JANUARY 1960 VOL. LXIII, No. 1
Are you giving your children

A THOUGHTFUL DISCUSSION by Dr. D. Alan Walter

“When you look around your home with its comforts and conveniences, you will undoubtedly answer an unhesitating ‘yes... my children have much more than I had.’ But a moment’s reflection may lead you to wonder—‘am I giving my children more of the really important things?’

“There is a distinction to be made between a standard of living and a standard of life. It is natural and good to want to give one’s children more of the material things. But no material standard of living—no matter how high—is adequate preparation for the years to come. Your children must have a standard of life—to guide their conduct, to direct their thinking, to give them strength and wisdom.

“The first step in developing a high standard of life is knowledge. Knowledge ‘the great sun in the firmament’ that lights and warms our lives... gives us health and growth of mind. For parents who want to give their children this gift—the priceless gift of knowledge—the Encyclopaedia Britannica is an essential possession. With this world-famous treasure of knowledge in your home, your children will soon develop the habit of ‘looking it up in Britannica’—a habit that will help them acquire a standard of life to sustain them throughout life.”

NEW FEATURES MEAN BETTER-THAN-EVER DISHWASHING.

The old rules of elaborate preparation of dishes for the dishwasher can be tossed out the kitchen window when you employ the exciting developments available in modern dishwashers. You'll be happy to learn that it takes less work getting dishes ready for the dishwasher than for washing them by hand. If you're shopping for a dishwasher you'll find features that take into account the wide variety of dishes, crystal, silverware, pots, pans, and kitchen utensils that must be washed and dried each day. The great flexibility these new appliances offer means you'll spend very little time washing special items by hand. Features described here are available on many brands, but may have special names. Ask about them when you shop, and for a close-up view of some, turn to page 20.

NEW CYCLES have been added to many dishwashers to give you flexible dishwashing conditions for various types of loads. A cycle designed for pots, pans, and utility items gives a forceful washing action to remove heavy soil and cooked-on foods. Fine china and crystal get preferential treatment in a cycle designed to prevent damage to delicate patterns. Cycles have been improved to handle regular daily loads.

FLEXIBLE LOADING releases homemakers from following a rigid loading pattern. Dishes, pots and pans, and other kitchen utensils can be put in at random in many dishwashers. It's important to remember, though, that water needs to circulate freely throughout the dishwasher. By following the manufacturer's recommendations you'll come up with a pattern that works best for the types of loads you most frequently wash.

A HOT-WATER BOOSTER featured by one manufacturer guarantees 140° F. water for washing dishes and for the final rinse. It's available on the portable as well as the undercounter model. Another manufacturer uses a heat-booster for the final rinse if the water coming into the dishwasher is below 150° F. Many dishwashers contain heating elements that come on to keep hot water hot during the full cycle and to speed drying. In others, the heating element is used only for drying. Most dishwashers can be used for plate warming.

RACKS are designed to hold odd-shaped utensils as well as standard dishes. Some rack dividers are removable or can be swung out of the way. Since rack designs vary, check to see which ones are easier for you to load.

DETERGENT DISPENSERS come in pairs in many new dishwashers that give two detergent wash periods. In some, one dose of detergent is used for prewashing; the other for a single wash period. Most dispensers eliminate the need to measure, are located for easy filling, and are placed so that undissolved detergent doesn't fall on the silverware basket.

IMPROVED WASHING ACTION has a special design of water impeller to make certain that water will be forcefully distributed to the entire contents of the dish-washer. For this reason, it is important to follow loading instructions to take advantage of the water action.

PRERINSE OR PREWASH features eliminate the need for rinsing dishes by hand. Food particles are automatically rinsed off with just water or washed off with detergent water and flushed down the drain before the washing period begins. This part of the cycle can be used to rinse dishes that are to be washed at a later time with a full load.

RINSE DISPENSERS OR INJECTORS are designed to overcome the problem of water spotting on china, silver, and other items during the final rinse. A small amount of special liquid known as a "wetting agent" is automatically added to the "speed and drying and give spotless results. Dispenser holds several weeks' supply.
A combination dishwasher-sink is sometimes used in new homes or in remodeling a kitchen when the sink needs replacing. Just 18 inches wide, this combination dishwasher-sink will usually fit into the space formerly occupied by a double-bowl sink or one with drainboards. This can be done with a minimum of remodeling. This dishwasher is a front-opening type with slide-out racks.

THERE'S A DISHWASHER TO FIT YOUR NEEDS

Whatever your requirements—whether you're remodeling an outdated kitchen or adding a dishwasher without making any structural changes—you'll find a model to fit your needs. Plumbed-in (permanently installed) dishwashers come in undercounter, counter-height, free-standing, and combination dishwasher-sink models. In addition, there's a wide choice of portables available. Portable dishwashers fill the bill for many families since they require no installation, can be moved along with other household possessions, and can be located in the dining area, family room, or utility room if kitchen space is cramped. For use they need only to be connected to a wall outlet and attached to the sink faucet. Some portables are designed so they can be installed as a permanent unit, should a family desire to make this change.

You'll find dishwashers in colors to match other kitchen appliances and cabinets. Besides the standard colors, the front of an undercounter unit can be sprayed any custom color you wish or matched with any style wood cabinets. Copper, stainless steel, and brushed chrome finishes can be selected for an accent or to match other built-in appliances.

Ease of loading both top and bottom racks is an important consideration. To suit your personal preference, you can choose from dishwashers having front-opening doors and slide-out racks, roll-out drawer types, and top-opening models.

Dishwashers operate on a 115-volt outlet. A 20-ampere circuit is usually recommended. A plumbed-in dishwasher needs a single line for hot water intake and a drain. Septic tanks pose no problem since dishwashers use a small amount of water and dishwasher detergents will not harm them.

An undercounter dishwasher is generally used in new homes or in complete remodeling jobs. It fits under a standard 36-inch counter top and is often installed next to the sink to simplify plumbing. Most undercounter models are 24 inches wide, but you can buy a 30-inch one, too. Side panels in colors to match the front are available for an open-end installation. This dishwasher has a roll-out drawer opening.

It's a portable dishwasher—it's a handy dinette table! This portable has a laminated plastic counter top with drop leaves that pop up at mealtime; fold out of the way in crowded quarters. It comes in white with a choice of counter-top colors. This dishwasher has a front opening with slide-out racks and embodies all the features of an undercounter model. It can be converted for undercounter installation at a later date, if desired.

Here's an idea for concealing a portable dishwasher in the dining room if kitchen space is limited. This roll-about model, as well as many other portables, slides easily under a 36-inch counter top; can be closed from public view with lowered doors. It's convenient near the dining area for loading soiled dishes. The laminated plastic top is a handy work surface when the dishwasher is stored out in the open.

A free-standing dishwasher is designed for families who want a permanent installation, yet do not wish to go into a major kitchen remodeling. This completely separate appliance, which is 36 inches high, can be installed alongside other cabinets or appliances. Most free-standing models come in white only, but many manufacturers supply a free-standing unit in color by attaching side panels to a colored undercounter model and adding a laminated plastic top or a wood top.
Newsy Dishwasher Features

Look for these and other conveniences when you go shopping.

DISHWASHING INSTRUCTIONS and a loading diagram are permanently printed on the door for quick reference. In the upper right-hand corner is a double detergent dispenser. A rinse injector is featured at upper left.

THREE CYCLES designed for flexible dishwashing are offered on this dishwasher: (1) prewash, (2) soak or wash pots and pans, (3) wash and dry all the items that go into a dishwasher.

THE HOT-WATER BOOSTER on this dishwasher makes certain that dishes will be washed and given a final rinse in 140° F. water. The control switch can be turned off if you do not choose to use this feature for every dishwashing load.

THE ADAPTER which screws onto the faucet for use with this portable allows you to draw hot water while the dishwasher is connected, should you need to do so. The knob on the side of the adapter is designed primarily to release water from the hose before disconnecting the dishwasher.

PUSHBUTTONS on this portable dishwasher (above) give you a selection of cycles for various types of loads. The same portable (right) features a water impeller in the lid to shower dishes from the top as well as from the bottom.

THIS RINSE DISPENSER automatically adds a small amount of wetting agent to final rinse to make water sheet off instead of forming drops. China, glassware, silverware dry spotlessly. Dispenser holds several weeks' supply. Additional liquid may be purchased at appliance dealers or department stores.

Cascade eliminates drops that spot!

Washed in another detergent

Washed in CASCADE

Only Cascade contains Chlorosheen to change water drops into clear-rinsing "sheets"—stops spotting as no other detergent can!

Don't blame your dishwasher for spotting problems. Switch to Cascade! These unretouched photos show how Cascade stops spotting as no other detergent can. Notice the water drops on the glass on the left. These drops will dry into ugly blotches. But see how Cascade's exclusive Chlorosheen changes water drops into clear-rinsing sheets that slide right off...leaving your dishes spot-free, ready to set on the table. Yes, you can toss away your dish-towel because Cascade gets your glasses clearer, your silver and china cleaner than any other dishwashing detergent can.

What's more, Cascade is safer than any other leading detergent—actually protects your gold leaf and other delicate china patterns from fading. So to get best results from your dishwasher, give it the best—Cascade.

Only Cascade is rated best by the American Fine China Guild and endorsed by every leading dishwasher manufacturer.

Hints and Helps for Happy Dishwashing

HOT WATER is an absolute must if you expect to get sparkling clean dishes. And hot water means 140°-160° F.

BRUSH OR SCRAPE EXCESS FOOD from dishes and pans, empty liquid from cups and glasses before loading them. If dishes are to be left standing for several hours before washing, it's best to rinse off sticky or starchy foods before loading—or take advantage of the pre-rinse or pre-wash feature, if your dishwasher has it.

LOAD DISHWASHER ACCORDING to the instructions in your dishwasher booklet. While new dishwashers offer greater versatility in racking dishes, it's important to remember that water must circulate freely. Tilt recessed items, such as cups and bowls, so water can drain from them. Make certain that small, light utensils are loaded so they can't be washed out of the racks by the forceful water action.

USE ONLY DISHWASHER DETERGENTS as they are low-sudsing and have been especially developed for use in electric dishwashers. Follow the dishwasher manufacturer's recommendations or directions on the package for the amount to use. Since water conditions vary widely throughout the country, experiment with various brands until you find the one best suited to your water.

IF YOUR WATER SUPPLY IS QUITE HARD, consider the possibility of subscribing to a water-softening service or installing a home water softener.

PLASTIC DINNERWARE made of a thermosetting plastic such as melamine can be safely dishwasher washed. Some plastics used for dishes and kitchen items cannot stand the hot water temperatures and these should be washed by hand. More and more housewares are being made of boilproof plastics and these can certainly go into the dishwasher.

ALL UNDERGLAZED DECORATED CHINA and much of your overglazed china will wash beautifully in the dishwasher with no danger of pattern fading. In most overglazed china of recent vintage the pattern is permanently fired into the glaze. Gold and platinum decorations are more subject to fading and abrasion than other types of decoration. If you are uncertain about the permanence of your pattern, test-wash one piece in the dishwasher each time it is used for one month and compare it with the rest of the set. Antique and hand-painted china should be washed by hand.

MOST SILVERWARE, both sterling and plated, can be put in the dishwasher except for a few hollow-handled pieces on which a heat-resistant cement has not been used.

TO PRESERVE THE APPEARANCE OF WOODEN ARTICLES and wood-handled knives it's best to hand-wash them.

LACQUERED ALUMINUM WARE and colored anodized aluminum items should not be washed in the dishwasher. In loading the other aluminum ware, place it so undisolved detergent will not fall on it.

WHEN BUYING china, silver, glassware, and kitchen utensils consider the above points and shop for those which can be used in a dishwasher.

You can't imagine how joyous a compact car can be until you've driven the Corvair rear engine by Chevrolet

You can read all about this small miracle—engineers' talk about the virtues of its air-cooled aluminum engine, about independent suspension at every wheel and all the ways it's unlike any other car made in America. But words can only hint at Corvair's thistledown steering, the wonderfully level, supple quality of its ride, the nimble bulk-free precision of its going. You'll have to drive it before you really know how big a revolution in auto design Chevrolet has touched off... America's only truly new compact car, the only one that isn't just a small echo of a big one. The revolutionary Corvair... with the engine in the rear where it belongs in a compact car.

“On our trips to Williamsburg, Deerfield, and Sturbridge Village, we were so delighted with the beautiful colonial furnishings that we thought, here at last is a style that is right for us. This furniture is not only beautiful, but so practical for our everyday living!”

Fine detailing that characterizes the house is evident in this corner of the library where built-in television and high-fidelity equipment are concealed when not in use. Pine-paneled room has soft luster of hand-rubbed wax finish.

Entry hall gives first hint of the mellow charm to be found in every room. The fine clock (which keeps perfect time) is by Timothy Chandler, Concord, N.H., about 1801, and the Chippendale slipper chair with rush seat is late 18th-century make. Wallpaper is a faithful copy of an old paper.

Rich rewards of patient "antiquing" (the owners' mutual week-end hobby) show to good advantage in this corner of the living room, in the gemlike colors of the lamp and fruit dish, and the lacy sandwich glass on a maple candlestand table. The rare comb-back Windsor bench with scroll ears was a thrilling find. Maple-framed primitive painting is by a contemporary artist.

Early American craftsmen bestowed loving attention on details. We couldn’t overlook them—even in our view from the porch.

“Early American craftsmen bestowed loving attention on details. We couldn’t overlook them—even in our view from the porch.”

Private and restful view from porch is framed with Williamsburg fence on which fruit trees are espaliered. Behind it a hedge of hemlock forms a solid green wall 12 feet high. The porch is a pleasant “outdoor” room for summer breakfasts and luncheons when the drop-leaf table is moved to the center. A Pennsylvania Dutch bench is flanked by a pair of screw candle stands—the 18th century equivalent of adjustable reading lamps. The cobler’s bench and other pieces are reproductions.

Large-scale accessories, such as this copper teapot and brass candleholder, can give Early American decorating a clean, uncluttered look. Beware using many small objects.
The cooking area has all the charm of an authentic Early American kitchen—and all the work-saving efficiency today's appliances can add. The popularity of living kitchens proves that charm and informality are as important to people as efficiency.

Concealed next to cooking area are two walk-in storage closets. Adjacent to one shown here—which is used for china and large pieces—is another for glassware. Deep, three-door area under cooking units is for utensils and is made fully available by pull-out shelves. There is additional base-cabinet storage at sink area.

Flower-arranging center is in "mud room," conveniently located between garage and kitchen. Vegetables and flowers can be washed here—and children too. There are hooks for jackets near the window at left, and a brick floor for wet boots.

Cooking area combines many authentic colonial features with the latest electric conveniences. "Chimney" behind the huge, hand-hewn beam conceals exhaust fan and lighting. All the cooking utensils shown here are in daily use, and herbs hanging from beam are being dried for seasoning. Desk is a New England country piece that dates from 1780.
Quality construction and quality materials can prove to be the difference between a home and a headache. In a quality house, floors won’t squeak because foundations are more than adequate, wood is seasoned, and better nails are used. Paint won’t peel because the insulation has a vapor barrier and there are sufficient exhaust fans and louvers. It will be easier to heat, and cooler in summer because of more insulation.

Remember, too, that the quality house is not always more expensive. The difference in cost for quality materials is slight. For example, 3” thick insulation costs about a penny more per square foot than 2” thick insulation. Seal-down asphalt shingles are about $1 more per hundred square feet than ordinary asphalt shingles. And quality construction is not something you can expect only in more expensive, larger homes. You can find it in $10,000 or $12,000 houses as well as in $30,000 or $40,000 ones. It isn’t difficult to tell whether a house has quality materials and construction if you know what to look for. On these pages we take you through a house from foundation to roof, inside and out, to show you the signs pointing to the quality-built house.

Whether you’re buying or building, it will pay you to know the superior

FOUNDATIONS. For houses with basements, a reinforced poured concrete foundation is best. Concrete block is adequate if drain tile is installed around foundation footings and under basement floor. Concrete block should be coated on the outside with 1/2" of cement mortar followed by two coats of bituminous waterproofing compound. If the house is to have a crawl space, concrete block is adequate.

CRAWL SPACE. Open crawl space under floors should be provided with proper ventilation. Have one vent on each of the four walls or two vents with a polyethylene ground covering. All vents should be screened. Houses so constructed should have insulation applied between the floor joists. Either 2" batt or blanket (continued on page 68) materials and good construction techniques that make a quality house.

IN our visits to the home-furnishings markets, we have found a new color springing up everywhere. It promises to be the outstanding color for the home in 1960. We call it Fern Green, for it is not just a single green but all the tints and values that are found in the many varieties of ferns. You may find it under many names—bitter green, dill, bright olive, avocado. Whatever these shades are called, they have one thing in common—sunlight under green—cool, but slightly luminous.

These greens are everywhere—kitchen cabinets, lamps, furniture, glassware, fabrics, and wallpapers.

These fresh, springtime greens can be a new inspiration for your decorating. Start by using them as accents—small pillows, seat covers, vases—to brighten rooms with a gold, yellow, beige, or white scheme. They will bring a glowing light to a tired setting. If you like what they do, try them in bigger splashes—an upholstered chair, painted chest, or large lamp. If green is your favorite color, here’s your chance to go all out. And remember, use it with plenty of white!

The dean of ranch-house designers tells why...

YOUR HOME

Cliff May, one of the country's leading designers and builders, has been putting up ranch houses since 1935. By "looks," Mr. May means the total impression of a home—the atmosphere created by room arrangement and the privacy and spaciousness of a patio. His home in West Los Angeles, in which his family lived for 14 years, is probably the most photographed true Western ranch house in the country. An imaginative designer who gets his ideas by living with them, Mr. May here gives you the 12 essential elements that make a home truly yours.

CLIFF MAY as told to JIM LISTON

A home is for living. It is for enjoyment of leisure, entertaining, relaxing. When I design a house for a family, I first find out the ages of their children. Then we spend a lot of time analyzing how the family would like to use its rooms. In too many of today's houses the family and guests gravitate to the kitchen, a porch, a sunroom, or family room. This is a sure sign that these are the only really livable rooms in the house. People live in one or two rooms—and maintain the rest. If a living room belies the name, maybe it's too much like the old "Sunday parlor"—something grandma dusted and nobody used. With building costs and taxes what they are, who can afford the luxury of idle rooms?

Create an atmosphere. When you buy or build a house, you're after more than mere shelter—you can get that in a barn. The difference between just another house and a home you really love is the atmosphere that's ideal for your family. Some houses get it with age, some get it overnight with a decorator's touch, but most get it by careful planning and attention (continued)
BE 51% LOOKS, 49% FUNCTION

This much-admired little house has such Cliff May trade-marks as split-shake roof, battens and boards, patio of pebbled concrete, ground-hugging silhouette, and low eave line. May left an opening in covered passage between carport and house to accommodate oak tree. Whenever possible he makes house fit the site, does a minimum of bulldozing.
May’s latest houses bring in the outdoors, the sky, to small details. If you move into a ready-built house, it seems to me that you should make even more effort to adapt the house to your family—not the other way around.

I have seen people spend thousands of dollars building the home of their dreams, then decide on some little economy they later regret. If such a saving wrecks the atmosphere they are trying to create, is it really a saving? How do you get the atmosphere you want?

Have a clear idea of the total effect you’d like to have in your home, and then look for the ideas, the kind of accessories and furnishings that give this effect wherever you happen to find them—in magazines, in other homes, in a quaint country restaurant. You can’t buy individuality like a van-load of furniture.

Every good house has the element of surprise. The houses you remember as “interesting” are those which surprise you. The surprise may be a view you didn’t expect, unusual hardware, large-scale accessories, a feeling of spaciousness in a small house, or the contrast of spaciousness in one room, intimacy in another. In many recent homes I’ve done, I’ve kept ceilings low in halls and corridors so that when you enter a living area the exposed rafters rising to a high ridge beam take you by surprise.

I also make liberal use of skylights. We call this “daylighting” and it serves a double purpose: it provides natural light in the center of a house, and it works little wonders all day long with moving lights and shadows—it even introduces the surprising effect of moonlight. Such things aren’t architectural gimmicks or conceits. These are honest efforts to make the setting in which people live as interesting and as exciting as life itself.

Clear out the clutter. Houses get cluttered easily and quickly. In many ways the young couple with a new house and very little furniture is fortunate. They don’t have to make the difficult decision of what should go and what should stay. I think half the homes in America would look better if some courageous clearing out of accessories, fussy things clutter a house. Any home—looks better if it’s underfurnished with large-scale pieces. You get a cluttered look with too many colors too. Settle on an easy-to-live-with color and carry it through the house; get your color effects with bright accessories.

A house is like a three-legged stool. It takes three legs to make a stool that will stand up. And it takes three things to make a good house: architecture, decorating, and landscaping. Neglect any one of them and you’ll have nothing much. If you’re custom-building your home, all three must come into the picture at the same time and in the early planning. When all three have a chance to pull... (continued)
Growing Things

Bird's-eye view of one of Cliff May's houses illustrates how good landscaping by Thomas D. Church has made outdoor areas contribute their share to the total living area of a home. Behind tree, at right, is roofed terrace that adjoins living room and carport.

Hospitality starts at the front door. It is important to keynote home's personality at the entrance. Large Spanish lamp and antique doors recall early California origin of this modern ranch house.
The outdoors should be as accessible as one room is to another together, then you really get something. If you buy a ready-built house, then do your best to get the landscaping and the decorating to play up what you want to emphasize. Get full use of all you bought. I lived in one of my early houses 10 years before I woke up to the fact that the house was one world and the garden another. You could see the patio and the garden, but you didn't go out there as casually as you would walk from room to room. I replaced fixed windows with sliding glass doors in the living room, dining room, and master bedroom and the whole house not only seemed bigger, it was bigger because we began to use the outdoors as part of the living area. I've applied this to every house I've built since. It isn't just a California idea.

In the East and the Midwest there are six months in which you can use this outdoor bonus room. True, you'll have to use double-pane glass in some areas, but even one glass wall will work wonders for a small house all winter in helping you feel less cooped up. Get some texture. The trouble with too many new houses is that they look too new—because they look too slick. I use a lot of texture in the houses I build because texture gives character. I get texture with battens and boards, rough-sawn beams, and boards and stone. I use these inside as well as out; in fact, I continue exterior materials right into the house. People like this because they say the house doesn't look as if it were built yesterday; it looks mellowed with age the day it's finished. You see more of this all the time. It used to be that you saw the texture of rough stone walls and wood paneling only in public buildings. People now recognize the charm of exposed rafters and rough-... hewn beams and have discovered how much character texture can add to a home.

Go all the way. No one ever got a beautiful effect by half doing the job. Whether you’re adding a room to your home, remodeling, buying a piece of furniture or a lamp—do it right. If it’s a choice between buying two cheap lamps or one good one, buy the good one. Rather than do over two rooms and get ordinary results, do one with a flair and wait until you get the money for the other. You’ll get lasting satisfaction.

Try low furniture. This is a personal quirk with me, but I think too many tables, chairs, and other pieces are too high. I’m not a short man, but I’ve found that most chairs are more comfortable when they’re two or three inches lower than they were designed. For months I couldn’t figure out what I disliked about my own fireplace grouping. Then I sawed three inches off the chair legs and everything seemed right. Low furniture makes small rooms seem larger.

Experiment and upgrade. You have to study and experiment to get the right answers—even when you custom-build your home. Some people have a natural flair for decorating, but most of us have to take time to discover the best solution—the ideal furniture arrangement, the right piece, the right accessories. I’ve been changing, and experimenting, and upgrading in my present home for the last three years.

Making a house truly your own is the most satisfying hobby I know. Men usually feel that decorating a house is a woman’s business. But I’ve seen men get interested and do a great job when it comes to choosing what it takes to add character to a house.

Make the entrance interesting. I believe that hospitality starts at the front door. It started there in all the great homes of the past. Sometimes it’s just a matter of introducing your guests to the house gradually—an interesting treatment outside the door—potted plants, something in keeping with the season or your part of the country. People see the value of this during the Christmas season; it’s too

Make flaky patty shells that a French chef
would call "magnifique"

1. Roll out chilled pastry into an 8-by-12-inch rectangle on a floured board. Break off small pieces of butter and place on center third of the pastry.

2. Fold one side of pastry over butter section, then fold remaining side over top of that section. Crimp together open ends to seal in the butter.

3. Brush off excess flour, chill thoroughly. Roll gently into a rectangle, fold into thirds. Roll again into rectangle, fold into thirds, and repeat once again. Chill.

4. Repeat rolling and folding process three more times. Chill. Roll to 3/16-inch thickness. Then cut rounds and rings with special pastry cutters and stack them.

5. Cover a baking sheet with brown paper before placing shells on sheet. Chill 30 minutes before baking at 350° F. (See page 64 for puff pastry patty shell recipe.)

An oyster stew for folks with strong feelings on the subject

Now, for only about 20¢ a bowl, Campbell's brings you the big fresh taste that made oyster houses famous

Folks who really love oyster stew are just plain fussy about freshness. In fact, many of them wouldn't give oyster stew a second thought more than a few miles from the coast.

But now, wherever you live, Campbell's brings you an oyster stew as fresh-tasting as any you've enjoyed anywhere.

Oysters From Cool Coastal Beds
We make it the way famous shore chefs do—with plump, young oysters freshly shucked from their shells. These we simmer in their own delicate liquor until the moment their edges begin to curl.

Then we plunge the oysters into a rich broth of scalded milk, cream, butter and special seasonings where all the flavors are happily married in a fragrant, hearty stew.

Then, before one whisk or whisper has a chance to escape, we rush it into the freezer...the only sure way to hold the fresh flavor of oyster stew.

Elegant Stew—Modest Price
In the best New England oyster bars, oyster stew like this would cost you $1 or more. But now your family can feast on Campbell's Frozen Oyster Stew for only about 20¢ a bowl. Look in your grocer's freezer for the red and white can.

Campbell's Frozen Oyster Stew

Oyster Sauce Supreme. In saucepan thaw 1 can Campbell's Frozen Oyster Stew over low heat; stir often. Gradually blend ½ cup milk into 1 tbsp. flour to make a smooth paste; pour into soup and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in 1 cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese; heat 'till cheese melts. Fold in 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs. Serve over hot-cooked asparagus (10-oz. pkg. frozen); garnish with paprika. Makes 4 servings.

Oysters à la King. Thaw 1 can Campbell's Frozen Oyster Stew over low heat; stir often. Gradually blend ¼ cup milk into 1 tbsp. flour to make a smooth paste; pour into soup and cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and slightly thickened. Serve over buttered toast. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Progress Is Our Most Important Product

GENERAL ELECTRIC
Home Remedy

Did you know that accidents in the home are on the increase? Last year, more injuries were sustained in the home than in any other place. The National Safety Council claims that “falls” account for most of these accidents. In second place are “obstructions”, causing suffocation or choking. Following in third place is the mayhem caused by fire...burns, bruises, etc.

Most home accidents can be avoided by exercising normal caution. Repair or replace promptly all loose fixtures and equipment. Renew out-worn wiring systems. Have the proper tools and know how to use them. “Think before acting” and “watch what you are doing” are good safety-first rules to follow if you would live the long life!

Of course, there are a number of “accidents” that few homes with growing youngsters can eliminate. Windows somehow hold magnetic attraction for baseballs. China and glassware fight a losing battle in the hands of teen-agers. And walls and woodwork are agreeable to the “finger art” of small fry. We can offer no sure-fire cure for the protection of windows, china or glassware. However, we do have a suggestion for the protection of walls against “finger art”.

Glendura® Fabric Wallcovering is the name of this easy to apply protection. It has a vinyl beauty surface that stops stains and grime from penetrating. You can suds away finger marks or actually scrub away with a bristle brush if necessary. Even if your “image” throws ink, uses crayons or spatters his cereal on Glendura, household cleansers will renew the surface quickly and easily. Ask to see the Glendura Bristle Brush Scrub Test at your Imperial dealer. And enjoy a happy accident-free year!

insulation with foil vapor barrier facing up or two layers of foil, bright on both sides, set about 4" apart between joists. In closed crawl space, where there is minimum ventilation provided and space is heated, the ground must be covered with polyethylene sheeting and the inside surfaces of all foundation walls insulated with 2"-thick rigid, inorganic perimeter insulation cemented or nailed to walls. Insulation must be equipped with vapor barrier on inside face.

CONCRETE SLABS AND BASEMENT FLOORS: These should be poured over polyethylene sheeting to prevent ground dampness reaching the slab. Concrete slab floors that are to be used for living purposes must be insulated around the edges with 2"-thick rigid, inorganic insulation extending the depth of the slab and for a distance of 2' under the edge of the slab.

CONCRETE DRIVES, GARAGE FLOORS. These should be reinforced with wire mesh.

TERMITES. No woodwork should be within 8' of soil. Metal termite shield between foundation wall and house woodwork is desirable as is woodwork that has been treated with a wood preservative. In areas where termites are a problem, soil adjoining the house should be treated thoroughly with a termite poison.

EXTERIOR SIDING. All types in common use are adequate. Some will require more maintenance (such as painting) than others. Where nails are used to attach siding, aluminum nails are a must as they won't rust or leave rust stains. Aluminum siding should be vented. Stucco is best when applied over masonry rather than metal lath. Masonry veneer walls must have 3" of batt or blanket insulation or three layers of aluminum foil. Look for well-caulked joints where siding joins window and door frames; metal flashing over tops of windows and doors. In brick-veneer construction, look for weep holes made at base of brick veneer.

SHEATHING. 3/8" plywood, composition board, and tongue-and-groove wood sheathing are good but do not serve as Insulation.

INTERIOR WALLS. Three coats of plaster over metal lath is best, but is seldom used. Two coats of plaster over gypsum-board lath which has been reinforced at joints between walls and ceilings, at corners, and around doors and windows is very good. Best dry wall construction is double layer of 5/8" gypsum board with first layer applied vertically to studding and second applied horizontally over first with mastic. 3/8" or 1/2" gypsum-board wall is perfectly adequate, but single 3/8" wall is too thin. To prevent nail popping, framing lumber should not have more than 15 per cent moisture content at time of application.

INSULATION. Have 6" of insulation in the ceiling or attic, 3' in the walls. All insulation to be provided with metal foil or polyethylene PLUMBING. Copper is most desirable for supply lines. Drainage lines as follows: for the house sewer—cast iron, or fiber pipe; underground piping within the house—cast iron. Exposed draining piping: chrome plate on brass. Look for self-cleaning shower heads, oversized medicine cabinets with sliding doors and hot water lines carried into toilet flush tank to must be designed so that in cold climates there will be no condensation on inside of frame.

WIRING AND ELECTRICAL FIXTURES. Circuit breaker is superior to fuse box—no need to store and change fuses, and circuit breaker is safer. 150-amp service excellent for present and future needs. 100-amp service quite adequate where major appliances are gas. Circuits in the quality house should be: one 20-amp circuit for not more than each 500 sq. ft. of living area, or one 15-amp circuit for not more than each 375 sq. ft. of living area; plus, at least one 3-wire, 115/230-volt, 20-amp branch circuit, equipped with plug-in strips for kitchen. Spare circuit equipment should be provided for at least two future 20-amp, 2-wire, 115-volt circuits. There should be the following number of lighting fixtures: living room—2; dining room—2; kitchen—3; kitchen-dining—3; bedroom—1; bath—1 or 3/4; bathroom—2; halls, entrances, vestibules—2; laundry—2; work room—2; closets—1. The quality house will have one convenience outlet for every 6' of usable wall space. Underground wiring in the community is very desirable—less power failures; eliminates unsightly poles.

Vapor barrier. Floors over unheated areas to be insulated with 2" foil-backed insulation with vapor barrier facing up. Recommendations for aluminum foil: Use three layers in ceiling together with three layers between rafters; three layers in side walls, and two layers between joists in crawl space.

INTERIOR TRIM. A good guide for judging workmanship. Look for trim where nail heads are not visible, joints are coped or mitered, and where no filler has been used to make joints tight. Particularly, check for trim on inside of closets.

ROOFS. The best kind of asphalt shingles are the heavier types: 250- to 300-lb. asphalt shingles are very desirable. Seal-down or lock-down type is necessary with roof pitch between 2 and 4" per foot.

SUBFLOORING. Under hardwood, No. 1 or No. 2 common square-edge boards nailed with slight space between boards. Boards should be no wider than 6" and nailed with threaded nails. Subfloor covered with 15-lb. asphalt saturated felt except when it is over heating plant; here 30-lb. asbestos felt or 15-lb. insulating board should be used. For resilient flooring, 3/4" plywood with smooth face and edges blocked between joists is good. If plywood face is not smooth, use underlayment of 1/2" hardboard or 1/2" plywood. Between subfloor and resilient: 15-lb. saturated asbestos felt.

WINDOWS. All windows should lend themselves to easy cleaning from inside the house. Windows should be positioned or fitted with a device that makes them easy to open and close. They should be provided with screens, and in colder climates with storm sashes unless the windows are double glazed. Double-glazed windows, while not quite as efficient in preventing heat loss as well-designed storm windows, are so much more convenient from every standpoint that they can be considered equal, if not superior, to storm windows. Windows must be designed so that in cold climates there will be no condensation on inside of frame.

without windows, should have an exhaust fan. Walls should be moistureproof all the way to the ceiling. Septic tanks must have drainage fields except in areas where soil conditions permit dry-well drainage. Septic tank in home with garbage grinder should have twice minimum capacity. Minimum capacities as follows: 2 bedrooms or less: 750 gal.; 3 br.: 900 gal.; 4 br.: 1000 gal.; each additional br.: 250 gal. Storm sewer should never be connected to septic tank or into drainage field.

KITCHEN. Exhaust fan should be set over range or cooking surfaces. Walls should be of washable materials and if refrigerator-freezer is used, floor reinforced with double joist to take this added weight.

FLASHING. Copper or aluminum both suitable for flashing around windows, door frames, and roof valleys. Copper is best where flashing is turned into masonry such as a chimney as it is not damaged by alkali in masonry.

GUTTER. A house should have gutters. Wood, aluminum, copper, or galvanized steel are good. Discharge from gutters should be carried away from house to dry well or storm sewer but never into septic tank or septic-tank drainage field. Soil around house should be graded so that it slopes down and away from house for about 8'.

HARDWARE. Solid brass is the best but bronze and anodized aluminum are also good. Inside parts of locks should be steel or brass. Look for three hinges on all swinging doors.

ROOF OVERHANG. An overhang from 2' to 3' is most desirable, for it not only protects the glass areas of a house from light but keeps water away from house siding and prevents damage to interior walls if there is a leak around roof eave.

bad they don’t do more of it other times.

Entrance halls are often drab. However small, there’s always room for a real “stopper,” a picture grouping, something unusual, something that tells your guests they’re entering your home, not just another house. Make your home part of the country. A house without a tie to the past or to the area in which it is located is like a man without a country. Houses—like people—need roots, background. I build ranch houses in California, so I use California materials—redwood shingles, pebbled concrete, quarry tile—materials that have meaning for this area. I reach back into California’s Spanish tradition, use antique paneling, a rare old Spanish lantern, a piece of hand-wrought iron grille work—anything good I can turn up with persistent hunting, things Californians are proud to recall as part of their heritage. I have built houses in the East, the Middle West, in Switzerland, and Italy, and I’ve found that linking a house with the past always gives fascinating results.

Every area has stone and other materials that are peculiar to that part of the country. Every state has a history all its own that can be reflected in its homes in some way. It takes time and thought to do this, of course, but this is the fun and the fascination of putting your own personalized stamp on a house and making it your home.

IS IT REALLY A RANCH HOUSE?

The term “ranch style” has been used so freely in recent years that the average person thinks of it merely as a long, low, one-story house. The true Western ranch house has several characteristics that identify it. It not only has a low roof line and wide, low overhangs; often it follows the contour of the site. Whenever possible, native materials are used in its construction—stone, tile, rough-cut lumber. But most important, a ranch house has wings—wings that work.

The wings of the early California ranch house served several purposes. They provided separate activity zones, for sleeping and eating, for example; they formed the private patio that was an essential part of these houses; and they afforded easy access to any of these rooms from the patio. It isn’t real ranch style unless it has wings that work the same way today. Working wings should provide zoned living and private, enclosed outdoor-living space.

JACKSON & PERKINS CO., Originators of Great New Roses Since 1872
January is garden planning time — the time not merely to dream of spring flowers and summer cook-outs, but actually to start your 1960 gardening program. This month — right now! — is the time to write for new catalogues, to start ordering seeds and plants for early delivery, to make lists of things to plant later in spring. It’s time to draw sketches of the new front-of-house planting, the new flower border, outdoor living area, shrub planting, rose bed, or the new kitchen garden you intend to make this year. But first of all, take an unhurried look at our Gardening Guide on the pages that follow. See what’s new in flowers and plants for 1960. Learn dozens of new ideas for designing or redesigning your different garden areas. Decide what you would like to see in your own garden this year, and study our pages carefully. Finally, take your pencil and paper in hand and start some honest-to-goodness 1960 garden planning of your own. Do it now!
Here are exciting new varieties to watch for

We’ve combed the nation’s test gardens and queried leading seedsmen and nurserymen to come up with this list of outstanding plants that will make their bow to the public this season. There are more, of course. Each firm has special introductions of which they’re rightly proud. We emphasize All-America winners. They’re the ones chosen after rigorous competitive testing in official trial gardens over the country.

1. "GOLDEN MIDGET" WATERMELON tells you when it’s ripe! The rind is green while growing, then turns yellow when ready to pick. The inside is red and sweet. Size? Just right to get into your refrigerator. Season? Early!

2. "ROCKET" SNAPDRAGONS, All-America winners, are the first bred especially to flower outdoors through hot, dry summer weather. And they do! As fast as one batch of flowers finishes, you can cut stems back and more branches will develop and bloom. Start from seed, either indoors or out.
in mail-order catalogues and stores. Try them in your garden this year.

4. HYBRID TEA ROSE ‘HAWAII’ is outstanding for its new orange-petal color and fragrance reminiscent of crushed raspberries.

5. ‘TOREADOR’ MARIGOLD, All-America winner, is one of the ‘Climax’ type giant American hybrids. It blooms early, with 4½” flowers on semicompact plants growing 2’ high.

6. ‘RED RICHES’ is the first scarlet all-double petunia! You might describe it as double ‘Comanche.’ It’s a dwarf bedding-plant type, making a mound of fluffy non-fading flowers.

7. MARIGOLD ‘SPUN GOLD,’ All-America winner, is a large-flowered, early-blooming dwarf (12” high). It’s easy to grow from seed planted outdoors in spring. Flower shown with it is ageratum ‘Blue Mink,’ an annual which should be started from seed early indoors, or bought as plants in spring.

8. THE TWO ALL-AMERICA GLADIOLI: ‘Little Pansy’ is elfin-sized, purple-patterned. ‘Landmark’ is a majestic giant, with huge cream-colored ruffled flowers, ten or more open at a time.

9. PHLOX ‘ORANGE’ is a dazzling new variety of summer-blooming hardy perennial phlox, 2½’ tall. Set plants in spring.

In PETUNIAS, a good light blue for 1960 is ‘Mercury.’ For novelty color, ‘Sugar Plum,’ previously introduced, has been a smash hit in test gardens. It’s a dwarf compact plant covered

Use Plants to Give Your House an Attractive Setting

When you design or redesign your front garden, remember two things: not too many plants, and not too many different kinds of plants. Don’t half-conceal your house, and don’t clutter your garden!

Start your design sketches by trying out the idea of a simple band of groundcover plants against one side of the foundation, and a long strip of low-growing shrubs (all the same kind, all trimmed the same height) against the other side. Now at one or two strategic points add a medium-height pruned shrub, and perhaps a vine or espaliered shrub, trained against a trellis. Then add an especially attractive evergreen in a container at the entrance. These may be all the foundation plants you want a garden of beauty with an inviting Stark Dwarf Tree! No bigger (than a lilac bush), they grow bushels of delicious full-size apples, peaches, or pears QUICKER—fruit as big and fine as on regular-size trees. Just reach up and harvest! Ornamental, too. need—as in our illustration above. If you think the planting needs more, add them cautiously!

Near the house, "garden size" trees or large, upright shrubs are much better than forest trees.

Use paving generously. It is not "cold," and it allows people to walk side by side, rather than compelling them to walk Indian file. Notice, in our illustration, the pleasant relationship between the driveway, the lawn, and the sizable paved area which leads to the entrance.

When you've decided on the sizes and shapes of plants you need, spend some time studying the plants at your nurseryman's, as suggested in our discussion of shrubs on page 82. Learn to know what you need!

It doesn’t have to look like a miniature farm! You can plan it, in fact, so vegetables and fruits are as interesting as flowers and shrubs.

A kitchen garden will not only give you herbs, vegetables, salads, and fruits more delicious than you can buy, but designed with imagination it will be one of the most interesting and talked-about parts of your garden.

Try designing a kitchen garden around a small paved area, with prostrate thyme and rosemary planted between the paving stones.

Tomatoes, melons, cucumbers, and other vines can be grown in tubs or half-barrels and trained on a tripod of wood stakes or bamboo canes. Other large plants, like rhubarb and eggplant, also can be grown in tubs, large pots, or other containers, and moved about as you like for decorative effect.

For the smaller plants—lettuce, radishes, carrots, bush peas and beans, onions, herbs—try designing tiered beds, made with redwood or cypress boards, as in our illustration.

In the background, behind the tiered beds, plant some dwarf fruit trees, bush fruits like currants, gooseberries, or raspberries, or grape vines trained on a fence or trellis.

Vegetables and fruits need full sun and light, rich soil. If your soil is heavy, add some sand and peatmoss to it. Water often and every week or two use soluble plant food. For pest control, use only vegetable garden sprays or dusts.

How to enjoy your favorite roses at close range

Roses are most people's favorite flowers, and you'll almost certainly want a rose planting of some kind. To achieve distinctiveness, try laying out a rose garden made up of small beds separated by paving, as we've done in our illustration. You'll not only get all-season attractiveness, but you'll be able to walk around in comfort and enjoy your roses at close range from all sides.

In our layout, the beds are hexagons, some with raised edges, some without, and the paving also is made up of hexagonal units. For best effect, limit each bed to one variety of rose, but plant some with hybrid teas, some with floribundas, one or two with tree roses or climbers trained as pillars, and one or two with miniatures. Mulch the beds with buckwheat hulls or peatmoss, or plant low groundcovers like ajuga, violas, or an annual like alyssum.

THE AMERICAN HOME, JANUARY, 1960
Don’t be afraid to try new ideas—they’ll help provide year-round attractions

DESIGN YOUR FLOWER BORDERS TO LOOK BRIGHT ALL SEASON LONG

Every home needs flower plantings for garden effect and to provide flowers for cutting. But don’t be satisfied with old-style beds and borders! When you sketch your plans, use some of the newer ideas in landscape design, as suggested in our illustration.

Here, a property-line planting is made up of small, individual beds, tied together by liberal use of paving and modern fence or screen materials.

A good plan would be to plant some of these beds with spring bulbs (tulips, daffodils, hyacinths) and to follow them with annuals (marigolds, petunias, zinnias) or bedding plants (geraniums, petunias, lantanas).

Other beds could feature low or medium-height roses, early flowering perennials combined with later blooming kinds, dwarf shrubs with annuals or perennials.

Groundcover plants or an attractive mulch (peat moss, buckwheat hulls, gravel) will help keep the beds neat. And extra features—such as a small lily pool with fountain, a garden bench, a well-chosen piece of statuary—will supply additional interest.

Use a piece of statuary or a bonsai-type tree as a focal point—or even a birdbath or grouping of attractive stones.

The ONLY PLACE YOU CAN GET
RED RICHES PETUNIA
IS AT PARK SEED CO.,

They're the most important of all your plants — so get the best out of shrubs and trees.

Shrubs and trees are dominant plants. In a well-planned garden they contribute most to its attractiveness, and in a poorly planned garden they contribute most to its unattractiveness. So give them your best garden design effort!

When you start sketching plans for shrub plantings, think of the shrubs simply as shapes and sizes. That is, design your planting first, and choose your shrubs later. Make sure the planting is part of your over-all garden design, and lay it out to serve a definite purpose.

For instance, in our illustration above we show you how to lay out a planting of shrubs and small trees that serves as the setting for an "island" terrace. You could probably locate this in a corner of your property. If you dine outdoors only occasionally, you might prefer this arrangement to a patio adjoining the house, as suggested on page 80. Or, if your lot is large, you might like it as an additional, secluded outdoor living area.

Or, again, if you like the planting but don't want the terrace, there's nothing to prevent you from omitting the paving altogether. You could have a small lily pool in the center of the semicircular area, or you could adapt the arrangement to serve simply as a corner planting for your lawn.

In our illustration, small trees have been planted among the shrubs to lend distinctiveness and provide shade. Except the one at the left, all have been pruned so that their trunks branch higher than would otherwise be the case. Their crowns are kept to the desired size by once-a-year pruning.

Many small trees can be grown as shrubs by occasional pruning—dogwoods, crabapples, cherries, magnolias, laburnums, hollies, and the like. And, also by pruning, quite a few shrubs can be grown as small trees—lilacs, hardy hibiscus, franklinia, stewartia, enkianthus, and such.

Where large shade trees do not exist and would take too long to develop, small trees can be planted fairly close and pruned high, as in our illustration, to provide a canopy of shade above a terrace or garden seat.

To serve different purposes in different parts of your garden, you'll of course need different kinds of plantings. To mark your property line, to provide privacy, to screen out unwanted views, to serve as dividers between them in your garden designs different parts of your garden, to provide backgrounds for other plantings, or to act as focal points in their own right—all these purposes may call for shrub plantings of different sizes and shapes.

Some may need to be curved, others straight; some 15' high, others less than a foot; some 8' or 10' deep, others espaliered to minimum thickness against a trellis or fence. Shapes and sizes of all plantings will depend on the purposes they’re to serve.

When you’ve finished your sketches—and don’t rush them! you’re ready to choose the shrubs. That is, you’re ready to write in shrub names where you’ve indicated shrub sizes and shapes.

At this point your best bet will be to visit a nursery which handles a good selection of shrubs and trees suitable for your section of the country. And be prepared to spend some time there! When you plant shrubs and trees, you plant for permanence, and mistakes cost more time, effort and money than you would imagine.

Consider all shrubs first for their year-round appearance—color and form of leaves, their denseness or openness, their bark and twig characteristics—and secondly for their blooms if they happen to be flowering kinds. After all, they’re in flower a much shorter time than they’re out of flower!

Many nurseries today label their plants to indicate how tall and broad they grow, whether they’re fast or slow growing, the season and colors of their flowers, what type soil they need, and so on. By taking as much time as you like to study the plants and their labels, you can thus get a good idea of how many and what kinds of shrubs you need. When you’re worked out a tentative list it’s time enough to ask for the help of a salesman.

If your nurseryman has failed to label his plants adequately, you’ll simply have to question his salesman until you’ve got all the information you want. And if there’s no well-stocked nursery in your locality, write to the National Mail Order Nurserymen’s Association (Roger Krider, Secretary, Middlebury, Vermont) and ask for a list of nurseries serving your area whose catalogues give full descriptions of the plants offered.

If you start your planning now, you should be ready for action by planting time in spring.

with flowers that are orchid with wine-red veining. It holds up through all weather.

ZINNIAS: ‘Sugar ‘n’ Spice’ is a miniature growing only a foot tall; fine for low borders and cutting. Many-colored. ‘Merry-Go-Round’ types are taller with fascinating color pattern that’s dark in the center with gradually lighter petals toward the edge. ‘Cherry Time’ (in shades of rose) and ‘Lilac Time’ (in shades of lavender) are giant cactus flowered zinnias with wavy quilled petals. ‘Trail Blazer’, the first F₁ hybrid zinnia, has orange-scarlet loosely ruffled flowers on 2’-tall stems.

DWARF ASTER ‘LITTLE QUEEN’ grows only 12” high. Flowers are 3’ across in red, white, blue, rose.

ANNUAL PHLOX ‘GLAMOUR’ is an All-America winner in a distinctive soft mid-salmon color. About 12” high.

DOUBLE SNAPPDRAGON ‘VANGUARD’ is another All-America champion, with cerise-rose-colored flowers on 3’ stems.

CALENDULA ‘FLAME BEAUTY’ is a new orange in the large, long-blooming, heat-resistant ‘Pacific Beauty’ strain.

PROMISING PERENNIALS

CHRYSANTHEMUMS: Some new garden types have flowers almost as big as greenhouse ‘football’ mums. ‘Harvest Giants’ fit that description. So do many of the ‘Bird’ mums such as the unusually lovely white shaggy ‘Snowy Egret’, ‘Moonlight Spoon’, with 3½” yellow, flowers, is one of the earliest-blooming sports.

HARDY ASTER ‘CRIMSON BROCADE’ 3’s stems. It comes from England.

DINLEY ‘HALLCROFT’ is one of the fine new large-flowered pink varieties.

IRIS ‘ROCOCO’ is white with blue “stitching” around its ruffled petals. Iris ‘Silver Rim’ is blue, edged with silver.

SOME TEMPTING VINES

ENGLISH IVY novelties include ‘Buttercup’ with leaves suffused bright golden-yellow, ‘Caenwoodiana’ with small dainty leaves divided into fingerlike lobes, and ‘Purpurea’ which has all the good qualities of Baltic ivy plus leaves becoming bronze-purple in fall.

CLEMATIS ‘MRS. P. T. JAMES’ is thrilling because it’s a double blue.

SOME EXCITING FRUITS

HIMROD’ SEEDLESS GRAPE has golden-yellow, sweetly delicious berries that can be eaten whole, like California grapes. The vines are winter hardy to 20 degrees below zero! The variety was developed after long years of testing at the New York State Experiment Station.

PURPLE AUTUMN’ RASPBERRY IS the first everbearing purple raspberry. It was developed at the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station, and begins to bear in early summer.

CYCLONE’ STRAWBERRY is a new June-bearer originated by Iowa State University, and is outstanding for high-quality sweetness and productiveness. It’s early, and recommended for home gardens.

GIANT DOUBLE GLOXINIAS are spectacular with red or royal blue flowers that are sometimes white-edged. They’re new and rare. Marketed mainly as plants, this year, for the first time, you can buy seed of 'Royal Red.'

HIMALAYAN DWARF CHERRY (below) produces edible fruits beginning the second year when growing on your window sill, though this is more for fun than for feeding your family. Shrub comes from the Himalayas, and grows 10 to 12' high outdoors. The potted plant in the picture is three years old and a little more than a foot tall.

SHRUB ROSE 'Schneezwerg' is an extra-hardy rugosa hybrid, with semidouble white fragrant flowers all season, followed by brilliant red seed hips. Normally about 30' high, it can be trimmed as low as 12'. Another new shrub rose, 5' tall, is perpetual-flowering 'Spar Riesshoop' with large semidouble pale-pink flowers in clusters.

LOVELY NEW ROSES

ALL-AMERICA WINNERS always head the list of most-wanted new roses. This year (as shown to you in color in our June, 1959, issue) they're the pink-edge ivory hybrid tea 'Garden Party'; the iridescent-orange semidouble floribunda 'Sarabande'; and the darker red double floribunda 'Fire King.'

OUTSTANDING HYBRID TEAS: 'Tanya' is exciting for its distinctive orange color and the beautiful shape of its buds and flowers. It's a seedling of 'Peace.' 'Pink Duchess' is another descendant of 'Peace' with very large double flowers, luminous-pink color, and sweet fragrance. 'Royal Velvet's' name aptly describes the quality of this double red beauty.

FLORIFEROUS FLORIBUNDAS: 'Malibu' has sunset-colored orange-red flowers so shapely and large that the plant's often mistaken for a hybrid tea. 'Lavender Princess' is the newest of the exotic-colored lavender floribundas.

GRANDIFLORAS (tall, with flowers almost as large as hybrid teas, and profuse bloom like floribundas): 'Golden Girl' is a gorgeous glowing yellow. 'El Capitan' has fiery red, perfectly formed, double flowers on long stems.

When it's roasted in halves, the shell-less seeds impart a delicious nutty flavor. Gourmet possibilities! It was developed at the University of New Hampshire.

FLOWERING SHRUBS, TREES

DWARF CRAPemyRTLES that grow only 3' high are big news for gardeners in the southern half of the country. There are three colors being introduced: 'Snow Baby,' 'Low Flame,' and 'Blue Midget.'

FLOWERING CRABAPPLE 'LISSET,' from Holland, is considered one of the finest red-flowering varieties. It's a small tree or large shrub, ideal for use in small yards. In autumn it's snowy with bright red small fruits.

LILAC 'ROME,' a new true pink, comes from Ottawa, Canada.

ALTHEAS are among the few summer-blooming tall shrubs. Outstanding new one is 'Blue Bird' with large single blue flowers measuring 5" across.

DEUTZIA 'PINK POMPON' meets the need for dwarf shrubs with attractive flowers. It grows only 3' tall, is deciduous, a spring-bloomer, covered with small double shell-pink flowers.

CAMELLIA of the year (above) is All-America winner 'Sparkling Burgundy,' a double ruby-rose-colored Camellia susanica.

January is named for Janus, the Roman god of gates and doors. Janus is frequently remembered this month in the fine old Anglo-Saxon expression, "Brr! Shut the door!" Janus got his name on this one because he was also the god of good beginnings. If a Roman wanted to get something off to a good start, he'd invoke Janus, something like this: "O, Janus, nihil per totam mensem!" This has lost none of its original vigor in translation and is often used by women taking down Christmas decorations: "This month I'm going on a strict diet!"

Times haven't changed much, either. About a thousand winters ago, this was called "Wolf-month" in jolly old England. Wolves entered the villages in search of food and there was one at every door. Today there are those bills that are still coming in from Christmas—and the not-so-jolly reminder from Uncle Sam that, come spring, he wants his.

Winter sports reveal how people approach a new year: the man hurtling down the hill on the sled cares not a whit about what's over and done with; it's what's ahead that worries him. The young man with his back to the fire is preoccupied with what's behind him. But the self-possessed gent at the edge of the pond has the right attitude; he faces the future with equanimity; he takes things as they come. (More snow is on the way right now, dad.)

The happiest people in January are the gardeners. They gaze in satisfaction at weed-free rows of sweet corn, beans, tomatoes, and lettuce. The roses bloom to perfection and the glads are free of thrips. Everything is beautiful in the new seed catalogues.

Tide keeps on working after other suds have quit!

Sooner or later other suds tire out in your washer. They slow down...quit. But Tide keeps on working after other suds have quit. Tide is tireless.

If you’ve seen the test (left) on TV, you know just how hard Tide works. It keeps on eating up dirt long after the other suds are all...tired...out. And doesn’t it make sense that the one that works the hardest is the one that gets your wash the cleanest?

Tireless Tide for the cleanest clean there is!
