new "pebblestone" floor brings nature indoors

There's something warm and friendly (as well as downright modern) about the natural "outdoor" look in decorating. Wood—brick and now, introduced in the floor of this modern kitchen, a smart new "pebblestone" effect in Armstrong Embossed Linoleum. It's a charming blend of soft, natural sand tones, tans, and browns, and its surface is gently embossed which is something that only Armstrong does to linoleum. The raised "pebbles" give depth and realism to the textured beauty of this design. And, as every homemaker knows, Armstrong Linoleum is a delight to take care of — smooth, greaseproof, and almost seamless. This smart style, like so many of today's really interesting new flooring designs, is a modern, fashionable floor . . . by Armstrong. SEND FOR FREE BOOK, "Decorating Ideas for Today's Living." # Easy upkeep for "natural wood" siding

IS YOUR HOUSE AVERAGE 3-BEDROOM SIZE? Then you can refinish it this week end with only 2 to 4 gallons of REZ-the color-toned finish made especially to protect the "natural wood" siding of many contemporary, ranch and Cape Cod style homes.

NO PREPARATION. You never have to scrape or sand siding already finished with REZ. Just brush on new coat. The secret: A special resin-base formula carries color deeply and evenly into the wood, seals the pores so the finish won't crack or peel in sun, rain or snow. REZ protects from warping and sun staining, too.

13 "NATURAL WOOD" COLORS. Besides popular Redwood and Cedar REZ, you can choose from 11 other REZ color tones that make your house look colorfully different without masking the "natural wood" look you like. For example, try Desert Sage REZ (shown above) or Blue Spruce, Fir Green, Clay or Driftwood.

See how all 13 REZ color tones look on wood. Send for free color card and book-let to REZ, P. O. Drawer 3, Dept. D, St. Louis, Mo., or see your local REZ dealer's display of Rez colors on wood.

"Ten years from now a home without central air conditioning will be obsolete and hard to sell"

says John Doscher, Executive Director, Operation Home Improvement

A new look at air conditioning and how it can help protect the investment in your home

If you try to sell your house a few years from now, one of the first questions people will ask is—"Does it have air conditioning?"

Within ten years, Mr. Doscher feels, a home without central cooling will be as old-fashioned as a home with outside plumbing.

The sales figures show how fast the trend is going. Last year, for example, homeowners bought 4 times more Crane Sunnyland air conditioning systems than just 2 years ago.

Made-to-order weather by Crane

Why is there such a demand for Crane Sunnyland air conditioning? Why will it be such a big help in keeping up the value of your house?

Well, Crane gives you more than just a cooling system. It gives you an entirely new way of life.

You sleep better. If you suffer from Hay Fever you will get relief. You have a better disposition. You have more fun. You eat better. You enjoy cooking. You house-clean less often. You protect your family's health (the baby, for instance, is less apt to develop a rash).

All this because of the very special way a Crane Sunnyland air conditions. It filters the air. And it wrings out the mugginess and dampness on even the stickiest summer day. At the same time it cools the air exactly to your liking. Then circulates it to every nook and cranny of your house. In winter a special humidifier can be used to add moisture so you're perfectly comfortable.

Air condition with your present furnace

If you own a forced air furnace, you already own half of a central cooling system. Just install a Crane Sunnyland "Add-on" unit and you have air conditioning. A Sunnyland "Add-on" unit is just what its name implies —something you add to your present furnace. Special ducts are not needed—the same ducts circulate warm air in the winter and cool air in the summer. No tearing up walls or floors. No expensive alteration. The cooling unit attaches directly to your furnace.

(If you're planning to build a new home, or are going to replace your present heating system, the thing for you is a complete Crane Sunnyland Year 'Round System. It heats in winter, cools in summer, gives you push-button weather 365 days a year.)

Call your Crane Heating Dealer for a free estimate

The cost of Crane Sunnyland air conditioning varies with type of installation and the size of your house. You can get the exact figures from your local Crane Heating and Air Conditioning Dealer. Do so now before you go through another sweltering summer. As Mr. Doscher says, if you want to keep up the value of your home, you're going to have to install air conditioning sooner or later. Why not make it sooner —and make this summer the best summer you've ever had.

From hamlet to city it's the season when STRAWBERRIES GO TO TOWN

A strawberry festival's a family party for sure. Children get as much of a "bang" out of the party as Mom and Dad do, even kids too young to recall other strawberry festivals.

The star of the festival, of course, is the strawberry. Pour heaps of big, red, juicy ones over mounds of ice cream. Add luscious homemade cake—huge slabs of it—pour big cups of coffee or milk . . . it's fare bound to please all comers.

RALPH B. HUNTER

O nce upon a warm evening every June, the country comes to the city. The country appears in the form of a good old-fashioned Strawberry Festival. The city? It's New York! Set amid towering apartment houses and office buildings on lower Fifth Avenue is the First Presbyterian Church—one of the few in New York City that still boast lawns. And inside its fences, while buses roll by and pedestrians stop in amazement, church members get busy. They set up tables, hang Japanese lanterns, get a barbershop quartet in tune. Even the kids help.

And when the stage is set, the women bring on the food—about 150 quarts of ice cream, more than 80 quarts of strawberries and loads of home-baked cakes. It all disappears in mighty short order, for 600 paying customers are fed in three shifts.

Result? The clock has been turned back. Children have glimpsed the pleasures of their parents' childhood days. The church's charities are richer, and so, church members feel, are those who join in the fun of the party. Yes, every June is Festival time.

TIP FROM ABROAD

With interest I read in your Feb. issue the article "Safety for a Tike with a Trike." This reminds me of the way wherein my brother in Holland, who is a bicycle manufacturer, solved this problem.

The handlebars on all the new children's bicycles are in two colors, green on the right and red on the left. When the kids are used to it, they, at the same time, keep an eye open for any red lights by crossings, etc. because they know now that red means danger! It might be that you could pass on this tip to a bicycle manufacturer in your country.

SOLUTION'S ALL WET!

Your solution for leaking faucets (Feb. issue) sounds simple enough but I fear that you have omitted the most important step. Had you thought about first turning off the water? After my do-it-yourself venture, I found I had encountered two additional plumbing problems—how to stop "Old Faithful" from gushing to the ceiling and then, how to clean up the mess!

Friend husband has ordered an embargo on all future do-it-yourself adventures but I hope to appease him with some of the delicious food pictured in your magazine.

HOT TAMALES. ANYONE?

Dear American HOME:

For weeks now, I have been trying to locate a recipe of the right consistency for the cornmeal mixture for hot tamales. Ours has been either too soft, or turns out to be almost like a rubbery texture.

No doubt, you have such a recipe on hand, and would be kind enough to share same with me. New Orleans is a city of many wonderful and exotic recipes, many of which I have been able to procure and enjoy preparing, but when it came to a recipe for hot tamales, the persons having a thorough knowledge of preparing these wouldn't disclose their secret. I finally resorted to a public library and found a delicious meat mixture for the filling, but this particular recipe was so old and ancient that the commeal recipe was one that you had to grate from the fresh corn, etc. At first, I tried the regular cornmeal, and much to my chagrin, learned that a special grind had to be purchased for the outside mixture. This we purchased, but again, were unsuccessful in the amount that was used.

I do hope that yours is not "a family recipe" that must be guarded, as I am most anxious to learn how to make these delicious tamales, as we know them here, for parties and our home freezer.

Looking forward to your reply, I remain

Very truly yours,

Mrs. A. R. N.

· Do you have a favorite tamale recipe? One that would answer our reader's problem? When Mrs. A.R.N. of New Orleans wrote, we decided to take the bull by the horns, so to speak, and went to work on the problem. The recipe below is our modern (buy the ingredients at the corner grocery store) answer to "how does one make tamales today in the U.S.A.?" We think these are as good as any we have ever had in Mexico. Won't you try them and let us know how they compare with your favorites?

3<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> cups yellow corn meal 1/2 cup flour I tsp. salt

11/2 cups soft shortening 21/2 cups beef stock 1 lb. dry corn husks or parchment

· Cut off ends of corn husks and cover with cold water while preparing cornmeal. Combine meal, flour, salt, shortening and half of stock. Beat hard. Add remaining stock slowly, beating until mixture becomes light and fluffy (about 5 minutes at high speed of electric mixer). Dry corn husks on inside and spread with about  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup cornmeal mixture. Add about 1 tbsp. meat filling and roll lengthwise. If necessary cover with extra husks. Tie ends with string. Stack tamales in steamer and steam about 45 min. or until done. Serve with tomato sauce. Yields 24 tamales. MEAT FILLING

I lb. ground cooked beef I garlic clove, mashed 2-3 tbs. chili powder

2 tsp. salt 1 tsp. black pepper 11/2 cups broth

· Combine all ingredients and mix well.

New! Filter-Stream washing action —
New! Filter-Stream rinsing action —
New! Full-Size 5-temperature dryer all in one beautiful appliance!

Revolutionary new washing action gets clothes cleaner with half the water. Clothes are constantly carried through a powerful stream of filtered hot sudsy water. The same amazing Filter-Stream rinses automatically 3 separate times—with clean, filtered water. Then a warm, gentle breeze, at any one of 5 different temperatures, fluffs clothes thoroughly dry. Dries so thoroughly many clothes need no ironing.

Space-saver! This new RCA WHIRLPOOL does the work of two machines, saves the space of one! It's just 33 inches wide, yet it washes and dries a full 10-pound load. And it costs much less than separate washer and dryer.

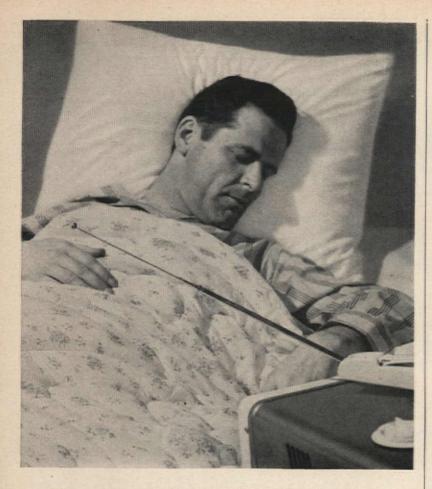

There's an entirely new kind of washing action in this new RCA WHIRLPOOL combination—it showers your clothes with a powerful stream of hot sudsy water, never sloshes them around in a tub of dirty, linty water.

It's so thorough it washes out difficult dirt stains from shirt collars and socks. So gentle it washes nylons, Dacrons, Orlons and other "miracle" fabrics without noticeable wear.

And it's so automatic you can hardly believe it. Automatically, it measures the water to suit the load. Automatically, it filters all the water, all the time. Built-in water heater automatically reheats the water during both wash and rinse cycles. There's even an automatic dispenser on top to meter in full-strength bleach and bluing. And, of course, it automatically dries your clothes. Soft, fluffy, almost wrinkle-free—so much easier to iron! So see your RCA WHIRLPOOL dealer about this remarkable washer-dryer—in white or Matchmaker Colors, pink or yellow or green. (He'll give you a generous trade-in now for your old washer!)

Dot and Vin Potter

Count Their Blessings As Well As Their Birds

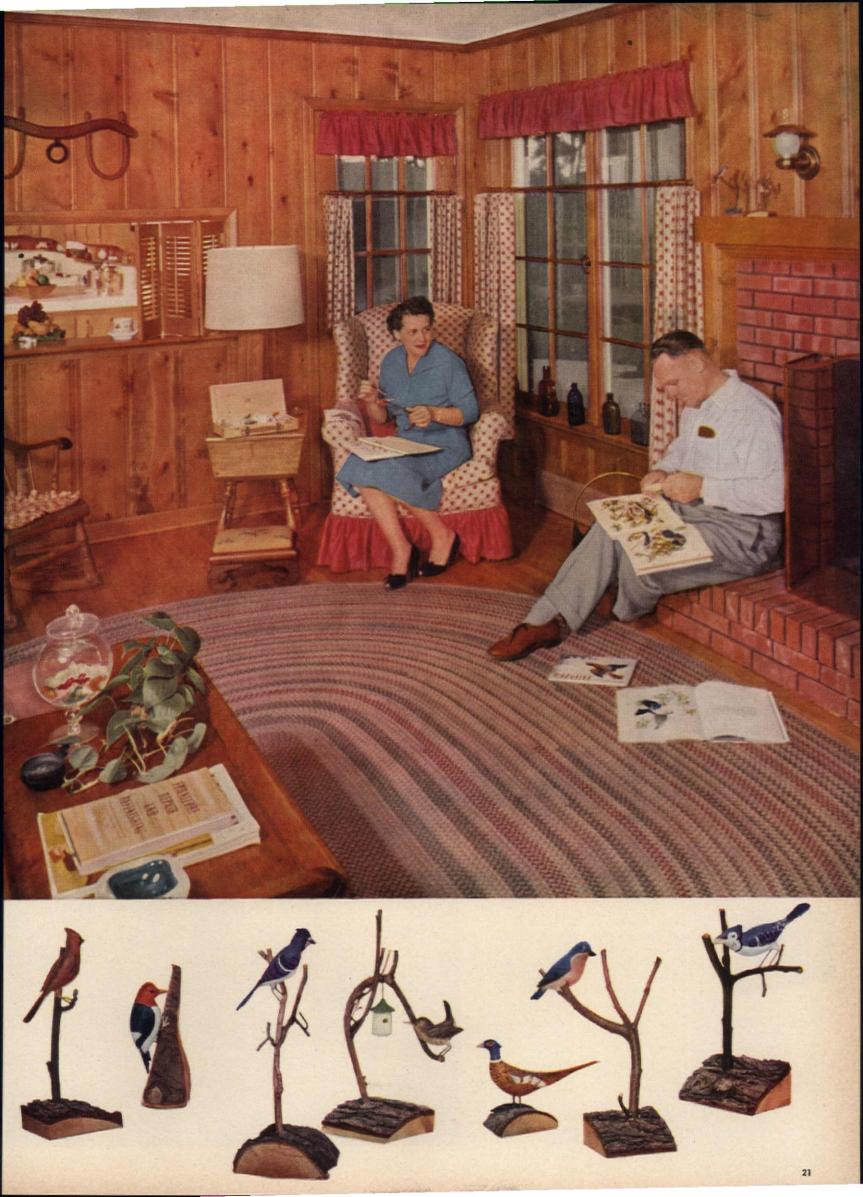

Meet our cover girl and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. H. Vinton Potter. Dot and Vin are indeed Very Interesting People, and one reason is their hobby. Ever since Vin got his first wood-working tools some ten years ago, he has been making carvings of the birds that he and Dot so faithfully watch from their windows. Friends all over the country send him wood for carving (above, he shows the models to a friend, Mike Crawley).

Dot is an amateur painter, and she turns her hand to painting the carvings. The Potters are working out in wood all the species they have noted. And are they delighted with Tulsa birds! Oklahoma is a sort of crossroads for birds migrating in this country. Dot has put feeders and baths in the garden; over seconds of coffee, she makes notes of the newcomers. To her delight, she has counted over 40 varieties in one year.

Dot and Vin returned to their "adopted" state of Oklahoma a couple of years ago . . . after several years "back East" where PLEASE TURN THE PAGE

Sunday brunchers at the Potters' have a treat in store, for Vin has transplanted to the heart of Oklahoma the heart of his early Rhode Island breakfasts—the jonnycake (so named for the journeys the cakes were carried on). Vin, a bona fide chef, uses Rhode Island windmill-ground meal.

New England is truly here, and nostalgic it is for Dot and Vin. Some family pieces, some picked up during their meanderings in Maine and through all of New England. Their favorite piece is a shopkeeper's desk that belonged to Vin's father. They rescued it from a seed house, restored it. Vin worked for gas utilities and the American Gas Association. Dot is a Connecticut Yankee and Vin a Rhode Islander by birth (hence his fondness for jonnycakes). So they naturally looked for and found a home in Tulsa that suits their fondly-collected New England heirlooms. Their home, in the middle of a beautiful pecan grove, is kept cool the year 'round by an experimental gas air-conditioner. It's a well-planned comfortable house. It even has what we now call a "family-room"—many New Englanders still call it a "keeping room"—off the kitchen.

Dot is an experienced knitter—fine for that first grandchild, a boy just a few months old. And Vin not only is adept at baking jonnycakes on a griddle, he's also the outdoor cook of the family. He loves to cook steaks for family and friends on the beautiful, secluded terrace at the back of the house. There everyone can enjoy the charming garden nestled in the pecan grove. # BUILD SAFETY INTO YOUR HOME

THOMAS C. DESMOND

Reach year 30,000 Americans are killed at home and 4,300,000 are seriously injured, costing us a staggering 750 million dollars. Even the menace of the highways, the automobile, runs a poor second to the home in the combined total of deaths and injuries. But while we are exerting tremendous effort and spending vast sums to curb the rampages of motor vehicles, little is being done to trap the marauder in the home. In fact, his fearful activities are accepted quite complacently by most of us, and we are even providing for him a place to work under the same roof that shelters us.

No one escapes his stealth and his watchful eye: the curlyheaded youngster who leans too far out of a low, open window; the housewife who slips on her highly-polished kitchen floor; the four-year-old who, left unattended for a moment while being bathed, turns on the hot water and scalds himself; the oldster who trips at the head of the stairs and falls headlong to the floor below.

Heart disease is America's number one killer, but only among those over the age of 25. Before that age it is second to accidents, which among children of one to 14 years cause almost as many fatalities as the next six causes of death combined. And accidents are more numerous in the home than anywhere else.

At the other end of the life span, 300,000 oldsters each year suffer crippling injury from accidents, principally around the home. Falls account for three out of four of such mishaps. The unfortunate result of falls in the age bracket of 65 and over may be shock, heartstrain, and broken bones that fail to heal and lead to permanent disability or death.

Discouraged? Don't be. If you can afford to build, you can have your "dream home" and make it safe too. Architect D. Kenneth Sargent, experienced home designer of Syracuse, New York, informs me: "Most of the suggested safety features for use in home safety are available in the open market. However, they must be required and designed into the home."

The "Home of Safety" built in Bay Village, Cleveland, Ohio, for instance, has no stairs, inside or out. (Eleven per cent of home accidents are caused by falls on stairs.) The front door of this house is reached by a gradual-rise ramp. All rooms are on the same level. There is no basement.

The roofing is fireproof. A mixing shower valve prevents scalding. To prevent deaths of children from lead-poisoning by chewing sills or moldings, the interior paint contains no lead. Floors are covered with slip-proof material that requires no polishing or waxing.

Windows, washable from the inside, are of the awning type. All bedroom and bathroom windows are high to protect people from falling out, even if standing on a piece of furniture. They are wide enough for light, yet shallow enough to make it impossible to fall through. PLEASE TURN THE PAGE

How to stop being a Ghostess by KitchenAid

You know what a ghostess is: that's a hostess who disappears right after the meal. And leaves her guests with that awkward choice—pitch in with the dishes, or try to ignore those stacks of soiled tableware.

But change the scene just slightly...add a KitchenAid automatic dishwasher...and see the hostess be a part of the party! Now she has time for gracious entertaining and living.

Why a Kitchen Aid? Because a Kitchen Aid belongs in this scene. Because the product itself is unequaled.

Ask friends that have one... or an expert—a dealer. He'll explain how a Kitchen Aid, by Hobart, washes and dries better... he'll show you the exclusive revolving power wash arm, the separate electric blower-dryer unit—no other make has either one! Compare these superior features with ordinary "splasher" type or "needle-spray" washers... see the big difference for yourself!

But of course you're concerned with appearance, too: "How will it go in my kitchen?" The answer-beautifully! Your dealer can provide the model, style and finish you prefer, the color you wish...your new KitchenAid dishwasher will take its place in your kitchen as naturally as it fits your way of life.

For information, write Dept. KA, KitchenAid Home Dishwasher Division, The Hobart Manufacturing Co., Troy, Ohio. Canada: 175 George St., Toronto 2.

Build Safety Into Your Home

(Begins on page 26)

The house is equipped throughout with fabric-covered folding doors to eliminate bumping into edges of open swinging doors.

Overhead kitchen cabinet doors are sliding, instead of swinging, for the same reason. The kitchen range is placed away from the window so curtains cannot blow over surface heating units. Cabinets and work counters are on each side of the range to prevent accidental falls against or onto the range.

The entire house is light-conditioned. Switches are placed at entrances and exits to all rooms. Switch plates have built-in neon-glow lamps for easy location in the dark. Safety covers on outlet boxes have turn-plates to prevent children from inserting hairpins and other metallic objects. Outlets are at least every 12' apart throughout the house so lamps or appliances with standard 6' cords can be placed anywhere.

In the bathroom, light fixtures, handles and cover plates of switches are of insulating material. The bathtub has a non-slip bottom. Vertical and angled grab bars are provided so that towels cannot be hung on them, impeding emergency use. Towel racks and grab bars are of unbreakable metal. Other bathroom safety features include non-scald water-mixing valves, built-in soap dishes, a wall slot for used razor blades, non-slip flooring, and a locked section in the medicine cabinet for the storage of poisons.

The site you choose for building is important, too. If you can, build in a residential area away from the heavy flow of traffic, but within a block or two of public transportation. Don't make Junior cross a main thoroughfare (or don't do it yourself, for that matter) just to buy a loaf of bread or a pound of sugar. The odds are against you if you tempt the killers of the highway too often.

Build on a level plot to do away with sloping walks. The less you have to climb stone slabs and wood steps, the safer you'll be.

Remember your heart, too. Sure, you want room to move around outside. But enough space can mean enjoyment, while too much space can lead to drudgery and over-exertion.

The same is true of the rooms in your house. You don't want to build them so small that they'll give you claustrophobia. But don't forget either that you'll have floors to sweep, woodwork to polish, and walls and ceilings to paint and clean. The more wall and floor surface, the more cleaning. The higher the ceiling, the more reaching and the greater the risk of accidents.

The best way to avoid obstructions is not to bow, bob and weave when you meet them, but to eliminate them completely. Provide plenty of wall space in your rooms so that you can arrange the furniture without obstructing traffic. Make passageways between rooms short and straight.

Kecess radiators into the wall. Keep floors level, with no raised projections whatsoever. Use sliding or folding doors between rooms (only where doors are necessary), on closets, and on wall cabinets. Projections of all kinds are dangerous, be they from the floor, from the wall or from the ceiling.

The modern building trend is often to one-floor construction. However, where stairs are necessary use short, straight flights, with at least one landing. Always provide hand rails along stairways, or even above a single step.

If you have an attic or cellar stairway, paint it a light color. All stairways should be well lighted, with switches at both top and bottom. Make sure that ceilings over stairways are never less than 6'8" above every tread.

Windows in older homes had two serious disadvantages. First of all they were generally too low, increasing the possibility of people (especially children) falling through. Secondly, they presented a serious probem of cleaning, because they had to be reached from both sides, with much bending and reaching involved.

HARRIET ARNOLD

When I questioned R. B. Rock, Jr. of Princeton, New Jersey, about the play yard for their little daughter he described it as "just the same old stur I grew up with in North Carolina."

It's a big yard, about  $20' \ge 40'$ , s there's plenty of space for four or fiv children to play there. There's room fo them to play with toys, as well as th permanent or "built-in" equipment, and they don't feel hemmed in.

The play yard enclosure is made o snowfencing left in its natural rus stain. There's a little white gate at on end.

Snowfencing is easy to put up, and the posts don't do much damage to the lawn when they are removed later on There's reassurance for a busy mother too, because it's not easy for children to climb out over the fence.

The "old North Carolina style" play equipment is inexpensive and easy to build. There's a sandbox, a jumping board, a set of steps, and an overhead ladder. The ladder (left) is an old one supported by four iron pipes secured upright in the ground.

All of these pieces are painted a sparkling white. With the rust, they look attractive against the green of the grass.

They're an easy assembly project for a home handyman, and you can be sure that the kids will love 'em!

PLAY YARD - Old Style

Jumping board is a 15' plank, 12" across. It is supported at each end by a sort of low horse, and responds wonderfully to jumping from any area.

No play yard would be complete without a sandbox, and it's the easiest piece of equipment to build. Make it any size, add seats on corners.

Three steps up, and three steps down—a simple piece of equipment that helps child learn all about stair climbing while having lots of fun.

peport from Rutgers," a bulletin of the State University of New Jersey, reports II. a new do-it-yourself twist. From May to December was time enough for 30 Greekletter fraternity members to convert an ordi-

In addition to handsome Colonial architecture, here's what Alpha Sigma Phi's industry has provided: A 20' by 20' dining room, a big living room, a 20-bed dormitory, a king-sized kitchen, 10 study rooms (some with sleeping accommodations), a library, den, party room, house mother's room, and five baths.

The residents set out, essentially, to double the width and capacity of the building. Paint blended the addition with the centuryold "original." The only professional help contracted by the fraternity consisted of an architect, a mason, who set up the foundation, and two carpenters, who installed clapboards.

LESSON FOR THE TAXPAYER

GRANT HEILMAN

W ant your neighbors to take more of an interest in school activities? Then you might consider the novel idea used by the elementary school in Doylestown, Pennsylvania. It was a two-day experiment that you, as part of the PTA or another group, might want to suggest. The principal moved the second grade out of the school and into a classroom set up in an automobile dealer's showroom. Passersby watched the class through the big windows, heard proceedings over a loudspeaker. Now they know where their school tax dollars go. The children were undisturbed—they quickly forgot they were "on display." The project got good publicity, too. Is it worth trying in your town?

Three easy ways to rescue your house from the "look-alikes"

Personality: RESTFULLY INFORMAL

No need for your home to be a "lookalike"! It's so easy to give it a personality that fits your style of living. Do it with doors and windows—available for every style of home from Curtis. Here, a finely detailed Curtis Dutch door and Curtis Convertible wood windows, used as awning sash, strike the note of contemporary, casual living.

Personality: CHARMINGLY TRADITIONAL

The charm of early America—deeprooted in tradition—lives in this graceful interior. Much of the effect is due to the divided light Curtis Silentite double-hung windows used in a bay and Curtis carefully crafted paneled doors. Like all Curtis windows, these open and close at a touch, are truly weather-tight. Curtis—and Curtis alone —offers you wide variety in choice of fine doors and windows.

Personality: LIVABLY MODERN

You can go modern—without bleakness —in a room like this. The Curtis view sash and single-pane Curtis Silentite casements open up a whole window wall. The casements will never swing or rattle in the wind, and staunchly bar out dust and weather. The door is a famous Curtis New Londoner with a beautiful grain pattern that creates a picture in wood. The Curtis line of doors and windows and other woodwork offers styles for every taste, every purse.

WINDOWS - DOORS - WOODWORK - TO MAKE YOURSHOME DIFFERENT

Your Curtis Woodwork dealer will show you convenient Curtis door and window charts that will help you choose your style of Curtis doors and windows quickly and easily. Curtis Woodwork is sold by lumber dealers in most parts of the country—and the Curtis guarantee is your assurance of fine workmanship and lasting value.

(Begins on page 26)

You can have just as much light and equal or better ventilation by installing in your new home windowsat least 30" above the floor-that can be opened and washed entirely from the inside.

It is a little difficult to understand why builders of yesteryear so often placed essential home features near the floor or overhead instead of within easy reach, at arm or waist level. Your toaster lead, for example, probably originates somewhere near the baseboard, follows the floor for a few feet, and then loops up to connect with the appliance. The same may be true of your electric iron, your bedroom lamp and coffee-maker.

Wouldn't it be easier to plug a lead in three or four feet above the floor? And wouldn't it be safer to connect two points with a short lead instead of letting the wire loop on the floor to ensnare the feet of the unwary?

Excessive stooping, climbing and reaching are unnecessary, and have no place in modern home construction. Arrange shelves and storage space so you can reach what you need from the floor level, without scrambling on insecure pieces of furniture.

And for your kitchen, manufacturers have now put on the market a wall-mounted oven at waist level, with a separate cooking surface somewhere else in the same room. The object, again, is to reduce exertion, bending and reaching, to make your work easier and safer.

Most architects advocate the use of non-slip materials for covering the floor and the bottoms of tubs and showers because the danger of slipping and falling is greater in the bathroom than anywhere else in the home.

A bathtub should have a built-in seat for foot-bathing, rinsing and showering. It should also be lower than the old-type bathtub, and certanly not raised off the floor on legs.

If you prefer a shower, that's all right, too, but a shower stall, like a bathtub, should have a seat within easy reach of the water faucets. Faucets, in the tub or in the shower, should always be easy to reach, not at the end of a tub or directly under a shower stream.

You probably want a mirror in your medicine cabinet. That's fine, but put it on a sliding door instead of a swinging door if you can. Avoid the use of glass shelves inside the cabinet. Provide a separate locked compartment in your medicine cabinet for poisons and dangerous drugs.

And very important: Have plenty of light above your medicine chest. It isn't easy to read in poor light at any time, but it's even harder when you wake up with a headache or toothache at 3 a.m. Insurance companies know how many claims they have paid on the lives of customers who mistook sleeping pills, sulfa pills or iodine for aspirin, vitamins or nerve tonics.

Your bathroom should have a small light burning all night, and it's a good idea to have night lights in bedrooms and at the tops and bottoms of stairways. You can buy low-wattage lights that will plug directly into any electrical outlet without a lead or socket. These bulbs cost only a few cents each. The cost of burning them all night is almost negligible, but the safety they give you isn't. The important thing is that you provide plenty of electrical outlets, particularly at strategic points throughout your house.

There is an old saying, "Trifles make perfection, but perfection is no trifle." So it is with the safety-proofing of homes. It is not a drastic change in design, but the combination of simple, inexpensive little things which makes the difference between the ordinary home and the safe home.

Safety can be accomplished through common sense. It means more than the protection of life and limb. It should even be considered in terms of dollars and cents, for a safe home is a more desirable, more valuable home. And many safety features cost the same as building the unsafe way.

If you decide to sell in the future, you will find that good planning means money and easier sale. All prospective buyers, but particularly those with children or those with aged relatives in the household, will consider the safety and convenience of the location of your home. They will notice and appreciate the safety features in your home and pay you more for them. The desirability of safe design is so simple and obvious when it is seen, but so often overlooked whenever homes are being constructed!

he housing needs of the aged are great, and more and more, the aged are becoming good potential customers for homes. More and more aged are retiring. They are living longer. They have more money. More and more of them are living in or looking for their own homes. You will have a much better chance to sell at a better price if you build a home now suited to the needs of the aged.

But suppose you decide to stay where you are. Your chances, too, of living longer are improving each year. During the last half century, your life expectancy has increased by 20 years, and it will keep right on going up.

The home you are building today will still be occupied 50 years from now. You might still be the occupants then, so build for the present and build for the future. THE END

How to get summer air conditioning out of your warm air heating system

You can do it for cigarette money with the new Lennox Stowaway Air Conditioner... now available for custom-installation by your local Lennox Comfort Craftsman

A remarkable series of engineering breakthroughs by Lennox, world leader in the science of conditioning air, has led to the development of a new kind of whole-house air conditioner that hooks right up to your warm air furnace ducts and registers.

It can be installed in an attic, basement or crawl space; or outside on a roof or concrete slab.

Unexcelled in its performance, the new Lennox Stowaway air conditioner is surprisingly economical to install, operate and maintain. It costs no more over the years you enjoy it than you spend on cigarettes—even if your family smokes as little as two packs a day.

Economical to install

Air cooled, the Lennox Stowaway requires no plumbing, no water tower, no expensive wiring. Even if you don't have a warm air heating system it's economical to install. Simple ductwork is all that's needed in homes with hot water, steam or radiant heat; or with a space heater, wall heaters or floor furnace. And operating cost is amazingly low! The Lennox Stowaway air conditioner uses definitely less electricity than many other air-cooled air conditioners of similar capacity, as it cools and dehumidifies the air throughout your whole home. Two compressors assure a constant, comfortable balance of temperature and moisture. Lennox Stowaway units of 2-ton,  $3\frac{1}{4}$ -ton, and 5-ton capacities are now available for custom-installation by your Lennox Comfort Craftsman. Also available is a wide variety of other Lennox air conditioning equipment—for every home need, and for many commercial installations as well.

Buy now on Easy Pay Plan

Not common to old houses alone are architectural protrusions like one at left of this window. Here nice balance has been achieved by use of a continuous cornice. It is carried out onto ceiling to a point three inches beyond air conditioner. Cornice begins at window's edge. The sections over window are put up on ceiling track. They may be drawn back for light, or when the air conditioner is on, fabric may be draped over brackets that have decorative brass rosettes attached. The fabric is crystal white fiber glass, woven in horizontal stripes.

Curtains at right are hung on traverse track cut to fit curved board that also has draperies and cornice attached. The window shade is handsomely textured and is of washable variety. Note depth of cornice points — planned to break below top of window frame.

How to make your room air conditioner put its

No matter how much joy you get from that mechanical miracle, the room air conditioner, you probably don't think of it as an asset in your decorating. And most air conditioners are installed in living rooms ... the very room that establishes the decorative mood of a home. To function properly, the unit must be exposed. Also, the window must remain a light source. Yet in "breathing" out, the exhaust section pulls smoke and dust from the room—even the sheerest fabric hung in front of it catches dirt. The trick then, is to devise draperies that hide the air conditioner when not in use and minimize its obtrusion when it's in operation or the window is exposed. In the four ways shown, draperies are movable. All are of washable fabrics, quite impervious to sun. Each treatment is groomed to fit the room.

To house their air conditioner, control light from the windows, and conceal the heat convector when not in use, one couple hit on this plan. Two pair of draw curtains hang from the ceiling to the top of the air conditioner. At that point, they attached a 9"-deep wooden shelf, using brackets at either end and in center. Two more pairs of draw curtains hang to floor. Single panel installed on window apron just below air conditioner covers convector —makes unit of whole treatment. Fabric is a semi-opaque fiber glass bouclé over-printed in a delicate design.

The straight line is not always the shortest to a dramatic effect. Nor must materials be the most costly. Here, the cornice is of felt with a double row of stitching around the shaped edge. The draperies are fashioned of cotton dress plaid; curtains are inexpensive, fadeproof casement cloth. Curve also helps cut depth of whole treatment.

Typical result when air conditioner is installed in single window at one side of room. Clever handling makes it focal point of the room.

GROOMED TOO!

est face forward

Perfect for casement windows: new air conditioner that is installed completely inside of room. No removing of window sections, which remain operable. How to cope with the 16" projection? Use a striped canopy and partner it with a garden-gay floral design. Canopy should extend beyond the air conditioner far enough to accommodate pulled-back drapery. The colormatched fabrics are specially-treated cottons, and, since you do-it-yourself, they can match bedspread.

Here's how to make canopy for air conditioner, shown above. Canopy begins as an open wood frame (above right) with plywood cut to fit each end. Make the valance separately and tack it on after fabric is stretched on frame. Install curtain rods inside of the frame, then you're ready to hang the entire unit.

ELIZABETH A. O'TOOLE

We bought our summer house in an icy-cold north wind on April Fool's Day. Because the temperature indoors was colder than it was outside, we closed the deal within half an hour. We paid a deposit while shivering in a wind that had blown off the porch railing that very morning.

As soon as we gained legal title on May first, we returned for a good look at our purchase. The look wasn't encouraging.

An old-fashioned porch sagged around the front and sides. From attic to dining room, the walls and ceilings were painted a railroadstation-yellow ochre with chocolate trim. A bizarre fireplace in one corner was a bloody red. The wiring was incredibly antiquated, with cords dangling from a ceiling outlet to floor lamps in a way that seemed to assure our being tripped—or beheaded—if we crossed the room in the dark. Brittle paper drapes covered window shades in all possible faded hues. An old coal stove, a black iron sink and an electric plate looked up bleakly to an open-raftered kitchen. And the bathtub, on a slant, had once been cut for size and then cemented together into an incredibly grotesque shape.

On the positive side were the 100-year-old elm not far from the big, narrow house, a back porch the width of the house and open to the sky, an apparently solid foundation, a living room 15 x 20 feet, with double French doors opening into the side porch—and above all, the view: long, greening land sloping to a whitecapped sea that spread out below us into the distance on either side.

Our first hours in the house were spent wandering back and forth with feelings alternating between despair and hope. The quantity of work ahead was discouraging, but the land, the sea air and the view of the bay had a buoying effect. We chose our bedrooms that day, deciding that we could do nothing further until we had spoken to electricians, plumbers and painters.

Summer House

Late spring and early summer are the busiest times of the year for tradesmen in sea towns, and we had some difficulty in contracting for the work to be done on the house. Fortunately, an electrician was able to answer our call promptly. He closed off all ceiling outlets and placed wall sockets in convenient places. A plumber managed to make his repairs and installations without many complications, although finding a 4' tub—so we could replace the old bathtub without breaking down a wall—cost us many trips before we found one, 20 miles from home.

Next, a carpenter repaired the porch and removed three steps in the kitchen to make room for the refrigerator. We bought a new gas stove and negotiated for bottled gas, in the meantime being warmed by an old coal stove that burned quite nicely after a few days of smoky debate with a chimney that had been enjoying retirement.

When we discovered that none of the painters could handle our work until late July, we went ahead ourselves by investing in several gallons of paint, plus a handyman. And then another sort of disorder set in: For two weeks all of the rooms —and all of us—were paint-splattered, paint-conscious, and rapidly becoming paint-unconscious. There was a drop cloth in every room, variously covering our wicker chairs and rockers, tables, desks, an antique commode that was to serve as a desk, a wardrobe case, bureaus and sawed-down bedheads. During the evenings we had to scoop out a free area among drop cloths so that we might have a few inches to relax in.

By the Fourth of July, our handyman had left and we were able to set aside our paint brushes for a look around. We liked what, at last, we saw: The fireplace bricks and the shelf above had been given several coats of off-white-semi-gloss enamel. Set in a frame of aqua matched-board walls, the fireplace was now extremely attractive. All of the ceilings were painted white, and the living room and the hall right up to the attic were painted a soft shade of aqua. CONTINUED ON PAGE 126

"Will spend $500 to $800 on Wedding Reception ...."

hat's the amount a well-known bank figures the bride-to-be on the average will spend. But, regardless of the exact figure, the average will spend. But, regardless of the wheeks have, it's pretty certain that a wedding in the family wreaks have with the family budget. And yet, of all times, one's daughter's wedding is no time for Scrooges! It should be a time of joy and happiness, unmarred by secret gnawings of financial worry. A time when the very house itself should radiate beauty, as our "best" silver, our "best" linens are brought out to do honor to the great day. But a time, too, when our skill, be it for flower arrangements or days on end of heavenly odors in our kitchens-these things that are of ourselves, visual emblems of our love—can be far greater contributions than heavy bank withdrawals can ever be. With this in mind and a firm conviction that a sincere job on our part could well be one of the most helpful services we could r Daughter

"Hear the mellow wedding bells, Golden bells! What a world of happiness their harmony foretells!"

As the strains of Lohengrin peal out, there is for the first time the sudden realization that the big day has at long last arrived—it is HER day—the bride's own day! All plans have revolved around her happiness and hopes, and rightly so, for her wedding day will be the most serious, sentimental and beautiful remembrance of her entire life.

In planning for this occasion, Mother will love getting out the family heirlooms and checking on tradition and etiquette; but, if we know our modern bride, her ingenuity will match Mother's, and together they'll find ways to keep the budget from blowing its top—and Dad's too! On the following pages you'll see many ideas which we hope will help in preparing for the big event.

Before the bride starts down the aisle, Mother follows tradition — she lowers the wedding veil over the bride's face.

Whether they're do-it-yourself or designed by a top florist, wedding decorations should have one common denominator—good taste. Prices are affected by season and locale—the final result can be very expensive, but with planning, the cost can be curtailed and the effect beautiful.

-THE DECORATIONS-

Tall Chancel Arrangements. These are constructed of iron pipe wedged in cement block. Attached to top is a roasting pan with candle crossboard. Pan filled with plastic foam holds lilies, gladiolus, carnations, and Japanese yew. Magnolia is wrapped onto pole with wire, spiral fashion. Total cost: $12.$15 each.

The Altar. Altar decorations may be kept restrained—cloths are decorative in themselves. Cross must always be highest point. Flowers: gladiolus, lilies, "mums," tuberoses: $25. Garden flowers would lessen this.

A formal church wedding with distinguished and breathtaking decorations that may be arranged wholly or in part by the family

Window Decoration. Luxurious-looking arrangement began with painted coffee can on block wired to candelabra. Roses, tuberoses, stock, eucalyptus, magnolia; $15-$17.50 each.

The moment all have been waiting for, when the bride comes down the aisle on her father's arm, is the culmination of weeks of preparation. It's the moment when mother has a lump in her throat, well disguised by an endearing smile. All the fuss and feathers will be well worth the effort, for this a beautiful and memorable occasion, reflecting parental love and affection with the visible blessing that will be today and forever.

THE OCCASION: Formal of the bride

Fully aware that serving gourmet food to the bridal party is love's labour lost insofar as appreciation of the food itself goes, nonetheless this first shared meal as man and wife is a very important part of the Golden web memory will weave of this day of days, and no minutest detail may be short of perfection itself.

THE DECORATIONS

· You can duplicate this elegant centerpiece of calla lilies and white stock by starting with an oval silver vegetable dish elevated slightly by placing it on its inverted cover. Determine the desired height by placing tallest calla in position first, then the length by inserting the stock at each end. Fill in with callas in a rhythmic line graduating the height. Face them with some uniformity to avoid a helterskelter effect. Fill in with more stock and a few camellia leaves and buds. Hint: before using callas, insert a florist stick in stem, leaving about an inch projecting, and wire to stem. Cost to make: $12-$15. Sword decoration at top of page: Small rose buds, narrow satin ribbon. Cost: $3.

Our bride did all of this-and decorated and arranged the enclosed patio of her parents' home for the reception for 25. Small tables, each seating four, were arranged for the guests, but little else was needed because the outside view has turned the setting into a woodland garden. Buy the Plans Building

When an American HOME reader saw this vacation house in our magazine (far left) in May 1953, it started a chain reaction. He dreamed of a house just like it; then he bought the plans and adapted them to his needs. He bought and cleared the land near the Atlantic; now he has house seen in two views above.

Compare original house and adaptation in views below (original in two views on left). Window wall in adaptation is somewhat more expensive, Living rooms differ mostly in decorating, furnishing details.

NEW HOUSE OWNER-DESIGNER: ROBERT H. MASON

in The American Home"

JAMES W. BRETT

Thinking of building a vacation house? Then check our Blueprint House No. 56. It belongs to Robert Mason of Falmouth, Mass., who's a versatile fellow. In our May, 1953 issue he saw a house he liked and bought the plans from us. Then he changed the plans to fit his particular needs, built most of the house himself, and while doing the job, took the pictures for this story.

While Mr. Mason's adaptation is more expensive than our original house, the extra money was wisely spent to make room for a larger family and weekend guests. For outdoor living he added the sundeck off the living room and the terrace off the lower level. This lower level, almost doubling living space, was added at relatively little cost since the foundation walls were in the original design.

Notice how well the house is adapted to its site. A wall of windows in the living and kitchen area overlooks the sea and admits breezes aplenty and lots of light. To the right of the entrance, sleeping quarters and bath are concentrated. Bath and kitchen plumbing are backed up to the same partition to cut the cost of labor and materials.

You see the greatest amount of difference between original house (left) and adaptation (below) on side that faces the water. New version has sundeck on upper level, terrace on lower level.

Floor plan of upper level shows how Mr. Mason divided space to suit his family's needs. Entry separates the living area from the sleeping area; kitchen and bath are "back to back" to keep building costs to minimum.

Lower level's floor plan shows how a complete apartment was made for son's family: living room, bedroom and a bath. And there's also that fully-equipped workshop Mr. Mason uses in furniture-building projects.

The Moos family took a critical look at their seldom-used porch and decided to give it a new life

ELIZABETH C. CLEMONS

The Daniel Moos family were in the market for a new home, and they had their eyes on this 10-yearold house. Yes, it seemed fine for a family with four children. There was a children's wing, master bedroom wing, fireplace in the living room and another on the terrace, and plenty of living space both inside and out.

Besides, they liked the simple, uncluttered architectural lines of this house on Lake Minnetonka. And yet, as good as the house was, Catherine and Daniel Moos felt that a few personal touches would make it even better. They decided to buy and remodel.

Main object of the remodeling was to create an informal family area in the huge and somewhat formal open-plan living room. The best spot for the family area was the adjoining screen porch. Such a porch is

This end of the open-plan living room started out its career as a screened porch that was used during only a few months a year. But now it's a year-'round family area.

They All Love to Cook!

The house already had two fireplaces: one for outdoor barbecues, another in the living room useful only a few months a year in Minnesota, so the Moos family decided to enclose it for year-'round family living.

Probably the most important requirement for this new area was to provide a place where they could enjoy the hobby of the whole family: cooking! The perfect answer is their modern brick fireplace wall, including not only a conventional fireplace but also a copper-hooded raised compartment for their electric rotisserie. Around this focal point is a comfortable grouping of chairs, stools, and a sofa, for reading, relaxing, conversation or TV. And between the fireplace wall and the kitchen is a round table and chairs—fine for informal meals, and handy for games.

Besides creating this excellent family area, the Moos family also did some other remodeling. The living room gained a library area that was formerly the front entrance-way. This area is at what you'd call the center of the open-plan living room, and faces the fireplace that already existed.

Then there's the new front entry. It used to be a small room thought of as the "den," but seldom used. Now, as the entry, it is one of the home's most useful areas. It's well adapted to Minnesota living, for it has lots of room for storing the boots and heavy clothing of guests and family.

One other change considerably altered the looks of the house both inside and out. The Moos family switched to light-colored walls inside, and a lighter exterior than the original barn-red.

As a result of the remodeling, a good 10-yearold house has become an excellent "brand-new" home, tailored to the needs of this active family of six—a family of six who all love to cook!

Spring always seems to bound in with a look of newness that's a fresh and bright tonic to our winter-weary spirits. And wouldn't it be just dandy if our homes could be renewed just as magically as the world outside?

Certainly we all know that it takes more than wishful dreaming. It takes some down-to-earth thinking and a bit of work to lift a tired, dull room out of its lethargy.

We also know it's seldom possible—and not always advisable to completely "do over" a room or a house. But we can do small, specific things to create excitement and a fresh look. It may be nothing more than redecorating windows or dramatizing doors like the ones shown here, yet it can brighten a whole room.

Yes, these are good, inexpensive ideas to get you going on revitalizing your home. We hope—and believe—these ideas will inspire you to try still more adventures in decorating.

Black and White Setting, Stylish and Cool

Here the windows are simply hung in a linen fabric in the Eyelet pattern designed by Dorothy Liebes for the Quaker Lace Company. Ivy plants on the outside cover the lower part of windows enough so the young couple can dine in privacy. They can see out but cannot be seen from the street. Unlined off-white curtains, ivy, and black and white tile floor add a cool look to this New York apartment.

Decorate a Door with Wallpaper

Here is an excellent, easy decorating idea. Wallpaper in stripes is cut on diagonal to make this doorway in a dining room a decorative architectural feature. The dado is another way for you to use wallpaper one roll wide around the room. It ties in beautifully with the decorated flush door.

It's Done With Tape

Simple door, simple treatment, with a dramatic result. Adhesive-backed tape in white and brown intersects itself in design that takes minutes to apply. Easily removed if you want a change.

See "Where Credit Is Due," pages 127-129

Warm Color Brightens Otherwise Cold Room

Here is an excellent way of adding interest to a room where pattern in draperies and slipcover is not desired. The room very definitely needed "pepping up," and—with the cool green in walls and carpet—a rich red fabric does the trick. The white trimming is done on a sewing machine, a stitch combining the "zig-zag and key" that anyone can do at home. This decorative touch ties in well with the antique white of furniture, the white mats of pictures, lamps and smaller accessories . . . flowers, too. PLEASE TURN THE PAGE

Scalloped valance (above) is a little different in design from the ones you see most often. It's unusual, too, because it's trimmed with shiny pearl buttons—tiny ones following the line of the curve, and big ones placed in the center. Valance enhances draperies of same yellow cotton taffeta. Window decor is completed with curtains of sheer bobinet.

Suggestive of an outdoor summer lattice, this white lattice (left) frames a floral chintz window shade. The shade is a lively blue, with white flowers and green leaves. Swag of white illusion voile adds to the beauty of this summery unit.

Unlined silk is soft and summery-looking. Soft rose silk is used (below) with a shirred heading for a wide, wide curtain. The custom-designed gilt rod has a pineapple design at the ends. Looped cord and tassels are in mixed colors that have been chosen to harmonize with the colors used in the room.

HOW TO PROPAGATE

JOHN J. SIMPKINS

Pachysandra is one of the most attractive and useful of all the low-growing groundcovers. It grows in dense shade, where you can't grow grass, and on steep slopes, where you can't cut grass. And once established, the only care it needs is annual feeding and occasional watering during droughts.

But if you decide to plant a good-size area, setting the plants 4" to 6" apart as recommended, you may find it costs more than you're prepared to spend. So give up the idea? Definitely no!

Be smart. Buy as many plants as the budget allows. Then, when they begin growing, take cuttings from them and propagate as many new plants as you need. It's easy, and it won't take too long. These step-by-step pictures show you how.

Pachysandra cuttings root easily—even in a vase of water indoors. But to root a lot, build a sunken rooting bed like this in a lightly-shaded spot outdoors. This one's 2' by 3', 5" deep, holds 300 to 400 cuttings.

A good rooting medium for pachysandra is a mixture of soil, peatmoss, and sand, in about equal proportions. Mix them together thoroughly, filling the rooting bed to the top, and soak the medium well for a day or two before you insert the cuttings.

With sharp flower shears or knife, take cuttings, about 3" long, from tips of stems. Remove lower leaves from cuttings and insert in rooting hed, about  $1\frac{1}{2}$ " deep and  $1\frac{1}{2}$ " to 2" apart. Keep rooting bed always moist.

In six to eight weeks, cuttings will be well-rooted and ready for planting in their permanent location. Plant 4" to 6" apart and keep well watered. Peatmoss or the new plastic film mulch will eliminate weeding while pachysandra is "filling in."

In two years you'll have plants like this-completely covering the ground.

Original house (above) had advantages of a beautiful site, plenty of full-grown trees. Now (right) it is bigger, has a terrace, too.

The Virags Knew How

They knew it would take time and plenty of work—to remodel this old house. But perseverance paid off!

In 1952, the side and back of the house looked as it does at left. With some hired help, Mr. Virag added wing (with bay window) for living room, with bedroom above it. The new section is approximately 16x24'; took Mr. Virag's spare time for two years. "Rain, rain, rain" irritatingly delayed terrace work.

Where terrace is (left), old kitchen stood. Old kitchen, moved to the back, has become laundry and freezer room. Present kitchen was the big pantry of the original house. This remodeling maneuver gained more space—the utility room—and lets the terrace adjoin the living room: modern indooroutdoor living bonus for any home.

1952

When Mr. and Mrs. Virag moved into their home five years ago, the original small parlor looked as it does at right ... dark and dreary. Big fireplace, which should have been focal point of the room, was a grim sight. And see that ceiling! Not only did the Virags make a big new living room, but they transformed this parlor into a bright beauty, shown below.

The little parlor has become a charming room with light walls, ceiling, rug; whitened fireplace bricks assisting.

Near the rosewood piano is "grandmother," clock concocted from an old factory timeclock and some pine. Base of lamp near fireplace is an old milk can, antiqued. The magazine stand is colander with legs!

The Virags removed roof from the big old porch (above, left) as soon as they moved into the house. Later, they had time to add Colonial porch designed by architect.

to Wait!

Take one old house in countrified Greenfield Hill, add five years of loving remodeling care, and you have a big, beautiful and comfortable home that hasn't cost you a fortune. That's what Mr. and Mrs. William F. Virag of Fairfield, Connecticut, have proved with the house you see here.

They hired carpenters, electricians, and painters to do preliminary work, then William and Martha Virag and their teenage daughter moved in. And Mr. Virag proceeded to add a wing—a big new living room topped by a bedroom—while his wife set to work on color schemes and scouting antique shops and auctions for fine old pieces they could refinish.

Their three acres held—in addition to the house a barn, a wagon shed, and an orchard. The barn, rebuilt, is used "for everything." The wagon shed, minus doors, is a carport with an attractive weathered-wood finish. And the orchard thrives.

Yes, it took work and time. But the Virags knew how to work—and wait. And now they have a beautiful home: more than worth it, as you can see.

GIVE HER A PANTRY SHOWER

The custom of giving the bride-to-be a shower shortly before she starts her married life is a charming festivity that has come down through the ages. And along with this delightful custom, her intimate friends have inherited the privilege of giving these showers. Although there are all kinds of showerslingerie, china, and so on, these friends also may specify that only gifts of an indicated type are expected. So, as a good friend giving the shower, you might like to know that it would not be amiss to select something that could be jointly shared with the groom-to-be, who certainly doesn't occupy the center of the stage during the engagement. What could that be? A pantry shower! Boxes of goodies, boxes of staples, foods for the first few

Add spice to their lives in boxes and jars. Add a few herbs-for salads and gourmet cooking. A Menu-Maker makes a good gift box, can be used to file recipes.

Take a Package

Does your husband ever call you up and cheerfully announce he's bringing the boss home for dinner in an hour? Do relatives show up unexpectedly for dinner? Then you're on the look-out for quick, easy recipes. You want to prepare speedy dishes that will fool the boss and your family into thinking a great chef has been in your kitchen all afternoon. Each of these six dishes of sophisticated fare started with a package of frozen corn kernels, frozen corn on the cob, or the new frozen cream-style corn.

If it's a main dish you need, you'll find you can prepare CORN-STUFFED PORK CHOPS by a speedy method. CORN-STUFFED PUDDING is another main dish. Made with oysters, it has a delicate and unfathomable taste even a gourmet cannot ignore. CORN PUFF-UPS make a tasty, delightful-tolook-at hot bread. CORN FONDUE DIP, served with cubes of French bread, makes delicious hors d'oeuvres. OVEN-ROASTED CORN ON THE COB, in its edible lettuce-leaf husk, is an elegant vegetable. And the intrigue of a CORN PIE for dessert will certainly give proof of your diversified culinary talents.

ITALIAN FOOD WITH A PROFESSIONAL TOUCH

VIRGINIA SCHROEDER

• Italian foods practically make themselves—and prettily too when you use some of these kitchen helpers that can be found in the housewares section of almost any department store. Noodlemakers, ravioli trays, and Italian waffle-irons are three that will give that fancy, professional touch—and with less effort than it takes to make the foods plain. You'll enjoy the admiration your handiwork will get from those who eat these homemade delicacies.

• The noodle-maker rolls the dough paper-thin and then cuts it into strips (fine or coarse, depending upon the setting). After the dough is rolled thin, dry it slightly and put it through the cutting blades. The noodles separate into long strips. A short drying in the oven and they are ready. Make them in advance—they'll keep!

• Homemade ravioli—could anything be better? With this little tray you put them together in a flash. Place one layer of noodle dough or pasta over a filled sheet of dough. A final rolling with little rolling pin cuts them apart and gives them a fancy edge. All that remains to do is boil them, cover them with your favorite sauce.

• Italian waffles they're called, but they're really cookies. Short cookie dough is placed on molds and pressed flat. Then cookies are baked over low heat on top of the range. They come out crisp and delicate, with diamond-shaped pattern on one side and fancy design on other. Serve plain or make into ice-cream sandwiches.

So wholesome! And the fresh, cool taste wakes up sleepy morning appetites

Wesson Oil guarantees you better fried potatoes — because it does not smoke

and the second se

WHOLE-FRIED

TEMPTING FRIES — the smoke-free way with Wesson

• For "French Fries" — cut potatoes into strips 3/8inch wide and 3/8-inch thick. For Lattice French Fries, cut potatoes with waffle potato cutter. Soak in cold water one hour; drain thoroughly between paper towels. Fwy until light brown in deep Wesson Oil heated to 375° F. Wesson fried potatoes are light, digestible.

• For Pototo Puffs --- add one beaten egg to 2 cups cold, seasoned, mashed potatoes. Form into balls

• For "Whole Fried" Potatoes (a new quick trick to try)—pierce ends of medium size, unpeeled potatoes with a fork. Drop whole into Wesson Oil heated to 350° F. Cook 20 to 30 minutes depending on size. They taste better and cook faster than baked potatoes. Mild Wesson brings out the full flavor.

Brighter flavor—because there's no smoke with Wesson at any frying temperature. The nicest solid shortenings smoke—even at 375°. The light touch of Wesson lets all the fresh, delicate flavor shine through. Potatoes brown beautifully, taste tender inside, crisp to the bite.

Better for you. Smoke is a sign that shortening is breaking down, and that can hardly be good for you. Potatoes fried in Wesson sit right after supper. No greasy film, either, even after they've cooled. Wesson doesn't harden and coat over foods as solid shortenings tend to.

Easier on your budget. Sparkling light Wesson Oil is purer to start with than any other oil or shortening —and it stays purer. You can fry economically with the same Wesson again and again.

Easier to do. Catch up with the times! Fry the modern, work-saving way with shortening you pour—sparkle-light, sparkle-pure Wesson Oil, the instant shortening.

GUARANTEED NOT TO SMOKE

If Wesson Oil smokes at any frying temperature that any frying recipe recommends, send the label to the Wesson Oil People, 210 Baronne St., New Orleans, La. Tell us the price you paid and full refund will be made.

FINE ART OF SALAD ARRANGING

MIXED GREEN SALAD Sliced tomatoes, onions, radishes, cucumber; assorted greens.

VERA BJORCK

Springtime . . . gay flowers throughout the house . . . and to perk up your table, a crisp and appetizing salad. Salad arranging, just like the proper placement of flowers, is an art—with color, texture, and choice of container playing equally important roles. Just for a change, leave your regular salad bowl on the shelf and experiment with some of those other bowls and platters you've been neglecting. Select any one of them, just as long as it's large enough.

To show off your salad to best advantage, remember two things: serve your dressing separately, and don't crowd. With so many delicious and decorative salad greens available, and with such a palette of colorful ingredients to select for both taste- and eyeappeal, let the colors, shapes, and textures suggest the arrangement. One tip: just as in planning flower arrangements, grouping of ingredients is usually more effective than helter-skelter scattering. Here are a few suggestions. MORE PICTURES ON PAGE 80

5 new ways to have fun* with fruit cocktail!

Feel like having fun? Fun with foods you like? Fun with folks you love? Then ring a rainbow 'round your meals a rainbow of fruit cocktail!

Couldn't be easier, for all five fruits are ready to use, right from the can. Couldn't be better, either, 'specially these quick new ways. Try one this very day—just for fun!

canned fruit cocktail from California

Cling Peach Advisory Board - California Canning Pear Growers

*salad fun!

Combine drained fruit cocktail, chopped walnuts and marshmallow bits. Spoon onto crisp lettuce. (And for a heavenly dressing, simply blend mayonnaise with a little fruit cocktail syrup.)

*main-dish fun!

Drain one #2½ can fruit cocktail. Set aside fruit while you boil syrup until thick. Add ¼ cup brown sugar, 1½ tablespoons vinegar, fruit cocktail. Heat and pour steaming hot on ham.

*dessert fun!

Freeze unopened fruit cocktail overnight in freezer compartment. Slide fruit out and cut in frosty circles (or scoop out with spoon). Top with whipped cream—and you've fixed a party dazzler!

first-course fun!

Speedy way to dress up any dinner! All you do is pile chilled fruit cocktail high in fruit cups, and drizzle a spoonful of undiluted frozen orange juice concentrate on top. Good! Easy!

*breakfast fun!

Wide-awake idea for sleepyheads! Next time you serve up waffles or pancakes at your house, try topping them with colorful fruit cocktail. Then pour on maple syrup, same as always.

I ths. chopped parsley I tsp. grated lemon peel X4 tsp. sugar 2 drops of Worcestershire sauce

½ cup salad oil
 ¼ cup tarragon vinegar
 1 tsp. salt
 ¼ tsp. paprika
 1 tbs. chopped chives or onion

Flouring chicken is a very neat operation if you shake the piece with the flour and seasonings in either a paper or plastic bag. You'll also find that this coats the chicken more evenly than rolling it in the flour.

in champagne sauce turkey

cups cooked turkey*, julienne 11/2 cups turkey stock

r cup Champagne

• Heat stock in a succepan, add cornstarch dissolved in a little cold stock, stirring until it clears and thickens. Add turkey meat. Bring to boiling point or until thoroughly heated, correct seasoning. Remove from fire. Add the Champagne. Serve on toast. Serves 6.

*Boiled turkey is best for creamed sauces or left-over use, as it is moister and can provide a rich, flavortul stock for sauces or gravy. If stock is desired, a turkey of 15-16 lbs. is most economical. A turkey of this approx. weight should be boiled (covered) for about 4 hours, or until tender, with 3 carrots, 1 med. onion, 6 sprigs of parsley, stalk of celery, a teaspoon thyme and one large bay leaf, salt and peppercorn. Cool in the stock.

If a stronger, richer stock is desired (and most sauces as well as aspics do require a richer stock) remove all fat, strain and reduce stock to about half before proceeding with sauce.

DON'T THROW THOSE WARRANTIES AWAY!

Ever hear of a warranty card, an instruction book and guarantee? Bet that's what you threw away when you unpacked that carton—remember? But please, oh please, take note when you get a new appliance. An instruction book and a warranty card come with every appliance. Your warranty card is your guarantee or "insurance" offered by the manufacturer. Be sure that you fill out this card and immediately return it, as indicated, to the manufacturer or dealer. This notifies him that you own his appliance. He then depends on the dealer to give you complete service, whether it's for replacement of parts or generally checking the appliance. BUT REMEMBER ... your guarantee might be questionable, if you have not returned the card!

Your instruction book is your guide when it comes to appliances. The product will give you much better service if it is used properly. Improper use may mean a costly service call, one that could have been averted had you read the instructions. Keep the books where they are easy to reach and where you will read them often at your planning center in the kitchen, or hanging on a bulletin board; or anywhere . . . BUT PLEASE— DON'T THROW THEM AWAY!

S. O. S. works equally well on linoleum, asphalt tile, vinyl tile, rubber tile and hardwood floors.

COMPACT KITCHEN-JUST 6x6

HELEN B. GREENE

Like many young American couples, we were cramped into a small two-room apartment we were to call home for awhile. The kitchen seemed impossible. It was a pullman kitchen with old cabinets, an old sink, range, china closet and refrigerator—all in the living room. So we decided to steal space from the living room; and for $250 plus our own labor, we got a marvelous new kitchen.

Here's what we did: we set aside a 6' x 6' area and measured for new appliances. We bought a freezer and built a broom closet and kept the refrigerator and china closet. The landlord provided a new range and sink. A 6' x 6' bookcase became a room divider its back, a kitchen wall. We made another kitchen wall from a bookcase on the china closet to hold glassware, large casserole dishes and platters. Perforated hardboard on back of bookcases held pots and pans. On one wall, the freezer provided countertop space and the refrigerator and broom closet helped balance the height of the tall bookcase wall.

Finishing touches? We covered the old glass-paneled cabinets with painted hardboard panels, built a 4" shelf under them for gadgets and spices, added decorative lighting, and covered the wall with adhesive-backed paper. Did our new kitchen take much time? No; we did all the work on weekends—and enjoyed it!

e've all seen "his" and "hers" on towels and bathmats, but "his" and "hers" workshops are not so common. The idea makes sense, however, for Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Babnick of Tucson, Arizona. They both like to do-it-themselves, but their hobbies are entirely different from each other.

Dr. Babnick's shop (above left) is outfitted with all the tools-and storage space-necessary to do a complete woodworking job. He makes all kinds of furniture and storage units for the house and does repair jobs in his workshop, too. As a matter of fact, he built the workshop wing of the house himself!

Mrs. Babnick is very interested in ceramics. Her workshop (above right) has a kiln, and shelves loaded down with glazes, sprays, paints and molds. Besides ceiling light, there's one above work counter for use on dark days.

The door that opens from Mrs. Babnick's workshop into the garden is a Dutch door (center picture); a rack attached to the lower half holds reference publications for her hobby.

When the Babnicks built their home, they planned for the later addition of their workshops. Originally, there was only the front carport (left, in plan), but concrete extended back to accommodate the planned addition.

The workshop-carport wing is at right angles to the house, roofed to match. The front carport leads to the kitchen-and has wide double doors leading to Dr. Babnick's workshop. Directly behind the handyman's hideout is Mrs. Babnick's little studio, with another carport accessible from an alley behind the studio. This carport has a storage spot at one end.

A decorative reflection of Mrs. Babnick's ancestry is the Norwegian motto on her studio wall. It's also a reflection of the Babnicks' enthusiasm for "do-it-yourself" as satisfying enough to be worth two workshops, for translated, the motto says, "Busy hands make happy hearts."

Visit Our Ready-Made Garden

This is the time of year the postman brings last winter's seed catalog purchases. The arrival of a new species of rose, or tulip or zinnia is eagerly awaited (who knows but what you may be the first to come up with a pure white marigold). Most gardeners are of the do-it-yourself variety who go at the job with patience, intensity and devotion. The results are truly rewarding and the envy of the flower watching society.

However, there is much to be said for flower watching. In our case, this sport provides us with endless ideas for Imperial wallpaper collections. For example, our E-Z-DU portfolio offers a garden full of beauty for the browser in flowers. Roses, violets, daisies, lilacs are present in magnificent profusion. We even added flowers in colors and shapes that nature has yet to come up with. In fact, we have captured everything but the fragrance. Mr. Burpee had better look to his laurels!

What's more, E-Z-DU wallpaper florals are inexpensive and will last much longer than nature's product. The paper comes trimmed and ready pasted. You need only to cut strips to proper length, wet and sponge smooth on the wall. As the name implies, E-Z-DU is really easy to do . . . especially with the simple picture instructions that come with every roll. In a weekend you will have a bedroom "garden" without blisters or sunburn. Best of all, it stays neat and attractive. No weeding ever needed.

EVER TRY Lace Appliqué?

JOHN LIPPERT

The delicate design of this lace tree has that Oriental tone in favor with many of our best decorators. Work like this is generally so expensive it can only be a dream or a "someday" thing . . . but no, you can have it now if you make this lace tree "picture" yourself. And it won't look obviously homemade.

Lace is easy to come by, in many forms and textures. You can salvage it from old bits stored around the house, or buy it—even in ro-cent stores. You cut out the various flower forms completely, then mount them individually with a fabric glue that dries transparent and does not show.

First cut a mounting board from heavy cardboard or lightweight fiberboard. Cut it the size you want the finished picture to be. Cut a piece of dark blue and black changeable taffeta, or dark velvet or broadcloth,  $1\frac{1}{2}$ " larger on all four sides to allow for turning under.

wrapping paper like this: If you want finished picture to be 12 x 17", draw 1/2" squares horizontally and vertically. Fill in design in each 1/2" square exactly as it appears in the design shown on page 106. Your design doesn't have to be exactly like this, because your lace flowers may be shaped differently-but this gives an outline of your finished design.

Here's what lace-tree picture will look like after framing. An enhancing accessory, it is unique as well as easy to make.

When you have complete design enlarged, trace onto fabric. Use a white or yellow carbon so it will show clearly on the dark background. Or place brown paper over background and prick right through paper with a very sharp white or yellow pencil. Follow lines carefully and keep pencil marks close together. Spread fabric over heavy cardboard-or fiberboard. Glue edges over and onto back of mounting board with fabric glue. Stretch fabric carefully to keep design straight. Allow glue to set. Cut out lace flowers very carefully and set aside. Cut a piece of selvage from heavy white fishnet and apply glue to one side of it with a toothpick. Place along right side of tree trunk (see photograph). Press gently and carefully with fingers to hold in place; then use a few straight pins to hold in place until dry. Cut a piece of white fishnet and apply with glue to form tree trunk and branches. Now apply lace flowers and leaves to form tree. Tweezers will be most helpful, and pins will anchor flowers while glue dries. Glue on sequins and beads where indicated.

If you can't buy plain white crepepaper butterflies, cut from a sheet of crepe paper, or hunt for lace butterflies. Brush a thin coat of rubber cement over wings, and, while cement is wet, sprinkle on gold or silver sparkle. Glue on sequins as indicated. Glue butterflies in place.

Frame in a simple gold or silver frame without a mat. THE END

Handyman How-To's

A rubber or plastic lamp cord will often dry and crack as it gets old. You can extend cord's life and keep it shiny if you rub occasionally with paraffin.

Painting is easier and results don't stick to surrounding area when you use this trick: raise object on block-&-nail supports.

Strain paint quickly by this method. Use scroll saw or tin snips to cut center from lid of old can. Use this "donut" to hold cheesecloth in place.

Harlequin Accent

When you want to decorate a room attractively, yet keep the walls plain, consider decorating the ceiling. That's just what Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Klausmeyer of Cincinnati, Ohio, did in this child's bedroom. They chose an attractive harlequin-patterned drapery, then made the ceiling match it. Gay for summer home, too.

The way we see it, you can store many things in shoebags besides shoes. Use one, for example, to teach your child to keep his toys picked up, so his bedroom is neat.

Shoebags can serve as ready-made storage compartments, and do not take up much room. Hang one in your garage or workroom to keep small garden tools clean, handy.

HOUSE NO. 1-COMPACT PLAN

same number of square feet as does the medium-spread and far-spread plan. But compact plan gives you the impression house is smaller. And it has little real separation of main areas: service, living and sleeping.

• In the medium-spread plan the house moves out; even though it has same number of square feet as house with compact plan, this house gives you greater feeling of space, inside and out. In this plan there's increased separation between service, living, and sleeping areas, and design looks more interesting from more angles.

How to Make a Small House Appear Bigger

HUBBARD H. COBB

The real size of a house is measured in square feet—the length of the house multiplied by the width. But the size of a house is also measured in how big it looks to the eye, and the eye, as we all know, can be fooled in a lot of ways.

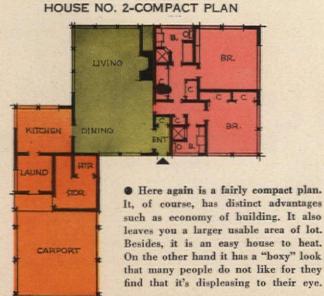

A house that is absolutely square will seem smaller than a house that is oblong, even though the two contain the same number of square feet. We have all been fooled by going into what appears to be a small, square-shaped house and finding out how much actual space it has inside. And a house that's an irregular shape will appear to be larger than one that's oblong even though each contains the exact same number of square feet.

The square-shaped house is the least expensive to build, the oblong-shaped house comes next, and finally the irregular-shaped house. Why, then, would anybody consider building anything but a square- or oblong-shaped house?

When we plan a house, we divide it into its three basic parts living, sleeping and service—and you'll find that it's difficult to keep these three parts separate in a square-shaped house. Another reason for an irregular shape is that this plan often has more interest to the eye. The house (to those who view it from the outside or live in it) seems larger, with more separation between the basic parts.

By spreading out the house, we also can often take better advantage of the view from the lot. We can expose more of the house to the outdoors, and we even get outdoor privacy by letting the house partially encircle a terrace or patio.

MEDIUM-SPREAD PLAN LAUND STRCHEN DINING LIVING TOB HTR C ENTRY O And now, by spreading out the plan, we begin to get a feeling of spaciousness, and you notice that there's a feeling of spaciousness, and you notice that there's a greater separation between the three primary areas: service, living, and sleeping. But though this house has same number of square feet as compact plan (left) you'd need to have bigger lot to make this look right.

FAR-SPREAD PLAN

STAT.

• Once again you see a house whose floor plan has same number of square feet as compact plan (page opposite). But you'd never guess unless you took its measure and did some calculations, for the house looks very big both inside and out. Separation is excellent between service, living, sleeping areas. Studio gives quiet. Many rooms open to patios protected from street view. FOR MORE PICTURES OF THIS HOUSE, TURN TO PAGE 138

FAR-SPREAD PLAN

• What happens if you take the same number and size of components and jiggle them around a bit? Why, you come up with a house that is not only exciting to look at but also has many real advantages over the more compact houses that have the same number of square feet. Note here particularly that the sleeping area is separated almost completely from the home's service and living areas.

The Theodore Crileys build around a patio to get both privacy and living comfort

• In designing his own house, Theodore Criley had to overcome two unfavorable factors: a lot shaped like a piece of pie, and a climate that's excessively hot in the summer. His answer is a nearly V-shaped house of reverse board-and-batten redwood looking north to a magnificent view across citrus groves to the mountains. Kitchen and living-dining area are along the west side, entry hall and screened-in patio in the middle, and two bedrooms along the east. Since summer heat is excessive, there can be few openings to the west, yet from that direction comes the prevailing breeze. High windows, and a partial partition in the kitchen, let the breeze blow through to the bedrooms thereby help to solve this dilemma.

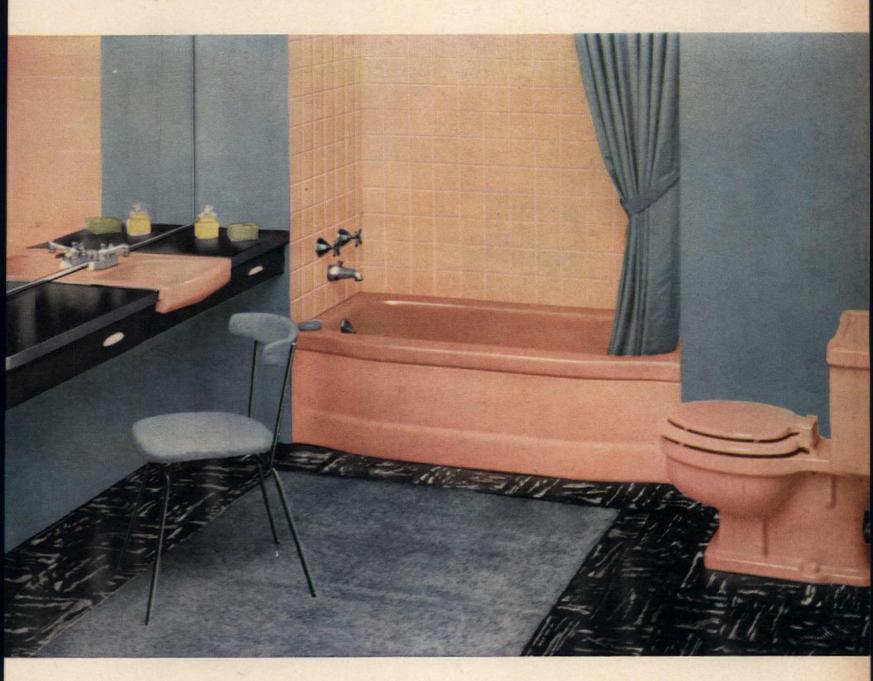

Twilight view from the back garden (at top) shows you the angled V-shape of house. Living-dining wing at right, screened patio in center, two-bedroom wing at left. Front has few windows; garden side nearly all glass. Interior view shows large living-dining area that has a pale yellow ceiling, pewter gray walls, fireplace of pumice block. High windows take advantage of prevailing west breeze. Fixed windows face north and east, and magnificent view. MORE PICTURES ON PAGE 114

View across living area shows fixed glass, with ventilating panels (screened) below. A large panel slides open to the screened porch. A happy combination of modern pieces with old French Provincial furniture and grass matting gives the room an individual character.

Cut apron and legs from 1" birch stock, cut top from  $\frac{3}{4}$ " plywood. Checkerboard is made of  $2\frac{1}{8}$ "-sq. hardwood veneers (in hobby kit). Lay squares in straight lines, as in drawings.

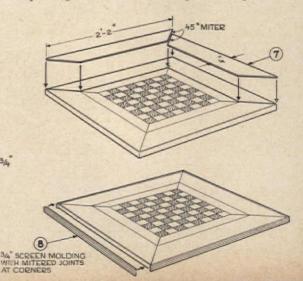

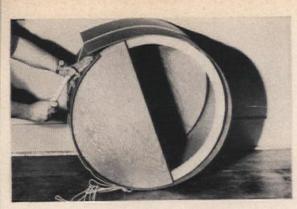

Use glue and flathead screws to fasten plywood top to legs and apron. Now table is shaping up. Then you glue on your wood veneer squares in alternating light and dark wood colors. In the checkerboard kit you get veneer borders you use to frame board. Extra veneer strips available for covering table top. Weight top until glue dries. Wood molding finishes top.

Now bend 16"-wide untempered hardboard strip around top, bottom. Tie in place. Use 1" nails 2" apart to fasten bottom flush, top  $\frac{1}{2}$ " below edge.

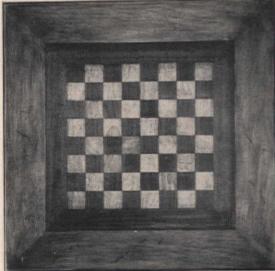

Rims are double layer of 13/8"-wide hardboard strips. Stagger strips so the joints of two layers don't coincide. Trim is bronze or brass weather strip.

OW TO REPLACE THAT BRØKEN

NE W/

1. Put on a pair of gloves and work from the outside. Gently pull out the shattered glass. If pane is only cracked, remove the putty first and take out entire pane. To replace very large panes or one in second-floor window, take out sash frame, place on flat surface.

t can happen any number of ways. This time of year a misguided missile called a baseball is apt to be the cause. Or maybe you just happen to slam a window or glass door too hard. You could even whack a window during housecleaning. Actually it's not too important what sort of accident smashed or cracked a window pane. What is important is what you do about fixing it, for a broken window pane is not only inconvenient and bad looking, it's also downright dangerous!

Fix it yourself? Fine-nothing very complicated about it. But just like most jobs, a few little hints can make the doing easier and the results longer lasting.

3. This step is often left out by those who think it's just extra work. A coat of linseed oil on all the surfaces that get putty will prevent wood from absorbing oil and drying putty. Thinned lead-and-oil paint can substitute for linseed. PLEASE TURN PAGE

4. Before you put in glass, use a putty knife to apply a 1/16" layer of putty over the linseed oil. The layer of putty helps cushion the glass against shock, helps keep out drafts and rain.

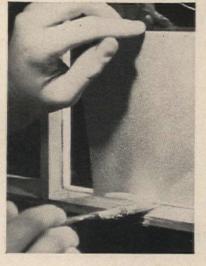

5. Now you put in the glass with the convex surface to the outside. Put glazier's points into frame every 4 inches. Start points with fingers, and then use putty knife; push them in half way.

6. Roll putty into strips the size of a pencil. Lay these strips all around the outside edge of glass, over the glazier's points. This putty should be put on in a small enough quantity so it will not be visible to you from inside the house. Use putty knife (or can-opener) to smooth at correct angle.

7. Let putty set two days before painting. Then you can save yourself the job of scraping paint off glass by using a shield made of cardboard or metal. Place shield up against putty as you paint. Some people like to color putty by kneading in pigment from bottom of paint can. THE END

Old-fashioned door swings out into room, stealing valuable space.

Ordinary sliding doors always block off half the closet.

Everything in the closet is within view, within reachthanks to that lovely MODERNFOLD door. And notice how it folds back inside the doorway and out of the way. It can't steal valuable floor and wall space. It can't bang furniture or other doors. It can't slam shut, bump elbows, or pinch children's fingers. It moves quietly at a touch, even though its rugged inner framework is all steel. And it just won't wear out. That's been proved by factory tests that open and close MODERNFOLD doors millions of times.

MODERNFOLD doors have trim, graceful contours. Their covering is a wonderful vinyl-coated fabric that won't warp, crack, chip, fade or peel. (And it washes easily with soap and water). Only MODERNFOLD offers you such a wide range of attractive colors and interesting fabric textures.

If you want the very finest folding door on the market, insist on a MODERNFOLD. Check with your architect, if you wish. MODERNFOLD doors are sold through leading lumber dealers, department stores and decorating shops. Or look in the Classified Directory under "Doors."

Keep that "just-painted" look longer with 51 DDC AMERICA'S FINEST HOUSE PAINT

... the only house paint with fume-resistant pigments and Vitolized Oil®

SUN-PROOF'S wide range of more than a hundred modern MAESTRO COLORS® invites you to remodel your home with new color combinations that give it a sparkling, fresh personality. By using this famous paint, made with fume-resistant pigments and special Vitolized Oil, your house keeps its "just-painted" look longer. You add extra years of crisp, clean beauty to the life of your home and dollars to its value.

Here's why SUN-PROOF looks better longer!

Much of the oil in ordinary paints soaks into the wood sur-face being painted. This leaves the paint coat starved and brittle -ready to crack and peel with severe weather changes.

Just enough of SUN-PROOF'S Vitolized Oil goes into the wood to insure a firm bond. The right amount stays in the paint coat-keeps it "live" and flexible to resist weather and wear.

LET WAX WORK FOR YOU

BLANCHE CAMPBELL

Wax is the greatest little time- an energy-saver that I know. So wax-conscious and have a shining bright home with a minimum of wor Get acquainted with different kin of waxes, and learn to get the mo out of each kind. I find that wax do ever so much to lighten my hous keeping: The minute I put a ne coat of paint on furniture, woo work, Venetian blinds, etc., and has thoroughly dried, I apply a th coat of wax. This protective fil helps keep things fresh and clean for a long time with only dry dustin

To prevent dust from collectin on the face of a brick fireplace, co. the bricks with liquid wax. The wa fills the porous surface in which du and soot accumulate. Wax also helt guard window sills from rain spot

And you can keep your bras copper, and pewter at its shining be by giving it a thin coat of wax soon as you finish cleaning it. I us wax on fireplace equipment and those lovely copper pots I hang out (bu don't use too often) to give m kitchen a quaint touch. I find liqui wax ideal for my leather belts an handbags. This is wonderful for sports and gardening shoes, too.

I also use liquid wax on the leathe bindings of my books. This protect them against dampness in the summe and drying out in the winter.

If you have any stubborn doors windows, or drawers that stick o are squeaky, an application of past wax to the binding parts will help move them freely.

Piano keys can be kept clear longer if rubbed lightly with a thin film of cream wax: Be sure not t let wax drip between the keys.

To obtain the best shoe shine pos sible, coat shoes with paste way before you take them off at night Polish the next morning when the was has dried thoroughly. Children's black and white kid or calf shoes are the most difficult of all to keep clean As soon as you have polished them apply a coating of cream wax. Besides protecting the polish and making the shoes wear longer, this protection prevents white powder or polish from rubbing off on clothes.

Wax applied to rods in clothes closets will permit hangers to slide back and forth readily.

Wastebaskets, protected by wax stay clean and shiny much longer.

But remember, certain waxes do certain things. Be sure to check directions for the right wax to use.

Going her way?

She's on her toes . . . knows where she's going ... knows what she likes. She picks the best of the latest in fashions ... shirtwaist dresses, Italian silk scarves, dangle bracelets. But when it comes to personal aids to good grooming, she's really fastidious. She insists on Tampax® internal sanitary protection. She can't understand how any woman could settle for the same kind of external pads that made her grandmother uncomfortable.

She's up on things. Knows the internal absorption of Tampax makes for perfect comfort. Tampax not only eliminates cutting belts and chafing pads-it can't even be felt when in place. She moves about in complete freedom . . . ridge lines don't betray her ... bulging pads don't embarrass. And internal absorption prevents odor, too. No disturbing questions buzz through her mind.

She likes convenience. Likes the speedy, easy insertion, changing and disposal of Tampax. You will, too. Buy Tampax (wherever drug products are sold), tuck it away in your purse, and take it home to try this month. Choice of 3 absorbencies (Regular, Super, Junior). Tampax Incorporated, Palmer, Mass.

A Pool Makes Your Home

It's a truly exhilarating experience to have your own poollike having a country club in your own backyard for early-morning dips or a refreshing swim

THE FIRST STEP TO ALL POOLS

Before you get in over your head financially, check the many kinds of pools to build or buy. One of these is best suited to your family's needs and pocket book, and conditions of your property. At left, you see the excavation—first step in the construction of any below-ground pool. This operation is most efficiently done by a bulldozer, and it should be started only after you have carefully selected the best possible spot for your pool.

4 DIFFERENT POOLS-HOW THEY'RE BUILT

THE REINFORCED CONCRETE walls of this pool are prefabricated in a factory, shipped to your site by truck, and lowered into place by a crane.

BLOWING CONCRETE under high pressure over, around steel reinforcing mesh in excavation makes "gunite" pool. No forms needed to hold concrete.

GLASS FIBER is the material of this oval pool that's shipped to site in four sections. Sections are joined, lowered into place. Job takes 4 to 5 days.

METAL POOLS are popular. This aluminum model arrives in two lengthwise sections ready to fit into the ground. Notice pipe connections are installed.

a Summer Resort

2 POOLS TO MAKE YOU A STAY-AT-HOME

Just because your lot is small you don't have to give up the idea of a pool. The two examples you see above show that a well-placed pool can take up little space while it adds beauty and value to your home and grounds. Notice (top) how a wide concrete paving around a pool gives you plenty of area for lounging, and also helps to keep grass and dirt out of the pool. And in the other pool, you see an exceptionally well-planned project. It's enjoyable not only to use, but also to look at whether you're indoors or out. It is close by for quick dips, exposed to the sun for warmth, and shielded for privacy by fence and part of house. It seems as much a part of house as any of rooms.

POOL PLANNING

Somewhere, between the expensive pool of a movie star and no pool at all, is a pool that fits the needs of you and your family, and if you plan carefully, you can find it and buy it.

PERMITS—Before you get your hopes too high, make sure you're allowed to build a pool on your land. Check with your local Building, Plumbing, Electrical and Zoning departments.

DEED RESTRICTIONS—Sticking to the restrictions of your deed is your responsibility—not that of municipal departments or your pool contractors. Such questions as set-backs from property lines, permissible buildings and easements for sewers and power lines come under this heading. Check your property deed carefully.

POOL SIZE—Aside from the cost, the size of your pool depends on how much land you have and the number of people who'll use the pool. Take, for example, a 20x40' pool with 3-foot walks around it and a 12-foot springboard that extends 9 feet back of the deep end, and a walking space of 2 feet behind the springboard. This pool would require an overall area of 26x54' minimum. Make further allowances for planting areas. And the pool itself should not be closer than 5 feet to walls, fences or buildings.

To size your pool in relation to the number of people who will use it, allow 36 square feet of water for each swimmer, and 100 square feet for every diver. The average-depth 20x40' pool with diving board in use will accommodate 14 people at the same time. The minimum practical width for a pool is 15 feet, and if you want springboard and wading area, plan on a pool at least 35 feet long. POOL SHAPE-For easiest swimming and lowest cost per square foot, the rectangular pool is usually your best bet. LOCATION-Place your pool where it can be seen from the most-lived-in rooms in your house, and where it will get the most sun. Don't put it too close to trees where leaves and insects will drop in. Also consider privacy from neighbors and protection from winds. If possible, place deep end so you won't have to dive into low afternoon sun.

SITE CONDITIONS—While your site may be good, your contractor should check carefully for these problems:

1. Filled ground more than 3 feet deep. A pool should rest on solid soil.

2. Rock formations that would require removal by special equipment.

3. Underground water that would require pumping or a special pool structure.

4. Underground obstructions, such as sewer lines, PLEASE TURN THE PAGE

Swimming Pool

electrical conduits, gas lines, and septic tanks.

It is wise to avoid hillside sites, for retaining walls can be very expensive.

Provide access for excavating equipment and transit-mix trucks as these jobs done by hand are extra-costly.

FREEZING CLIMATES—In parts of the country where you get sustained freezing temperatures, it is often wise to leave water in the pool through the winter to counteract pressure of freezing ground around pool. Logs tied around edge of pool water help prevent ice from forming. All exposed filter piping should be drained, too, to prevent freezing.

FILTER—While the initial cost of a filter is fairly high, it will pay for itself over the years in lower water and chemical costs and with swimming water that is clean, pure and beautiful. Without it, it is necessary to drain and clean your pool repeatedly. With a filter, you drain and refill the pool only once a year. POOL TRIM AND WALKS—Materials, for safety, must be non-slip—like brick, flagstone, or brushed concrete. Concrete is the least expensive, and makes a good deck area.

THE CONTRACT—The contract you sign to have your pool built should specify in detail everything you are spending your money on. With the exception of unforeseen site problems, your builder should give you a firm contract price, without any "extras." GOING AHEAD—When you have reached a decision about the type, size and location of your pool, select a contractor carefully. Pick a man who is sound financially and has had some years of good reputation in his work; your worries will be few. And when the warm weather arrives (and your friends, too), have a splashing good time and, "LAST ONE IN'S A ROTTEN EGG!" THE END

HOW ABOUT A PLASTIC POOL?

• You can have a summer of fun in your own backyard with this easy-to-assemble, simple-to-store plastic pool. The pool is 22 feet in diameter and holds  $3\frac{1}{2}$  feet of water—about 10,700 gallons. It is made up of three basic parts you can assemble yourself. The interlocking tubular-steel frame and the one-piece aluminum sidewall hold the pool rigid. The vinyl-impregnated nylon liner contains the water and is held to the frame by snaps. No costly preparation or excavation of land is needed for the pool: just a smooth and level space. The retail price, including tubular-steel ladder, is \$500. Or for \$300 you can buy a pool 18 feet in diameter, 3 feet deep; and for \$200, 12 $\frac{3}{4}$  feet in diameter,  $\frac{2}{2}$  feet deep.

Distinction and Charm for Keeps -

IN A CONCRETE MASONRY HOUSE

Whether you build or buy, you want a lifetime of comfortable living from a house. You also want lasting distinction and charm.

Beauty in a concrete masonry house starts with the block itself. The wide variety of sizes and shapes makes possible an infinite number of wall patterns to suit any taste, architectural style or geographic location. This basic beauty is enhanced by the block texture and the paint colors you choose.

The beauty of a concrete masonry house is indelible. Sturdy concrete masonry construction stands stanch against time and the elements. And it is practically maintenance free.

Ask a concrete masonry manufacturer for names of architects, builders and lending agencies with concrete masonry experience. They'll help you get a concrete masonry house of indestructible beauty—at no extra cost. Meanwhile write for our exciting free booklets, distributed only in the United States and in Canada.

the Guesswork Out of SUMMER COMFORT

With a pencil and this chart, you quickly find the exact size room air conditioner you need

• When it's hot, a room air conditioner can be the best friend you and your family can have. But to get really first-class results in making a room comfortable, you must be sure you have the right size unit. You don't want to get one that's too small, for it won't handle the job, nor do you want to get one that's too large, for this is a waste of money. What you do want is a unit that is just right for the room you'll install it in. Here's the easy way to the answer.

HOW TO USE THE TABLE

Item 1: Under Quantity, write the total square feet of window area for the unshaded exposure (a, b, c, or d) that gets the most sunlight ("largest load"). For windows shaded by inside shades or inside venetian blinds, use the factor for Inside Shades. For windows shaded by outside awnings or by both outside awnings and inside shades (or venetian blinds), use the factor for Outside Awnings. Now multiply "Quantity" by "Factor" to get "Cooling Units." Only one number should be entered in the Cooling Units column for Item 1.

Note: For each item, 1-8, the Quantity multiplied by the proper Factor, gives the Cooling Units for that item.

Item 2: Write the total square feet of window area of all windows not included in Item 1.

Item 3: On line 3a or 3b, write the length of the wall that has the largest sun load in Item 1. The total length of all walls and partitions not included in line 3a or 3b should be written on line 3c. (An uninsulated frame wall, or a masonry wall 8 inches thick or less, is considered Light Construction. An insulated frame wall, or a masonry wall 12 inches thick or more, is considered Heavy Construction.) Item 4: Write the total square feet of roof or ceiling area of room on line 4a, 4b, 4c, or 4d. (Use one only.)

Item 5: Write the total square feet of floor area. Omit this item if floor is on a slab or over an unheated basement.

Item 6: Write the number of people who normally occupy the space to be air-conditioned.

Item 7: Write the total number of watts for lights and electrical equipment that will be in use when the room air conditioner is turned on, and the sun is shining.

Item 8: Write the width of any door or arch that is continuously open to an unconditioned space.

Item 9: Add the Cooling Units of Item 1 through 8. This figure is the total load (in BTU per hour) that your room air conditioner must handle. So buy a room air conditioner that has a BTU rating equal to or greater than this Cooling Units figure.

Beadle House (Begins on page 111)

Here's how the Alfred N. Beadles ge visual spaciousness and a maximum of livability in their small house

At left, facing the attractively-landscaped entrance, we see the carport with its own entrance, leading through laundry area to kitchen. Bedroom wing of Alfred Beadle home is located at right of center entry.

The two bedrooms and bath are located on one side of the front hall. Both bedrooms boast storage walls and open onto small flagstone terrace which is separate from the larger patio outside the living-dining area.

It's a real thrill to find a house that is an eye-catcher, and then discover that it is owned and decorated by the designer-builder. Though the Beadle home definitely falls into the small-house category, it was planned to appear much larger than it measures. To achieve a spacious effect, livability, and interest, some walls were angled, some extend only three-fourths of the way to the ceiling, many are combinations of material: plaster, glass, brick, wood. A fireplace isolates the kitchen from living area. Louvers and greenery separate dining and living areas-and there's storage space tucked in at every available spot.

Alfred Beadle believes a good house comes first, then the right furnishings and wise use of color. In selecting furnishings, a spacious effect was achieved by eliminating "heavy" pieces, and using "light" ones instead.

At the left is closet for hanging clothes. Cabinet and drawer sections contain other wearing apparel, and to the right, beneath the open shelves, is a space-saving drop-down desk. At the far right, you'll see one of a pair of doors opening into a second very spacious clothes closet.

Dig a Shallow Well

n many areas of the nation, water is readily available only a few feet below ground. And it takes little work or money to reach it, pump it out, and make it work for you. A shallow well (less than 22 feet) where there is no rock, is within the abilities of the average home handyman. And with a little help from your friend next door, it should take no more than 8 to 12 hours.

Consult local health officials about proper sanitary location of well to avoid possible pollution by septic tanks and drainage systems.

Shallow Well

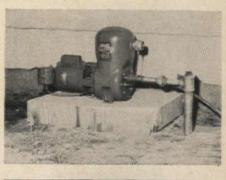

Lower well-point with the attached pipe lengths into the hole. Then fill in hole around pipe to keep it from bending under impact of the weighted driver. Screw the drive cap as tight as you can onto top of pipe. Slip shaft of weighted driver through hole in top of cap. Now drive wellpoint into soil by dropping lead-weighted driver into pipe. Keep cap screwed.

Use a sand-mix, packaged cement to make a slab for pump. While slab is still wet, insert bolts to fit holes in base of pump. A form for concrete base is easy to make with 6"wide wood scraps held in place with small stakes. Use a T-fitting to connect well to pump. Connect motor to electric outlet.

Now you have free source of water, not limited by dry spells or restrictive regulations. It's ready to use for many a garden and household task. Get water tested for purity to see extent you can use it. A hinged-topped housing covers pump, keeps it dry.

When you've driven several lengths of pipe into water table and top of the pipe is level with connecting pipe on pump, remove the driver and the cap. Next you screw on hand pump and work pump till water flows freely and sediment clears out of the well-point. Now you can unscrew hand pump, then start connecting well shaft to motor-driven pump.

OUTDOOR LIVING ROOM CAPTURES THE 4 WINDS

It gets awfully hot in Cincinnati during the summer months, so the J. R. Erretts took this into account when they remodeled their old house. They built a breezeway. Now that doesn't sound so exceptional, but when you build a breezeway that catches cool summer breezes from any one of four directions you really have something. In the floor plan above you can see that the screened porch is open on four sides to achieve the ultimate in cross ventilation. For year-'round usefulness, the breezeway provides a covered passage from car to house.

Inside breezeway we find a comfortable outdoor living room, made to order for enjoying summer evenings. White canvas curtains roll down over screens to keep out wind-blown rain

Most Beauty for Least Work

PAUL COREY

Junipers offer more landscape beauty for less effort than just about any other group of evergreens you can name. I'm not talking about the tall, stately juniper trees of the old-time grand estates. I mean the low-growing and medium-height kinds that seem made to order for the homes that we live in today, and for our new ways of indoor-outdoor living.

These junipers need little care and look "modern." They flourish in light, mediocre soil, in full sun, and on steep slopes, CROUNDCOVER. The Waukegan juniper is one of many prostrate kinds. A spreading plant, it will never grow over a foot high. Plant where too steep or too dry for grass, too sunny for ivies.

LOW SHRUB. Junipers that grow 2' to 4' high, like this golden Pfitzer variety, may be just what you need at a driveway entrance, under a window, or anywhere you don't want your view obstructed.

MEDIUM-HEIGHT SHRUB. The Hollywood or twisted juniper is one of the upright kinds that grow 6' to 10' high. Will they solve any problems for you in the garden or against the house or garage?

trimming hedges almost fun

Use these lightweight, perfectly balanced and comfortable True Temper ROCKET Hedge Shears. They trim so fast and easy it's almost fun. Less tiring, too.

Rubber bumper, cushion grips and tubular steel shafts soak up shock. Hands won't slip, wet or dry, bare or gloved.

ROCKET construction, famous for strength, assures long life. See these handsome shears at leading hardware and garden supply stores. No. AT85 full size, No. ATL6 small size. $7.95.

> Reduce tiresome grass clipping. Use new No. 22 GARDEN CLUB Grass Shears. True draw-cut action cuts grass quick and clean. Sheath on lower grip avoids blisters. Extra clearance prevents scraped knuckles. $2.75.

where most ornamentals need endless care and where grass is next to impossible. And they look best if you don't trim them.

They include "groundcover" types that make dense, spreading growth less than a foot high; low shrubs of 2' to 4' with beautiful, feathery foliage; and medium-height kinds that make wonderful screens and are ideal for planting against house or garage.

The colors of their foliage include a variety of greens, blue-greens, and yellow-greens, and some take on a rich coppery color in winter.

In short, they're attractive, permanent, and undemanding. And since they include a wide range of shapes and sizes they're the gardener's problem-solver par excellence.

Like all evergreens, junipers are best planted in early spring or during fall. They do best in full sun but will take light or part-time shade. They're not fussy about soil. They prefer light, sandy loam and are quite happy even in gravelly locations, though they'll also get along in fairly heavy soils as long as they aren't waterlogged.

Junipers are sold balled and burlapped or in containers, and no special planting technique is called for. Set them the same depth as they grew in the nursery, firm the soil well, and water thoroughly after planting. Don't ever let them dry out during their first year in your garden.

Occasionally junipers are attacked by scale, webworm, or midge, but a couple of sprayings a year with a combination insecticide containing DDT and malathion will keep these pests under control.

ou'll find a good selection of junipers at any large nursery, and there'll be some even at a small place. Here are the kinds to ask about:

GROUNDCOVERS: Juniperus communis saxatilis, J. squamata prostrata, J. chinensis sargenti (Sargent juniper), J. horizontalis, J. h. douglasi (Waukegan juniper), J. h. glomerata, J. h. plumosa (Andorra juniper).

LOW SHRUBS. Juniperus communis compressa, J. c. depressa (Oldfield juniper), J. procumbens (Japanese juniper), J. chinensis pfitzeriana (Pfitzner juniper), J. c. globosa, J. c. plumosa, J. c. japonica, J. c. armstrongi (Armstrong juniper), J. virginiana reptans, J. v. kosteri (Koster juniper), J. sabina tamaricifolia (tamarix juniper), J. horizontalis alpina.

MEDIUM-HEIGHT SHRUBS. Juniperus communis pendula, J. squamata wilsoni (Wilson juniper), J. s. meyeri (Meyer juniper), J. chinensis torulosa (Hollywood or twisted juniper), J. virginiana pendula, J. sabina (Savin juniper).

THE END

Head won't loosen Handle won't break

Here's the finest hammer made. Shaft is gleaming, chrome-plated tube of boron alloy steel. Won't bend or break. Polished head is locked permanently to shaft. Tough neoprene-fiber cushion grip absorbs shock, won't slip wet or dry or in gloved hand. See ROCKET hammers at your hardware store. True Temper, 1623 Euclid Ave., Cleveland 15, Ohio.

BASIC PEST CONTROL

• Insects and diseases attack most garden plants. But you can counterattack more easily and more effectively today than ever before. The new combination insecticide-fungicides are not only sure-fire, but also simple to use.

These combination pesticides are available as both dusts and sprays, and if properly used they're equally effective. If your plantings aren't too large you can treat them with an easy-tooperate garden duster or small bottle-type hose-attachment sprayer, like those shown above.

The best pest control system is the preventive kind—spraying or dusting regularly—most plants every two weeks, roses every week to ten days, shrubs every month. The next-best system is to start a weekly routine the minute an attack begins.

sert a cutting. Keep moist and in the shade four to six weeks.

CHECK ON YOUR SOIL

• Plants depend as much on the soil as on anything else, and not all plants or all soils are alike. So don't take them for granted. If your lawn, garden plants, or shrubs don't seem to grow as well as they should—even though you've done everything the neighborhood experts recommend—by all means check on your soil.

Your agricultural agent at the county seat will test your soil, if you send him a sample in a clean glass jar, and he'll tell you what to do about it. But if you're a do-it-yourself gardener, or if your agricultural agent is overworked and understaffed, you may prefer to do your own soil testing.

If so, you'll find easy-to-use, reasonably-priced soil testing kits at your garden supply dealer's. And a soil sampler, like the one above, will do a faster and better job than a trowel.

GARDEN WITH TIN CANS

In cans are ideal containers for plant propagation. I've used them for rooting cuttings, starting seed, and for growing young plants until they're ready to be set out.

I prepare cans as shown here. Then I fill them with soil or other growing medium and use them for whatever project I have in mind. My favorite rooting and growing medium is made from equal quantities of peatmoss, sand, and good garden soil.

Most hardy shrubs root best from cuttings of 4'' to 8" taken from new growth during summer. Sub-tropical shrub cuttings can be longer. With a sharp knife or razor blade cut the stem  $\frac{1}{8}$ " below a node (leaf-joint), remove lower leaves, and insert cutting one-third its length in the rooting medium.

Herbaceous perennials, like mums, phlox, and delphiniums, usually are rooted from cuttings of 3'' to 4'' taken in the spring when growth is about 6'' high. Handle them the same as shrub cuttings.

Keep all cuttings in the shade and protected from wind for four to six weeks. Water them often enough to keep the rooting medium moist but not soggy. Plant them out when well rooted.

Try sowing a few seeds in small cans. Thin out the seedlings when  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to 2" high by snipping off all but the one that's the largest in each can. Plant these out in your garden when they are 6" or 8" high.

Cut edges of tin cans are sharp, so it's safest to work with gloves. The slits in cans will allow drainage and so you don't have to punch holes in bottom. If you can't water them often, sink cans to rims in ground.

HARRISON W. ROGERS

· Here's how you can work the gripes out of trimming lawn edges along walks and curbs. This takes little time in spring and saves much time in summer.

While ground is moist in spring, trim grass with edger or spade. Then work the blade against the walk to open up a small trench.

Now tap wood laths, or similar lightweight boards, into trench. With lath flush with walk, you can mow and trim grass easily

When drier weather arrives and sod is firmer, remove the laths. You now have a neat little trench and grass trimming is a breeze.

For the first time science has found new healing substance with the a astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain - without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all-results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing sub-stance (Bio-Dyne*) — discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.* Ask for it at all drug counters - money back *Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. guarantee.

HOW TO HIDE THAT BOTTLE

Using bottled gas doesn't mean you have to look at bottles in the landscape. With little effort, and small expense, you can build an attractive screen for the cylinders that will actually add to the appearance and livability of your property. You'll get the idea if you study these sketches.

The first pair show an easy-to-make firewood storage unit good looking and mighty serviceable if you like to use your fireplace. The unit's made from three S' 2x4s, two S' 2x6s, two 4x8' plywood panels (34''), and one corrugated asbestos panel.

The garden bench takes two 7' 2x4s, five 6' 2x4s, two 2' 2x4s, two 1' 2x4s, a 4x6' fiberboard panel, and two poured-concrete footings.

The bottom sketch shows a simple but distinctive-looking horizontal-slat screen that
