REVERE COPPER AND BRASS INCORPORATED, ROME, NEW YORK
FROM OUR HOUSE

"Then let us all rejoice amain, On Christmas Day, on Christmas Day; Then let us all rejoice amain, On Christmas Day in the morning."

MARGY WYVILL ECCLESINE

I love the European custom of making an Advent wreath. It adds to the expectancy of children (and grownups, too) in the four weeks preceding Christmas. Last year I found a simple way of fashioning one, using a discarded tricycle wheel in a salad bowl. I drove four nails through the rubber tire of the wheel at even intervals and impaled a white candle on each. Then I placed the wheel in the bowl, filled with water, and laced hemlock clippings through the spokes to cover the mechanism. The hidden water kept the twigs green and fragrant. We lit a candle each Sunday and had one of the older children read something appropriate. With a red ribbon on one of the candles, the bowl makes a colorful, symbolic centerpiece throughout the pre-Christmas season.

It wouldn't be Christmas if...

... all the presents were bought and wrapped; the house was straight, the tree decorated, cookies baked—and there were nothing to do on Christmas Eve but sit around and wait.

... all the invitations for the parties we especially want to go to weren't for the same night, with nothing the weekend before or after.

... we didn't get at least one card unsigned, with the postmark illegible and the handwriting unfamiliar—causing speculation about who thought of us.

DIME STORE DELIRIUM

I really don't mind Christmas shopping. It's fun to splurge once a year on the big things that somebody has been plugging for a long time. What really gets me are the shopping expeditions to the dime store with a little one in tow, all set to buy eight presents with a carefully saved dollar in pennies. It occurs to me that there aren't as many of those ten-cent items around any more as there used to be. Everything is 19¢, 29¢, 39¢; and as I'm not too good at adding in my head, we're likely to wind up at the check-out counter with a total of $2.39, with guess who paying the difference.

White Magic

Amy, five, is looking out the upstairs window after a snowfall. They've been out sleigh riding the day before, and there have been flurries during the night.

"Hey, look, somebody's fixed up the ground. All the footprints are gone."

TREE MAJESTY

It always bothers me to buy a Christmas tree from a lot—cut, tied, and dumped impersonally. As children, we used to walk in the woods Sunday afternoons, weeks ahead of time, to look for our tree, which we'd mark and come back for later. This past summer, traveling through Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, we saw acres and acres of beauties. One day, deep in the prairie forest, with a carpet of moss underfoot and steeped in stillness, I came upon a long-needled pine, majestically lighted by a shaft of sunlight through the aspen. There it stood, just the right size, perfectly adorned by nature. No matter what we select from the lot this year, that's the tree I'll secretly see.

Children's Delight

A bowl of Fruit Nog—eggs, milk, vanilla ice cream, topped with scoops of orange sherbet—served in punch cups with short colored straws. Festive and delicious.

TO ALL A MERRY CHRISTMAS

"Make new friends—keep the old," is one of those priceless adages that seems more meaningful at Christmas time. I am grateful for all the new friends I've made through The American Home, especially readers who have taken time to write. Like the holly growers from Oregon and from New Jersey, who explained the difference between their holly and all the other kinds; or the lady who wrote for directions to the Pennsylvania Dutch Fair and followed up with an account of her trip. There were others who set me straight about shoofly pie and sent me recipes; and several with families as large and noisy as ours who told me how they manage to have a peaceful dinner hour.

To all, a heartfelt wish from our house for a merry, truly joyous, Christmas.

You could lose your shirt—as well as your house—if you are not fully protected

- If your property is damaged by fire, will your insurance cover the full cost of repairing all damage?
  - If snow and ice cause your roof rafters to collapse, can you collect under your policy?
  - If you accidentally spill paint and saturate your walls and floor do you have an insurance claim?

- If your home is being remodeled, and one of your contractor's workmen injures himself with one of your power tools, can the workman collect damages from you, and if so, does your insurance policy protect you?

- If you're not sure of the answers, you're in the company of thousands of other home owners who are confused about the fine points of their insurance protection. There are different types of policies for just about every kind of insurance, and the type you have will determine just how much you'll collect. Most people gloss over the subject until they suffer a loss, or are faced with a lawsuit. Then they may discover their coverage isn’t what they thought it was.

Just about everyone needs and carries insurance of one kind or another. But every home owner should have and thoroughly understand two kinds in particular: property (commonly called fire) insurance and liability insurance. Burglary and theft insurance is also an extremely valuable form of protection. The importance of these coverages is underscored by a relatively recent development in the insurance field—the Homeowners Policy, which many home owners now have. This coverage (which we'll discuss later) may be the best insurance buy available to you today since it offers in a single package the protection most needed by home owners. There are several types available to meet varying needs. (continued on page 64)

The Christmas greetings you see here date back to what is known as "the golden age of Christmas"—the Victorian years that saw Christmas revered and celebrated in a fashion unknown to any other era. This was the period when Charles Dickens published "A Christmas Carol," when Prince Albert introduced the first Christmas tree to England, when Clement Moore's "A Visit from St. Nicholas" suddenly achieved wide popularity. The first Yule card appeared in 1843. The nostalgic collection we show here dates back to the 1860s through the 1890s. You see a chrome lithograph of the “Old Woman in a Shoe,” one of the earliest three-panel fold-out cards, as well as cards illustrated by Kate Greenaway whose paintings of children have long since become famous. Reproductions of these cards are not available today; you’ll find many similar ones in the card shops that have been inspired by this same sentimental Victorian era. Christmas cards are identified on page 69.

"A JOYOUS WELCOME TO ALL FRIENDS, AND A HAPPY CHRISTMAS MAY YOU SPEND"
MAKE OUR LOVELY
CRÈCHE IN A
PEEK-THROUGH BOX

This simple paper cut-out nativity scene in a peek-through box is a charming way to teach your child the true meaning of Christmas.

First cut a round peephole ¾” in diameter in the center of one end of a shoe box. Then cut a rectangular or elliptical opening 2x1½” in the bottom of the box about 4” from the opposite end.

To make the figures more rigid, paste on thin cardboard the portion of the page containing the figures and then cut them out. Cut out the scenic panel and glue it in place at the opposite end of the peephole. Bend back the base flaps on the figures and tape or glue them to the bottom of the box in positions shown.

The exterior of the box may be as simple or elaborate as you wish. To decorate it, use brocade, velvet, metallic paper, or any suitable Christmas paper and embellish with ribbon, jewels, gold lace-paper edging, braid, or any other trimming material you might have. With a darning needle or ice pick punch tiny holes for stars in the lid of the box. Then cut a 2” star-shaped hole in lid directly above the opening in the bottom of the box. Tape a piece of translucent paper to the inside of star (not essential). This will be the Star of Bethlehem.

To view the scene hold the covered box over a patch of intense sunlight or a table lamp, so that a strong light is cast up through the bottom of the box. As you tip the box gently from side to side you will see a play of lights on the nativity scene.

There are only two really fine dishwashers. This one is better than the other. Why?

Because of a lot of things you call convenience and we call engineering advances. Like the blue tub lining of this Waste King Universal built-in. It’s Triple-X poly vinyl. Food won’t catch on it... dishes won’t break on it, as they do against porcelain... and it will never rust. That’s just one of the things that make Waste King Universal better than all the other dishwashers you could buy. There are more—a special basket for baby-bottle nipples and other small things...a timer-controlled detergent dispenser... extra capacity...convenient random loading. Some other dishwashers have some of these extras. Only Waste King Universal has them all. Ask any woman who uses one. Or better still, compare for your own satisfaction. American holly (Ilex opaca), right, is the hardiest red-berried evergreen kind. It'll make a handsome shrub or tree in your garden and will give you plenty of attractive berries for Christmas cutting.

English holly (Ilex aquifolium) has the most beautiful foliage, dense clusters of brilliant berries, and grows into a magnificent shrub or tree. Less hardy than American holly, it stands temperatures to about zero.

Chinese holly (Ilex cornuta) has rich, lustrous leaves and the densest clusters of berries. It makes a beautiful shrub and is about as hardy as English holly. This branch is of the variety 'Burford.'
"JUST MY STYLE"

You're sure to find your style among these new wall panels by Masonite

It's only natural, when you panel a room, that you want to express your individual taste. This is your room, not someone else's.

Look over these new Royalcote cherry-grained wall panels and you'll find just the background you seek: Contemporary, Provincial, Early American. (If your tastes run to the traditional, by all means see the new Honeytone finish, left above.) Your selection is not limited to the cherry-grained panels: you may choose from rich walnut shades as well.

You have your choice of sizes, too—the familiar four-foot width, or the new 16" panels (a Masonite exclusive). The 16" size features a unique clip-on system that hides the nails completely. With either size your Royalcote panels come factory-finished. No sealing, no varnishing: when the panels are all up, your work is done. But your satisfaction goes on and on.

Royalcote finishes are applied to durable Masonite hardboard panels that won't split, crack or check, ever. The cost will please you, too: you can do a 12-foot wall in this handsome paneling for as little as $30. "Just my style," you'll agree!

Masonite Corporation, Dept. AH-12, Box 777, Chicago 90, Illinois. In Canada: Masonite Co. of Canada, Ltd., Gatineau, Quebec.

Always look for this trade-mark on the paneling you buy: it says this is genuine Masonite hardboard. It's wood-made-better—made through the exclusive explosion process for unequaled strength, smoothness and uniformity.

Looking for the right plant for a built-in planter? Try convexleaf Japanese holly, as used here at the entrance to the northern New Jersey home of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Adoff. Unless your winters are too cold for hollies, you’ll find them the most adaptable of all evergreen shrubs—and also the most beautiful.

An all-holly foundation planting is close to the ultimate in exterior decorating! Here, at the Samuel Marions’ home, convexleaf Japanese holly (crenata) is in the foreground, littleleaf (microphylla) at left, dwarf variety ‘Stokes’ in center, and the large specimen at the back is a form of English holly, citata major.

and berries. The leaves are glossier, more wavy, and darker green than those of the American type, and the berries are in denser clusters and brighter. It’s less hardy, however, and is risky in areas where below-zero temperatures are the rule. English holly normally grows as a tree, of about the same size and shape as American, but in the cooler regions, where young growth often loses its tips, it usually takes on the form of a several-stemmed shrub.

Chinese holly (Ilex cornuta) usually grows into a rounded or broad-conical shrub 6 or 8 feet high, but it can be easily kept shorter by once-a-year-pruning. It has beautiful foliage, almost as lustrous as English holly, but somewhat lighter colored, less wavy, and squarish in shape. The berries are brightly colored and densely clustered. It’s about as hardy as English holly and so is best suited to regions that don’t ordinarily get below-zero temperatures.

American, English, and Chinese hollies come in numerous more or less distinct varieties. All are magnificently effective as individual specimens or in combination with other shrubs or trees. By regular pruning they can also be adapted to focal-point use in foundation plantings.

Japanese holly (Ilex crenata) is perhaps the most valuable of all the popular types because of its adaptability to so many landscape uses. Most varieties grow into medium-size shrubs, 5 to 6 feet high and 3 to 4 feet across. The tallest, if not pruned, eventually get to be 15 feet or more, while the lowest growing never get much above 18 inches. Even the tallest can be kept to 2 feet or so by regular pruning—or by frequent shearing if a solid, clipped hedge effect is desired.
The leaves of Japanese hollies are much smaller than those of the other kinds, are a rich, dark, glossy green, and have no spines. There are many varieties available and their leaves range in size from 1\(\frac{1}{2}\) to 1\(\frac{3}{4}\) inches long, in shape from nearly round to very slender (1\(\frac{1}{2}\) by 1 inch), and from flat to markedly convex.

All these characteristics—compact growth, ease of pruning or shearing, richness and distinctiveness of foliage—make the Japanese hollies suitable for use in any type foundation planting for any type of house. Their broad adaptability also makes them ideal material for planting near outdoor living areas, as individual specimens, in hedges, and in shrubbery borders with other plants.

Their only shortcoming, compared with the other hollies, is that their berries are black and therefore relatively inconspicuous.

Most varieties of Japanese holly are about as hardy as the American species—that is, can stand temperatures to about 10 below zero. In protected spots they're likely to withstand even greater cold, but, like many evergreens, they may be temporarily damaged by less severe temperatures accompanied by high wind.

You'll find most nurseries in the "holly belt" handle at least a few varieties of each kind. But you may find salesmen referring to American, English, and Chinese kinds by the English name "holly" and to Japanese kinds by the Latin name "ilex"!

Their versatility, next to their attractiveness, is the reason for the rising popularity of all the hollies. This unusual use of the English holly variety ciliata major is by Landscape Architect James Rose at the Philip Kruvants' home in northern New Jersey.

If you become a holly collector, like Holly Society President William E. Snyder, you'll have the makings of an exceptionally well-landscaped garden. Designed by Roy H. De Boer, this area of Dr. Snyder's garden includes American holly, several forms of Japanese holly, low junipers, and a dwarf Hinoki cypress.

Everyone's talking about "competitive societies" and the "balance of scientific achievements"—but who's doing anything about it? The toymakers of the country—that's who. The need for engineers, scientists, and technologists is lamented, and many wonder how a less-than-perfect educational system can fill the gap with the fresh, eager, young pioneer minds we will need. Well, your own bright-eyed youngster might have his intellectual curiosity sparked this year with a kit he finds under the Christmas tree. And it won't be by accident.

The companies making these kits are deeply concerned with our country's future—and your child's part in it. Not completely altruistic, some are also wondering where their own next wave of scientists is coming from. This, along with the hope of selling the kits like hotcakes, has encouraged them to combine their skills and resources to introduce a new type of educational kit that will start young people on the adventure of learning through play. In so doing, they have made an investment in America's youth. You can make this investment pay off, because you are the one best able to spot and develop your child's interests. You can put into his hands the tools to develop his special talents. What you will give him far surpasses the play value of most "toys." We feel that the kits shown here, and others like them in the stores, are bound to turn many a bump of curiosity into a mountain of knowledge. Can the new 20-year FHA-insured home improvement loans be used for fallout shelters?

Yes. There has been a ruling by FHA to that effect.

All loans of this kind will not have 20-year terms, however. The term can be 5, 10, 15, or 20 years, whichever is appropriate for the individual loan. A lender might not be willing, for example, to allow 15 or 20 years for repayment of a $10,000 loan.

The new home improvement loans are intended for major remodeling or improvements, and for this reason the minimum loan amount has been set at $2500 ($1000 if the property is an urban renewal area); but if the loan is to finance the building of a fallout shelter there is no minimum amount.

Also, the home to be improved with one of the new loans must be at least 10 years old, unless the loan is to pay for major structural improvements or to correct defects that were not known when the house was completed or were caused by fire, flood, or other casualty. The building of a fallout shelter is considered a major structural alteration, and so the requirement that the house must be at least 10 years old is waived when the loan is for that purpose.

Fallout shelters can also be financed with FHA-insured Title I property improvement loans in amounts up to $3500, repayable in not more than 5 years.

There is a 20-year FHA mortgage on my home. I would like to shorten the repayment time to 10 or 12 years by making extra payments now and then. I am told I would have to pay a one per cent prepayment charge if I did so. Is this true?

No. FHA regulations were amended on May 26, 1961, to provide that if an insured home mortgage is paid in full at any time after it has been in force for 10 years no prepayment charge will be made.

It has always been possible under the FHA system for a home owner to pay off his mortgage in advance without incurring a prepayment charge, if his extra payments to principal in any one year do not amount to more than 15 per cent of the original loan.

Also, if you were to sell your home at any time to a buyer who financed it with a new FHA-insured mortgage, there would be no prepayment charge.

How old does a working wife have to be in order that FHA will take her salary into account in considering an application for mortgage insurance?

FHA has no specific requirement in this respect. The age of a working wife is considered along with a number of other factors in determining the dependability of her income. A wife's income can be counted, regardless of her age, if FHA establishes that her employment is a normal and continuing part of the family living pattern. for low-cost homes only (that is, homes in the $11,000 to $15,000 range) can be lengthened to 40 years. But an insured mortgage to refinance a home in any price range cannot have a term longer than 30 years.

You can apply for an FHA-insured mortgage to any bank, building and loan association, mortgage company, or other lender approved by FHA to make such loans.

Several years ago I bought a large house and converted it into two units. I occupy one and rent the other. I have room enough on my lot to add two more units onto the house. My mortgage carries interest at 4 1/2 per cent and has been reduced to a small balance. Could I get one of the new home improvement loans to help pay for the new construction?

You should be able to use one of the new loans for your purpose, if the completed property would meet FHA standards. The improvement loan could not exceed any of the following limitations:

1. An amount which, added to your present mortgage balance, would not be greater than the mortgage FHA could insure based on its estimate of what the property value will be after the improvements are completed.
2. An insured mortgage is limited to not more than 97 per cent of $15,000 of the property value, plus 90 per cent of the next $5000 of value, plus 75 per cent of the value above $20,000. Keep in mind, however, that for a four-family property, the mortgage cannot exceed $35,000.
3. An amount which, added to your present mortgage balance, would not be greater than the mortgage FHA could insure based on its estimate of what the property value will be after the improvements are completed.
4. An insured mortgage is limited to not more than 97 per cent of $15,000 of the property value, plus 90 per cent of the next $5000 of value, plus 75 per cent of the value above $20,000. Keep in mind, however, that for a four-family property, the mortgage cannot exceed $35,000.

Here's how it works. Suppose your present mortgage balance is $10,000 and the cost of your addition and improvements is estimated at $30,000. Assuming that the value of the improved property would justify an insured mortgage in the maximum amount of $35,000, the largest improvement loan FHA could insure would be $25,000.

You said in this column some time ago that an FHA home buyer who was 62 or older could borrow the down payment. What about a buyer who is not that old? Couldn't he borrow on his car or

The dictionary meaning is "joint dominion or sovereignty." In Roman law, condominium meant joint ownership. In housing today, it means ownership by individual families in an apartment building of the apartments they occupy. This form of ownership has been used successfully in Puerto Rico and some European countries, but it is relatively new in the United States.

The Housing Act of 1961 authorized FHA for the first time to insure a mortgage that covers an individual apartment and an undivided interest in the common areas and facilities that serve the building, such as corridors, stairs, elevators, lobbies, land, parking areas, and community and commercial facilities.

An individual owner can own not more than three apartments covered by insured mortgages, in addition to the one he owns and occupies in the building.

Twas the night before Christmas,
All through the house not a creature was stirring,
Not even a mouse.

The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that Saint Nicholas soon would be there.
The children were dressed in their beds
With visions of sugarplums in their heads.

And Ma and Pa in their own beds,
Where the rubbish was piled such a heap.

Little mouse in his hole without a care,
Hoping that Santa Claus might carry some gear.
CHRISTMAS IS FOR WISHING

A little girl wishes with wide-eyed, wide-open faith—as sure as there’s a Santa Claus that a curly-haired doll will be under the tree. A growing boy wishes with growing skepticism, a skepticism that suddenly disappears in a blaze of bike or transistor radio. Sometimes grownups forget to wish. They’re too busy or blase or down-to-brass-tacks to have visions of sugarplums dancing in their heads. But Christmas was born of a miracle, and many small miracles still come to pass on this day of days. (Who can really say what the toys are up to after everyone’s in bed? And who knows that Santa doesn’t really pop out of your old sooty chimney while reindeer prance on your roof?) Christmas is for wishing, for believing. Whatever your age or your heart’s desire, may you dream a Christmas dream and may it come sweetly, wondrously true.
CHRISTMAS ALL OVER THE HOUSE

Inside and outside, in the hall, on the wall, on the table, at the window ... it's beginning to look a lot like Christmas! Here are dozens of gay and glamorous decorating ideas to make your house the Christmas-iest in town.

LEAFY CHRISTMAS BELLS were inspired by a Williamsburg decoration. Tier upon tier of glossy green camellia leaves are attached to plastic foam bells, with bright red Christmas balls for clappers and a graceful festoon of tasseled red silk roping. Carve bells with ring tops out of 2"-thick plastic foam blocks (see page 70). Bevel sides and cut shallow scoop out of bottom. Starting at the base, tack on fresh camellia or lemon leaves with stapling gun (or strong hairpins). Bend bottom row of leaves under bell; bend half-leaves around top ring.

ESPALIERED EVERGREEN TREE is a delightfully imaginative departure from customary wreath or spray of fresh greens. Start with a frame of 1" square moulding, braced at the corners. Wire on tips of golden arborvitae, spruce, or Princess pine. Use generous loops of heavier wire to hold glittering tree-top ornaments firmly in place. Trim with red velvet bows, holly berries, strings of tiny ornaments. For the base, cut a paper bucket in half and cover with red felt. Gold braid and a Santa peering over the rim complete this enchanting decoration.
AN OLD-FASHIONED SWEDISH WHEAT TREE for winter birds inspired this welcoming door decoration. Spray the handle of a child’s broom bright red. Holding broom upright, tie a sheaf of wheat where handle meets broom straws. Cut a tree form out of green plastic foam, glue to broom above wheat. Pierce foam tree with an ice pick and insert sprigs of boxwood in holes. Wire fat red berries to the greens, add dime store birds and big red bow.

AROUND THE WORLD IN 80 DAYS is a charming flight of fancy for indoors or out. You'll treasure it for many Christmases, just adding fresh greens. The plastic foam balloon is painted turquoise. (You could also make a balloon of wire covered with fabric.) The “net” is made of tiny huckleberry leaves. There's a garland of leaves and berries around the red velvet suspension lines, a miniature tree and cluster of holly below. How-to's are on page 71.

TINY RED CHRISTMAS ROSEBUDS and spicy smelling boxwood greens form a tree-shaped arrangement in brass compote on antique desk, right.

BELLS OF IRELAND with red carnations and silver Christmas bells (top) ring out Yuletide cheer in a glass epergne inside a silver candlestick. You might prefer traditional holly and eucalyptus with red carnations.

18TH CENTURY APPLE TREE beside an antique snipe decoy is made on a wooden cone circled with rows of finishing nails on which fruit is pressed, with boxwood between. See page 70.
"STRING OF POPCORN PEARLS" MANTEL, opposite, combines strings of popcorn with classic arborvitae rope hung in artistic swags and trimmed with pine cones and red ribbon.

POPCORN TREE AND WREATH are merry concoctions. Attach popcorn wreath and green wreath to cardboard, lace together with ribbons. Make tree on chicken-wire cone. Special popcorn recipe on page 70.

OLD WORLD HARVEST TREE depicts the story of the harvest with simple ornaments. Originally made of native roadside reeds, grasses, wheat, etc., these materials are now found in hobby-craft shops. See page 69.
TOY TREE CENTER-PIECE is almost a party in itself. The cocoa-and-marshmallow crowd will love having a Christmas tree all to themselves—not to mention the dangling toy favors to pick and take home at “goodbye-and-thank-you” time. You can load your tree with treasures from dime and novelty stores—these cost between 5c and 69c. Our tree was made from boughs stuck into a plastic foam trunk; the base is a plain clay pot decorated with Mexican straw beads. You might use a fresh or artificial miniature evergreen tree and camouflage the base with felt or paper.

Other ideas: trim a “Candy Tree” centerpiece with candy canes, gay strings of gumdrops, and fancy foil-wrapped chocolate Santas and angels. For a child’s room decorate a tiny tree with odd earrings, cast-off jewelry, favorite old toys, shiny paper stars, and precious handmade ornaments carried home from kindergarten.
CHILDREN'S STRAWBERRY TABLE makes Christmas dinner a delight for young and old. Berries on the cloth are picked right off the walls. Centerpiece of marzipan strawberries can be nibbled for dessert. Note gay ornaments in goblets and surprise balls for wound-up kids to unwind.

HOLIDAY HOOPLA TREE adds touch of frou-frou and frivolity to your table, console, or buffet. Frilly white bouclé yarn hoops dangle from green and red ribbons, are trimmed with glamorous red Christmas roses. Ribbons are attached to white-painted wooden dowel mounted on a wooden base.
SING THIS MERRY NEW CHRISTMAS CAROL. It's as bright and fresh as the very first snowflake and sure to be hummed in your home for many Christmases to come. A special gift for you, sent to us by American Home readers Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith.
DRUM HOSPITALITY TABLE invites one and all to step up and share the season's joys. Cardboard drum frame is covered in green felt trimmed with upholstery cord, tassels, and seals. Punch is served in an antique urn-shaped dispenser. Children's “candy canes” are gift-filled paper tubes, wrapped presents are for grownups. How-to's on page 68.
GIFTS THAT WILL LAST ALL YEAR LONG
Nothing will ever take the place of dolls and dump trucks. But the woods (and television screens) are filled with glittery, gimmicky toys that lose their charms as fast as a Christmas tree loses its needles. If you're tired of presents that are forlorn and forgotten by the second week in January, there are dozens of delightful surprises outside of the toy department. There are presents for the home—a gay wicker chair, a barber-pole lamp, a chest of drawers, a smoochuble teddy-bear rug. There are presents for the mind—a real, working telescope, phonograph records, a globe. There are keep-busy presents—barbells, carpenter tools, a real electric soda-fountain mixer. How about a subscription to a magazine, or to a concert series? Or a real-live present—a puppy, a bowl of fish, or a living Christmas tree? Whether it's a big, expensive present or stocking-stuffers from the drug or hardware store, nontoy gifts are a wonderful investment. Shopping Information, page 70.
A GALA FEAST OF WILD GAME

If your husband stalks in with a brace of pheasant—don't panic. Cook it! Whether he bags it or you buy it, there's nothing quite like wild game. Its rich, succulent, dark-fleshed flavor makes gourmets the world over go weak in the knees. Herewith, the tricks of preparing, seasoning, and bringing wild game to the perfect state of juicy doneness. Imagine a magnificent trio of steaming Roast Wild Ducks with Apricot Stuffing nesting in regal splendor on your holiday table. Think of the treat in store with delicate, white-meated Braised Quail with Grapes or fragile-flavored Partridge Pie. For a very special dinner party, during this festive season, pamper your guests with subtle, tender Roast Pheasant with Wild Rice or savor the charms of Hasenpfuffer or rich, meaty Venison Stew. Happy holidays and bon appétit! (Recipes on page 55.)

Roast wild duck with its flavorful dark meat is a gourmet delicacy the world over. Alight with flaming brandy, it is served here with a pungent apricot stuffing.
FRUITCAKES AND STEAMED PUDDINGS!

What would Christmas be without a fruitcake bursting with candied fruits and nut meats? Or a pudding so steamy it sends rivulets of sauce cascading down its sides? Here are six delightful desserts—to give as never-to-be-forgotten gifts or to serve as the crowning touch to your Christmas feast! A Noel Plum Pudding, richly fruitied, knowingly spiced, and garnished with frosted green grapes. Cranberry Pudding, redolent of molasses, raisins, and bright red cranberries. Our Glazed Date-Orange Pudding, a heavenly concoction to be served with pom and pageantry. Rich, dark Easy Holiday Fruitcake, decked with festive marzipan strawberries. Light Golden Fruitcake, studded with nut meats, cherries, and ribbons of Christmasy gumdrops. Or a Prune-Apricot Duff, half light, half dark, with a creamy hard sauce. Recipes on page 59.
WONDERFUL GIFTS OF HOMEMADE COOKIES &

- Calling all cookie cutters! Now's the time to join the fun of baking cookies for Christmas. The warm sweet smell of the kitchen, the children eagerly cookie-snatching from the cooling rack, the platters piling up with pretty cookies in fanciful shapes and fairy-tale colors—who'd trade such wonderful excitement for store-bought cookies off the shelves?

Even if this is your umpteenth Christmas at the range, you'll want to add a few of these gala goodies to your repertoire: fruit-studded Meringue Jewels—delicate, melt-on-the-tongue Spritz—our crunchy Christmas Tree Cookies. Or how about creamy almond-sprinkled Dutch Bars—sweet and flavorful Cinnamon-Sugar Cookies—nutty, chewy Pecan Balls? Some of these cookies you'll hang from the tree; some you'll tuck into gaily wrapped boxes for favorite friends and neighbors. But be sure you make enough for your nearest and dearest to munch on through the whole holiday. You don't know how fast a dozen cookies can disappear until you've made your very own! (Recipes on page 51.)
Is there anything sweeter than candy made in your own cozy kitchen? Fancy as they look, colorful Fruit Confections, sugary Peanut Butter Pin Wheels, and Stuffed Dates or Prunes are simple enough for your littlest apron-wearer to make. With a bit of skill at chocolate-dipping (It's fun! See page 55.), you'll be turning out luscious platefuls of puffy Chocolate Marshmallows, succulent Chocolate Cherries, violet-topped Chocolate Coated Pineapple and yummy Cream Centers. (See recipes, page 52.)
Pop-goes-the-present Toaster has a wide ribbon band topped off with a pompon bow. Gay foil-wrapped gifts take the place of toast slices.

Sunny-side-up Electric Fry Pan is crowned with a glamorous sunburst made of gold foil and Christmas balls. How-to's on page 68.

Sail Away' Casserole is rigged into a jaunty sailboat with gift-paper sails held up by ordinary cardboard roller. How-to's on page 68.

Strawberry Soda Blender is stuffed with shocking pink foil, topped with fluffy pink ribbon pompons and angel hair "whipped cream." Straws are paper-covered tubes wound with red ribbon.

Cock-of-the-walk Tea Kettle sports wattles of self-sticking red ribbon, blossom-bow eyes, and a comb of shredded 1/4" ribbon in many colors.
All Wrapped up in Themselves

The best way to gift-wrap a bulky or odd-shaped kitchen appliance or utensil is—don't! Give it a fanciful shape, instead—with Christmas paper, ribbons, gay ornaments, and such. Take an electric blender, for instance, and turn it into a frothy pink strawberry soda. Turn an electric tea kettle into a cocky rooster with wattles and comb of curly ribbon. With a little imagination, a vacuum cleaner turns into Santa Claus, an oven-proof casserole into a sailboat, a coffee maker into a candlestick. We put a golden sunburst on an electric frying pan and king-and-queen crowns on a set of wooden canisters. Gaily wrapped gifts pop out of a toaster. More ideas on page 68.

P.S. Don't misplace the instruction book and the warranty! Shopping Information, page 70.
Have you shied away from the freezer food plan idea because you've heard how other families got trapped into "paying $1500 for a $500 freezer" or "being left high and dry with an empty one"? Chances are, such stories were close to the truth at one time. Fortunately, most of the racketeers responsible have long since vanished, forced out of business by their own fraudulent schemes and public scrutiny.

What you may not have heard about is the legitimate dealers, who did survive the bad publicity of the unscrupulous ones. Once again, food plans are a growing business. Over three million families now buy food on a pay-as-you-eat basis, along with installment plan freezers.

It's possible that a freezer food plan can solve the problem of feeding your family well-balanced meals on a well-balanced food budget. We have determined that it is the best way for you to add the convenience of a freezer.

We can't deny that some plans are good for some families, but we also know that unscrupulous practices are not completely past history. Once again, we're hearing of fly-by-night operators out to make a fast dollar, who mislead customers into buying plans that are not sound and paying exorbitant prices for freezers with the empty hope of saving money. And it could happen to you unless you know how to tell the difference between the legitimate plan dealer and the shady operator.

Of course, there are advantages in good freezer food plans, and first among these is convenience. Shopping time is reduced; it may be easier and faster to prepare meals; budgeting may be simplified by paying major food bills on a monthly basis. And in the long run a good plan can be economical for the homemaker who uses her freezer wisely and takes advantage of worth-while discounts for buying foods in quantity. But don't believe claims that money you save on food will pay for a freezer. It just isn't possible.

A freezer food plan amounts to buying a freezer, along with several months' supply of frozen foods—and other staples, perhaps—and paying for both on an installment basis. Great Idea: Pass the soup tray! Such an easy way to entertain—soup 'n chips. Heat up Campbell’s Cream of Vegetable Soup, for instance. This creamy blend of vegetables tastes so good with crisp chips. Or try Campbell’s Tomato Rice Soup. Rich and red with pieces of tomato and long-grain rice, it’s a friendly soup with potato chips, corn chips, any kind of chips. Children’s parties, grown-up parties... mid-morning snacks or good-night-caps... any time someone’s hungry... just pass the soup tray!

M’m! M’m! Good! When the soup is Campbells likely average would be 60-65%. Just be sure the plan is flexible so you can order more or less next time, if necessary.

Study the food price lists. Do they state what quantities you must buy to qualify for discounts? Do they specify whether meats are priced by dressed or processed weights? (Up to 30% of the dressed weight is lost in cutting and trimming beef for actual use. If you know about it, pricing meat by dressed weight is not wrong.) Are fruits and vegetables identified by brand names? Are meats described by standard government grading terms? Can you buy only desirable cuts at prices stated without taking other portions? Are there extra charges for wrapping, freezing, or other services? If you're not buying a freezer, do the same prices still apply?

Ask about a membership fee. This in itself is not bad, if you know what it covers and if you feel it's worth your money. But some firms hide such fees in the prices of freezers. Some charge membership fees only to families with freezers who wish to take the food plan service alone. (If you do this, be absolutely sure you are dealing directly with a food supplier.)

Find out whether present customers are satisfied. If you don't know any, ask for a list of at least 25 customers of six months or more and call some of them immediately. Explain that you're interested in the same plan and ask their frank opinions of food quality, prices, and the kind of service they receive.

Compare the price of the freezer offered with a regular appliance store's price for the same model. If the difference is not within reason, investigate! You can justify some extra cost as a premium paid for extra service. There's help with menu planning, for example, plus the convenience of delivery and buying economically in bulk to get full use from the freezer. Some provisioners permit ordering in large quantities at discount prices, then deliver the order in monthly segments. Reputable dealers guarantee the quality of all foods, and many provide emergency pick-up service and storage of your food in case of freezer trouble at home.

Don't be fooled by the "monthly payments" story. Over a span of months or years, these payments might boost the total price of the freezer into a range far beyond its worth to you. We have talked to customers who've paid two or three times normal retail prices for freezers without fully realizing it.

Insist on knowing the exact cost of the freezer, what carrying charges will be added, and just what you get for your money. Know what the freezer warranty covers, whom you should call for service, and when to expect it.

As a guide, the National Institute of Locker and Freezer Provisioners suggests a maximum of $36 per cubic foot (usable storage), not including financing.

Be sure the freezer offered suits your needs. For day-to-day convenience, allow three to four cubic feet per person, plus a couple of feet to provide for any special freezing you might like to do.

Fly-by-night operators try to sell the largest and most do-ityourself models, regardless of customers' needs or budgets. Don't let it happen to you!

Consider the space you have. The doors the freezer must pass through, the strength of the floor it will rest on. Do you shop often? Do you entertain frequently on short notice and like to have emergency foods on hand? All these factors help determine the size of freezer you'll need.

There's no point in buying a freezer to hold a year's supply of food if you plan to buy most of it and restock every few months. Remember it costs money to keep foods frozen, and time adds to this cost. It can run as high as 26 cents on one pound of food kept frozen for one year.

If a salesman tries to minimize such points, watch out!

Know what you pay for and when. Demand a breakdown of figures to show the freezer price, cost of your first food order, carrying charges, and any extra charges that might be included. Be sure you won't still be paying for food after you've used it. Unscrupulous dealers have been known to weasel-word contracts so that payments for the initial food order continue right along with those for the freezer. You can well imagine what carrying costs would amount to. And yet such contracts are as binding as any other, once you've signed. So don't lift a pen until you've checked the contract to be sure it includes all the promises the salesman has made.

More information is offered in a bulletin, "Freezer-Frozen Food Plans," which you can obtain by sending a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to National Better Business Bureau, Inc., Dept. AH, 230 Park Ave., N.Y. 17, N.Y.

sheets. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Transfer to wire racks. While still warm, roll in confectioners' sugar. When cookies have cooled completely, sprinkle with more confectioners' sugar. Makes about 5 dozen.

APRICOT NESTS

Sift together 1 cup sifted flour and 3/4 teaspoon salt. Cream 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine and 1/2 cup sugar in medium-sized bowl until light and fluffy; beat in 1 egg yolk and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Stir in sifted dry ingredients; beat until smooth. Shape dough into 3 dozen small balls; dip balls into slightly beaten egg white; roll in coarsely chopped nuts. Place 2 inches apart on lightly greased cookie sheets; make hole in top of cookie by inserting 1-inch piece of paper straw after each addition; continue beating until stiff peaks form. Fold in 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Roll out chilled dough 1/8-inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut with floured 2-inch scalloped cookie cutter. Place cookies on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in a slow oven (325° F.) 15 minutes, or until lightly browned. Makes about 2 dozen.

ALMOND CROWNS

Cream 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine and 3 tablespoons sugar until light and fluffy; beat in 3 egg yolks. Add and beat in 1 1/2 cups sifted flour; chill dough thoroughly. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 6 to 8 minutes. If you plan to hang these on the tree, make hole in top of cookie by inserting 1-inch piece of paper straw in cookie before baking. Makes 4 to 5 dozen. Frost completely cooled cookies with Ornamental Frosting and decorate with candy hearts, silvershot, or colored sugars.

ORNAMENTAL FROSTING— Combine 1 package (1 pound) confectioners' sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar, and 3 egg whites. Mix, using electric mixer or wire whip; add 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Beat until stiff enough that a knife will leave a clean-cut path when drawn through frosting. Keep unused portion covered with damp cloth or paper towel, as frosting hardens quickly.

CHRISTMAS ORNAMENT COOKIES

Cream 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine and 1 1/2 cups sugar in large bowl until light and fluffy; beat in 2 eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition; add 2 teaspoons vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients gradually, mixing only until blended after each addition. Chill dough thoroughly. Roll dough 1/8-inch thick out on lightly floured board. Cut into desired shapes with floured cookie cutters. Transfer to cookie sheets with spatula or pancake turner. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 6 to 8 minutes. Cream 2 tablespoons softened butter or margarine, 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar, and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Blend thoroughly. Add 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar alternately with 2 to 3 teaspoons milk or cream. Beat until smooth. PROPER INSURANCE (continued from page 8)

PROPERTY INSURANCE

If you do not have a Homeowners Policy, you'll probably find you have one of these three kinds: the Basic Dwelling and Contents Form, the Broad Dwelling and Contents Form, or the Dwelling Building(s) Special Form.

Basic Dwelling and Contents Form. This protects you against only the perils of fire and lightning. It can be endorsed to cover damage from windstorm, hail, explosion, riot, smoke, and certain other hazards. But you are not insured for loss due to a roof collapsing from the weight of snow or ice. There you would even collect if that gallon of paint saturated your walls and ceilings.

With this type of policy you probably would not obtain the full amount needed to replace certain damaged parts of your home, since the insurance company's liability is limited to the actual cash value of the destroyed property. Actual cash value is not market value, original value, sentimental value, or even replacement value. Rather it is the cost of replacement (with materials of like kind and quality) less depreciation.

Broad Dwelling and Contents Form. This offers much broader protection. In addition to the perils covered in the basic form, such things as vandalism and malicious mischief, damage caused by burglars, burning or bulging of a steam or hot water system, overflow of water or steam from within a plumbing, heating, or air-conditioning system, as well as many others, are included. And with this type of coverage you would collect if your roof collapsed from the weight of snow or ice.

You may also receive the full cost of repairing any damage to your home since coverage is based on replacement cost. No deduction for depreciation is made provided you carry an amount of insurance equal to at least 80 per cent of your home's replacement value. Note that this percentage applies to the cost of duplicating your house—not to its actual cash value or market value.

If, however, you are not insured for at least 80 per cent of your home's replacement value, the insurance company will pay you the larger of these two amounts: (1) the actual cash value with depreciation deducted; (2) the proportion of replacement cost which the amount of your insurance bears to 80 per cent of the full replacement cost.

Suppose, for example, that wind destroys your shingle roof. Your home would cost $30,000 to replace; the estimated life span of your roof is 20 years and the roof is 10 years old; your contractor estimates replacement cost of the roof to be $1200. How much would you collect?

If you carried $24,000 of insurance (80 per cent of replacement value) you would receive the full $1200. But if you only carried $18,000 of insurance (60 per cent of replacement value) you would receive the larger of the following amounts:

1. The actual cash value ($1200) less a 50 per cent deduction for ten years of wear or $600.

2. The proportion of the replacement cost which $18,000 bears to $24,000 (75 per cent) or $900.

However, you could be paid in full (unless you were seriously underinsured) even though you did not carry insurance amounting to 80 per cent of the replacement cost. The 80 per cent provision does not apply to losses which are less than five per cent of the dwelling insurance but in no event more than $1000.

Within the same policy your household and personal property can be protected against all specified perils. But this coverage is on an actual cash value basis rather than on replacement value.

Dwelling Building(s) Special Form. This is an extremely broad type of policy. Coverage is on a replacement cost basis exactly the same as with the Broad Dwelling Form. Here you would even collect if that gallon of paint saturated your walls and floors. Instead of naming the perils you are protected against, the policy covers all risks except those which are specifically excluded. In general the exclusions are for damage considered to be uninsurable or occurring with time instead of on a single occasion. Examples are certain types of water perils, deterioration, or termites.

This type of policy does not provide insurance for household or personal property. But you can purchase separate policies for this. Other Coverage. All three of the above described forms of property... insurance provide other important coverage. For example, you are allowed to apply up to 10 per cent of the amount of dwelling insurance you carry to cover private outbuildings on your property. If your house is insured for $20,000 you are protected against a loss as high as $2000 on your detached garage. However, if your outbuildings are worth more than ten per cent of the amount of your dwelling insurance, you should provide additional coverage.

Another important item is rental value insurance. If you normally rent a portion of your property and it is made untenable by an insured peril, the loss of rent or a fair rental value, whether rented or not, is covered up to 10 per cent of the amount of your dwelling coverage.

The broad and special forms contain an additional living-expense provision which takes care of costs such as hotel and restaurant bills if you must leave your home while it is being repaired after a loss. The coverage is limited to 10 per cent of the amount of your dwelling coverage and costs above and beyond your normal living expenses.

If you have a broad or special dwelling form of insurance you may even apply up to five per cent of the amount of your dwelling insurance to cover trees, shrubs, and plants. However, there is a limit of $250 for one tree, shrub, or plant, and certain perils such as windstorm are not covered.

Glossary of Insurance Terms

- Replacement Cost: the actual amount it costs you to duplicate the portion of your property which has been damaged or destroyed.
- Insured Peril: actual risk specified in your policy against which you are protected, i.e., fire, windstorm, and vandalism.
- Named-Peril Policy: specifies the perils against which you are protected.
- All-Risks Policy: protects you against all risks except those specifically excluded.
- Package Coverage: an insurance policy which includes several kinds of protection normally written separately, i.e., fire, comprehensive personal liability, and burglary and theft.

Liability Insurance

Comprehensive personal liability insurance provides broad coverage at a nominal cost and is a must for all home owners. Although it is written with a basic $10,000 limit, higher limits can be endorsed for a relatively small extra cost. For example, a $100,000 policy costs only $50 per cent more than one for $10,000.

This form of insurance protects you against lawsuits brought by persons injured on your property, or by those whose person or property is injured or damaged by you or a member of your family while away from home. Basically it covers your legal liability but it also pays the costs of defending you against suits whether or not you are held legally liable.

Medical payments are provided for persons accidentally injured on your property or by you or your family almost anywhere, whether or not you are legally liable. On the same basis, you are protected for accidental damage to the property of others. These two features might be described as moral obligation coverages in contrast with those which insure you against legal liability.
olved. The policy is intended for unusual breadth of protection, and among its distinctive advantages is its flexibility with respect to the nature of the insurance. For example, suppose a person other than the contractor or his crew members is injured near or about the job by your contractor's breach of a safety rule, or is injured while using his equipment. You could be expected to know about it. So, if you are contemplating extensive alterations check with your insurance agent as to the advisability of having your comprehensive personal liability policy endorsed for higher limits.

BURGLARY AND THEFT INSURANCE

The broad-form personal theft policy is a popular way to insure for loss by burglary, robbery, theft, mysterious disappearance, and related perils. The premises portion covers loss of property not only at your home but also at certain specified places such as a bank, safe-deposit company, public warehouse, or friend's home where you have left it for safekeeping. If your premises coverage is $1000 or more, the off-premises portion can be added for protection anywhere in the world. The off-premises coverage would pay the loss if your son borrows a friend's bicycle and it is stolen from the school playground. Protection applies to property that you or your family own or use.

Although the broad-form personal theft policy includes personal property and extends both to real property and to valuables, the coverages are not comprehensive. For example, damage by a burglar to your house would be covered if you own the house or are liable for its repairs. This form of insurance provides unusual breadth of protection, subject only to a few exclusions. It is more difficult to determine your liability insurance needs because you cannot know ahead of time how much you may be sued for. Every day suits for hundreds of thousands of dollars are filed against persons of average means, and jury awards are running at an all-time high. If you are not protected adequately, you can lose your property and face an income attachment for years.

The best protection you can gain when you buy insurance is to make certain you completely understand what coverages you do and do not have. Read your contract carefully. If it contains something you don't understand, ask your agent for an explanation. He will be happy to discuss your individual requirements and make recommendations about the best kinds of insurance for you.
They Almost Duplicated
The Original Plan Without Knowing It

Two people couldn't have been more surprised than Marion and Harold Charles when they ran across the original plan of their home. They discovered the breezeway and garage they had just added was almost the same as the builder had originally proposed.

The Charleses have worked on their Stony Brook, Long Island, home since they moved in six years ago. "We wanted a home that would grow with us," Harold Charles says. "Marion had definite ideas, this was our chance to build exactly what we wanted."

It took them two years to rearrange the outdoors area. Then, "We stayed up many nights making sketches until we decided this was what we wanted." The dining room window was replaced with a Dutch door and they used a barn-type door between the breezeway and the garage. The Charleses did some of the work themselves, but most of it was handled by a friend, George Nesbitt, who is a custom builder. When the addition was completed, the Charleses carted in several tons of dirt and blacktop for a new driveway.

The Charleses fell in love with their home from the very beginning. They knew it had excellent growth possibilities.

Salt-box garage is a perfect complement to the home. Door is 8"-thick V-joint redwood. The Charleses built the split-rail fence.

Original plan and new work. Dotted line shows addition proposed when house was built. The addition is in blue.
All Wrapped Up in Themselves

Five-inch Pompon is made with self-sticking ribbon. Using 1 1/2" ribbon, form circle with 11 inches of ribbon using 1 inch for overlap. Moisten end, attach inside of circle. Make 10 layers. Cut, moisten, and fasten. Flatten circle. Cut wedge-shape pieces from both sides of each fold, leaving 1/4" center. Open circle, put cut-out centers together, tie with narrow strip. To open, hold as shown and slip inner loop out with two fingers, twist down and forward. Repeat until all the loops are pulled free.

Fry-pan Sunburst. Mount gold foil paper on heavy paper and make accordion pleats 3" wide as shown. Cut diagonally to form triangles, making sure they are long enough to extend over edge of fry pan. Pierce holes at bases and tie together to form sunburst. Slip on small Christmas balls to each point and fasten with tape. Place on pan and top with pompon.

"Sail Away" Casserole. Our sail can be adapted to fit almost any casserole. Cut a cardboard sail 22" at the base and cover with gay Christmas wrapping. Use a cardboard tube from a roll of paper towels or wax paper for support at the back. Tape tube to casserole handle. Attach sail with wire to the mast made of 3/4" dowel. Tape sail to cardboard tube. Add a red paper flag to mast.

A Polka-dot Paper Carrousel is a festive way to dress up a gift assortment of your favorite kitchen tools.

Carrousel Top. To make this, cut an 18" circle of cardboard and paste it on a 20 1/2" circle of polka-dot paper. Cut points from overlapping paper. Cut a line to center of circle and fold over to form cone; tape in place. Tape tiny Christmas balls to each point and press down. Cut out red flag and tape around pipe cleaner. Insert in top of the carrousel.

Santa Claus Face for vacuum cleaner is a paper tube, 5" in diameter, covered with pink paper. Cut eyes of paper, shred ribbon for lashes. Whiskers and hair are ribbon, curled at end. Wrap white ribbon around top and bottom of tube to cover ends of hair and beard. Nose is tiny roll of pink paper. Cut circle of red foil, 1 1/2" wide, to make cone hat. Stuff with paper and add 5" pompon tassel. Add white candy ribbon border at base of hat. For Santa Claus suit, cover vacuum bag with red foil. Add belt of 4" black paper with cut-out gold buckle, pompon-bow buttons. Slip Santa Claus face over handle of vacuum and secure at desired height.

Drum Hospitality Table (see page 37). Using a 4x4' sheet of 3/4" plywood, cut out circle with a 16" diameter. Cut in half. Cut 8 pieces of 12" rough furring, each 30" long. Nail to plywood halves as shown. Cut heavy cardboard or illustration board and staple to framework, leaving a 2" overhang at top. Stretch green felt over cardboard, fold over top edge, and staple at each end. (Or paint cardboard or cover with colored paper.) Cover top with felt or paint. Apply gold braid, tassels, and medallions.

Teardrop Loop requires willow reed and raffia. Soak both in water for 12 hours. Determine size of loop desired (the one shown is 9 x 12’), then cut 3 pieces of reed, graduating size so they will fit into each other. Bend them to form teardrop shape; secure all together at top with masking tape and tie together with raffia, using a weaver’s knot. (Keep reed wet while working, as it slips and becomes hard to control.) Thread a needlepoint needle with raffia and weave it between and around the 3 pieces of reed. Suspend a dime-store Santa from top to center of teardrop.

Star—Small 4” star is made of reed or wheat stems. Form triangles, place one over the other, turning them in opposite directions and secure at joints with fine red twine or heavy thread. Crisscross 2 short straws. In center secure a tiny cluster of (10) 1” pieces, with ends cut sharply on diagonal. These pieces are tied in two clusters of 5 each, one on top of the other, to form a small sunburst. Large star (8”) is made of soda straws. (See tree, page 33.) If white, spray-paint them straw color. Follow same procedure as for small star, making 3 stars and 2 cross pieces, no center sunburst on this design.

Use 12 soda straws (8”) and 6 smaller straws (4”). Crisscross, one on top of the other, secure at center with needle and thread. Paint and shellac as for stars. With wire attach to center a large colored bead.

The sphere we used was cut from a 20" plastic foam ball, sprayed with a special plastic foam paint (you could also use rubber-base paint). If such a ball is not available, you can make your own sphere. Cut a circle of thin plywood (1/4") 20" in diameter. Draw 2 guide lines dividing circle into 4 equal parts. Put a large screw eye at top and bottom, a smaller one at each side. Measure spring wire for ribs halfway around plywood base, allowing enough extra wire to make loops. Measure and cut all 8 ribs at one time. Secure horizontal rib first. Then loop vertical rib top and bottom to screw eyes, keeping ribs equidistant. Tape each rib to the horizontal rib.

The cover. Cut a circle of stretchable fabric, leaving a 2" overlap. Stretch fabric over frame, pulling taut on bias; secure at back with thumbtacks. Repeat in opposite direction. To remove remaining fullness, make a series of tiny tucks in each quarter and secure with thumbtacks. Papier-mâché is another alternate covering.

The platform. Using a sharp knife, cut a semicircle with 8 1/2" radius for platform from a 12" slab of plastic foam, 2" thick. Bevel bottom with razor blade. Cut scroll ends and bevel. Slice 1/2" from each end of platform and attach scroll ends with toothpicks or wire. Cut a small semicircle for the middle support as shown. Spray pieces gold with special plastic foam paint or use rubber-base paint.

Screw angle iron to bottom of a piece of 1" square molding, 13 1/2" long. Mount platform and secure with pipe cleaners. Cut out another piece of plastic foam with a 1" groove to support Christmas tree greens, secure to molding with pipe cleaners.

Screw balloon to top of molding, pin huckleberry leaves to cover to make "net," starting from the bottom. Pin velvet rope (or silk cord) "guide lines" to the cover and extend to below the platform; gather and tie to Christmas ball. Pin lines to plastic foam semicircle directly under sphere. Add sprigs of holly; insert Christmas greens into plastic foam platform and use a small reindeer figure as a final touch.
