YOU CAN LAUGH AT HEAT WITH A 2-IN-1

Twin cooling circuits work together during intense heat and humidity.

On normally hot days one cooling circuit will handle the heat load.

BACKED BY MOST COMPREHENSIVE WRITTEN PERFORMANCE GUARANTEE EVER KNOWN!

YORK Whole-House Air Conditioner

and save 15% or more on operating costs alone!

YORK COOLING "TWINS" are the two ultra-efficient cooling circuits inside a York Twinline Air Conditioner. All day long, all night long, all summer long, they keep a close check on temperature and humidity. They make doubly certain you enjoy deliciously cool comfort all through the house—at substantial savings in operating costs.

During the hottest, stickiest part of the day, when the cooling load is heaviest, two cooling circuits work together to keep you cool and comfortable. On normally hot days, when the cooling load is moderate, one circuit is sufficient to maintain desired comfort conditions—saving you 15% on operating costs.

York Twinline Air Conditioners come in sizes to fit every home, every budget. They can be installed inside or outside the home. Existing blower and ductwork may be used to save on installation costs. Other York models provide winter heating as well as summer cooling. Electrostatic Filtering also available. Call your York Dealer for FREE home survey and estimate!

How to plant a shrub

This is the best time of year!

■ If you plant a shrub this month—and plant it carefully—it'll have the best possible chance of getting through its first summer in perfect condition.

The pictures here show you exactly how to plant—whether your shrub is bare-root, balled-and-burlapped, or container-grown.

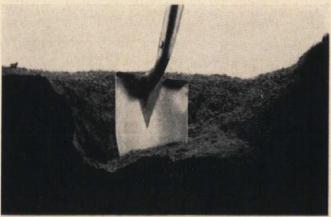

You don't need peatmoss if your soil is mellow, humus-rich loam. But use it generously if the soil is sandy, and use both peatmoss and sand if it's heavy clay.

After planting, water often enough to keep soil constantly moist, not soaking wet, throughout the season.

In about a month, feed lightly with complete plant food, again in early summer.

FIRST STEP IN PLANTING A SHRUB

Dig good-sized hole, mix damp peatmoss with soil at bottom, and firm this soil so it won't sink.

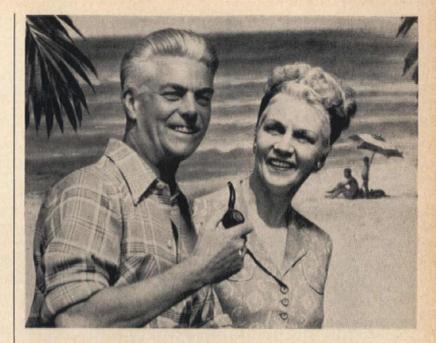

PLANTING A BARE-ROOT SHRUB

Spread out roots and adjust hole depth so plant is at same level as it grew in nursery.

Work soil in among roots, press firm, and continue till hole is three-quarters full.

How we retired in 15 years with $300 a month

"Here we are, living in Southern California. We've a little house just a few minutes' walk from the beach, with flowers and sunshine all year. For, you see, I've retired. We're getting a check for $300 a month that will keep us financially independent as long as we live.

"But if it weren't for that $300, we'd still be living in Forest Hills, and I'd still be plugging away at the same old job. Strangely, it's all thanks to something that happened, quite accidentally, in 1944. It was August 17. I remember the date because it was my fortieth birthday.

"To celebrate, Peg and I were going out to the movies. While she went upstairs to dress, I picked up a magazine and leafed through it idly. Then somehow my eyes rested on an ad. It said, 'You don't have to be rich to retire.' Probably the reason I read it through was that just that evening Peg and I had been saying how hard it was for us to put anything aside for our future.

"Well, we'd certainly never be rich. We spent money as fast as it came in. And here I was forty already. Over half my working years were gone. Someday I might not be able to go on working so hard. What would happen then?

"Now this ad sounded as if it might have the answer. It told of a way that a man of 40—with no big bank account, but just fifteen or twenty good earning years ahead—could get an income of $300 a month guaranteed for life. It was called the Phoenix Mutual Retirement Income Plan.

"The ad offered more information. No harm in looking into it, I said. When Peg came down, I was tearing a corner off the page. First coupon in my life I ever clipped. I mailed it on our way to the movies.

"Fifteen years slide by mighty fast. They were busy, unpredictable years. I couldn't see into the future. But my Phoenix Mutual Plan was onething I never had toworry about! 1959 came... I got my first Phoenix Mutual check—and retired. We sold the house and drove west. We're living a new kind of life, Best of all, we've security a rich family might envy. Our $300 a month will keep coming as long as we live."

What is Easter? Is it a small boy poking behind a rock for a colored egg? Is it a basket or a bunny? Or a little girl in a pink dress and straw bonnet? Is Easter the time of birds singing and lilies blooming? Hyacinths and daffodils? Easter is all these things and more! Easter is a day unlike any other of the year. Easter is the family leaving home for church. It is the choir raising its voice in majestic beauty. Easter is faith reborn. Easter is the joyous thought-"He is Risen!"

families in mind

Here are wagons from people who know how to build them the way parents want. Extra spacious wagons from Chrysler Corporation for parents whose kids have a place in their hearts but not in their hair. And because each family has different needs, there are 27 models to choose from.

You'll find wagons that seat 6 people, and wagons that seat 9 in square-shouldered comfort. You can get them with new 6-cylinder engines that squeeze full measure out of every eyedropper of gas. Or powerful V-8's that move you from here to there in jigtime. There are two-door and four-door models, from the smart-thrifty Valiant to the luxurious Chrysler New Yorker Town and Country.

But there's one thing all these wagons have in common: They offer more parent-saving features than any other wagons on the road. Pick the wagon that suits your family's needs.

You can lock all doors from the driver's seat, Great with kids.

Exclusive pushbutton driving controls are safely out of children's reach.

Hidden luggage compartment lets you lock valuables safely out of sight.

No clumsy two-piece tailgate. Rear window rolls down, can be controlled by driver.

COME ABOARD!

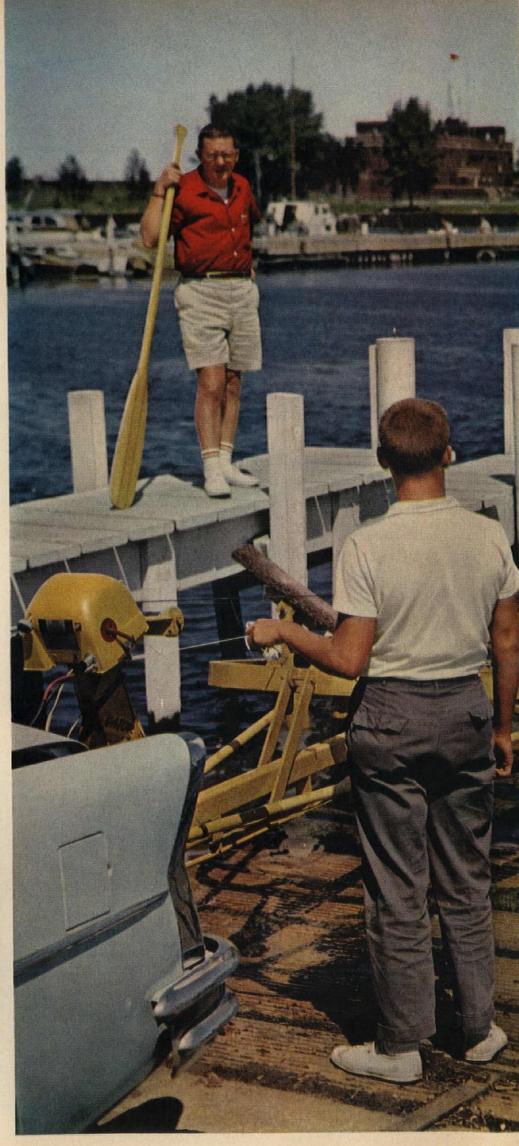

Want to have fun as a family? Join us. Seven million U. S. families will tell you: boating is the greatest family sport since the invention of the picnic

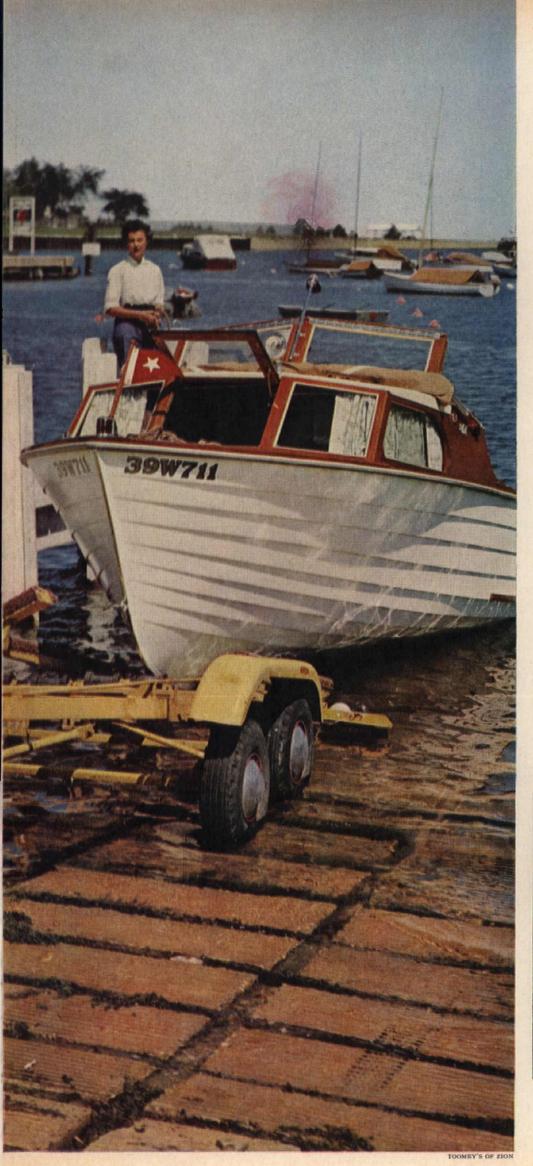

JIM ROE

Our family is happily trapped in the boating boom. For the past two years, the trim and competent outboard cruiser shown in the photos on this page has occupied practically every week-end waking moment. We've never had so much fun in our lives, and never have been so close to our teen-age children. Come aboard! Join us for a summer of fun. You'll find it easy, then, to understand why Americans now own the fantastic number of seven and one third million pleasure boats. (If the entire fleet put to sea at once, every seventh U. S. family would be waterborne.) You'll understand why dredges and pile drivers work night and day constructing more, bigger, fancier marinas-the combination gas station, parking lot, country club, and motel of the boating fraternity.

Home port for our boat—as for millions of others—is our own carport. It provides ideal shelter and saves mooring charges.

Launching and recovering from the trailer are easy. Power winch takes the last bit of muscle work out of the job. Here, young Jim pulls lanyard on switch of trailer-mounted winch. Taking its power from the car's electrical system, the sturdy little "electric mule" pulls the boat snugly into place on the trailer.

The first symptoms of a coming addiction to boating are these: you'll notice you're not having as much fun as you'd like. You're tired, tense . . . weary of crowds. You notice your youngsters' activities and yours are growing farther and farther apart. You are seldom together having fun, as a family.

Your thoughts turn to blue water. To fishing in uncrowded places. To swimming off a secluded, sandy shore. To water skiing. To cool evening cruises, the moonglow riding your wake. To picnics beside rippling water. To fast runs across a favorite lake, wind in your face, spray flying high.

When you find yourself repeatedly experiencing any five of these twelve symptoms, it's time to start shopping for your own boat. For ten years or more, our family fleet consisted of a 16-foot magnesium canoe. With it, we explored rivers, small lakes, and the shorelines of a couple of the Great Lakes. But, while our youngsters kept growing, the canoe didn't. Our daughter, Patti, is now 16; young Jim, a husky 15. It was obvious: If we wanted to continue to have boating fun as a family, we'd need more boat.

We live 25 miles west of Chicago. Water calls us from all directions. Lake Michigan is close; Wisconsin's wonderful lakes to the north. The Illinois and Mississippi rivers to the west and southwest. My wife and I grew up along the shore of Lake Erie, so the Lake Erie Islands area tugs at us with a strong mysterious force. (continued on page 62)

We pull alongside the dock so you can take a ride with us in our 19-foot, clinker-built outboard cruiser.

COLORFUL CONTEMPORARY

ROBERT W. HOUSEMAN

Even if you are a dyed-in-the-wool traditionalist, you'll have to admit the virtues and beauty of contemporary furniture. Sometimes called "modern," variations of this style are designed for today's homes. They are scaled for smaller rooms and priced for belabored pocketbooks. Contemporary can no longer be criticized for looking cold, since there is warmth in the wood tones and in the fabrics. To prove its adaptability to decorative treatments, we invite you to saunter through the rooms shown here.

Photographer: Scott Hyde Decorator: Rebecca Petrikin of Stern Brothers

Slim seating pieces and space-saving, wall-hung cabinets illustrate practicality of contemporary style. Color and warmth are present in the textured grass-cloth wallcovering and in the rich vinyl flooring that features an area rug in bright design.

MAKE USE OF COLOR AND TEXTURE

The clean-cut colors and textures that are traits of contemporary furnishings can be a sure-fire cure for decorating doubts. Unlike the more restrained shades of the traditional color wheel, the bolder palette of contemporary colors offers a somewhat wider choice of color schemes. The unusual wood finishes are enhanced by the true blues, pure reds and greens, and sunshine yellows available in contemporary furnishings. You can use one sparkling color in different shades to make your scheme a success. Notice that dark wood tones take to light, bright fabrics, and lighter woods to the vibrant blues, greens, or purples.

Crisp color brings out the beauty of sculptured furniture forms in this room which has Scandinavian accents. Textured contrast is found in the fringed carpet on smooth vinyl flooring, grained plywood wall with plain molding strips, and teak chairs with woven hemp seats.

STYLE YOUR ROOMS FOR ATMOSPHERE

There's practically no limit to the amount of foreign intrigue you can achieve in a room that's furnished with the simple lines of contemporary. For instance, you can get a sophisticated Italian feeling in an entrance hall with a sleek console table on thin tapered legs, using black and white marbleized tile on the floor. Or you can try a Mexican theme with furniture sporting pewter hardware; use fabrics in piercing reds and yellows. Give a dainty French provincial feeling to a contemporary bedroom by decorating with soft pastel colors in fabrics, floor coverings, and painted accent pieces. Capitalize on the Danish influence prevalent in contemporary furniture. Use fine homespun fabrics and rugs in vivid colorings with typical Scandinavian ceramic accessories.

Oriental feeling can be added to many rooms having contemporary furniture. Here, a glowing orange-red sets off the highly grained walnut. There's an exotic touch in the tableware, lighting, and other accessories and a stylized simplicity in the vinyl floor and window treatment.

Otto Maya Tall chest and turned spindle bed are contemporary, but suggest Shaker furniture. "Orange peel" quilt inspired color scheme.

EMBELLISH WITH THE CHARM OF YESTERYEAR Forthright contemporary furniture holds its own when used with the color and gaiety of provincial touches. The simplicity in the design of most contemporary furniture makes it adaptable to casual decorating treatments and documentary-type papers and fabrics. Antiques collectors needn't be limited by their choice possessions, for most antiques will blend easily with contemporary. Just note here, for example, how traditional accessories, used with contemporary, make a charming room.

Next to your marriage license, the contract with your builder is probably the most important document you'll ever sign

Whether it's a development house or a custom-built one you're buying, the contract you make determines your legal rights and obligations as well as those of the builder. The more specific your contract, the less area for misunderstanding or disagreement there will be. To obtain a good contract, have your lawyer with you when it is drawn up and signed.

BUYING A DEVELOPMENT HOME is a relatively simple process because it is a package deal. When you decide to have a home built in a development, you are, in fact, asking the builder to manufacture a house just like the sample you have seen on display. The contract you sign calls for the delivery, by a certain date, on a specified plot, of a house that is "substantially similar" to the model house. This does not mean, of course, that the house you will receive will contain those "extra" or "optional" items often included in the model house and available for additional charges. The price of this home has been predetermined by the builder's land, construction, financing, and merchandising costs and is not usually subject to negotiation.

The important thing to remember is that you are making a twofold agreement. One phase covers the construction of a house. The other is the purchase of a piece of land, a consideration you should not take lightly. This means that you should have your lawyer check into such questions as zoning, restrictive covenants, easements, and possible assessments for local improvements. Since the streets are not usually paved when you first visit the model house, and utilities, such as sewers, electrical lines, and water supply, have not been installed you must be absolutely certain that the > builder assumes full responsibility for completing these land improvements. Normally, the town or village requires this of him and makes him post a bond to insure completion of the work, but your > > contract should verify it. At the time you sign your contract, you are usually required to make a cash deposit toward your down payment, possibly 10 per cent of the purchase price. In most cases the builder will absorb this money into his working capital, an arrangement that is so prevalent in most areas that you have to accept it. This is one reason why it is important for you to check the reputation of the builder. In the event that he should go bankrupt before your home is completed, you will become a general creditor, which means you must stand on the end of the line when the settlement is made. Ahead of you are the lender who gave him his construction loan and the subcontractors and suppliers who have already (continued on page 76)

HUBBARD H. COBB

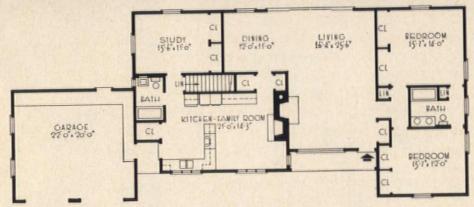

This sunny home in Lake Forest, Illinois, combines the best design elements from both colonial and Western ranch-house architecture. It is another example of how our colonial tradition continues to find its way into the hearts of Americans all across the country. The owners, Shirley and Jack Kelly, not only designed the house—they built it from the ground up. When the excavator had dug the foundation, 15 friends of the Kellys' arrived on the scene to put up the shell of the house and finished the job in one day. It was just like an old-fashioned "barn raising."

The best design and materials have been incorporated into the plans so that quality is maintained throughout the house. The exterior of the house is vertical board-and-batten siding painted yellow with white trim. There (continued on page 71) and material list are available for $5

Sparkling bright yellow and white of the Kelly home set it off from the green of the trees and lawn. Fastidious colonial detailing can be seen in the small black shutters, six-paned casement windows, and post-and-board fence. First floor of house is level with ground to give entire property unity.

Arrangement of rooms provides good separation between the living, sleeping, and utility zones of the house. Garage is located next to the kitchen for easy handling of groceries. Living room opens to back terrace through sliding glass doors.

BEAUTY FOR YOUR SHADY GARDEN

GRETCHEN HARSHBARGER

PHOTOGRAPHS BY THE AUTHOR

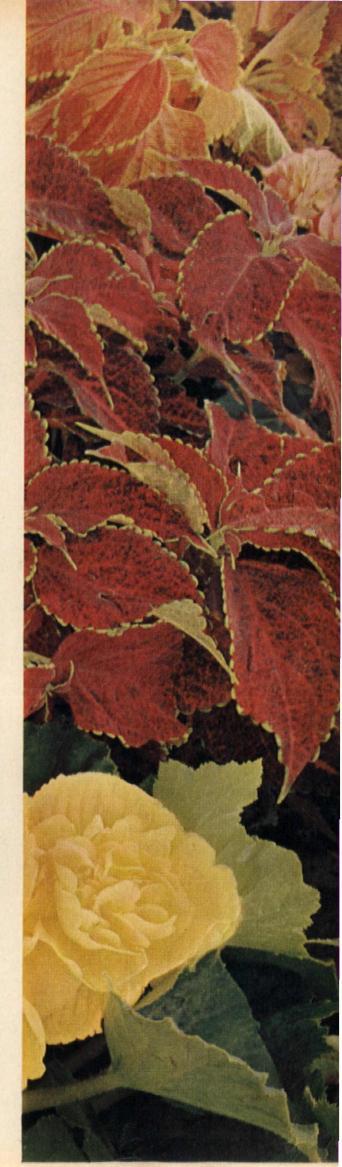

Here are gloriously colorful plants to brighten your shady summer garden. They like life under tall trees or on the north side of the house! They thrive and bloom in places where sunloving annual and perennial flowers sulk. The glamorous tuberous begonias and coleus shown on this page and the other flowers shown on the following pages can be started this spring to develop into full mature beauty this summer! They're simple to grow if given conditions they like. Even a beginner gardener can be sure of success the first season by following simple instructions for each plant.

Start most of them now. All the plants in our pictures came originally from warm-climate parts of the world. They're frost-tender, and can't be set outdoors until summer. To get a good display quickly, you must either start plants indoors early, or buy good-sized plants later. It's more fun to grow your own!

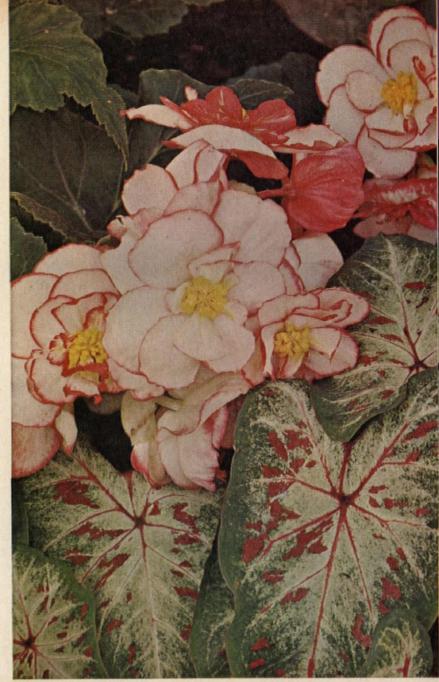

Tuberous begonias, achimenes (a-kimines), and caladiums grow from bulblike tubers and rhizomes available at this time of year from garden-supply dealers and mail-order firms. Get them right now! Coleus and impatiens can be started from seed, indoors, now.

Choose the right outdoor location. Don't plan on plunking these plants into just any shady spot and expect to get great results. You won't! Because good light, carefully prepared soil, and protection from wind are important. The ideal amount of light is morning sun (at least two hours), day-long dappled shade, or bright indirect light. East and north sides of houses are good. The tuberous begonias and coleus on this page are planted beneath the wide-spreading, high-trimmed branches of an oak tree. The achimenes are on the northeast corner of the house, about four feet from the foundation wall. (continued)

Tuberous begonias and coleus are the perfect combination for your shady garden. They include many rich colors, are effective over a long season, and are easy to grow. Try growing them both this year!

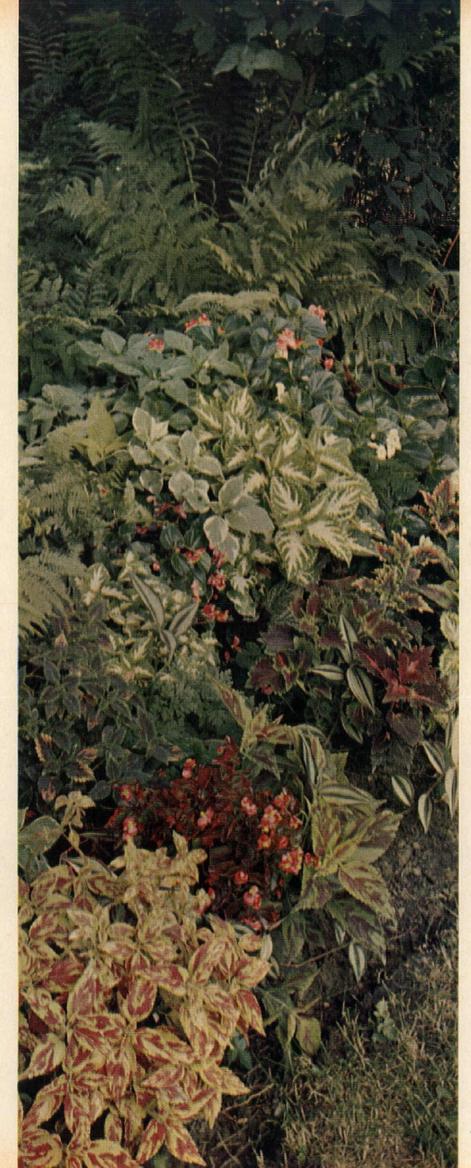

Tuberous begonias and caladium foliage.

The caladium and tuberous begonia are close against a light-colored northfacing wall. The fern bed is under a tree adjoining a building.

Soil should be special. The plants want fertile, porous soil that's moisture-retentive but quick-draining. They need ample moisture, but will rot in soggy, waterlogged ground. Sticky clay soil won't do. Aim for something that resembles woodland soil. Add compost, sand, moistened peatmoss, old well-rotted manure, or the like, and mix it in thoroughly. If you can raise the flowerbed slightly higher than the surrounding area, you'll be sure of better drainage.

About watering and feeding. Soil should be continually moist. Be especially attentive in dry, windy weather. As for fertilizing, it's better to give light feedings frequently than big powerful doses at long intervals. It's wise to give a little food every week or two. Use one of the standard complete plant foods, liquid or dry. Follow directions on the package carefully. Choose the mildest rate recommended for house plants. Remember, overfeeding can make plants sick.

How to start tuberous begonias. Best tubers are 11/2-2" across, plump and firm. The round part is the bottom; the hollow side is the top. There's no hurry to get them into soil until you see pink sprouts emerging from the top. Place tubers right side up in a box or pot of damp sphagnum moss, peatmoss, vermiculite, or sand. Space them 1-2" apart, and cover tops 1/2" deep. Put in a warm (65° or more), light place. Keep barely moist, for overwatering can cause rotting. When plants are 3-4" high, transplant to richer soil and wider spacing in pots or boxes. A good soil mixture is 1/3 garden earth, 1/3 sand, and 1/3 moisture-holding material such as sphagnum moss or vermiculite. Or buy potting soil such as sold for African violets. When weather warms, accustom plants to outdoor climate gradually. Then plant directly in ground or keep in pots buried to rims. Tubers should be an inch below ground. Blossoms will face the same direction as the leaves, so plan position of the plants (continued on page 74) accordingly.

Follow these steps for perfect breadmaking in

How to make bread dough

Good bread begins with the right ingredients. When they are properly blended together in the correct proportions, the changes that occur in mixing, kneading, fermentation, and baking will add up to the wonderful goodness we expect in homemade bread. To accomplish these desired results we must understand the characteristics of ingredients. FLOUR used for bread must be an allpurpose flour, sometimes called "family flour." It contains the protein called gluten, which stretches to form a framework encasing the bubbles of gas formed by the yeast. The amount of protein in the flour and the size of the bubbles quite naturally affect the volume. Because of these facts, bread recipes seldom give exact measurement for flour or kneading time. You will learn in working with yeast doughs to recognize good consistency in a mixture.

MILK and WATER are liquids ordinarily used in yeast breads. Milk may be whole, evaporated, or dry. Whole milk should be scalded, but whatever the liquid, it must be only lukewarm when mixed with the yeast. Bread and rolls made with water have a wheaty flavor, a crisp crust. Those made with milk have a velvety texture and creamier crust. SUGAR works with yeast, forming carbon disside which makes the dough rise and dioxide which makes the dough rise and gives the crust its golden brown. SALT contributes to the flavor and also helps to control the rate of rise.

SHORTENING conditions the gluten, making a dough that stretches easily. Hydrogenated shortenings, lard, vegetable oils, butter, and margarine are all suitable for bread making.

YEAST is the living plant responsible for fermentation, which produces the unusual texture of yeast products. It comes in two forms: Active Dry Yeast and Compressed Yeast.

1 Sprinkle or crumble and dissolve yeast into amount of water specified, using warm (105°-115° F.) water for dry yeast, lukewarm (95°) for compressed yeast. Add milk as recipe directs.

2 Stir in about half the flour; beat until smooth. Add enough of the remaining flour to make a dough that will have a rough, dull appearance. It will be a little sticky.

6 Curve hands over dough. Push firmly away from you with heels of hands, using a rocking motion. Give dough a quarter turn. Repeat steps 5 and 6 until dough is smooth and elastic.

7 The dough is kneaded enough when it is full and rounded and no longer sticks to the board. The surface will be smooth and look tightly stretched and satiny. It will take 8 to 10 minutes.

11 Form the punched-down dough into a round ball on floured board. Cut dough in half with a sharp knife. Cover one half with towel and let it rest while you shape the other.

12 Flatten one half of the dough into an oblong 9x7x1 inches, using your fingers to press out all the air. The width of the dough should be about the same as the length of your bread pan.

Continue mixing dough until an irregular ball forms and pulls away from the sides of the bowl. (A small amount will stick to the sides.) Turn dough onto a lightly floured board.

4 Flour hands lightly. Shape dough into a round, slightly flattened ball which will be ready for kneading.

Work the dough vigorously to obtain a springier dough that's easier to handle.

5 Start kneading by picking up edge of dough farthest from you with fingers of both hands. Fold the dough toward you with a rolling motion. Sprinkle extra flour as needed, little by little, onto board.

Place ball of dough in greased bowl.

Turn over to bring greased side up, or brush top lightly with soft shortening.

Cover with clean, damp towel and set in a warm (85° F.) place to rise.

9 Dough should rise until double in bulk. Test by pressing two fingers deep into dough. If indentation remains, dough is double. Time given in recipe is approximate. Use it only as a guide.

Push your fist down into center of dough. As the dough collapses, pull dough away from sides of bowl and work toward the center. Turn dough out onto a lightly floured board for shaping.

Pick up end of oblong with both hands and fold over to the center.

Fold other side to center, overlapping first side slightly. Press down firmly.

Use both hands to keep loaf in shape.

Pinch center fold together as well as each end to seal loaf. Place loaf, sealed side down, in greased bread pan, 9x5x3 inches. Shape second loaf. Let rise, then bake as recipe directs.

BATTER METHOD OF MAKING BREAD

You will find that certain bread recipes lend themselves to what is referred to as the batter method (the raisin-bread recipe in this issue is an example). These breads are made from batters rather than doughs because recipes have a higher proportion of liquid to flour. Kneading and shaping steps are eliminated, and there is only one rising. The rising may take place either in the mixing bowl, baking dish, or bread pan. Fermentation is so important that recipe directions should be carefully followed.

Brushes are popping up all over. But don't think one brush

E ven the utilitarian brush has succumbed to the wiles of color—witness the bristling excitement in the array shown here. But don't be deceived by their flowerlike beauty. These hardy perennials are ready to tackle all kinds of cleaning jobs. Colored nylon bristles are coming into wider use and give a lift to even the lowliest task. From a fireengine-red pastry brush to a baby-blue tub brush, you'll find colors to match your kitchen and bathroom decor. Plastic bristles, cotton yarn, and spongy foam materials clamor for attention with their gay colors, too. Natural fiber bristles are also frequently set into bright handles.

can do all your spring cleaning-you need a bouquet of them

Selecting and buying a brush deserves more than a casual plucking off a rack as you check out of the supermarket. A good brush will have enough bristles to do the job it's supposed to do, and the bristles will be firmly attached. Bristles vary in softness or stiffness depending on the type of brush. While each brush is designed for a specific job, you'll find its talents grow with your imagination.

The dozen varieties above, left to right, are: pastry brush, car-wash brush, lampshade brush, floor brush, pan brush, wool duster, vegetable brush, dishwashing puff, wall brush, duster brush, scouring brush, and yarn furniture duster.

Wall brush with soft nylon bristles should be used regularly to keep painted, papered, or paneled walls free from dust and soot.

Pastry brush is essential in every kitchen. Use it to glaze pastry, grease cake pans. Bristles fan out for easy cleaning.

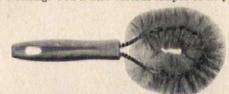

Scouring brush with wire bristles does a vigorous job removing cooked-on food. Use it to keep your cutting board clean.

Outdoor broom, at left, has stiff fiber bristles. It's ideal for sweeping the patio, sidewalk, and garage floor.

Scrub brush with stiff bristles reaches into crevices and gives thorough cleaning. You'll find various shapes to fit your hand.

Vegetable brush makes fast work of scrubbing potatoes or cleaning a food grater. Keep one near the sink for convenient use.

Silver polishing brush reaches into the design and between fork tines. Bristles are soft nylon, won't scratch silver.

Butter brushes are just the right width to butter three rows of corn on cob. Come in sets of six. Handy, too, in the home workshop.

Percolator brush is skinny enough to clean out a percolator pump or a teapot spout. Comes in popular kitchen colors.

Bottle brush reaches into milk bottles, fruit jars, vases, and other tall items. Stiff bristles at end get into crevices.

Floor brush, with its 14" width, sweeps all hard-surface floors in a hurry. Colorful plastic bristles are sturdy but flexible.

Radiator brush with its pretty pink nylon bristles has a long handle to reach those hard-to-get-at dust catchers.

Tub brush is shaped to clean all areas of the bathtub without getting on your knees. Nylon bristles come in several colors.

Bowl brush is curved to clean the hidden areas of the bowl. Always hang up brush after use to keep bristles from flattening.

Scouring brush has crimped wire bristles and a long handle. It's a big help in cleaning a waffle iron, griddle, or range grates.

Dish brush has stiff bristles to whisk away food particles when washing dishes by hand or preparing them for the dishwasher.

Gloss brush has a full-bodied set of nylon bristles to swish tumblers clean. Nylon bristles are resilient and dry quickly.

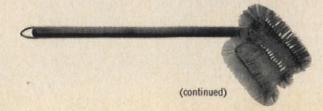

Car-wash brush with 36" hollow handle hooks up to garden hose. Valve controls flow of water. Has variety of outdoor uses.

Wire clothes whisk chases lint, dust, and loose hairs from clothes and upholstery. Keep one hanging in every closet.

Venetion-blind brush has three soft fingers of bristles that reach between slats. Bristles come in feminine pastel colors.

Peach Cream Salad...tree-ripened

Del Monte Peaches make it sunny as summer itself

You'll find the easiest way to make any salad or dessert come aglow is to give it the golden good looks and mellow good taste of Del Monte Cling Peaches.

Tree-ripening is one big reason for that happy Del Monte difference. We give Nature all the time she needs to produce the lovely color, rich flavor and mellow texture that have made Del Monte the world's best-liked brand of peaches for so long.

So whether you serve them plain...or use them to dress up other foods...you're sure of your peaches every time you choose the famous DEL MONTE Brand.

PEACH CREAM SALAD

- 2 packages (3-oz. size) pineapple or lemon-flavored gelatin
- 11/2 cups boiling water
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 No. 2½ can (1 lb. 13 oz.)
 DEL MONTE Sliced Cling Peaches, drained
- 1 cup syrup from peaches
- 2 packages (3-oz. size) cream cheese, softened
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
- Salad green

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in lemon juice. Mix 1 cup of the dissolved gelatin (saving rest to mix with cheese and mayonnaise later) with 1 cup syrup; cool till syrupy and pour 1/4-in. depth into 2 qt. mold. In it arrange about 15 of the drained peach slices; chill till set. Pour in remaining gelatin-syrup mixture. Chill. Mix cheese with mayonnaise. Dice remaining peaches; stir into cheese mixture with reserved gelatin. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon over set mixture in mold. Chill till firm. Unmold on greens. Serves 8 to 10.

Del Monte Peaches

Sliced or Halves

The mere mention of these party-pretty desserts will have every sweet-toothed member of your family in a tizzy. But did you know that each is made with this new surprise ingredient—frosting mix? What's more, there's no preliminary measuring of sugar, egg whites, shortening, or flavoring. You can buy the fluffy (the meringue type) or the creamy (fudge or butter-cream type) variety. We use fluffy white in a delicate Raspberry

Velvet Soufflé, as a luscious browned topping on Date Oatmeal Bars, and in a heavenly, fruit-flavored Pineapple-Lime Parfait. Combined with pudding and pie mix, it becomes a Banana-Rum Chiffon Pie. For those who are pushovers for Mocha Cream Puffs, we use a chocolatefudge frosting mix. For the Crispy Ice Cream Shells, a creamy vanilla frosting mix. If you can resist temptation no longer, we suggest you turn to the recipes on page 59.

Homemade Bread (pictured in color on pages 34, 35, 36, 37)

SWEDISH LIMPA

1 tbs. fennel seeds
2 tbs. anise seeds
1½ c. warm water (105°-115° F.)
2 pkg. active dry yeast or 2 cakes compressed yeast

1/4 c. molasses

½ c. sugar
1 tbs. salt
2 tbs. grated orange rind
2½ c. sifted rye flour
2 tbs. soft shortening
2½-3 c. sifted all-purpose flour

• Crush fennel and anise seeds in small bowl until fine, or pound in a mortar. Measure warm water into large mixing bowl (cool to lukewarm for compressed yeast); sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir to dissolve. Add molasses, sugar, salt, orange rind, anise, and fennel. Stir in rye flour and soft shortening; beat until smooth; add enough all-purpose flour to make a dough that is easy to handle. Turn out onto floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl; turn dough overto bring greased side up, or brush top with soft shortening; cover with damp towel. Let rise in warm place (85° F.), free from draft, about 1½ hours, or until doubled in bulk. Punch dough down; turn out onto board; cut dough in half. Shape each half into slightly flattened oval; place on greased baking sheet; cover with damp towel. Let rise in warm place (85° F.), free from draft, about 1 hour or until doubled in bulk. Make three ¼-inch deep slashes in top of each loaf. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Cool on wire racks.

Cornmeal

• Combine water, cornmeal, and salt in saucepan; cook until bubbly and thickened. Add honey, shortening, and cheese; cool mixture to lukewarm. Measure warm water into large mixing bowl (cool to lukewarm for compressed yeast); sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir to dissolve. Stir in lukewarm cornmeal mixture; add 4 cups flour; beat until blended. Add enough remaining flour to form a stiff dough, easy to handle, mixing with hands if necessary. Turn out onto floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Place in well-greased bowl; turn over to bring greased side up or brush top with soft shortening; cover with damp cloth. Let rise in warm place (85° F.), free from draft, about 1-11/2 hours or until doubled in bulk. Punch down; let rise again about 30 minutes or until almost doubled. Turn out on board; divide dough in half. Roll or punch dough into a 9x12-inch rectangle, pressing out as many gas bubbles as possible. Spread dough with soft butter or margarine; sprinkle with paprika. Roll up tightly as for jelly roll, starting with short side; seal each turn and pinch roll to seal. Place sealed side down in greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Brush top with melted butter or margarine; sprinkle with cornmeal. Repeat for other half of dough. Cover with a damp cloth. Let rise in warm place (85° F.), free from draft, about 1 hour or until doubled in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 45-55 minutes or until well browned. Remove from pans; cool on wire racks.

Add excitement to eggs ... add Tabasco !!

(The seasoning that sings)

The unique Tabasco flavor begins when we take this pepper . . The proud strain that the McIlhenny family has watched over for more than a century . . . Press it tenderly, keeping all the essential flavorful oils . . . Mellow it for years like fine wine in oaken casks . . . And finally put it in this famous bottle. Then this liquid pepper seasoning is ready to spread singing flavor through all your favorite foods. See . . .

EGGS BENEDICT

The Tabasco magic is in the Hollandaise Sauce that covers poached eggs on sliced ham, served on English muffins. For breakfast, brunch or lunch. Another famous recipe from the Tabasco recipe booklet.

TABASCO EGGS

For this famous dish from the Tabasco recipe booklet you drop the eggs, one at a time, into simmering cream, flavor-sparked with Tabasco. Sprinkle with bread crumbs, parsley and Parmesan cheese, serve on toast—mmmm!

FRIED EGGS DELUXE

Browned butter, lemon juice, chives and Tabasco—start your day just right by adding real eye-opening flavor to fried eggs fixed to your taste. Sound an extra flavor-note by adding capers to the sauce.

FLUFFY OMELET

Good news for those who think omelets are difficult. The new Tabasco recipe booklet has a never-fail method for an extra-tasty, extra-fluffy triumph of an omelet. (Flavor secret: that 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco.)

Tabasco adds exciting new flavor to the familiar favorite . . . eggs, chopped ham, onions, green pepper, salt. Serve with piping hot biscuits.

GLAMORIZED BOILED EGGS

Breakfast eggs wake up when you add a dash of Tabasco—and a dash of thyme, or a teaspoon of sherry. Spread toast strips with a blend of butter and herbs, such as chives, parsley or thyme—and a dash of Tabasco.

YOUR FAVORITE RESTAURANT knows many exciting ways to prepare eggs, using Tabasco. Look for them on the menu.

2 tbs, shortening 1 tbs, salt 1 tbs, sugar 1 c, boiling water 1 c, cold water 1 pkg, active dry yeast or 1 cake compressed yeast
6-6½ c. sifted all-purpose flour
Cornmeal
1 egg white, slightly beaten

• Combine shortening, salt, sugar, and boiling water in large mixing bowl; stir; add cold water; cool mixture slightly to warm (105°-115° F.). (Cool to lukewarm for compressed yeast). Sprinkle yeast over mixture; let stand 5 minutes; stir to dissolve. Beat in 4 cups of flour. Mix in enough of the remaining flour to form a stiff dough. Turn out onto floured board or pastry cloth; knead until dough is smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl; turn dough over to bring greased side up, or brush top with soft shortening; cover with damp cloth. Let rise in warm place (85° F.), free from draft, about 1-11/2 hours or until doubled in bulk. Punch down; let rise about 30 minutes or until almost doubled. Turn dough out onto board; knead slightly to press out gas bubbles; divide in half. Shape each half into a long cylinder, about as long as the diagonal of a large baking sheet. Place each loaf on baking sheet which has been greased and sprinkled with cornmeal. Let rise, uncovered, in warm place (85° F.), free from draft, about 1-1½ hours or until doubled in bulk. Brush with slightly beaten egg white. With sharp knife, make ¼-inch-deep slashes in top of dough. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 20 minutes; remove from oven; brush again with egg white; bake 20 minutes longer or until nicely browned and glazed. Remove from baking sheets; cool on wire racks.

How to tell when yeast dough is double in bulk

1. Put kneaded dough in bowl; press dough level; make a mark on side of bowl at height of dough; remove dough from bowl.

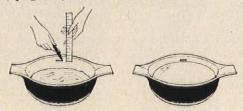

2. Pour water into bowl up to mark; pour out and measure water by cupfuls; measure back into bowl twice as many cupfuls of water.

Make a mark on side of bowl at water line; measure the distance this mark is from top of bowl; pour out water; dry and grease bowl.

4. Place dough in greased bowl, making sure it is as level as before. Put a mark on the side of bowl the measured distance from the top (step 3). Set dough to rise. When it reaches the mark on the side of bowl, test with finger test (picture 9, page 39) for double in bulk.

RED ROBIN LIVING FENCE

Greetings from Red Robin Farms!

my Red Robin Living Fence.
From this beautiful valley I ship thousands of Red Robin Living Fences each year. My Red Robin is blooming now around thousands of homes. It's beautifying and protecting just about every kind of home from modest suburban and city homes to million-dollar estates. Incidentally, Red Robin now carries the seals of both Good Housekeeping and Parents Magazines. Below are excerpts from just a few of thousands of letters I've received from happy Red Robin owners. I hope you'll join them! Sincerely, Ben Ginden. "If you are in the vicinity stop and see the hedge for yourself. Seeing is believing. They grew better than our wildest expectations." Mrs. T. Ray Johnson, Saginaw, Mich. "We want you to know how pleased we are. Also would you be interested in us sending you a colored picture next spring of our roses?" Edward G. Foos, Liberty, Mo. "Formerly I was seeptical... but every one's growing. In fact, they look like they are growing a few inches over night." Mrs. Karl Kath, Hampton, Nebraska. "Our Red Robin hedge is the talk of our neighborhood!" Mrs. June Vincent, Hazlet, N.J. "Every day I look it over as it is amazing how it has grown." Mrs. Anna Smith, Mt. Vernon, Ohio. "All the Red Robin hedge before we set out the privet. Won't be so hard to keep up and so much more beautiful and smells so sweet." Oliver Heinz, Bartlesville, Okla. "My enthusiasm over these roses has caused neighbors on each side of me to plant the hedge." Hazel B. Smith, McMinnville, Ore. "The 100 Red Robin I bought from you last spring are thriving and living up to all expectations and promises made by your company." Emma Warner, Ogden, Utah. "They were sent to us in April. We can truly say we are thrilled with them. Have grown a foot in a couple of months, I think." Mrs. Mrs. Ew. Jones, Colorado Springs, Colo. "You were so good to us. We carried most of our Living Fence bushes with us when we retired down here." Rev. and hrs. R. M. Hamilton, Melbourne, Fla. "Every plant lived and the entire group shows great promise of lo

YOUR QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT LIVING FENCE PLANTS:

Q. Does your Living Fence need much trimming? A. No. Trim the new growth back a few times to get thick, heavy growth. Then trimming once or twice a year will give you a neat hedge. Q. How far ahart should they be planted? A. Plant 18" apart for landscape or garden use. For quick small-animal proofing plant 12" apart. Q. Is it disease resistant? A. And how! Many people don't spray them at all. Q. Will it grow in the desert? The mountains? A. Yes, In hot desert country (with irrigation), in mountain weather below zero, the Living Fence thrives. Q. How much sun does it need? A. Don't plant in dense shade as it should have at least 4 or 5 hours of sun a day. Q. Is the Red Robin a new, untimetested rose? A. For from it, Its botanical name is Gloire Des Rosomanes. It is one of the magnificent Bourbon roses and was introduced about 1825 by the great French hybridizer, Vibert.

Surrounds your home with beauty scores of landscape uses and protection . . . in a few months!

The Ginden Nursery of San Bruno, California, has shipped over ten million Red Robin (Gloire Des Rosomanes) rose plants to homeowners. Today they are growing and beautifying thousands of homes . . . all over America. Red Robin is guaranteed by Ginden Nurseries to give you a living wall of roses up to six feet high if you wish. And year after year it will grow more dense, more deeply foliaged, give you ever-greater fencing beauty and no-nonsense protection. Each year I get hundreds of letters from happy Red Robin owners like A. M. Amherst of Waco, Texas, who says, "Red Robin Hedge has thousands of buds and roses. Certainly recommend it."

fragrant red roses month after month!

Perhaps no other known and proven rose today can give your home the fencing beauty and protection of the Red Robin. It grows straight, upright, stays compact, needs absolutely no support. In a few short months after planting it is covered with fragrant, richly red roses. And it remains in bloom month after month. Today, Red Robin is a timetested proven Red Rose Living Fence, thriving in many climates. From coast to coast it is beautifying, giving privacy, and increasing the value of thousands upon thousands of homes. And Red Robin grows and blooms in even poor soils. Mrs. Willard Foster of Champaign, Ill. writes: "So proud of them this spring . . . solid with bloom! People drove by to admire them . . ."

MY OWN PERSONAL DOUBLE GUARANTEE

First-1'm certain that when your Red Robin plants arrive you'll be completely satisfied . . . but if for any reason you are dissatisfied, return them at once and I will gladly return your money in full.

Second—In fact, I'll go even further. If any of your Living Fence plants fail to grow, I will replace them FREE OF CHARGE! This is an unconditional full year's guarantee.

Right now, this spring ... plant my Red Robin Roses about 18 inches apart. Then, let your Red Robin Living Fence grow to any height you like - up to six or seven feet. You may have a neat three or four foot hedge. You may prefer a higher hedge of 5 feet to keep children and pets in and strangers out. Or you can enjoy a full six foot living wall of green foliage and red roses. Red Robin requires little trimming, is hardy and disease-resistant. As Mrs. T. Ray Johnson of Saginaw, Michigan writes: "They grew better than our wildest expectations... seeing is believing!"

garden editors and T. V. feature Red Robin

Garden editors are plant experts. To be featured in national magazines and famous newspapers across the country a plant has to have real merit. That's why we're so proud of the pictures and stories about our exclusive Red Robin in Sunset, The American Home, The Family Circle and such famous news-papers as the Portland Oregonian, Atlanta Journal, Philadelphia Inquirer, New York Mirror, Los Angeles Examiner...and many more! Red Robin owner Mrs. R. S. Hambly of Hyannis, Mass. writes: "Red Robin planted in April and has already

And folks tell me they've picked up to a thousand fragrant roses from a single few feet of Red Robin Living Fence.

Red Robin is a hybrid rose . . . not a "multiflora" or "climber"

My exclusive Red Robin is providing beautiful protection to homes in every state in the Union. It requires no special care or attention. Just put these uniquely hard-working roses in the ground. Then watch them grow! Red Robin is not a climbing rose nor is it a sprawling multiflora rose. It grows straight upright, requires absolutely no support. Each sturdy plant grows into the next plant to form a compact living wall of green foliage and red roses. Plant them this spring. You'll enjoy the beauty and fragrance of these Red Robin roses in a few short months. And this summer you'll discover that you could actually spend hundreds of dollars and receive no better fence protection, no greater garden beauty than my Living Fence will bring you year after year.

If you have often admired the beautiful desserts chefs make from spun sugar, and wondered how they were made, wonder no more. Here are their secrets! It takes patience and practice to make Sugar Swirls. Because the sugar is heated to a high temperature and absorbs moisture quickly, swirls should be made on a cool dry day.

1. Measure 2 cups of sugar and ½ cup of water into a frying pan. Heat slowly, stirring only until sugar is dissolved.

3. Remove from heat at once and place in a pan of ice to stop cooking. As syrup cools, keep turning from bottom of pan with spoon; if it hardens, set over low heat and stir until soft.

4. Oil a long, round wooden stick. Weight one end on table; have other end project over edge; cover floor underneath with paper. Dip spoon in syrup. Hold spoon above stick; swing gently back and forth over stick. Syrup will fall across stick in long threads. Continue until length of stick is covered.

5. Start at the bottom and carefully roll threads around left hand, using the right to shape and guide them. At top, slip swirl from left hand and break off threads from stick. Wipe stick; repeat process for each swirl. Place swirls over ice cream that's topped with your favorite sauce. Use them on day they are made.

Campbell's freezing brings you a savory oyster stew that would cost you'l or more in a fine Boston restaurant

People who live near the sea will tell you that freshness makes the difference in oyster stew. To hear some of them tell it, decent oyster stew can seldom, if ever, be found more than a few miles inland.

But now, thanks to Campbell's freezing, you can enjoy oyster stew as fresh-tasting as ever was served in Boston, no matter where you live. And it's made in a way that wins grudging approval from the best New England chefs.

Plump, Pampered Oysters

Campbell's uses young tender oysters—fresh from their beds in cool coastal waters. The oysters are simmered with all their good juices until the edges begin to ruffle. Then they're plunged into a rich broth of scalded milk, cream, butter and special seasonings, where all ingredients intermingle perfectly.

Then, without a moment's delay, the stew is rushed to the freezer to lock in all the good flavors.

Fancy Eating—Plain Price

If you ordered it off the menu at a fine Boston Oyster House, you'd pay a pretty

We wanted a safe boat. One with ample room for the whole family, plenty of gear, and an occasional guest or two. Room for sleeping aboard now and then, and for resting and relaxing on all-day cruises.

We had to have a boat that we could store at home in our own carport, tow on the highway behind the family car, launch with ease from a trailer. We wanted classic boat styling; no gewgaws. A clean-lined craft, designed for safe and easy handling in the water. Yet we wanted speed, too, for water skiing, for exploring lots of water on short week ends. We wanted speed to get home fast ahead of a gathering storm, or for ample reserve power to ride out rough water if we should be caught in it.

Armed with this lengthy check list (you'll want to make your own to fit your own family's needs), we studied boating articles in all the magazines. We sat on docks and thoughtfully inspected boats. We were among the first in the doors at the boat shows.

Finally, we found just what we wanted. A 19-foot clinker-built outboard cruiser, built of sound materials by experienced craftsmen. Her lapstreak design contributes to safety and stability in rough water. She has a big cabin for her size, yet retains a low, winddodging profile. There is plenty of open deck space aft for riding, sunning, handling skiers. Two bunks and a head in the breezy cabin. Lots of storage space. A beautiful, lively, honest boat. Widebeamed. Big, as outboards go. Yet well within the limits of length, width, and weight for comfortable trailer navigation overland.

But a newly found boat was still not a well-found boat. We equipped her with twin 35-horse motors. (We prefer two of this size rather than a single motor of double the horsepower. In case of malfunction of one motor, the other will bring you briskly and safely home.) We selected a big tandem-axle trailer, with ample reserve capacity. Be sure you do the same, for you'll always pile more gear in your boat than you'd planned. A trailer with plenty of capacity will handle it nicely, give years of trouble-free service. We have now trailed our one-ton boat more than 5000 miles on the well-designed trailer we selected, with never a single problem. Be sure to have big, bright taillights—and stop and directional lights, too—on your trailer.

We selected two patent-type anchors, each light in weight, heavy in holding capacity. One is a shear-pin type, designed especially for use on rocky bottoms where your anchor might become fouled among the rocks and difficult to recover. Other equipment which came aboard was a distress signal kit, plenty of life jackets, ski belts, and buoyant cushions (the law says at least one per passenger, but you'll want to include several extras), boat hook, boarding ladder, plenty of line for the anchors and for tying up at docks. We carefully installed a good compass, speedometer, and barometer, a spotlight, Freon-operated horn.

Young Jim assembled a twoband, battery-powered transistor radio direction finder from a kit, mounted it securely on a bulkhead. It not only provides us with music from shoreside disc jockeys but also enables us to receive complete weather broadcasts from airport weather stations every 30 minutes, 24 hours a day. And, if we should be caught offshore in a fog, the direction finder enables us to take bearings on shore radio stations, thus obtain an exact fix on our location and plot the "road home."

 $Yourown \, list of \, equipment \, might$ be more or less complete than ours. The important thing: first fully equip your boat with the necessary safety items for your family and chart the waters you intend to use; then add the extra equipment which makes boating still more fun.

And what fun it can be! Before we took up boating, our family was rarely together because of our diversified social activities. With boating, we are suddenly, completely, a family unit again. We now spend priceless hours together, at a sport each member of the family enjoys at the same time.

up on water skis the first time. We've carefully plotted a course to an offshore island. We've taken close-up looks at the giant ore boats in our Great Lakes, at the navy craft which come in through the St. Lawrence waterway. We've voyaged "abroad" across Lake Erie to Canada. We've spent lazy afternoons drifting with cooling breezes offshore. And we've occasionally plowed home through steep and choppy seas and were thankful for the skills of the boatbuilder which helped make up for some of our own lack of skill as sailors. It was on one of these rough returns to port that we took the solemn vow to enroll in the next series of U.S. Power Squadron courses. They are available to all, in a series of evening sessions. Every boat operator should take this course, which can add tremendously to the enjoyment and the safety of pleasure boating.

Many European families used to send their sons to sea in merchant or naval ships, to help instill in them qualities of discipline, resourcefulness, fair play. These are pretty important in America today. But parents often despair of finding a way to teach their children such things. It's getting a bit difficult to send your child on a trip 'round the Horn on a four-master.

Family boating can go a long way toward accomplishing these same objectives, in a more practical way. Youngsters enjoy learning safety rules and procedures afloat. While still too young legally to drive an automobile, our son and daughter enjoyed the thrill of handling twin-motor throttles, and learning the rules of the marine road. While hot-rodders in boats are by no means rare, the boating fraternity considers such a reckless and senseless fellow as the true "square." He is without honor afloat. The careful boatman is the one "in the know." It is my opinion that both our children will be more capable and thoughtful auto drivers because of their experience and training in powerboats.

Responsibility, too, comes naturally. It's soon discovered there is little time for back talk or questioning of an order from the "captain," lest you wish to ignominiously grind into the dock with an ego-and-paint-gouging crunch.

But, mostly, boating is just plain fun. It has given us days and nights to remember - memories which will be a part of our family's heritage. Join us, just offshore, in your own family boat. All of us who are out there now will be delighted to welcome you as a member of the largest, happiest fleet the world has ever known. THE END

Secret of livability... Andersen Windows

Fashioned in wood for matchless warmth and beauty, they welcome the sun, seal out the storms.

Handsome room, isn't it? And how Andersen Windows contribute to its charm. No mere adjunct to the room, they are its focal point. The sash and frames of Ponderosa pine are painted to enrich the room's color scheme. Their wood is warm to the touch as well as the eye. For wood is a natural insulator, up to 1800 times better than aluminum in blocking flow of heat or cold. Add Andersen's precision engineering-and you get windows up to 5 times as weathertight as industry standards for more comfort, more livability, lower heating and air conditioning costs. Ask your architect, builder, lumber or millwork dealer. Or anyone who has ever lived with Andersen Windows, best known windows in the land, and available throughout the U.S. and in Canada. For more facts, mail coupon below for helpful free booklets.

Only the rich can afford poor windows

IN SQUAW VALLEY, Andersen Windows handle severe weather with ease. Designer-builder Victor Tchelistcheff uses Andersen Windows to insure comfort in the many winter homes and ski lodges he has built.

The kitchen fireplace is alongside the living-room fireplace so that both use a common chimney. Mr. Kelly also built a 15-foot window seat of cherry paneling along the family-room wall. This room was intended to provide a place for the children to play without being underfoot in the actual kitchen working area. This house lends itself so well to expansion that an alternate plan is included with the blueprints. It provides another bedroom and bath, a separate dining room, and an entrance hall which eliminates heavy traffic through the living room. This plan is well adapted for families with more than two children.

HOW TO START ACHIMENES

These pretty relatives of African violets and gloxinias grow 6-18" tall, with flowers of red, white, pink, purple, or blue. Start them from tiny scaly rhizomes that look like miniature pine cones or segmented caterpillars, and which cost about 15c to 25c each. If they break into parts, don't fret, because any segment, if given good growing conditions, can develop into a plant!

Plants are so slender it takes several to make a show. So pot three or more rhizomes together, placing horizontally just below soil, arranged like spokes of a wheel. Growing tip (narrow end) should point out. Use soil recommended for potting tuberous begonias on preceding page. Keep pots moist in warm place (70° to 90°). When sprouts are above ground, move to east or north window.

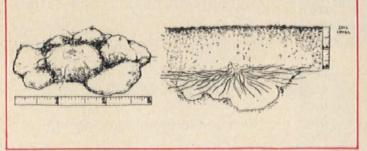

It is especially important not to let soil become dry, because with achimenes that's the signal to stop growing and become dormant. Use water at room temperature as for house plants. When it's time for the move to the garden, dig a hole for the pot, keeping its soil at level of ground around it. In fall, when leaves wither, bring pots inside to frost-free storage place for the winter.

GROW CALADIUM FOR FABULOUS FOLIAGE

Take your choice of varieties with leaves translucent white. glowing red, or in fascinating combinations of patterned veining and blotching. The larger the tuber with which you start, the more leaves and display you'll get. In cold climates, start tubers indoors two months before you expect warm weather. In the South, tubers can be planted directly in the ground when it's warm. GRAMBS MILLER

Would you trade just one morning..

Super easy! Super Kem-Tone wall paint flows on with brush or roller. No laps or brush marks. Dries in 20 minutes, with no "painty" odor. Easy cleanup, too. Soap and warm water clean rollers, brushes, trays perfectly.

Guaranteed washable -or money back! Spots, smudges whisk off in a jiffy -colors stay fresh, bright, beautiful. The smart, new beauty of walls and woodwork gives you pleasure far longer.

Starting indoors: Put tubers in shallow box of peatmoss, vermiculite, or sphagnum moss barely dampened. Roots grow from top of tuber rather than bottom, so tops should be covered 1-2". Or tubers can be placed upside down temporarily until roots show. Keep at temperature of 75° to 80°, and water sparingly. Planting outdoors in South: Cover tuber tops 2-3" deep.

TRY COLEUS AND IMPATIENS FROM SEED

Coleus, which grows to height of 3', is strictly a foliage plant (its pale blue flowers are not showy). But impatiens, whether in tall varieties or new dwarf (6-12") kinds, blooms conspicuously, continually. Both are favorites for indoor winter window gardens.

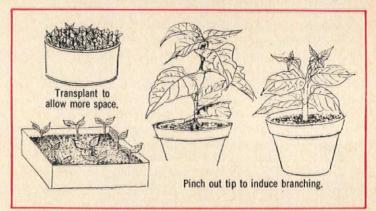

They're easy to grow from seed, so why not have some fascinating fun now? Prepare containers with drainage holes in bottom. Over layer of soil place an inch or more sifted sphagnum moss or vermiculite. Moisten from bottom by setting in pan of water.

Drain, so seedbed is not soggy. Scatter seeds on top, uncovered. Provide greenhouselike conditions by enclosing in polyethylene plastic sack.

Keep warm (about 70°) in bright light but not sun. Coleus germinates in 10 days, impatiens in 15. When leaves show, remove cover and move gradually to sunny window. Transplant soon to wider spacing, using soil like that recommended for tuberous begonia. Induce branching by nipping out tops of plants. "Slips" cut from mature branches can be rooted in water to make new plants.

.. for a bright new way of living?

Good trade! Anyone can paint a room with Super Kem-Tone® in less than a morning—and experience the high-hearted feeling of watching furniture, drapes, pictures regain a "new look" thanks to the durable beauty of walls painted with Super Kem-Tone.

Beautify woodwork with color-matching Kem-Glo® enamel. Looks, washes like baked enamel. (Perfect for bathrooms, kitchens, too. Lovely, long lasting, easy to apply.)

placed liens on his remaining assets. But this is actually the only financial risk you take when you buy a development house. You may get some comfort from the knowledge that the builder's risk is greater than yours. He has a contract to deliver your houseand those of other buyers-regardless of any obstacles thrown in his way, including strikes, unforeseen soil conditions, increased costs of labor or materials, or other technical difficulties.

Specify "Outside Date"

There should be two dates in the contract for finishing the house. The first is the "completion date." This is nominal—it is not usually met. The second date-and insist it be in the contract-is the "outside date." It is usually met several months after the completion date. If the house is not finished by the "outside date" have it written in the contract that the contract is no longer binding.

What about the construction of the house itself? If you and the builder agree to vary some item from the display model, you should specify in the contract what the change is to be and how much it will cost.

But even if you buy an exact replica of the model house, a tight contract will stand you in good stead. For merchandising purposes, development builders will sometimes dress up the model house more elaborately than the one they will deliver to you. For example, the model house may sport a more expensive grade of floor tile, wallpaper, or light fixtures. Also it may contain appliances and fixtures that may or may not be included in the basic price of the house. Your agreement should state exactly what is included in your home for the price you are paying.

Check on Construction

While the house is being built, it is advisable that you visit the site periodically and even carry a rule or tape measure with you. It is possible that the carpenters may frame out a doorway or closet where it is not supposed to be. Catch the error early and have the construction superintendent correct it. But for general quality control, rely on the local building inspector, the mortgage lending institution, the Federal Housing Administration if your mortgage is F.H.A.-insured, or the V.A. if guaranteed by them. If anything appears to be seriously wrong, you may need the advice of a professional architect or engineer.

The day of the title closing you should make a final inspection of the house before you go to the meeting. If you find anything wrong with the work, whether it be a structural complaint or just sloppy finishing, jot it down so you may bring it up when you sit down with the builder. Check all the moving parts, such as windows, doors, and mechanical equipment, and take a look at the basement to make sure it is dry.

If you cite any defect at the closing, it will be up to you, your mortgage lender, and your builder to agree on an escrow arrangement to make certain that the missing work is completed or the error corrected. Under an escrow arrangement, some of the money normally due the builder is withheld by the lending institution until the work is done. In the event the builder fails to complete it, the money is available to have it done by someone else. There are minor defects, however-such as a sticking window or door-for which lending institutions will not hold money in escrow because they do not affect the security of his loan.

Certificate of Occupancy

At the closing, you or your lawyer should make certain the builder delivers all of the documents that certify the home is livable. Most important of these is the certificate of occupancy, a document issued by your local building department that states the house is a safe and healthy place to live in. You must also have certificates from the health department stating the plumbing and sanitary facilities are properly installed.

Get All Warranties

You should also obtain warranties from the roofer and the manufacturers of the mechanical equipment, such as heating, air conditioning, range and oven, refrigerator, and whatever else is included in the sale. The heating warranty, for example, should assure you that a temperature of 70°F.

can be maintained in the house at the average low outdoor temperature. You should also receive a certificate of approval from the Underwriters' Laboratories that tells you the electrical system is safe and adequate.

While you should have provided all the safeguards needed at the time you negotiated and signed the purchase contract, the title closing is your final opportunity to protect yourself. Acceptance of the deed at the closing is your way of signifying that the seller-in this case the builder-has lived up to all his obligations under the contract unless exceptions are specifically noted and covered by escrows. Therefore, do not accept title or move into the house until you are completely satisfied or arrangements have been made to tie up any loose ends.

Buy Title Insurance

Since your purchase of a development house also involves the simultaneous purchase of the land under and around it, the title to the property should be examined by your lawyer at the closing. The chances are that he will advise you to buy a title insurance policy, which relieves you of responsibility if there is a defect in the title. Such a defect could take the form of a prior lien against the property, a claim by the missing heir of a previous owner of the site, unpaid past taxes, and the like.

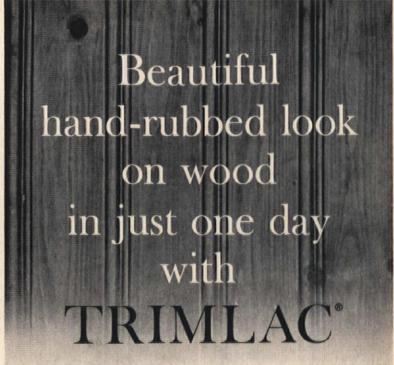

Since the lending institution normally takes a title policy to protect its investment, the same search of the records can be used to provide you with insurance for a relatively low, one-time premium. If you are not taking title insurance, or it is unavailable in your area, have your lawyer make or obtain a careful study of the title for you before accepting the deed. At the same time let him study all available documents to make sure that, if streets and curbs serving your home are not already completed, the builder is responsible to the municipality for providing them. If he is not, you should make certain that the municipal authorities will provide these facilities.

When Problems Arise

If you have taken all of these precautions, you should have no trouble after you take possession of your home. But what if problems do arise? Suppose the house lacks adequate insulation or your basement is flooded because the plot was graded improperly?

Having accepted the deed, your recourse is a friendly complaint to the builder. If he refuses to deal with you and if you are certain that he has not lived up to this contract, you may want to take some action. If your mortgage is F.H.A.-insured or V.A.-guaranteed, you may seek assistance from the government agency concerned. It can often be more persuasive than you in getting the builder to make the necessary adjustment. Going to court against your builder is a last resort and one which is illadvised unless you have strong evidence that, through negligence or fraud, he failed to live up to the terms of the agreement.

An example of fraud would be if he had intentionally substituted inferior materials or equipment for those which were stated in the contract.

What about unexpectedly high taxes? This is one field where the phrase caveat emptor (let the buyer beware) applies. Since you bought a piece of land as part of the package deal, it was your obligation to find out what the local tax rate is, whether an increase is in the wind, and how much a house such as yours is likely to be assessed. Most communities do not put an assessed valuation on a new house until about a year after it is completed.

Consequently, even the developer can make no more than an educated guess. The tax obligation is yours and yours alone.

BUILDING A CUSTOM HOUSE

If you are having a house custombuilt to your specifications, the procedure is somewhat different. To begin with, you probably own the land for it already, and it may be assumed that you have taken the necessary precautions, such as title search and the like, on acquiring the site. As for the construction of the house itself, your selection of an architect and contractor is the first important step. A good, tight contract is the second. Besides designing the home of your choice, the architect acts as your representative in your dealings with the contractor. So choose both carefully.

Be equally careful in drawing up your agreement. Since you are not starting out with a model house, every detail of the structure should be carefully spelled out, including the materials and construction methods to be used. Moreover, your contract should provide an exact schedule of payments. There is no hard-and-fast rule as to when and how your contractor is to be paid, but the chances are that you will make a series of partial payments as the work progresses. Such partial payments are normally made when the foundation is in, when the house is enclosed and under roof, when the plumbing and the electrical work are finished and the interior partitions are up. The final payment is due when the house is ready for occupancy.

Before you make any of the partial payments to the builder, your architect should certify to you that the phase for which you are about to pay has been completed satisfactorily and according to the plans and specifications. If the materials or workmanship are not up to par, the architect will not let you pay for that phase of the job until it has been improved to conform with the contract.

In some contracts, each payment is equivalent to the value of the work completed minus 10 per cent. When you make your final payment on this basis, you still owe the builder 10 per cent, which may act as an escrow until you and your architect are satisfied that the house has been built to your satisfaction. In the event of a dispute, even with a custom-built home, the F.H.A. or V.A. will come to your aid if you are financing it with a government-backed mortgage.

A Completion Bond

As an added safeguard, ask your contractor to post a completion bond. This serves two purposes. For one thing, it shows you that the bonding company, an insurance concern, thinks enough of his past record and ability to give him the bond. Secondly, it assures you that, if he becomes financially or physically unable to complete your house, the insurance company will arrange for another contractor to finish the job at its expense.

True, with partial payments, the builder cannot run away in the middle of the project, unless he is prepared to leave you with more work done than he has been paid for. But even though you may be ahead of him in terms of cash paid out, the nuisance of having a halfcompleted house and no contractor is one you should avoid at all costs. Be generous and tell the builder that you will pay for the bond yourself; the cost is not high; all you want him to do is post it.

If he cannot obtain a completion bond because of something he did in the past, this is a good way to find out. Make sure also that he is adequately covered with any insurance he may need in case of an accident during construction. Cover yourself with your own policy too. If a workman or neighbor is injured, he may sue both the contractor and you. If the contractor does not have as much coverage as you would like, and your lawyer advises more, don't be stingy. Offer to pay for all necessary protection.

Get Changes in Writing

The most likely source of disputes in custom building often stems from changes in plans while the house is going up. For example, your wife may decide that she could use some more cabinets in the kitchen than originally planned. Or you may wish to have the laundry partitioned to provide you with a photographic darkroom. As a practical matter, it is perfectly simple to ask your builder verbally to make the changes. But if you want to prevent future trouble, draw up a change order, which is a rider to your contract and it should be signed both by you and the contractor. The change order should specify exactly what is to be done and what you are to be charged for the extra work and materials.

Waiting for your new home to be built involves some trying moments, but if your contract is properly drawn and if you take all the necessary precautions during construction and title closing, the odds are in favor of your deriving a lifetime of pleasure from your WALTER H. STERN new home.

NOW! all you do is dial for and get instantly from 30 to 40 to 50 gallons of hot water an hour ...kept at one safe efficient temperature

> FOR NORMAL NEEDS DIAL 30 FOR BUSY DAYS DIAL 40 FOR PEAK DAYS DIAL 50

The Rheem 30-Plus (like three water heaters in one) lets you simply and easily dial the exact amount of hot water you need, without changing temperature. Now with a flick of the finger, you set and get from 30 to 40 to 50 gallons of hot water per hour, heated to a safe, efficient temperature of 140 degrees, pre-set for you at the factory. Never again do you concern yourself with temperature or too-hot water. On the 30-Plus you merely dial for gallons . . . and get them, without waiting, without running out.

here's how a family of 11 proved the performance of the 30-Plus

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ellis of Detroit, Mich., and their nine children gave the 30-Plus a grueling two-hour test to see if it could meet even their huge demands. During a two hour period, each of the Ellis's three baths and two showers were used twice. At the same time, two full loads of laundry were washed. Mrs. Ellis afterwards reported: "Not once did we have to wait for hot water . . . not once did we run out. It's a pleasure to dial for the gallons of hot water we need . . . and to know we're going to get it."

Growing families, new appliances, bigger homes and changing needs demand different amounts of hot water day to day . . . year to year. Now, get it all from one water heater, the new Rheem 30-Plus.

WANT A LAWN LIKE A PUTTING GREEN?

Here's how it's done by a professional. But, if a green is too much for you, why not settle for a "tee" or a "fairway" lawn? Or be satisfied with a good "rough"?

To admire the green expanse of a golf course and wished your own lawn looked as good? Everybody knows that nobody grows grass like a greenskeeper. That's why we set out to discover just how he does it and what these secrets can do for your lawn. Our search took us to the 16th green of the Williams Country Club in Weirton, West Virginia, one of the finest pieces of grass in the U.S.A.! There we met Charles "Chuck" Onoretta, superintendent of the club. On these pages we tell you exactly how Chuck feeds, cuts, waters, and otherwise cares for his greens, tees, fairways, and roughs. We also tell you how to adapt these same techniques to your own lawn.

At every golf course, four distinct types of turf are maintained. The greens (or putting greens) are always bentgrass, mowed very closely, dense-textured, and firm—the finest quality turf on the course.

The tees, or areas where the players "tee off," are usually the same kind of grass as the greens, but they're not maintained so fastidiously and so are not quite so perfect. If you can duplicate them, though, you'd surely have the finest lawn in your neighborhood!

The fairways are the long, beautiful expanses of grass which connect the tees and greens. They need to be well maintained, but by no means as meticulously as the greens. They'd be your equivalent of a regularly caredfor, good-quality lawn.

The roughs (where golf balls are not supposed to land!) are the large, coarse areas alongside the fairways. They get minimum care and are about the kind of grass you'd want for a backyard lawn or a children's play area.

The turf at the Williams Country Club dates from 1931 and 1932, when the course was built on rolling farm land. Since Chuck Onoretta is the club's golf pro, as well as its superintendent, he has an understandable preference for the dense-growing bentgrasses. So all the turf at Williams except the roughs is bentgrass. It takes considerably more care than other grasses, but it produces the thick, firm turf that golfers like, and to Chuck that's what counts.

THE GREENS

The 18 greens at Williams total about 160,000 sq. ft. The most recently renovated ones are 'Penncross' bent (the finest, in Chuck's opinion); the older ones are 'Coos County' ('Cocoos') bent.

Mowing is done every morning. At Williams they use 22'', 3 h.p., grasscatcher-equipped greens mowers with the cutting height set at $\frac{7}{32}$. On a daily schedule, this means less than $\frac{1}{16}$ is removed at each mowing—but it's necessary to keep a green at its best.

Since a homeowner would rarely want to invest in a greens mower, Chuck says he can get comparable (though perhaps not quite equal) results with a high-quality, reel-type lawn mower. A rotary is not (continued)

HERE'S HOW PUTTING GREENS GET THAT WAY...

Daily, close mowing is the chief secret of maintaining the finest possible turf.

It takes real devotion—and a good mower.

Generous feeding, three times a year, is needed to keep the grass in constant growth. This power spreader is like a home model, only larger. suitable for mowing closer than 1" and so cannot be used for maintaining putting green turfs.

Feeding is done three times a year—in early spring, in June, and in early fall. Soil tests are made in the fall and fertilizer is mixed according to soil requirements. At present all turf is fed with a 10–5–5 preparation (10 per cent nitrogen, 5 per cent phosphorus, 5 per cent potassium), which is about a normal ratio for grass.

For greens, the 10 per cent nitrogen is made up of 7 per cent powder form of slow-release urea-formaldehyde and 3 per cent organic materials. The 5 per cent

Rolling is done in early spring and a few times later. The empty power roller is about equal to a half-filled home model.

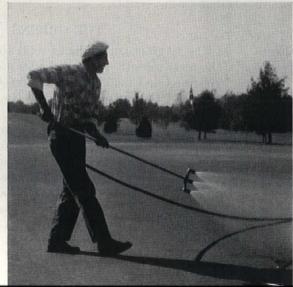

Watering is as important as feeding, and the frequency depends on the weather. When hottest, the turf is syringed briefly once or twice a day.

"Poling a green" means knocking the dew off the grass with a long, flexible pole. It's to help prevent disease and is done every morning.

Spraying with turf fungicides is also necessary to prevent disease. Every week is the standard schedule, every three or four days during midsummer heat and humidity.

Verti-cutting with this machine is a new phase in bentgrass maintenance. It cuts the runners to produce a thicker turf and is done two or three times a year.

phosphorus is half-and-half rock phosphate and triplesuperphosphate. The 5 per cent potassium is muriate of potash (potassium chloride).

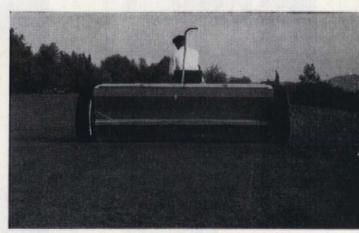

The three-times-a-year application of this preparation is at 20 pounds per 1000 sq. ft. (20x50'), applied with a power spreader.

You can buy similar, prepackaged lawn foods at any garden supply store, and a good lawn spreader works the same as the large power model.

Watering. In dry weather, the greens get about 1" of water a week, applied by hand with a large hose two or three times a week. In the hottest (continued)

THIS IS HOW THE PROS MAINTAIN THEIR FAIRWAYS...

Feeding a fairway twice a year takes tons of grass food and a king-sized, tractor-drawn spreader. But it works just the same as your lawn model.

All 54 acres of fairway grass are mowed every other day. So they need these two tractor-drawn, five-gang, 16' mowers—granddaddies of your own 21" model.

Watering a fairway may suggest the fountains of Versailles! But it's the same procedure as on a small home lawn—and it has to be done as often as the weather demands.

To remove the dew on a fairway, two tractors (only one is seen here) drag a long piece of old hose from one end to the other. On a lawn, hose-dragging would be easier than poling.

Weed, insect, and disease control is the job of this 28' fairway sprayer. It's about the equal of a small army with knapsack sprayers!

TRACTOR

Fairway aerator punches holes in the turf to increase aeration, water penetration, and reduce "thatch." It's used twice a year.

This giant verti-cutter is used after aerating to break up the soil cores left by aerator, and to cut the runners of bentgrass turf.

The fairway sweeper, used in the fall to remove leaves, works exactly the same as a home lawn sweeper.

(continued) weather they're also syringed briefly once or twice a day with the same hose. To apply 1" of water, set two or three straight-sided cans under the spray of your sprinkler, and run it until the water in the cans is 1" deep. If this takes 2 hours (½" per hour) to give your lawn 1" a week, run it 1 hour in each spot twice a week.

Weed Control. Weeds haven't much chance on closely-watched greens—they're dug out with a penknife if they're ever noticed. For crabgrass, a solution using 1 ounce of PMAS or 6 ounces of a disodium methyl arsonate preparation per 1000 sq.ft. is applied with a power sprayer twice a year.

Insect Control. To head off insect troubles, greens are sprayed in July and late fall, and immediately after aerating, with a solution of 6 to 8 ounces of 50 per cent DDT and 5 to 10 pounds of lead arsenate per 1000 sq. ft. This is watered in thoroughly.

All these weed and insect control chemicals are sold at garden supply stores and can be applied with garden sprayers.

Disease Control. Turf diseases (about half a dozen kinds) attack all bentgrasses during hot, humid, or rainy weather and are the greenskeeper's worst problem. He combats them by "poling" and spraying.

Poling is knocking the dew off the grass every morning with a long bamboo or telescopic aluminum pole—a back-and-forth swishing action which removes the dew and thus allows the grass to dry as fast as possible.

Spraying at Williams is done with a high-pressure power sprayer—once a week in spring and fall, every three or four days in summer. Chuck Onoretta uses 2 ounces of turf fungicide per 1000 sq. ft. when spraying weekly, 1 ounce per 1000 sq. ft. when spraying oftener.

Turf fungicides are sold at well-stocked garden stores and you can apply them with a garden sprayer.

Aerating means punching holes in the turf (removing soil cores) with a special device to increase aeration and water penetration and to reduce the accumulation of "thatch." The greens aerator is used in spring and fall, sometimes also during summer.

You can buy various lawn-size hand aerators and can rent power models.

Vertical Cutting. "Verti-cutting" with a machine with knifelike blades that cut vertically is a recent development that cuts bentgrass runners, induces a denser turf, and reduces thatch. The greens verti-cutter is used in spring and fall, also after aerating to pulverize the soil cores which the aerator leaves on the surface.

Lawn-size vertical cutters are now available and greens machines can be rented in some areas.

Rolling. Greens are rolled in early spring to overcome the effect of frost heaving, and (continued) two or three times during the season, when the soil is not too wet, to keep the turf firm. A water-weight power roller is used, but without water in it, which provides about the same weight as a lawn roller half filled.

Top-Dressing. Closely mowed bentgrass needs to be top-dressed three or four times a year with a sand-and-soil mixture. This is to keep the horizontal runners in contact with the soil. Chuck's formula is 2 parts sand, 1 part topsoil, 1 part humus, sifted through a ¼" screen. He uses about one cubic yard per green (about 3 bushels per 1000 sq. ft.), applied with a spreader and brushed in afterward.

THE TEES

The tees at the Williams Country Club total about 80,000 sq. ft. and are a mixture of 'Colonial' and 'Seaside' bent. The same materials and equipment are used on them as on the greens, only less rigorously.

They're mowed every other day with a greens mower set at $\frac{1}{2}\sigma_6"$. Feeding is with the same fertilizer and at the same times as the greens. Watering is done with a pop-up sub-irrigation system—about 1" of water per week in summer.

Weed, insect, and disease control measures are the same as for the greens, though the schedule is less rigid.

Aerating, vertical cutting, topdressing, and rolling also are the same as for greens, but with more flexibility.

THE FAIRWAYS

The fairways total about 54 acres (some 2,350,000 sq. ft.) and get the best treatment possible for such an area. The grass is a mixture of 'Astoria,' 'Colonial,' and 'Highland' bent. A 'Merion' bluegrass would give you pretty much the same quality, though darker-colored turf—and with considerably less attention.

Fairway mowing at Williams is done every other day when the grass is in full growth, sometimes less often when growth is slower. The mowers are seven-gang, reeltype, tractor-drawn machines which cut swaths of 16'. The cutting height is set at 1/8".

The mowers have no grasscatchers, and Chuck says that although clipping removal would be desirable, it's not practical on such large areas.

He says a homeowner could get about the same effect, on either bent or 'Merion' bluegrass, with a good reel or rotary mower set at about 1". Standard bluegrass, however, is better cut at $1\frac{1}{2}$ " or higher.

Feeding. The fertilizer for the fairways is the same as for the greens, except that a granular rather than a powder form of urea-formal-dehyde is used.

It's applied with an 8' spreader, tractor drawn, in early spring at 500 pounds per acre (about 12 pounds per 1000 sq. ft.) and in fall at 400 pounds per acre (about 9 pounds per 1000 sq. ft.).

The same feeding schedule would be excellent for a home lawn.

Watering. Each fairway is watered with about a dozen large, impulse-type, portable sprinklers connected to underground pipes along the sides of the fairways. In dry weather they're used about twice a week to provide about 1" of water a week.

Weed Control. In spring and fall the fairways are sprayed with 2,4-D (\frac{1}{4}\)ounce per 1000 sq. ft.) for broadleaf weeds, 2,4,5-T (\frac{1}{2}\) ounce per 1000 sq. ft.) for clover, and PMAS (2 ounces per 1000 sq. ft.) for crabgrass. In spring, when the nextworst lawn pest, annual bluegrass (Poa annua), is active, fairways are also sprayed weekly with sodium arsenite (\frac{1}{2}\) ounce per 1000 sq. ft.).

The solutions are applied with a mobile sprayer with retractable booms that cover a 28' swath.

Insect Control. To control grubs, army worms, tropical earthworms, cutworms, and chinch bugs, fairways are sprayed in late fall and in July or August (also after aerating) with 1 ounce of chlordane concentrate per 1000 sq. ft., 6 to 8 ounces of 50 per cent DDT per 1000 sq. ft., and 5 pounds of lead arsenate per 1000 sq. ft. The spray is applied with the 28' boom sprayer and watered in immediately.

Disease Control. Dew is removed by two tractors, one on each side, which drag a long piece of old hose the entire length of the fairway. This is done every morning when there's any appreciable dew.

Turf fungicides are applied with the 28' boom sprayer once a week. Fairway aerating, vertical cutting, and rolling are done on more or less the same time schedule as on the greens. The only difference here is that they're done with much larger, tractor-drawn equipment.

In the fall, when leaves become a problem, the fairways are cleaned with a tractor-drawn fairway sweeper. The greens and tees are cleared of leaves with a strong stream from the hose.

THE ROUGHS

By comparison, the roughs get very little care. They're all you'd want in utility grass, however, and seen from a distance they're decidedly beautiful.

The grass seed used for them was 70 per cent fescue, 20 per cent bluegrass, 10 per cent bent. In some dry, open areas they're now wholly fescue; in some more fertile, moist areas they're entirely bluegrass; in a few moist spots they're almost pure bentgrass; and in many areas they're a mixture.

This, of course, is what happens when a mixture of several kinds of grass seed is used for a lawn. The kind of grass best suited to the location eventually becomes dominant.

The Williams' roughs are mowed once a week at $2\frac{1}{2}$ " with five-gang, reel-type mowers.

On a once-a-week schedule, a homeowner would probably do best with a good rotary mower set at $2\frac{1}{2}$ ".

Feeding is done once a year in the spring -600 pounds of standard 10-6-4 fertilizer per acre (about 14 pounds per 1000 sq. ft.).

Watering is resorted to only when the grass shows signs of burning. Then the fairway sprinklers are run long enough to supply about ½" of water.

Weed, insect, and disease control chemicals are used only when the need for them becomes apparent. The same materials and equipment are used as on the fairways.

Aerating is done once a year with the fairway aerator, and rolling once in the spring with the fairway rollers. And the fairway sweeper is used in the fall—but only when the leaves become deep enough to start hiding the golf balls! THE END

'Kimberley Jewel'— a lovely new dahlia from the land of diamonds

THEODORE A. WESTON

Kimberley Jewel' is a very special dahlia—a medium-sized, cactus type that's white at the center and deep purplish red toward the edge. It was awarded six American Home Achievement Medals, marking the first time a foreign variety has captured the most awards.

The dahlia was originated by Norman E. Sutherland of Kimberley, South Africa, and was the top winner at six different shows in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania. The plant grows about 5' high. The winning blooms were exhibited at the shows by Summit Gardens, Glen Ellyn, Illinois, who will distribute the variety in this country.

The American Home Achievement Medal is the highest award for new varieties exhibited at about 100 summer and fall flower shows in all parts of the country. Altogether, 42 new flowers won the medal last year—22 of them dahlias, 14 gladiolus, and six daylilies.

In second place was a large-flowered, currant red, informal decorative dahlia called 'Pennsylvania,' which won the medal at three shows. Three new dahlias tied for third place with two medals each. All other winners took one medal each. Complete list of winners on page 89.

Americans have a penchant for giving descriptive names to various objects ranging from boats to bathtubs, from Pullman cars to automobiles. We know a doctor who has appropriately named his home "Bedside Manor." A golfing companion swears his game has improved five strokes with golf balls wistfully called "Strate Flite."

However, not all names have a single descriptive identity. "Four-Square" is not only used for men's clothing, but also for lumber. A "Constellation" identifies a towel as well as an airliner. A recent issue of our favorite magazine dis-closes that "Superba" has been bestowed impartially upon both a dill pickle and a diamond ring.

If these product nom de plumes serve no other purpose If these product nom de plumes serve no other purpose than to increase our vocabulary, they should be encouraged. Not to be outdone in this hobby, we pass on a few of our own for your collection. "Time For Sale", "A Dish of Herbs", "Sea Change", "Southern Heritage", "Duster Days." This small sampling gives you the idea and leaves us open to the charge of being fanciful and flamboyant. We happily agree and suggest that the descriptives are eminently suitable for our Jean McLain® wallpaper collection. HAVE YOU CONSULTED YOUR LOCAL BUILDING AUTHORITIES?

If you haven't, you may have to tear down your new playroom or garage

If you are planning to build a house or make changes in the one you already own, be sure you let the proper authorities know what you plan to do before you start. If you don't, you may be violating one or more of the many laws which govern construction. It is also very possible that you will have to tear down any structure you have built without a permit.

Sometimes it is hard to find out who these authorities are and what the function of each one is. Actually there are three main areas in which the local government controls your house and property: zoning, building, and taxes.

HOW TO FIND THEM

There are several ways you can locate the particular authority you need. The most sensible one is to look in the telephone book under the name of your town where all the municipal offices will be listed. If yours is a town where private citizens serve on the various boards in their free time, your town clerk can tell you who they are and how to reach them.

WHAT THEY DO

Zoning. Let's suppose that you are planning to buy a piece of land to build a home on. The records in the Zoning or Planning Bureau or at the town hall will show you what uses are permitted in the location you have in mind. In trying to maintain the character of a residential neighborhood, zoning or planning officials may set standards, which will be listed in the local ordinances.

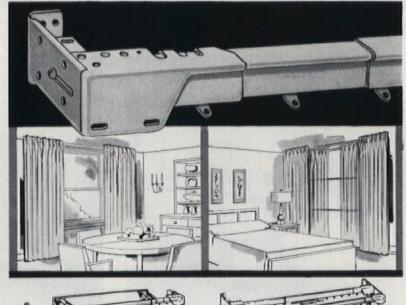

Study local zoning ordinances. A copy of the zoning laws is available at the town hall, and in many localities copies may be purchased or taken home without charge. The laws tell you the minimum plot you must own to build a house, how much of the plot may be covered by the structure, and how far that structure must be set back from the street line, the side lines, and the rear limit of the property. You will also find out what kind of garage, tool shed, fence, or swimming pool you can build and how far it must be from the property lines.

The zoning laws state whether you can take in roomers or boarders, and if it would be legal for you to have a professional office in your house.

Zoning ordinances can dictate size and style of house. Some zoning codes require that a one-story house contain The easiest way to the biggest difference . . .

IN HOME BEAUTY

Make windows look wider, by extending your draperies beyond the window; when drawn back, the entire window is revealed. Use Kirsch traverse in the Extend-O type. Latest decorator effects, using draw draperies over inner draw curtains, need not be expensive. One Kirsch adjustable double traverse rod set, on one pair of brackets, serves both.

OVER ONE-HALF CENTURY

a minimum square footage of usable living space. Other municipalities do not permit one-story or splitlevel construction in certain districts at all.

In most instances, your architect, builder, or lawyer will make certain that your future home or improvements on your existing home will comply with the zoning ordinances. But, it is good for you to know where the information is available since you may wish to add on to your existing house at a later time. You may also need this information in the event one of your neighbors is planning an improvement, especially if you fear it is in violation of the zoning and may be detrimental to your property.

Your local paper will advertise meetings of the Zoning or Appeals Board so that you can attend if the subject affects your property.

Building Code. Your architect and building contractor will be familiar with the local building code and the duties of the Building Inspector. But, again, it is better if you know them, too.

If you are building a new house or making alterations, the plans first have to be submitted to the Building Inspector. If he approves them, he issues a permit, and may periodically visit the construction to approve its various stages.

As a rule, the building code is administered on the local level—by the village, town, or city. Enforcement of the code is carried out by one or more officials who may be known by several names, including Commissioner of Buildings, Building Inspector, Superintendent of Buildings, Director of Buildings, or City Engineer.

Know your local codes. The code sets the minimum standards by which construction in the locality must abide. These are not intended to serve as architectural or esthetic suggestions, but rather as a series of safety standards translated into building materials and methods. They set forth such minimums as the thickness of the foundations, the strength of the lumber members, and the proper way to install electrical wiring and plumbing. Usually the local building official also governs the actual use made of the premises to insure healthful living. Sanitation standards, for instance, are part of the housing code, as are the restrictions on how many people may occupy a given amount of living space. In the larger cities, the housing code is administered by a Commissioner or Superintendent of Housing, who is distinct from the Commissioner of Buildings.

You can appeal. Both the zoning and building codes are usually subject to appeals. Suppose you want to add a breezeway and garage to your home, but the plans show that this would bring the structure closer to the property line than the zoning regulations permit. If no alternative to this plan is possible, you may appeal for a variance to a Board of Appeals, Board of Standards, Planning Commission, or a similar body. Of course, you will succeed only if the variance is not detrimental to your neighbors' properties. Naturally, your neighbors will be given a chance to appear before the Appeals Board to voice any objections they may have to your plan. If there is a complete impasse, you may have to take the matter to court, either locally or at the (continued) county seat.

The same is true if you seek a variation or exemption from the building code. If, for example, you plan to use a structural material or a building method not covered or specifically permitted in the code, you may appeal for a variance.

If it can be shown that your construction method is as safe and, therefore, as acceptable as the conventional process, there is a chance that it will be allowed.

Many building codes are most specific in naming the materials and methods than can be used to build or expand a house. Lately, however, there has been a trend toward the performance codes. These do not cite specific materials or methods, but rather tell you what tests the structure and its components must pass.

Tax Assessing. Once your house is completed, you will deal with the Tax Assessor. It is his job to appraise your property-land and structure-to determine its value in relation to the other properties in the community. On the basis of this relative valuation your realestate taxes will be levied.

You may have several assessments. In many localities your house may be subject to several assessments. The Village Assessor may put a valuation on your house for computing village taxes. The Town Assessor may do likewise for town taxes. And the County Assessor evaluates for county and state levies. Naturally, you will find the assessor in the town hall or the county seat.

In the appropriate government building you will find the records that tell you for how much your home is assessed. Knowing the local tax rate, you will be able to compute your property taxes (though a bill is usually rendered.)

If this seems to be out of proportion to the assessments on similar properties around town, you have the right to appeal it -usually by a given deadline after the annual tax roll is made public. Such appeals are made either to the local Board of Assessors, the Tax Commission, or other designated groups in your community or county. You usually have the privilege of appealing to the courts if the assessors rule against you.

These are some of the laws and officials you will deal with when you build or improve your own home. They are there to help you. By taking a little time to familiarize yourself with local ordinances, you will protect yourself and your property.

RING FOR TABLE SERVICE plays ring-around-the-rosy by candlelight. One will produce a halo effect all by itself, or a pair would be smart sentinels to set off your centerpiece on a long buffet table. From Norway, this handsome, heavy wrought-iron candleholder takes five candles. 8" across. $5.50. Shopping International, 25-AH Lafayette Ave., White Plains, N.Y.

MADAM, PRESIDENT plaques are elected to head your campaign to get the house back into the spring of things. Silhouettes of Washington and Lincoln, cast in black iron with a satin finish, promise to provide inspired leadership for your decorative plans. They'd be striking on any plain wall, or flanking the fireplace. 11" high. $5 ea. Edith Chapman, Dept. W, Nyack, N.Y.

MAKE ALL THE ARRANGEMENTS of tall flowers you please-an Adapto Arranger keeps those longstemmed beauties on their best behavior. Shy and retiring in leafgreen plastic, its arms fit the top of any vase 3-6" in diameter. Stems get two-point support, whether you fix three tulips or a dozen roses. $1 each. Walter Drake, AH-97 Drake Building, Colorado Springs, Colo.

of colts in a pasture, and kittens in a basket, and bursting buds strung on trembling branches. Nature, perennial housekeeper, is busy redecorating, strewing her first flowers and needle-pointing the earth in fine little stitches of green. The sun plays hopscotch with the clouds. Robins bounce across wet sparkling grass, and the air is as soft and sweet as a baby just bathed.

April is a time clean and fresh as the wash on the line. Women shine windows, attack closets, and polish floors, then coax sons and husbands into similar attacks on yards, basements, garages. In April, doors long shut against winter are flung wide and children, wild with freedom, come tumbling out like bear cubs from their caves.

It is the month when mothers must gird themselves against frantic pleas to go coatless, sweaterless, barefoot even. "Honestly, if I didn't stop them I believe they'd go stark nude!"

But fathers, watching as they romp, sometimes grin reminiscently, "Y'know—I don't blame them."

For the pipes of April call up something lively in the spirit. "Come play!" they invite. "Cast off all the worrisome garments of winter!"
