*Won't You Come into the Cobles' with Us?
...This Is Their Living Room*

Floor is Armstrong's Embossed Inlaid Linoleum, Style No. 5310.

the modern fashion in floors

The open plan interior that's become so popular in today's homes works wonders in making small houses look larger. But this new concept of open-space planning has created the need for decorative unity between living areas. A simple way to achieve this harmony is by using related colors and a single decorative floor design throughout the interior. The lovely styles and colors available in Armstrong's Linoleum make it easy to choose the right floor for a perfect decorative background. Equally important, linoleum is as practical in the kitchen as it is handsome in other rooms. Once you've lived with Armstrong's Linoleum, you'll appreciate its ease of cleaning, its smooth, virtually seamless surface, its good looks—and you'll know why it's often called "the modern fashion in floors."

Send for free room portfolio. It contains a complete list of furnishings and sketch plan of this kitchen-dining area with its floor of Armstrong's Embossed Inlaid Linoleum. Just send a post card to Armstrong Cork Company, 5501 Pine Street, Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

WHY THE LITERARY GUILD MAKES THIS SENSATIONAL NEW OFFER!

YES, here is the Literary Guild's greatest offer in 27 years... wonderful new books worth up to $25.95 in the publishers' original editions for just $2.00! The reason we make this amazing new offer? Simply to induce you to share with the Guild's nearly one million readers these advantages of membership: SAVINGS up to 50% on the important novels and best-sellers you want to read; valuable FREE Bonus Books; your choice of the best books as soon as they are published. For example, during the past few months our Club members have received five new national best-sellers!

How the Literary Guild Operates

Each month our editors select from all the novels submitted by publishers the one best book—which is then fully-described in "Wings", the illustrated magazine members receive each month. These books are regularly priced at $3.50, $3.75 and even $4.00—yet as a Guild member you get them for only $2.00 each, plus shipping. (Occasional extra-value selections are offered at $2.50). If you don't want the selection, you choose an alternate or tell us not to send any book. It isn't necessary to accept a book every month; you can take as few as four a year, and you will receive a FREE Bonus Book for each four books you accept. You pay postman nothing; your bill is due later. You may cancel your membership at any time after accepting four books.

Send No Money—Just the Coupon

Why not join now while you can have the wonderful books you want from the groups shown above—and get them sent to your home on approval! You may return your books within 7 days and owe nothing, or pay only $2.00 for them and become a Guild member on a trial basis. Then you need accept only three more Guild books at only $2.00 each during the coming twelve months. So tear out the coupon right now—while you're reading this page—and mail today!

Talented people, the Cobles, as you can see from details of their living room—Mr. Coble's painting over the mantel, Mrs. C.'s effective way of combining unusual accessories. Almost all decorating was planned to utilize furniture the family already owned. To show off the pine and cherry woods, the Cobles selected deep blue for their walls. ... ALFRED N. BEADLE who has designed hundreds of tailored-to-order homes for others (page 36), reports that he is homeless again! He has designed several homes for himself, his wife and two youngsters, but attractive offers induce him to sell—often before moving in! In 1950, he moved from his native Minneapolis to Phoenix where the climate allows "greater and more practical contemporary architecture." He tries to put ART into architecture and to heed Frank Lloyd Wright's words: "As the man is, so will his buildings be."

... HARBINE CHATFIELD, charter member of the American Institute of Decorators, takes great pride in designing lovely backgrounds expressive of their owners (page 52). President of her own studio in Cincinnati where she has been decorator since 1924, she is also the mother of two sons and a daughter.

... JOHN LIPPERT looked up from his desk here at AMERICAN HOME just long enough for the quick snapshot below. A "dyed-in-the-wool New Yorker from South Bend, Indiana," John is full of ideas for bright, gay, and really elegant things geared to lean, young paychecks (see page 46). He switched from a career in stage set designing to one in decorating, and applies his flair for display to the realistic solution of home decorating problems.

... MARYE DAHNKE, Shown above with part of the collection of which she writes so charmingly on page 54, is certainly an authority on the subject of cheese! For 30 years, as Director of the Consumer Service Department of the Kraft Foods Company, she has shared her cookery and food service ideas with millions of homemakers in all parts of the land. Her favorite recipes are collected in The Cheese Cook Book (A.A. Wyn, 1951) and Marye Dahnke's Salad Book (a Cardinal paperback, published in 1954).

... SUSAN JONES MEDLOCK who is just as full of sparkle as she appears, is quite at home in the A.H. (see page 49), for her first nationally published article appeared in our pages in 1937. She has had an active career as a writer ever since, contributing weekly to the Atlanta (Ga.) Journal, in addition to running a home and mothering her ten-year-old Susan.

So that you may hear the true miracle of these low-cost high-fidelity recordings we offer

BOTH of these Musical Treasures Yours for only 10¢

on this 12-inch long-playing (33 $\frac{1}{3}$ rpm) Pure Vinyl, custom pressed guaranteed HIGH FIDELITY recording

BEETHOVEN'S

5th SYMPHONY

and on the other side

SCHUBERT'S

"UNFINISHED" SYMPHONY No. 8

Now you can own and enjoy the best-loved Symphonies, Concertos, Operas, Operettas and Musical Comedies from Bach to Gershwin—AT HALF THE USUAL COST!

HERE IS ALL YOU HAVE TO DO...

Mail the coupon below and—for only 10¢—we will promptly send you BOTH Beethoven's 5th Symphony and Schubert's 8th Symphony—both are COMPLETE on one 12-inch pure vinyl, long-playing, HIGH FIDELITY record! This amazing offer is being made to acquaint you with the remarkable, widely acclaimed new planned program called MUSIC TREASURES OF THE WORLD!

Under this program you can now enjoy in your own home a complete library of all the world's great music... beautifully recorded on the latest high-fidelity electronic equipment, with the full range of sound the human ear is capable of hearing (30-15,000 cycles per second)... all yours for half the price you would normally expect to pay! Yes, recordings of these same works usually sell at retail for $5.95 each—but because assured distribution to members eliminates the usual expense of unsold records—because conductors have agreed to accept lower royalty payment, knowing that their over-all income would be greater in the long-run—and because of the development of mass production high-fidelity record pressing equipment—we are able to offer these 12" long-playing high-fidelity records exclusively to our members for $2.98 each!

WHAT DOES THIS MUSIC PROGRAM INCLUDE?

Music Treasures of the World makes available to you and your children the best-loved works of the greatest composers, both serious and light—the very best of Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Wagner, Verdi, Gershwin, Copland... all the most famous composers.

Nor are these selections low-priced re-issues of old "flat" performances which were recorded on old-fashioned equipment for 78 rpm shellac pressings. Music Treasures' selections are thrilling new performances, played by internationally famous philharmonic symphony orchestras under the batons of such acclaimed conductors as Walter Hendl, Hans Swarowsky, Dean Dixon, Kurt Graunke, Meinhard Von Zallinger, etc.—brilliantly recorded for long-playing records on the latest electronic equipment.

YOU LEARN TO UNDERSTAND GREAT MUSIC

By accepting this introductory offer now you will also be automatically enrolled in our fascinating home study Music Appreciation Course—absolutely free! Each month you will receive—FREE—a new issue of our Music Appreciation Course. In a short time you and your family will be able to really understand the fine points of music and be able to listen to it in much the same manner as do the critics and composers themselves! And this Course is absolutely free—whether or not you purchase any additional Music Treasures recordings!

HOW THIS UNIQUE MUSIC PROGRAM WORKS

Your purchase of the record offered above for only 10¢ does not obligate you to buy any additional records from Music Treasures of the World—ever! However, we will be happy to extend to you the courtesy of an Associate Membership. Each month, as an Associate Member, you will be offered a new 12" long-playing record at the special member's price of only $2.98 (plus few cents for U. S. tax and shipping). If you do not wish to purchase any particular record, you need merely return the form provided for that purpose.

Remember—whether or not you purchase any future recordings, you still receive, each month, a new issue of our Music Appreciation Course, FREE. So send 10¢ now—while you can still get BOTH of the Musical Treasures listed above. Hear these great recordings for yourself. Accept this introductory offer now.

FREE Music Appreciation Course

Each month you will receive a treatise on some phase of How to Appreciate Music... to help you and your family understand and love music. Each monthly issue is yours, free, until you cancel—whether or not you buy any additional records.

They Saw It in The American Home

Until they found our 4-in-one job, the Curtises thought a garage would "ruin" their old New England home. But this one wins admiration from all who see it

Painted barn red with white trim, and joined to the main house by a pretty rail fence, this garage "turns the heads of passers-by" we are told by Mrs. A. W. Curtis of Sharon, Massachusetts. Yet, until they saw our Blueprint Pattern garage (#2015) in the January, 1953, issue, the Curtises had dispensed entirely with the blessings of a garage—they just couldn't find one that seemed to fit in with the character of their 126-year-old stone house. They were delighted by the interesting salt-box lines of ours, however, and with the way it would adapt itself to the only place on their property where strict zoning regulations would permit building a garage.

Now Mrs. Curtis doesn't know how they ever managed without it, for besides providing handsome shelter for the family car, our garage was designed to do other jobs well. The 24' x 15' structure gave over an 11' x 20' area to the car and had, in addition, a well-lit space for a workbench, two enormous storage compartments for trunks, tools, and such—plus a berth for two bicycles, with its own separate entry on the side.

The Curtises made a few changes in the positions of windows and doors, and use the interior to meet their own requirements. For instance, the bicycle berth has become a planting shed for starting annuals, and Mrs. Curtis may extend it to form a real greenhouse. As for storage capacity, it seems almost limitless—the Curtis garage holds, among other things, an antique sleigh, garden tools, and all of their screens, including the bulky ones used to screen in their porch. It's wired for electricity, and if plumbing were installed, Mrs. Curtis maintains that she could even live in the charming little garage quite happily!

ROBERT W. HOUSEMAN

No tools, water, or paste are required to apply Con-Tact, the new adhesive-backed plastic film that has 101 uses. For example, our Menu Maker and inexpensive canisters become a smart set with Con-Tact in mahogany wood grain. A shoe box and wastebasket go classy in candy stripes; a table top gets marbled the easy way. It's simple—you just measure and cut the size you need, peel off the protective paper back, put the plastic on surface to be covered—and it sticks tight. Con-Tact is spot-resistant and washable, comes in solid colors, candy stripes, kitchen and nursery patterns, wood grain and marble effects. Con-Tact, in rolls 18 inches wide, is about 59¢ yd.

The thin but sturdy vinyl film cuts with scissors, adheres to any smooth surface when you apply hand pressure, and can be picked up and readhered if you don't get it on quite right the first time. Directions, and squares to guide your cutting, are on the reverse side of the sheet

Designed for the Modern Home...

This FIREPLACE

warms all the room, will not smoke,
damper seals air-tight!

Especially designed for the modern home, the new 3-Star Heatilator Fireplace is the only fireplace that gives you all 3 of these features . . .

1. Circulates Warm Air Cool air from floor level is warmed in the double walled firebox—then circulates gently to every corner of the room, and even to adjoining rooms.

2. Will Not Smoke A scientifically designed steel form, the Heatilator unit does away with guess-work and rule-of-thumb construction methods. It adds little to cost of finished fireplace.

3. Damper Seals Air-Tight The new Pressure-Seal Damper seals the chimney throat airtight when the fireplace is not in use. No house heat escapes up the chimney to add dollars to fuel bills. No chimney down-drafts can cause cold drafts in the room. And in the air-conditioned home, it is an absolute necessity to prevent the loss of expensive summer cooling as well as winter warmth.

The Fireplace for Every Purpose

Ideal for homes, basement rooms, camps or cabins. Be sure you get the genuine. Look for the name Heatilator on the damper handle and dome. Ask your building material dealer or mail coupon for free booklet.

THE AMERICAN HOME

Market

Photographs by F. M. Demarest

MILK GLASS CLASS. A Wick-ed Bundling Lamp with an heirloom air about it that you're bound to take a shine to. Just 8" high, it makes a good little light on top of a coffee table, or beside your bed. Kerosene sets it aglow. With milk glass shade and base, as shown, $5.75. Clear crystal shade and base, $4.75. Ppd. Gilbert & Leonard, 1544A Northern Blvd., Manhasset, N. Y.

ROSES ON THE BREAKFAST TABLE. Red moss roses trim these fragile white bone-china egg cups to start the day in a party mood. Just one on a bed tray is enough to make anyone feel like a pampered darling. Ring them around the breakfast table and you'll see the whole family rise to the occasion. All six for $1.50 plus 25¢ postage. Helen Gallagher, 413-K Fulton Street, Peoria, Ill.

WE'VE DESIGNS ON a half bushel basket for in front of a fireplace to hold a supply of logs, our AMERICAN HOMES, some darning—or it could even make a wonderful bed for a kitten. 9" high and 14" across, it's dull black with bright Pennsylvania Dutch decorations, the handles are covered with gay red wool. $3.95 plus 35¢ postage. Foster House, 430 South Jefferson, Peoria, Illinois.

TOO MANY KISSES SPOIL THE COOK—not that we're against romance, but it can result in no salt in the potatoes. For your favorite cooks, unbleached muslin aprons gay as Valentines, trimmed with red piping, hearts, and the words, "Don't Kiss Me I'm Busy." His is man-sized, Hers a half apron. Each $2.95 ppd. House in the Garden, Dept. A, 19 Garden Pl., Brooklyn 1, N.Y.

FOR GOOD BEHAVIOR the Behavior Board rewards a child at the end of the day with a gold star—and with this encouragement a Badie will become a shining example in no time. 14 things to check each day, remind about such things as talking in a loud voice, picking up toys, brushing teeth. 8 1/2 x 10 1/2". Enamel coated. $1.10 ppd. Bodine's, 444 East Belvedere Ave., Baltimore 12A, Md.

You Can Play

... even if you don't know a single note of music now!

Imagine! Even if you never dreamed you could play music, you can soon surprise your friends with your musical ability. No special talent or previous training needed. Spend just a few minutes a day—and only a few cents per lesson. Teach yourself to play piano, guitar, accordion, whatever instrument you choose. Make amazingly rapid progress because you start right out playing real pieces by note. No boring exercises to do. Over 900,000 people have chosen this easy home study method.

HELEN DE MOTTE

HAND-BRAIDED WOOL RUGS, the kind you've dreamed of owning, are made to order in your own choice of colors. Heavy 100% wool is used, woven firm and tight so that the rug is completely reversible, and will of course last a lifetime. 3 x 5', $26.25; 6 x 8', $86.40; or 9 x 12', $248.40. Other sizes available. Exp. Coll. from Edlen Studios, Dept. A, South Street, Rockland R.F.D., Mass.

THE SAÏTE-PTOLEMAIC Period (600 to 300 B.C.) was when this benign feline lived the first of its lives. The original was placed in the temple of Bastet, an Egyptian Goddess, and is now in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. An exact reproduction in bronze-like Alvastone, black with a green patina, on a black wood base. 7" high. $11 ppd. Museum Pieces, 114 East 32 St., Dept. AP, N.Y.C. 16.

BIG MAN-LITTLE MAN MIRROR is as two-faced as a mirror can be. A reproduction from washbasin days, the two angled glasses allow a tall and a shorty to primp at the same time. Or turn it sideways for twins. Handsome any way, in a guest room, hall, or powder room. Solid cherry frame, 18 x 14" over-all. $10.85 ppd. Carl A. Forslund, 122 Fulton East, Grand Rapids, Mich.

CALLA LILIES will bloom beneath your fingers if you spend these winter evenings hooking a lovely piece to use as a chair seat or back, stool cover or to frame. Kit includes design on burlap, hook, wool for flowers and leaves, a handy round hoop for holding work, instructions. Can be finished from 10 x 12" to 18 x 20". $5.99 ppd. Rebecca S. Andrews, Box 445, Walnut Ridge, Arkansas.

FINE SATIN RIBBON

50 yard roll • only 50¢ postpaid

You can save on this 1/2" sparkling satin ribbon that costs $3 per roll in stores—your choice of 10 gay colors. This factory-new, color-fast ribbon has no-fray edges and extra strong weave. Practical for gift wrapping, clothes trim, party favors or hair bows. Take your choice—each 50 yard roll only 50¢ postpaid.

SECRET DRAWERS. Labeled Salt, Pepper, and Matches, the secret is that the first two pull right out and are really handy shakers. Of course it's no secret how cute this honey-toned pine rack with yellow decoration will look in your kitchen. 13 1/4" high x 4 3/4" wide, 2 hooks underneath for potholders or keys. $5.95 plus 25¢. Interior Trends, Dept. AH, 25 Underhill Ave., Brooklyn 38, N. Y.

UNUSUAL DISHES can lend a touch of excitement to the plainest fare. Marvelous Italian ceramic ones are oyster white and shaped like bunches of asparagus. Use them as salad or bread and butter plates, for canapes, vegetables (of course, asparagus), artichokes, celery. Each is 9 x 5", and four are gift-packaged in a handy wicker basket. $5.95 ppd. Serv-U, Box 390, Flushing, N. Y.

COLONIAL MEETING PLACE for condiments puts them into a charming circle. Pie-shaped ceramic containers for salt, pepper, cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice, and clove are decorated with little figures in quaint costumes, they fit neatly together on their stash-and-carry tray holder. 6" in diameter and 7 1/2" high over-all. $3.95 postpaid. Green Gable Gifts, 1554-A Third Avenue, N. Y. 28, N. Y.

A SWISH DISH for a fancy Nancy dresses up any oven offering like a banquet. This oblong 6 3/4 x 11" (1 qt.) Pyrex casserole and its silver-plated holder has traditional pierced design with applied gadroon border and attractive cast feet. A simple idea, worth more than its weight in the elegance it will lend your table. $12.57 ppd. Macy's, Dept. 5-A, Herald Sq., N. Y. 1, N. Y.

EVEN A BOOKWORM would be surprised at what he finds between the covers of one of these rare old French books with its interesting gold-tooled leather binding, for it has been fashioned into a fascinating cigarette box, lined with marbled book paper, the frontispiece and first few pages still intact. $5.75 ppd. Dale Fifth Ave., 719 Fifth Ave., New York 22, N. Y.

NAIL POLISH HOLDER. No chills, no spills while you're doing your nails. Polished-metal holder grasps any type of nail polish bottle, tilts it at right angle for easy dipping, leaves both your hands free to do a professional job. Cushioned rubber base so it won't scratch your dressing table. $1 ppd. Carol Beatty Co., Dept. AH-22, 7410 Santa Monica Blvd., Los Angeles 46, California.

DOCTORED UP to bring four of today's necessities out of the medicine chest and into the limelight, little 3½" ceramic apothecary jars, are white trimmed with gold and hand-painted floral wreaths framing the words "Gauze," "Band-Aids," "Aspirin," and "Vitamins." Certain first aid for a dreary bathroom! Set of 4, $3.50 ppd. Damar, 722 Damar Building, Newark 5, New Jersey.

GONE ARE THE DAYS when we had to count on these little lamps for light, but collectors have made a special feature of them. This one has the feel of an antique, because it is made of brass with a handle, and has an amber, blue, ruby, or amethyst grape-cut chimney. Just 6¼" tall, it burns kerosene. $3.75 ppd. Jack Daniel Shop, 309 South Locust Street, Centralia, Illinois.

HANDSOME SCREEN STAR to play a variety of roles. Perfect for separating dining from living area, extending a wall, hiding a kitchen. Natural split rattan in solid rattan frames. Each panel 18" x 68" high, choose horizontal or vertical slats or mix as shown. 3 or 4 panel screens. Each panel, $7.50 exp. coll. Carabao Special Products Co., Dept. A5, 950 Columbus, San Francisco, California.

AT THE BOTTOM OF THINGS, a daisy of a daisy doily that with true feminine guile looks as if it needs lots of caring for—but being a nylon dainty, leads a charmed life, whisks through the suds with no ironing. Approx. 9 x 12", use one or two where your fancy dictates. White, pink, gold, Nile, or blue. $1 ppd. Hagen Company, Dept. AH, Box 49, Englewood, New Jersey.

SOME NEAT GIRL will adore these clear plastic cases for keeping her bureau drawers in order. Each is trimmed with her own first initial, and all come in a gift envelope inscribed "Just for You." Three 11 x 14" bags for lingerie or sweaters, plus three 5 x 11" bags for gloves. Or this could be just what a not-so-neat girl needs. $1 ppd. Hildon Prod., P.O. Box 26, Malverne, N.Y.

SILVER STORAGE DRAWER KIT. In a few minutes you can convert any drawer into a tarnishproof store place for up to 140 pieces of flat silver. Base pad and a slotted rack for knives and spoons and another for forks are already covered with ruby red International Prevent Tarnish Cloth, two flaps become covering. Kit, $6.95 ppd. Eagle Products, Box 84A, Dept. SK, Meriden, Conn.

QUILTING PARTIES will recognize this attractive pattern known as "Robbing Peter To Pay Paul." It's a delightful small all-over pattern that works up beautifully for either a big bed or a child's crib. We wish you could have seen the finished one, as we did. To start your own heirloom, send 25¢ for the pattern. Mrs. Danner's Quilts, Dept. AH, 223 N. Residence, El Dorado, Kansas.

A NEW CONVERTIBLE makes something different from an ordinary candleholder by turning it into a hurricane light to give a Williamsburg air to your dining-room table, or make a plain candlestick look more important. Rubber base fits into candleholder. Each converter comes with 7" hurricane glass. In brass $2.75. Silver plated, $3.25. Ppd. Sid Harris, 957 2nd Ave., N.Y.C. 22.

BENEATH THIS YOKE will grow a happy little philodendron, but its quaint charm will carry you back to another age. This Miniature Ox Yoke Planter is handsomely made of pine and attractively finished. It measures 10" long, 8 3/4" high, and 3 1/2" from front to back, has a removable tin lining. $4.45 postpaid. Old Guilford Forge, Inc., Dept. AH, Guilford, Connecticut.

POST LANTERN KIT. Between you and me and the lamp post, you can put this one together without any special tools in one hour! Though it's a reminder of gaslight eras, it comes complete with electrical socket. Made of solid copper, it is 18" from eagle to 3" post collar, glass is pre-cut. All instructions. $8.95 ppd. The St. George's, Dept. B, Box 143, East Hartford, Conn.

STEMWARE HOLDER is a neat trick to gain more cupboard space and at the same time keep dust out of your glasses. Each holder will take from 3 to 4 glasses depending on their size. They are adjustable in installation to fit your own stemware. Three pairs, enough to hang 9 to 12 glasses, $1.50 ppd. Kendrick Kerns, Dept. AH, 120 Mesilla St., N.E., Albuquerque, New Mexico.

DON'T LET A STONE WALL STOP YOU when you can so easily install the Kar-Stop. A steel bumper, positioned on the floor of the garage, comes into contact with your front tires and lets you know you've gone far enough. Adjustable to accommodate the front overhang of any car. Easy to install, unit is $6.95 ppd. Arthur H. Kitson, 20818-AH Harper Avenue, Detroit 36, Michigan.

TO RULE YOUR ROOST. A proud rooster weathervane will let you know which way the wind blows. Of dull black cast aluminum, it comes complete with newly designed compass stand, roof plate. The upright shaft is brass and the motif turns on a bronze ball. 23½" high, 11" direction arms and 17" arrow. $10.85 postpaid. Cape Cod Weathervanes, 408A Hawthorn, New Bedford, Mass.

WASHSTAND. A faithful reproduction of an Early American farmhouse washstand is made of select kiln-dried knotty pine with turned maple arms, and comes completely assembled, but unfinished. Concise finishing instructions are included. 32" high, 28" wide, and 15" deep, over-all. $30 express collect. (About 40 lbs.) Valley Craft, Dept. AH, R. D. #1, Chagrin Falls, Ohio.

POT HOLDER BIRDS. Without a song, these birds provide a gay note for your kitchen. Of highly glazed ceramic in either red or yellow, they sit on a green leaf and turn tail to provide a place to hang a couple of your pot holders close to your stove while they bill and coo. 4" over-all. $1.25 postpaid. Rowling's, Dept. AH, 142 South 15 St., Philadelphia 2, Pennsylvania.

A COZY BENCH for TV viewing, fire-admiring, or vanity primping will have you sitting pretty. It is made of solid birch with a hand-woven fiber rush seat, measures 20" wide, 12" deep, and 18" high. Unfinished and ready for painting, $6.95. Finished in maple, mahogany, cherry, walnut, or pine, $7.95. Express Collect. Order from Jeff Elliot, Dept. AH6, Statesville, North Carolina.

PUT UP YOUR GUNS. A sneaky, but effective way to get young cowboys to keep their "shootin' irons" picked up. A 22" rack, right out of the sarsaparilla parlors of the Old West, lines up their holsters and cap pistols. Half-log complete with bark and smoothly finished face, 4 red pegs, sturdy hanging cord. $2.95 ppd. Sequel House, Dept. AH, 4353 Lovers Lane, Dallas 25, Tex.

A DRILLING STORY for anyone with an electric hand drill. The Drill-Strait is a handy doweling jig for drilling on flat surfaces, edges, rounds, or curves, which controls the depth and placement, gives you true, straight holes, ¼" to ¾" with drill press efficiency. Of case-hardened, cadmium-plated steel. $1 ppd. Benrich Sales, Dept. AH, Box 64, Central Station, Jamaica 35, N.Y.

SHARING THE HARVEST

Dear Miss Mayer:

Well! All I can say is, had you been at the annual Harvest Festival picnic at St. Wendelin's Church in Butler County, Pa., August 22, you would have said, "I should live so long!" I believe I'm safe in saying that never has the name of AMERICAN HOME been mentioned so often in one day.

Every five minutes—from 10 A.M. until midnight—the communications chairman kept saying over the P-A system, "Be sure and get a copy of the September issue of AMERICAN HOME, and read the story about our picnic, etc. . . ." Furthermore, at the booth where over 3,000 people bought their dinner tickets, was a placard reading, "Get a copy of AMERICAN HOME—None in town!"

Yes, by noon you couldn't buy an AMERICAN HOME in Butler County for love or money! Father Linus purchased 50 copies to present to visiting clergymen from all over the state, who wished to point out St. Wendelin's success story to their parishioners. Imagine AMERICAN HOME being read from the pulpit!

But perhaps Father Linus' words will mean more to you than anything. "Editors of THE AMERICAN HOME must be wonderful people to devote so much space in their fine magazine to plain, ordinary folks like us. God bless them."

—MRS. BENTON McCUE

TREASURE NO LONGER HIDDEN

Dear Editor:

How lucky can one get! . . . Why am I lucky? . . . I'm an Air Force wife stationed with my husband and two children in Japan. I read your August 1954 article, "The Ledlie I. Laughlin Collection" and discovered we have a very valuable piece of pewter!

It is a teapot with a British (?) coat of arms and an intricately hand-carved lid. The reason for the (?) is because, at present, it is stored with our other household goods in the United States. Our piece was sold to us for one dollar by dear friends from Boston, and had been handed down to them through generations. I was their "antique happy" neighbor (to my husband's dismay) who happened to be in their garage one day when they were sorting the normal accumulation that one collects. The dollar was a joke between us, but as the years roll by, more and more people notice my pewter teapot and even make offers for it!

I am a layman concerning antique values, but thanks to your wonderful magazine (which has educated me—a wife, mother, cook and homemaker for nine years) and a million thanks to Mr. Laughlin for bringing this to my attention. In the next two years I hope to find some ancient Japanese pewter—perhaps not only a valuable collector's piece, but also one with historical background; and when we return in 1956, I hope to take my little teapot from its barrel and unfold the story of its origin.

LAUNDRY LOCATION

Dear Editors:

Why is the laundry room put with, or in, the kitchen in so many "American homes"? In this day of the extra bathroom, why isn't the laundry put where the soiled clothes are? We don't undress in the kitchen, nor change baby's diapers there, but we bathe and use most towels in the bathroom.

In this era of plastic-covered eating areas and dishes that dry themselves, the kitchen is no longer the spot for soiled clothes to collect. And besides—some washing machines vibrate enough to ruin a baking cake!

Now that's "Off My Chest." Thanks so much for your fine magazine. —MRS. WELDON NORMAN

MUSIC TO OUR EARS

Dear Mrs. Austin:

Browsing through the Sept. A.H., I saw, under "Memories Live in This Lovely House" the violin used as a wall decoration. Having had a three-quarter violin stored for a number of years, I immediately saw where I could put it to work. Here is the result.—W. J. WEBSTER

DO-IT-YOURSELF—FAMILY STYLE

Dear Editors:

I must disagree with M.B.W.—"Off Your Chest," August 1954.

This spring we began remodeling an old schoolhouse on a do-it-yourself basis. We've had no professional help—though we've torn down wainscoting, put up ceiling stringers, built partitions, done wiring and plumbing, plan to install our own linoleum and wall tile. In a couple of years, we'll add on a bedroom. And neither of us had ever used a hammer for anything harder than hanging a picture!

In my opinion, the do-it-yourself trend is the best thing that's hit family life in a long time. Our son, age 13, is an expert with saw and hatchet, the twins, age 9, cart stones for the dry well, and 3-year-old Diane hands nails to her Daddy! Family life has improved since we have a group project.

We borrowed $500 two years ago as down-payment, have paid it back, and done the work with what we could spare from our income. When we're finished, we'll have $2000 worth of work for about $650. Who says it isn't worth it?

Family Time Capsule

MARJORIE WHITOL

Several years ago our family borrowed an idea from the 1938 World's Fair: we put away a Time Capsule, but one which needn't wait till the year 6938—ours will be opened 25 years hence. It was the first, we hope, of many, for, wanting to establish a holiday routine worthy of repetition, we worked up an idea which promises increasing fun as the years go by. Every New Year's Day, now, we pack a box of miscellanea collected for the purpose throughout the year, seal it, and earmark it for our descendants at Christmas, 25 years later. It is our gift to the future. It's amusing to garner appropriate material, but the real fun will begin in the '70's when the first boxes will be opened by our children and theirs ... and with luck, by us too.

A couple of cartons hold articles which, during the year, catch our various fancies as being of possible future interest. Quite a lot accumulates, and, as the project progresses, we find ourselves constantly alert for capsule-collecting. During Christmas week, we finger through the accumulation to "edit" it down. We find ourselves in the presence of all the sentimental and historic clutter of the past year: photographs, report cards, diaries, wedding invitations, outgrown toys, bootees-and-toofies, love letters (by all means, love letters!), newspaper articles, bits of clothing. Much is discarded, and many arguments arise as the generations try to agree on what is important. A few last-minute ideas may be incorporated—once a too-new bottle of brandy was tucked in with Mother's new, but booed-down hat.

The man of the family, an engineer who dabbles in metals, made up 25 strong boxes of stainless steel, of a size that will hold large magazines flat, and about six inches high. Actually, any metal box would do, and whatever the size and shape, can be stacked in a corner so that not too much room is consumed by the project. Every article is carefully wrapped and protected. Typed explanations are attached, and a dozen or so copies of inventory are enclosed to send to those future members of the family who will not be present at the opening.

We try to include some things of real value so that the opening will constitute a real Christmas gift, and we try to appeal to many minds ... the artist, the historian, the scientist, the man, the woman, the child, the Brain, the not-so-smart. Our first two capsules have included: fruit cake; costume jewelry; seed catalogue; new toys; Sunday newspaper; phonograph records; recordings of family events; new stamp issue; current puzzles; a doodle by Frank Lloyd Wright; the year's cleverest Christmas cards; envelope of ads, jokes, political cartoons; articles on wonder drugs, flying saucers; 70-million-year-old fossil found by our son, with identifying letter from Museum of Natural History; 1000 feet of 16-mm film of a trip; old photographs; family trees; catalogue from Museum of Modern Art; really old heirlooms; three of year's best-selling books; American Home Book of House Plans; cook book; maps; household bills for one month; World Almanac; and a bottle of aspirin! You take it from here. ...

SYMBOL OF HOPE

• FLOWERS express man's hope for everlasting peace. Their delicate beauty and fragrance shut out doubt and darkness by symbolizing the love we hold for those we've lost.

And, because we love, we grieve. But, because we have faith, we look forward to immortality. To our soul's unspoken question on these solemn occasions, flowers whisper comfortingly, "Hope!"

Because . . . like life . . . flowers flourish and fade. But there is something in their vital beauty that cannot wholly perish.

When you can't be there with those who grieve, Flowers-By-Wire carry your sympathy across the miles.

Presenting Mrs. Allen's diploma, Mr. Houn Ohara said: "She studied with diligence and enthusiasm the principles of the classic and modern schools"

JAPANESE FLOWER ARRANGEMENT

The fact that two modest but attractive and exceedingly helpful handbooks on Japanese flower arrangement appeared during 1954, and that one of them is scheduled for republication in enlarged, stiff-cover form, is convincing proof of the widespread interest, in this country, of that peaceful phase of Oriental life. Happily, the exchange of information and knowledge about plants, flowers, and their use and enjoyment is one of the gentlest, yet most potent, of contacts that can exist between peoples and nations. One of the booklets here reviewed, entitled Ikebana and published by, and obtainable free from, the Embassy of Japan, Washington, D. C., is offered as an introductory study "to assist the reader in understanding the creativeness and the appreciation for natural beauty upon which the floral art of Japan is based." The six chapters discuss respectively: flower arrangements in general; Tokonoma (the niche in which flowers are displayed in Japanese homes); Classical and Naturalistic Arrangements; Fundamental Principles; and Simplified Instructions. There is a helpful bibliography.

FIG. A

Japanese Flower Arrangement in a Nutshell, from which the accompanying diagrams are taken (published by The Green Thumb, Augusta, Ga., price $2), is by Ellen Gordon Allen, one of the few Americans to be a graduate teacher of two schools of Japanese flower arrangement—the Ohara and Saga Schools. Since returning from Japan, where she studied and achieved that rating while her Major General husband was serving in Korea, she has continued her research and practical work and also taught weekly classes. Asked to distill into a few paragraphs the substance of her book (which is soon to be reissued by National Council Books, Inc.) Mrs. Allen has written:

"Japanese flower arrangement is EASY because, as normally taught in Japan, it is usually devoid of symbolism, which has always been a stumbling block for Occidentals. This leaves only the comparatively easy technique to be learned. But, first of all, one must realize that the Japanese are concerned with arranging, not just flowers, but everything that grows; and also with combining such materials as shrub and tree branches (fresh, with leaves on them, or bare, old, and moss-covered), drift wood, and even rocks. (But oh, not all in one arrangement, IF YOU PLEASE!)"

"Ikebana, the Japanese word for flower arrangement, means, broadly, 'growing flowers,' 'living flowers,' and 'flowers arranged according to rule.' Thus the object of any Japanese flower arrangement is 'to make the material appear to be growing or living.' That clear goal is what makes it different from all other types of flower arrangement. To attain that goal, the Japanese have evolved through the centuries a few simple rules and principles of design which, based on the observation of natural plant growth, are not man-made and arbitrary, but are inspired by nature and recognized and accepted by man.

"All Japanese schools of flower arrangement agree basically in that their arrangements involve the correct placement of three principal stems (for centuries called 'Heaven, Man, and Earth') which form the 'skeleton' of the design, whether this be worked out in a low, horizontal container (in which case it is called the Moribana style), or in a tall, vertical vase (the Heika style). Each of these styles embraces three basic forms: (1) Upright, in which the dominant stem is placed in that position; (2) Slanting, in which it leans across the container or out over its rim, or even falls down over the side ('Cascade'); (3) Slanting Forward, in which it inclines towards the front.

"There are also rules of measurement to ensure proper proportions between arrangement and container. As an example, for the Moribana style, make Stem 1 the length of the container plus half its depth; make Stem 2 two-thirds as long as 1; and Stem 3, one-half as long as 1. For the Heika style, Stem 1 should extend once and a half the height of the vase above its rim; Stem 2 should be two-thirds as tall as Stem 1; and Stem 3, one-half as tall as 1.

"Fillers" (which are omitted in Figs. C and D) consist of material added to 'fill in' or 'fill out' the arrangement. They are absolutely essential, and there is a basic rule governing their use; but my experience is that common sense and good taste are the best guides in using them. To facilitate the use of short-stemmed material in Heika style arrangements, the Japanese have devised artificial aids to support or elongate them. Figs. A and B illustrate two of these.

"The photograph and Fig. C (above) show a Moribana Slanting (sideways) form, in which the dominant (No. 1) stem is the pine branch extending out across the dish and over the water. Stem 2 is the two tulips, upright (as they grew) and tied together; Stem 3 is shorter than usual, but gives balance; the fillers are small sprays of pine and pittosporum. To make the material neat, the pine branches were cleaned of unnecessary needles, and the small ones cut back and tied together. Finally, Fig. D is a simplified diagram of a Heika, or tall vase arrangement in the Upright or 'A' form."

Our Designing Ways

Do you have designs on a wasted wall? Then put it to work with this grouping, made from our patterns. The original of our Museum Horse, a classic of its kind, was an old weathervane displayed at the Museum of Modern Art. Ours is a line-for-line copy to cut out of plywood, wallboard, or light metal, then paint (or you could paint it right on the wall). Pattern 1442, 25¢. The dry sink is a replica of an early 19th-century type, arched door detail and all, and it differs from the original only in some engineering for modern use: top drawers are now deep enough for silver flatware, and we added a large drawer for long-handled servers, etc. You'll find many uses for those deep cupboards in any room in the house. A Musical

ROBERT BAGAR

MOUSSORGSKY-RAVEL: Pictures at an Exhibition

Arturo Toscanini and the NBC Symphony Orchestra
VICTOR LM-1838, one 12-inch LP, $5.95

Moussorgsky's Pictures at an Exhibition started out as a piano suite written in memory of the composer's close friend Victor Hartmann, the painter. Several decades later, along came Maurice Ravel to transcribe the suite for orchestra in a manner so brilliant and so original as to make it one of the joys of the modern symphonic repertoire. Other orchestral transcriptions of this utterly charming music exist, though none quite measures up to Ravel's, with its great variety, exotic color, and shimmering sound. And of all the renderings I have heard of this music, none do I treasure so much as this one. Understand, please, I don't wish to belittle the others, a couple of which are indeed first rate. But there is something about the Toscanini, perhaps it is this conductor's relish of the musical material, perhaps a slancio, as the Italians put it (that is to say, a sort of pitching into things) that makes the difference. To which I can only say, "Vive la différence!" I have listened to this recording very carefully, not only on my own rig, but also on the custom-made sets of one or two friends. May I report that on matters purely aural, there has been no disagreement?

RICHARD STRAUSS: Also Sprach Zarathustra (Thus Spake Zarathustra) and the "Dance of the Seven Veils" from Salome, played by the Chicago Symphony, under Fritz Reiner
VICTOR LM-1806, one 12-inch LP, $5.95

Respecting this large-scale opus, we have the word of Richard Strauss himself that he did not attempt to write philosophical music, nor was it his intention to "portray Nietzsche's great work musically." He explained further, "I meant to convey by means of music an idea of the development of the human race from its origin through the various phases of development, religious as well as scientific, up to Nietzsche's idea of the Superman." Well, even so, Strauss set himself quite a task—and if you ask me, I don't think he quite succeeded, though he did leave behind a considerable, yes, a very considerable piece of writing. Music is not an exact speech. Without benefit of detailed notes, it can say mighty little that is specific. Luckily, few conductors, mistaking noise for expressiveness, give us an excess of the former in reproducing this work. Such a one, surely, is not Fritz Reiner, who leads the men of the Chicago Symphony in what you might call an intelligent performance. He is principally concerned you see, with such delicate things as balance, flow, continuity—a strict adherence to the purely musical aspect. If, in the doing, he gets over a Nietzschean suggestion or two, all the better.

SCHUMANN: Fantasia in C Minor, Op. 17, and Kinderszenen (Childhood Scenes) played by Clifford Curzon

LONDON LL-1009, one 12-inch LP, $5.95

SCHUMANN's Carnaval and CÉSAR FRANCK's Prélude, Chorale et Fugue, played by Artur Schnabel

VICTOR LM-1822, one 12-inch LP, $5.95

A sensitive, beautifully precise pianist, indeed, is Curzon, whose performance of this masterpiece for solo piano is rewarding in every respect, save perhaps that of passion, which is specifically called for in the first section. But let's not quibble—there is a certain amount of warmth—Schumannesque warmth—in the playing. The baker's dozen of brief items in the Kinderszenen are all delightfully set off, the contrasts all nicely made.

"Colors, Texture are Grand"

The other morning as a group of club women finished a tour of the great Olson Factory, I heard one lady say to Mr. Olson:

"I have heard about your rugs for years, but frankly, I didn't believe it possible to make the kind of rugs I would like for my home from a bundle of old materials. I know better now. Olson Rugs are simply beautiful—and the colors and texture are grand."

I have known and loved Olson Rugs ever since I was a little girl; but the rugs they are making today are lovelier than ever. There is a richness of character, a full-bodied luxury about them. No wonder Olson Rugs have delighted so many. And they are—

Made in More Rug Sizes

... than I have ever seen offered anywhere. The Olson Rug Co. is the only rug manufacturer I know of that has looms in 18 different widths so you can order rugs any length in 18 widths without the waste of cutting all sizes from 9 or 12 ft. rolls.

Don't Hesitate To Send Your Worn Materials

There is far more good material in them than you imagine. It stands to reason that where you furnish so much of the material, you get a heavier rug for your money than if you had to pay for all new materials.

Just Mail the Handy Coupon

... that appears on this page, and you'll receive the Free Olson book of rugs and model rooms.

There is an Easy Monthly Payment Plan for those who wish it; and a Free Gift Coupon for those who need rugs right away and haven't had time to save quite enough material.

The Rubinstein Carnaval is in his most communicative manner. The work is a pianistic masquerade with personal allusions of all kinds at which Schumann's friends, their identities not too concealed, drop in. I would say that Rubinstein's performance is about as good as he has ever achieved, which means pretty fine, though it falls somewhat short of the very best I've heard in tonal clarity. Yet there is exuberance and cordiality not often encountered in playing of this work, which all too often becomes a bacchanal in other hands. The Franck Prélude and et Fugue provides a perfect contrast to the Schumann, and the performer's authority is obvious.

AN EVENING WITH SEGOVIA:
CA DL 9733, 12-inch LP, $5.95

The program for this very special evening is drawn from international sources. A Spaniard himself, the celebrated concert guitarist could scarcely pass up music from his native land. Consequently, there is a Nocturno by Frederico Moreno Torroba to take care of that little detail. Other pieces come from the pens of Scobaldi, Castelnuovo-Tedesco, Rameau, French; Alexander, Polish; and Manuel Ponce, Mexican. All this music, and the performer's execution add up to an enchantment.

REG: Lyric Suite

RESEN: Himmerland

Both played by the Danish State Radio Symphony under Eric Tuxen
IDON LS-849, one 10-inch LP, $4.95

Chubert, Tchaikovsky, Chopin you find prominently mentioned in appraisal of great "melodists," nowhere have I come upon any suggestions that Edvard Grieg belonged to that category. Frankly, I don't really know how he can be left out of it. Take the Lyric Suite, for instance. It just pours out melody, melody of the most palatable kind, simple, sentimental, though clean. It represents, as a matter of fact, the sum and substance of this composition, which is exceedingly well played. The Reesen Himmerland is a Danish rhapsody, and not nearly so odious as Grieg's work, but agreeable all the same. Light listening, of course. The London sound, as it is, is very pleasing.

Meet the Cobles

OF

Ed, his pretty wife Jackie, and young Chuck—these are the Cobles of Greensboro, as sweet a young AMERICAN HOME family as we've met in a long time. We think you're going to enjoy your visit to their home in these next few pages, as we did; and perhaps you'd like to know how we came to find out about their house?

The letter came in November. Penned in a pretty round hand, only three paragraphs long, it was signed by Mrs. Pearl Richardson of Greensboro. Enclosed were some newspaper clippings from the Greensboro Record, a program of the last house and garden tour sponsored by the council of garden clubs, and a few black and white photographs of a pretty cottage.

One of the pictures in particular struck a chord that echoed through the winter months. It was an exterior view of the house, nestled among the tall trees, taken from somewhere just beyond the spanking white fence which borders the lot. In the foreground was the simple post lantern and the curving flagstone walk that leads to the house; in the distance, the hospitable front door flanked by crisp white shutters and white-painted tubs planted with geraniums; midway between, a dogwood tree in bloom, feathering white blossoms against the sky. You'll find its counterpart, in

We had an enlargement made of that original photograph and pinned it up on the bulletin board in our office. Out of the corner of our eye we looked at it from time to time as we worked during the next few months. "This," we said to ourselves, "is most everybody's idea of what a home should look like. Who wouldn't feel good, at the end of a day, when he walked up that pleasant path, entered the front door, and closed the world's cares behind him?"

We sent for the plans. We studied them. We wrote back and forth. We called our photographers in Chicago and made travel plans. Finally, one day in May, we caught a plane at LaGuardia airport—and within a few short hours we were sitting in the cozy living room you see on our cover.

Our friend and correspondent, Mrs. Richardson, it turned out, is Jackie Coble's own mother. Mrs. Richardson knows a good house when she sees one, we decided; the Cobles' home inside was even more charming than we had hoped. Jackie Coble herself, with her flashing eyes and soft southern accent, is a person of boundless vitality and keen wit. She complements Ed's quieter personality—he is an artist and a fine architect, chief architect with Federal

The original tin is still in the doors, the design made with an ice pick and knife. Curtains in the room are Jackie's handwork with beautifully hemstitched edges. Housing in Greensboro. Young Chuck, their son, is all boy, and judging from the quality of his own paintings which hang in his bedroom, he bids fair to follow in his father's steps.

Ed and Jackie's home is their own personal work of art. Ed designed the house, and Jackie planned the decorating, using pieces which they already owned. In his modest way, Ed wrote to us in his first letter: "In order that you not be disappointed should you decide to pursue the matter further, I want to point out, as you can see from the floor plan, that ours is an unpretentious house and that it incorporates no unusual design features. We do feel, however, that for the approximately 1200 square feet of floor space involved, it offers a livable, compact plan with no wasted space." As you can see, we did pursue the matter further!

In the living room, Jackie's deep blue walls point up the white paneled fireplace wall and make a fine dark background for the pine and cherry wood pieces. Hanging above the mantel is one of Ed's own paintings. In the living room and throughout the house, you see evidence of Jackie's flair for combining accessories in unusual ways—on the mantel shelf, for instance, she has taken small porcelain figurines and placed them in glass apothecary jars to give them importance. In the dining area, a porcelain lavabo on the wall, flanked by old plates. In the tiny kitchen (opposite) the breakfast corner sports a pine spoon rack framed by black iron trivets. Beneath the wall lamp, the dried arrangement (on a bread board) is decorative—and also helps to hide the lamp cord.

Several pieces of furniture were especially made for the house—among them the Lazy Susan table in the dining area, the breakfast table and chairs, the pine bed (left), and the wash stand which Jackie uses as a dressing table.

"All the curtains," Jackie tells us, "were made by me (it will never happen again!) The living room and master bedroom curtains have hemstitched edges (and so did I when I finished). As you can guess, curtain making is not recommended by me to anyone with a nerve in her body!"

Get a Jump on Spring

Like any recommendations involving "jump" and "spring," these suggestions are necessarily elastic and flexible. For just when spring will come to your garden depends on where you are—and how much you can do in advance to lessen the pile-up of duties at that time depends on a number of things.

You who live in Florida and Southern California and along the Gulf Coast may already have done your spring pruning and planting; you in the Puget Sound region or the South Atlantic Coastal section may be less advanced than that, yet still able to look back upon winter. But those of us in the rest of the country may have to exert considerable will power to overcome the influence of frozen or snow-covered ground and low thermometer readings, and to realize that another spring is really just over the hill. So one of the essentials in getting a head start is to be, as the song puts it, "young at heart," or, shall we say, to have spring in your heart. It's a happy feeling, as you probably know. Cultivate it.

As to what you can actually do, now, to get ready for spring gardening activities and even anticipate them, you might start, as yesterday's school curriculum did, with "Readin', 'Ritin', etc."

READIN'—Now is the time to catch up on your garden reading—in books, magazines, the garden columns of many newspapers, this year's new crop of seed, plant, and nursery catalogues, and the advertising messages of representative, reputable dealers. Garden writing is not only increasing in quantity (to keep up with increasing gardening interest), but also, on the whole, improving in quality, accuracy, and helpfulness, largely because of the efforts of a national Garden Writers' Association. Catalogues, if less bulky and abundant than formerly, also tend to be more accurate and realistic, reflecting the current movement to raise the standards of horticultural trade practices, especially advertising. Leaders in the industry, governmental agencies, advertising media, editors, and horticultural organizations are all taking part in this welcome and encouraging campaign to improve your reading matter.

Distribute your reading between explanations of basic principles—the "whys" of good gardening—and practical directions as to the "whats, whens, and hows." And, if you can, join classes or attend lectures as they are being offered in more and more communities by educational institutions, extension services, botanical gardens, organizations, etc.

'RITIN'—Hand in hand with the study of plant catalogues goes the writing of seed and plant orders—combined, of course, with the preparation of planting plans which make up the preliminary gardening-on-paper that can contribute so much to permanent success on the ground. A carefully worked-out master plan, whether of a whole property or of one or more separate garden details, is not only educational in the making, but invaluable as a chart for efficient operations and a preventive of mistakes that are often surprisingly expensive to correct.

No less helpful than a planting plan is a schedule of tasks—a list of monthly or weekly "what-to-do's" and "when-to-do-it's." You can base it on notes made last summer, or adapt it to your particular conditions from the garden calendar suggestions in various reference books. Of course, you will not follow it in every detail; that sort of Utopian perfection is not a part of gardening as it is done by mere humans. But you will be agreeably surprised at the many things such a schedule will prevent you from overlooking or neglecting.

The writing of labels and markers so they will be ready at planting time is a splendid time-saver and makes for accuracy, too. Do this as you make out your orders, then be sure to put the labels away where you can find them promptly when needed.

REPAIRIN'—Unless you are a more careful gardener than most, there are plenty of things to put back in usable shape. Tools may need new handles, blades, springs, etc.; and some, alas, may still need cleaning or the removal of rust. Washers for hose, sprinklers, and sprayers may be missing, and some lengths of hose may leak. Hoes (the other kind), spades, edgers, shears, saws, and other edged tools probably need sharpening—a nice job to do in a sheltered, comparatively warm corner of the yard some fine winter day.

REPLENISHIN'—Go over your stock of flats, flower pots, slat shades for hotbeds and coldframes, plant stakes in all sizes, plant bands and boxes, bean poles, pea brush (or chicken wire), portable trellises, plant ties and other cord, outdoor window boxes, and all such equipment. What you have may need refurbishing, or you may decide to get or make more. It is probable, though, that you will be surprised at how much there is available as the result of a systematic round-up, clean-up, and fix-up.

Supplies of plant food, lime, bone meal, sand, vermiculite, and other such materials may also call for reinforcement, and as dealers' stocks are very likely to run short when the spring rush starts, now is the strategic time to make sure you won't be disappointed. The same with whatever kinds of plant protectives you favor for use against insects, diseases, and other pests. Or you may have promised yourself the fun of experimenting with one of the new ones whose name bids fair to become—if it isn't already—legion. And if your soil and compost bins are getting empty to the point where they might fail you just when you want to make some early indoor plantings, watch for a January thaw, when it will be possible to bring in and get in proper condition some basketfuls of loam and humus from the outdoors.

There will be days when indoor work in tool shed, potting shed, or greenhouse (if you are lucky enough to have one, or perhaps in the basement if you're not) will not fully satisfy your urge to be up and doing. That is when carefully thought-out tree pruning or possible tree removal can be done. The resulting debris will be burned—on a calm, damp day, and in a spot where a well-tended fire cannot do damage to surrounding vegetation, from the grass roots, up. Or, if large enough, it will be cut ("worked-up" is the professional term) into fireplace logs and kindling. Or the parts too small for that may be turned into useful mulching material if you happen to own a grinder or chipper. A well-managed garden resembles a modern factory, or packing plant in that it lets no by-products go to waste.

These are the days when fences, walls, permanent trellises or other screens, steps, pavements, and all kinds of structures can be built, added to, or repaired—and painted when weather conditions co-operate. Remember that concrete work should not be attempted when the temperature is likely to go to freezing before the concrete can cure. Nor should dormant sprays be applied at such times. If you are experiencing a snowy winter, you can be grateful, for a white blanket is about the best cold weather mulch a garden can have. Roosting on the evergreens, it can be less desirable, and actually destructive. So if you have some especially nice specimens of yew, arborvitae, etc., and did not bind them up with soft cord when winter began, it's not too late (I hope) to do it, and thereby save yourself the unpleasant task of cleaving up broken plants come spring.

I anticipate that many of you, having gotten this far, are saying, more or less critically and perhaps with some satisfaction, "But you haven't mentioned this, that, or the other favorite midwinter chore that I always do so as to simplify my spring program." O. K., I guess I overlooked it. But, just the same, I caused you to think about it, didn't I? And to that extent, I helped you to get a jump on spring.

Wrapped around a Patio

Want to make 2200 square feet of house act like 3000?

Want to add considerable living space to a house of any size—without paying for it at prevailing rates per square foot? Then consider this plan—

an ancient idea that makes wonderful sense for moderns

DESIGNER: ALFRED N. BEADLE • OWNER: MRS. HENRY LUDKE, JR.

If you need a middle-sized house for a king-sized modern family, note the excellent plan and handsome appearance of this one with its central "bonus" room—a well-protected patio you could use much of the year in most parts of the country. In Phoenix, Arizona, where construction rates are low, this house cost $26,000, custom-designed, custom-built, completely air-conditioned. But even where costs are higher (and even if it weren't a space-stretcher) an outdoor room inviting as the one pictured opposite makes a big contribution. The ancient Romans made good use of such open-air "rooms," and the custom of wrapping a house around a patio or two has always flourished in many sections of the world. But such patios have become the special darlings of modern architects in these days of glass-walled rooms and informal living, for besides being a porch, a sunroom, a second living room, a playroom, a dining room, and a party room, a modern patio stretches a house by making the glass-walled rooms adjoining it seem larger than they are. In addition, it facilitates dividing the house into distinct, but not isolated, wings—a wonderful thing when families are large.

For a family with a big crop of youngsters, it would be hard to imagine a better arrangement of 2200 square feet. Toddlers can play all day in the patio, and never be out of sight. In the evening, older children take over the family room and leave their elders to the serenity of the traffic-free living room. The cooking-dining wing packs a great deal into a relatively small area, thanks to open planning and the illusion of space created by glass walls. The four bedrooms plus family room (which serves as a guest room) are completely off by themselves, and their two bathrooms are so arranged that each bedroom is right next to a bath.

While he tailored the plan to the family's requirements, Designer Alfred N. Beadle didn't neglect to make this Modern a beauty. The focal point of the façade is the entry and the towering board and batten wall—dramatized in the daylight by shadow patterns, and enhanced at night by flood lighting. The entry itself proves that to be "pretty as a picture" a doorway needn't be Georgian with a fan light, for with its flamingo-colored door and its nicely proportioned glass areas—through which you see a handsome brick wall and a wealth of plants—this one makes an attractive modern picture indeed.

The Loveland kitchen (you can see other views of it below and on page 73) was planned for a family whose four youngsters are always encouraged to welcome their friends. Here Cappy, Salty, Brian, and Mary are served by their mother at the snack bar—part of a peninsula housing sink and dishwasher. For dining rather than snacking, this kitchen also offers the attractive setting illustrated below: a great round table set before a much-loved fireplace

EDITH RAMSAY

Mama no longer need “go it alone,” isolated in a clinical kitchen. Throughout the country, you’ll find more and more kitchens like these, planned and decorated for the proud serving of food, as well as the cooking thereof. They needn’t be big living-kitchens, and they needn’t replace the dining room—but they glow with so much color and cheer that many a family dinner is enjoyed at their comfortable counters and tables

THE KITCHEN IS A VERY PLEASANT

Most kitchens blessed with a fireplace become “country” kitchens forthwith, and are done up in pine and in chintz to bring the country to town. So here’s a twist: the kitchen illustrated on this page really is deep in the country—and not one bit quaint! Remodeled for a big modern family, it is hospitable as any “old-fashioned” kitchen could be, but its plan, its brand-new equipment, its pink marble counters, and its walls and cabinets of Philippine mahogany all seem new as 1955. And very much in tune with these times are the snack bar above and the round kitchen-dining table at your left, for although this house has a separate dining room, used when dinners go formal, there’s nothing too casual nor elbows-on-the-table about family dinners enjoyed at the kitchen hearthside.

This modern country kitchen is the most active room in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Loveland, Jr., of Moorestown, New Jersey—a stately old Georgian place which sits on 97 acres complete with stables, paddocks, and all manner of attractions for the four Loveland youngsters, their parents, and their many friends. But when the Lovelands first bought the well-preserved house, the kitchen was unheated, outdated, and endowed with too many doors. So Mr. Loveland consulted George Daub Associates of Philadelphia, designers of restaurant kitchens, and ordered “one kitchen—well done.” How very well done it was, you can see by the excellent plan on page 73. When it comes to making a kitchen hospitable, you can't beat the warm invitation of copper—and for some time now kitchens have been going "copper crazy," in a very sane way, with copper-colored accessories and small appliances that glow permanently under tarnish-proof finish. However, copper is no longer confined to the small things, as you can see in the kitchen above where cabinets and major appliances (all by American Kitchens) are chock-full of copper accents. The cabinets are something new under the sun—steel cabinets with door fronts of birch, and drawer fronts and hardware of deep-toned, tarnish-proof copper. The dishwasher front was finished to match the drawers, the sink is copper-colored porcelain, and the range (not illustrated) is topped with copper too. Note the free-form peninsula table, placed to take in the TV screen—no conflict here between Junior's dinner and Superman—and Mama sees her pet programs too.

Guests as well as family just naturally flock to a kitchen that extends a warm welcome, and the large oval counter in this one has become buffet-supper headquarters as well as a favorite family spot. Usually, kitchens of this type are strictly custom designed and built to the owner's requirements, but the demand for really good eating facilities in really good-looking kitchens is so great that some enterprising builders have responded. W. E. White of Houston, Texas, installed this unusual kitchen in a house built for sale—and the O. L. Carsons who bought it claim that the kitchen is perfect for them. They also have a delightful formal dining room, papered with gay New Orleans scenes—but family meals, desk work, and informal parties all center around the generous counter in this pretty pine kitchen which has such a "come in and sit down" look to it.

TWO GOOD WAYS TO

From this typical, raw, unfinished front yard, Landscape Architect Paul J. Peart developed the permanently colorful, easily maintained garden shown below. Plants were chosen to give the house individuality, serve a purpose, be in keeping with the neighborhood—and stay within bounds. Curving the drive from curb to garage lessened the angularity of the lot and gave parking space for two cars. The main spectacular display is of white ivy geraniums with a slightly lower, zigzag pattern border of blue statice along the curb. For a more tailored appearance and to permit traffic circulation beyond the drive, Dichondra, a maintenance-free ground cover, was planted. Instead of a traditional “foundation planting,” two brick planter boxes or raised beds made part of the architecture, hold acanthus for accent, holly fern for intermediate growth, and Camellia sasanqua for graceful height. English ivy softens the base of the beds and partly climbs the walls. A low, friendly split-rail fence on the property line is partly covered by a well-behaved star jasmine which, toward the front, becomes a ground cover to meet the Dichondra, and blend house, lawn, and plants into one picture. The broad, uninteresting side of the garage is transformed by the lush-leaved, yellow-flowered cup-of-gold vine pleasingly trained over it.

MAKE A FIRST IMPRESSION LAST

KATHERINE M-P. CLOUD

On any nice January day, the possibility of its ever being too hot to work comfortably in the garden may seem remote, even fantastic. But come midsummer, with its hot and/or humid days, and even simple garden chores may become more of a burden than a pleasure. Then, if ever, a garden that practically runs itself comes into its own. The front-yard planting shown here (and the garden to which it is an introduction, pictured on page 91) always look in the pink of condition—and without undue effort on the part of their owner (who is also the gardener), Mrs. John H. Locke, of Haverford, Pa. She worked out the plan and the details with the expert nursery assistance of Frank D. Moore. The moral is: Right now is the time for you to plan your grounds so as to include and coordinate labor-saving features like those so effectively demonstrated here.

The fine first impression created by this attractive entrance planting is the result of several features. Plant masses give substance to the corners of the house. A clump of Japanese holly screens the garage door. The tree (it could be a dogwood, redbud, Japanese maple, etc.) gives needed height and line contrast. The azaleas by the door, the evergreen ground cover, the pseudo window boxes of potted geraniums are

CHERRY FRAME, handsome back, beautifully slatted and slanted, distinguish this sofa, part of Statton's "Contemporary Americana" group. Over-all it's 77" long, 34" deep. For sleeping, seat rides up and out on well-engineered track, back cushion flips down to form 74½" x 45" bed. You can have it in foam rubber or latex hair (from $275 to $375)

GERTRUDE BROOKS DIXSON

METICULOUS PROPORTIONING is the secret of the elegance of this practical sofa bed by Englander. Slim, sloping arms and low back with single row of tufting (it slopes to create good seating depth) do more than give it a Regency air—they make it appear smaller than its actual dimensions (66½" wide, 35" deep, 29" high). Type of double mattress (foam rubber or innerspring) and fabric decide the price. From $199

ROUNDED END adds more than capacity to this Simmons love-seat bed, for that end helps to diminish, visually, the 36½" depth of the piece. The nicely proportioned back slopes to create a seat 21" deep. By night it opens into a single bed, 33" x 75", and its over-all width of 58" makes it suitable for using in pairs. Fabric and your choice of innerspring mattress (two types) determine the price. From $199

THE LONG, LOW LOOK so highly favored in sofas these days is combined, in Kroehler's sofa bed at your right, with the currently popular broad arm, here cleverly shaped so its protrusion is graceful. The deep back slopes in to make a 22" deep seating surface. Over-all, the piece is 76" long, 34½" deep, 32" high, measures 60" between the arms. Equipped with a double-bed-sized innerspring mattress, it is available in a choice of fabrics. From $300

SLEEK, SIMPLE, AND SARTORIALLY PERFECT is this sofa by Heywood-Wakefield that converts in a trice into a comfortable single bed. Seat is actually the 75" x 30" foam-rubber slab that doubles as a mattress. Removable wedge-shaped back cushions are designed to complement the low-cut arm and sloping back and to make this sofa good to sit upon. Though sizeable (84" wide, 33" deep, 26" high) the unit appears smaller, especially in this solid-color dark fabric. Price depends upon fabric, starts at $310

3. Spread adhesive with special notched trowel, depositing on wall only the amount of adhesive that passes through notches when trowel is held firmly against wall. Cover only a few square feet at a time. Do not leave any bare spots

5. Start full or cut tile in bottom corner; work upwards and sideways. Press tiles on with slight twisting motion. Space lugless tiles $\frac{1}{32}$ " apart by placing two toothpicks between each tile. As you work, check courses frequently with level

6. To fit second corner, place tile to be cut (A) on last installed tile (B), aligned on edges. Put marking tile (C) over (A) with one side flush against wall and draw line on tile (A). Cut tile on this line to get accurately fitting piece.

7. Using straightedge, scratch glazed surface of tile with glass cutter along cutting line. If tile has ribbed back, cut parallel to ribs. Place tile on floor, glaze up, with cutting line over a finishing nail. Step on both sides for a clean break

9. For recessed fixtures, remove tiles and cut away wall. Attach wooden backing strip firmly to opposite wall and studs using adhesive and nails. Butter adhesive on backing and fixture and insert in wall. Consult dealer about mounting grab bars

10. Let work set a day before grouting. Then soak tile joints with wet sponge at least four times at five-minute intervals. Mix grout with water to creamy consistency and let stand for 15 minutes. Then brush grouting into joints with paintbrush

11. Use window squeegee to clean grout from face of tile and force grout between joints. Go over joints with round-ended stick to shape them and force in more grout. After grout reaches initial set, clean tile faces and joints with damp sponge

4. If tub or floor is more than $\frac{1}{4}$ " off level along any single wall, snap level chalk line one full tile width above low point. Fit tiles below this line, trimming bottom edge with nippers as in Fig. 8. Carborundum stone smooths edges

8. To fit around pipes and fixtures, use nippers or pliers to break off small pieces of tile. Take many small "bites" rather than a large one. If the fixture is not on tile edge, cut tile on line centered vertically on fixture. Then take "bites"

12. Polish tile face with dry cloth. Reinstall tub fittings using pipe joint compound. Wet grouted joints with sponge several times during next four days so grout will "cure" and become waterproof. Seal tub-to-wall joint with caulking

How to Apply Ceramic Wall Tile

JONATHAN ALEY

An easy method of installing ceramic tile with an adhesive (instead of cement mortar) now makes it practical for the homeowner to install this attractive and durable material himself. Some dealers may not sell the tile to nonprofessionals, but with a little persistence you will find one who will supply you with the tiles and needed materials. Take him an accurate drawn-to-scale floor and wall plan of the room—be sure to indicate the doors, windows, plumbing fixtures, and the wall areas you plan to tile. He will calculate and supply the correct amount of tile, adhesive, primer, solvent, and grout. He will also sell you a special notched trowel. Use only adhesives marked: "Meeting Commercial Standard Specifications CS 181-52." Buy enough tile for the whole job, since there may be color variations from one lot to the next. If possible pick a wall tile with spacer lugs, for they automatically space the tile $\frac{1}{32}$ " apart. Recessed accessories, such as soap dishes, are easier to install if they are proportioned to the tiles (soap dish we used is exactly two tiles wide, one tile high). Plan to fit tile around major fixtures, or, for best results, turn off water supply, remove lavatory, toilet, and tub fittings, and extend tile behind them. Replace pipe nipples with new ones which are $\frac{1}{2}$ " longer. Check to see if tub is level; if not it can often be pried up and chocked in place. Loose paint, calcimine, or other materials which might hinder adhesion should be removed from walls before you go to work.

No home workshop? You can build furniture anyhow!

Start with office shelf units, treat them with paint and materials cut to measure at a lumberyard—
and improvise handsomely, right in your own living room

LONG on Style

SHORT on Cash

JOHN LIPPERT

Doors open, the "chest" at right reveals TV, phonograph, records—and room to spare. Office shelf unit that made it possible was 75" x 36" x 24" size, mounted on a 2" x 4" frame on casters so it could swing away from the wall for better sight or sound. Back and sides are covered with wallboard bolted to inside of the steel frame. Doors are wallboard, covered with basswood blinds and framed by 1½" wood strips

If there, you with the den to fix up, the kitchen to up-date, the new home and big bills, or the summer place you'd like to furnish smartly, for "next to nothing"—let these tip you off: make a good thing of plain steel shelf units, the kind they use in offices. Try your own improvisations on the themes that we show—they're not big "productions." Because they knock down for easy shipment, we recommend them to families "on the move"; and because they are subject to very easy changes, they are excellent for young people on the way up financially, for a room divider made for a honeymoon apartment can be transformed later on, just with paint, into an elegant unit for a kitchen, den, or nursery.

The steel shelving at the heart of the matter sells for almost a song, lasts a lifetime, is light in weight but strong and firmly supported by X braces. Office supply stores carry the units we used (the five-shelfer costs about $19; the three-shelfer, about $9), but you can also order almost any variation in size. The "construction" we used involves little time and can go right on in your living room, for a screw-driver and hand drill are the principal tools, and materials required can be cut to measure at a lumberyard.

ROOM DIVIDER: Its skeleton is a five-shelf unit (72" high, 36" wide, 11½" deep). The $28 cost also included the wallboard and perforated metal used to create the cupboards, plus the wood framing for the doors, and the paint. The X brace, lowered for concealment by the doors, gives necessary support to the structure. For "cupboard" part, cut perforated metal to fit inside the steel frame—on the ends, and across the back. Back the metal with wallboard cut the same size, and bolt both, simultaneously, to the frame. For doors, frame wallboard-backed punched metal with 1" x ½" wood strips. With a steel bit, drill holes into steel frame to accommodate bolts for door hinges. Paint—and choose paint color for good accent in the room.

BOOKCASE-END TABLE: A great deal of table for the money, and one which will house oversized books, magazines, and even a radio. If you use the standard small unit (30" high, 30" wide, 11½" deep), a hacksaw will cut it down to correct height for your chair. Put the brace side toward the chair. (A pair of these with plywood top and sides can make a spacious pedestal desk to use until you can afford that Louis XVI number.)

KITCHEN SHOW-OFF: In a dated kitchen, this steel unit can steal the show, and inspire you to make an attractive picture of your everyday things. Back and sides are covered with peg board—cut to fit, bolted to the steel frame, and ready to give support to hanging pans, molds, or anything pretty.

Carport or Terrace Roof Comes in a Kit—About $300

With one not-too-strenuous weekend of work, the prefabricated "Kawport" becomes an attractive 10' x 20' carport—or a very practical terrace roof. The satin-finished aluminum of which it is made requires no further finishing, though it may be painted, and both fascia and roof are finished top and bottom. One of its most interesting features is the clever interlocking louver construction of the roof which admits light and air, but keeps out up to 36" of snow and sheds rain at the rate of 10" per hour. The only structural members not included are standard galvanized 2" pipes used as posts. For good drainage, roof should have $1\frac{1}{4}$ " pitch, so if it is installed over an existing hard-surfaced driveway or concrete slab, decide at what height carport will be attached to house, and order pipes cut $1\frac{1}{4}$ " shorter, threaded at both ends, and with standard pipe flange mounted on bottoms. If no slab or driveway is in place, order pipes long enough to extend into ground at least a foot below frost line.

Want a sheltered terrace? Roof it with "Kawport"; pave it with the aid of our Cement Block Terrace Blueprint Pattern 2009, 50¢ (see Pattern Order Form, page 92)

Attach corner clips to 20' channel, and anchor channel securely to building at desired height (we suggest 7'6" from ground). Dig footing holes if required

Attach special flanges to other 20' channel, and screw on supporting pipes. Raise post-and-channel assembly, placing posts in holes or on slab surface

While an assistant holds assembly upright, bolt the two 10' channels to ends of the longer channels to form 10' x 20' rectangle

OWNERS: MR. AND MRS. RALPH CARTER, SANDY SPRINGS, GEORGIA

It takes little, in cash, to make a house smile, for a home, like a child, responds easily to affection, especially to affection imaginatively bestowed—and Mickie Carter, after persuading her husband to buy the ugly duckling pictured at your right, has “mothered” it with notable success.

Outside, just a light-handed remodeling gave the old place a distinction it never had known. Indeed, the word “remodeling,” justified by the improvements, is hardly warranted by the things that brought them about. The most telling of these was the addition of romantic grillwork, lacy as the trees around the house. No less important, an imaginative color scheme (it cost no more than a dull one!): the grillwork, doors, and shutters are all brick red, contrasting freshly with white siding. The only structural change was turning a single window upstairs into a double to eliminate the tipsy look of the “L.” Otherwise, just good planting and standard repairs—“upkeep” rather than “remodeling.”

Inside, Mickie did go “all-out,” for she’s the kind of gal who would rather rearrange furniture or revive a battered antique than attend the best shindig on earth. So her rooms (see page 85) are cozy, conversational, and Early American, furnished with antiques once as sorry as the house—and now as effectively revived.

FLOWER ARRANGEMENTS BY BETTY B. MERRIAM

Make Your Own

Cages are no longer just for the birds. They have distinctive charm in another role—a home for flowers or greenery. But plant life unlike bird life rebels at complete captivity

When the cage doesn't hang, you can create big excitement by using some flowers inside the cage, and others "on guard" around its base. In the arrangement above, we underlined the whole effect by placing it on a piece of handsome burl wood. Care was taken not to "stuff" the cage, but to create depth and unusual interest by placing the material offside, with some of it actually overflowing to the outside. As to the "mechanics"—a pinholder resting in a metal foil plate (for holding water) was used inside the cage, and another was used for the flowers on the outside. Small potted plants could be substituted for some or all of the flowers, and of course would create a more or less permanent effect.

Half-cages such as the one pictured at the right are very practical, for they fit snugly against the wall and require fewer flowers than a free-hanging cage. To create a pretty eyeful, all that they need are a few small blooms and a light, graceful vine—for example, grape-ivy with its delicate leaves and tendrils. The long vines and flowers intended to extend beyond the cage were placed in position first; then the shorter materials were filled in.

Hanging Garden

Filled with flowers and suspended from the ceiling a cage has the fascination of a mobile. In the one at your left, Rubrum lilies and coleus were used. Easter lilies or begonias would be equally attractive. Determine the desired line by using long-stemmed curved or angular pieces with buds. Then clip off flowers that conflict in line, and use them in center of container. Designed for flowers rather than for birds, this basket has its own metal container.

Brass and black-lacquer container below looks well with assorted "greens." Here we used wax-plant (Hoya), ivy, variegated Pothos, Peperomia, and hanging begonia. Small potted plants are useful for such arrangements and if exposed to electric light, do not require much sunlight.

With any flower cage, if cut material is used, it must be held securely by a pinholder which can rest in a small aluminum-foil pan for water. With modeling clay, anchor the pan while dry to floor of cage to insure against tipping. Always start arrangement by placing longest stems in position

Even a bird can't call his cage his own these days. Flowers have moved in, established themselves firmly in Dickie Bird's former castle, and even inspired designers to create cages of wicker and wire intended just for flowers. Many florists stock flower cages similar to the ones we used, and since they are equipped with metal containers for holder and water, they are easier to work with than ex-bird cages.

Suspended from the ceiling, hanging on a wall, or placed on a table, a mantel, or a window sill, flower-filled cages are lovely to live with. But your hanging garden can be used to create a big effect as well as a small touch. For example, a series of cages, hung at different levels, makes a charming room divider; and when it comes to a really important occasion, such as a wedding or a high tea, a flower-cage theme for your special decorations can be a spectacular showmanship. If you tenent a real bird cage with flowers, try painting it a pastel shade, and use a coffee tin, painted to match, to contain the water and holder.

DECORATOR: HARBINE CHATFIELD, A.I.D.

JEAN GRAY

The owner collects old Baccarat glass and green and white Rockingham china, and the color scheme of her dining room was planned around the china: gold and white walls, French percale hangings decorated with butterflies in exactly the same shade of sharp, vivid green. The fruitwood furniture, Italian Directoire in style, has a pale finish, pleasant against the light colors. Note the lovely mantel grouping: a pair of antique Baccarat candlesticks and some prized china topped off by modern Italian ceramic cupids whose green glaze matches the china

In the rolling countryside east of Cincinnati, there is a section known as Indian Hill. A few miles south curves the beautiful Ohio, and beyond lies Kentucky—the blue grass state. This is horse country, above and below the river, and the big houses of Indian Hill sit behind their white fences, well back from the road, surrounded by acres of lawns and woods and riding paths. It is in such a house that these interior views were taken. Like some of its more southern neighbors, the house itself is designed in the formal style of big country homes, and there is great elegance in its architectural details. Yet against this background, Decorator Harbine Chatfield has created interiors which have an informal, relaxed quality. She has employed fresh clear colors in chintzes and wallpapers, and used much white and pastel tints as backgrounds—schemes which are vastly becoming to the owners and their children, who are all blonds.

The circular entrance hall, at left, is typical of the light-hearted manner of the house. The contemporary blue and white domino wallpaper is scattered with darker blue cornflowers in the lower hall; the upper section is papered in a companion, minus the blossoms. A third variation of the paper, matching panels printed with large gilt bird cages, is used at several points in the lower hall—one is visible above the English hunt table. Against the dark parquet floor, the rugs are pewter colored.

Directly through the arched doorway is the library (seen again in the view at your right) which looks out over the garden at the rear. The dining room sets fine fruitwood furniture against a white and gold Empire wallpaper. Hangings at the window are a French print of butterflies in the green which punctuates the room—exactly the shade of green in the owner's collection of antique china. The same green is found again in the ceramic cherubs over the mantel, one of a pair of such groups made by a modern Italian sculptor (you may have seen their companions in the exhibition of modern Italian design which toured this country a few years ago).

Against the wood-paneled walls in the library, the fabrics are mostly copper-colored. The draperies are made of a diagonally striped satin; the cloth on the love seat and arm chair is a silk tweed in black, white, and copper; and a beige rug completes the effective monochromatic scheme. At the window, a long copper pan is always filled—with flowers from the garden in season, or with potted plants

in Cincinnati

For many years now, I have been collecting cheese dishes, cheese servers, and oddments from many quarters of the globe, in curious market-places, and through numerous friends both new and old. The materials from which these pieces are made vary widely—from coin silver to cheap pottery, from carved wood to American pressed glass. I have been chiefly interested in their use, their beauty, and their charm, whatever the medium or value.

But the covered porcelain dishes, like the beautiful black Meissen (No. 1) with its graceful, Chinese-inspired decoration—one of the prizes of my collection—symbolize for me the special magic of my hobby. For porcelain was first made in Europe, not by a potter at all, but by an alchemist in search of the "philosopher's stone"—the magic formula for turning base metals into pure gold! This particular alchemist, Johann Böttger, was spurred onward in his search—poor fellow—by a greedy king, Augustus the Strong, King of Poland and Elector of Saxony, who held him captive, saying in effect, "All right, now—GIVE—PRODUCE GOLD!" Böttger must have been quite a salesman—or a true magician, which is often the same thing—for he finally convinced the aspiring Midas that he should settle for the production of the then-fashionable soft ware, faïence—while the gold experiments went forward. Desperation fired the kilns. The result was—not gold—but Europe's first fine, hard, high-glaze porcelain.

To my notion, porcelain, which has added so much to the graciousness of living, to the satisfactions of the table, to the eye and the imagination since the 18th century, was a MUCH better discovery than the man-made Midas touch. The mystery surrounding any piece of perishable, lovely, useful household equipment which

SPAGHETTI WITH JUICY, WELL-SEASONED MEAT BALLS will elicit lots of happy crowing on a cold winter's night whether served for dinner or as a hearty late supper. Try adding one chopped clove of garlic, two tablespoons each chopped parsley and grated Parmesan to your regular recipe for one pound of ground beef. Mix thoroughly; cook and serve with plenty of tomato sauce and grated cheese. Never have I served meat balls fixed this way that I was not besieged with pleas for the recipe by menfolk.

BOWLS OF STEAMING OYSTER STEW served with toasted Cheddar cheese sandwiches ring a bell New Year's Eve. Heat together a couple tablespoons of butter and a dash of Worcestershire sauce. Add one pint oysters with their liquid. Heat over low heat only until edges of oysters start to curl. Add four cups hot milk (or, for a plus, half light cream and half milk). Season with butter, salt, and pepper and—just before serving—a dash of paprika and chopped parsley or chives.

ORANGES, CARROTS, AND CABBAGE ARE FLAVOR MATES for California cole slaw. For a small head of cabbage, thinly sliced, add three grated carrots and four or five oranges cut into bite-size pieces. Toss with the salad dressing and garnish with orange cartwheels. For color contrast, tuck a sprig of parsley in the center of each cartwheel.

A COCKTAIL SAUCE PIQUANT TO THE PALATE was introduced to me by a friend in California. To a cup of chili sauce, add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup each lime juice and sherry. Excellent with shrimp, oysters, crabmeat, or with a combination of avocado cubes and crabmeat.

An easy CHEESE SAUCE for fish, broiled tomatoes, or green beans: Add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup grated cheese to a can of condensed cream of celery or mushroom soup. Stir over low heat until blended. Tasty it is!

Family Food

Nowadays, when we adapt the best from all over, and when Yankee Pot Roast has become a favorite even in Dixie (albeit served up, in one place at least, with a tiny Confederate flag!), the highfalutin' term "regional cookery" means little, thank Heaven! So sit yourselves down to these treats, inspired by the South, and prepared for all America. One such, a ham. Ham will always call The Old Dominion to mind, but this one was flavored by our Cay (from South Pennsylvania) in a new way with pickling spice, much to the delight of even our tradition-loving family! With us, ham is Family Food—no reason to wait for big parties to serve it since not one scrap of it ever goes begging. Ham-in-a-Barge, for example, is worth buying a ham slice for expressly. So is Rice Chef's Salad which gets its zip and character from ham bits—a salad made of good Southern ingredients, but in a way more native to California. Pecan pie, Deep-South style, is a confection to dream about—and costly when the makings aren't home-grown: so try our Family Food variation, a Date-Nut Pie we're sure you'll agree stands very well on its own fluted crust. Apple-Dapple Loaf (the "dapple" is walnuts) is one of those blessed "reversibles"—it doubles as bread and as cake, having the best of both worlds—wonderful, as is, with coffee, tea, or after-school milk, and very special with cream cheese as a sandwich.

"Kissin' don't last, cookin' do" is an old Pennsylvania Dutch saying — but for the kind of cooking that merits a grateful kiss, try old favorites made a new, quick way with canned soups — they taste as if you'd spent hours preparing them! Down Country Chowder is very like the corn chowder served in the Pennsylvania "cookin'" country, while Bayou Bisque is rich with shellfish — a filling soup and a smoothie, the way they like it around New Orleans. If your man enjoys Chinese cooking (most men do), then canned soup can come to your aid in making two treats inspired by the Chinese: American Chop Suey and Green Pepper Steak. And when it comes to pleasing the boys, do try the "dunking soups" as snacks — many soups, mixed with cheese, make a spicy dip for crackers and such.

Bright ideas just come naturally when you choose DEL MONTE, America's favorite fruit cocktail. For looks, for flavor, for all-round top performance in fruit cups, salads and desserts—this fruit cocktail has the character and flavor you want. And wouldn't you know it, the minute you see that famous, friendly DEL MONTE Brand?

SPICED FRUIT WREATH WITH MEAT LOAF

In 2-qt. heat-proof glass mixing bowl, beat 1 egg slightly. Add and mix thoroughly: 2 lbs. ground beef, ½ lb. bulk pork sausage, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, ½ cup chopped onions, ½ cup grated raw carrots, 2 teaspoons salt, ¾ cup milk. Bake right in the same bowl, in moderate oven (350° F.) 1½ hrs. Drain off liquid, invert bowl on platter. Serves 8, hot or cold, surrounded with Spiced Fruit Cocktail:

1 No. 2½ can DEL MONTE Fruit Cocktail, drained	1½ cups sugar	1 teaspoon whole cloves
1 cup of the syrup drained from the fruit cocktail	¾ cup cider vinegar	4 medium-small oranges, if desired, cut in half
	1 stick cinnamon (4")	Parsley, if desired

Spread drained fruit cocktail in flat pan. Combine syrup, sugar and vinegar with cinnamon and cloves tied in small piece of cloth. Boil 5 min., remove spice bag, pour liquid over fruit cocktail (sauce will not be thick). Let stand at least 1 hr., or overnight in refrigerator. (Fruit may be heated just before serving if you prefer it hot.) For Special Occasions: Hollow out orange halves, reserving scooped-out fruit for breakfast. Fill shells with spiced fruit, arrange around loaf with parsley as shown. (A pretty accompaniment to roast ham, turkey, etc., too.) If orange shells are not used, drain spiced syrup from fruit before spooning around loaf.

Lay turkey breast side down. With a small, very sharp knife, remove skin, cutting straight down back; loosen skin from sides and breast, keeping skin in one piece except for wings. Cut around wings, since wings cannot be skinned.

Spread out skin and, with scissors, cut through legs as shown, and spread out flat. Form entire skin in as rectangular a shape as possible so as to make an attractively shaped roll.

3.

Photograph shows the first step in removing the bones. After cutting through center of breast and separating, cut off legs and wings, always cutting very close to bones.

4.

Arrange boned turkey parts over whole skin, fitting two breasts together and cutting through fleshy part of breasts, as illustrated here. Fill in with flat pieces of meat cut from legs, fitting all edges together as closely as possible, for easier rolling.

5.

Spread thickly with stuffing. Before rolling entire length, first fold over a few inches of meat onto stuffing, as per photograph. Now lay skin over this section, and continue rolling—shaping and firming as you roll, but not packing too tightly.

6.

Douse four-ply-thick cheesecloth in drippings or oil, and wrap around turkey roll. Tie, not too tightly about every two inches—then tie again lengthwise. For a brown, crisp skin, cut away cheesecloth about 20 minutes before turkey is finished cooking.

• cay's ham

Preparation time: 5 min.
Baking time: 3½ hrs.

- 10-12 lb. ready-to-eat ham*
- ½ cup brown sugar
- 1 can (1 lb. 4 oz.) crushed pineapple
- 3 tbs. mixed pickling spices
- Place fat side up on rack in shallow, uncovered baking pan. Bake in slow oven, 325°F., for 1 hour. Remove from oven, cut off rind; score fat and cover with pineapple, spices, and brown sugar mixture. Bake in slow oven, 325°F.; baste with pineapple mixture; add small amount of water if necessary. Bake 12 to 15 minutes per lb. (about 2¾ to 3 hours total time.)

*If uncooked ham is used, soak and water cook before baking. Follow directions on wrapper.

• rice chef's salad

Preparation time: 35 min.
Chilling time: 1 hr.

- 2 cups hot or warm cooked rice
- 1 cup cooked green peas
- ½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 2 tsp. finely cut onion, optional
- 1 tsp. salt
- Dash of pepper
- ¼ cup chopped dill pickle
- 1 cup chopped raw cabbage
- 1 cup cooked ham, cut into thin strips
- 8 slices Swiss cheese, cut into thin strips
- 3 ripe tomatoes, cut into wedges
- Salad greens

• Combine all ingredients except tomatoes and salad greens, chill for 1 hour. Serve with tomato wedges on salad greens.

• turkey & almond timbales

(leftover or cooked turkey)

- 2 cups turkey (cooked)
- ¾ cup medium white sauce
- 1 egg (beaten)
- 1 tsp. grated onion
- 1 tbs. parsley
- ¼ tsp salt
- ½ tsp. pepper
- ½ tsp. celery salt
- ½ cup bread crumbs white (soft)
- ½ cup almonds (blanched)

• Chop turkey fine. Beat egg, add white sauce, grated onion, parsley, salt, pepper, celery salt, and bread crumbs. Add blanched almonds, which have been chopped. Add chopped turkey. Mix until well blended. Pack firmly into greased timbales or greased loaf pan. Bake in pan of hot water at 350°F. approximately 30 minutes.

Yield: 6 timbales

Recipe from L. S. Ayres & Co.

• turkey "alla turka"

- (This amount stuffing sufficient for 14-lb. boned, rolled turkey.) To 4 cups cooked rice add 1 cup slightly heated chicken broth. Set aside. In large skillet, lightly brown 2 medium onions, chopped fine, in 4 tbs. butter and very little water. Add chopped turkey liver. Remove from flame. Add:

- ½ tsp. cayenne pepper
- 1 tsp. black pepper
- 1 tbs. cinnamon (here's the secret!)
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1 cup currants
- ½ cup pine-nuts or broken pecans

Mix well and cook about 10 minutes longer over low flame. Add to cooked rice and blend well. This stuffing is equally good cold or hot, used with turkey or chicken.

The boned, rolled Turkey "Alla Turka" originated in the Good Victuals Kitchen
The stuffing recipe, from M. Moyal

• ham cake nimmo

- You'll need: 10 hard-boiled egg yolks, cut in halves
- 1 lb. ham (cut in large cubes)
- ½ lb. veal (cut in large cubes)
- 3 tbs. chopped parsley
- 1 tsp. salt { mixed
- 1 tsp. pepper } together

Layer eggs and meats in an oiled mold or loaf pan, sprinkling a bit of parsley, salt, and pepper between each layer, pressing closely each time with back of spoon. When mold is full and tightly packed, fill with cold water to cover. Lay on it about 2 tsp. butter. Cover with aluminum foil and tie tightly. Set in shallow pan of water, bake 1 hour in 350°F. oven. Remove foil, press close together with back of spoon. Let stand until cold and then unmold.

Recipe from old family cookbook, courtesy Maitland Smith

• ham mousse

(leftover or cooked ham)

- To each 2½ cups (1¼ lbs.) of cooked ground ham, add the following ingredients. Soften 1 tbs. gelatin in ½ cup cold water. Transfer to small saucepan set in small quantity hot water. When gelatin is dissolved, add ⅓ cup heavy cream. Stir, but do not allow to boil. Add to ground ham.

- Fold in and mix well: 1 tbs. grated horseradish
- 2 tbs. onion juice
- ½ cup cream (whipped)

Pour in oiled mold. If using fluted mold, pack each crevice with fingers—Ham Mousse, to retain shape, must be packed very solidly. Oil one side of aluminum foil to cover mold. Place cookie sheet or some flat cover over foil, with heavy weight to keep mold firmly packed. Chill until well set, then unmold.

• apple-dapple loaf

Preparation time: 15 min.
Baking time: 40 min.

- ¼ cup shortening
- ⅔ cup sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 cups coarsely grated raw apple (2 large apples)
- Grated rind of an orange
- ½ cup chopped walnuts

• Beat shortening, sugar, and egg together until light and fluffy. Sift dry ingredients together, add alternately with grated apple. Add grated rind and walnuts. The batter will be stiff. Turn into greased and floured 9" x 5" x 3" loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven, 350°F., for about 40 minutes. Slices better when cold.

Good Victuals

the first parties, what's left of the good parts picked at surreptitiously by the family when one's not in the kitchen—and still a lot of ham and a lot of turkey. "Leftovers" to the thieving family, a headache for the cook. Well—no more moaning, Madam. Number 3 takes care of everything—the ham, the turkey, the slaving over a hot stove (a 14-lb. boned, rolled turkey will take little more than two hours in a moderate oven, feed 20 people or more), the beeg party yet to come. On the bottom of your biggest platter, a bed of tossed green salad, the "darks" pulled out to the edge and alternated with spokes of avocado. On this mossy green bed you carefully unmold a rich mousse of ham, whipped up with grated horseradish and onion juice for umph, and frothy cream to make your mousse a pale and pretty pink. Into the refrigerator it all goes. Then, just before you prink and dress for your own party, you chop-chop the tower of timbales—chopped turkey in a white sauce, chopped almonds, and chopped parsley, et cetera. About an hour before they'll want to eat, you pop the timbales in the oven. The salad and the mousse, done hours ago, are now icy cold. The timbales, last-hour baked, are hot as hot. You give the clarion call. You quickly make your Tower of Babel, you plant a "tree" of parsley atop your tower—for laughs and/or intrigue—and Madam, You have not only a conversation piece, you Have a dinner—all there on one platter, and not a fragment of ham and turkey or turkey and ham in your refrigerator. I said concocted of wit and rare good sense, and I hope you do agree. Needless to say, either of these recipes is delicious in its own right, and we have plotted our recipe cards so that you may file them separately if you so desire.

A happy New Year to you—but come summer and the same beeg crowds, and the same big "feedings" and you again feel like the "unknown" in Hodge's Grace—

"Heavenly Father bless us,
And keep us all alive,
There's ten of us to dinner
And not enough for five"

Well, these same three recipes will be just dandy then, too—and also!

Before I return Maitland's family cookbook, I want to quote some wonderful titles from it. For example: Broth... A very supporting one, against any kind of weakness... Cakes—a good one; an excellent one; a very fine one; flat cakes that will keep long in the house good; et cetera. Good reading, the old cookbooks.

Taste how TUCK-A-BED hot dogs sing with California flavor!

Lip-smacking good flavor is easy to come by. Just open up a can of California's own Ripe Olives. Sample a few for their sun-soaked goodness...save some out for nibbling before dinner... and use the rest like this:

- | | |
|------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1 cup ripe olives | 4 frankfurters |
| 2 tbsps. butter or margarine | 2 tbsps. diced pimiento |
| 2 tbsps. flour | 2 cups cooked rice |
| 1 tsp. salt | ½ cup fine dry bread crumbs |
| ¼ tsp. dry mustard | 2 tbsps. melted butter or margarine |
| 1½ cups milk | |
| 1 cup grated American cheese | |

Cut olives in large pieces. Melt butter and blend in flour, salt and mustard. Gradually blend in milk; cook and stir until mixture boils and is thickened. Add the cheese, frankfurters (whole or sliced), olives, pimiento and rice, mixing lightly. Turn into shallow baking dish. Mix crumbs and butter, and sprinkle over top. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 20 to 25 minutes, until thoroughly heated. Serves 4.

Make more meals sing with California flavor by putting an inviting bowl of ripe olives on the table. Keep them at hand for munching while TV-viewing, too. And offer them in the evening when guests drop in. A bowlful of ripe olives is always a warm "welcome bowl."

(Begins on page 56)

ice water—should bring joyous cheers from homemakers. Surprising in its solubility and flavor, it is guaranteed to contain all essential elements of whole milk, except butterfat.

ASSURED WE ARE OF A PLENTIFUL SUPPLY OF BEEF THIS YEAR... and a hearty Beef-Vegetable stew is a delicious dish not to be overlooked on wintry days. Don't forget to include a variety of vegetables for flavor and color in the simmering stew. Easy on the budget, too.

PIZZA PIE seems to have swept the country in popularity. The secret of success with this dish is the topping, and many unusual combinations can be devised. Whether you make your own or use the prepared mix and sauce, here is a favorite of mine for tasty hors d'oeuvres pizza topping: To eight chopped chicken livers, add three chopped anchovy fillets, ¼ cup chopped chives and mix with the sauce. You'll like it.

THESE PIZZA STYLE OPEN-FACE SANDWICHES are special, too. Spread English muffins with layers of drained, canned tomatoes and sardines. Add dash of garlic sauce, salt, pepper, and oregano. Place one lonely sardine on top of each "pie" and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) until thoroughly heated. A good snack.

WATCH OUT FOR THE NEW DIVIDER PACK OF CHOW MEIN on the market... three kinds: chicken, beef, and mushroom. The chow mein vegetables and the sauce are packaged separately, but in the same pack, keeping the vegetables crisp and flavorful. Be sure to follow directions on package.

CHOCOLATE ALMOND TARTS are a tempting flavor combination, especially when served warm. Prepare chocolate instant pudding according to package directions. With speed and dispatch, stir in ¼ teaspoon almond extract and fold in ⅓ cup toasted, chopped, blanched almonds. Pour at once into baked tart shells. For extra glamor, garnish with sweetened whipped cream and almonds.

INDULGE THE FAMILY WITH FLUFFY LIME TARTS, too. Dissolve a package of lime-flavored gelatin as directed on package. Chill until slightly thickened. Place bowl of gelatin in ice and water. Whip with sturdy egg beater until thick and fluffy. Whip one cup heavy cream and fold into gelatin. Add diced grapefruit sections. Pour into tart shells.

SAUSAGE WITH SHIRRED EGGS FOR SUNDAY BREAKFAST will rate top billing. Break one or two eggs into buttered individual ramekins. Top eggs with a tablespoon of cream, salt, and pepper. Line up a few fully cooked sausage links over the eggs. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) until eggs are set and sausage browns.

Kitchen Is a Pleasant Place

(Begins on page 38)

Plan at bottom of page shows that kitchen proper is dedicated to cooking, eating, and sitting by the fire. Cooking center is handsome wall at your right: two built-in ovens and range. There's also an electric spit in the fireplace, and an electric grill is set up behind the sink peninsula. Since sink and counter face into the room, Mrs. Loveland can chat with family seated around table while she prepares dinner or washes dishes

In order to make a place for everything—and to keep everything in its place—the old laundry was partitioned into four useful small rooms, each with a job of its own.

The section at your right holds the automatic laundry equipment plus shelves for canned goods. It is ventilated through the wire mesh room divider that separates it from the children's cloak room

Designed for a family with a passel of young ones: Back door is main entry for children and their friends. Outdoor gear and indoor games are kept in the mud room; lavatory is used for washing up; staircase at right leads directly to youngsters' bedrooms—they can come and go as they please without disturbing the front of the house or entering the kitchen proper. Creating the small pantry for refrigerator, freezer, and groceries freed the kitchen from clutter

... and your family gets more health protection
from a CLOROX-clean wash!

CLOROX® makes linens
more than white...
it makes them sanitary, too!

No other home laundering product does as good a job of protecting health as Clorox... the most efficient germ-killer of its kind! And your own eyes tell you your white cottons and linens are snowy-white when they are Clorox-clean. For Clorox removes dinginess, stains, even scorch and mildew!

Clorox leaves cottons and linens... including diapers... fresh smelling, even when dried indoors, because Clorox deodorizes. Also, Clorox is extra gentle, free from caustic... made by a patented, exclusive formula. And there are no gritty particles in Clorox, a liquid, to damage your wash or washing machine.

And CLOROX is easy and economical to use in routine cleaning, too! Besides deodorizing and removing stains from kitchen and bathroom surfaces, Clorox also disinfects... protects family health. And, Clorox does all three jobs without scrubbing. Hundreds of public health departments recommend the Clorox type of disinfection. See label for other helpful cleaning hints and directions.

You get all these benefits in a Clorox-clean wash!

1. Snowy-white linens... Clorox removes gray and yellow dinginess.
2. Bright fast colors... Clorox removes dulling film.
3. Lovely-looking linens... Clorox removes ugly stains, even scorch and mildew.
4. Fresh, clean-smelling linens... Clorox deodorizes.
5. Sanitary linens... Clorox is the most efficient germ-killer of its kind.

When it's CLOROX-clean... it's SAFER for family health!

Housewife 1955

JUNE
COCHRANE ORTGIES

In 1955 you'll see
A very drastic change in me.
For instance, I am going to buy
My Christmas presents in July
Or Jan.

I'm going to give up all things sweet,
I'm going to keep my back hair neat,
Take vitamins, walk smooth, not stiff.
I'm going to keep my figure if I can.

In early morning I will bake
And clean and dust. I'm going to make Some clothes, re-do the house. I would,
That is, if I could find a good Work plan.

I'm going to cook with wine this year,
Paint scenes, see plays, and not be drear-
Y. Get some shoes that really fit,
When watching television, knit,
Read all directions on all cans,
Buy clips and stamps and rubber bands,
Wear curlers only when alone,
Talk just three minutes on the phone,
Buy things at sales and take my pills,
Of mountains try to make molehills,
Fix sugared almonds for my friends,
When watching football, watch the ends
And halfbacks. Use my freezer more,
And often tolerate a bore,
Be kind to others, old and young,
When pearls are broken, have them
strung,
Don't live tomorrow, live today,
Be gentle, thoughtful, toujours gai...

My husband says I could do worse
Than just relax and get my verse
To scan.

2 TIPS IN TIME

1955 GREETINGS

When the Yuletide season is over and you look at Christmas cards for the last time, why not make a list on the back of a 1955 calendar, of those who sent them? Then, next December, all you have to do is turn the calendar over and there is the complete list of cards received.

OPERATION NUT MEAT

Let steam take over where muscles and impatience once held reign. Operation Nut Meat is a snap job after the nuts have had the pressure cooker treatment. And the treatment is so simple! Put the unshelled nuts on the rack in your pressure cooker. Add ½ cup water, and pressure cook 6 minutes after the air has been exhausted.
Cool and crack nuts immediately—
with one little tap, shell splits easily and nut meats come out whole!

"We wanted lots of water for our new home

and a Myers dealer helped us
plan for it,"

say Mr. and Mrs.
H. C. Titterington,
Moreland Hills,
Ohio

In this lovely home beyond city
water mains, thoughtful planning made for easier living. An automatic dish washer and clothes
washer account for a few of the two-dozen water outlets served by a Myers Ejecto Pump.

As for pressure, Mrs. Titterington says, "We wanted plenty of steady pressure even when everything was running—and that's what we have."

And they'll have it for years to come; because, when Howard Titter-ington discussed plans with his Myers dealer, he had the future in mind. Soon, two new bedrooms, a bath and recreation room will be finished. But with a Myers Ejecto, there will be pressure to spare for
the 10 additional outlets.

ing an adequate

Cheese Rare Bits

(Begins on page 54)

has survived the wear and tear of decades or centuries, is always as interesting as the known facts of its history. The known facts are likely to be sketchy since they belonged to happy people, who, like happy nations, are said to have no history.
China belonging to unhappy people
seldom survives.

I am no authority on any of the materials used in my collection. But I know what I LIKE! There are only a few basic rules which I have applied to collecting. (They're not rules
at all really—merely eccentricities, most of them, in which I indulge myself, for this is one of the chief joys of being a collector.) First of all—and this seems fairly basic to my professional interests in cheese—the pieces have to do with ways of serving cheese graciously and gracefully.

The largest single item in my collection—now a rarity but once a commonplace in grocery stores
through the land—is a great round
wooden tray with an enameled tin
cover surmounted by a spread-winged American eagle (No. 9). It was used to house, protect, and cut the huge wheels of American Cheddar cheese which once stood on the counter of any well-run grocery store, and its elegance indicates that it must have functioned in a store catering to the carriage trade. I found it proudly dominating the stock of a Midwest antique shop. It is a handsome, lumbering old darling of a cheese bell,
and just looking at it brings back
childhood memories: the nostalgic perfume of an old grocery store in west Tennessee—a myriad assorted
riches. molasses, pickles, kerosene,
heaven-knows-what!

One of the smallest items is the little jar, about three inches tall,
used as the "headpiece" of this article. The way in which I acquired it always charms me: a soldier stationed in California wrote to tell me that he had dug up a treasure in the course of his basic training duties out near China Lake. It was a small pottery jar with this inscription on one side: "Ye Olde Cheshire Cheese
—1667"; on the other side was the name of the maker, "B. A. Moore and Sons, Fleet Street, London." This buried treasure looked old enough to have dated from 1667, but was obviously a souvenir of much later origin. But it was exciting to find a cheese item as deeply imbedded as the Comstock lode in California soil
—so I bought it.

All of the other items in my collection were intended for practical home use, and since many of them
are extremely delicate and perishable,
they must have been tended carefully and cherished fully while in use.
This is one of my "rules": I like

pieces which not only could have been, but WERE used, not cabinet pieces. There is a "lived-with" look about objects which have been loved—just as there is a "lived-in" look about the only houses worth visiting.

The plated silver Edam holder, (No. 5) one of the great rarities of my collection, was made in the mid-19th century by an American silver-smith for a family in Morristown, New Jersey. With its graceful, outgoing curved handle, and its three adjustable prongs (still in excellent working order, thanks to the beautifully threaded screw which controls the prongs) it is the handsomest possible showcase for a rosy-cheeked Dutch cheese. The service of Edam in this piece as the final course for dinner could be as dramatic as the third act of an exciting play. Our Victorian grandfathers knew how to dine with a flourish, and I only hope our Victorian grandmothers had not left the gentlemen to their cheese and port when this server came on!

I have a number of beautiful silver cheese scoops which combine odd-shaped bowls with finely ornamented porcelain or pearl handles. I was so much impressed with the lovely contours of one of these, that when J. L. Kraft, a hobbyist whose interest was chiefly jade and other semi-precious stones, gave me a chunk of beautiful Wyoming green jade, I asked an artisan to make for me a cheese scoop with a handle of jade. A very rare European piece is a silver cheese "tryer" of great age: by twisting it into a cheese, a steward could determine whether that cheese matched his master's expectations.

Although it is apparently of late Victorian vintage, I have been able to learn almost nothing of the origins of the graceful curved mahogany cracker and cheese tray (No. 2), one of several I own. This tray has a dividing line at the base of the curved bowl of satin-smooth wood—one side for crackers, one side for cheese. I have seen a number of others which have no such dividing line.

The clear glass covered dish (No. 4) which stands on a high footing and, except for its gold banding, is unornamented, is American flint glass of undetermined age—it is wonderfully clear, and when tapped, gives off a sound as sweet as silver bells. Another fine glass dish is an Austrian piece (No. 3) probably from Vienna, circa 1870. Its frosty dish, and beautifully gold ornamented floral bell cover give it great distinction.

A conversation piece always in our dining room where it sits on a mahogany buffet against a background of soft gray-green, is the Wedgwood covered dish (No. 13) which was my first acquisition among cheese dishes

—the beginning of a hobby. It is a large bell—large for home use, that is—the cover standing some 12 inches high, and the plate about ten inches in diameter. The ornamentation, perfect in every detail, features Classic Greek themes. Since it was Josiah Wedgwood's custom to hire skilled sculptors to model the figures for such designs, the figures on this dish may have been the inspiration of one of a dozen gifted artists, perhaps John Flaxman, best known of them all. The background of this breathtakingly beautiful dish is the wonderful soft green—my favorite of the seven traditional Wedgwood colors. To me, it looks like the early green of the willow tree—and so it always brings a breath of spring into my dining room. It was found by a friend at Queen Ann's Corners, Massachusetts, in a most unusual emporium—part general store, part post-office, part antique shop—and was made in England, it is said, to the order of one of America's most lavish hosts.

The little cheese dish simulating a thatch-roofed cottage (No. 12), is Belleek—of modern vintage. I love it for its gay, Gaelic feeling. Who but the Irish would create so substantial-looking a house of a material frail as an egg-shell? Among our neighbors down in Tennessee, we knew a family which cherished a small, but not miniature, Belleek footstool, said to have been made especially for Stonewall Jackson. I expect my Belleek cottage to survive as long.

The amusing little straw hat dish (No. 6), is not made of notably fine china. It is English—and as jaunty as punting on the Thames. A swan-handled, ornate cheese bell (No. 10) of late Victorian vintage is a majolica piece, once a proud buffet ornament. Staffordshire (No. 11), Chelsea (No. 7), and Sèvres (No. 8) pieces are prize possessions, both for their beauty and for the unusual shapes in which they were cast.

Interesting and beautiful cheese dishes of every sort of china, although not so common as other types of covered dishes, I have found in antique shops from New York City to San Antonio. Most of the real treasures turned up while I was looking for some other article. But a covered cheese dish—or a cheese server of whatever material, age, or previous condition of servitude—seems to call out to me from any shop in a voice as clear as if it had spoken my name. I do not—and, of course, could not—buy all that I see and like. In making my selection, I always apply my last—and most iron-clad rule—or eccentricity: I buy only what calls out to me pre-emptorily, "Marye, you have to have ME!" An astonishing number of them say just that!

HOW TO APPLY Ceramic Floor Tile

Ceramic floor tile is not difficult to install. Your first step is to remove old floor coverings and see what the floor underneath is like. If you have a level concrete slab, tile goes right over it. A good flat double wood floor requires a layer of underlayment cement first, but if the floor is rough, uneven, or only a subfloor, then plan for the board underlayment shown below. Take a detailed floor plan to your dealer (see page 44) and order the tile, adhesive, notched spreader, underlayment cement, solvent, and if needed, underlayment board and special nails.

If possible, remove built-ins, the toilet bowl, and wash bowl if it is on a pedestal (shut off the water supply first). This will give you a neater "wall-to-wall" job and eliminate much tile cutting and fitting. For remounting the toilet, get longer bolts and a thicker gasket from a plumber's supply house.

1. Unless floor is level concrete or a double wood floor in good condition, cover it with hardboard underlayment or waterproof plywood. Space special nails six inches apart in both directions. Leave small expansion space between sheets, and all around sides of the room

2. Good wooden floors, concrete slabs, or your new underlayment board must be checked with a straightedge. Build up low spots with special underlayment cement—but do not fill expansion joints. Let cement set before proceeding

3. To make correct layout, cover floor with sheets of tile, aligning all sheets in their exact final positions. Number sheets on backs. Stack them out of the way and place the first sheets to be used at the top of the pile

4. Use special trowel to spread the adhesive on floor. Spread it thin; if you use too much it will work up through joints later on. Do a square yard at a time, and plan work so that you won't walk on freshly laid tile

5. If tile coves are to be used at walls, install them first. Butter adhesive on backs of coves. Avoid using too much adhesive. Press coves in place, aligning with straight-edge. If adhesive gets on wall, remove it now with special solvent

Ceramic Tile

(Begins on page 78)

6. Press tiles firmly into adhesive, aligning carefully. Leave space between sheets equal to space between tiles. To cut tiles to fit room edges or around fixtures, use pliers as shown in detail on page 45

7. Spread more adhesive, and continue laying tile. About an hour after floor is covered, dampen backing paper well and peel it off tiles. If you must walk on tiles, lay a board down first to distribute your weight. Check floor with a straightedge. Realign any tiles that are uneven or high

8. After tile has set a day, mix grout as described on page 44. Work grout between tiles with sponge or window squeegee. When all joints have been filled, remove excess grout with damp cloth. Polish tile surface with dry cloth. Cover with building paper or wet papers for three-day "cure"

Here's the young artist at work in his "studio." Jackie has encouraged her son's interest in art in every possible way—he may yet be another Architect Coble. She devised this old expansion hat rack as a "gallery" for his pictures. Small frames were made to fit between the pegs; Chuck changes the pictures at will

In the living room, at each end of the mantelpiece, Jackie has made two important "pieces" by placing miniature porcelain figurines inside old glass apothecary jars. A few colored glass marbles scattered in the bottom glint with reflected light and seem to form a base for the composition

MORE ON PAGE 34

Young Chuck Coble's room is definitely not in the "child's room" category; instead, it's a dignified bedroom in which he can grow to young manhood, changing personal mementos and belongings as tastes develop.

No "youth bed," his bed is mug-post antique which has belonged in the family for many years. The desk where he does his homework was made from an old spool cabinet. His high chair is still used, now as a desk chair.

At an early age, Chuck showed an interest in painting and began to dabble with his father's water colors and oils. Now set up with his own equipment, he has done a succession of bold, bright pieces. Jackie has encouraged him by framing and hanging them in his room.

Much of the charm of this house—like the charm of any good house—lies in the little things—the tasteful arrangement of accessories and bibelots which give character to rooms. Below and on the next pages, are examples of Jackie's talent.

Small bits and pieces that might otherwise be "lost" add up to a lot when put together with wit and imagination. In the Cobles' den, these miniature chairs are put to use as plate racks. The lower one holds a doll and fan which belonged to Ed's mother

Things you use every day can still be arranged with style. Elements in the group at right are prosaic—a basket, trays, vinegar cruet, glass jars of cereals—but Jackie Coble has put them together on a wire rack as an artist arranges a still-life

Each thing gains in importance when you combine several items in a pleasing arrangement. The obvious place for a few trivets is to hang them around a window. In her kitchen, Jackie Coble has placed them around an old spoon rack containing antique spoons to gain a "wall piece" that counts, decoratively. Why not see what interesting new wall treatment you, too, can arrange?

More space and comfort...

INVISIBLE Panel Heating
makes every inch of space usable . . .
—with comfort too!

It was a woman who first called it "invisible" heating . . . for flexible living.

With a woman's intuition she saw right to the heart of the matter. Here was the comfort of pleasant, natural, healthful heat plus absolutely no visible source of heat supply in the living area. No more spending a lifetime with the furniture always in one place! For radiant panel heating imparts that flexibility needed for modern living, the assurance of a fresh, redecorated look whenever desired. Simply by shifting the furnishings to new positions . . . because every inch of floor and wall space is unobstructed and usable.

No wonder radiant panel heat is increasingly popular. It satisfies a man's mechanical and technical requirements; it delights the homemaker's need for comfort with decorative flexibility.

The best medium of transmission for radiant panel heating is time tested steel pipe. For steel pipe has been proved in more than 60 years of conventional hot water and steam heating applications. It also has the qualities of economy, durability, weldability and formability required for a successful invisible heating system. In fact it is the most widely used pipe in the world!

She shot the ashes off the Kaiser's cigaret

HER name was Phoebe Moze and she was born in Darke County, Ohio, in 1860, and she could shoot the head off a running quail when she was twelve years old.

Once, at the invitation of Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany, she knocked the ashes off a cigaret he was holding in his mouth.

When she out-shot the great exhibition marksman, Frank Butler, he fell in love with her and married her and they were ideally happy together for the rest of their long lives.

She could handle a rifle or a six-gun with an artistry unsurpassed by that of any human being before her time or, probably, since. And when she appeared with Sitting Bull and other notables in Colonel Cody's Wild West Show, she thrilled your father and mother—not as Phoebe Anne Oakley Moze but as "Little Sure Shot," the immortal Annie Oakley.

Annie Oakley, the poor back-country orphan girl who made her way to world-wide fame, was the very spirit of personal independence. That spirit is just as much alive in our generation as it was in hers. It is among the great assets of our people—and our nation. And it is one very great reason why our country's Savings Bonds are perhaps the finest investment in the world today.

Make that investment work for you! Increase your personal independence and your family's security, by buying United States Savings Bonds regularly—starting now!

It's actually easy to save money—when you buy United States Series E Savings Bonds through the automatic Pay-roll Savings Plan where you work! You just sign an application at your pay office; after that your saving is done for you. And the Bonds you receive will pay you interest at the rate of 3% per year, compounded semiannually, for as long as 19 years and 8 months if you wish! Sign up today! Or, if you're self-employed, join the Bond-A-Month Plan at your bank.

Don't Have to Go All-Out

(Begins on page 49)

Inside, kitchen remodeling came first—and to make a good room to live in, a wall was knocked down, and a new brick one built to extend the space. It is furnished for "visiting" as well as for eating and cooking, and was treated to charming pictures and a collection of lusterware. On staircase below, original banisters were spindly—but a single antique banister was used as a pattern for a handsome new set

When they bought this house, the Carters sold their old furniture, started collecting antiques—battered bargains—Mickie restored. It took ten years, work, and taste—not much money. For example, a syllabub mixer (above) is now a magazine rack. In the master bedroom, a cobbler's bench, bought for $1, became a gracious coffee table for a settee which was made from an old trundle bed. An antique four-poster was dressed to match modern café curtains extra storage space plus beauty!

The woods of the Western Pines* turn this hallway into useful storage space. Roomy closet and cabinets—even a built-in desk—reflect the beauty of these handsomely grained woods!

You'll be surprised how economical it is to build and remodel with the Western Pines—whether you do it yourself or have it done. See these carefully selected, easy-to-work woods at your local lumber dealer—ask him for an estimate!

All the luxury home garden vegetables
Latest foods, chemicals and garden gadgets

Vaughan's Gardening Illustrated, published since 1876, is as up-to-date as the daily paper, but still as complete, authoritative, and instructive as in grandfather's time.

Nowhere else can you find so large a selection of the finest flowers and vegetables you can grow, with the foods, implements and pesticides you need to grow them.

It lists the newest varieties of flowers and vegetables; also older favorites difficult to obtain elsewhere. Cultural instructions are given for everything listed.

Wherever you live, it will be an invaluable aid to success in home gardening. You could not buy so beautiful and complete a book on gardening, but a post card request will bring it to you FREE.

Plant boxes have become an accepted adjunct to modern living, but they are not yet being used as much as they might well be. In new houses, one often finds them built in as room dividers, or to break up long wall spaces; but architects seldom put them under picture windows, which would seem a logical place for them. In remodeled old houses, they may be either built-in or of a movable type.

Wherever located, and of whatever type, provision for drainage is of prime importance. Holes in the bottom of the copper or other liner (as in flower pots) are preferable, if practicable. A two-inch layer of coarse gravel and pot fragments with some charcoal mixed in, covered with a half-inch of sphagnum moss and then six inches of peat moss or humus is a good foundation for six inches of a good porous potting soil.

Whether a box is of wood, stone, brick, or metal, it must be properly planted in order to fulfill its purpose as an appropriate and harmonious feature of the house. The choice of plants used is, of course, determined largely by personal preference, but, in general, foliage plants from the tropics are best. They relish the warmth furnished by a central heating system, are tolerant of subdued and indirect light, and need little attention beyond proper watering—which means especially not giving too much. While monotony should be avoided, a motley assortment of wholly unrelated materials seldom looks as well as a combination of just a few species. Thus, one plant each of Ficus (rubber-plant), Aglaonema (Chinese evergreen), Dracaena,

KATHERINE B. WALKER

Plant Box Pointers

Philodendron, Dieffenbachia, Schefflera (Australian umbrella-tree), Fittonia, and fern might well prove an unattractive combination, whereas specimens of two or three kinds of fern and several species of Philodendron would give an impression of unity as well as interesting variation in foliage form and color. So select plants for their combining possibilities rather than individual beauty or striking appearance. Avoid regular spacing in rows in favor of "naturalistic" grouping of the plants as they might be found in the wild. Put tall ones at the rear (or down the center of a box to be seen from two sides) and grade the smaller ones down toward the front.

The plants in this box, assembled from various parts of the house and its grounds, include a grasslike Acorus for edging; Amomum cardamon, a form of ginger; a large croton; a low, but large-leaved, Acalypha, and several begonias

This attractive indoor garden fills a former problem corner between fireplace and stairway in Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ward's Ithaca (N. Y.) home. A triangular galvanized iron box was made to fit the space at a cost of $8. After being washed with vinegar to condition the surface, it was painted and filled with two inches of gravel and then two inches of sand under several inches of good loam. To prevent excess drainage water from standing up around the plant roots, its depth is frequently tested with a slender stick inserted into a glass tube in one corner, and watering is gauged accordingly. Every two or three weeks the plants (unless they tend to grow too fast) are fed three tablespoons of a 15-30-15 soluble fertilizer in two gallons of water.

The garden gets light from a nearby doorway which leads into a well-lighted front hall with a glass brick front wall, and also from a large front window about 14 feet away from the box across the room. In addition, a small light in the background adds to the effectiveness of garden and the room as a whole at night. If desired, flowering or other special plants can be set, pots and all, in the soil.

Beans Can Be Beautiful

PAUL HADLEY

If you are inclined to doubt that statement, look at these pictures. Each one shows a member of the huge Pea, Pulse, or Bean Family of plants. Huge? It includes more than 7,000 species of such widely differing types as annual and perennial herbs, herbaceous and woody vines, shrubs, and trees. Some are edible or yield edible products; many are ornamental; some are valuable as forage (hay or pasture) crops or soil-improving cover crops; still others are the source of medicinal or wood products. Obviously, beans can, and do, play a big part not only in your gardening, but also in your—and everyone's—welfare and economy.

With all their differences, these thousands of "beans" are alike in two respects. First, the fruit of all of them is a true pod with two lengthwise seams along which it may or may not split when ripe; because such a pod is a "legume," the botanical name of the family is "Leguminosae." Second, they all possess to some degree the unique ability to take nitrogen from the air and "fix" or store it in nodules on their roots where the bacteria that do this work live. That is why a leguminous crop differs from any other in that it adds to, instead of depletes, the soil's supply of nitrogen.

The blue-flowered false-indigo. Above, graceful wisteria trusses

Members of the family fall into sub-families according to their flower or other characters. The largest, best-known group has the familiar butterfly-like

WHEN FLOWERS ARE FEW

There's no need, even though flowers are scarce, to miss out on the cheer and the beauty an interesting arrangement can provide: A few home accessories, plus your own ingenuity, add up to decorations that will see you through until blossoming time.

A brass candelabra is really the center of interest in the arrangement below. Gather, or buy at a florist's, bean pods of the dwarf poinciana tree, chartreuse-shaded brown in color. Put these in a needle-point holder, along with brown calyx-roses of the coconut palm, and place them inside a bronze ash tray. Green galax leaves add interest, conceal the container. For balance, add brown twist candles.

—MRS. LOUIS H. AMER

Build this one around a milk-glass plate: foliage curve is dark-green Scotch broom, Pedilanthus tips, rosettes of variegated Peperomia. Weave with ivy. Wire plate-holder on green glass tray holds milk-glass plate; small glass dishes with needle-point holders support leaves

Grow Indoors on Small Plants WORLD'S Largest LEMONS

Lemons Weigh 1 to 3 lbs. Also Dwarf Oranges
Here, at last are two of the most unique and useful indoor plants ever offered. Both plants have large, beautiful, waxy-white, fragrant blossoms. Then, imagine the thrill of picking and using mammoth high quality Lemons, often weighing 1 to 3 lbs. One lemon enough for several pies. Dwarf Oranges are delicious. More fully described in our catalog of over

1955 NEWS FOR GARDENERS

E. L. D. SEYMOUR

We hailed the three 1955 All-America Rose Selections—Queen Elizabeth II, Jiminy Cricket, and Tiffany—in the October AMERICAN HOME (page 49). We can now greet the six All-America Selections in flowers and vegetables, seed of which is offered in many of the new catalogues. They, too, have resulted from years of effort, and been proved in some 20 test grounds.

They include two silver-medal winners—the early hybrid sweet corn, Golden Beauty, developed at the Massachusetts Exp. Station and recommended for the northern states and Canada; and Seminole green, bush, snap bean, originated in Florida at the Everglades Exp. Station but adapted to countrywide conditions. The third (bronze medal) vegetable is Pennsylvania State College's Pennsweet muskmelon, early ripening, of high quality, with thick, salmon-colored flesh (for northern gardens).

The three flowers (all bronze medalists) are: Celosia (cockscomb) Torador, with dense, plush-like heads of dazzling red; Petunia Prima Donna, a compact-growing hybrid with large, fringed, clear rose-pink blossoms, and McKana's Giant columbine, a free-flowering, long-spurred strain of this popular perennial in many colors and combinations.

The All-America's naturally get the spotlight, but there are other interesting things, so study carefully the current advertisements and catalogues. For example: Darold Decker's new morning-glory, well named for its unique (for this flower) color, Candy Pink . . . The John A. Salzer Co.'s bulbs of Belgium-grown hybrid gloxinias, already started into growth when shipped; and, in the supply line, a soil fumigant in handy capsule form, a rust-preventing lubricant in a spray can to be sprayed on garden tools, and a sabadilla dust for squash bug control . . . George J. Ball, Inc., which last year "went retail" for the first time in its long history, lists Purple Ball, a bright purple aster of the Rose Ball type, and Double Blue Moon petunia, dwarf, free flowering . . . From W. Atlee Burpee come early hybrid tomato and cantaloupe varieties, a Crown Jewel collection of petunias, Happiness snapdragon, and others . . . And Jackson & Perkins Co. offers new clear white and purple violas, a pink delphinium, a striking rose-colored Sedum, and six more hardy chrysanthemums in the "Bird" series.

Insert first louver in position and attach to side channels through holes provided. Hole in center of louver should face up. Bolt top channel to louver through center hole, then bolt remaining louvers in place. Louvers alternate to form a pattern of "W M W M W" . . . and overlap to keep out water

To provide proper drainage, plumb and shim supporting posts so that outer edge of roof is at least one inch lower than inner edge. Bolt pipe flanges to the surface of slab, or fill holes around pipes with concrete to make solid poured footings

Two Good Ways

all kept low so as to frame or set off the windows without blocking them. The whole effect is to carry the eye smoothly to the hospitable front door—as any good front-yard and foundation planting should do. Similarly, both planning and planting contribute to the over-all charm and fitness for its site and purpose that mark this garden as a whole.

Consider the admirably designed and executed terrace for family relaxation shown at the bottom of this page. Generous in what it affords, it is modest in its maintenance requirements. Well-grouped shrub plantings tie it into its surroundings; vines at strategic points add interest and soften the house lines; boundary trees and shrubs give privacy and background contrast. Beyond the terrace, an antique iron gate (illustrated at your left) is set in a picket fence draped with roses. It leads you into a concrete-paved play yard which serves several purposes effectively, for it keeps children happily employed, makes it possible to watch them unobtrusively, helps to make it easier to maintain order and neatness in the rest of the garden. Along the fence, narrow borders of flowers for cutting add a touch of color without infringing on the youngsters' rights, privileges, and play space. Pleasing window effects (see page 41) are achieved by setting pot plants in holes cut in bracket-supported boards to give the effect of window boxes without the disadvantages of heavy, solid board, earth-filled containers; and also by training vines under and up beside the windows on wire guides arranged in graceful and appropriate patterns.

The sand box in the children's play yard could be a wading pool

The rear of the house before any planting was done. Note relative positions of the concrete floor of the terrace and that of the play yard close by, but off to the right

Could you ask for a better "before and after" contrast than is shown in these pictures? The spacious, usefully enjoyable terrace—with separate areas for eating and relaxation—is gracefully defined and set off from the lawn by the "flower garden," which is a mixed border of woody and herbaceous plants carefully chosen and combined to give maximum results with minimum attention

- ☐ 1581—25¢ Norwegian Rosemaling designs to fit a squat fat bellows. The design could be used on boxes, trays.
- ☐ 1582—35¢ Beautiful large Norwegian Rosemaling design to use on a good-sized tray. The motifs would look handsome as a special wall mural,
on kitchen cupboards.
- ☐ 1583—25¢ Here are some wonderful little painting designs of Spaniels, a Hen
on her nest, trivets, cooking utensils,
a violin bottle, ivy sprays, and strawberries.
- ☐ 1584—25¢ Painting designs just perfect for Dad's pipe rack. Nicotiana, old-fashioned tobacco jars make this definitely his very own. They would be good for a humidifier too.
- ☐ 1505—40¢ Everyone loves Lietta designs
and these Pixie-like boy and girl figures with their flower motifs are some of her best. Perfect for a chest of drawers, or a small chair.
- ☐ 1528—40¢ Seven floral sprays to paint on a chest of drawers around a window, on a wall, a headboard. Nice old cabbage roses, garden flowers.
- ☐ 1533—45¢ Eight handsome motifs, some scenic, some floral for an old-fashioned dower chest or a chest of drawers, Swiss peasant art.
- ☐ 1541—30¢ Now is the time to make good use of the wonderful new paint set you received for Christmas. Painting
a tray such as this will be a happy inspiration. Old stencil design.

Shrinks Hemorrhoids New Way Without Surgery

Science Finds Healing Substance That
Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In case after case, pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form under the name of Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores—money back

Save It with Tape

Do your shower curtain hooks slip off the rod too often?
Close the opening with strips of narrow cellophane tape—it's waterproof, steamproof, may be removed for curtain laundering

To make one good strong coat
hanger out of two light wire ones, bind them together with strips of cellophane tape

If you use tin cans for storing excess fat, retain and use the cover, too. Tabs of plastic tape
keep it tightly in place

A winding of plastic tape will restore many household appliances
that are loose or have come apart

Save It with Tape

If eggs crack accidentally, prevent deterioration and leakage by sealing cracks with cellophane tape. They will last as long as unbroken ones

To mend rips in oilcloth or plastic table cloths, apply adhesive tape to undersurface, then use cellophane tape on top

To prevent freshly laundered curtains from snagging when you insert metal curtain rods, cover rod ends with cellophane tape

For easy removal of water-set decals, press cellophane tape over pattern, and lift slowly. The pattern will stick to tape

I Wear a Hearing Aid Without Cord on My Neck

"I wear my hearing aid where Nature intended my hearing to be . . . on my head!" Now MAICO has designed and perfected a scientific marvel—a tiny, yet powerful and sensitive instrument that can be easily concealed in your hair. It eliminates the old fashioned cord that for generations has been the mark of deafness. Write for free booklet on this remarkable new way of hearing to MAICO, Rm. 35E, 21 North Third St., Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Handsome walls look their best when telephone wires are kept behind the scenes. Surest way to conceal wires is to have inexpensive pipe or conduit built into walls during construction.

new conveniences in TELEPHONE SERVICE bring beauty, utility to your home

An extension in your kitchen, for example, is a great convenience and saves steps—saves many a burned pan, too. A wall telephone takes no counter space and comes in ivory as well as black.

Special telephones fill special needs. There's a volume control telephone for people with impaired hearing. And one with a button that cuts off extensions for privacy.

A new telephone set gives telephoning a "new dimension." From several feet, you can speak into the microphone in the telephone's base...hear perfectly through a small speaker. Not necessary to touch or lift the handset even when dialing...telephone can be used in the conventional manner when preferred.

To find out about the various telephone services available—and how little they cost—call the nearest business office of your Bell telephone company. You'll also find these services described in an interesting booklet on home telephone conveniences. Send the coupon for your free copy.

YOU GET HIGH STYLE AT LOW COST IN A

Concrete House

No matter what your taste—modern or traditional, Cape Cod or ranch—the house of your dreams can be attractive in any style or any size at no premium in price—if it's built with concrete masonry.

That's because concrete masonry offers you a selection of many patterns and varied textures for your walls. And you can finish them inside and out in the colors you choose with portland cement paint.

You'll like the result: lasting beauty and freshness.

You can own a charming concrete masonry house for a modest investment.

Its original cost often is even lower than the cost of houses built with less sturdy construction materials. Upkeep is no problem, and your house will have extra long life because of concrete's great sturdiness and durability. Moderate first cost + low maintenance expense ÷ long years of service = low-annual-cost shelter.

A concrete masonry house is safe shelter, too. You get maximum protection from such destructive forces as fire, storms, decay and vermin. And with a concrete first floor and a basement you'll have extra living, working and storage space—and the best refuge from atomic blast.

HOW TO GET A CONCRETE HOUSE . . . and what will it cost?

Phone a local concrete masonry manufacturer for the names of architects, builders and lending agencies with concrete house experience. Take your ideas or plans to the architect of your choice.

He knows local conditions and costs. He'll show you how to build your house economically with concrete masonry walls, concrete floors and a firesafe roof. And send today for a free illustrated color booklet, distributed only in the U.S. and Canada.
