bridge club, and/or a women's group. You enroll in a ceramics class, and promise to ring some doorbells.

Tou've rushed three-year-old Johnny through dinner, fed and pajamaed infant Mary, bundled them into the car, met your husband's evening train, dashed back home, bolted your tuna-and-noodles. You had time for a quick pass with lipstick and powder between gulps of black coffee. You gave Johnny a hug and your spouse -who was still at the dinner tablea peck of a kiss, and a final reminder: "Don't forget to see that the baby's covered before you go to sleep."

You are-at last-off. To a committee meeting. Or you're going to Marge's to mark clothes for a rummage sale. It's your night to play bridge with the girls. Or you have a date with the potter's wheel.

If this is you several nights a week, you are not alone. You belong to the Scurry Society-a not-so-exclusive

Hanister? LIBBY C. SHUTTS

Wasn't it fun? Well, yes, at first. Before you noticed those dark puffs under your eyes; before you had that little scene about the missing shirt buttons; before you found it so hard to keep your temper with Johnny.

"I really must do something about the cobwebs in the den," you tell yourself. "And that ironing basket haven't seen the bottom of it in weeks!" But not today.

Maybe what's getting you down is a kind of occupational fatigue—your occupation being the constant attempt to do too much. Halfway between the extreme of hectic outside activities and domestic doldrums lies a sensible medium. How to find it?

Well, first of all, admit that you have physical limitations. Who said we're built to travel faster than sound? Those jangled nerves advise you that your stamina's not so superior after all. Don't underestimate yourself—but don't overestimate yourself either.

Learn to say "no"—and to ignore the criticism. Cut down on the "joining." How often we let ourselves become part of a group of which we simply never become a responsible member. It's not fair to ourselves, nor to the group. Better, by far, to be a real contributor to one organization than dead-wood in three.

Give some time to a really worth-while charity or civic activity, but beyond that, make sure your time away from home is spent pleasantly. A good movie or play, a stimulating course of lectures. An interlude of serenity is marvelous therapy. I veto lunch downtown with that high-strung friend who can't wait to tell you about her latest run-in with her mother-in-law, and I don't think much of wrangling in a meeting unless the cause is a good one.

It takes courage and determination to change the pattern of your life, but if you want to get off that wheel, get up your courage—and jump!

tures on your screen instead of one? These occur when your antenna picks up one signal from the transmitter and a second signal reflected from nearby buildings or hills. You may be able to turn your antenna so that it will not capture the reflected signal. Learn to Work Your Set's Controls. These are of two types: those on the front which you operate to turn the receiver on and off, to select the stations, to regulate sound volume and picture brightness, and to keep the picture image from moving up and down or sideways. And there are the other controls (usually on the back) which should be touched only in case of trouble. These controls vary on different sets. Knowledge of their purpose is essential, and you should study the booklet which came with your receiver if you want to learn how to operate them.

Most TV owners operate the everyday, front-of-set controls proficiently, but many persons, even those who have owned sets for years, are unaware of the fact that they can adjust the other controls to improve their TV reception.

If your picture image is fuzzy or unclear in detail, the focus control can sharpen it. Prop a mirror in front of your receiver so that you can see the picture image while working behind the set. Slowly, from left to right, turn the focus control, with a screw driver if necessary, until the picture is sharpest. Leave the control at that point.

If the picture is too narrow to fill the screen, make a similar adjustment with the vertical size control. If it is too shallow, adjust the horizontal size control. If the picture images look like the lopsided, too-fat or too-tall reflections from trick mirrors in amusement parks, you probably can correct the condition by adjusting the "vertical linearity" control (for images out of proportion from top to bottom) or the "horizontal linearity" control (for those disproportionate from side to side).

If you make these adjustments when a test pattern is transmitted, you can judge straightness of lines more perfectly.

Your set may have additional controls, or some with different names or a slightly different purpose. Keep your instruction book handy and follow your manufacturer's advice. Remember, he wants to keep your good will by helping you to get the best service from your receiver at the lowest cost.

Care for TV

Don't Be Shocked! Almost all manufacturers now place a covering at the back of the cabinet. Unless you remove this, you cannot reach into the chassis. On new sets, this vitally important interlock covering prevents tampering with the chassis while the switch is on, because when it is removed it automatically shuts off the electrical current. Thus it protects you against the power-which in some sets reaches 27,000 volts-built up inside and extremely dangerous if you come into direct contact with it. Some manufacturers warn that only an experienced serviceman should remove the interlock. In any event, never remove it on older models unless you have made doubly certain that the electrical cord has been removed from the wall socket, and that no electricity is flowing to the set.

Behind the interlock lies the maze of tubes, coils, condensers, and resistors that make up your television receiver. Unless you have been especially trained, it is unwise to meddle with any of these except the tubes.

If your set produces a blurred sound or picture image, or no sound nor picture at all, the cause may be defective or burned-out tubes. Turn off the set, unplug the cord, remove the interlock, and take out the tubes (but not the big picture tube), first marking down the type, number, and location. Take them to a dealer who has the proper testing equipment, and have him check them.

If you have inspected antenna and tubes, and fail to achieve satisfactory results, call in a repairman.

Don't Tamper with the Picture Tube! Never violate this rule. If the tube is roughly handled, it may break and cause bad cuts from flying glass. Furthermore, an electrical charge remains in the tube mechanism even after the set has been turned off and the plug pulled from the wall socket. Foolhardy amateurs could suffer severe cuts and shock by mishandling the picture tube.

Don't Turn Switches Needlessly. Like radio sets, television receivers are electronic instruments with surprisingly few moving parts. One part that does wear, however, is the mechanical switch. Most youngsters flick the master switch on and off and needlessly tune from station to station. Experts explain that this causes undue wear on the picture tube.

Investigate Your Serviceman. Caution in selecting a serviceman will pay PLEASE TURN TO PAGE 88 dividends whether you sign a yearly contract or call him for a single repair job. Most television repairmen are anxious to be known as competent. reasonably priced workmen. Since the war, however, hundreds of unscrupulous servicemen have set up businesses, charging exorbitant fees by exploiting the average person's ignorance about television.

Before you deal with a serviceman. find out how long he has been in business and whether others in your community recommend his services. See if he can furnish references from established dealers whom you trust. If in doubt, consult the wholesale distributor of your set or the local Better Business Bureau.

As a further safeguard, ask the exact charges for any repairs before he begins to work. Dishonest repairmen often pile on "extra" charges when they have half completed a job. Don't permit it!

One woman who had hastily signed a service contract invited guests to view the Saturday evening programs. On Saturday morning, her set went out of order. When she called the serviceman, he promised to send a repairman Monday morning. "If you read the contract," she was told, "you'll notice that we do not provide service on week ends." Anxiously, she called another repairman who tinkered with the receiver and finally left, admitting defeat at the hands of a "new model." The big party was ruined. And the woman suffered another shock Monday. After one look at the set, the contract repairman shut his tool bag. "Sorry," he said. "but your contract is now void. It specifically states that no other serviceman may tamper with the set!"

The moral: Read any service contract carefully before signing. Know precisely what the repairman promises to do, and-equally important-what he does not promise!

So much has been written about gyp" television repairmen that many persons suspect a service agency that charges high prices. Many authorities stress, however, that the high-priced man, if highly recommended, may be your best choice. Says the service director of one of the nation's foremost manufacturers: "People who shop for cut-rate services are inviting trouble. It takes a long time to train a good TV technician. TV troubles are often difficult to find even though the eventual replacement item may be only a small resistor. Unless the consumer is prepared to pay a good technician adequate fees to compensate him for his time and training, the consumer can expect to be cheated either in padded bills or poor workmanship. In television maintenance, the cheapest will often prove the costliest in the long run."

Won Their Battle

The architect shook his head; the beautifully integrated design of the house was threatened! But after deliberation the answer seemed apparent to Neutra and the Freedmans. A small porch, enclosed on two sides by the house, would be given additional walls to create a tiny room.

In 1949, eight years after her mother was supposed to be doomed to death, curly-haired, blue-eyed little Johanna was born, "Like a breeze," says Nancy, "nothing to it"-but an exciting experience to send birth announcements to heart specialists!

A baby in the house did not disrupt the labor of this writing pair. Together they worked out a cooperative routine of child care, household tasks and working on their novel, This and No More, published in 1950. Now the third novel is nearing completion. Dividing their time between writing, radio work and household tasks, Benny and Nancy still find time for daily walks and swims.

Here is a successful marriage. Not one made in Heaven, but wrought with faith and courage against terrific odds. For health and happiness, parenthood and success, the Freedmans fought a winning battle.

most expensive extras. Designer John Campbell estimates that the deluxe model we illustrate, complete with rear bedroom, extra-large front deck, a rear deck, sewer, electricity, fixtures and the like, would cost about $3,000 if the site is flat. Sans bedroom, it would cost considerably less; on a hillside, requiring elaborate underpinnings, it would cost more. Either way, you'd have a bargain.

Here's what you get with the basicunit Leisure House Kit: the trusses, which are eleven equilateral triangles of A-1 Oregon Fir 2 x 6's, pre-cut and already drilled with holes for the bolts with which they are securely fastened; exterior panels of waterproof marine plywood, secured by heavy 2 x 3 battens; interior flooring of 3/4-in. plywood, and 2 x 6 porch flooring with 2 x 6 floor joists. You get a waterproof plywood rear wall, all wood framing ready to receive the glass front partition, and wood doors for the bath, and for the rear and front entrances.

You also get complete instructions, not only for assembling the house, but for constructing various types of foundations.

You can make the right room merrier than a county fair with bold-hued, color-fast, cotton kerchiefs. You've seen them poking out of a busy back pocket, or tied around a western-type neck, but how about decking a lampshade out in turkey red? Trace your shade on paper as sketched below, lay pattern on bandana and cut to size. Glue, and finish top and bottom trimly with masking tape

JOHN LIPPERT

Take a Bright Red Kerchief...

For a window as gay as a hoe-down, use bandanas as curtains. Make casings at top and bottom of each, shirr on two rods, bolt to frame. We needed four rows of four kerchiefs each. To open window, just slide curtains aside, raise sash. Perfect for a too-sunny window, or one with a dreary view, this treatment guards your privacy, but needn't obstruct the breezes

It's a very canny farmer who takes a wife shrewd enough to use these bright bandanas for place mats and napkins. Easy to launder and perfectly at ease on the patio or lawn, they're almost as important as the sauce at a barbecue, big and bibby enough to take care of a corn roast

For rough-and-tumble pillows that hold their own when the bluejeaned hordes descend, cover your cushions with kerchiefs. Place two bandanas face to face, sew up three sides. Turn right side out, insert pillow and blind stitch. Big pearl buttons for style

This good-looking dust ruffle is as frivolous as fluff, but how very much more substantial! First cut a muslin slip cover to fit your box spring. Stitch kerchiefs together in a long strip, and gather with a running stitch—you can use lots at about 20¢ apiece—sew to cover

Planned for a lady who loves to cook

If you're a woman who makes an art of cooking, here's the kitchen for you. Its wealth of finger-tip conveniences and fresh, decorative ideas make every hour spent in it more pleasant.

Take the attractive Linotile® Floor, for example. Spilled flour and other ingredients are swept up in a jiffy from its satin-smooth surface. Tracked-in dirt whisks right away, won't grind in. What's more, grease and oil won't harm Linotile, because it is greaseproof, not merely grease resistant. Linotile should not be confused with linoleum cut into squares. It's a much tougher, more durable resilient material, and the easiest of all Armstrong Floors to keep clean.

Linotile offers almost unlimited design possibilities, since it goes down block by block. It is available in a wide range of colors in both the popular swirl marbleization of Standard Linotile, and the new extra-rich graining of Armstrong's De Luxe Linotile shown above.

FREE BOOKLET. Send for booklet showing range of colors in Armstrong's Linotile. Floor above is De Luxe Linotile, Beige Antique No. 176, with feature strips of Armstrong's Plain Linoleum, Turquoise No. 38, and White No. 23. Top-set cove base is Havana, No. CB-206. ARMSTRONG'S LINOTILE

How to Fold a FITTED SHEET

Diagrams: Cannon Homemaking Institute

1. You needn't iron fitted sheets. Shake sheet vigorously to remove wrinkles. Place on large surface, topside down. 2. Starting with top of sheet, bring corners A and B together. 3. Holding corners in one hand, use index finger of other hand to draw fold C taut and line up seams. 4. Run hand down inside of fold C to smooth. Repeat at bottom. 5. Make fold down length of sheet at D. 6. Fold so that top and bottom corners meet. 7. Fold again, keeping corners on top. 8. Fold again so corners are inside. 9. Now your sheet is ready for the linen shelf

Fitted sheets are quick and easy to put on a bed—won't pull out once they're on! Just putting them on removes all wrinkles if you select the right size for your bed. Slip the mitered pockets over the corners at the top of the mattress, then lift the foot of the mattress and draw the other two pockets over those corners. Drop it down—presto—the sheet is smooth and taut

How to Buy Sheets

The beauty of the good bedfellows on pages 40 and 41 is more than skin deep, for they wash well, wear well, and feel soft as silk. Only vat-dye colors, guaranteed to stand repeated laundering, were used to imprint the designs, and the striped sheets were woven with yarn-dyed threads. You will find this color-fastness in all colored, or color-trimmed, sheets-the solidcolor pastels, the colored scallops-if it says so on the label! And there's one answer to sheet buying-the label. Every reputable manufacturer affixes a label for your protection. Read it. Here are other things to look for: The weave: It should be firm, close, uniform. Hold the sheet to the light, and make sure that threads running lengthwise are the same thickness as those running crosswise, and that they run straight and unbroken from selvage to selvage. The selvage: In sheets which will wear well, it is firm and neat with no loose threads. The hems: They should be straight, stitched with small stitches, and the ends should be closed. The sizing: Sizing is used on the lengthwise threads of all sheets to keep them from breaking in the loom; used properly, it does not affect wearing qualities, and it gives a smooth-to-the-hand feel. But the amount of sizing (government regulated) varies according to grade, and sheets of the lowest grade may contain an excessive amount. Before you buy, rub parts of the sheet together over the counter top-if a white, powdery substance comes out. the sheet may contain too much sizing and may become limp and thin when washed. Sheet measurements: When they tell you the length of a sheet, they mean before hemming, and the finished sheet is usually about 10 in. shorter. When they tell you the width, they're not kidding-it's really as wide as they say. If you want plenty of tuck-in for the lower sheet, and plenty of coverage by the top one, the 108-in. length (really 98 in. hemmed) is the most practical for the average mattress. As to width-buy 'em about 24 in. wider than your mattress.

HOW TO WASH COLORED AND PRINTED SHEETS

Just because they pamper you, colored or color-trimmed sheets need little pampering in return. They go right into your washer and dryer. Most manufacturers attach laundering directions to them, but your good common sense will tell you that they need only the same treatment as other color-fast cottons. Look in your washingmachine manual for instructions, or follow these rules:

r. Colored sheets should be washed separately from the white ones, using a good reliable soap or detergent. For the kind and the amount, follow the instructions given in your washing-machine manual.

- 2. Do not use bleaches or bluing.
- 3. Wash in moderately hot water.
- 4. If you use a wringer, see that the sheets go through the wringer straight—saves straining threads and avoids bad wrinkles (this applies to white sheets as well).
- 5. Hang colored sheets away from strong sunlight if they are line dryed, and never hang sheets in a whipping wind, since constant flapping is hard on them. If you dry colored (or white) sheets in a dryer, use the temperature setting recommended for cottons.

How to make a "Juice Can" Lamp

Need a good-looking lamp-cheap? Here's how. Bore holes in two tall juice cans so 1/2-in. threaded pipe and elbow can be inserted as shown in illustration. Pipe should extend 1/2 in. above top of juice-can base. Thread wire through pipe and fittings, and assemble pipe and cans. Holes, punched for juice on top can, face up. Those on bottom can face down. Tape cans together at joint with waterproof tape and fill with plaster of Paris. Pour through openings made in cans for juice. When plaster is dry, cut two circles of leatherette, same diameter as top and bottom of cans. Glue circles to top and bottom of base. Make paper pattern to fit around base and use as guide to cut leatherette. Glue to base. Hold seams with masking tape till dry.

If cans used for base are grooved, tie a piece of string tightly around the leatherette, exactly in groove. Tie another piece of string near top and bottom of base. Remove two days later. Result: a tooled effect. Next, install electric socket and fixtures, an appropriate shade—and there you are!

house set in a pear orchard would be, almost of necessity, a delightful home, but the house shown here is just a little more than that. The owner, Mr. Jack Buchter, is an architect, and this is the home he carefully planned for himself and his family. What's more, it was planned when the Buchters were living in an apartment and dreaming of country living-a state of affairs and the mind that sharpens the appetite for a good house even among nonarchitects. So this was the home the Buchters finally built to live in and enjoy-not as a show window for Mr. Buchter's professional talents.

The Buchter home was carefully laid out to take full advantage of the indoor-outdoor relationship of their house, their orchard, and the hills beyond. There are three distinct outdoor areas-a walled forecourt at the south which is paved and protected by the roof overhead, a covered loggia on the north side which protects the main entrance door, and a large play and service area on the east. This makes a wonderful spot for young Johnny Buchter to play in and still be under the observing eye of his mother when she's busy in the kitchen.

What the Architect Ordered

The house itself is set and arranged between these outdoor areas in a way that holds ideal control over both traffic and privacy. Like its outdoor area, the house itself is divided into three sections: the kitchen-living area, the main bedroom wing, and the guest wing.

The designer took full advantage of his experience to get good orientation in his house for both sun and view—something that is usually discussed but seldom accomplished. The living room and its dining area were given top priority for both view and sun, which is as it should be. The south wall of the living room is all glass, but the roof eaves were so exquisitely calculated that they stop the summer sun just short of the glass and allow the sun of winter to come streaming through to bring both warmth and light.

The roof of the house is crushed white limestone—an excellent heat stopper, and the brick wall, on the west end of the living room, and the egg-crate trellis at the entrance court, both help to baffle the effects of the afternoon sun. The kitchen faces the cool and comfortable northeast.

The plan of the house creates the impression that it is spread out, which is exactly what it is, and what it was supposed to be—openness coupled with privacy. The master bedroom is set far away from the living area, and the guest room is tucked away in the guest wing all by itself, an excellent arrangement for both guest and host.

Eight closets, a heater room, and a garage with plenty of storage space eliminate the need for a basement. And then, of course, there are all those wonderful pear trees that are just high enough to insure privacy, but low enough to allow the Buchters to enjoy the view.

This summer when you build or buy, plan on putting in Bundyweld Ceiling Radiant Heating. It's today's big heating advance—made possible by the fact that radiant rays will flow downward. And it's simple. Warm water flows silently through coils of Bundyweld Tubing in ceiling. Coils act like sun, give off radiant rays that travel to every part of room below.

Next winter you'll enjoy heating that puts other types to shame for comfort, cleanliness, and economy. You'll feel warm through and through in air temperatures that stay healthfully moderate. You'll enjoy a feeling of snugness you've never known before. Yet Bundyweld Ceiling Radiant Heating costs little, if any, more than today's old-fashioned heating methods.

Here's new heating that puts other types to shame for comfort, cleanliness and economy draft-free heat that won't streak walls? With Bundyweld Ceiling Radiant Heating, paint, curtains, and furnishings look like new years longer. You save plenty on cleaning and redecorating costs. And weekly dusting chores almost disappear.

2 Low-priced or expensive homes. You can have a Bundyweld system in almost any style of house in almost any price bracket. Your location can be Georgia or northern Minnesota. You'll live knee-deep in comfort and convenience. And you'll save a pretty penny in fuel bills, too.

3 Radiators and registers gone! Coils of Bundyweld, shown before being fastened to ceiling, give ample warmth. Absence of dirt-catching radiators and dirt-spreading registers gives you freedom in furniture arrangement, provides many extra square feet of usable floor and wall space.

Why cost is so low. Bundyweld Tubing contributes to lowering the first cost of this new heating. Bundyweld's the only tubing double-walled from a single metal strip. It's made of steel for economy.

Whether you apply them yourself or have a professional do the work, be sure shingles are properly installed. The roof deck must be solid, free of warped or missing shingles. Starter course of new shingles is laid upside down

First course of shingles is laid over starter course. End of first shingle in this course should be cut off so that the cutouts will be centered over the tabs in the course below, Succeeding courses should be laid in a similar manner and in exact alignment

Shingles should be given a 5-in. exposure to the weather. In windy areas or if roof is not very steep, a 4-in. exposure is best. Allow shingles to project 1/2" over the eaves to form a drip edge and 1/4" over gable ends for same purpose

Each shingle should be secured by six 6d roofing nails driven through unexposed portion of shingle. Use one nail 1" in from each end, and two nails adjacent to each side of each cutout. These should be 1/2 above cutout, and 1" from midpoint. Be sure nails go into solid wood

How to Re-roof

During warm weather, asphalt will be quite pliable, and the tab of a shingle nailed in place can be lifted up for joining up shingles in the lower course

Adequate scaffolding is very important on a re-roofing job. Metal roof brackets can be installed easily and removed after the job is finished without leaving nail holes in the shingles

A length of 2 x 4, supported by four or more metal roof brackets, makes a good scaffolding and one which allows you to work the entire width of the roof without having to reposition the scaffolding

If old chimney flashing is not corroded, it can be pried up so that the new shingles can be cut to fit around chimney

Strips of noncorrosive metal should be installed over the shingles to serve as base flashing. These are bent up so they run up under the cap flashing

The cap flashing is now brought down to cover the base flashing, and nailed through shingles. Seams between flashing and shingles can be sealed with roofing cement

Shingles should extend far enough up on one side of roof so that the last course can be bent over the roof ridge and nailed to opposite side. Shingles applied to this side should also be bent over the ridge

How to Re-roof

Proper application of the shingles along the ridge insures against leaks and also damage to shingles by strong winds. The best and least expensive method of capping the ridge is with shingles of the same kind and color as used for the roof proper, but laid at right angles to the roof shingles

For ridge, cut each shingle into three equal parts with a knife or pair of tin snips. Place shingles over the ridge so that they run at right angles to regulation shingles. Be sure they are properly centered over the ridge and kept in proper alignment

Shingles for cap should be nailed at corners. As there may be several additional layers of shingles at this point, it may be necessary to use longer nails for the cap than were required for rest of roof. Cap shingles should be overlapped to produce same amount of exposure as roof proper ne of the disadvantages of spraying or dusting weed- and brushkillers on such poisonous vines as poison ivy, and such other unwanted woody weeds as the briers, sumacs, etc., is that you often kill not only the object of your efforts, but also desirable annuals, perennials, vegetables, and even grasses, vines, and bushes. Where the two types happen to be growing close together, or when wind causes the drifting of the herbicide, this overall destruction may be unavoidable—as more than one gardener has discovered.

However, a novel solution of the problem has been devised by Dr. Carl Sax of the famous Arnold Arboretum in Jamaica Plain, Mass. Its objective is to minimize or remove the volatility factor involved in any broadcast use of a spray or dust in a garden. To achieve this result, Dr. Sax simply makes a paste-type weed-killer by incorporating the active ingredient in some sort of wax carrier, and then applies it to a portion of the woody stem of the plant he wants to get rid of so it will not touch any other.

His formula calls for 1 oz. each of the well-known hormonelike chemicals, 2,4-D (which to chemists means dichlorophenoxyacetic acid) and the more recently developed 2,4,5-T (which stands for trichlorophenoxyacetic acid) thoroughly mixed with 10 oz. of any available sort of waxy substance. He prefers to use a commercial product called D-Wax, but says that almost any type of facial cream or even lanolin or plain vaseline will do. If it does not seem fluid enough, mix a little water with it before adding the hormones. If the water is absorbed and a homogeneous mass results, you are "all set"; if not, try another kind of wax. If you have to add water, do it before weighing and working out the 1 to 10 ratio. Dr. Sax has found the combination of chemicals-which is nontoxic to man and beast, noninflammable, and noncorrosive-more effective against hard-to-eradicate woody plants than a wax made with either chemical alone.

When the batch is mixed to the consistency of a thin tooth paste, take an ordinary 1-in. paintbrush and with it apply the PLEASE TURN THE PAGE

The formula is simple, the ingredients are easy to get. Add to ten ounces of any available wax or face cream of soft tooth-paste consistency 1 oz. each of powdered 2,4-D and powdered 2,4,5-T, as sold by dealers in garden supplies, or by drug and chemical supply firms. Then mix well

Poison Ivv

The result of one application of Dr. Sax's herbicidal paste to an unwanted vine. When dead and dry, cut off, pull down, and burn it paste to the aboveground stem of the unwanted plant over a space of from six to 12 inches. If you wear heavy rubber gloves, you may prefer to smear it on by hand. One application is ordinarily sufficient, he finds, for the plant dies rapidly as the chemicals are absorbed and distributed through it. When the leaves shrivel and dry up, fix a wire hook to the end of a stick, pull the vine away from its support or its live plant companions, cut it off at the base with saw or pruning shears, and burn it. Be careful not to stand in the smoke from the fire since it may carry some of the plant's volatile poisonous oils; if you areor think you are-especially susceptible, tie your pruning saw to a pole and cut off the vine from a safe distance. When the job is finished, use a strong laundry soap to wash your hands, gloves and any tools you used.

Dr. Sax says plants rarely require more than one treatment and there is no need to dig out roots. However, should new growth appear, more paste can be applied to the stem or, if more convenient, the young new foliage can be dusted or sprayed in the usual way. He has found the paste method so successful that he is using it in experimental work with other control chemicals. For example, he paints a chlordane wax on the trunks of peach trees to repel borers. He hopes that some firm will adopt the idea and put up herbicidal paste in tubes; until then, you can mix and use your own.

How to Outmaneuver Mice

If mice threaten newly planted fruit trees, etc., by burrowing among their roots, outwit them easily and permanently thus: Set a wooden or metal hoop (those from nail kegs are fine) around each plant, scoop out 2 in. of soil inside it, fill the depression with sand. Because the sand keeps caving in, mice refuse to burrow in it, and the plant, undamaged, thrives.-JOHN KRILL id you swear off gardening last summer when the weeds won out I almost did until I discovered how to beat them-as you can. You garden may not look just like those in the magazines. But you'll get results-and with only two weedings.

Newspaper is Fine Mulch

How? Just start saving newspapers to use as a mulch. When? When cucumbers and squash (having been weeded once) are about 4 in. high, First, put at the end of the row a stack of the newspapers and a bucket of water with a little insecticide dissolved in it. Next pull any weeds, and loosen the soil around the plants. Then take sections of the newspapers (not single sheets), folded as they were on the newsstand, dip them in the pail of water until sloppy wet, and lay them on the ground around your plants leaving a little space for air around the base of each one. Being wet and soggy, they will lie there and not blow away; but, just in case, after I lay the papers down, I always throw on them the weeds I have pulled up and a few stones.

Goofy idea, huh? Well, leave a piece of heavy paper on the ground a few days, then note how moist and cool-and weed free-the soil is underneath it. What more proof do you need?-T. N. LEA.

Memo to Mower Buyers

from one of the larger makers of motor lawn mowers comes this version of the admonition, don't buy "a pig in a poke," viz., "Don't buy a motor mower as is, in its original shipping box." Have the dealer unpack and service it properly before you take it over. For inexperienced buyers, it recommends this procedure:

Insist that he assemble the machine and actually run it while you watch him do it. Have him show you how to gas and oil it; how to start, operate, and stop it; how to check and make the adjustments sometimes necessary, especially that for height of cut. Go over the operating manual or guide book with him until you are familiar with all the parts and their functions. Be sure that he gives you the manufacturer's guarantee or warranty card filled out; explains its terms, and tells you where and how to get competent service if needed.

Don't hesitate to ask questions until you really understand the machine and how to use it. A little extra time taken at the start, may save you a lot of time, trouble, and money, too, later on.

Here's a Quick "Cure" for Hornets

Here's how one man got rid of hornets that invaded his garden and made a nest in a stone wall: attaching the suction duster to his vacuum cleaner, he inserted the nozzle in their entrance hole in the wall and turned on the motor. Ten minutes later, when the whole colony was "in the bag." he fitted the nozzle over the exhaust pipe of his car, started the engine, and let the carbon monoxide gas destroy the creatures quickly, neatly, effectively .- E. ... fir plywood here makes floor coverings look better, last longer

Don't let harsh lines and ridges detract from the beauty of your costly floor coverings. Uneven flooring beneath tile, carpeting or linoleum can-and doesshow through to mar beauty and offer points of wear. That's why floor coverings look lovelier longer over a smooth, firm fir plywood base. Panels of plywood lay flat, won't twist or "work up." Your floor coverings are smooth. They look better. They last longer. You save on overall costs, too, because fir plywood is low in cost. Big panels are easy to handle; they're installed in less time, with far less labor.

Choose fir plywood for strong, rigid, draft-free subfloors, too. And for really big savings, use fir plywood for combined subfloor - underlay - plywood's great structural strength plus smooth, flat surface lets you do both jobs with one material. We Garden in the Evening re you a newcomer to the suburbs? Have you recently moved from a crowded, stuffy apartment to a home of your own, with some space around it for the children to play in, and some grass, shrubs, flowers, and perhaps a tree or two? If so, you have probably begun to experience the rewards such things can offer-and also to discover what a shocking amount of precious weekend time it takes to keep all those nice things in order.

That was our experience. And it gave birth to our custom of Garden Night which we have kept up, with great satisfaction and good results, over many years of suburban living. Because my husband commutes to the city and does not get home very early, our Garden Nights do not start until Daylight Saving goes into effect. For others, they might begin earlier in the spring. In any case, when the time comes, we set aside one evening of each week for our outdoor clean-up operations. In readiness, I prepare a casserole dish that needs only to be heated to be ready, a salad that can wait in the refrigerator, and a dessert.

But we do not have our meal until later-after we have made the most of the precious daylight hours. We do pause for a cup of coffee. Then he. I. and the youngster get to work weeding, trimming hedges, cutting the lawn, and tackling the tasks that most urgently call for attention. As a rule we can put in at least two hours of concentrated effort before the game is called on account of darkness. Then we wash up and eat-with a real appetite and sense of accomplishment.

The results are not immediately apparent. But after two or three weeks, those two evening hours once a week are enough to keep our quarter-acre plot immaculate-and with a minimum of stress and discomfort. It is far pleasanter to work in the cool of the evening than in the heat of the day. We come in, shower, and eat hot, nourishing food that has been prepared as quick as a wink, and how good it does taste! We share a fine sense of satisfaction from a job well done. And then, when the weekend comes, we are free as air, and conscience-free, too.

Try it-it really works.

Saves time, gives professional results without arm-aching drudgery. Simple to operate. Well-balanced design permits one-hand operation. No stooping or armtiring awkwardness when clipping sides or ends. Another famous labor saver by the makers of Sunbeam electric appli-ances and Sunbeam Rain King sprinklers.

Trellis-Tricks

E. M. DREWS

F you want a vine-covered trellis to do double duty—to be attractive and at the same time shade a too sunny window—set it 6 ft. out from the window to permit free circulation of air. If possible, put it in place before planting the vine; but, if necessary, plant the vine 7 ft. out, and later set the trellis a foot nearer the house. Whatever its shape, make it sturdy and keep its feet off the ground to prevent the base from rotting and settling down unevenly into the soft earth after rains. The accompanying sketches show useful trellis construction tricks.

To support a straight trellis (Fig. 1), set each leg on a brick, and wire it tightly to a 2-ft. piece of pipe driven halfway into the ground (1a). To keep bricks in place, drive two wedges or stakes against opposite side of each (1b). For a fan trellis, make a base of a 4-in. crossboard and 3-in.-wide legs 10 in. long; set it on bricks and wire it to pipe

See how simple and easy it is to apply food and drink to lawns merely by sprinkling or spraying with a solution of Folium—Monsanto's new, balanced plant food. Also feeds shrubs, flowers, vegetables, small fruits, shade trees.

SPRINKLE FOOD AND DRINK ON LAWNS THIS NEW, EASY WAY

If you have ever gone through the discouraging experience of having your lawn dry up and burn out just about the time you thought it would become a beautiful, soft, green carpet—DON'T DO IT AGAIN!

There's a new, easy-to-use plant food now available that amply provides BOTH food and drink for lawns, flowers, vegetables, small fruits, shade trees, house plants. It's Monsanto's new product, Folium. You just sprinkle or spray it on. That's all!

Folium is a balanced plant food. It is free-flowing and noncaking—dissolves quickly and thoroughly in plain water—makes a clear solution that will not burn grass, tender leaf areas or delicate plants.

Convenience is a big feature about using Folium. Merely sprinkle it on small areas, using an ordinary sprinkling can—spray it on large areas, shrubs, trees, using a siphon hose attachment. In either case, Folium is quickly absorbed whether applied to leaves, stems or roots.

This year, use Folium! Remember, it's food and drink for every blade of grass and every leaf you contact. Naturally, this gives you a better, richer lawn; improves health and growth of plants, shrubs, flowers and trees. It's very economical. Get it at your dealer's—in 2-oz., 1-lb. and 5-lb. packages... How to Paint a Pool

MARK WEST

Whether your pool was built for splashing or highboard diving, it will look a lot more attractive if it's painted a cool, inviting color.

As paint will not stick properly to a dirty surface, your first job is to give the concrete a good scrubbing. A good cheap cleaner can be made by adding 1½ oz. of soap chips and 1½ oz. of tri-sodium phosphate to a gallon of hot water. Apply this with a stiff fiber brush and then rinse with plenty of clean water. As paint adheres more readily to a rough surface, it is also a wise idea to etch the concrete with a solution of one part muriatic acid to ten parts water. Apply the solution with a long-handled broom, and be very careful how you handle the acid. When mixing, be sure to add the acid to the water and not vice versa. Also play safe and wear both rubber gloves and goggles. After the concrete has been scrubbed with acid, rinse it with clean, fresh water.

Paint a Pool

Ordinary oil paints are not suitable for concrete or masonry surfaces subject to constant moisture. It is best to use either cement paint or one of the rather new rubber-base masonry paints which will not be harmed by moisture or action of lime in the concrete. It is best to use an old brush to apply the paint, for the rough concrete will quickly wear down the bristles of a new brush, spoiling it for many future jobs

Portland-cement paints are applied to a dampened surface, but if a rubber base paint is used. the concrete should be bone dry. Just before the paint is applied, it is a good idea to give the pool a final sweeping. An ambitious moppet armed with a vacuum cleaner is a fine method of removing small bits of dirt and debris that get blown into the pool at the last minute

NO-STRETCH CLOTHESLINE, the result of cotton braided over a center core of Fiberglas, eliminates the adjusting required of old-fashioned clotheslines which can sag as much as 15%. Puritan Cordage Mills. Two 50-ft. lengths to a package.

TAKE THE STATIC OUT of clothes or fabrics made of orlon, nylon, dacron, etc., with a new product called Nul. A small amount added to the final rinse when washing these fabrics will do the trick. Static-free clothes or fabrics stay clean longer, since electricity attracts dust and lint. In 5-oz. plastic bottles with measuring cup, $1.00. Electro-Chemical Prod. Corp.

CUL DEW is a portable water refiner which makes about 16 gallons of demineralized water from tap water. Shaker action brings mineral-removing resins to water, provides you with the equivalent of distilled water for your steam iron, storage batteries, etc. When water-refining properties are exhausted, you'll find other uses for plastic bottle. $2.50. Culligan, Inc.

sash brush, with a new angle for easier painting of sash and trim, permits you to paint alongside glass or wall areas without the messy overlap often experienced with brushes of standard square shape. $1.35. Wooster Brush Co.

NEW PLANT-FEEDING principles are applied in Ferro F.T.E., a mixture of minerals (trace elements) generally essential to good plant growth. Treated by a special "fritting" process, it is very slowly soluble, thus will not injure plants, even when used in excess of recommendations. It will not leach from the soil or combine with other substances to form compounds that plants cannot take up. $1.00 for 1-lb. package (enough for 400 sq. ft.); $2.95 for 5 lbs. E. L. Want running water for country living?

How do you get running water if you move beyond city water mains? Call a Myers dealer of course. He's a water supply specialist who knows about wells and he is thoroughly qualified to install a Myers water system.

As part of his service, your Myers dealer checks the water supply for hardness or other impurities. If you have "problem" water, the Myers water softener he recommends will save $100 a year or more on soap, clothing, plumbing.

Note quality features of this Myers home water system such as bronze fittings at critical rust points; only one moving part, etc. Myers has an 83-year record for quality and dependability.

Want window boxes without the bother, unsightliness, and complications of braces, brackets, bolts, etc.? Use strong L-hooks in or beside window frame, and galvanized chains from them to back and front of bottom at each end. Cut ends so back board fits against house siding; or nail a strip along top or bottom of back board so box will hang level.

Porch Posts? Railing? Whether for new home construction or remodeling, ornamental iron costs less. Ornamental iron is more beautiful, lends itself to any type architecture and lasts forever. Common sense calls for ornamental iron—buy Coffman, of course. Consult your local building supply company or lumber dealer.

"What a shame!...They don't have snow melting"

Dependence on the family car for transportation to and from work, for shopping, visiting, church going, and emergencies is just about absolute in our modern way of living.

So, when you build, or when your present driveway needs replacement, you can assure your future mobility, by installing a steel pipe snow melting system.

The investment will be sound, for it will enhance the value of your real estate, eliminate snow removal problems and expense, spare your back, and give you that "safe" feeling that comes from knowing you can get your car in or out when you want it. Sidewalks, too, can be kept bare and clean in the worst weather!

More and more home owners are installing steel pipe snow melting systems. Write for a free booklet on this modern development.

With a driveway snow melting system the family car is always instantly available for pleasure, business, or emergency use. Steel pipe snow melting keeps Americans mobile!

IDEAS FOR A LIVING ROOM

from Armstrong's Idea House

ONE GLANCE AROUND this living room in Armstrong's Idea House tells you it's filled with fresh, new decorating ideas. And like all the rooms in this old house that Armstrong remodeled, it's chock-full of ex-citing, yet inexpensive, suggestions that can help you make your home more comfortable and colorful.

The antiquated corner fireplace, for example, was given a crisp, new look by removing the mantelpiece and refacing with white paneling from floor to ceiling. The corner cabinet you see at the top of the small picture, to your right, provided a novel solution to the problem of where to put the radio, phonograph, and TV set. It also balanced the diagonal fireplace and gave the room a unity and harmony it hadn't had before.

The fireplace and corner cabinet were tied right into the whole room scheme by laying the handsome floor of Armstrong's Linoleum diagonally. The yellow high lights in the pattern inspired the color for the wallpaper and drapes. This is an excellent example of the way in which the smart new designs and striking color combinations available in Armstrong's Linoleum can help you solve decorating problems.

It was dark and dingy before. Now, the same living room has been made bright and cheerful through clever remodeling. The floor is Armstrong's Inlaid Linoleum, Colortone Series No. 1611. Smooth and virtually seam-less, this floor offers no place for dirt to hide. Light sweeping whisks away the day's dust, Colors won't fade because they go all the way through the wearing surface.

Get free booklet, "A House-ful of Decorating Ideas," from your local Armstrong dealer. 16 color pages take you on a pictorial tour of the Idea House, offer ideas you can use in your own home. VISIT ARMSTRONG'S IDEA HOUSE if you can. It's on the Lincoln Highway, just out-side of Lancaster, Pennsylvania.
