NOW...the luxury of sheet plastic flooring for basementless houses, too

There's exciting news in this elegant modern home. For the first time, a basementless house has the luxury of an almost seamless floor, wall to wall. The lovely plastic floor of Armstrong Terrazzo Corlon goes down right over concrete. This is made possible by an exclusive new Armstrong development, the Hydrocord Back. Hydrocord is not affected by the moisture normally found in a concrete-slab foundation at ground level. It is available with two distinctive Corlon designs-Terrazzo, shown here, and Decoresq®-in a range of handsome colors that will complement any decorative scheme. Hydrocord is good news indeed, for it lets you enjoy the practical luxury of Armstrong plastic Corlon-even in a basementless house.

. . . the new comfort for up-to-date homes

Family get-togethers at the McDonalds' are more enjoyable than ever before. There's still the usual festive spirit, but a distinct lack of nervejarring racket. The reason—the McDonalds' kitchen-living room is sporting a stylish sound-conditioning ceiling of Armstrong Cushiontone. This ceiling effectively subdues a roomful of voices, children's included, and takes considerable strain off the busy day that goes with any entertaining.

How to have less noise with a houseful of people

New decorative ceiling that quiets noise makes entertaining and everyday living more relaxing ryday living is more placid, too. Cushiontone in kitchen helps reduce the clatter of cooking utenputs an unrestricting muffler on young high-hed voices. The McDonalds, who put up their ceiling, are especially fond of the distinctive the new design in Armstrong Full Random* hiontone gives their home.

You can apply Cushiontone to any ceiling, and do a professional job, by stapling, nailing, or cementing. The handy $12'' \times 12''$ or $12'' \times 24''$ tiles go up fast. They're easy to clean and will never crack or peel. All of the noise-quieting material needed to sound condition a 10×12 area costs less than \$25.

Send for free booklet, "Quiet Your Home." It has complete step-bystep instructions and pictures. Write to Armstrong Cork Company, 5701 Clark Street, Lancaster, Pa.

You can buy Cushiontone from your Building Materials Dealer and install it yourself. For a professional installation, see your Armstrong Acoustical Contractor. Both are listed in the Yellow Pages of your phone book.

A TRUE CAT-TALE

AS TOLD BY TAFFY,

whose escapade in a washing machine (See Aug. '56, p. 12) brought solicitous letters from our readers.

AWDEN ME! But I do think I'm one of the few Celebrity Cats in the country. This is how it happened: One rainy day the picture tube in the television set burned out. My two young owners, being very creative, soon had a novel plan. They chopped up some raw beef kidney, put my feeding dish in the automatic washing machine (the kind with a round glass door in front), and christened me "Orange Fang, King of the Jungle." I found myself inside the dark blue cylinder with a tempting meal before me. Leaving the door open a crack so I wouldn't get clawstrophobia, they seated themselves on the floor to watch me devour the "day's kill."

For the next few days it was routine for me to be the star attraction on really-live TV. Then, as will happen with young animal owners, one day they forgot to feed me. I sauntered over to my new restaurant and jumped in. This time it was full of nice woolly things and after kneading contentedly for some minutes, I settled down for a cat nap. I was rudely awakened when I began going 'round and 'round. Before I could say "Meow!", hot water rushed in on me. As though this were not enough to insult my catacter, a shower of white granules bubbled into spots before my eyes, and I screeched loudly for help.

Suddenly the door of my frothy whirling cage opened, hot liquid ran out onto the floor, and the "animal trainers" mother screeched too. She disentangled my legs, claws, and paws from the wet materials and when I found I could still walk, I ran upstairs and hid under the bed for two days.

One good thing came out of this accident, I'm glad to report. Everybody cat-ers to me, feeding me shrimp, hamburger, raw beef kidney, and heavy cream—all of it at the dinner table. (My table manners are excellent and I wear a napkin tied 'round my neck.) I was on the front page of lots of newspapers in an AP (Associated Pussycats, I think it means) article, and became known as Television Cat, for I appeared live on a real TV program.

In spite of all I've gone through I'm not sorry, for ever since, I've led a purrfect life.

A 3-WAY CONVERTIBLE

is the answer to many table problems

You need a dining table but you don't have a place to keep one? That's a problem, to be sure, but now there's a good answer to it. Here's a dining table you can keep in the middle of your living room. It serves as a commodious, attractive coffee table, then a simple mechanical device allows you to raise it to dining height at a touch. As a coffee table (1) it's 5' long, 17½" high and 20" wide—perfectly scaled for you to use with a low, modern sofa.

Raised and with leaves down (2), table is $27\frac{1}{2}$ " high. Now it's just right to team up with a sofa for the currently popular divided-room arrangement. And it also makes a handsomely-profiled wallpiece. The table rolls on large brass casters. When the top is fully opened (3) it's 40" by 60", room enough for six people to dine in comfort. Who'd ever dream it was a low coffee table just a few moments ago?

lowers and gardens are for perceptive minds —and minds that can't stand monotony in any form. So in the world of garden flowers, there's always room for something new. And how well the hybridists know it!

This year, as every year, they've got a multitude of new things all ready for the start of the gardening season—which means soon after New Year's, when the first catalogs begin to arrive. And they've no reason to doubt that gardeners will be waiting, but eagerly.

If you're a non-gardener, you may wonder what all the eagerness is about. But try gardening for awhile, and you'll know it's a dynamic pursuit, that none of its phases remains static very long. And then you, too, will demand new flowers—more beautiful, more striking, lighter, darker, larger, smaller, earlier, later, more adaptable to your needs, or easier to grow—anything so long as they're different, and new.

New Annuals

Right now, the spotlight of excitement tends to focus on the new annuals. That's because you can buy seed early in the year, and because annuals develop fastest and are easiest to grow.

You can start the seed indoors for early bloom. Or, as soon as it's warm enough, start seeds right in the garden where they're to flower. You'll have a continuous display of color from mid-summer until frost. You can use annuals in almost any kind of garden, and for a dollar or so you can raise many more than you're likely to need.

Most strikingly different of the new annuals, perhaps, is the Gloriosa Daisy (a new strain of Rudbeckia hirta). It has flowers 4" to 6" across, and its colors range from brilliant yellow through shades of gold, orange and bronze, to deep, rich mahogany, including numerous bi-color combinations. From a flower arranger's standpoint, the solid mahogany blooms are especially fascinating. The plants are vigorous and grow 2' to 3' tall.

PETUNIAS are probably the most popular annuals. This year, two new varieties have won All-America awards for high quality, distinctiveness, and suitability for gardens in all parts of the country.

They are Red Satin, a brilliant scarlet that surpasses all other red petunias; and Glitters, a snappy red-and-white bi-color,

All-Double White and All-Double Salmon are exquisitely fringed, ruffled petunias. Blue Lace is single-flowered, light blue with dark violet-blue veining, while New Horizon, also single, includes a wide variety of different colors.

Two 1957 additions to the popular, compact, free-flowering "Indian" series of petunias are Aztec, scarlet; and Inca, deep rose. Both have gold throats.

New ZINNIAS for 1957 are Cherry Sundae. Ortho-Polka, and Treasure Island. Cherry Sundae includes blooms of two separate colors, cherry red and creamy vanilla. Ortho-Polka has striped and mottled blooms-like the older Peppermint Stick, but about twice as large. Treasure Island is a large cactus-flowered type that includes shades of yellow, orange, and red.

As for African Marigolds-the large flowered kind growing 2' or so high-several new varieties are coming out in 1957. Crackerjack has big globular blooms of yellow, gold, and orange. Orange Clown has collarette blooms (small petals encircled by a collar of large ones) of deep orange. New Horizons includes many different colors in all flower forms from loose-petaled to tight, sponge-like globes. Primrose Beauty has carnation type blooms of primrose yellow, and Mammoth Mum Primrose has chrysanthemum type blooms of the same color. Nearest-to-White is cream-white, carnation flowered.

In dwarf French Marigolds-which grow about 8" high, have multitudes of small flowers-new varieties for 1957 include Golden Pigmy, gold and mahogany; Fireglow, mahogany-scarlet; and Helen Chapman, gold and red.

ASTERS, among the most useful and long-lasting annuals for cutting, include many new ones for 1957. Blue Beauty is wisteriablue with incurved petals; Empress, mixed colors with quilled petals; Aloha, giant blooms, mixed colors; Debutantes, extraearly, mixed; Mission Giants, cushion-type, mixed.

four boys," writes Mrs. Will and that means lots of clothes lean and white.

"When I heard that blue Cheer washes clothes whiter I decided to try it on a really dirty shirt.

"After all, if things are really white then I know my whole wash is clean. So, into my automatic went Cheer.

"Well, after ironing, my son Laird put on his nice clean shirt. Then I made that window test of yours and . . .

Mrs. Will Hayes of Santa Barbara, Calif. making the Cheer window test.

'Now I'm convinced! Cheer washes so white I could see the difference!"

Cheer's Blue-Magic whitener makes the difference . . . and only blue Cheer has it!

from all over the country women like Mrs. Hayes are vriting us to say that blue Cheer does wash whiter.

One wash with Cheer and you'll see the difference, too. difference so great that your things look (and actually re) whiter than the day you bought them.

Here's why a Cheer wash is so different. Only Cheer has he Blue-Magic whitener—a special ingredient that gets lothes truly white.

Try blue Cheer and make your own window test. You've ever seen any white like Cheer-white.

Recommended for Automatics

Of course! Agitator automatics are designed to work best with active suds like Cheer's. That's why leading makers of automatic washers specifically recommend blue Cheer.

If you judge your wash by whiteness-it's got to be Cheer!

Dwarf annual PHLOX are extremely useful garden plants, and this year one of them has won an All-America award for outstanding performance in all parts of the country. It's called Twinkle and has star-type blooms of many different colors. It originated in Holland.

Another new phlox for 1957 is Tetra Mixed, with regular phloxtype flowers ranging from white, through pinks, to deep crimson.

Small-flowered dwarf DAHLIAS are grown as annuals and offer an attractive addition to the late summer and fall garden. Fall Festival, new for this year, grows 21/2' high and ranges in color from yellow, through orange, to deep red and purple.

Annual Phlox Twinkle

Dahlia Fall Festival

SNAPDRAGONS for 1957 include several that'll make wonderful cut flowers. Carrousel is a 30"-high variety that includes a wide array of colors, while Pink Camellia, of about the same height, has double flowers of deep pink. The five separate colors of the new Tip Top snapdragons are white, appleblossom, yellow, orange-rose, and crimson. They are large-flowered and grow about 4'.

The new dwarf sweet peas called Little Sweetheart offer something entirely different for small gardens. The plants grow only about 8" high and have full-size sweet pea flowers. Several colors have already been introduced, and new ones for 1957 are Coquette, deep rose, and Snow White.

A new, different kind of MORNING GLORY for this year is Tinkerbell's Petticoat. Most of the blooms are full-double, something like carnations, and include many different colors.

Pansies are really biennials-you sow seed in summer for flowers the following spring-but they're used the same as annuals by most gardeners. A new one for 1957 is Masquerade, which blooms extra-early and has large, richly colored blooms.

New Roses

Just about everyone likes roses, so most gardeners are eager to learn about the new varieties for 1957.

In HYBRID TEA ROSES—the kind with large, beautifully shaped, characteristic rose blooms-there are several outstanding new ones for this year.

Midnight is a black-red, one of the darkest of all red roses, and has magnificent 4" blooms, long stemmed and fragrant, with luxurious foliage and borne on a husky, tall-growing bush.

Amazing 1957 All America Rose Makes Landscaping News of the Year!

GOLDEN SHOWERS

Spectacular new design and color effects now possible for you with "Golden Showers"

This remarkable rose, introduced by Germain's of California, is a NEW variety that lends itself to landscape treatment as no other rose has.

For the first time in 16 years the All America Rose Award has been won by a Pillar and Climbing Rose, named "Golden Showers". Since 1941, no other rose in this class has com-bined sufficient beauty, hardiness, and flowering qualities to win this highest

Many Rosarians agree "No other rose like this in Floricultural history, because it combines features never possessed in one rose,"

FIRST winter hardy, pillar and climbing rose that blooms from EARLY spring, continuously through LATE fall. • FIRST Pillar Rose combining long pointed buds with fragrant, 25-30 petalled, 4½-5 inch daffodil yellow flowers.

FIRST rose variety that can be grown 3 ways (1) an ever-blooming Climber, (2) an eye-level bush, (3) a Pillar. • FIRST rose variety with such long, almost thorn-less, bronze cutting stems. • FIRST hardy Pillar having such large, dark green, glossy foliage—highly resistant to mildew and blackspot.

Readers may obtain this remarkable rose by mailing the coupon below. You will also receive a free copy of America's finest Rose Book & Complete Garden Catalog.

FIRST New All America Rose that can be Grown 3 Different Ways

At left—(1) Trained as a climber, produces a vast profusion of blooms. (2) Pruned to grow as a 5 foot symmetrical bush, with profusion of blooms at eye level. (3) Trained to grow to self-supporting Pillar (or column) 10 feet high.

Stunning New Design & Color Effects Now Possible With "Golden Showers"

Plants of "Golden Showers" spaced six feet apart as background. The Queen Elizabeth Grandiflora rose bushes in front of these, spaced three feet apart. In front of these, spaced three feet are Hybrid Teas. Floribundas make up the border. Roses can be planted to obtain stunning color effects Greatest cutlery bargain we have ever offered! The very same stainless steel steak knives advertised in "House Beautiful" magazine for $2.00 each-now price slashed to just 33¢! This drastic price reduction is possible only because of our tremendous buying power plus the magic of the American dollar abroad!

These exquisite Monte Carlo knives are made of the finest Korium stainless steel by old world craftsmen right in Solingen, West Germany—the cutlery center of all Europe! Blades won't rust, tarnish, chip, or crack. They never need polishing. They are hollow ground like a barber's razor, with minutely serrated edges for finer, faster cutting. You'll be amazed how easily they slice through thick steaks, roasts, etc. Handles are finished in a beautiful design of autumn leaves in the rich colors of Gold, handsomely embossed on a background of gorgeous pastel Ivory Styrene. Truly breathtaking to see, to hold, to own! Perfect for any table setting—period or modern. All first-quality knives, no seconds or imper-fections in the lot! But only Thoresen's, in all America has them. This is one bargain you can't afford to pass up. But act fast—before our entire stock is gone! Rush Coupon below at once! Twelfth Night Tradition Saves Lives

The Christmas-tree bonfire, flaming finale to Yuletide's merry season, is being revived as a Last year, in Teaneck's Central Park, nearly 1,000 Christmas trees were piled high and burned under the direction of the town fire department. The boufire is sponsored by the Teaneck Recreation I Twelfth Night (Epiphany) tradition in Teaneck, New Jersey, and other safety-conscious towns. Department to induce residents to remove dried Christmas trees—a fire hazard—from their homes. And kids and adults enjoy the safety-blaze.

In Ridgefield, New Jersey, the Twelith Night festival has added attractions. Last year, fireworks preceded the tree-burning. And each child who brought three Christmas trees to the park received two tickets. One admitted him to a free movie. The other entered him in a drawing to why don't you consider organizing a group to get the tradition started? By Twelfth Night, the select three kids to help officials light the bonfire. If your town doesn't burn discarded trees, sixth of January, Christmas trees are a real hazard in the home. And the thrill of a bonfire will pacify kids who might otherwise want the tree up "one more day."

FOR DIMES

Where, these days, can you get a good cup of coffee, plus some mighty good advice, for a dime? At a March of Dimes Coffee. These parties, held in January, are becoming popular in many states. Iowa is a good example. The first Coffees given there were the outgrowth of a party given by Governor and Mrs. Leo A. Hoegh. They invited women from each of the state's counties to the Governor's Mansion for a Coffee for the March of Dimes of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc.

Then, when the women returned home, each of them invited to women—and sometimes a polio patient or a member of a polio family—to a Coffee in her home. Each tried to invite guests from different parts of the county so the plan would spread quickly. Then the hostess asked each guest to invite nine guests in her turn. These hostesses, in their turn, asked guests to invite eight guests to their Coffees, and so on, until the last two invited one each. So these parties are called Diminishing Coffees.

The purpose of the Coffees? It is threefold: to meet neighbors and friends and enjoy oneself, to encourage guests to discuss Salk vaccine with their doctors, and to receive whatever amount guests would like to contribute to the March of Dimes.

The first Coffee in Iowa led to more than 4,000 such parties. This January, even more successful reports are expected. Other states are having similar success in this venture, a truly worthwhile and gratifying one. And at the most recent annual Governors' Conference in Atlantic City, wives of the governors of California, Iowa, Maine and New Mexico sponsored an unscheduled Coffee for the remaining governors' wives. The womer heard about successful Coffees in various states and expressed enthusiasm for the plan. Some promised to help with this year's March of Dimes project.

And how about helping to start the idea in your town?

The man who wouldn't give up

500 MASSED ROCKETS shook Brooklyn Bridge, screamed up into the May evening and showered the city with red and gold.

While behind a darkened window, a big, gaunt man sat and watched, too crippled and painwracked to attend the opening day festivities for the bridge.

This was a pity, for he had built it.

Which means that when money gave out, Chief Engineer Roebling pleaded for more. When disturbing changes of plan had to be made, Roebling fought them through. And when a hundred panicked men were trapped under the East River in a flooded caisson, Roebling saved them.

Spinning the giant steel spiderweb not only exacted 13 years of Roebling's life, from 1870 to 1883, but very early in the game it crippled him forever with the caisson disease.

Yet he saw the job through to the end. His were the courage, skill and vision that make Americans a nation of great builders—a strong, growing nation. And a nation whose Savings Bonds rank with the world's finest investments.

For the constructive strength of 168 million Americans stands behind these Bonds. This is why, when you buy U.S. Savings Bonds, our Government can absolutely guarantee the safety of your principal—up to any amount—and the rate of interest you receive.

You cannot get a better guarantee than that. Why not invest in U.S. Savings Bonds regularly—where you bank or through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work? And hold the Savings Bonds you have.

Part of every American's savings belongs in U.S. Savings Bonds

The U.S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. It is donated by this publication in cooperation with the Advertising Council and the Magazine Publishers of America.

Know the NEWEST Kitchen Color?

If you don't, please don't turn the page yet! We'd like to tease you a little, whet your appetite. Will you indulge us? On the following pages we make so bold as to predict the coming color in kitchens. Not a NEW color, of course, but a color that's new to kitchen use. What color is it? Think of the shortest ray of color as it comes from the sun... think of a royal color associated with queenly robes and kingly halls... think of one of the earliest, sweetest little flowers of springtime... You've guessed it? Good for you! But you can't see how "THIS" color can possibly be appropriate in a kitchen? Well, you see, we've already established its versatility, right? It's a royal color, it's a sweet, nostalgic color. What better choice, then, for a room that's the heart of our personal kingdom; a room of which we expect such tireless efficiency yet want gay and cheerful and, of course, calm and serene at all times! Verily, the word for kitchen is versatile and, used handsomely and importantly or just prettily, versatile is the word for our predicted NEW kitchen color. For versatile proof, please turn the page—and thank you for waiting to verify your own decision.

"Dear Mother and Dad, Tom and I finally have a long weekend and are coming to see you . . . can't wait to see your new kitchen."

Spring

Mow beautiful, Mother! A quick change—and I want to see absolutely everything in it.

And this is my baking area, everything within reach.

How many other lovely colors go with violet.

will bring Violets

EDITH RAMSAY

—be it regal parma violet or softly spoken violet, shy as the violets hiding in the deep, cool woods we predict violet will be the upcoming kitchen color this spring!

Isn't this sensible, right beside the sink?

Beats outdoor barbecuing all hollow.

Air conditioner's out of way ver refrigerator, and worth its eight in gold year 'round.

• In creating this kitchen, we had in mind some very special people—a couple with retirement on their minds, a couple planning for retirement. Not because of feeble health or old age, but because they wanted more leisure. A home-loving couple intelligent enough to realize how much more physical comfort and visual beauty home could contribute to their living than it had, and young enough in heart to want it so.

When the General Electric Company asked us, along with other magazines, to design a kitchen for exhibit at Appliance Park in Louisville, Ky., this kitchen came into being. Here was our golden opportunity to do a kind of kitchen we'd long wanted to do, a chance to prove several pet theories—not the least of which is that color is one of the greatest of all tools to bring beauty into our daily life.

Here for instance. A couple who really preferred satiny white equipment, saw no need to spend needlessly on built-in equipment but nonetheless appreciated the need for new equipment, if the kitchen of their leisure years were to be the fun center they knew it could be. Look again at our good-looking, contemporary-living couple—doesn't their kitchen become them? Naturally it was not for them alone we projected our idea. That with crisp, sparkling white equipment all the freshness and the beauty of spring can be captured with the use of the color of violets, their attendant greens and the young blue sky above them. All these ARE springtime itself and only for the young in heart. And so we predict—spring will bring violets—to kitchens all over America—and may the color of spring bring a fresh concept of beauty to all of you who resist color in kitchen equipment, but need color to be happy.

Any wonder we'd rather come on home for late snacks, with all these fast-working appliances?

I don't see how I ever lived without one.

Yes, coffee-making is my department. Used to think I wouldn't be caught dead in a kitchen.

"Eastern Horizons" we call it—this second kitchen that proves the desirability as well as the versatility of the violet kitchen theme. The last word in American efficiency, yet it is excitingly exotic in its concept. One feels its serenity, a violet mood—yet like all things Oriental it is compounded of many things. On the walls,

The Old Covered Bridge

Notice the similarity in roof design between the modern bridge house at right and The Humpback Bridge near Covington, Virginia. Many of the construction ideas developed in our covered bridges are used today. The farther north the bridge, the steeper the roof to shed the snows.

Many bridges have interesting portals. School-house Bridge, Lyndon, Vt., has special pathway that protects pedestrians from wagon and cattle traffic.

Inspires Modern Design

This eight-room home in Ohio is a good example of modern American architecture, no doubt about it. But if you look carefully you'll see that one big part of it comes straight out of our early 19th-century landscape—the "covered bridge" that spans the tiny inlet of the lake.

How did such a feature ever show up in the plan for a modern house? Architect Robert A. Little, A.I.A., says that "somewhere in the design, the covered bridge sort of crept in and seemed to belong."

And it is important to note why the bridge "belonged." It belonged not because it lent a "quaint" or Colonial air to the house, but because the original design was basically so sound and sensible that it still could be used 150 years later to help plan a modern home.

Covered bridges were first built in this country about 1800; soon they appeared in almost every state of the union. Many of our early roads followed the banks of rivers and streams, and wherever the road had to cross a stream, there was a likely spot for a covered bridge.

The technique of building covered bridges became quite a science. It attracted many noted engineers and business men to the challenge of building a better bridge. While most of these covered bridges of the 19th century have disappeared from the roads of our country, there are still—surprisingly—quite a few left. What amounted to CONTINUED ON PAGE 93

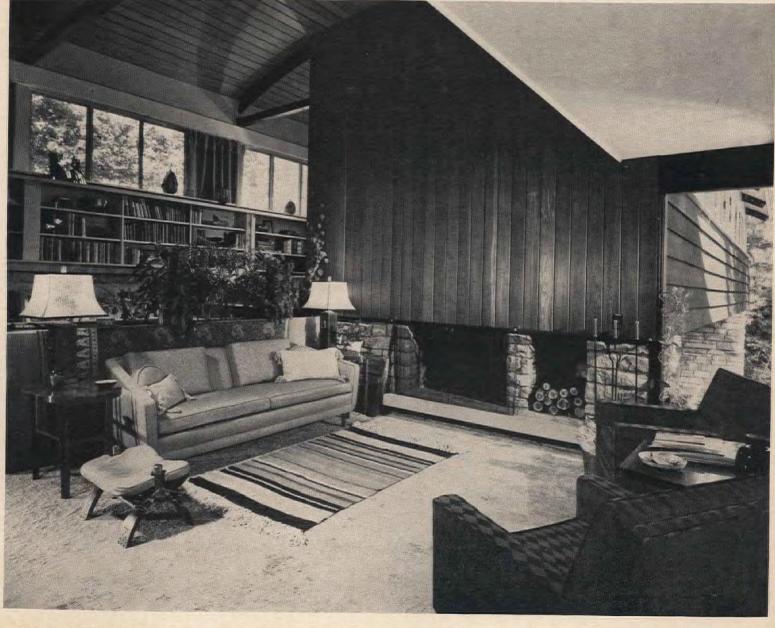

One of very first advertising billboards in America was the side of the Coca-Cola bridge at Portland, Pennsylvania.

The primary reason for a bridge being covered was to strengthen structure, and at same time to allow interior wood to season.

There's more than one way to make one room act like two. And it's done in the living room with ceilings. One high and vaulted of wood, the other low and flat of plaster. The high one lends a feeling of great unrestricted space; the low one, an aura of intimacy and warmth.

Thin bamboo bases hold figure of Japanese fisherman with arrangement of euphorbia and begonia foliage. Notice how little plant material is needed for a very effective arrangement.

Much too lovely just to sit on a shelf is this white alabaster prancing horse. Small cup pin holder on round black lacquer base supports feverfew and white-striped hosta foliage. Nylon bristles fanned out behind leaves complement alabaster sheen.

Handsome rooster looks very important in arrangement on rough burl. Use small pin holder or plastic foam in can or glass for flowers. Shown here: celosia, red euphorbia, galax, cattails. For dramatic effect, conceal a small candle—be sure there's no inflammable material above it.

If you collect Hummel figurines, you have the beginning of a very lovely arrangement. Place two figures on curved walnut bases. Position where they appear natural and compatible. Choose flowers or foliage that appear appropriate and sympathetic with the chosen figurines.

See "Where Credit Is Due," page 94

hat makes the paint blister and peel on the outside walls of a house? In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred you can't blame the paint, nor the way it was applied, nor even the siding. So chances are you won't cure blistering and peeling paint for long just by removing the old paint and repainting. The real villain is water—water that gets under the paint film and forces it away from the siding.

Sometimes—because of poor construction—water gets under the paint through cracks; in other cases trouble is caused because the woodwork soaks up water through direct contact with the damp earth or with surrounding masonry. But in the vast majority of cases, the water under the paint is caused by moisture coming from inside the house. Where does this water come from and how can you keep it from giving you trouble? Let's move in for a close look.

Most of the air around us (indoors as well as outdoors) contains moisture in the form of invisible water vapor. How much water vapor the air can carry depends on the temperature of the air: the warmer the air, the more water vapor it can carry.

Now, when this moisture-carrying air strikes a cold surface—like a window or a cold outside wall—the air gets cooled down; and since cooler air can't carry so much water vapor, the excess condenses into a liquid—water. Or, if the wall or window is cold enough, the excess water vapor forms frost. The dew on the grass and the frost on the pumpkin are the result of condensation. So is the moisture on the window glass or the drops of water on cold water pipes.

Besides condensing on cold surfaces, water vapor has another habit that can cause you trouble: water vapor always flows from moist air to dry. So if the air in your home has more water vapor than the air outside, the vapor will flow right through the house structure toward the outside. Does this mean that water vapor can flow through building materials such as wood, plaster, masonry and many types of interior paints? Yes, it can—and does! And because water vapor is a gas, it can also flow through many kinds of wall and roof insulation unless the insulation is protected by a vapor barrier.

What's all this mean to you and your home? Well, let's see.

Assume, for instance, that you live in a home with plastered inside walls, wall insulation, wood sheathing and painted wood siding. During the cold weather when the house is tightly closed, there's more water vapor in the air inside the house than in the air outside. So the water vapor starts to flow through your house walls to reach the drier outside air. It passes right through the plaster and the insulation; and when it strikes the cold sheathing and siding, the excess water vapor condenses into a liquid—water. This water saturates the sheathing and siding. Does it evaporate to the drier outside air? At first it can't, for the paint film on the siding seals the water in. But what happens eventually is that this water that's trapped under the paint film forces the paint away from the siding. That's what causes the blistering and peeling. Obviously, then, the way to keep exterior paint from blistering and peeling is to prevent the wood under it from getting damp. But how?

To do it, we have three approaches: 1) reducing the water-vapor content of the air in the house, 2) installing vapor barriers to keep the water vapor from flowing through the walls, and 3) letting water vapor flow out of the house through vents so that it doesn't have to pass through the house structure to get outside. Sometimes one of these remedies will do the trick; in severe cases, you may need to use all three.

1.—REDUCING WATER VAPOR IN HOUSE AIR:

Water vapor gets into the house air in many ways: take a shower and you add 1/3 of a pound of water to the air; cook for a day on an unvented gas range and you add over 3 pounds of water to the air. Washing clothes, hanging laundry to dry indoors, mopping the floor, ironing—even the gold fish bowl or the potted plants—add water to the air. Damp basements, of course, add water to the house air, and steps should be taken to make the basement as dry as possible.

Gas-burning equipment can add considerable moisture to the house air unless the equipment is

CREATE YOUR OWN BUSINESS CENTER

Our construction pattern will show you how to build three versions of a desk to fit your space requirement—one that will become a hub for home activities and a convenient place for Dad's paper work

WILLIAM C. EYMANN

Slide-out shelf for typewriter lets you sit at right angles to desk. You can spread out papers on desk top, and "go right to town."

Small, deep file drawer for reference cards is right near the telephone. You will find reference cards mean easier accurate records than a book.

Smooth-sliding typewriter storage drawer is convenient—just below slide-out shelf. Kept under cover, typewriter stays clean. Large central storage unit of this do-it-yourself desk holds bulky pieces like brief cases, blueprints, drawing pads and boards, and scrapbooks.

The business of running a home is fast becoming just that—a business. Like any business man, you, the homemaker, now find yoursel deeply involved in budget planning, business a well as personal correspondence, income tax records, insurance records, investment accounts accounts payable and receivable, detail work and records for your community association, church and charity drives—all of which involve a good deal of paper work.

Any "homework" is less of a chore if every thing you need for it is in one place, efficiently stored and immediately available. It makes good sense to set aside some corner of your home as a "business center." You'll find that it pays dividends—daily dividends in convenience, and cash dividends at income-tax time.

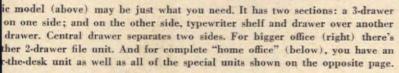

Here is a design for a "business center" that is sure to fill your requirements, no matter how modest or extensive they may be. It consists of five basic storage units. You can build any of these units with our Construction Pattern 2113—$1.00. You simply build the units you need for an efficient, attractive home office.

At the least, with only two units, you wil have a desk with four generous drawers, type writer storage, typing shelf, and a king-sized file Build all five units and you have the equivalen of a large executive desk, a three-drawer filing cabinet, typewriter and adding machine storage typing shelf, four extra-long card files, a deep storage bin, bookshelf and storage cabinet. And all this can be constructed in from 55" to 80' of wall space!

General Construction: Each floor unit consist basically of two solid side panels joined togeth er by simple, butt-jointed top and bottom frames. Drawer divider strips and drawer guide rails are glued and nailed directly to the side panels. Drawers are all of the same basic design and many have exactly the same measurements Only two dado widths and depths are used throughout. The base units are topped by a hol low-core door cut to the length needed for the number of base units used.

TRADITION stripped down so

MARTHA DARBYSHIRE

LAST MONTH we showed you the colorful garden and picturesque exterior of the Louis de Haven Shaws' Palos Verdes home. We felt we had found a flaw-less home of Early American tradition, adjusted to today's living. We trust our outdoor tour of the Shaw home gave you much pleasure. This month, we are happy to be able to give you a room-by-room tour of the house itself—a home that perpetuates the best in our American tradition but is not skittish about change and progress.

This one is. There is not a ruffle in the house, absolutely no clutter, no knick-knacks anywhere. The furnishings are traditional, but there's a difference. The difference between softness and fussiness, a home full of understandable homilies like comfort, warmth and character, but nowhere is there evidence of a grim resolve to stick to old customs for old custom's sake. Mr. Shaw disarms purists by his adroitness in achieving modern comfort with grace, his ability to edit down hackneyed memorabilia so that they glow with freshness, his gift for using color positively but not brashly. In his own home tradition gets a clean shave, looks years young.

Traditional, sunny side up—that's the best description of the Shaws' living room, a room that is the antithesis of the once fussy, dressy, chilling "best room" look. Strained light pours in from the glass walls at each side of the fireplace. Mrs. Shaw likes turquoise and wears it, so the living room is color—and primarily to her color taste. Wing chairs are upholstered in a combination of the turquoise linen used on sofa and the chintz curtain print in brown, black and turquoise. Wallpaper that matches curtain print coordinates entry hall and sitting areas. Turquoise used again in linen mats for Rousseau and old Dutch duck prints. Astringent ironstone accessories, white woodwork, and white flowers give a panther-leap to the quietness of two brown walls. Another point you'll notice in the living room and in every room: Mr. Shaw mixes woods and period pieces of furniture with engaging disregard, yet all get along like kissin' cousins. In the living room, he's combined with the mahogany Empire secretary, Victorian rosewood and 18th Century mahogany pieces as well as simple walnut sofa end tables. In the hall, he has put together old pine apothecary chest, bleached walnut barometer, rosewood chairs, and cherry dropleaf table with antiqued blue painted mirror above it.

that the truth shows

Louis De Haven Shaw A.I.D. INTERIOR DECORATOR

From the covered terrace we peer through the dining bay into a warm and pleasant family room.

On the small side, it's for knockabout daily use

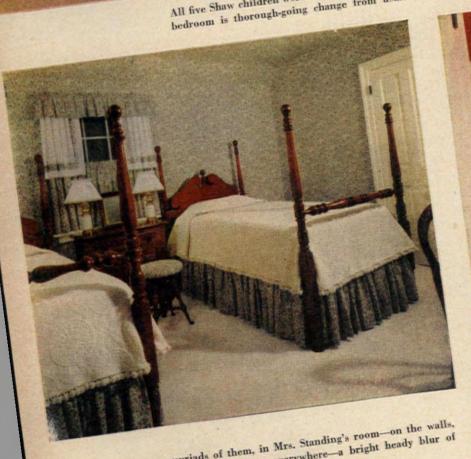

Here, Mr. Shaw somehow manages a pretty deliberate traditional feeling without giving the impression that the place is a period stage-set. Even the sturdy fireplace with its hand wrought heavy beam (it's made of cement, colored brown, to simulate wood) is far from having the smug appearance of being shown within quotation marks. Used brick of floor has been cleaned with muriatic acid and waxed. Citron, beige and red are background colors for pumpkin pine and old brass. Kitchen closes off with half doors that fold back at each side. And in this room, of course, the TV set.

At right, window at head of stairs is fitted with glass shelves, displays a collection of old colored-glass sugar shakers over lyre-pedestaled sewing table. Old cranberry glass shades on brass ceiling fixture.

Upstairs now, shall we turn left to view the master bedroom, or right to Mrs. Shaw's mother's bedroom (Mrs. Herbert Standing)? We'll do both, see how Mr. Shaw, in his own bedroom, manages a brand of new traditional which is all grace and ease, and good anywhere under the moon.

Flowers, myriads of them, in Mrs. Standing's room—on the walls, the ceiling, at the windows, everywhere—a bright heady blur of color against crisp white.

Color scheme of master suite you've probably never seen down any stroll in memory lane. It's pinker than red and redder than pink . . . glowing against white-as-a-daisy carpeting and panelled walls; it fairly erackles.

There must be many people who read cookbooks, not just use them—but I know only two, beside myself, who reach for a cookbook instead of a whodunit. One is John Scott Trotter, the other Marjory Hendricks. However, unlike John and myself, prone to allow our excitement lead to experimentation and the divine results lead to ruination of the form divine, Marjory Hendricks' love of cookbooks led to something far more profitable—the beautiful restaurant known as Normandy Farm and later, to a second almost as famous—Water Gate Inn in Washington, D.C.

Demi-Tasse

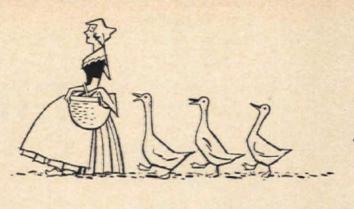

It was on a trip West that she took, as reading matter, some cookbooks and an idea began to perk. On her return, she would be faced with finding a source of income for herself and her son . . . why not open a fine country restaurant—the delightful sort one finds throughout France but so seldom in our country. Washington, D.C. could certainly support one, surrounded as it is by hunt country, Annapolis, famed historical shrines . . . small wonder then that Normandy Farm soon became an institution in Washingon social life and has retained the affection of its sophisticated clientele. Authentically French Provincial, it is furnished with antiques that the Hendricks sisters (her sister Genevieve is a well-known interior decorator) have collected in their many trips to France. Set down in the midst of gently rolling Maryland country, there is, indoors, something to arrest the eye wherever one's glance falls. Wings have been added, in all directions, to take care of the crowds who flock there for gourmet food in such delightful surroundings. Miss Hen-

The menu given here was personally chosen by Miss Hendricks and served to me while dining at Normandy Farm as her guest. All recipes were prepared and photographed in the kitchen of Normandy Farm under the eagle eye of Chef de Cuisine Antoine. And, coming soon, some more delicious but quite different recipes courtesy of Miss Hendricks. These, from Water Gate Inn, the second restaurant that her cookbook-hobby built. Water Gate is as colorfully and authentically Pennsylvania Dutch as Normandy Farm is French Provincial.

LEMON CREAM PIE made from a can of frozen lemonade and a package of prepared pudding is an exciting shortcut to delicious eating. And we tell you additional ways to use this thirst-quenching beverage in your menu. It is delicious as a sauce over ice cream or sherbet . . . and lemon mint jelly is a superb taste treat.

TANGERINE SHERBET is smooth and rich. It's good as a dessert, or with meat. Goes together like a charm, too. Flavor a butter frosting with tangerine juice; and try it for syrup for waffles.

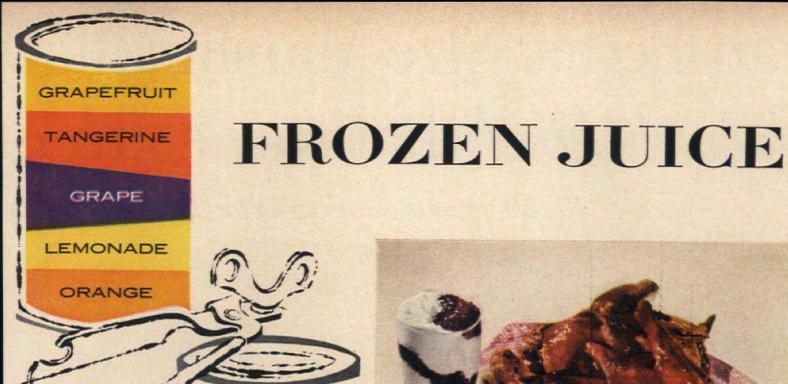

ORANGE STICKY BUNS are just right to make your Sunday breakfast like no other in the week!

Frozen orange juice also takes to ice cream and desserts like any seven-year-old does. Use it mushy as a sauce for ice cream, custard, mixed fruits or other desserts. Or marble it through ice cream or sherbet. You don't always have to stick to the flavor we suggest.

FROZEN JUICICLES are a freezer item you can always have on hand. With all the fruit flavors, the kids will love the variety. Start with grape-fruit juice, and also use it as the base for a fruit punch. Still another good use for grapefruit juice: the liquid in a molded salad. Instructions for making juicicles on page 76.

ou could tell me that most cans of frozen fruit juice sold in the United States were headed for drinking, and I would believe it. But it fascinates me to try prove to the world that it "ain't necessarily so" . . . or at least ouldn't be so. I'm almost certain the statistics favor the usual inking of the juice. I see enough proof. Traveling around the untry, as we editors do, you have only to observe many, many nericans ordering some kind of fruit juice in dining cars, cafeias and restaurants. And you can be sure most families are sitting wn to home breakfasts that include fruit juice. All well and od. But if you haven't also used these juices as recipe ingredients u're depriving yourselves of a great, convenient treat. Those as of fruit juice in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator be transformed, with our recipes and suggestions, into delecbly different dishes. And if you're caught short with a recipe t calls for fresh fruit, this is your answer.

RECIPES ON PAGES 75, 76

Next time you open a can of frozen fruit juice, don't just mix and drink in the usual fashion, good though it is that way. Instead, use it as the backbone of one of these exciting new recipes. Your family will be in for a rare treat; you'll get the compliments!

Made a Resolution for the New

We have. Our resolution is to serve our families one new dish every week . . . a dish they've never eaten before. Ju imagine! By the end of the year, we will have added 52 new recipes to our files. We'd love to have you join us our resolution, and drop us a line now and then about your culinary creations. Here are four different recipes the we have originated, with the pride of inventors, for your first four weeks of this new year.

It was fun, and each new recipe came about in a natural way. The GRILLED TURKEYCAKES, for instance are the rest of our great urge to find a satisfying change from the customary hash-and-more-hash after the holidays. PEANUT-BUTTI SOUP, croutoned with salted nuts, came from the Southern member of our staff. Our cabbage-loving gal stumbled on chestnut vender, so she bought a bag of nuts and, adding some currants, developed what we have named STUMBLE-C CABBAGE. One other recipe: our MIX-QUICK CAKE, made from a package of chocolate pudding!

The year's best excuse for a party is New Year's. And your best approach to party fare is a smorgasbord. This age-old symbol of hospitality can be simple or elaborate...with relishes and spreads right out of cans, or embellished as you please. Either way, you'll want to include some Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce. Did you know that cranberries are first cousins of the Scandinavian lingonberry? Likelingonberries, their tart-sweet, fruity flavor is a natural companion to many foods... fish, meats...eggs, cheese...hot breads...fruits, cakes, ice cream.

Bright Fruit Sauces

Dramatic accents for cold cuts and casseroles alike. Concoct your very own sauces, simply, by mixing Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce—either Jellied or Whole Berry—with one other fruit: applesauce or kumquats... crushed pineapple... chopped peaches or pears. Serve cold or hot...add candied ginger for zing... or mellow the blend with cream cheese or mayonnaise.

Sauce Scheherazade

Open sesame to a thousand and one exotic dishes. And so simple—just add nuts and diced Jellied Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce to your own turkey à la king recipe. Use in noodle nests, pie shells, or bake in a casserole with corn-bread topping or green noodles. Or spoon generously over fried rice, waffles, or tiny party pancakes. Ummm!

Cranberry Velvet

Warm and wine-topped, this steamed pudding impresses guests without pressuring you. You can make both pudding and sauce ahead of time and reheat at the last minute. To serve 6:

Sift together 1 cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt and 1½ teaspoons baking powder. Add ½ cup dry bread crumbs and ½ cup sugar. Stir in 1 beaten egg, ¼ cup milk, 3 table-spoons melted butter, 2 tablespoons grated orange rind and ¾ cup drained Whole Berry Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce. Pour batter into 6 greased 5-oz. custard cups, cover tightly with foil, and place on rack in skillet. Pour in boiling water to half the depth of cups. Cover skillet tightly, bring water to full boil, then simmer 1 hour—till cake tester inserted in puddings comes out clean. Unmold and serve with a sauce blended from the Ocean Spray left after mixing the pudding (about 1 cup including juice) with 1 cup of Burgundy wine and 1 tablespoon cornstarch. Simmer till thickened and clear, stirring constantly.

Here's to a bright New Year!

FOOD

NEWS

Next time you go grocery-shopping, look for these new foods to make your meal preparation fun

MARGARINE with a natural flavor is now at your market. It is a new brand and is a little higher in price than others, being made by a new process and with a new formula. You'll find it in your grocer's refrigerator to protect that fresh flavor. Try it for your baking and frying, too. We're sure you'll like it. It melts evenly and doesn't spatter.

corn bread, homemade, but no dishes to wash. It's possible with the latest mix. Just add milk and egg to the mix in the bag, squeeze a few times, pour into the foil pan, and bake. Twenty minutes later you have perfect corn bread—enough for 4 to 6 people to enjoy.

MUSTARD SAUCE has a completely different taste appeal. It's more than just plain mustard. It's a blended sweet-hot flavor that's wonderful with ham, cheese, fish or vegetables.

MINIATURE MARSHMALLOWS (about the size of the end of your little finger) will eliminate the need for cutting up the large ones when you use marshmallows in cooking and in salads. They're made differently too, so that they won't get hard with age.

SHREDDED CHEESE is coming vacuum-packed to keep it moist and flavorful. Shredded rather than grated, it is more colorful as a garnish but still as versatile for use on casseroles, salads, spaghetti, and other dishes. Instant puddings now include two new flavors, Lemon and Banana Cream. They're made by the same easy method. Just add milk and beat one minute. A few minutes later, serve as pudding or pie. ICE BOX COOKIES come all mixed; ready to slice and put into the oven. They're available in Coconut, Crunchy peanut, and Butterscotch - nut.

You'll find them in the refrigerator section of your grocery store.

NEW CANS FOR HAMS eliminate the old problem of getting the meat out of the cans. A new type of enamel inside the can allows the meat to slip right out. As an added convenience, the tear strip will have tracks to keep the key winding smoothly. No more slipping to annoy you!

INSTANT CHOCOLATE-FLAVORED MALTED MILK is the newest addition to the drink mix field. It comes in two forms, one is plain, the other is fortified with minerals and vitamins. Both are easily soluble in hot or cold milk and give you a smooth, rich malt and chocolate flavor.

Fool The Eye

Wandering about an antique store the other day with a neighbor of ours, we spotted a cabinet with real books in it. At least we thought so until we reached to touch one. It was painted!

"Ah ha! Trompe l'oeil," our neighbor chuckled. Pleading ignorance of the French expression, we asked for a trans-

"That means fool-the-eye," he replied. "Intended, as you plainly see, to look like the real thing.

"Just like the way that E-Z-DU Wallpaper your company makes sometimes 'fools-the-eye.' Remember when Nancy and I tackled our first do-it-yourself wallpapering job? We made the low ceiling in our living room seem taller and our narrow dining room seem wider by choosing just the right pattern and color. Even the cost was 'fool-the-eye.' Nancy still finds it hard to realize the dining room, for instance, cost only about $12."

As our neighbor said E-Z-DU Wallpaper does look far more costly than its modest price. And as the name implies, it is easy to hang. Just cut paper to proper length, hang on the wall, and sponge smooth! And that's all. Most people find it fairly easy to do. For others the handy primer-style picture instructions that come with each roll are a big help.

Your Imperial dealer has a wide selection of E-Z-DU patterns and colors, starting as low as 99¢ a roll. We invite you to come in and see them. There's nothing fool-the-eye about the friendly, helpful service he gives you.

MORTGAGE EXPERT SAYS

If was the same old story: those we wanted we couldn't get.

All this time we were getting more and more fed up with our apartment—no porch or back yard for summer enjoyment, no fire-place for the indoor months. And these were just a few of the features we felt our home should have. When we weren't looking at houses we were talking about them.

Gerry's experience with the arts, interior decorating, and running a household led her to one conclusion; my own background—more than 20 years of work with and for lending institutions—led me to quite another conclusion.

Her idea was to buy an old house with "charm" and "possibilities;" you know—the sort of deal where you have to install new plumbing, new heating, new wiring, and move a few interior walls around. It would mortgage-loan people use to describe the rare times when "market price" agrees with "fair market value.")

Well, I had no good answer to that—we just had to jump in and get our feet wet.

I was to make all the big decisions; Gerry was to make all the small ones. This, we figured, would get us the best financial deal. Only trouble was we couldn't always agree which decisions were the big ones and which were the small ones.

We were pretty well agreed on a six-room two-story colonial with a bath-and-a-half; and we figured out just about what we could afford to spend on the house each month so we'd still have enough left over to lead a fairly happy, normal life.

Being in the mortgage business, I naturally took it as a matter of personal pride (and economic convenience) that we should plan our house so that we could borrow "the mostest, for the leastest, for the longest." That's what swung our decision to a new house. That way we might keep our payments have been a lot of fun; and if we'd had enough money to swing an old house, we'd probably have gone ahead.

"We couldn't afford to buy an old house!"

My theme song was that we ought to figure on a house that we could handle comfortably out of relatively assured income. Besides, I contended, we shouldn't expect to make a profit by owning a house.

True, most people who bought houses in the past 20 years or so have been able to sell them later without any loss; in fact many of them have made a profit. But it seems no more logical to expect a cash profit from owning a house than to expect it from owning a car; depreciation reduces the value of a house as surely as it reduces the value of a car. And yet the relatively slower rate of depreciation in houses has led a lot of people to overlook this factor almost entirely.

In my book, the profit from either a car or a house comes from the enjoyment you get in day-to-day use. If you don't get pleasure from owning an automobile or a single-family house, you have what I'd call a mighty poor investment.

Gerry accepted my financial viewpoint in good grace. But since she's practical as well as artistic, she had a theory of her own: we should roll up our sleeves and go to work. That, she said, would be better than just sitting around talking, waiting for building costs to get "stabilized" (the word that in line with what we laughingly called our budget.

After winning the battle of new house vs. old, I agreed to make concessions. And that's when Gerry decided we ought to plan our new house to look like an old house. I agreed that she could make all other decisions as long as the house met the structural requirements of the VA and FHA.

In letting my wife make so many decisions, I wasn't being nearly so magnanimous as she might have thought. She had no idea of the size of the book (or the fineness of the print) that tells what's allowed and what isn't.

What with following all those rules and keeping within our cost estimates, we had many a headache. We started with a set of stock builder's plans for a frame house, and made many changes. We altered the floor plan, decided on brick-over-masonry-block for the exterior, and included many of Gerry's ideas to make the house look "old."

Some of these "old" touches pained me. For instance those long windows on the first floor—and the resulting heat loss—took something fine out of my Scotch blood. But all in all, I think Gerry did a bang-up job in making her decisions for our new house. And best of all from her standpoint, she has fooled a good many people into thinking that she got exactly what she wanted in the beginning: an old house with "charm" and "possibilities."

row an African violet, and you'll want to grow two. Grow tw and you'll want to grow four. And so on ad infinitum. The more, indeed, the merrier. And one of the nice things about it is that after you've grown them awhile it's easy to make tw three, or more plants out of one.

After you've had an African violet plant a few months, you notice that new growths, called crowns, are developing at the base. Each crown has its own leaves; and as it grows, it lool more and more like the original center crown. Most varieti make their new crowns at the base of the original crown, so th each new one develops its own roots. Some, however, make the a little higher, so that the new crowns are more like branches.

Either type variety, when it has produced new crowns, can divided or trimmed to give you as many new plants as there a new crowns. With base-branching varieties, you simply split u the plants and re-pot the rooted crowns, as illustrated below

HOW TO HANDLE A STEM-BRANCHING VARIETY:

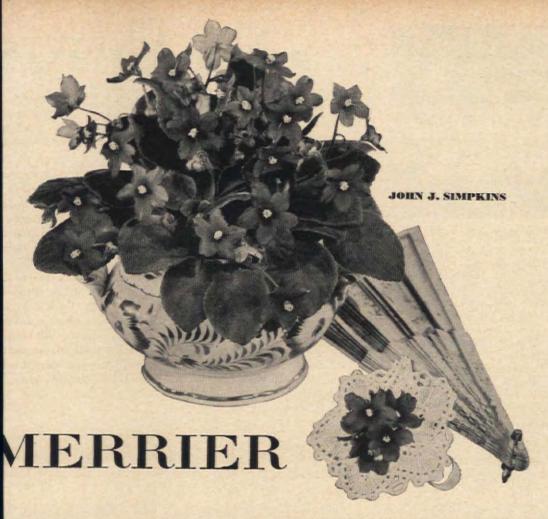

With a razor blade cut off the branch (crown) as close to the main stem as possible. Break off several leaves at the bottom the removed crown, so that it now has a "stub." Let it stand f an hour or two so that the surfaces of the stub, where it was c from the main stem and where leaves were removed, will become dry. Now insert the stub in a pot of rich, fibrous soil, anchoring it with toothpicks inserted between the leaves, and water it we Kept moist, it will soon be a well-rooted, full-fledged plant.

MORE AND

1. Sooner or later an African violet plant makes side crowns and looks something like this. It's less attractive than a single-crown plant, but it's your cue that you can now make several new plants out of the old one.

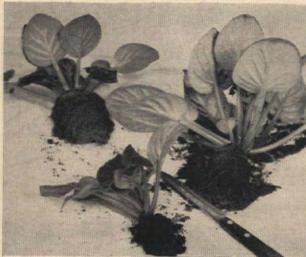

ove the plant from its pot by holding it carend tapping the pot. Or you can hold the imilarly and tap pot rim downward against edge until root-ball slips loose from pot.

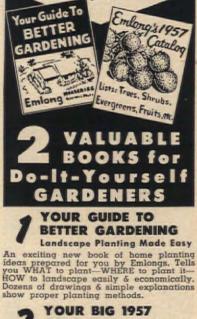

3. With the plant removed, carefully loosen soil with your fingers. If the crowns, with their roots, seem to separate easily, simply break them apart. If it's difficult to divide them, use a sharp knife. Don't sever roots from crowns. Here, original plant was split into three.

4. Pot individual crowns as you would any small plants. Three-inch clay pots suit most African violets; and to guard against disease and insects use sterilized soil. Set plants to full root depth. Press soil firm but not tight.

5. After the plants are potted, water thoroughly with a soluble plant food solution. Follow package directions, and don't use more plant food than called for. Test soil every day or two and water whenever the surface is beginning to get dry to the touch. Use plant food every two weeks. Every two months, water with pots standing in sink to drain off any excess plant food.

main popular much longer than those of most other plants. Usually there are fewer new introductions, but this year there are quite a few.

One of the choicest is a daphneflowered BUTTERFLY-BUSH (buddleia) called Hever Castle. Its deliciously fragrant lavender flowers are borne in large upright clusters in June and July. The plant grows 5' to 6' and is hardy to below-zero temperatures.

Another important new item that blooms in June and July is a purpleleaved SMOKE-TREE named Notcutt. The feathery plumes produce a "smoke" of rich claret color.

New spring-blooming shrubs for 1957 include a brilliant, densely-flowered FORSYTHIA named Beatrix Farrand, a 3' to 4' spirea named Swan Lake, and Deutzia elegantissima, a medium-size shrub with rose-pink, fragrant flowers in large clusters.

A new snowberry for autumn gardens is White Hedge, which grows upright instead of in the pendulous manner of the common species.

f you're a vegetable gardener, large-scale or small, here's news. It's about four new varieties that have won All-America awards for 1957. You'll find them in the new seed catalogs and in the seed racks in garden-supply shops and hardware stores. They're a cucumber, a radish, a snapbean, and a squash.

The new cucumber is called Smoothie, and, true to its name, it's completely smooth-skinned. It's also of beautiful deep green, has fine flavor, and produces a heavy crop of perfectly-shaped 8"

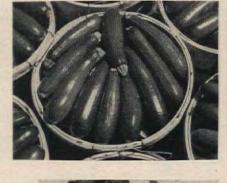

The radish, named Champion, is brilliant cherry-red with crisp, solid, pure-white flesh. It's ready for pulling 21 days after the seed is sown, though it can be left in the ground longer and will increase in size without losing its crispness or solidity.

If you're a salad fan, grow the 1957 cucumber named Smoothie.

For vegetable variety, try the Zucchini squash Black Beauty.

Easy-to-grow Champion radish appeals to both eye and palate.

For snapbean flavor, crispness, and heavy crop, try Greencrop.

The 1957 All-America squash is of the Zucchini type and is called Black Beauty. The fruits are black-green, beautifully shaped, and the flesh is deliciously flavored and of creamy texture. The plant is bush-like, takes little space, matures its fruit earlier than older varieties, and produces over a long season.

Greencrop snapbean won the All-America award for the flavor, crispness, straightness, and size of its pods, for earliness, and for the vigorous growth (24") and heavy cropping of the plant. In tests, the beans remained in good eating condition longer than those of any early varieties currently popular.

The All-America awards, for quality and distinctiveness in both vegetables and flowers, are made on the basis of tests conducted at trial grounds in all parts of the country. The organization making the awards is All-America Selections, Inc.

erproof-coated wall fabrics are y suitable. They must, however, be alled with care; any spots on the is that aren't coated will let water or pass through. Ordinary waller can, of course, be applied over wall previously made waterproof one of the vapor-proof paints.

-VENTILATION:

ou're probably familiar with the ers that are ordinarily placed at end of a house near the roof, or er the house eaves. These openlet out the moist air that collects ve the insulation of roof or attic. hese louvers should never be ed during the winter. If, in spite he louvers, you find that the attic ttic crawl-space is damp in winthen the louver opening may not arge enough. The louver should one square foot of free opening each 300 square feet of attic floor. nother spot about the house that s ventilation is the crawl space d under many homes that do not basements. Vents should be ined in the foundation wall to pro-2 square feet of ventilation for 100 linear feet of the foundation meter plus 1/3 of 1 per cent of crawl space floor area. It is also sable to cover the exposed soil sheets of 55-pound roll roofing. os of the roofing are lapped about thes and the ends should extend he foundation wall and be ceed there with roofing cement.

many severe cases of moisture house, it is also worthwhile to the outside walls of the house itself. You can do this by installing tiny metal louvers along the top of the exterior wall—one in each space between studs.

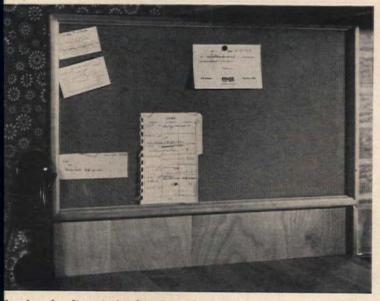

Of course, nobody would want a house to be completely without water vapor inside. Comfort and health demand some water content in the air we breathe. When the air is too dry, you're likely to feel an uncomfortable dryness in your nose and throat; the house feels stuffy, and you must set the heater a degree or so higher to remain comfortable. Experts agree, however, that with the inside temperature at 70°, and the outside temperature 10°, the water content of the inside air—the humidity—should be around 40 per cent. Humidity, by the way, can be measured by a hygrometer.

Homes that are older or less carefully constructed are likely to get too dry indoors; they have many cracks that let the moisture-carrying air escape. But the better constructed homes of today that are well insulated and tightly sealed give water vapor less chance to escape. So the problem today is usually too much moisture.

What about your house? Do your windows regularly cloud up with moisture? Then you'd better take a look at the paint on the outside. If it's blistering and peeling, you'll be pretty sure why. Before you attempt to repaint, get rid of that excess moisture inside by installing fans and louvers, and by applying a vapor barrier so water vapor can't travel through your walls to cause blistering and peeling paint.

Nails, screws or bolts . . . you'll always have them on hand, in the right sizes, if you keep your hardware trays properly stocked. Place label in tray before putting in hardware; when you run out, you know just what to buy.

Want to remove a glued wooden plug that covers a countersunk screw? Then work another screw down through center of plug. As it strikes hidden screw, it will lift plug. Vinegar applied beforehand often helps to soften the glue.

HANDYMAN HOW-TO'S

A roll made of corrugated cardboard and fitted into a small mailing tube makes an excellent storage place for small drills, files, and scribers. The separate slots in cardboard keep the sharp edges of these tools from rubbing against one another; therefore tools stay sharp longer.

Most metal pails exposed to moisture will usually rust out at bottom because protective coating gets damaged. Prevent rust by pouring some asphalt paint into bottom, then rolling pail around till bottom and seams are coated with the paint. Now bottom's safe against rusting.

Planning to paint over new plaster or concrete? You will get best results by "curing" surface first. Good method is to brush on a solution of zinc sulfate: 1 lb. of crystals in 2 qts. of water. Solution forms crystals as it dries on wall. Brush off crystals and you're ready to paint.

tice how the house is divided three distinct living areas: the bridge wing for privacy visiting relatives and guests; the center area made up of living room, dining room, I the kitchen for family liv-; and, at the upper left (3) owners' bedrooms and study, s utility area and garage. Endoor is located so you can directly to any of the three as without disturbing privacy those in any other area.

ational census of covered bridges, was made by hard Sanders Allen of Round Lake, N.Y., a few s ago; he found 1617 still in existence.

he similarity between such a bridge and our modhome is more than skin deep. Bridge and house not only look-alikes, they're built alike, too. Notice striking resemblance between the arch shape of the truss that supports the old bridge at Esperance, N.Y., and the design of the truss that holds up the roof over the master bedroom in the modern house. Each truss serves the same purpose: allowing a structure to span a greater distance without any need for pillars or posts to support it. The arch allows a greater width of open water under a bridge for boats to ply the stream; and in the home the arch makes possible a larger room without need for roof-supporting posts that would break up the interior.

This adaptation of a covered bridge is a dramatic example of how today's house uses our American traditions. Modern house design is not an alien trend; it is the natural growth of our heritage of practical design and fine craftsmanship. The architects and builders of America today call upon the knowledge and techniques of our forefathers, taking the best of the past and adapting it to the needs of today.

Circulates heat ... warms all the room

Build your fireplace around the new Heatilator unit, the only fireplace especially designed for modern homes. It is the fireplace that gives you all 3 of these features Circulates Heat. Cool air from floor level is warmed in the double walled firebox—then circulates gently to every corner of the room.

Will Not Smoke. A scientifi-cally designed steel form, the Heatilator unit does away with guess-work and rule-of-thumb construction methods. Adds little to cost of finished fireplace.

Damper Seals Air-Tight. The new Pressure-Seal Damper seals the chimney throat air-tight when the fireplace is not in use. No costly house heat escapes up the chimney. No chim-ney downdrafts can chill the room. And in the air-conditioned home, it prevents the loss of expensive summer cooling as well as winter warmth.

Ideal for every purpose... homes, basement rooms, camps. Insist on the genuine Heatilator unit. Look for the name on the damper handle and

"We'll be using them for years...

... that's why we pick the Brand that's made a Name for itself!"

EVERYTHING that goes into a new house takes a big bite out of the family budget. And it's all too true that you have to live with mistakes you make in buying . . . whether they be appliances, furniture, food, clothing or whatever. So buy brands that have made a name for themselves. You're bound to be satisfied.

FOUR WAYS BRAND NAMES SATISFY YOU MOST

- BUY WITH TRUSTI Spend confidently on known quality. Brand Names wear best, work best, taste best, are best.
- 2. SHOP WITH EASE! Spend efficiently on proved value. Brand Names save time "puzzling" over labels, models, prices, etc.
- 3 ENJOY MORE CHOICE!

Spend shrewdly among widest selections. Brand Names offer the most in sizes, types, colors, flavors, etc.

4. GET THE "LATEST"!

Spend smartly on up-to-date products. Brand Names keep improving, modernizing, introducing new things.

Advertisers in this magazine are good names to know. They're proud of their brands 'cause they satisfy so!

"And she has a kitchen phone, too!"

Jane: Lucky girl!

Meg: Yes, she says convenient phones make her day so much easier—save steps and so much time.

Jane: No wonder she has four-all in colors, too.

Meg: Yes, the kitchen phone's red, the one in the living room's beige, the basement phone's yellow, and this one's such a pretty blue.

Jane: Must be a comfort to have a phone close at hand, wherever you need it. Wish we did.

Meg: It's easy enough to arrange. Just call the telephone business office. I did yesterday.

Working together to bring people together BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM

IN FEBRUARY...

There'll be a fascinating color feature on home life in Florida... the dreamboat living, and the simple living—houses of young couples who adopted Florida for their permanent home, houses of those who chose it for retirement. We show, too, their hobbies, ways of entertaining, even how an Ohio house plan "took" to Florida.

RECIPES...ROSES...REPAIRS

Foods, gardens, home repairs. You'll find good stories on all of them. There'll be recipes for inexpensive cuts of meat... veal cutlets, minted lamb, beef and kidney pie, sauerbraten made with pork, recipes calling for canned cherries. And holiday tables for a holiday month. You'll learn how to grow miniature roses in a sunny window indoors—perfect miniatures of standard garden hybrid teas. How to keep your evergreens in good shape; watering, fertilizing, spraying, pruning, guarding against pests . . . all you need to know. And you'll see, too, an illustrated article on the causes of cold floors and how to stop them. It will tell you what to do inside and outside your house to fix all kinds of floors.

TO FINISH FURNITURE

And there'll be many, many more informative how-to-do-it articles! Would you like to know how to finish unfinished wood furniture so it looks like professionally-finished maple, antique pine, walnut or mahogany? You can. Just see our February article on it. And you'll learn how painting furniture can prove very professional-looking. Just follow our tested instructions and see our patterns.

The last word in enduring charm can easily be yours if you build your house with concrete masonry. No other material offers such a wide variety of sizes, shapes and textures. The walls—inside and out—can be laid up in any of many distinctive patterns and can be finished in your choice of lovely colors in long-lasting portland cement paint. For more information write for free booklet, distributed only in U.S. and Canada.

Ask a concrete masonry manufacturer for names of architects, builders and lending agencies with concrete house experience. Your architect knows local conditions, can tell you about costs.

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION

Dept. A1-5, 33 West Grand Avenue, Chicago 10, Illinois

A national organization to improve and extend the uses of portland cement and concrete through scientific research and engineering field work.

These biscuits were made with another shortening and baked 15 minutes at 425 degrees oven heat. Compare their appearance with the biscuits on the right.

These biscuits were made with golden Fluffo from the recipe and baked for the same length of time at the heat as the biscuits on the left.

Something Golden Happens

(golden fluffiness you've never gotten with any other shortening

Expect surprising results when you use Fluffo; it's an altogether surprising shortening. To make it, we had to break down old-style shortening to its ver molecules, and improve them; it takes the cream of the crop to make golden Fluffo

No other leading shortening gives you such light, fluffy, golden-brown biscuits, golden yellow inside even before you butter them. No change in your recipe—just a wonderful change in results.

No other kind of shortening gives you such crisp, light, golden-brown fried foods. Everything fried right and light in Fluffo is beautifully browned all over—and just as digestible as it looks.

Fluffo even handles differently; it's so much lighter and fluffier it's a joy use. Blends with fewer, easier strokes, and the golden color lets you see how perfect you're mixing cake batter or pie dough. Try golden Fluffo; how can you possibly mis
