Home Improvement Story Inside

Floor is Armstrong Textelle® Linoleum, Style 1554.

new floor gives a future to this room with a past

You should have seen this room a couple of weeks ago. It was shabby and outdated, as rooms in 58-year-old houses often are. The first need was a new floor. The drab wooden floor was apart at the seams and badly discolored. Armstrong Textelle Linoleum did away with the dirt-catching seams forever. And its soft, warm colorings and smart tone-on-tone textured effect immediately brought new life to the room. Look how it harmonizes the contemporary furnishings with the room's original Victorian features, how it sets off the handsome rug. The floor, in fact, is the secret of this room's charm, just as it is for the living rooms of many of today's finest homes. Yours, too, can take on new elegance with Armstrong Linoleum, a modern, fashionable floor for every room.

SEND FOR FREE BOOK, "Decorating Ideas for Today's Living." You'll also receive a sketch plan of this remodeled living room in an 1899 house, with a complete list of furnishings. Just send a post card to Armstrong Cork Company, 5708 Pine Street, Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

FLOORS

Have you taken the 4-second sound test? Next time it's noisy, put your fingers in your ears. Notice how quiet and peaceful it suddenly becomes. That's how an Armstrong Cushiontone Ceiling can hush noise in your home.

How to end ceiling problems and enjoy sound-conditioning at no extra cost

PROBLEM: Unsightly cracks have suddenly appeared in your ceiling, or perhaps the paint has peeled, or the ceiling is stained. Fix it? Sure. But, oh, how you dread the mess of plaster repairs and the bother and expense of repainting. Wouldn't it be nice if you could put an end to messy ceiling problems once and for all—and sound-condition your room at the same time—at no extra cost? Well, you can! The solution at the right tells how.

For free book that shows how to quiet and beautify your home, write Armstrong Cork Company, 5708 Clark St., Lancaster, Pa.

SOLUTION: Install a beautiful new Armstrong Cushiontone® Ceiling right over your old ceiling. Cracks disappear forever and you sound-condition at the same time. Cushiontone absorbs up to 75 per cent of the noise that strikes it. See your Lumber or Building Materials Dealer for Cushiontone Ceilings. He'll tell you how to put them up. Or, if you want Cushiontone installed, call your Armstrong Acoustical Contractor. Both are listed in the Yellow Pages.

WHERE THERE'S A WILL . . .

While visiting us last summer, my daughter said, "Mother, why do you take The American HOME—there's nothing in it." I replied that I like to cook and bake and try new things. I enjoy looking at yards and gardens and homes—keeping up with what's new. We had a nice friendly discussion about the importance of magazines and it set me to thinking.

Right across the road from us used to be an old, rundown house. About three years ago a young couple, the present owners, were to be married and were looking for a place to live. They had no money other than his modest salary. With the help of the girl's father they tore up layer after layer of old rotten linoleum; took out a partition to make more room; cleaned and dug, papered and painted. It took plenty of courage and stick-to-itiveness to tackle a house that was in such a horrible state, but they did it. And what a charming little house it was!

The next year they started on the outside. They couldn't even pay for the paint, except on the installment plan. But they did things with individuality. Though the house is a plain old-fashioned box type, they gave it character with an unusual shade of gray paint, with white trim around the doors and windows, and a bright red front door. What a pleasure it is to look at it from my kitchen window.

After I thought about my daughter's comments I decided I'd write to you. Even though I enjoy reading about homes where people have plenty of money to spend, I couldn't help wondering if they would like to see what young people all over the country can do with almost nothing at all—just managing from payday to payday.

I couldn't get over my daughter's remark and our discussion. Thank you for listening. —Mrs. A. A. T.

would cause so many ripples! . . . Your readers are truly one big family in the sense of wanting to help someone with a particular problem, regardless of its size. —Mrs. A. R. N.

Never having tried a "Hot Tamale" recipe, I was very interested to see the one in your May magazine. It was also a coincidence that I was entertaining at a Mexican dinner that evening for a group of friends.

My entire menu was of food we had been served in several trips through Mexico. The tamale recipe just fit in splendidly. Having the ingredients on hand, I decided to try it. Since I could not buy corn husks or parchment in our small town, I thought of my standby, aluminum foil.

I cut the foil in pieces, about 5x6", and followed your directions, except that I found 1 cup soft shortening was plenty. I steamed the tamales for 45 minutes in the foil and found them to be delicious.

My guests just raved about them, saying they were the best they had ever eaten. To serve them, I just unwrapped them, placing them in a flat serving dish with tomato sauce. I found that they kept hot for a long time if kept in the foil until ready to serve. The tamales that were not eaten that evening have been put into my freezer in the foil, and I am sure that when I reheat them they will be as delicious.

—Mrs. KATHRYN JENNINGS, UTAH

I cannot help calling your attention to the "Hot Tamale" recipe of Mrs. A. R. N. in the May issue.

Everything was perfect, except that the stock should be scalding hot and poured over the corn meal. Just try this in your kitchen and see the excellent results—no need to use an electric beater.

—Mrs. GEORGE HOWLAND, TEXAS

My family are old Californians. My grandmother came out here in the early days, sailing around the Horn and up to California when she was only 15. She married at 16 and settled down in Los Angeles, where she lived until she passed away at the age of 87.

Now I have two old Spanish recipes from my grandmothers. One is for Spanish Cheese Soup and the other is for Spanish Tamales. The recipe for the Spanish Tamales makes 24, a number that would be very nice for freezing. I have eaten these tamales many times though I have never made them myself. The recipe is just as my grandmother handed it down to her children and then down again to her grandchildren.

If Mrs. A. R. N. would care to write to me regarding this recipe, I would be very happy to send it to her along with the Spanish Cheese Soup recipe, which is very old and came originally from Spain.

DISHWASHER OWNERS!

Cascade eliminates drops that spot!

Today's improved Cascade contains exclusive Chlorosheen to change drops of water into clear-rinsing "sheets"—stops spotting as no other dishwasher detergent can!

Compare two glasses fresh from the dishwasher rinse. Water drops clinging to the glass washed in another detergent can dry into ugly spots. But not a drop remains to spot the Cascade-washed glass. That's the magic of Cascade's exclusive new Chlorosheen. Chlorosheen changes drops of water into free-flowing "sheets" . . . leaves everything so slippery-clean, rinse water slides right off. Result: no water drops, no more water spots! And Procter & Gamble's new, improved Cascade dissolves completely in your dishwasher spray . . . leaves no dried-on specks for you to wipe off. It gets everything close-up clean—cleaner and clearer than any other dishwasher detergent.

What's more, Cascade is safer for delicate china patterns than any other detergent. Switch to new, improved Cascade—now sealed in protective foil.

- * NEW! IMPROVED!
- * DISSOLVES COMPLETELY!

How to Simplify Service Calls...

VIRGINIA THABET

Equipment on the blink? Don't let "whom-to-call-what-to-say" throw you. Take a few minutes. List all pertinent facts about your equipment. Keep the list handy and save hours come some hectic day.

These are some of the facts which your service man will need. You'll be mighty glad you noted them!

- _____ • Brand name of each appliance
- _____ • Serial and model number
- _____ • Approximate year of purchase
- _____ • Name, phone number of dealer or service man for each product
- _____ • Record of each service call

Before you send up the distress signal, double-check these simple possibilities:

- _____ • Product plugged in?
- _____ • Switch turned on?
- _____ • Has a fuse blown?
- _____ • Have you read the instruction book?
- _____ • Prepared to make minor repairs?

After you have made a thorough check and find none of these embarrassing details, then call to make an appointment. AND while we're on the subject, we cannot refrain from this epilogue—service is a two-way street! When you have done all you can, your dealer can help you more. BUT, you may ask, what does the manufacturer do to see that I'm protected when I buy a new product? ALL THIS: When you unpack that new appliance you will usually find enclosed: an instruction book chock-full of all the information you need; a warranty registration card—your registration with the company that insures complete satisfaction; an application for a home demonstration usually for ranges, laundry equipment; a damage certificate so you may notify the company if the product was damaged in any way upon receipt; installation instructions for the service man. Check all these, and BE SURE YOU HAVE DONE YOUR PART! The rest is up to the service man. And to the dealer we say—"Beware the woman scorned!" When you promise good service, follow through. A satisfied user will become your best customer!

Sister seems mightily annoyed at little brother's antics, but it doesn't seem to be affecting her date's appetite. Sister knows that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, as evidenced by those king-sized grinders (see recipe on page 75). Mom and dad are pretty knowing too when it comes to building furniture. That aluminum-framed table and its matching stools seat six—or the family—comfortably. And besides good looks, check these extras: 1-strong, yet lightweight; 2-space-saving; 3-easy-to-clean surfaces; 4-aluminum framework of do-it-yourself parts; 5-stool and table legs that unscrew so the complete set can be stored easily. No home is truly modern without TWINDOW!

This windowpane with insulation built in keeps rooms warmer in winter, cooler in summer. It reduces heating and air-conditioning costs... eliminates storm sash.

Architects: HAUSNER & MACSAI, Chicago, Ill.

THIS LOVELY HOME is obviously modern, but the one feature that stamps it as truly modern is TWINDOW—Pittsburgh's twin-glass windowpane with insulation built in. Its insulating properties assure interior comfort all year 'round. It enhances the beauty of any home... adds a new dimension to the enjoyment of the outdoors from indoors. And TWINDOW actually saves you money on heating and cooling costs... substantially reduces outside noises... cuts down window steaming and icing.

For a truly modern home, make sure that TWINDOW—the world's finest insulating glass—is installed in every room. Why not consult your architect or builder for specific information on TWINDOW and how it can best be applied to your particular requirements?

TWO TYPES OF TWINDOW®

TWINDOW—METAL EDGE. These units are designed for larger window areas and where maximum insulation is needed. They are constructed of two panes of $\frac{1}{4}$ " clear-vision Plate Glass, with a $\frac{1}{2}$ " sealed air-space between them. The exclusive stainless steel frame protects the glass against chipping, creating exceptionally strong units.

Many enthusiastic home-owners who want to remodel and repair their homes shy away from laborious, time-consuming projects because they don't own the necessary power tools. But the fact of the matter is that floor-finishing machines, wallpaper steamers and other special-purpose equipment are available for rental from hardware stores, paint stores and building supply dealers. These companies can be most easily located by looking under TOOLS or TOOL RENTALS in the local classified telephone directory.

Rental procedure usually requires that you identify yourself, explain the use to which the tool will be put and sign some rental forms. Deposits aren't usually requested, except for very delicate tools that need to be handled with care. Most tools can be rented either by the day, week or month. The rental charge for a week is usually two to four times the daily fee, while monthly rates are proportionately lower than the fees charged for rental by the week.

New idea! VINYL in a floor wax and the beauty of it is — *it's childproof

To wax easier to apply!

New Simoniz Floor Wax polishes itself. No buffing. No rubbing. It spreads evenly without streaks—quickly sets to a tough, beautiful, vinyl gloss!

* Wet spills won't harm gloss!

Splashes and spills—so common with children—won't hurt the tough vinyl surface—or shine. Simply wipe them up. New Simoniz Floor Wax is water-repellent.

* Never before such protection!

The miracle of vinyl—and only Simoniz has it—gives you the toughest floor surface. The kids won't scuff it, or harm the gloss with their roughhousing. No doubt about it—it's childproof!

* No finish so easy to maintain!

Simoniz Floor Wax with vinyl has a gloss that lasts and lasts. You can even damp mop your floors freely without dulling the shine. Without spoiling the wax finish.

* Good news about re-waxing!

Here's the one floor wax you can remove evenly before re-waxing. Simply use your regular household detergent and warm water. The beauty increases with re-waxing. You'll be amazed, once you try it.

MARY E. MONZE

Although Mrs. Joseph Wilshire of Greenwich, Connecticut, is a collector of mementos of the past, she's very much a part of the modern world. Her interests are many. In civic affairs her current role is State Central Committeewoman from Connecticut. In the field of music, she serves as an Auxiliary Board member of the New York Philharmonic, and in conjunction with Bellevue Hospital's rehabilitation program she's Co-chairwoman of the Annual Garden Tour. One of her special charities is the U.S. Committee of the International Society for the Welfare of Cripples, of which she is a member of the board. Her past-president roles in organizations like the Community Chest and New York Women's Exchange complete an impressive list. This range of activities and interests makes her a fitting choice for our Very Interesting Person series.

As a hobbyist, some of the pieces she treasures most in her collection of souvenirs and family heirlooms are the miniature early carriage models that belonged to her late husband. Mr. Wilshire's hobby was coaching. In pre-automobile days he and his friends took as much pleasure in driving their favorites—the coach and four or a tally-ho—as a man would a sports car today. No atomic engine in a modern car would thrill today's drivers more than the latest carriage model did in the late 18th and 19th centuries. Only then, progress was measured on a different scale. The first carriages were comfortless things without springs or rubber tires, until 1804 and 1875, when elliptic springs and then rubber tires (borrowed from the bicycle) came into use. Thus vehicular transportation progressed.

Memories are made

Our V. I. P. this month is a woman of many talents—the greatest of which is her dedication to a wide range of humanitarian needs and activities. All this rates her high on our very special roster

Two carriages designed and carved by Guy Ward, a great coachman and friend of Mr. Wilshire. Wheels are yellow, bodies black, red, yellow. These have two additional seats outside, front and back, for driver and coachman or passengers.

These are America's

FAVORITE FLOWERS

Can YOU arrange them in the order of their popularity?

THEODORE A. WESTON

What's your favorite flower? Surely you have a favorite! And the odds are it's one of the flowers on the opposite page. Or are you an individualist, a nonconformist? Anyway, these are the 15 top favorites—the American “people's choice.” Should be fun checking your own and your friends' preferences to see if you rank the flowers in the usual order.

Dr. Gallup's American Institute of Public Opinion took this poll a while back. If you read about it, test your memory on the order of popularity of the different flowers. If you didn't, see if you can guess.

And now if you'd like to grow some or all of America's favorite flowers, the following paragraphs give the basic facts on them. But here we've listed them alphabetically:

CAMELLIA. Outdoor shrub in South and on West Coast; greenhouse plant in North. Flowers from fall through spring. Many varieties in white and all shades of pink, red, and bi-color; also many flower forms, from single to full-double. Needs light shade, humus-rich acid soil, considerable moisture. Lindane spray controls most pests.

CARNATION. Florist carnations are greenhouse-grown; same type can be grown in not-too-wet areas of South; similar kinds, raised from seed, grow well in North. Needs full sun, well-drained near-neutral soil (in acid areas, use lime.) All-purpose sprays, containing malathion and zineb, control most insects and diseases.

CHRYSANTHEMUM. One of best plants for brilliant fall garden display. Different kinds can be grown in practically all parts of country. Needs full sun, ample moisture, but isn't fussy about soil. Spray or dust with DDT and zineb to control most pests and diseases.

DAHLIA. Many sizes and flower types; all excellent for cutting and for late summer and fall garden display. In most parts of country, roots are planted in spring, dug in fall, stored in cool basement over winter. Can be left in ground in warmest areas. Needs full sun, well-drained soil, abundant moisture. DDT controls most insects; destroy diseased plants.

GARDENIA. Evergreen shrub in South; house or greenhouse plant in North. Pure white, heavily-scented blooms in spring and summer. Can be grown in full sun or light shade. Needs humus-rich, acid soil, plenty of summer moisture. Malathion controls most pests.

GLADIOLUS. First-rate flowers for summer cutting and garden display. In most parts of country, corms are planted in spring, dug in fall, stored in cool dry place over winter. In warmest parts of South, glads do best if planted in fall for February flowering, dug in spring, cold-stored during summer. Soak corms 3 hours in a Lysol solution PLEASE TURN THE PAGE (1 teaspoon to 1 quart water) before planting; spray or dust with DDT and zineb every two weeks after growth starts. For cutting, plant in rows; for garden effect, in clumps of about 12 corms; 6" deep in light soil, 4" deep in heavy, clay-type soil.

LILAC. Ever-popular tall-growing shrub in North and Upper South, but won't do well in warm-winter areas. Many varieties in white and all shades of lavender, lavender-pink, lavender-blue, to deep red-purple. Borers can be controlled with carbon bisulfide or nicotine paste, scale can be controlled with DDT or malathion. Prefers neutral to slightly alkaline soil; use lime in acid areas.

LILY. Easter lily, Lilium longiflorum, grows well in South, but is mostly greenhouse plant in North. Many other lilies grow well in all parts of country. Most need full sun or little shade, well-drained soil, good moisture. A rose dust or spray will control most insects and diseases. Plant in clumps of three or more bulbs for best garden effect.

LILY-OF-THE-VALLEY. Sweet-scented flowers for small arrangements and corsages; plant spreads by runners and makes good ground cover for shaded areas. Can be grown in most parts of country. No serious pests or diseases.

ORCHID. Florists' orchids, like hybrid cattleya on page 18, are grown in greenhouses; can be grown in lathouses in warmest southern areas. Many other types require similar culture. Some hardy wild kinds native to the North. All need rather specialized care.

PANSY. Colorful biennial plants for most parts of country. Easiest to grow from purchased plants, set out in spring in North, in late fall in South. To grow from seed, sow in summer for bloom the following spring. Needs full sun and good moisture. Remove faded blooms to prolong flowering season.

PEONY. One of showiest spring or early summer perennials for North and Upper South. Won't grow in warm winter areas. Many varieties in wide range of colors and flower forms. Needs full sun, well-drained fertile soil. Plant in fall, with "crown" not more than 2" below surface. Peonies like to "stay put," so don't transplant unnecessarily.

ROSE. Includes all colors except real blue. Flowers from single to heavily petaled double, from 3/4" to 6" across. Plants from 6" miniatures to 10' shrubs and 25' climbers. Can be grown in all parts of country. Needs full sun or little shade, well-drained soil, plentiful summer moisture. Most kinds need regular spraying or dusting with rose insecticide-fungicide, except in arid summer areas. Plant in early spring or late fall; plant in spring only in coldest states.

TULIP. Brilliant spring-flowering perennial bulbs for North and Upper South. In warm winter areas, new cold-stored bulbs should be planted each year in late fall. Many varieties in wide range of colors and flower forms. Need good sun, rich, well-drained soil, plentiful spring and fall moisture. Plant bulbs 10" deep for permanent plantings; overplant with annuals after leaves die down.

VIOLET. Popular for sweet scent; lovely "modest" flowers. Low-growing, ground-covering plant. Prefers shade, rich woody soil, good moisture. Can be grown in most parts of country, though most kinds have little fragrance.

MIRRO-MATIC

America's most wanted pressure pan

MIRRO-MATIC's minute-magic makes modern minutes do the work of old-fashioned hours! Asparagus, for example, cooks in a minute and a half! Carrots, in two and a half! Corn-on-the-cob in just five minutes! You can cook country-style chicken in 18 minutes, or fix a ham in only an hour!

Speed-Cooking Is SAVING-Cooking, Too . . . Shorter cooking time naturally means less fuel used. A high, moist heat cuts shrinkage, lets more of what you buy come to the table. And mineral and vitamin values are saved in the rich, natural juices of the foods you cook, not boiled away or poured down the drain with excess water.

Get MIRRO-MATIC, in the size to suit your family best, at department, hardware and home furnishing stores, wherever dealers sell the finest aluminum.

The secret of minute-magic is MIRRO-MATIC's exclusive selective pressure control, the control you can hear, as it automatically prevents pressure from going higher than recipe requires—5, 10, or 15 lbs. Unbreakable and never needs adjustment.

Arthur Murray's own chicken recipe

DINNER BY MALE

If we mention the name Arthur Murray to you, no doubt it will ring a bell. You'll immediately know we mean the dance teacher—to be specific, the renowned dance master who has taught millions how to succeed on a dance floor. You may be familiar with Mr. Murray's skill with the "light fantastic," but did you know he can also do some mean turns around the kitchen as a gourmet cook? He's been kind enough to give the American HOME one of his special recipes that will make the most jaded chicken fancier ask for more. The chicken is baked with Worcestershire sauce and it's as simple as Mr. Murray's basic step. If this intrigues you, we'll be pleased to send you the complete recipe upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Since no gentleman cook should be without an apron, the "Dapper Dan" Mr. Murray's wearing is something we dreamed up. Tailored like a tuxedo coat, it's dolled up with brass buttons and a red felt carnation. For all its heel-clicking sharpness, the apron's cloth is most mundane: sturdy mattress ticking.

modern woman's way to internal cleanliness

Far more effective than any homemade solution, yet safe for delicate tissues—special preparation for the douche!

Today, discover a wonderful "clean feeling" . . . a refreshing sense of well-being and intimate daintiness you've never experienced before.

Discover Zonite—the modern woman's way to internal cleanliness. Once you do, Zonite will be just as important a part of your grooming as your deodorant, bathsoap and other personal needs.

Zonite is entirely different from old-fashioned, homemade douching solutions. These "make-shifts" cannot and do not offer the antiseptic, germicidal and deodorizing action of Zonite. In fact, Zonite is the one effective liquid specially made for feminine hygiene.

Yet Zonite is so safe . . . safer by far to delicate tissues than other liquid antiseptics for the douche!

After menstruation—and always—reassure yourself with this modern woman's way to internal cleanliness and security.

Soon you'll have enough to finish off the attic, build a terrace, or name-your-dream. Engraved in gold. For Our Home, $2 ppd. Leecraft, Dept. AHH, 300 Albany Ave., Bklyn 13, N.Y.

How to select a paintbrush

A good brush performs better . . . wears longer . . . saves you money

 1 There are several qualities to look for when selecting a good paintbrush. First, see if there is (1) a full head of bristles in a firm setting. Then look closely at several individual bristles. They should be (2) finely tapered with slightly curled tips. Make sure a generous portion of the bristles have (3) tips that are split or "flagged." Finally,

 4 look for a brush that has (4) bristles varying in length. A brush with these qualities will give you excellent performance. It has a greater working and paint-holding capacity—eliminates excessive dipping. The brush will (5) release a finish smoothly and evenly on any surface. You save time, paint with ease, do a professional-looking job.

Now, better performance with improved TYNEX® nylon bristles

 6 When buying a paintbrush, look for (6) the trademark TYNEX on the handle. Quality paintbrushes made with bristles of TYNEX nylon give you better performance. They pick up a full load of paint at every dip and lay on a smooth, streak-free coat. And brushes bristled with TYNEX have durable bristles that (7) clean easily . . . rinse thoroughly . . . dry quickly—are always ready for re-use.

FREE—additional facts everyone should have on choosing and using a paintbrush. Tips on painting unusual surfaces, holding a brush, the correct painting stroke. Learn how professional painters dip their brushes, how they clean them.

GERTRUDE BROOKS DIXON

From a group of urbanely styled storage units, this couple selected three which handsomely furnish 5'6" of wall space. What's more, they brought the units home in cartons. While it's knockdown furniture, it embodies a new principle of construction that makes it easy to assemble. Each part is grooved so sections slip into place. Steel rods screw into tops of cases so when sides and bottom have been put in place and legs are screwed to the steel rods you have a rigid outer housing. Steel rods also form the pulls, hold drawers together. White drawer fronts are ridged plastic board, rest of case is wood in a distressed pumice finish. In all, there are 11 of these versatile items built 15" deep, 30" long and in varying length. Only deviation is in five-drawer chest (44½" high) and desk (20" deep). Beautifully simple design will look well in sophisticated or casual rooms. And the cost? Well—

With the legs cut down, 30x16" bookcase ($22.37) fits on top of 30x16" chest ($31.97). The larger chest measures 36x16" ($34.37).

Don't Let "Remodeling" Scare You

re·mod'el (rē·mōd'l)
—re·mod'el·er, re·

To most home owners, the most frightening word in the dictionary is the verb "remodel". This little word denotes major reconstruction on the grand scale, such as you see illustrated by the "before" and "after" pictures of the house on this page. The word "remodel" brings up visions of countless workmen crawling about the house like ants on a lump of sugar, while the unhappy household tries with precious little success to continue "gracious living" under a pile of debris and in a cloud of plaster dust. The word "remodel" calls to mind those countless tales of woe from the lips of other home owners who have remodeled and found that it cost many times over the price of a new house. To many the word "remodel" means massive mistakes made by contractors, builders, workmen and architects as well as by the owners. The word could also mean a job supposed to take one month took five years instead.

So many of us, in fact, have become frightened by the mere contemplation of the manifold tasks the word implies that, rather than get entangled in its meshes, we do nothing. We learn to put up with the inconveniences found in many older homes. We get through an uncomfortable winter with an inferior heating system. We suffer with poor plumbing, windows that don't work, doors that stick, and a lack of closet and storage space. We complain about an antique kitchen, and we even apologize to our friends for the condition of the house. In fact, we'll do almost everything to avoid having to "remodel."

It's not the fault of the word. "Remodel" is a perfectly good word, but maybe we should drop it in favor of the word "improve." Improvement can mean a fresh coat of paint on the front door, a new set of gutters, the addition of labor-saving appliances in the kitchen, new wallpaper, or some better lighting fixtures. When we speak of improvement we aren't talking about a huge undertaking that's going to require a tremendous expenditure of time, energy and money. We're talking about small things, here and there, that will add PLEASE TURN THE PAGE to your comfort, to the charm of your home, and incidentally, to the value.

Never before has the home owner had such a tremendous assortment of materials to choose from for improving the house. While the majority of these have been originally designed for new house construction, they fit perfectly into almost every improvement plan. Many of them can be installed by the home owner. The others can be installed by professionals but at far less cost than possible with older type materials. Today's building materials are attractive, durable—and not necessarily expensive.

But the real key to a successful and happy remodel—excuse us—we mean improvement project, is your frame of mind. You have to be a stark realist about this matter from the very start or you'll come to grief. You must not allow yourself to bite off more than you can chew. You must be able to know when to stop and to make the most of what you've got and what you can add. Isn't this a good deal better than getting along for years to come with what you may have? A modern, fully equipped kitchen comes high, maybe higher than you can reach for sometime to come. But does that mean that you should do nothing about the monster you now possess? Wouldn't the addition of some cabinets, a new window perhaps, and some labor-saving appliances make a whale of a lot of difference in your life? It would be fine if you could rip out all existing partitions and arrange the floor space into rooms to meet your own requirements, but this undertaking comes high. Rather than live with an impossible room arrangement, wouldn't it be better to put in some doors where needed and close up some not required?

Don't be scared by the idea of doing something to make your house more comfortable. Don't be afraid to do something just because it's small. Take your home improvements in small, comfortable-size bites. Do what is most necessary first. Do only as much as you can comfortably afford and forget the idea that it must all be done overnight. For to be absolutely frank, it can't.

REMODEL WITH to Get Year-'Round

The William Watsons of Garden City, N.Y., turned this dreary, rarely used porch into a charming room that now does double duty year-'round as a living-entertaining area for their teenage children. Since the existing porch already had a permanent roof and concrete floor, walls and windows were installed quickly. The interior paneling, of Western pine, was painted to harmonize with the decorative scheme of their living room.

One of the many windows you can consider in remodeling is this double-hung window with sash that tilt in for full, draftless ventilation and that lie flat for easier cleaning. Another double-hung window, above, has removable sash.

Sectional windows can be assembled in various ways. Left, four fixed sash over two hoppers.

Another combination has awnings at top, fixed sash in the middle, three hoppers at bottom.

Use from Your Porch

In converting their porch to year-round living, the Peter Edmonds of Minneapolis not only made living more pleasant but also feel they have a remodeling investment that will pay off when they sell. Although heating will be installed later, the porch is now livable seven months of the year. The windows, a combination of fixed and movable sash, admit plenty of light and air, while the large expanses of glass help heat the room in early spring and late fall. Floor is now vinyl tile, the ceiling acoustical tile.

Before Foster and Lorraine Jacobs improved their porch, passing through the kitchen entrance of their Stamford, Conn., home was more like climbing a ship's ladder. You almost had to be piped aboard. Besides being somewhat perilous, the platform was an eyesore and of little use. The Jacobs decided a larger, covered porch was in order because they felt it would answer two important needs: provide a convenient area for outdoor meals and improve the looks of the house.

While their plot is large enough, the slope of the land left the back of the house high above ground, making the backyard an inconvenient area for outdoor meals. The new 8x9' porch now provides a readily accessible space for dining, with room for a picnic table and benches. Now, instead of eating in a hot and cramped kitchen on summer evenings, the Jacobs can enjoy the cool breezes. Serving and cleaning up after the meal are easy, too, because the kitchen is right across the threshold.

When Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs initiated their project, they looked long and hard for competent carpenters who would do the job at a reasonable price. Their example is a good one for anyone hiring help for remodeling: Shop around for the best combination of quality and price before assigning the job. The complete construction of the porch, without painting, cost $435. Since Mrs. Jacobs liked to paint, she took over this task and saved money, too. She ran into a common problem—matching the color. "I found I had to do some fancy mixing," she said, "to match the shade of barn red on the house that had faded over a period of eight years."

Here are a few of the exterior siding products that can improve the looks of a house. At left, the plain-faced home was given added interest with the application of a veneer of cement-base, simulated stone that's self-cleaning, fireproof.

Vertically lined panels installed at top contrast with horizontal siding below. Wood fiber board nails and cuts easily; the first coat is factory-primed.

Prime-painted, wood fiber panels come in a variety of sizes; make an excellent siding material. At left, 4x8' grooved sheets; at right are the smaller 12" width for clapboard use.

Asbestos-cement shingles in wood-grain pattern are fireproof and durable; can be applied over wood, gypsum or insulation sheathing using metal channels or nails.

A new method in brick application is this $\frac{3}{4}$ "-thick, hard-burned brick attached to exterior or interior walls by means of a special clip nailed to sheathing.

Grooved, slightly rough-faced sheets of exterior plywood in 8' and 10' lengths, 16" and 32" widths are easy to handle and install. They lend house walls a neat, vertically-lined, textured surface.

Real-brick veneer is nailed directly to sheathing without clips. Applied to wall, joints of both types of bricks are mortared with trowel or calking gun.

EDITH RAMSAY

Haven't you heard this phrase, "I wish we could afford that, but it's custom-made," or "I wish we could have that kind of refrigerator, but a built-in really costs"? True, they are expensive, for by the very nature of their construction, custom-built products cost more to make. But hear this! There is a trend—and a good one too! More and more products are coming to us with a "custom-built look" at a ready-made price. Appliances, by their squared-off appearance, for instance, appear to be built-in, when they're really free-standing. Cabinets which have the appearance of that skilled "made-by-hand" look of the beloved cabinetmaker are available at assembly-line prices. So let your purse in on a secret: it's possible to have some things at a "pocketbook" cost. That familiar story of "how the kitchen grew" is responsible. You can buy what you want, as

Is your taste provincial? Then you'll love these St. Charles cabinets—a "fine furniture look" at a kitchen-cabinet price! Elegant efficiency, eh? The fruitwood-finished fronts have sturdy steel cabinets to back them up. Combination, about $664.

The Custom

Take imagination, add a combination of many standard pieces of equipment, and do wonders in creating versatile kitchen designs. Youngstown base cabinets on legs, pantry, drawer and oven cabinets, plus Tappan's stack-on oven, drop-in surface units, fit snugly to form this eating and cooking center. Oven $217; surface units $127.

This kitchen truly fits together without costly custom carpentry. Steel legs give St. Charles cabinets unique "off-the-floor" look. Frigidaire oven stacks onto base cabinet; fold-back units release needed counter space. Oven, about $210. Surface units, $200.

flexible as you like it! Kitchen evolution proves that. Keep on being dissatisfied and you'll get what you want, so many say. GRANDMA'S kitchen had an "appliance" on each wall, a table in the middle . . . cozy, but not efficient. And my, how we wanted efficiency! THEN we got better-looking, more efficient appliances, free-standing, curved lines and handsome cabinets to fit between. But we didn't like the uneven look rounded corners and protruding doors gave our kitchen. So we got built-ins! Flush all right, but costly to install—too costly for many. But how we loved that sleek look! NOW, we have that look in free-standing appliances—without costly installation. Use and enjoy!

Bathroom re-do uses ready-built units and good ideas in the Charles Martins' house. There were several reasons for the re-do. First, the 6x9' (plus small jog) room lagged far behind the rest of the house in style and convenience, detracting from its value and appearance. Secondly, it fell far short of the demands put upon it by the two Martin daughters, Maureen and Althea, who declared the old bathroom "impossible!"—especially when they were in a hurry. It had no shower, poor lighting, no storage, and the tiny basin added to the confusion when two girls were simultaneously getting themselves "more" beautiful.

The family feels the improvement was worth the dollars spent. As a bath-dressing room, it has been brought smartly up-to-date, and up to the demands of the Martin daughters. It now has a bathtub with shower; a ready-made lavatory-dressing table unit with two basins and storage space below. The wide, wide mirror over this unit has side lighting fixtures that give a soft, good light for grooming. There is now a great deal of storage space where little existed previously. The floor-to-ceiling cabinet at the end of the bathtub is more than adequate for storing linens used in the bathroom and for holding cosmetics. Louvered paneled doors close on shelves above, laundry hamper swings out below, permitting ventilation of both areas. End panel of this built-in holds a full-length mirror, reflecting ceiling light fixture. Pale pink shades of mosaic tiles cover the walls and floor. Not to be outdone, Mr. and Mrs. Martin improved their own bathroom, which we show on

SWITCH-ABOUT BATHROOM in the home of the Charles Martins' is a bathroom remodeling job in which changes in the location of plumbing pipes were kept at a minimum. Fixtures were rearranged along one wall, including toilet, lavatory and glass-enclosed tub. The room now has an open, planned look. New fixtures in soft green supply the color scheme for the room. Wide horizontal bands of mosaic wall tiles introduce a decorating effect that adds a "custom" look, but cost no more than the use of a solid color. go to the Beach

Here's a quick, easy way to take a full-course dinner on a picnic.*

How to Pack the Basket

Before you can turn around, summer's going, going—almost gone. Maybe that's the reason why we suddenly attach special importance to planning a picnic. This time we decide we're not going to compromise. We'll drive until we find some especially beautiful spot of beach, where the sand is cleaner and whiter than we've ever seen it before. This may be the last picnic of the season, so why not make it something pretty special—not just a sandwich-and-soda-pop junket.

Whatever food you take, plan to cook and pack it at home. Though driftwood fires may be romantic, such cookouts aren't welcomed by most beach patrols. We've found that packing the food like a TV dinner is both efficient and exciting, for each person has his own individual tray of surprises. Use trays salvaged from "store-bought" TV dinners or ones purchased in paper-plate departments. Sections of each tray might hold such treats as cold fried chicken, watercress sandwiches, relishes of all kinds or macaroni salad. If the salad is quite moist, put it first in a paper cup, then the cup in a tray. Completely seal each tray in saran wrap and stack in the picnic hamper, one tray on top of another as they're shown in the drawing. On the bottom of the basket and to the right there will be room for your cake, which has been baked and iced in an

✓ IF YOU HAVEN'T BEEN READING about the exciting and completely new method of preserving fresh and cooked food at room temperature without refrigeration, let us tell you about "freeze-drying." Imagine, if you can, taking from your pantry shelf a small can (the size we commonly refer to as a #2½) weighing no more than a feather. You can reconstitute its contents in minutes to a full half dozen soft-shelled crabs or a pint of oysters... this is exactly what you'll be doing in the not too distant future. West Coast crabs will be as at home on the East Coast as they are in their native waters. Briefly, this completely new method of preserving works on practically all foodstuffs, with the possible exception of tomatoes and one or two other items. The preservation process removes water from frozen materials without the actual presence of liquid water. And we hear, too, that radar energy has been successfully used to freeze-dry foodstuffs. On a recent trip to one of the pilot plants where testing has been going on for more than three years, your editors witnessed the process in operation—freeze-drying PLEASE TURN THE PAGE you might well expect: yes, both sliced and chopped olives are now nationally distributed. You won't find them in every small market, but perhaps if you ask around your neighborhood, your local grocer will begin to stock them. The chopped ones are especially inexpensive. Besides adding a lot of food and flavor to many dishes, they're such a wonderful convenience. Try using them in recipes calling for mushrooms. They're more than just second best substitutes for adding flavor.

Don't you love to see a nice red beet add life to a colorless plate? Or admire the beauty of a young carrot pulled when it's still slim and only three or four inches long? Well, just about every vegetable can look like a never-before dish when the right kind of magic is applied. Right now in large truck gardens, the tenderest beans are swaying on the vines and the young peas are bursting from their pods waiting to be hauled off to the market. And though the country abounds with roadside stands, today you can find excellent fresh vegetables in the cities, too. But even so, good fresh vegetables are too often negligently cooked and might just as well have come from the can in the first place. Modern vegetable cookery seems to have developed into a tired ritual of "cook in one cup of water, drain, add salt and butter." How sad! For methods of cooking garden vegetables are infinite. Try them out this summer and give a really appetizing look and flavor to your vegetable platter. It's the way vegetables are prepared that counts. Why not let them become new personalities? We'll give you a number of hints.

Because the carrot found in many markets is often the size of a

WHAT CAN HAPPEN TO RAW VEGETABLES?

We have just suggested some of the wonderful things that can happen to cooked vegetables (page 60). But what is the best way to store vegetables? How do we prevent drying out, wilting or withering? The Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association has this to say:

- 1) Vegetables should be kept moist as well as cold. In general, they should be kept in your refrigerator in a plastic bag or closed hydrator-type pan.
- 2) Before placing greens and salad vegetables in the refrigerator, sprinkle with water if they show signs of dryness.
- 3) Potatoes or sweet potatoes keep best at room temperature for short storage.
- 4) Keep tomatoes at room temperature until fully ripe, then refrigerate them.
- 5) Of all known vegetables, sweet corn is the one that should be cooked and eaten within hours of being picked.

Steermate—Texas steer, of course!

Truffles and pimientos—so colorful for decoration, yet so perishable—can be kept in good condition for several months if treated as follows: after can is opened, drain contents, put into glass jars, and cover completely with white wine. Place top on jar and store in refrigerator. Generally only small amounts are used at a time and by treating them in this way these items become quite inexpensive for garnishing.

Good Victuals

Yes, sir, two dandies here for you. Thick slabs of onions and tomatoes in sour cream—a combination hard to beat with a good juicy steak. And something really new—salmon, bacon, onions and a bay leaf all wrapped and baked in foil and as aromatically delicious a thing as you're likely to run up against in a long, long time. Earl Billings, who gave us this recipe, is of Norwegian parentage and a born cook, implemented by early training at home. He grins with pleasure just talking of food and says handling and preparing food gives him as much satisfaction as the eating thereof. Even the people who insist they don't like fish, like this. Maybe the bacon does it. Certainly the onion and bay leaf that assail ones nostrils as one opens the package, take any "fishy" curse away—and you'll understand the quotes are there under duress, for those unprivileged few who know not the exquisite gastronomies of fish in expert, loving hands.

Three tail pieces of fresh salmon, cut into fillets about the size of a piece of bread and as thick as two slices. This will make six fillet pieces.

- Salt salmon generously, pepper lightly. Now wrap two slices of bacon around each piece of salmon. Cut two large, thick pieces of Bermuda Onion, and place on the top and bottom of fish. Place bay leaf on top of onion. Wrap in foil. Bake for 1 hr. Time will depend on thickness of fillets. (Serve in foil wrap, for half the pleasure of this recipe lies in the delicious aroma that greets the nostrils when package is unwrapped—Ed.) Excellent barbecue recipe, too.

Wesson Oil

takes the smoke out of frying!

SOLID SHORTENINGS SMOKE. The special ingredient they contain, that makes them good for baking, breaks down at frying temperature. Smoking shortening is breaking down, and that can hardly be good for you.

WESSON OIL DOES NOT SMOKE because it is all shortening in its purest form—nothing added. Wesson is so clear and brilliant, so light in body, it sparkles as it pours. No other as fresh, as pure, and as light.

HOW TO BE HAPPY IN SIXTEEN ROOMS

I'm space-happy and I love it. We live in, and I alone take care of, a house with 11 rooms, five kingsize baths (that makes 16 by my dustpan-and-broom count) plus a huge, open hallway, closets—and all of it spread from here-and-gone over three tall stories.

If your immediate reaction is, "How do you ever keep it clean?" you'll be as surprised as I was at the outcome. Actually our palace is easier to keep than a cottage. You can have your efficiency apartments and ranch houses. I've tried them all, but this is it! I'll tell you why later on.

This, obviously, is the song of a person just emancipated from four rooms and a bath, a homemaker who found that husband, two small children, dog, cat—and the usual glut of impedimenta that accompanies same—were bursting the sides of our tiny cubicle.

The result is this huge castle of a house, at least by our previous standard. The ceilings are tall, the mortgage is low, the living is easy, and right in back of us—to carry this thing to its bitter end—is a pond where the fish are biting. We also have about 25,000 feet of outside living space, to say nothing of a screened-in porch and a five-room cellar. In short, this is all the room there is in the world.

Initially, virtually everyone warned us off. Their arguments boiled down to this: "Too much work to tackle."

I admit they had me worried at first. It did look like a formidable amount of space when we took over, and the first cleaning and settling had me ready to concur.

But then one day, as always happens after a move, we got it done. Everything seemed to be in some sort of logical order and, ever since that moment, my huge house has been a joy. If anyone should be wavering on small house vs. large house, here are some arguments favoring a pet such as ours:

No clutter. As the old saying has it, we have a room for everything and everything in a room. We have a "real" dining room, a kitchen a discrete distance from it, a library, living room, laundry and a special room for the television set.

There's less "unintended" use of key rooms. Our living room used to be sewing room, book room, and on rainy days and in heavy weather, the children's playroom. Generally, in other words, a shambles, come supper time. No more—at least not all the time. We don't ban the youngsters from the living room with their toys, but there is a room which, so far, has been attractive enough to keep them, and their toys, in it.

Our kitchen no longer doubles as a laundry. Instead, I'm de-8x8" pan. To pack, cover pan with cardboard sturdy enough to act as base for stacking container of extra sandwiches, and cream and sugar on top of cake. Syrup pitchers do double-duty as cream and sugar containers, since they prevent spillage of important essentials for your coffee. Next: the tray or shelf that came with the basket. On it there's room for paper cups and dessert plates, knives, forks, napkins, and a thermos of coffee. If you have starving small fry, you might even include ice cream cones—if you're fortunate enough to have brought along a freezer of homemade ice cream! THE END lighted to walk some two dozen steps to my basement laundry—and it is solely a laundry—where I put clothes in a washer, turn the switch and walk away. Further, when they are done and the weather is stormy, there's room to hang them up for drying.

Then there's a workable kitchen. We love to eat and I love to cook. There was a time when our kitchen was the permanent resting place for a lot more than pots and pans; such items, for example, as a playpen, a Taylor tot, a tricycle and other vitals. Now I have an honest-to-goodness butler's pantry for the pans and, as for the toys, a playroom for the children, as I described above. Again, I'm not claiming that I have a toy-free kitchen and that my husband, now and then, hasn't uttered tender words of endearment after clipping his shins on a bike left aimlessly in front of the stove. It just means that he hasn't done it as much as he

How to give any wood a lasting "redwood look"

FOR OUTDOOR FURNITURE—Brush on two coats of Redwood REZ, a unique wood finish which is used to protect and beautify redwood itself—or to give any wood the lasting redwood look so popular today.

Not a paint
Not a stain

EASY TO APPLY—A special resin-base formula carries color deep into the wood, seals the pores; protects against warping and sun staining—yet leaves no heavy film to hide the natural "woody" look you want.

MANY OTHER USES—Extend the "redwood look" to new breezeway, carport or fence. Bring the outside inside with one coat of Redwood REZ on wall paneling and built-ins.

See how all 13 REZ color tones look on wood. Send for free color card and booklet to REZ, P. O. Drawer 3, Dept. H, St. Louis Mo., or see your local REZ dealer's display of REZ colors on wood.

Another thing our kitchen has is wall closets and drawer space. We have so much closet and shelf space, in fact, that I made a count the other day and found that after one year in our big house there are exactly 17 good-size drawers which I haven't used yet.

The closet and storage space a-plenty. I'm not going to brag too much about closets, because homes of its era just didn't go in strongly for deep closets. The wardrobe chest was the ticket those days. But we have a few fair-sized closets, all that room on the third floor and one room we made a walk-in closet, which is about as plush as you can get. We also have a bank of wall closets along the stairway to the third floor and, of course, there's the cellar. And a garage. So storage space is hardly a problem.

Gobs of outdoors. It generally holds that big homes such as ours were installed, kinglike, on big lots, and so we have about 25,000 square feet of land—so long, in one wide stretch, that my husband says it makes him look bad when he's trying to throw a football with the kids next door. If it were the usual half-acre, as was our last one, I suppose he'd be a Sammy Baugh. And look at this:

Separate bedrooms for each child. This we feel, is something! In addition, we have a full-scale guest room, used for nothing else, so it's always ready. No scurrying around to clean out the closet or moving Junior into another room. Actually, it's a suite on the third floor, because there's a full bathroom next door. This is very nice; it not only allows guests to escape from the bosom of the family, but it also gives the family a respite from the guests.

"Bonus" space. These are just extra rooms and they make this house the glorious place it is. One, for instance, is a complete study for my husband, into which he can escape to think his own thoughts, do his own work or, if he likes, just sit. In addition to books, pictures, and his own arrangements, he has photographic equipment set up for indulging in one of his hobbies.

We also have another room we have designated, rather grandly, our studio. In it I keep the materials of my hobbies—rug hooking and painting. It's wonderful to have a place in which I can leave the tools of these activities always "set up," and a place that I can leave in almost any state of clutter without worrying what someone will think about it. Over in one corner, by the way, is a television set, which is, we feel, in its rightful place in a busy family. It's there and we look at it when there is some-

How to save money on wall paneling

Most factory-finished wall paneling costs from 25% to 60% more than unfinished paneling (depending on the type of wood used). Why not save this money? In a few hours you can make unfinished paneling look like expensive factory-finished material by brushing on a unique wood finish called REZ.

REZ gives any wood any color effect—without hiding its natural grain beauty. Here, Sandalwood REZ (one of 13 REZ color tones) gives white pine paneling the rich, Oriental look of rare sandalwood. For traditional custom wood effects, try Cedar, Mahogany or Redwood REZ. Bring the beauty of the outdoors to your den or living room with these REZ colors: Desert Sage, Blue Spruce, Driftwood, Fir Green, Clay or Prairie Green. Other fashionable decorating colors: Wheat-Tone, Charcoal and Flamingo (plus White REZ for bleached effects).

REZ is easy to apply—easier than any other wood finish you've ever used. No brush marks, bubbles or messy sagging. Instead, you get a finish that will have friends calling you "expert." The secret: REZ is not a stain. Its special resin-base formula carries color into the wood—evenly. And REZ primes, seals and protects for years. (When softwoods are employed, use Clear Rez Sealer first.)

See how your paneling, unfinished furniture or "built-ins" would look in one of the easy-to-apply REZ color tones. Send for free color card and booklet to Rez, P. O. Drawer 3, Dept. A, St. Louis, Mo., or see your local REZ dealer's display of REZ colors on wood.

thing that appeals. But it is not an all-staring eye in our living room as it used to be, from which we could never escape. With all this space:

Costs are about equal. These big homes, we have learned, are not easy to sell. Frequently they sell for an almost ridiculous price, as ours did. I'm not going to be shy and hint at its cost. I'll tell you. It cost us $9,500 (can any ranch house compare?), this for a house located on the outskirts of Providence, R.I. We still don't believe the price, but the mortgage says it's so.

Of course, there are costs here that one can escape by owning a small house. Heating, for example, is a large item for us. And yet, since these old houses were built solidly, with New England winters in mind, our heating bill is surprisingly low. Also,

Speed your package through the mail by making sure the name and address of the recipient is clear and easy to read. A neat way to print the address is with a handy disposable cotton swab dipped in ink and used like a lettering pen.

when it comes to painting a three-story house, it obviously will take a lot more brush strokes than for a ranch house. And general upkeep can be more costly.

But we figure that since our initial cost was so low these higher operating prices will, spread over the years, still make our big house cheaper to live in than something smaller, and less comfortable.

We've been asked about furnishings. Where did we ever get enough? Well, there's a lot of second-hand stuff around at the shops that fits perfectly into the decor of homes of this era and, by brightening the things up, they seem to have taken to our home with delight. We have been told that ours is quite the glamour spot, which should please the second-hand dealers of our acquaintance.

So what do you think of our reasons for preferring a big home? We think they're pretty convincing. What's important to us is this: now we have a home to grow in, to grow in gracefully, if you will. And since the house has withstood a half-century of wear, and will undoubtedly be around for several more—our children may be living in it.

Washstands are Best Sellers!

washstand usually costs under $30—an unheard-of bargain and serviceable piece of furniture

Taken out of a dusty corner and modernized, the old washstand above can be seen on the right in its new dress. The Victorian splash board has been removed, a waxed coat of lacquer paint has been added, and now it serves as a hiding place for a radio-phonograph and records, or for a TV set. In retaining the splash board, as on the left, it displays potted plants and provides storage for necessary tools and equipment.

"We spent $680 modernizing our home with Perma-Stone... and made it worth $2000 more"

by Edmund Bigelow

Like so many families these days, Charles and Janet Walker were faced with a question that was important to their future — Move or Modernize?

The Walker home is now about 30 years old, one of the older houses in the neighborhood. The Walkers have lived there since they were married in 1941.

The Dream That Faded

It was their "dream" home when they first moved in, but the years had taken their toll. The Walker house, a white clapboard structure, showed wear and tear like a fading blonde. Spring rains, summer sun, winter snows all left their mark. And just the respectable minimum of repainting every three or four years kept a constant hole in the Walker's budget.

At first Charles and Janet talked about moving to a newer home or building. There were two objections to that. First, the money involved. The Walkers both decided it wasn't worth it to pay out a big chunk of their income in mortgage money for years to come.

It Hurts to Move

Even more important, they liked their old home. It was a nice neighborhood. Their church was nearby, the schools were close, the bus line just a block away. The children had playmates all along the street.

Modernizing, the other choice, seemed like an expensive proposition, too, until a friend told them about Perma-Stone.

"It's the one way I know," he said, "to completely modernize the exterior of a house without getting involved in extensive alterations and construction."

Smart Way to Modernize

The Walkers got in touch with their local Perma-Stone dealer. Instead of a sales talk, he gave them some eye-opening facts.

He explained that Perma-Stone is the original moulded stone wall facing... that it gives homes, old and new, the permanence, the character, the color and texture of natural stone at a sizable saving.

He showed, with before-and-after photos, how Perma-Stone gives old homes a solid, substantial, expensive appearance far beyond its modest cost.

He described how a Perma-Stone face-lifting requires no additional footings... how it can be applied over frame, block, stucco, any kind of walls... how it insulates and cuts fuel bills. Then came the clincher.

Perma-Stone Pays for Itself

Perma-Stone, he pointed out, requires no upkeep, never needs painting — ever. Its first cost is the last cost.

That was good enough for the Walkers. Janet chose Perma-Stone's new ledge stone design, a narrow style that gives most types of architecture a modern look. She selected colors to blend with the roof.

From dingy frame to the enduring beauty of stone — in just 10 days! Compare the pictures. Notice that the hard-to-believe transformation is due almost solely to Perma-Stone.

Charles was concerned with cost. The estimate came to $680, not much more than painting, but still a big bite out of the Walker budget.

Easy Payments Arranged

The Perma-Stone dealer explained the various types of financing available to homeowners for modernizing. The plan he suggested suited the Walkers to a T. Their Perma-Stone dealer quickly arranged the loan, took care of all details and the Walkers pay less than $12 a month.

"Spend $680 . . . Gain $2000"

As Janet puts it, "We've still got our old home, but to us, and our neighbors, it looks like new."

"And best of all," adds Charles, "it's paying for itself and more. Just this week we had an offer to sell the house for $2,000 more than we have in it!"

Free Booklet for Readers of American Home

"Modernizing Magic" is a new book that's loaded, page after picture-packed page, with valuable, usable ideas for modernizing older homes. It also shows newer homes which have been beautified with Perma-Stone — homes whose owners wanted to be free forever from the burden of painting and upkeep.

Find Your Style of Home

In "Modernizing Magic" you'll see all types of home styles — Colonial, French, Spanish, Modern — in varying Perma-Stone treatments which give each home a distinction, character and individuality all its own.

You'll see the many ways in which Perma-Stone's new ledge stone design can be adapted to different types of architecture.

"Modernizing Magic" explains the many practical features of Perma-Stone — quick, low-cost installation, no upkeep, insulating, fire-proof, weather-proof, vermin-proof — features that make Perma-Stone homes readily saleable at prices hundreds of dollars above the moderate cost of Perma-Stone.

You'll see, too, exciting interior uses for Perma-Stone. Photos with ideas for modern fireplaces, for space-making divider walls, for play-proof recreation rooms.

TRY IT DON'T JUST FILE IT

Are you always on the lookout for new ideas, new recipes, and time-saving hints? Do you file them—to be forgotten and never looked at again? Then consider my suggestion: next time you come across one of those ideas you consider worth saving, TRY IT—DON'T JUST FILE IT.

A few proven tasty recipes are worth a hundred fancy recipes you aren't sure of. So why not try the new one right away, before you forget.

Here's my system, which I find is beginning to pay off in benefits from the ease of reference and lack of frustrating searches. When I come across a recipe or other hint I put it out in plain sight to remind me to test it at the first opportunity. It's a game at our house. Something new to eat every few days. If we like it, I type it on an index card and put it in a file box. If we decide it's good, but not for us—out it goes.

I find my favorite file box particularly handy because it's divided into sections to hold recipes as well as household hints and miscellaneous ideas. Stain removal is just one section I couldn't be without. When you've found a stain on a prized tablecloth or favorite dress, a proven method for removing it safely can be worth its weight in gold.

I also have sections for hints on cleaning, care of equipment, plants and cut flowers. It's a great help to have this reference information in one place. Why not TRY IT yourself? You'll be amazed at the way it will pay off in dividends.

What does YOUR home need to make it more comfortable? more livable? Is there room for improvement? Then there's no end to what remodeling can do. Once you've figured out what you need in changes or additions, what's the next step?

First, locate a contractor through a well-established material supplier. The responsible lumber yard or building material retailer will usually have a counseling service, and can supply you with the names of reliable, capable contractors. The importance of a right choice in this matter cannot be over-emphasized.

Your contractor will prepare an item-by-item contract, giving specifications in detail; describing precisely what he proposes to do and indicating a list of materials, their type and kind, together with material and labor costs involved in doing the work. Here again, the importance of the contract cannot be too greatly stressed. With the responsible contractor you have chosen, and his contractual obligation outlined in detail, you are on firm ground to go ahead and get the right kind of financing for your project. Banks, building and loan associations, finance companies, and others are offering borrowing plans designed to suit your requirements.

If you own your home outright, or if you are purchasing it on terms, you are qualified to use one of several types of plans that will make money available to you immediately. Let's take a look at the selection you have.

FHA TITLE I HOME IMPROVEMENT LOAN

FHA Title I Plans make loans available for basic home improvements involving permanent, structural changes. Present regulations permit the following terms: for repairs, alterations, and improvements, a maximum loan of $3,500. If the amount you borrow is $600 or less, the repayment term is limited to three years and 32 days. If it exceeds $600, you may have a maximum repayment schedule of five years and 32 days. The maximum finance charge is $5 per hundred.

dred per year on the first $2,500. Should your loan exceed that amount, the charge is reduced as to the amount beyond $2,500 and becomes $4 per $100 per annum.

As an example, if the program you have in mind costs $2,900 and you decide upon a 5-year term, you would be asked to sign a note for $3,595.62 and your payments would be $59.93 for 60 months. On the other hand, if you were spending $2,200, and desired to limit the term to 36 months, your obligation would be $2,529.55 and your payment schedule $70.27 for 36 months. No cash payment is required. The first installment needn't be paid until two calendar months from date of the note, and the money can be made available to you, the borrower, to pay for materials as delivered and for work as it progresses. In effect, you become your own contractor in this type of arrangement called by most lenders a "direct" loan. The borrower can make substantial savings on materials and labor as a result of having cash to spend. It's desirable form of transaction if the project is small and you can properly supervise it.

INDIVIDUAL PLANS OF LENDING INSTITUTIONS

In many areas, lending institutions offer home improvement loans on what is called their "own plan." This is distinguished from the FHA Title I arrangement by a more liberal interpretation as to what the plan covers. Under the Title I Plan, a swimming pool is said not to contribute to basic livability, and therefore, cannot be financed. On this special plan, swimming pools are generally considered acceptable, as is wall-to-wall carpeting and a multitude of other items such as complete kitchen remodeling, built-in ovens, surface stove units, and wall-type or hanging refrigerators. These are available on the same terms and at rates not too different from those outlined in the preceding paragraph. This is a program that deserves your attention, for some of the technicalities that exist in the FHA Plan are not present here. Lenders will follow your preference as to plan.

OPEN-END MORTGAGE ADVANCE

In many states, money for home improvement can be borrowed with an "open-end" mortgage which simply means you can borrow additional funds on your present mortgage without rewriting it or making a separate loan. Your rate would be the same as that given you on the original mortgage with the term extended to absorb the increased amount, thereby leaving your payment schedule as originally established. This is not generally available because of varying state interpretations, but where it is, it's a desirable solution.

REFINANCING OR NEW MORTGAGE FINANCING

There is always a possibility that the holder of your present mortgage will extend another loan to you provided his experience has been satisfactory. This represents a rewriting of the original mortgage instrument and will always involve extra fees for title search and opinion, and other miscellaneous charges. At the same time, if it can be done, you avail yourself of the longer term at an equal or lesser rate. The company carrying your mortgage will be happy to discuss the matter with you.

You can also borrow smaller amounts from banks in short term personal loans or from individuals. It should be noted, however, that rates are much higher in the latter case and you will always be required to furnish full security in the form of a first mortgage on your property with all the extra fees and incidental expenses.

Financing your better living project is not complex, and you have a variety of arrangements from which to choose. Select the one that best suits your needs and ability to pay, and you'll enjoy your home and keep within your budget. THE END

Coat your dustpan with a layer of wax—You'll find it won't retain dust and dirt particles, and trash will slide off easily.

Cut a slot in a paper napkin or paper plate and place over the beaters of your mixer to help cut down on the splatter.

HOW TO BUILD A COOL ENCLOSURE

- When planning a plastic sheeting roof for porch or patio facing south or west, follow these general precautions to keep it cool. Use colors in a low or medium light-transmission range. Avoid "heat traps" by providing adequate ventilation at the roof line. Where patio or porch has more than one side enclosed, set sheets above or below existing roof line to assure proper ventilation. Whenever possible provide adequate cross ventilation. TOP: If height permits, plastic sheeting roof may be set about 6" to 8" below the eave line. Set plastic panels approximately 6" back from eave line edge. This will permit an opening for warm air to escape as shown in the sketch above. MIDDLE: Where height of existing roof prohibits dropping plastic roof below eave line, elevate the frame for your plastic panels above the existing roof. This will let warm air escape between roofs. BOTTOM: Vertical walls can be very easily ventilated by openings at the top and bottom of the vertical wall to allow for circulation of fresh air.

Money-making Vacation Idea

A reader of this monthly rectangle writes: "Our teen-age daughter, on vacation from college, is busy making money this summer using your E-Z-DU wallpaper. She has always been handy and has a good eye for interior decoration. Last winter, after reading one of your little ads, she decided to paper her bedroom. It came out beautifully and the paper went up just as easy as you claimed.

"During Easter vacation she papered our living room and it was so attractive that a number of my friends asked her to help them paper their rooms. At first she would not accept any payment for her help, but so much of her free time was being taken up with wallpapering, she decided that this summer she would charge for her services.

"She has done extremely well up to now and has more work than she can handle for the rest of the summer. Naturally, we think your E-Z-DU pre-pasted wallpaper is wonderful . . . it's helping to pay for our daughter's college education in the bargain!"

If you have a college-going youngster, you might want to pass on the money-making idea above. E-Z-DU, as the name implies, is really easy to do. No tables, paste pots or mess. Just cut strips to proper length, wet and sponge smooth on the wall. That's all.

And your Imperial dealer will be glad to give you a complete demonstration.

Could this be a preview of the fried potatoes you'll be serving? Then maybe it's time to change your shortening!

Isn't it nicer to be sure of more golden-brown results? You are, when you use golden Fluffo!

Something Golden Happens

(Only Fluffo, of all leading shortenings, gives golden-crisping action.)

You can see it happen the instant the potatoes hit the skillet. You know you're going to get more eye-filling, appetizing results than you could get from any other leading shortening.

No other leading shortening gives you such crisp, light, golden-brown fried foods. Everything fried right and light in Fluffo is beautifully browned all over—and just as digestible as it looks.

No other kind of shortening gives you such tender, flaky, golden-brown pies. No change in the measurement your favorite recipe calls for—just a wonderful change in results!

Fluffo even handles differently; it's so much lighter and fluffier it's a joy to use. Blends with fewer, easier strokes, and the golden color lets you see how perfectly you're mixing cake batter or pie dough. Try golden Fluffo—how can you possibly miss?

Golden yellow from pure, wholesome carotene. Pure shortening, not a table spread.
