UP UP AND SOUFFLÉ

...WITH A LIFT FROM REYNOLDS WRAP®

A Reynolds Wrap "collar" holds firm and keeps the temperature even all around, coaxes your soufflé to new heights.

Reynolds Wrap is oven-tempered for flexible strength...a special kind of strength that resists tearing and puncturing. So strong, so dependable, so versatile. Maybe that's why more women buy Reynolds Wrap than all other foils combined.

MAKE YOUR OWN REYNOLDS WRAP

"COLLAR" FOR YOUR MUSHROOM SOUFFLÉ

5 Tbsp. butter or margarine 5 Tbsp. flour
1 tsp. salt 1½ cups milk
¾ cup grated Parmesan cheese 6 egg yolks
¼ lb. fresh mushrooms, finely chopped
8 egg whites ¼ tsp. cream of tartar Reynolds Wrap

Fold a length of Reynolds Wrap to make a 3" foil collar. Shape around 1½ quart soufflé dish, letting collar extend 2" above rim. Secure with paper clips. Oil inside surface of foil collar and dish.

Preheat oven to 375°. Melt butter. Add flour and salt. Stir until bubbly. Add milk gradually, stirring continually till smooth and thick. Add Parmesan. Mix in beaten egg yolks and mushrooms. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar until stiff. Mix about ¼ beaten egg whites into cheese mixture. Fold cheese mixture into remaining egg whites. Pour into soufflé dish. Bake 50 minutes. Serve at once. Serves 6.

ASPARAGUS "TIP": To lift stalks in and out of boiling water without breaking them, use a wide strip of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap.

Stouffer's could make Beef Stew with boiled meat instead of slowly oven-braising beef to bring out the flavor.

Or use artificial flavorings in the gravy instead of natural beef juices.

Or overload on the potatoes and peas and carrots.

But Stouffer's doesn't do any of that. Because then it wouldn't be Stouffer's frozen Beef Stew.

For the people you love, Stouffer's plays it straight.

Because backs don't conform, they need an extra-firm mattress that does.

Funny thing about backs. Everyone likes to say they're good and straight. But every one is full of curves. And no two of them are alike.

It's your spine you want to keep straight.

So, even though you may want an extra-firm mattress, we don't think your back wants one that's boardy and hard. Because if it's too hard, you'll be lying on your hips and shoulders. With your spine sagging in between.

What you ought to have is an extra-firm mattress that conforms to the curves of your own unique back.

And keeps your spine straight. Just like the Beautyrest® Back Care.

It's made of separate, extra-strong coils that are free to react separately to support whatever part of your body they're under. They give under your hips and shoulders. Yet give extra support under the small of your back.

You can't get more from a mattress unless you buy more of a Beautyrest. Queen size gives you 20% more room than an old-fashioned double bed. King size, 50% more.

And Beautyrest is now treated with Scotchgard® Fabric Protector to resist spots and stains for years.

If you need an extra-firm mattress, or just prefer one, try the Beautyrest Back Care. Compare it to the normal-firm support you get from our Beautyrest Supreme.

Back Care gives everybody the same extra-firm support because it reacts to every body differently.

Beautyrest Back Care by Simmons

It's different because it conforms.

DID YOU KNOW...

- ...your hair can stand on end?
- ...why your hips are like rabbit ears?
- ...that people really do have tails?
- ...that you have a blind spot?
- ...where and what your third eye is?

Many machines imitate the body's action. Left, the inside of an elbow in a triple exposure. Right, a harvesting machine designed to achieve the same flexibility.

From the complex control centers of your brain to the nerve endings in the tips of your toes you'll find it all fully explained and illustrated in

THE BODY

Borrow it for 10 days free from the LIFE Science Library

While we marvel at our giant data processing machines, we tend to forget the incredible powers of the human machine which created them...the body. Consider your own brain. It weighs about three pounds, yet a computer big enough to process its daily activities would have to be the size of the Empire State Building. Or consider your fist-sized heart. It pumps 5,500 quarts of blood through 60,000 miles of "tubing" every day. Our bodies are made up of machines within machines. Each of your cells is so tiny that it takes millions of them to form a half inch cube of your body tissue. Yet every one of these cells is an almost unimaginably busy chemical laboratory.

Recent scientific breakthroughs in probing the body's secrets are spectacular and give rise to widespread curiosity on the entire subject. People want to know what a "slipped disc" really is...why babies are born with a "soft spot" in their skulls...how artificial kidneys actually work...what the problems are in transplanting living organs—eyes, for example...the causes of arteriosclerosis...all about "dry surgery" and the machine that makes it possible. Therefore, the Editors of

TIME-LIFE BOOKS have brought together all these findings—and more—in The Body, your introductory volume of the LIFE Science Library. You and your youngsters, through a brilliant text and photo-essay technique, will be fascinated by this colorful volume.

You are invited to examine a copy of The Body for 10 days absolutely free. Do so and you'll discover what makes our bones able to withstand 20,000 pounds of pressure per square inch. You'll learn why modern architects study human anatomy to improve the skeletal structure of skyscrapers. You'll explore the workings of our sense organs and see why scientists call them "the network that never sleeps." You'll come to understand the function of the endocrine glands. (It's the adrenalin pumped into his veins that makes an angry man see red.)

Thanks to its large print orders, TIME-LIFE BOOKS is able to offer you The Body at a price far below what you'd normally pay for a lavishly illustrated book of this size, scope and quality. It will cost you only $4.95 ($5.25 in Canada), plus shipping and handling—and you may examine it for 10 days free before you decide to buy.

The Body consists of 200 pages with 35,000 words of text. More than half of the 160 illustrations are in full color. There's a unique tabulation of human variables, a life span world map, a sex differences guide, and a 9-page board game which makes learning physical processes fun.

Send no money

It will cost you absolutely nothing to browse through The Body for 10 days as a guest of TIME-LIFE BOOKS. If it does not satisfy—or exceed—your expectations, all you have to do is send the book back to us. Should you want to keep The Body, you pay only $4.95 ($5.25 in Canada).

Then you will have the privilege of previewing future volumes in the LIFE Science Library, sent at two-month intervals and the same low price. The same 10-day free examination trial applies to all volumes. You may reject or retain each as you see fit. You may cancel this arrangement at any time simply by notifying us.

So do fill out and mail the order form today, or write to: TIME-LIFE BOOKS, Dept. 6201, Time & Life Bldg., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

More than 1,600,000 families have already ordered volumes from the LIFE Science Library

TIME-LIFE BOOKS, DEPT. 6202 TIME & LIFE BUILDING, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS 60611

Please enroll me as a subscriber to the LIFE Science Library and send me The Body for a ten-day Free Examination. If, at the end of that time, I decide not to continue the series, I will return the book, canceling my subscription. If I keep the book, I will pay $4.95 ($5.25 in Canada) plus shipping and handling. I understand that future volumes will be issued on approval at two-month intervals, at the same price of $4.95 ($5.25 in Canada). The 10-day Free Examination privilege applies to all volumes in the library, and I may cancel my subscription at any time.

Muscles: The Power of Pull

The body's 600-odd muscles are the cables whose pull on bones makes motion possible. Their sole function is contraction. By working in pairs, however—one muscle contracting to pull a bone forward, the other to pull it back—the muscular system is capable of an immense variety of movements, from tripping the tongue in speech to running a race.

The action of muscle on bone is most apparent in the bending of arms and legs, whose solid shafts of bone are pulled into motion by the contraction of muscles surrounding them. Other, less movable, bones are also tugged, for example, muscles of the upper torso move the bones of the rib cage during breathing by contracting and relaxing. Muscles also pull on skin or other muscles, as in a smile, a frown, and the rise and fall of the diaphragm. All these contractions are controlled and coordinated by the brain. So interrelated are muscles that one contraction usually involves many others. The runner, exercising many muscles, even grins as he runs.

MUSCLES ON THE RUN

The runner on the beach at right run by rhythmically contracting alternate bands of muscles. Muscles on the left are called flexors. Their contraction bends the joints such as the knees. Muscles shown in gray are called extensors. Their contractions straighten the knees apart.

Conn's guide to beautiful music for cheaters.

While you're learning to play, you ought to be able to fudge a little. And Conn's exclusive Show-Chord makes it possible.

You can sit down at a Conn organ, flip a couple of tabs, play the melody with one finger, and sound like you've been studying for years.

Harmonic chords will be roaring behind you. Complicated rhythms will be thumping along without a miss. True, deep, instrument sounds will make anyone in the next room believe you've brought in an orchestra.

At first, all you'll have to do is peck out the melody with one finger. But as you improve, the Conn adapts to let you take full control.

Sound too easy to be true? Well, it's that easy, and it's true. Try it on our brand new organ, the Prelude, a full-sized organ that's low in price.

Stop by your Conn dealer for a demonstration. Or mail the coupon. We'll send a free record that will convince you of the rich sound of Conn. Plus literature you should read before you buy any organ.

THIS MONTH IN AMERICAN HOME

"Elsewhere the sky is the roof of the world; but here the earth was the floor of the sky." Thus wrote Willa Cather of 19th-century New Mexico in her beautiful novel, Death Comes for the Archbishop. Sky, light, air—obliterated, obscured, clouded in so much of this urban, industrial century—still have a pristine clarity in New Mexico, a freshness that overwhelmed all of us who traveled west from the crush of midtown New York to produce this issue.

Within that rare spaciousness we found one of the oldest, continuously inhabited homes in America, the Taos Pueblo—older even than the Crusades. Down the road near Albuquerque is La Luz, another adobe complex—a model of community planning, as new as tomorrow. In between there is a rich amalgam of untold centuries and of three cultures, the Indian, the Spanish, the Anglo. This is the Southwest style, and it is this style which is the subject of this issue and of our third and most ambitious American Treasury.

Indian crafts under a New Mexican sky.

For the modernists among you, what could be more contemporary than the curving, molded form of an adobe fireplace; or of roasting a chicken in one of the new clay cookers, a method used long ago by the Southwest Indian.

For those who are lovers of Early American, here is Early American, Southwest style. Navajo rugs, Pueblo pottery and Apache baskets not only enhance the earthen architecture of Taos and Santa Fe, but the rich pattern and color, which is the hallmark of the Southwest Indian, is one of the strongest new design influences in the decorating market. Fabrics and rugs with Indian motifs will soon appear in American homes far from the incomparable skies of New Mexico.

Hand-weaving the wools she herself has dyed, Kristina Wilson (right) makes abstract wall hangings in Taos, New Mexico. Mrs. Wilson helped organize Del Sol Products, a weaving cooperative employing local Spanish-American men and women. The fourteen expert weavers at the cooperative weave custom-dyed wool and mohair into hangings, cushions and rugs (foreground) by methods about two hundred years old.

It took Michel Pijoan, a retired doctor fascinated by Indian culture, to restore San Juan Pueblo creativity to its ancient quality. Their pottery had become strictly ornamental; they were not firing kilns the necessary length of time to seal the pots properly as their ancestors had done. Now the eight potters like Onguin Pe-en (left) and Reycita Keeyama who work for Dr. Pijoan's Indian Ceramics Guild at San Juan Pueblo, New Mexico, take two weeks to make a single vessel. Their work is beautiful and also useful.

In Santa Fe, 600 neighborhood kids flock to the nonprofit Garcia Street Club being run by Mrs. Laura Dougherty. Above left: Assistant Geraldine Apadoca instructs the kids in old Indian crafts like making corn jewelry or painting Easter eggs in season and even new handiwork. Last Christmas, for example, the youngsters learned to make tree ornaments from used beer cans.

Lucy Delgado likes cooking, which is to say she likes cooking a little more than tinsmithing (a family art), flower-arranging and cake decorating. Miss Delgado is a caterer in Santa Fe, famous for her New Mexican food and her ability to provide for as many as 300 people. The other specialties she can do professionally, too, but she prefers being the fastest tamale-folder in the West.

"I feel good here. I discovered it was home," says Kansas-born artist Michael Selig, summing up his reasons for settling and working in Santa Fe. Above is one of his constructions; below, the artist and the yarns he uses to stitch up his constructions which resemble old Indian ceremonial shields.

At this floor, even a bricklayer looks twice.

Before you buy any vinyl brick floor, compare our Kentile Colonial Brick Solid Vinyl Tile with the others. Our floor gives you all the bold, rugged beauty of natural brick. Here is beauty that's built-in, so it goes deep down into every tile. Now rub your fingers over our Colonial Brick surface. It has a feel and texture that's as close to natural brick as you can get. Comes in three glowing colors: Georgetown Red, Woodstock White, and Potomac Gold. Because each of these 9" x 9" tiles is installed separately, feel free to accent your floor with a second Colonial Brick color.

Now if you're really adventurous, here's another Kentile plus: Colonial Brick is recommended for outdoor use, with special adhesive. Which makes it as perfect for patios as it is for kitchens. Or greenhouses. Interested? You'll find your Kentile® Dealer listed in the Yellow Pages under "Floors."

KENTILE FLOORS

CITY INDIVIDUALIST

with an Indian-
country air

Leah Feldon's real raven braids are great. But for the have-nots, pin-ons are an easy and inexpensive way to achieve a variety of smashing hairdos for day and evening.

"I don't follow trends. I wear what I think looks good on me," says 25-year-old Leah Feldon. And what looks good on her is waist-length, shiny black hair. She usually wears it loose or braided. Her bead-twined braids in the picture above were styled by top New York hair stylist Hugh Harrison.

Leah is married to Lucien Feldon, a photographers' representative, and she works as a stylist for one of the photographers her husband represents. Texas-born, Florida-reared, Mrs. Feldon is now very much a New Yorker, yet her personal style has a distinctive South-west air: her hair . . . the buckskin . . . the beads . . . embroidered belt . . . her emphasis on simple, comfortable clothes.

If you're not blessed with a long, Didier Dorot shiny mane as Leah is but like the look of braids, the answer is simple and relatively inexpensive—pin-on braids. They are easy to attach and marvelously versatile. Pin-ons dress up a hairdo or become perfect face-savers when you have to look great at a moment's notice. They create instant hairdos.

What should you know about choosing braids? You have unlimited possibilities open to you. Braids come in many different lengths, colors and degrees of thickness, from single plump ones to clusters of skinnies. What you select should depend on the effect you want, your hair color and texture. Braids are fun, but they should always look as if they really did grow on your head. If your hair is fine, a very thick braid would look unnatural and wrong on your head. Before you select, look carefully to see what best becomes you.

Matching your hair color is relatively easy; braids come in a great variety of shades. But if you can't find an exact match, take the slightly darker shade which will blend with your roots. For a little extra, you can have a braid custom-blended to match your hair color exactly.

Instead of buying a few braids you can choose a switch and braid it into as many strands as you like.

Should you buy natural, human hair or one of the synthetics? Synthetics are a cinch to care for. Human hair, which is more expensive, must be cleaned professionally, while synthetics (Dynel, modacrylics, acetates) are inexpensive and can be washed in warm water with mild soap and dried naturally. They are available everywhere, in beauty salons, wig shops, department stores and variety stores.

Even if your own hair is braidable, for a change of look you can get special effects with pin-ons. One effect you don't need is having your braid lose its moorings. A secure way to fasten it is to make a hefty pincurl of your own hair where you want to attach the braid and to secure it with two bobby pins crossed in an X. With a third bobby pin, fasten the base end of the braid firmly onto the crossed pins. Then comb a lock of your own hair over the joining to make the braid look as though it is growing on your head, which is the idea.

Start your braid experiments with the hairstyles illustrated on page 22 which were designed by stylist Hugh Harrison.

Stitch Favorite Flowers By Dorothy Lambert Brightbill

If a poll were taken, forget-me-nots, daisies and violets would be at the top of the list of favorite flowers. These are cheerful, colorful and, best of all, easy to do. The creative stitchery, designed for us by Barbara Sparre, with simple stitch charts and color guides are an amateur's delight; the distinctive design won't be beneath the more accomplished needlewoman. The flowers are stamped on off-white cotton homespun, size 12 inches by 30 inches. Kits include wool yarn for the embroidery. Make one or both to brighten a hall, dining, breakfast room or bedroom. The frames are also available. They come unassembled, to save you money, and the wood is unfinished so you can paint it any color you like, green or perhaps one of the flower colors. Put-together instructions are included with frames.

TAKE ALL 4 BOOKS FREE

Most mothers and fathers frankly acknowledge that they haven't either the time or the perspective to choose precisely the right books for children not yet ready to read or who are just beginning to read. That is why parents are happily turning this problem over to the highly qualified editors of Parents' Magazine . . . by enrolling their youngsters in the Read Aloud and Easy Reading Program for Little Listeners and Beginning Readers.

Membership brings to your home each month an outstanding, carefully selected book which you may read to or along with your little one. Each book will charm and captivate your child — from its bright, colorful cover through its gaily illustrated pages, with a story appealing and understandable to even the youngest mind.

Save up to 50% — and more!

Besides the assurance of good entertainment, and the wonderful read-together sessions each selection provides for you and your child, you will be pleased by the savings on every book. Member's price is only $1.59 each (plus small mailing charge) for books regularly priced up to $3.95.

The first dishwasher detergent for dry-hards.

Dry-Hards are tough-to-clean foods—like eggs, fruit pie, oatmeal, meat fats, sauces—that dry and cake and stick. And stick. And stick. To plates. On forks. Filming glasses. Electrasol, fortified with 20% more active cleaning ingredients than other leading dishwasher detergents, really removes Dry-Hards. Lets your dishwasher give you cleaner, brighter, film-free dishes.

Test proves fortified Electrasol's superiority against Dry-Hards. Egg cup with Dry-Hard paste of egg, oatmeal and blueberry pie baked on for ten minutes at 330°F came out looking this way when washed in another leading dishwasher detergent.

Identical Dry-Hard egg cup—but cleaned in Electrasol, fortified with 20% more active cleaning ingredients than other leading brands. Try Electrasol. It removes Dry-Hard soils, prevents them from drying into spots on dishes, glasses and silverware.

Twist an 18-inch braid into a figure 8 in your hand. Pin ends together or wrap with fine wire. Brush your hair back and up. Fasten braid twist to two crossed pins as described on page 16. Pin top and bottom of braid twist securely to your hair. Fasten second braid under twist and let it dangle.

Coil a 22-inch braid as you would a belt. Curve end under and pin. From underneath mold coiled braid into a cone shape—with smallest circle first. Pin circles together underneath. Pull your hair back, tuck ends under, pin chignon at nape.

Divide an 18- to 22-inch switch into two braids. Drop your front hair over face, fasten braided switch to crown with one pin in center, one at each side. Comb front hair in pouf over braid, let rest of hair hang free. Tie braids with ribbon or beads.

Brush short hair back and up at nape or, if hair is longer, make ponytail and pin ends under. Fasten fall at back. Wrap an 18-inch braid around joining; pin under fall. Add a narrow 10-inch braid across brow and pin both ends securely at the joining.

Flameless electric heat is pure comfort...

...that's only one reason why over four million families are enjoying it today.

The electricity that lights your home is the cleanest form of energy known. It's absolutely flameless, absolutely without combustion. So it follows that flameless electric heat is the cleanest, purest home comfort you can buy.

Moreover, it's unmatched for efficiency. Installation is economical, requires no chimney, no flue.

All these values add to the unsurpassed comfort, cleanliness and convenience of flameless electric heat. And you'll find it a genuine bargain. No wonder more than four million families enjoy it today.

Combined with electric air conditioning, electric heat gives you pure comfort all year round ... in house, apartment or mobile home.

If you're planning to build, buy or modernize, get all the facts about carefree electric heat. Call the heating specialist at your electric utility company.

THE ADOBE LOOK AND HOW IT GOT THAT WAY

Adobe is a Spanish word meaning sun-dried clay bricks. The material has been used for thousands of years in many arid countries, notably in the eastern Mediterranean, North Africa and southern Spain. In the New World, it is found all the way from the American Southwest to Peru. The Indians were using it before the Spanish arrived to colonize. The Spanish adapted what they found to what they were used to at home. And because adobe permits a softly rounded, almost sculpturelike, free form of architecture, details change somewhat from period to period. (See "An American Treasury of Southwest Living" starting on page 49.)

Adobe is made by mixing sand, clay, water and sometimes a little straw. The Indians simply piled on the mud in layers, to form a wall. The sides of the walls were then coated with more mud, which had to be replaced each time the spring rains washed it off. So this resurfacing occurred annually, with the work being done mostly by the women.

The Spanish introduced the idea of adobe bricks and used the mud as mortar. Today the bricks can be sun-dried or kiln-dried. But, in either case, they must be protected from rain with a covering of waterproof material, usually stucco. Any amount of rain will turn unprotected adobe back into a heap of mud.

Another modern variant is stabilized adobe bricks, which have asphalt added to make them waterproof. They can be used without a stucco covering.

Other materials in the same school of thought are slump rock and rammed earth. The slump rock is manufactured to look like stabilized adobe brick, is stronger and does not need water protection. Rammed earth is just that: a soil mixture compacted into molds and forms (as concrete is) with a rammer to form walls. It looks like regular adobe.

The adobe look is so popular that unfortunately it has been the victim of frequent and miserable imitation. Remember Hollywood Spanish? And Half-baked Hacienda? Actually, these free translations of the adobe style (and its sister, the stucco look) were characteristic of their own times and locales. Such imitations were usually done in other

The strange-looking work in progress above might be called Son of Adobe. It is a new building method that retains the adobe look (as you see, at right, in the finished house in Albuquerque) without the problem of finding trained labor who know the age-old techniques of adobe construction. In this system, called the Dicker Stack-Sack and originated by a Dallas firm, little burlap bags of concrete mix replace laboriously formed bricks of mud. The bags are soaked in water before being stacked around door and window frames, and the wall surface is cement-coated. Metal reinforcing bars are used between layers and to form arches. The method saves time and money and is already in wide demand for low-cost homes and apartments in 35 states from coast to coast, the company says.

materials, too, since the authentic so poorly suited the rest of the country. Today, almost anything is considered fair game to get the adobe look . . . stucco over concrete block, stucco over ordinary frame construction. If it would hold up, toothpaste over Styrofoam would probably be employed.

But these imitations are only skin deep. The superficial features are copied and none of the proportions, scale or rationale is retained. The results are often ludicrous and aesthetically jarring because the whole shape of an adobe house is unlike frame or brick houses.

Adobe structures were usually long and strung out, not high and square. The early settlers originally had two or three rooms in their adobe houses, set side by side. As they prospered, they added other rooms—at the end or forming an L-shape. (The Indians, however, piled up their rooms in stacks.) Several families sometimes banded together to build their houses around a square, thus creating small, fortified communities, but only the very rich had a house built around a central patio. Frequently, rooms in the houses were not interconnected and could be entered only from the outside. It presented problems to cut out lots of doorways in the thick, adobe walls.

Houses were normally one story high. Anything higher than two or three stories required walls so thick that it was considered largely unfeasible. The fact that the (continued on page 91)

"Bellissimo" from Sears.

Sears went all the way to Italy for these treasures. There, deep in the hills of Tuscany, tapestry weaving is still a living art.

On the looms of today, expert craftsmen recreate the sumptuous look of 15th century fabrics. So we asked them to weave for us—and for you—the most beautiful bedspreads in the world. And they did. Sears imported "Bellissimo" bedspreads.

You choose from six exquisite designs, eighteen vibrant colors. Glorious golds. Rich Renaissance reds. Breathtaking mosaics of blue and green. Thick, luxurious spreads that make a room glow with color. In every size, even queen and king. All available at most Sears, Roebuck and Co. stores, and through the catalog. Bellissimo!

ALL ABOUT DECORATING Edited by Vera D. Hahn

NEW MEXICAN GADFLY: JOHN CONRON

This three-career man both creates and conserves.

So many people live in New Mexico by choice and not by chance that enthusiasm is one of the state's most appealing natural resources. One of this happy breed of New Mexicans by adoption is John Conron, A.I.D., A.I.A. Those initials after his name stand for two prestigious organizations: The American Institute of Interior Designers and the New Mexico Society of The American Institute of Architects whose publication, New Mexico Architecture, he edits.

Unlike many who have discovered their earthly paradise and are content just to sit and enjoy it, John Conron is a perennial gadfly, critically and creatively involved in making New Mexico an even better place to live. He is actively engaged in the practice of interior design and of architecture (he studied at Yale), a far too rare combination, in our opinion. John Conron also runs a retail store. Since coming to Santa Fe in 1952 from his native Boston, he has founded The Centerline, Inc. He and partner David Lent describe the shop as a "contemporary general store for home furnishings." Design Research—the Cambridge, New York and San Francisco complex founded by architect Benjamin Thompson—was their inspiration and model. "The store was established to give us additional income while we were getting started and because it is one way of educating potential clients," says Conron. "There is no great design either in architecture or in interiors without an informed client."

Design shows are one way in which Centerline educates its customers. Most successful of these have been exhibits of Mexican folk art, Baffin Island Eskimo art, Rya rugs, prints and posters. "Actually the whole store is an educational experience because it exposes people to things and objects with which they may not be familiar," Conron explains.

Much Centerline merchandise is imported directly from Europe, especially from Scandinavia, which gives the owners a good excuse to travel. Although John Conron is essentially a modern designer, preservation and restoration are among his major interests. "History," he said recently, "is most vital when it points to new directions for investigation and growth. We need to create a new and continuing heritage. Let's take care of what we've got and go on from there."

Such interest in the preservation of New Mexico's Spanish inheritance led him to become a founding member and vice-president of Las Trampas Foundation. Las Trampas (the Traps) is a tiny village in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains between Santa Fe and Taos that was slowly decaying until the Foundation took up its cause. To date the church has been completely restored, in part by the men and women of the village.

"Although Indians and Indian cultures are the strongest visual impact here in northern New Mexico," Conron points out, "we are actually dealing with a triple culture. In addition to Indian, we have Hispanic and so-called Anglo."

"The Indians were here first, but the Spanish influence is strong and well established. It is this cultural mix that accounts for the creative vitality of the area. The romance is still here. It's one of the reasons for living here."

Centerline, Conron's contemporary "general store," purveys home furnishings from a remodeled building on Santa Fe's Lincoln Ave., a main shopping street.

The works. Anything works as long as it has that magic word "work" in its name. Examples? Woolworks, one of New York's most successful needlework shops; patchwork, the Ford fabric of the year; Glassworks, an exhibition of art objects of reinforced Fiberglas finished to look like wood, porcelain, etc., at Owens Corning, New York. In the works at Fieldcrest is Printwork, a patchwork design in surefire red, white and blue and also in other color combinations such as blue/green or gold/black. Included in the moderately priced bed and bath collection are quilted bedspreads ($30 for the twin size), sheets, pillowcases and cotton blankets ($6), fringed towels ($2.75 for the bath size) and an opaque vinyl shower curtain ($8).

Completely new concept. Now you can have a floor covering that combines the resiliency and the acoustical properties of conventional carpeting with the ease-of-care of smooth surface flooring. The name is Vinyl-Weve, the manufacturer is the E.W. Twitchell Department of the Borg-Warner Corporation. It took them two years of experimentation before they could come up with this tightly woven vinyl rug. The face is loomed of special nylon-reinforced vinyl yarn. The backing, a heavy-duty vinyl cushion, is permanently bonded to it. In appearance Vinyl-Weve looks a little like Japanese (tatami) matting. It will retail for approximately $11 a square yard installed. According to a company spokesman, Vinyl-Weve is tough enough for use in supermarkets, boats, schools, airports and other hard-wear areas. In the home it will perform in above- and below-grade basements as well as in kitchens and bathrooms. It is said to air-dry in thirty minutes and can be cleaned by damp mopping. Installation must be done through specially trained experts for best results.

Need no tape. Foam-backed carpet tiles by Armstrong Cork Company can be taken right from the box and put down on the floor. No tape is needed to hold them down and there is nothing to peel off the back. Handy-stik tiles come 12 inches square and are available in plain or patterned designs. Patterned tiles retail for about 79 cents, the plain ones are 69 cents apiece.

Plexiglas. Rohm and Haas, makers of Plexiglas, the thirty-year-old glamour girl of the plastics field, are marketing sheets of clear Plexiglas through a nationwide network of 5000 glass, paint, wallpaper and building-supply dealers and hardware stores. Sheets in three thicknesses and in sizes ranging from 18 by 24 inches to 36 by 48 inches will be stocked by these dealers. Depending upon thickness, the retail price per square foot is about $1.60 to $2.50. Colored, about ten percent more expensive than the clear, and patterned Plexiglas may be special ordered.

Super egg. For instant status, we recommend an ostrich egg. Popular during the Renaissance, when goldsmiths turned them into precious bibelots, ostrich eggs made a comeback during the Victorian era. Today ostrich eggs, imported from South Africa, can be bought at Hunting World in New York City for $12.95. They are about six inches high and five inches around the middle. Stand a pair on your mantel.

Tabletop fashion. The same smashing patterns and colors that blanket the pages of fashion magazines are headed for the dining table, once the bastion of staid florals and white with gold. Plates, cups and saucers now flaunt the gypsy look of Spanish shawls, peasant flowers and folksy birds in red, yellow and royal blue, or red with purple paisleys. Iroquois Dining Plus has added Bandeau, a paisley; Ceramar presents Acapulco, based on Mexican folk art; Rockville International Inc., has Gypsy pattern in Heinrich China.

The layered look, another fashion theme, is interpreted with stacking mix-and-match dinnerware in solid colors and patterns to make table setting much more fun. Layer your table one way for lunch, another for dinner. Oneida's Gourmetware in bright red, yellow, blue or white melamine can be shuffled for a number of combinations. Corning's Centura solid-color cups and bowls in lemon and pumpkin coordinate with their new Summerhill design; all mix with their basic white service.

Franciscan's new cup, in black or white banded with platinum, can be used with either of their black-and-white patterns—Platinum Renaissance and Moon Glow. Coal black sparked with metallic shine is giving fine china modern sophistication. Black Marquesa from Syracuse, Block's Orbit and the new Bone China from Mikasa all combine black with platinum or gold. The blacks range from glossy to deep charcoal mat finish. Patterns are Spanish grille or geometrics.

Douching vs. Norforms

(Once you make the comparison, there's no comparison.)

9:04

You decide to douche to stop embarrassing feminine odor.

9:04

You decide to use Norforms[®] instead.

9:05

You collect all that douching equipment from its hiding place. (Remember, later you'll have to hide it all over again.)

9:05

You insert one tiny Norforms. (Wasn't that much easier than douching?) And Norforms are the germicidal suppositories that stop odor in a way no douche can.

9:06

You begin mixing and measuring. (Oops—you just spilled some.)

9:06

Doctor-tested Norforms begin spreading a powerful germicidal film that stops odor where it starts—internally. Yet they are so gentle, you can use them whenever necessary. Just follow the easy directions.

9:10

You begin douching.

9:10

You know you'll feel clean, fresh, odor-free for hours with Norforms.

DECORATING CLINIC

QUESTION: Our living room draperies have gone to the dry cleaner for the first time and have come back looking much lighter. What happened?

ANSWER: Your draperies were pigment printed and dry cleaning may have dissolved some of the color. You should have read the label which said "Wash—Do NOT dry-clean."

QUESTION: We have a flocked wallpaper in our dining room. How do I clean it?

ANSWER: Treat your flocked wall covering as gently as possible with the soft-brush attachment of your vacuum cleaner. Dirt or dust that cannot be readily removed this way can be sponged off with clean, clear water.

QUESTION: You have shown more and more plastic furniture. Will this material be affected by weather like wood is? Will it turn brittle like plastic dishes?

ANSWER: Plastics are unaffected by humidity, so they will not warp. Plastic furniture, provided it is molded of high impact polystyrene, rigid urethane or polyester, properly finished and used under normal home conditions should not turn brittle. The dishes you refer to are most likely made of a melamine-type plastic (which is the proper material for dishes but not for furniture) and have been exposed to hundreds of heat cycles in a dishwasher.

QUESTION: One end of our living room has an awkward niche that is four feet long but only 12 inches deep. Furniture can't fit here. Any ideas?

ANSWER: Line the back wall of the niche with self-sticking mirror squares. Install a marble shelf on metal brackets at table height—28 or 29 inches from the floor. Use it for bottles, ice and glasses when you entertain.

QUESTION: The only place for our new king-size bed is between a window and a French door on the long wall of our bedroom. What can I do to make a more attractive background for the bed?

ANSWER: Matching fabric and wallpaper will do the trick. Pick a strong geometric or highly stylized floral in navy, chocolate or emerald on white. Paper the wall behind the bed, then use the matching fabric for tieback draperies at the door and window and for a quilted bedspread.

QUESTION: My living room always looks faded and sort of droopy. Have you any suggestions for bringing it to life? Walls are beige, so is the carpeting; sofa is done in gold, two chairs in a brown and beige tweed.

ANSWER: Contrast will give your room the oomph it lacks. Slipcover the sofa in oatmeal canvas, the chairs in eggplant and use chrome yellow and pale raspberry for accents in lamps and pillows.

Letters submitted to Decorating Clinic will be selected for an answer on the basis of their general interest. We are unable to send any personal replies.

AMAZING TIME MACHINE

Push this button.
Wait 15 minutes.
Go back 10 years.

Go back to your very own hair color...10 years younger.

If man can go to the moon, why can't woman have a push-button hair color? Now she can. With new Magic Moment™. By Toni. It's the very first push-button, foam-in hair color. One-step hair color. There's nothing to add. Nothing to mix. Just push the button. And foam colors your hair. Foam that doesn't drip!

Magic Moment wasn't created to change your hair color, but to give you back the color you had 10 years ago. In 15 minutes. Your color minus the gray. Plus all the depth it had before time began to fade it. And it lasts. Won't wash out.

Let man have the moon. You have the Time Machine. New Magic Moment, by Toni.

Just choose the color that used to be yours. Push the button. And get it back again.

WHO PAYS THE BILL WHEN YOUR APPLIANCE BREAKS

DOWN? You—unless your purchase is backed by a guarantee or warranty.

Guarantee, warranty—what's the difference? None at all. The former is used more often than the latter, perhaps because it is interchangeable as both a noun and a verb. But both assure you that the manufacturer or retailer (if the appliance is a store's own brand) is going to stand behind his product. If any defect appears or any breakdown occurs as a result of normal use, he will back up the product by replacing it, repairing it or giving you your money back.

Such proofs of good faith make merchandise that much more attractive to buy. If a manufacturer or retailer were not pretty sure that his merchandise was as described, he would not promise to make good on your purchase. If by chance the product is not up to snuff, he is very anxious to solve the problem and make you happy.

There is usually a time limit for a guarantee and you may or may not be required to register ownership of your appliance. If there is a registration card (often it is a computer-punched, oblong card found at the bottom of the box) you must send it in within a specified period after purchase or upon receiving it if it is a gift. Theoretically, this is the only way that the manufacturer knows that you own his product and how long he is obliged to service the appliance. Fill out the card and mail it in promptly.

If you found no such card in the item's box, call the store where it came from to ask if you need to register your purchase. Some guarantors will honor a claim if it fits their guarantee terms even without the registration card.

Most people who guarantee their products just use these cards to record data on who buys what. Some manufacturers and retailers have kept using the cards just because their customers are familiar with them. You have no way of knowing whether the cards are a marketing survey or an actual registration. Don't take a chance; send in the card.

conceal the age of the product. The purchase date can be traced. The store which sold you the guaranteed product has the correct date of sale. Besides, most merchandise is code-dated when it comes off the production line.

A dealer or repair shop can tell what year your appliance was made by looking at it. If he does not know immediately, his buying manuals will tell him.

The appliance industry, individual manufacturers, retailers and the federal government have worked very hard in the last year or so to eliminate the red tape and cut the legal jargon of guarantees. Today, many guarantees are just a simple letter of explanation. Corning Glass Works was the first to say it short and sweet: [They] promise to replace any of [their] Corning Ware products that ever break from temperature extremes when the pieces are returned to one of [their] authorized dealers. For [their electrical appliances], any imperfect mechanical or electrical part will be replaced free within one year from date of the purchase. Now, other manufacturers are broadening their guarantees and using simple language to explain them.

Any guarantee should list the length of time during which the entire appliance, the replacement parts and the service labor are covered and who is responsible for each coverage—the manufacturer, the dealer, the distributor or you. For your own protection, record who will do what for you so that you find no unpleasant surprises later. Here are some helpful questions you might want to use:

Who does the replacement—an authorized repair service or the factory?

Who pays the postage to the factory?

Will the retailer ship the item for you?

Is the guarantee prorated? (Prorated means the owner and guarantor share repair costs calculated on the purchase or list price. The customer pays a larger part of the cost the longer he owns the item.)

Are the prorated repairs calculated on list price or on the actual amount the customer paid? This is often quite different. If the list price is higher than what you paid, the price of repairs will be more.

Federal Trade Commission guidelines adopted in 1960 indicate that every term of a guarantee should be described wherever the word guarantee is mentioned—on the package, in the instruction booklet, on the item, in the advertising. No longer should anyone claim "satisfaction guaranteed," "unconditionally guaranteed," "fully guaranteed," without stating everything you need to know clearly and conspicuously. The Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers, the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association and the National Better Business Bureau all endorse these guidelines.

It is worthwhile to read the fine print. Some manufacturers are very specific about what maintenance procedures they require of you before honoring the guarantee. For example, you must clean the lint trap of some clothes dryers in order to prevent a possible fire hazard. It also is unfair to overload a blender or mixer motor with especially sticky, heavy mixtures. You will have a hard time getting free repairs or replacements if you have abused the appliance. And very few companies will pay for repairs or parts if the product has been tinkered with by a do-it-yourselfer. You should not expect it.

Although guarantees do vary from one manufacturer or retailer to another, some typical limits for guarantees are: most portable appliances (continued on page 100)

It blacks-out light, blocks-out cold drafts, and hot waves, and blanks out sound.

There really is such a thing as a light-proof, thermal, acoustical drapery?

There really is. Read closely.

A thin layer of black acrylic hidden between drapery fabric and backing makes it completely lightproof. Neither moon nor a searchlight can get through.

A marshmallow-white acrylic backing helps maintain room temperature by stopping cold or heat that seeps through window. It also softens sound.

All the room-side of the drapery does look helplessly beautiful. It's Avisco® rayon and cotton woven into jacquard and homespun designs—in just about every current and classic color.

Are you still with us? It also machine-washes, tumble dries, needs no ironing.

A single-width, floor-to-ceiling length is about $13 to $16, which may be less than what you spend on sleeping masks, earplugs, extra blankets.

AN AMERICAN TREASURY OF
SOUTHWEST LIVING

The Great Southwest embraces most of what was once considered the Wild Wild West as well as the Great American Desert. It is a land of monumental national parks and terrain known nowhere else in the nation. It is a land where three cultures—Indian, Spanish and "Anglo " or English-speaking—mingled to evolve a distinctive style.

Nowhere is this style more dramatically evidenced than in New Mexico. We begin here with what could be called a contemporary adaptation of pueblo living and follow with four adobe houses of various periods. Artfully remodeled and redecorated, they lose none of their flavor for today's new New Mexicans. Also examined are Indian influences in city decorating, the Indian impact on arts and crafts and the food of the region. And to urge you to see it all for yourself, a family vacation in New Mexico is previewed. We hope you enjoy the tour.

Young families, like this mother and son, enjoy the adobe-walled gardens of La Luz (see next pages), a unique desert community.

Built last year outside Albuquerque, this group of houses called La Luz

When living in nature's light show, dusk and daylight are events to

La Luz combines two familiar elements, adobe construction and attached housing, into a new entity. The material is used faithfully. The adobe bricks are produced less than a mile away, no fake beams are stuck in the walls nor is stucco simply daubed over ordinary construction. Yet modern features like wide windows and one-and-one-half-story living rooms make for living geared to today. The 20-odd houses there now, priced from $30,000 to $46,000, are clustered to save land for recreation. In the middle is a paved plaza with a bubbling fountain—the start of what will eventually be a mile and a half of plazas be savored in the clarity of the (as yet) unpolluted desert atmosphere.

Patio flooring (right) is the same local paving brick used inside the houses. Sealer eliminates special indoor care.

Connecting some 300 houses in a satellite town with shops, apartments, recreation areas and offices. In time, the city will spread to embrace the 500 acres of La Luz. But growth will not spoil the special environment, since each house is planned with two walled patios and placed so that no subsequent one can spoil its view. At twilight, the illuminated windows of three single-family dwellings (below) spread a soft glow over this little street in the desert. Nobody can peer in over the garden walls so draperies are not necessary. From inside, the lights of downtown Albuquerque can be seen glittering six miles away.

The irregular, five-sided sunken living room angles out to capture the view without exposing the occupants. Room's odd shape merely makes furniture arranging more interesting. Entrance garden and patio are just outside. Large wall hanging is by the nearby Del Sol weavers, narrow one is an old Indian sash. Rug is Mexican.

Pool dressing rooms, with sod roofs, are situated to protect area from harsh Western winds. Adobe enclosure traps sun.

Almost in the Zane Grey purple sage tradition, Bob Traxler, a resident, rides across the mesa where horses graze in freedom.

Architect Tony Predock (above right) enjoys tennis on La Luz's own court. He also designed freeform play sculpture at top.

The smallest details, down to the lettering on the pool dressing rooms and numbering on the mailboxes, are well done.

The design of La Luz involves a basic attitude toward the land. For people to prosper, it must be saved.

By Marcia Spires

La Luz is the remarkable first effort of three young people who lamented the fact that there was little variety or originality of design in Albuquerque and that, given the natural habit of cities to take the easiest way of solving planning problems (which is not to plan), the land and opportunity to build a unique desert life would soon dribble away. Ray Graham III and Didier Raven, the originators of the project, and Antoine Predock, the architect, all nonnatives who settled there some years ago, decided to do something about it. They assembled 500 acres of once-farmed land along the Rio Grande River. It includes an amazing range of topography.

Along the river is a green belt (or bosque) of salt cedar and cottonwood trees where beaver and waterfowl abound. Above that is a semiarid mesa with many varieties of desert plants. Above this is higher ground with a view for miles in all directions. The site will be heavily built on, but by concentrating buildings instead of spreading them out, 200 acres will be left open for recreation and community use. The buildings will enhance, not despoil, the land.

The architect's overriding concern was to work with the land and the climate, rather than against it. The blank walls of the houses face west, where harsh sun and strong winds originate. Their east sides are mainly glass, to get the view of the river valley. Adobe was used because it is the tradition of the area and can take contemporary interpretation without compromising its spirit. Mostly, though, it is feasible. Its malleability is a joy to design for and its insulating powers keep heat out during the day but retain it for the cool nights. Because adobe is made of the earth itself, man has the happy, full feeling of well-being, of living in and with nature.

This group of houses is the nucleus of a community expected to grow to a population of more than 5000 in 15 to 20 years. Existing natural patterns of the land will be reinforced, not eliminated. The 13 houses shown in drawing above are now occupied. Several more have just been completed. As others are built, they will be put farther down the sloping land so everyone can still see the view that makes living in the desert vastness so worthwhile.

The Larry Franks' morada sits on a breezy hillside above the village of Arroyo Hondo near Taos.

By Vera D. Hahn

Moradas are found mainly in New Mexico. These community houses once rang with the ceremonial rites of the Penitentes, lay brotherhoods who conducted the spiritual affairs of outlying areas. Now they usually exist only as silent reminders of religious fervor. One, currently lived in by a lively family of five, is shown here. Says Lawrence P. Frank Jr., moviemaker and collector of primitive art, "The description was so irresistible, we bought it sight unseen." The Franks have added modern facilities and a children's wing to their 1852 morada, but left the main portion virtually intact. The primitive quality of its interior completely suits their superb collections of santos and Indian artifacts. Low doors with high sills (a good draft deterrent), small windows set deep into the massive walls and corner fireplaces are all part of the original structure. Underneath is a pre-Pueblo Indian pit house that gives the Franks archaeology field trips at home.

LIVELY LIVING IN A SANCTUARY

Magnificent collection of Indian pots, used for grain and water storage originally, is displayed on crude wooden shelves in the Franks' kitchen. At right is a New Mexican trastero (cupboard).

When the Franks' house near Taos was a morada (community house for a Spanish-American penitential sect), their bedroom was the kitchen. This accounts for the large fireplace that warms young Melissa and Ross. Hanging incense burner on wall, pine desk and chest near window and brass bed are all local antiques. Unusual blue-on-blue hand-woven spread is from Kentucky. Frank ingenuity: cords to close their shutters without opening windows.

The Franks' extensive collection of santos, including both bultos (carved and painted figures of saints) and retablos (painted wooden plaques) is fittingly exhibited in the morada's former common room, now the family living room. Its proportions, like those in all adobe structures, are long and narrow; width depended on the length of vigas (ceiling beams), which rarely exceeded 18 feet. Thirty-inch-thick walls are done in tierra blanca, whitewash applied with sheepskin pads.

Indian, Spanish and New England furnishings combine compatibly in Mrs. Wagner's large living room (right). Vegetable-dyed Navajo rugs came from the Wagner trading post in Arizona. The chair and dry sink are heirlooms. A Spanish wooden grille screens the wall niche.

The beauty of this adobe house (far left) lies in the handmade quality of its gentle contours and the subtle, peach-colored finish. Blue-painted window trim is in the Hispanic folk tradition.

Niches come in all shapes and sizes. In the bedroom hall (left) roost pottery owls of many sizes, one from each pueblo in New Mexico.

THE STRENGTH AND BEAUTY OF SANTA FE STYLE

Mrs. Sallie Wagner's Santa Fe style adobe home combines three design elements familiar to the Southwest: Indian, Spanish Colonial and American. It was built back in 1929 by Katherine Stinson Otero, a talented, self-taught designer. And like many Santa Fe houses of that period, this one resembles a complex of larger and smaller buildings—a compound that rambles up and down the hill. Mrs. Wagner, who spent several years as a trader on a Navajo reservation in Arizona, is steeped in Indian lore and has collected their crafts with a knowing eye. In harmony with the style of her house, her furnishings also show the best design of three worlds.

A discerning eye and a love of the locale give this adobe its special flavor.

Highly stylized pottery owl, one of a collection, perches in a half-round niche (top).

Sallie Wagner welcomes guests to her dining room (above). Her colorfully tied skirt is an example of how the Navajo women once interpreted period Anglo fashions. Pueblo and Navajo blankets and Hopi sashes are hung from poles at entrance.

Navajo silver belts and a necklace decorate the side of a trastero (cupboard) in Mrs. Wagner's bedroom (right). Indian jewelry is another facet of her discriminating collecting. Belts were made between 1885 and 1950.

The guest room is furnished with a pair of hand-carved Santa Fe pine beds that have a rustic, Victorian charm. Navajo rugs, chemically dyed in brilliant colors and quilts (one came in a missionary barrel, the other was made by Mrs. Wagner's great grandmother) create a contemporary pattern-on-pattern look. Navajo-rug motifs inspired curtain appliques.

DECORATING IN THE ADOBE MOOD

Here's another Santa Fe adobe house, but of an earlier vintage. Built in the 1870s, it was discovered by Mrs. Lois Field when she moved from Philadelphia to New Mexico in 1929, and she has been remodeling it ever since with delightfully personal results.

Some of the effects are decidedly grand, like the superb ceiling and unusual fireplace in the room at right, center. But the rest of the house makes a more rough-hewn background for Mrs. Field's cosmopolitan belongings. Although the overall mood is eclectic, essentially this house could not be anywhere else but in Santa Fe. As the room opposite so vividly illustrates, it's the distinctive three-culture mix that gives New Mexico decorating its character.

Sitting room corner (opposite) contrasts the bold graphics of Navajo weaving, collections of santos and kachina dolls with soft curves of furniture. Victorian-style daybed is of local manufacture.

In Mrs. Field's sitting room (above, left and opposite) Victorian, New Mexican and Indian furnishings are intermingled with verve. Predominant against the whitewashed walls are many shades of softly muted rosy pinks.

Hooded fireplace with bench (left) in living room was presented to Mrs. Field—and installed—by a local wood-carver who wanted to see one more old-style Spanish fireplace in Santa Fe. Now rare, works like this one may start a trend in new replicas.

A photograph of a house interior. On the left, a rough-hewn brick wall is visible. In the center, a white wall serves as a backdrop. To the right, a dramatic staircase with dark, cantilevered steps leads upwards. In the foreground, a dark, textured surface, possibly a fireplace or a table, is covered with a grid of dark bricks. On the left side of this surface, there is a small, dark, rounded object and a vase containing several tall, thin, dried plant stalks. The lighting is soft, creating a warm and modern atmosphere.

When the Allen McNowns of Nambe, New Mexico, started to burst the seams of their 120-year-old adobe, they could have taken the easy way out by adding a new wing at right angles to the old house or they could have pushed out the walls in back. But because Allen McNown is an architect, he sought a more imaginative solution. The old house was left almost untouched and around it was wrapped a new single-story, 16-foot-high addition of asphalt-stabilized adobe brick. Just visualize a giant snail shell attached to a small, square box. The old and new structures join in the entrance area. As a contrast to the conventional rooms in the adobe, the new wing is open, with kitchen, dining room and living room radiating out from the central fireplace (see plan, page 102). Since Mrs. McNown is a busy pediatrician and there are two children in the family (that's Sari at the organ), materials are rugged and need little care.

TWO HOUSES THAT WORK AS ONE

The McNowns' house at Nambe, New Mexico, is really two: a 1967 wing curled around an 1850 adobe. Rear of the old house (white wall in background) and later addition meet in the entrance area. Dramatic, cantilevered staircase leads to old section. Adobe brick wall (right) curves around back of fireplace—core of the new house.

While Sari McNown sets the table Mark helps his father tend the fire (opposite). Dining room furniture came from an old Fred Harvey Hotel at Gallup. Floorboards were cut from aged bridge timbers. Ceiling is a latter-day version of the indigenous beam construction.

Fireplace, with its curved banco and graceful white cement hood (above), is a favorite place for predinner drinks. The rounded wall of asphalt-stabilized adobe bricks, made nearby and set in asphalt-waterproofed cement, extends towerlike right through the roof.

Natural materials and dark colors, handled in a massively masculine way, give this no-nonsense kitchen (below) in the McNown home immense style. Custom cabinets have hand-scrubbed walnut panels set in solid-oak frames that are stained almost black. The floor and counter tiles are of handmade vitrified clay. Chandelier was salvaged from an old church in Nambe. Rug here is Navajo.

INDIAN SAVOR, SOUTHWEST TANG

The food of today's Southwest Indian is varied and colorful, hearty and well-seasoned and a blend of many tastes. There are touches of the Spanish, Mexican and modern America, as in the characteristic dishes shown. In foreground is a basket with salad ingredients, a relatively new addition to the Indian diet. In the middle, at left, are Pine Nut Cakes, made from nuts that grow abundantly in New Mexico. These are eaten hot with stew or cold with Peach Honey (center). Green Peppers and Kidney Beans combine two favorite vegetables. At top are Adobe Bread, a coarse, light loaf, and Stuffed Red Peppers. Recipes are on page 74.

Remember the layer cake your mother made, with icing so good you begged to lick the spoon?
Pepperidge Farm® remembers.

Of course, you ruined your appetite for dinner, but who cared? That heavenly taste of icing was worth it.

And somehow, you'd manage to get down enough of the evening's lamb chop and peas to deserve a solid wedge of cake itself. The icing would be just as good, second time around. And the fluffy-light cake would be even better.

Remember?

Pepperidge Farm® remembers. We still make that kind of cake. Three layers high, and iced all around, of course. And we freeze it fast, so you can keep it fresh at home.

For children of all ages, we make a cake to suit every taste: Vanilla, Golden, Chocolate Fudge, Devil's Food and Coconut. They're all cakes like your mother made, and you remember how good they were.

Come to think of it, you had better wait until after dinner for your Pepperidge Farm Layer Cake, or you'll spoil your appetite.

AVOCADO SALAD

Salads were not a main part of the Indian diet in the Southwest. However, today they have become part of the menu, with each one having a special Indian touch.

Lettuce

- 2 ripe avocados, peeled and sliced lengthwise
- 2 firm tomatoes, cut into wedges
- ½ cup sliced radishes
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- ¼ teaspoon chili powder
- ½ clove of garlic, finely minced
- ½ teaspoon crushed coriander seed
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground pepper
- 2 tablespoons toasted pine nuts*

Line a salad bowl with lettuce leaves. Toss avocado, tomato and radishes together; place in lettuce-lined bowl. Combine lemon juice, chili powder, garlic, coriander, salt and pepper in small bowl. Mix well. Pour over salad. Garnish with pine nuts. Makes 6 servings.

*To toast nuts: Heat gently in small skillet over low heat until golden brown. Stir frequently.

ADOBE BREAD

This is a hard-crusted, coarse light loaf that the Indians bake in beehive-shaped ovens. It has been one of their staples since the Spaniards introduced wheat into the Southwest.

- 1 package active dry yeast
- ¼ cup warm water
- 2 tablespoons melted lard or shortening, cooled to lukewarm
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¾ to 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 cup warm water

Dissolve yeast in ¼ cup warm water in large mixing bowl. Stir in lard or shortening and salt. Add flour alternately with 1 cup water, sifting in the flour a little at a time and beating well after each addition. Knead in last cup of flour gently, until dough is quite stiff. Shape into a ball. Place in greased bowl; cover with dry cloth. Set in warm place (85°) for 1 hour or until dough is doubled in bulk. Punch down dough. Divide into two equal parts. Shape into round, flat circles, about 7 inches in diameter. Place 1 cookie sheet on top of another to prevent bottom of bread from burning. Grease top cookie sheet. Place circles of dough on greased cookie sheet; cover with clean towel. Set in warm place 30 minutes. Bake at 400° for 50 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool. Cut into wedges or break into pieces for serving. Makes 2 loaves.

STUFFED RED PEPPERS

Lamb, a meat used most frequently by the Indians, combines with peppers for a hearty main dish.

- 6 large sweet red peppers
- 2 tablespoons pure vegetable oil
- 1 cup minced onion (1 large)
- ½ pound mushrooms, finely chopped
- 2 cloves of garlic, minced
- 1 pound lean ground lamb
- 2 medium-size tomatoes, peeled and chopped
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon leaf marjoram, crumbled
- 1 teaspoon savory, crumbled
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs (2 slices bread)

Wash peppers; cut slice off tops; remove seeds. Drop peppers into boiling water; parboil 3 minutes; drain. Heat oil in large skillet over medium heat. Add onion and mushrooms; cook 3 to 4 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add garlic and lamb. Cook, stirring to crumble meat, until it has lost its pink color. Turn meat mixture into colander to drain off fat. Return to skillet. Add tomatoes, salt, marjoram, savory and pepper. Continue cooking over low heat 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Stir in bread crumbs. Spoon stuffing lightly into peppers. Stand peppers upright, close together, in baking dish. Bake at 350° for 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

GREEN PEPPERS AND KIDNEY BEANS

Here's a medley of vegetables with a distinctive Southwest flavor.

- 6 strips bacon, cut in ½-inch pieces
- 2 green peppers, seeded and diced
- 1 cup minced onion (1 large)
- 2 cloves of garlic, finely minced
- 3 medium-size tomatoes, peeled and diced
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- ¼ teaspoon ground mace
- 2 cans (15 ounces each) kidney beans, drained

Place bacon in large skillet over medium heat. Cook, stirring occasionally, until bacon is almost crisp. Remove ¼ cup bacon pieces with slotted spoon. Reserve. Add green peppers and onion to fat and bacon left in skillet. Cook until onion is soft and golden. Add garlic, tomatoes, salt, pepper and mace. Simmer 10 minutes or until peppers are tender. Add beans. Cook 5 minutes. Correct seasoning to taste. Turn into serving dish. Sprinkle with reserved bacon. Makes 6 servings.

CHILI STEW

- 1½ pounds boned shoulder lamb, cut in 1½-inch cubes
- 1 tablespoon flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons pure vegetable oil
- 3 dried juniper berries, crushed
- 1 cup coarsely chopped onion (1 medium)
- ¼ cup minced parsley
- 1 clove of garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon leaf oregano, crumbled
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon crushed dried red pepper
- 1 can (1 pound 4 ounces) hominy, including liquid
- 3 green peppers, cut in strips

Dust lamb cubes with flour, ½ teaspoon salt and pepper. Heat oil in Dutch oven or heavy kettle. Brown meat on all sides over high heat. Add juniper berries to meat while it cooks. Remove meat from kettle; drain on paper towels. Reduce heat. Sauté onion in fat remaining in pan until golden. Add meat and rest of ingredients except green peppers. Cover; simmer ¾ hour; add peppers. Simmer ¼ hour or until meat is tender. Stir occasionally. Makes 6 servings.

PINE NUT CAKES

- 2 cups pine nuts
- ¾ cup water
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons pure vegetable oil

Puree nuts in blender or chop fine and roll with a rolling pin to a coarse meal. Mix nuts with water and salt. Allow to stand 1 hour or until mixture forms a stiff batter. Heat oil in heavy skillet. Drop batter from large spoon, shaping into 6 cakes, about ½ inch thick and 3½ inches in diameter. Cook over low heat until cakes are golden brown on both sides and firm in the center. Makes 6 cakes.

PEACH HONEY

- 2½ cups water
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 package (12 ounces) dried peaches

Combine all ingredients in large saucepan. Bring to boiling over high heat; reduce heat; simmer 45 minutes or until peaches are soft. Puree in a blender or food mill. Pour into sterilized jars; seal. Makes 3 half pints.

In arts and crafts emerge the Indian's genius for making things beautiful.

THE SOUTHWEST INDIAN

By Mary Evans

The Indians of the Southwest are our original American Treasury. Their houses are sculpture; their weavings, abstract tapestries; their pots and baskets, masterpieces of design and decoration. Perhaps because of their isolation in the harsh, beautiful desert, or because of some inner resilience and faith of their own, they have kept their astounding creativity despite all their trials. Every disruption in the pattern of their lives—from the Spaniards of the 16th century and the Americans in the 19th—has reflected a pattern of adaptation. The Indians are, as we should all hope to be, a people developing, whose gifts are of both the hand and the spirit.

That so many things the Indians make are beautiful is no accident. Their baskets have the classic symmetry of Greek vases and, woven into winnowing trays are accents in desert colors to turn a tiresome task into a delight of flickering patterns. Pots of superb shape, sometimes of Ali Baba size, are traced with designs of sunlike vitality. The Southwest is a land of brilliant air, intense colors, vast views of islands of mesas. It is a land that does not give anything lightly to man except beauty. The Indians of the Southwest have always had to struggle and plan to survive but the aesthetic was always around them.

The Navajo, a people who have wandered much in their long and nomadic history, have many chants and songs, some of which end with this refrain of wonder:

"House made of dawn . . .

May it be beautiful before me.

May it be beautiful behind me.

May it be beautiful below me.

May it be beautiful all around me.

In beauty it is finished."

And in beauty it is begun. Though there are many differences from tribe to tribe and even from village to village, certain things can be said about the religion of the Southwest Indians. Many adhere both to Christianity and to their own ancient faiths. Their own religion is not unlike that of the ancient Greeks, of the Druids, of the Japanese Shinto: the sun and moon, the stream and the trees, the corn and the snakes—all have divinity. And nature is sacred. Nature affects man, man affects nature. If man does ill, then the order of nature is destroyed and there will be suffering. This view of the world carries with it happiness and responsibility toward one another, as well as a fierce sense of being close to the creative pulse of nature. The Indian expresses this intense feeling for life through his dances and rituals and through his arts and crafts.

Everything the Indian uses or even makes in his home cannot help but be important to him. His home is a very special place. The Navajo hogan, for instance, which appears to us like a cabin of earth and logs about twenty-five feet in diameter (roomy inside and very neatly kept with a place for everyone and everything), is at times also a religious temple. The Pueblo Indians live in dwellings that have been inhabited constantly since the days of the Crusades; their civilization (which they are reluctant to reveal to outsiders completely) goes back almost further than one dare imagine.

It is fair enough to feel badly about the Indians because they have been so wronged, but it is far better to look with appreciation at what they have to show us. The Indian, for instance, has always practiced conservation. He takes care of the forest and the streams. Before he hunts, he prays to the deer and asks the animal's understanding, a ritual which would certainly keep the hunter from killing more than was absolutely necessary for survival. The Indian also believes that if he feels ill it is because he has done something wrong or thought of bad (continued) self. Or rather, to please herself, since most crafts are made by women. The inspiration of the design may be nature—the sun, or an animal—or it might be abstract. At any rate, it probably doesn't have any symbolic significance unless one of purely private meaning. It simply looks pretty to the maker. A woman might say a design is a leaf or a mountain or an arrowhead, but she merely means to describe the shape.

Furthermore, in the course of time certain tribes developed specialties. The Pueblo Indians (where the men do the weaving) are noted for baskets and pottery, the Navajo women for weaving and the men for silversmithing. The Apache and the Hopi and the Pima also make fine baskets. The tribes trade and sell to each other, thus influencing each other's taste. Nowadays, gifted artists become famed by name. Perhaps in the past every Pueblo woman made pots, every Navajo woman wove; now that is not so, but there is still beautiful work being done, with constant innovations.

Which brings up another point: Indian arts and crafts have such a distinctive look that it is easy to think their designs are very old, very traditional. This is often not so. There is, to be sure, much conformity to what is accepted locally as good but a "tradition" might change very rapidly. Some so-called traditional designs are actually very recent. Though the general style of baskets may date back at least to well before the time of Christ, the design, dyed or woven into the yucca or grass or cattails (the Indians seem to be able to utilize anything in the plant world), may be as new as the maker's most recent thought. And a gifted potter, such as the great Maria Martinez still living at San Ildefonso, makes a kind of polished black ware which has become classic.

Just how adaptive and inventive the Indians are is seen in the remarkable history of Navajo weaving. The Navajo Indians, who seem in the past to have been a nomadic tribe of hunters and raiders, did not have any sheep (nor did anyone else in the Southwest) until the conquistador Coronado arrived in the mid-16th century, looking for the fabled Seven Cities of Gold and (continued) bringing a herd of 5000 sheep. The Spanish first met, and conquered, the Pueblo Indians, who already were wearing very fine cotton textiles and who acquired from the Spaniards sheep and the art of weaving wool. In time the Navajo got both sheep and skill from the Pueblos, perhaps in the 1690s when the Pueblo Indians fled from the Spaniards into Navajo territory. By the end of the 18th century, the Navajo had learned to do better weaving than their Pueblo teachers—and the Spaniards.

Fifty years later, the Navajo were weaving a particularly handsome blanket called the Chief Blanket, because it was very costly when offered for sale or trade. It was used often as a gift to frontier army commanding officers, whose enthusiasm made the Indians realize that they had at hand a very salable item. These blankets were at first stripes or rectangles in black and white. About this time, red cloth called bayeta (baize) began to make its way from England via Spain and Mexico on trade routes into the Southwest. The Indians were so starved for color that they unraveled the thread and used it in their blanket weaving.

Soon American flannel was available to the Indians and then machine-made yarn. Then in 1863 the Navajo were rounded up and sent for five years to Fort Sumner where they learned to weave velveteen and muslin. All this was disruptive enough to their weaving, but then gaudy aniline Germantown dyes came along to disrupt the Indians' sense of color. The Navajo made more rugs and what they made were technically better but aesthetically dreadful.

It seemed as if changes in life and technology had ended the great days of Navajo weaving. But just about this time (1890-1920) traders realized that people liked to toss Indian blankets on the floor as rugs. So the traders encouraged the Indians to make a heavier weave, more suitable for rugs. Some showed the Indians sketches of Persian rugs, or persuaded the Indians to weave figures out of the mythology of their sand paintings. An Indian woman teacher drew up a book of instructions on how to make vegetal dyes from desert plants and materials. It was not until this century that the Navajo were showing figures from their traditional mythology. Now the Indians make almost twenty different recognizable types of rugs.

The hand is the extension of the soul, and the soul of the Indian is indeed as wide as the world.

CROSS-STITCH FOR THE NURSERY

Cross-stitch Birth Record with Humpty Dumpty, Teddy Bear and Country Mouse. Blocks have spaces to print name of child, date of birth, weight. Embroider in outline stitch.

By Dorothy Lambert Brightbill

Make these delightful nursery decorations—they deserve a place in your own home or make unique baby gifts. Any child will have fun being measured on the Grow Chart at left. Done in a bold cross-stitch, the design is stamped on a white piquelike fabric. The tape measure and pennant keep track of every added inch. The chart measures 11 by 36 inches, needs no hemming—all edges have been prefinished with bright green "beauty-edge" stitch. This finish insures a flat surface. The kit includes embroidery thread, pennant, tape measure and hanger.

The Birth Record above has all the favorite nursery animals for you to cross-stitch. Simply print the child's name and necessary data and then embroider all the information in outline stitch. The design is stamped on 100 percent linen. The kit includes embroidery thread. Frames for this and the Child's Prayer are available.

The lovely Child's Prayer, below left, is stamped on 100 percent linen, measures 13¾ by 17 inches. This kit also includes embroidery thread. To order these kits, please see the coupon below.

Puff paste, the crowning achievement and greatest pride of every French pastry chef, can be your triumph too. For years it has been considered the most difficult recipe, but with our new and simplified technique any cook can master it. What is puff paste? It is a many-layered pastry that mysteriously puffs in the oven into a delicate, crisp creation that flakes apart when cut. Its uses are multiple. Napoleons, cream horns, palm leaves, fancy petit fours, turnovers, bouchées (small puff-paste shells known more familiarly as patty shells), vol au vent (a large shell for creamed or sauced meats and seafoods) are all made from puff paste. Follow the steps shown here to make the Vol au Vent at the right. Fill it with shrimp (as pictured), with chicken, ham or sweetbreads. Recipes for these fillings begin on page 88.

COOKING LESSON NO. 23

By Jacques Jaffry

PUFF PASTE

VOL AU VENT

- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups butter or margarine
- ½ cup very cold water
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 tablespoon water

1 Sift flour, baking powder and salt into a large bowl. Add butter or margarine and cut it in with a pastry blender until the mixture resembles cornmeal. Sprinkle on the cold water and stir with a fork until it is all moistened and it clings together. Shape it into a ball—I like to do it with my hands—wrap it and chill 30 minutes.

2 Unwrap the dough and put it on a lightly floured surface. Roll it out to a 10x18-inch rectangle with a lightly floured rolling pin. Every so often, pick the dough up, flour the board lightly and turn the dough over. Dust any tears with flour to repair them.

3 Fold the dough into thirds from the short side, making sure that the edges and corners are even.

4 Turn the dough so one of the open edges faces you. Roll to a rectangle and fold in thirds as before. Wrap and chill 30 minutes. Repeat the two rollings and foldings and chill the dough. Then roll and fold again, six rolls and folds in all. Wrap; chill overnight.

5 When you are ready to use the puff paste, heat the oven to 425° and moisten a cookie sheet with water. Roll dough to a 10x18-inch rectangle. Cut out two 8-inch circles. I find that if I press an 8-inch plate lightly on the dough, I get a perfect circle. Transfer one circle to cookie sheet. Cut a 6-inch circle from second round. Remove and set it aside, leaving a 2-inch rim.

6 Moisten the edge of the circle on the cookie sheet. Pick up the 2-inch rim and set it on the circle. Press it lightly.

7 Score the outside of the shell at ½-inch intervals with a knife. Roll the 6-inch circle to an 8-inch one. This is the cover. Score the top in a diamond pattern with a knife. Put it on the cookie sheet. Brush the top of the shell and the cover with the egg yolk beaten with the tablespoon of water. Don't let it run down inside or outside of shell. Bake 15 minutes; remove the cover from the cookie sheet. Reduce the oven heat to 375° and bake the shell 30 minutes more or until it is puffed and golden brown. Remove it from the oven, pull out any uncooked pastry from the center with a fork and spoon your filling into the shell.

COOKING IN CLAY

This still life involves much more than sheer aesthetics. The down-to-earth elements are clay cookers. And they are reviving a cooking method that's about as ancient and earthy as you can get. Early man, including our own Southwest Indians, once wrapped wild game in wet clay and baked the whole rabbit or bird over an open fire. The heat dried the clay which was then knocked away, leaving all the flavor and natural juices in the food. Clay cookers now produce basically the same results—a succulent cross between roasting and braising. For more information on clay cookers and recipes, turn to page 86.

In clay cookery, the meat does not brown as it would in a roaster, nor does it cook in liquid as in braising. No fats or oils need be added and a minimum of seasoning is required. There is no need to baste or turn food, and meat and vegetables may be cooked together.

Clay pots come unglazed or glazed on the inside. Those that are unglazed must be seasoned before using as the clay is quite brittle. This may be done in one of two ways. Fill the pot with cold water and add a pinch of salt. Place on an asbestos mat or flame disperser over medium heat. Bring to boiling. Let boil 5 minutes. Allow water to cool. Empty and dry before using. Or, the pot may be soaked in a basin of hot water 10 minutes prior to each use. Never use soap on an unglazed pot for cleaning. Wash with clear water and scrub with a stiff brush. Unglazed pots must be lined with parchment paper to prevent cooking liquids from seeping through the bottom. Parchment paper allows the passage of vapors through the pot and you should not substitute foil or wax paper. Glazed pots need not be seasoned or lined.

To obtain pots pictured on page 84: Unglazed oval free-form clay pot (shown open) in foreground available from Bonniers, Inc., 605 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022; $10. Glazed terra-cotta fish from Hammacher Schlemmer, 145 East 57 St., New York, N.Y. 10022; $22.50 plus $1.50 shipping. SPICED ROAST PORK

3-pound loin of pork
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
¼ teaspoon leaf marjoram, crumbled
½ teaspoon ground cumin
3 onions, sliced ¼ inch thick
1 pound boiling potatoes, sliced ¼ inch thick

Heat oven to 400°. Rub garlic over pork. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, marjoram and cumin. Line a clay cooking pot with parchment paper, if unglazed. Place onions and potatoes in bottom of pot. Place pork loin over vegetables. Cover. Cook 2 hours or until well done. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

HERB-ROASTED CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer (about 3 pounds)
1 teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon leaf rosemary, crumbled
½ teaspoon leaf basil, crumbled
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ pound medium-size mushrooms, quartered
12 small white onions, peeled

Heat oven to 400°. Wash and dry chicken. Sprinkle neck and body cavities with garlic salt, rosemary and basil. Truss chicken. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Line a clay cooking pot with parchment paper, if unglazed. Place mushrooms and onions in bottom of cooker. Place chicken over vegetables. Cover. Cook 1 hour and 15 minutes or until juices show no color when chicken is pierced with fork. Makes 4 servings.

BAKED STUFFED BLUEFISH

1 clove of garlic, minced
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
¼ cup packaged bread crumbs
1 tablespoon minced parsley
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground thyme
½ teaspoon pepper
Dash of ground nutmeg
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 whole bluefish (about 3 pounds), dressed
3 slices lemon

Heat oven to 400°. Combine garlic, onion, bread crumbs, parsley, salt, thyme, pepper, nutmeg, and lemon juice in small bowl. Stuff cavity of fish loosely with mixture. Secure cavity together with wooden picks. Place in clay cooking pot that has been lined with parchment paper, if unglazed. Place lemon slices over fish. Cover. Bake 45 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Makes 4 servings.

CLAY-ROASTED POT ROAST

3- to 3½-pound boned, rolled chuck roast
1 clove of garlic, minced
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dried tarragon, crumbled
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
4 tomatoes, quartered
4 onions, quartered

Heat oven to 400°. Trim all fat from meat. Rub meat with garlic and salt. Line a clay cooking pot with parchment paper, if unglazed. Place meat in cooker. Sprinkle with tarragon, pepper and paprika. Cover. Cook 2½ to 3 hours or until meat is tender. Place vegetables in cooker during the last 20 minutes of cooking. Makes 6 servings.

From Rath—the first family of hams. The Rath Packing Company • Waterloo, Iowa

Do something different with your Rath Ham this Easter. Top it off with a tasty sauce of Sun-Maid Raisins.® And serve it garnished with little sauce-filled baskets you carve from whole oranges.

The sauce is easy. But remember, it needs the mellow, woodsy flavor of a genuine slow-smoked-over-hickory Rath Ham to come alive. No ordinary canned ham will do.

Sunshine Sauce: Combine 1 cup Sun-Maid Raisins, 1 cup water, 1 cup orange juice, ½ cup orange marmalade. Bring to boil. Mix 4 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons corn starch, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of cloves. Stir into sauce. Cook and stir until thick. Makes 3 cups of delicious sauce.

ROLLED STUFFED VEAL

3- to 3½ pound boned shoulder of veal
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 clove of garlic, finely minced
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
2 medium-size onions, quartered
4 carrots, pared and cut in 3-inch lengths
Salt
Pepper

Heat oven to 400°. Sprinkle inside of veal roll with ½ teaspoon salt, pepper, garlic and parsley. Roll up tightly along the short side; secure with string. Place onions and carrots in bottom of a clay cooker that has been lined with parchment paper, if unglazed. Place veal roll over vegetables. Sprinkle meat lightly on outside with salt and pepper. Cover. Cook 1 hour and 30 minutes or until juices in meat show no color when meat is pierced with a fork. Makes 6 servings.

VOL AU VENT WITH CHICKEN PAPRIKA

1 broiler-fryer (2½ to 3 pounds)
1 cup chopped onion (1 large)
1 cup sliced, pared carrots
1 cup sliced celery
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon peppercorns
1 bay leaf
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup minced onion (1 large)
1 tablespoon paprika
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup heavy cream
Salt
Pepper
Vol au Vent shell and cover

Place broiler-fryer in saucepan or kettle. Cover with cold water. Bring to boiling. Skim off fat and foam from surface. Add chopped onion, carrots, celery, salt, peppercorns and bay leaf. Simmer 30 minutes or until chicken is tender when tested with a two-tined fork. Remove from broth. Let cool a few minutes or until easy to handle. Reserve broth. Skin chicken; remove meat from bones. Cut into cubes. Reserve. Melt butter or margarine in large skillet over low heat. Add minced onion; cook until pale yellow and soft. Sprinkle with paprika and flour. Mix well. Add 1 cup reserved chicken broth (save remainder to use another time). Bring to boiling, stirring constantly. Add cream. Simmer 5 minutes. Correct seasoning to taste with salt and pepper. Return chicken to sauce. Simmer until chicken is heated through. Spoon into Vol au Vent shell. Put cover on top. Makes 4 servings.

Maybe the Worcestershire Sauce you're using isn't real Worcestershire Sauce.

We invented Worcestershire Sauce back in 1835 in Worcester, England. Unfortunately, we foolishly neglected to copy-right the name. And today there are over a hundred sauces around who call themselves Worcestershire, too. But they're not the same. They're not made the same. So they don't do what we do for your steaks and burgers and other recipes. Because we've never told the whole truth of how we make it.

We go all over the world for you.

We go to the West Indies for sweeter tamarinds. Holland for choicer eschalots. The Cantabrian Sea for livelier anchovies. Venice for snappier garlic. Tanzania for meatier peppers. Zanzibar for spicier cloves. And the Sudan for bitier chilies. No one else does this.

And we blend all these great things naturally and very slowly in huge wooden vats. It takes a long time, but it's worth it for improving the taste and flavor of all kinds of food.

A tablespoon of Lea & Perrins brings out the best in your meat loaf.

Especially meat. And we do a few more special things we're not telling you about. Then somebody else could call himself Worcestershire, and mean it.

Lea & Perrins doesn't blanket the taste. It just brings it out.

It does wonders for your hamburgers, omelets, gravies, soups, beef stew, seafood, pot roast, cocktail sauces.

Write for our free recipe booklet, "100 Ways to Be Original." Lea & Perrins, Fair Lawn, New Jersey 07410.

You'll probably find hundreds more on your own.

You don't taste the Lea & Perrins.
You taste the difference.

VOL AU VENT WITH SWEETBREADS

- 2 pairs of sweetbreads
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 pound small mushrooms, quartered
- 2 tablespoons minced shallots or green onions
- ½ cup dry sherry
- 3 tablespoons tomato paste
- 1 cup chicken broth
- Salt
- Pepper
- Vol au Vent shell and cover

Soak sweetbreads in cold water for 2 hours, changing water several times. Drain. Place in saucepan; cover with cold water; add 1 teaspoon salt. Bring to boiling. Boil gently 5 minutes. Cool under running water. Drain well. Cut off and discard all connective tissue. Cut sweetbreads in ¾-inch cubes. Melt 4 tablespoons butter or margarine in large skillet over medium heat. Sauté sweetbreads until slightly colored. Remove with slotted spoon; reserve. Add remaining 2 tablespoons butter or margarine to skillet. Sauté mushrooms and shallots or green onions 2 minutes. Return sweetbreads to skillet. Add sherry, tomato paste and chicken broth; stir to blend. Bring to boiling over medium heat. Reduce heat; simmer 25 to 30 minutes. Remove from heat. Correct seasoning to taste with salt and pepper. Spoon into Vol au Vent shell. Put cover on top. Makes 4 servings.

VOL AU VENT WITH SHRIMP

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¾ pound medium-size shrimp, shelled and deveined, or 1 package (10 ounces) frozen, shelled and deveined shrimp, thawed
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons minced shallots or green onions
- 1 pound small mushrooms
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- Vol au Vent shell and cover

Heat ¼ cup butter or margarine in a large skillet over medium heat. Add shrimp; sprinkle with ½ teaspoon salt. Sauté 2 minutes or until shrimp are pink on all sides. Remove shrimp from pan with a slotted spoon. Add shallots or green onions and mushrooms to fat left in skillet. Sprinkle with lemon juice and remaining ½ teaspoon salt. Cook 4 to 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Return shrimp to pan; pour in cream. Bring to boiling. Blend melted butter or margarine and flour to make a buerre manie. Stir into sauce. Simmer 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in mustard. Taste and correct seasoning. Spoon into Vol au Vent shell. Put cover on top. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

VOL AU VENT WITH HAM A LA KING

- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 green pepper, seeded and cut in thin strips
- ½ pound mushrooms, thinly sliced
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups light cream
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash of cayenne
- 3 cups diced, cooked ham
- ½ cup pimientos, cut in thin strips
- ¼ cup dry sherry
- Vol au Vent shell and cover

Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in large skillet. Sauté green pepper and mushrooms until tender. Reserve. Melt remaining 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour. Cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add cream, salt and cayenne. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce bubbles. Cook 1 minute more. Remove from heat. Stir in ham, pimientos, green pepper, mushrooms and sherry. Heat through. Correct seasoning to taste. Pour into Vol au Vent shell. Put cover on top. Makes 4 servings.

many-storied pueblos, with comparatively thin walls, are still standing is considered remarkable. The uniform proportions of adobe houses derive from the fact that rooms could be, at most, 18 feet wide. Why? Because that was the length of the logs available for roof beams or vigas.

Houses of adobe had to be designed to accommodate its limitations. The basic elements divided, for purposes of discussion, into mounds, holes, stick-outs and holdups. First the mounds. They were the walls.

To build a strong wall with mud bricks, the wall was often two feet thick, sometimes thicker at the bottom. It was easy to build a little mound in the corner for a fireplace (where the two walls would support it). The floor could be of the same packed earth mixture. And one could make a handy bench along the walls from more mounds of mud bricks. The walls would be plastered with the same mud used for the bricks. Because the work was done by hand, all the surfaces were gently undulating.

Now for the holes. Cutting large holes in the wall for doors and windows weakened it. Hence, doors and windows in Indian pueblos are unbelievably small by today's standards. Besides, glass was scarce. Later buildings, which had larger doors and windows, required heavy wooden headers over them, to hold up the weight of the wall over the window cavity. But it was quite simple to partly hollow out sections of the wall to form handy display niches which eliminated the need for most tables and shelves. You saved on adobe and also on furniture.

In modern buildings with wide glass walls (such as La Luz, on page 51) concrete beams are used over the wide openings to hold the structure firm. In each case it can be called authentic adobe design for the materials are used for what they can do, not because they look like something else. The adobe is still used as adobe, but with modifications permitted by the newer materials.

The stick-outs and holdups should be discussed together, since these wooden pieces held up the roof. And because wood is scarce in the Southwest, what wood there was was used sparingly and in a semirough state. The roof was held up by log beams (vigas), laid across the walls. If they weren't all the same length, the excess was allowed to hang out from the top of the wall on the outside. It was too hard to cut them off with an adz. The other typical stick-out was the canale, a wooden gutter to drain rain off the earth roof. In front, it was common to have a portal or porch. The roof holdups, or supports, were clearly exposed and consisted of a heavy post under a heavy crossbeam carrying the vigas. Between the post and the beam there was usually a carved bracket, known as a zapata.

Inside the house small saplings called latias were used to fill the space between vigas. They could be placed at right angles to the vigas or in a herringbone pattern. Sometimes they were painted. Over these a layer of twigs, straw or bark made a base for the six to twelve inches of earth forming the roof. This was tilted so water would drain into the canales before it had a chance to soak into the roof and weaken it.

All in all, this was a system of building ideally suited to the conditions that had to be met. No wonder there are no authentic adobe houses in New England. The snow would crush the roofs, rain would erode the walls and icicles would clog up the canales. But the vigas would be good places to hang your farm tools. —Marcia C. Spires

Why every woman should want wood windows

A window is something a woman has to live with. So it's important for her to know what makes a great window.

Obviously insulation is important. Wood insulates 1770 times better than aluminum.

Then there's comfort. Today's tight homes make it easy to maintain high humidity levels. That's good. Because high humidity keeps plaster from cracking. Furniture joints from splitting. Makes people comfortable, too.

But healthful humidity (30-35%) causes condensation to form on any cold surface and drip down on walls and carpets. What a mess.

The right windows minimize condensation. To help you pick the best window for your geographic area, we have prepared a condensation calculator. We'll send it to you free.

FAMILY VACATION IN NEW MEXICO

New Mexico is not quite like any other place in the world. There is so much dimension to it—the sky is of the clearest bright blue and the landscape is staggeringly wide and beautiful. The Indians, whose villages were old when the conquistadores came this way, are still proudly and impressively different. In the Spanish mountain villages are churches, like the one in Ranchos de Taos shown here, as remarkable as the great early European chapels. New Mexico, a magic place, is good for mind and senses. It is the perfect place for a family vacation.

The Rancho de Taos Mission (pictured front and rear), one of the oldest continuously used mission churches in the Southwest, is a masterful blending of both European and Pueblo architecture.

In planning your New Mexico vacation by car, consider this advice from one New Mexican born and bred. (1) Don't try to do too much too fast. (2) Don't try to do New Mexico, let it do you. (3) Arm yourself with road maps and as much background material as possible. (See write-away suggestions on page 96.) Allow twice as much time as you think necessary. Distances are great and towns of any size are few and far between. Best protection: always gas up in larger towns. If the slower pace of life doesn't infect you shortly after arriving, you're missing the whole point of the New Mexican lifestyle.

For history buffs: The Old Santa Fe Trail starting at Independence, Missouri, and ending at Santa Fe can be followed by car in some spots in New Mexico. Billy the Kid's infamous exploits can be traced across the state to his resting spot in Lincoln (continued)

County. Kit Carson's name and fame are most evident in Taos. Ghost towns all over the state, such as Madrid, Shakespeare and White Oaks, remain intact and your imagination will take over rapidly when you visit. Contrasts abound. Imagine standing in a centuries-old Indian pueblo looking up at the Hill, Los Alamos, the city that is built on three different mesas, connected by bridges, with the Jemez Mountains as a spectacular backdrop.

For arts-and-crafters: Indian pottery, baskets, jewelry and weaving, both old and new, pop out in every town and museum as well as in the Indians' own villages. (Remember, though, that some handcrafted pottery is best reserved for decorative purposes, not actual use, because of possible improper glazing.) Spanish-American tinwork, wood carving (especially from the village of Cordova) and the beautifully primitive santos as well as Navajo weaving are a craftsman's delight. Santa Fe's Museum of International Folk Art has a particularly impressive exhibition of santos this year. (For a short course in Indian art, see page 76.)

For music lovers: One night you might enjoy the Santa Fe Opera which has its fine season in the summer and includes world premieres of contemporary works. And the next evening you might listen to the primitive drum beat accompanying an Indian ceremonial song. Mariachis play in many of the restaurants and Mexican brass bands appear at many local fiestas.

On the road: Unless you drive from wherever you live, the next best way is to fly to Albuquerque and rent an air-conditioned station wagon. You'll find many better-than-adequate motels. Old Town with its refurbished plaza and shops and restaurants (fair to middling) is a "must see" and will give you your first feeling of the three cultures—Indian, Spanish, Anglo—that give the state its particular charm. The University of New Mexico and a ride on the Sandia Peak aerial tramway at dusk are the local highlights.

From Albuquerque you might take I-25 North toward Santa Fe. You can make two side detours, both to the West, at Santo Domingo Pueblo and Cochiti Pueblo. Caution: picture-taking on an Indian reservation is a very sensitive subject. Each pueblo or tribe has its own rules about this and since some are based on religious beliefs or near-ancient antagonisms, it is only kindness to observe the local regulations. Santo Domingo, for example, does not allow any photography at all. So check first with Tribal Council offices in Albuquerque or Santa Fe or with the tourist bureau.

Back on I-25 you climb on into Santa Fe which, at over 7000 feet, will be decidedly cooler. If you've already given in a little to the charm of New Mexico you'll succumb completely in Santa Fe. Motels are many and the new Inn of the Governors plus the old adobe La Fonda hotel are the favorites. Ideal for families is La Posada Inn, located only two blocks east of the Plaza, with accommodations ranging from $14 to $40 a night. You'll want to spend a lot of time walking in Santa Fe, particularly around the Plaza. Don't miss the Historic Museum which is inside the old Palace of the Governors. The kids will particularly enjoy the way the exhibitions lace the Indian and Spanish cultures. Another must for the children: the Navajo Ceremonial Museum outside town.

Now you may choose to go east and south on I-25, again passing through all sorts of places that will ring bells of familiarity—Glorieta Pass, Pecos and by and by you'll see indications of where the Old Santa Fe Trail parallels or angles across I-25. At Las Vegas, New Mexico, you can take State Route 3 across some pretty wild and rugged country through Mora and then get on State Route 38 and go up to Taos. Or if you prefer a more heavily traveled road, continue north to the junction of US 64 and double back on this through some spectacular ranch country to Cimarron, then skirt Red River and back on into Taos.

Taos is really three towns: San Geronimo de Taos or Taos Pueblo, Don Fernando de Taos and Ranchos de Taos where you'll see the famous Mission Church shown on page 92. North of town and to the left off State Route 3 is the Millicent Rogers Foundation Museum housing an extensive collection of native crafts in a lovely adobe home.

Return toward Santa Fe south on Federal Route 64, following the Rio Grande. Stop off at San Juan Pueblo and ask to see the pottery.

Back on US 64 and from here down to Santa Fe you're in an area dotted with Indian pueblos—Santa Clara, San Ildefonso and Nambe—each with its own special character. Once in Santa Fe you can either return south to Albuquerque or double back to Los Alamos and then Bandelier National Monument. From here you can take State Route 4 west over the Jemez Mountains for some really spectacular scenery and stop off at Jemez Pueblo. Simple baskets, excellent dancers and fine artists come from Jemez.

From Jemez you can pick up State Route 44 at San Ysidro and go north to Cuba, New Mexico. Stop the night and continue west on State Route 44, crossing a part of the Jicarilla Indian Reservation, to Farmington—the heart of the oil and natural gas area.

When you take Federal Route 550 to Shiprock, you'll not only wind up on the Navajo Indian Reservation, but you'll also be in famed Four Corner Country, the only point in the United States common to four state boundaries.

There's so much to see and do in Navajo land that the choice is up to you after you study the fine information put out by the tribe. Generally follow 666 south to Gallup, the Indian capital of the world, and spend as much time as you can with these wonderful people, some 90,000 Navajo and about 3000 Zuni. Be prepared for a totally different environment. Try to understand and appreciate some of their customs. If you can, plan to arrive in Gallup near mid-August. This is the time of year for the Inter-Tribal Indian Ceremonial—a reunion for Indians chosen from 20 tribes from the western states and Mexico. It's their party, but we are privileged to share the dances, parades, sporting events and the rodeo with them. You won't want to miss Zuni Pueblo, 39 miles south of Gallup on State Route 32. Inlay

"channel" jewelry, made with turquoise stones that are inlaid in a setting and then worked to a smooth finish, is a specialty; the pottery is attractive too.

Back on US 666 or 66 (it is the same road south of Gallup) as you head east to Albuquerque, you might want to detour north on State Route 56 to Crownpoint, the Eastern Navajo Agency. The Rug Weaver's Guild here holds auctions a few times a year and you might time your visit to coincide with the auction.

Further side trips from US 66 should include a visit to the city of Acoma, near the Pueblo Indian Reservation and Laguna and Isleta Pueblos (continued)

Only Saran Wrap® keeps them miles apart.

NEW MEXICO continued

In the foothills of the Sangre de Cristo Range is the shrine at Chimayó, the "little Lourdes of America," built on earth that is believed to have healing power.

before completing your slightly uneven circle back to Albuquerque.

Special travel hints for New Mexico: Be careful on any dirt roads you might take during rainstorms. Arroyos which normally are dry creek beds can temporarily become rushing torrents.

Because there is much open range land in New Mexico, be alert for stock on the back roads.

Large historic-site markers along the different routes designate places of interest. Take advantage of them although understatement seems to be the policy in these strictly factual signs.

Remember that only very recently has the English-speaking population begun to equal the Spanish- and Indian-speaking segment, so that you may, on occasion, encounter people whose English is not totally correct. Just ask yourself how accomplished is your Spanish or your Navajo?

If you want to purchase crafts or items, prices are generally standard to the tourist. Some pueblos like you to bargain; others do not. It probably will not hurt to try, but please don't be too insistent. If you plan to make major investments, be informed about the article you are interested in.

But most important—listen, look and feel with your heart and you will discover a way of life that has been able to develop over the centuries in a diverse but unified manner. Share with the people of New Mexico their way of life and be reassured about the future of the diversity of America.

CORNSTARCH COOKERY

Cooking with cornstarch seems to present a problem to many good cooks. Sauces suddenly become soupy, puddings become watery and pies "weep" and fall apart. What is the trick to success in using cornstarch?

A few facts about the behavior of cornstarch are helpful in solving cooking problems. During the cooking process, cornstarch granules absorb liquid. The granules then break open releasing a thickened mixture called a gel. There are many things that affect the structure of the gel: cooking time, agitation during cooking, the amount of sugar and acid in the recipe and the rate at which the mixture is cooled.

When a cornstarch mixture has thickened, it does not mean it is fully cooked. Cornstarch should be cooked seven to 10 minutes after it has begun to boil. An undercooked mixture will begin to separate during cooling and an overcooked mixture will break down and become thin.

Stir cornstarch mixtures gently. After the boiling point is reached, stir only just enough to prevent scorching.

Most cornstarch recipes are a careful balance of ingredients. Too much acid will cause the recipe to become thin after the boiling point is reached. Consequently, acids such as lemon juice, tomatoes, wine or vinegar are added after the mixture is removed from the heat. Too much sugar will also cause a recipe to become thin. It is especially important to follow recipe directions exactly and measure all ingredients carefully.

"Weeping" is used to describe a cornstarch mixture in which water has separated out of the mixture. This occurs most often when the mixture is undercooked. An imbalance of other recipe ingredients will also cause weeping.

Cornstarch mixtures should be cooled at room temperature without stirring. As soon as the mixture is thoroughly cooled, cover the surface directly with wax paper, aluminum foil or transparent wrap and refrigerate. Plan on using it as soon as possible.

In spite of the problems cooks have with cornstarch, it is probably more widely used as a thickening agent than any other starch. Because it is practically lacking in flavor, it is excellent for puddings, pie fillings, cake fillings, gravies and sauces. And the key to successful results with cornstarch lies in following directions carefully. END

Perseverance. That thing that makes you stick with a job till it's done. Your own built-in taskmaster.

When a child learns to play the piano, he is also learning perseverance.

To take the mystery out of notes and rhythms, and turn it into music, takes real determination. Persistence. A healthy stubbornness that will develop into perseverance. And the reward of perseverance is accomplishment.

Can your child attain this quality? Of course.

Musically, the means to this end is through a little stick-to-it-iveness. Continued effort. After a while this effort will turn to habit. A good habit that will benefit any endeavor: music, school work . . . almost anything you can think of.

Our business is building and selling what we believe to be the finest pianos in the world. However, when you buy a Baldwin Piano, we believe you are buying an opportunity to give your child not only the vast benefits of a musical education, but some of the necessary qualifications for a full and happy life: poise, self-confidence, concentration and perseverance. (By the way, if you'd like a copy of "A Piano Teacher Speaks to Parents," a special Baldwin booklet that explains how piano study helps bring out these qualities, send 10¢ to address below.)

If your child is between the ages of 5 and 12, get him started on piano. Whether he goes on to be an accomplished performer or just so-so really doesn't matter, the experience of music will do much to enrich his life.

If you're about ready for a piano, ask your Baldwin dealer about our monthly payment plan; you can even rent a new Baldwin—just to be sure before you buy. Years from now your child will thank you.

LADIES' HOME

JOURNAL DIET CLUB

P.O. Box 507, Garden City, N.Y. 11530

Dear American Home Reader:

If you are overweight here is a safe, sensible approach toward the achievement of a healthier, happier YOU. What's unique about the Ladies' Home Journal Diet Club? You will not be asked to go to meetings. You can achieve the slender new YOU in the privacy of your own home with the help of a Personal Menu Planner. You will learn to choose from nourishing, satisfying ordinary foods. But you will not be alone. Each week you will receive by mail fresh, easy-to-apply diet counseling as authoritative as the most up-to-date scientific knowledge plus diet recipes and menus from the Journal kitchens.

WHAT THE CLUB WILL DO FOR YOU

After you send us the attached confidential application you will receive from the Club:

1. A suggested realistic, permanent weight goal as determined by your sex, age, weight history, your body build and life style.

2. Your Personal Menu Planner with five ample food lists so you can select foods you prefer, yet restrict your caloric intake. The variety will satisfy your craving for food yet minimize the torture of monotony.

3. Your Diet Progress Chart to keep track of your weight losses, day by day.

4. Weekly Journal Diet Club Newsletters and the quarterly Diet Club Magazine, packed with brief, practical diet, nutritional and exercise advice! Answers to diet questions that you send us. Tips on how to organize your refrigerator. What to do about cocktails. How to diet in restaurants or in front of friends.

Every two weeks, you will get a simple form so you can deposit your new weight in the Club's Diet Data Bank. Results will be analyzed against the performance of other club members.

WHEN DO YOU RECEIVE YOUR REWARD?

When you reach your desired weight goal, you will receive your Ladies' Home Journal Achievement Pin. You will also be informed on how to maintain your new weight and figure permanently without blacksliding.

You will think better of yourself, and so will your family. Ask anybody who ever took weight off and kept it off: There is no better feeling, no achievement more rewarding in admiring glances, in sincere compliments, and in being able to wear a much wider selection of those smart, smaller-sized fashions.

WE GUARANTEE YOU HAVE NOTHING TO LOSE BUT POUNDS

If you adhere to the regimen doctor-designed for you, you will achieve your weight goal.

Photograph by William Helburn

If you do not lose weight, if you conscientiously remain on the diet and it does not work for you, your entire Journal Diet Club Membership costs will be refunded. So you have nothing to lose but pounds.

Sincerely,

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL DIET CLUB

No guarantee can promise you prompt response from your local authorized repair service. Such merchandise must wait on line like ordinary owner-damaged items. Don't worry if the guarantee runs out while the appliance is waiting to be repaired. The maker or dealer will honor the claim as long as you notified the shop of the needed repairs within the time limit.

So far we have been talking only about the written assurance spelling out all the terms: the express guarantee. Another type is more general and harder to get satisfied—the implied guarantee. An implied guarantee on an item means that it should do what the maker claims and that it is reasonably fit for the purpose for which it is made. There is no formal statement of terms. A coffee grinder should grind coffee beans. Any item advertised as "heavy duty" should be able to do more work or handle heavier loads than a standard model.

A few desperate consumers have taken cases of unsettled implied guarantees to court and they have won. Decisions on lawsuits involving implied guarantees have held that you should be able to use a product for its intended purpose in absolute safety, no matter what the maker disclaims in print. A retailer who sold a freezer was held liable for the destruction of a home by fire caused by the freezer overheating.

But you will need to bring suit to get satisfaction only rarely. Most questions or complaints about guaranteed merchandise will be answered personally by the manufacturer. For prompt action go to the top: write the president of the company. If you take good care of your appliances, they will serve you long after their guarantees have expired.

General questions about everything from dishwashers to garbage disposals will be answered by the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers, 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606. I sure am glad that my daughter was too young to notice how fat I looked here. And I hadn't even reached 265 pounds when this picture was taken.

Here, I'm 136 pounds. Sure is good to get into stylish clothes, since I'm only 32 years old.

I carried my bridegroom over the threshold. Then I lost 129 pounds.

By Kathleen Coffey — as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

Maybe you'll get an idea of what my husband and I looked like, when I say I've lost as much as Charles weighed at our wedding. 129 pounds. Understand now why I was the one to carry him over the threshold of our first home?

Being fat had made me a loner in school. Mamma had a job at that time, and to ease her conscience for leaving my sister and me, she always gave us ice cream money. And I never missed a scoop. Besides, I'd stuff on bread and potatoes and sweets and all kinds of candy.

I remember how much I wanted to be on the square-dancing team at school. But I was turned down because I couldn't keep up with the others, and because I made too much noise stomping around.

All I can say now is, thank goodness Charles took me for what I was, not what I looked like. In fact, the only time he ever said anything to me about my weight was when I was expecting. He was scared for my health. But it seemed that when anybody said anything to me about losing, I'd resent it and eat more.

After my little girl came and I went up to 265 pounds, even I was afraid. Of course, my doctor had got on to me plenty of times, but I never took his advice. This time, however, it was me who made the decision to reduce. And until you make up your own mind to lose weight, nobody can help you.

You see, I'd seen those stories in magazines about folks who'd lost weight with the help of a reducing-plan candy, Ayds. So I bought the vanilla caramel kind at the drugstore. Later, I switched around to the plain chocolate fudge type and the chocolate mint fudge.

I took one or two before meals like the directions say. And Ayds actually helped me curb my appetite. Why, on the Ayds Plan, I ate less because I really wanted less. Where I used to crave buttered biscuits and macaroni and potatoes, now I don't hanker for them.

While I was losing, I didn't think about how far I had to go down. Just that with each five pounds, I was that much closer to my goal. And it worked.

By the time Charles and I had our new home in West Asheville, N.C., I was so much slimmer, he carried me over the threshold like I weighed nothing.

Now that I'm 136 pounds, it sure has confused people. Even my mamma, who hadn't seen me for a long time, almost cried when she spotted me in church. And my uncle couldn't believe his eyes.

But the best reaction of all was from a lady customer in our store. Charles and I used to deliver her newspapers. Well, first time she saw me skinny, she didn't speak. Instead, she spread the word: "Mr. Coffey's got himself remarried." We laughed when the news got back to us. But, in a sense, it's true. Because, thanks to the help of the Ayds Plan, Charles has got himself a new wife. Me.

Classic adobe contrasts with uncompromisingly modern in this ingenious remodeling.

Strong contrasts between old and new abound in the Allen McNown house in Nambe, New Mexico. And it is these sharply defined differences that give the house its character. No attempt has been made to give the original 1850 adobe (light lines on plan above), two stories high and with conventional rooms, a modern look. On the other hand, the new single-story addition of 1967 (dark lines) is uncompromisingly of today. Spaces here come in a variety of shapes and sizes, and ceiling heights range from low to soaring.

The old and new counterpoint is played up even further by the contrast of materials and colors—smooth and light in the old portion, rugged and dark in the new, although both are adobe.

Even though the two sections of the house meet along one wall only, the new wing sweeps protectively around the old. Connections between them dramatize their separateness even more vividly. What was formerly the rear wall of the old house is now the white plastered stairwall. Stairs ascend to a platform on same level as second floor of the original house, providing access to this area.

Instead of a portal (porch), so typical of New Mexican houses, there is a roofed-over terrace in front of the living room, radiantly heated for year-round use. The curved adobe wall that joins the old and new wings encloses the porch of the original house to form a new patio.

A strong sense of shelter is one of the most typical aspects of New Mexican architecture. Here it is evidenced in the old 22-inch-thick adobe walls and smallish windows. In the new part, with two whole window walls under sweeping roof overhangs, solidity and massive scale lend a feeling of great security.

New Mexico's regional architecture and indigenous building materials influenced the style of this house. But the imaginative approach to remodeling could be adapted by anyone with an outgrown home worth saving. END

CROSS-STITCH OUR MAN ON THE MOON

You can make your own personal record of the momentous July 20, 1969 moon landing! Man's first exciting steps on the moon are clearly captured in our 10x13-inch, 100 percent linen sampler that you can embroider yourself using just five stitches. What a perfect project for a club, church organization or youth group, either to raise funds or to present to schools and libraries. In fact, four of the stitches enable a Junior Girl Scout to earn a needlecraft badge. On the walls of your own home the sampler is a lasting testimonial to the most incredible feat in our lifetime. The painted wood frame is also available.

THE FASTEST MOST EFFECTIVE WAISTLINE REDUCER EVER DISCOVERED

The Incredible New...

SAUNA BELT

GUARANTEED TO TAKE FROM 1 TO 3 INCHES OFF YOUR WAISTLINE IN JUST 3 DAYS OR YOUR MONEY REFUNDED

SAUNA BELT—the first really new idea in slenderizing in years produces sensationally rapid results in reducing the waistline—for men or women—and without the need for any weight loss. Unbelievable results like these—results which speak for themselves:

MRS. L. PEREZ "I used the Sauna Belt for about 30 minutes one afternoon and lost 2 inches from my waistline and 1½ inches on my tummy. It is truly amazing."

MRS. PAULA THOMPSON "I had a skirt that was too tight for me. I used the Sauna Belt for just a few minutes one day and lost 1¾ inches from my waist. Now the skirt fits beautifully."

MRS. C. M. SORENSEN "Using the Sauna Belt for just a few minutes a day for one week produced a 3 inch loss on my waistline and a 3½ inch loss on my tummy."

WHAT IS THIS SENSATIONAL NEW "SAUNA BELT"? The Sauna Belt is made from a special non-porous plastic material. It is completely different from any other so-called "waist reducing belts" on the market. The Sauna Belt is placed around your waist, directly against the body, and then by use of the special tube provided, the belt is inflated—just like blowing up a balloon. As the belt is inflated, it will tighten itself around your waist and you will notice a snug, comfortable feeling of warmth and support throughout your waistline and lower back. After the belt is in place and inflated, you will then perform the two magic waistline reducing exercises, specially designed for use with this remarkable belt. This will take just a few minutes and then you will relax, while leaving the belt in place on your waist for another 20 minutes or so. That is all there is to it. This inflated belt is specially designed to provide resistance to the movements and to provide heat and massage to every area of your waist—back, front and sides—and when you remove the belt—voila!—a tighter, firmer waistline from which the excess inches are already beginning to disappear.

HOW LONG MUST I USE THE SAUNA BELT? That depends on your goals—how many inches you want to lose from your waistline and the rate at which your body responds. Each person's body make-up is different, therefore the degree of loss will vary with individuals. It is recommended that you use the belt for a few minutes each day for 3 days in a row when you first get the belt and then about 2 or 3 times a week until you have lost as many inches as you desire. After that you can keep your waistline where you want it by using the belt about twice a month. Many, many people lose an inch or more the very first day they use the belt. There are those who have lost as much as 3 inches on their waistlines from just one session with this magic belt. The results from the Sauna Belt have been dramatic, to say the least, but whatever speed of inch loss your particular metabolism allows you with this belt, remember this: You must lose from 1 to 3 inches from your waistline in just 3 days or you may return the belt and your entire purchase price will be immediately refunded.

NOTHING ELSE LIKE IT... AND THE PRICE IS ONLY $9.95. Nothing else that we know of can give the sensational results in rapidly reducing the waistline as does the incredible new Sauna Belt. There are other so-called heat belts, but none that can even begin to provide the resistance and the complete waistline control made possible by the inflatable feature of the Sauna Belt—that means so much to your rapid results. There is no need to wear an uncomfortable weighted belt around your waist for hours every day. The Sauna Belt gives results many times faster in just a few minutes a day and is a marvel of ease and comfort. And there is no electronic device, many costing hundreds of dollars, that can give you even a fraction of the results as the fabulous Sauna Belt for only $9.95.

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. We are so convinced that the Sauna Belt is the fastest, surest, most convenient, most comfortable, most sensationally effective waistline reducer ever discovered that we offer this unconditional Money Back Guarantee: Man or woman, if your waistline is not 1 to 3 inches smaller after using the Sauna Belt for only 3 days, you may simply return the belt to us and your money will be refunded promptly and without question. So if you want a trimmer, slimmer, firmer, tighter waistline and you want it now—send for your Sauna Belt today and discover what a remarkable difference it can make in the way you look and the way you feel. It will be the best investment in your appearance you will ever make.

Please send me  SAUNA BELT INC., P.O. Box 3984, Dept. AH-1, San Francisco, CA 94119 the two magic waistline reducing exercises. I understand that if I do not lose from 1 to 3 inches from my waistline in just 3 days I can return the belt to Sauna Belt, Inc. and receive my money back.
For each Sauna Belt and complete instructions I enclose $9.95. Cash ☐ Check ☐ Money Order ☐ (No COD's)

1. Slip the belt around your waist—inflate—and you are ready to do your two magic waist reducing exercises: 5 to 10 minutes.

2. After your exercises, you simply relax for about 20 minutes while keeping the belt around your waist.

3. Then remove the Sauna Belt. Your waist will already feel tighter and trimmer. Many persons have lost an inch or more the very first day.

Discovered in Europe... Finally Available In America

THE WORLD'S FIRST AND ONLY HUMAN HAIR WIG WITH A LIFETIME SET!

Yes, the built-in set lasts as long as you want... from cleaning to cleaning... or from washing to washing!

Then, to re-set or re-style, the only thing needed is ordinary shampoo. That's right... you simply shampoo... put it up in curlers for a few minutes... and the built-in LIFETIME SET bounces back fresh as new... AND STAYS THAT WAY UNTIL YOUR NEXT SHAMPOO!

Change the style as often as you like. This unique "DURA-SETTE" HUMAN HAIR TAPERED STRETCH WIG keeps its set FOREVER!

AMAZING EUROPEAN DISCOVERY MAKES POSSIBLE THE WORLD'S FIRST "NO-CARE" HUMAN HAIR
STRETCH WIG!

Yes, at last it's true... the perfect wig that every woman has ever dreamed of... and it's finally available in America.

Think of it! All the natural luster, all the thick, rich body, all the vibrant silky bounce of human hair... all the "no-care" features you've always hoped for but never believed possible in a human-hair stretch wig. No more costly, time-consuming "setting trips" to the parlor. No more spraying. No more teasing. No care whatsoever. For here at last is a wig... a human hair wig... that actually takes care of itself. All you do is wear it... nothing more.

Brush it all you wish... restyle it as often as you like... the built-in set simply lasts... lasts... lasts! The only time you ever have to freshen up the set is after you clean and wash it. Then all you do is use a few rollers or pin-curls, because the built-in lifetime set lasts... lasts... lasts! It really does make every other wig ever sold (no matter what the price) truly old-fashioned!

WHEN DID YOU EVER SEE A HUMAN HAIR WIG THAT YOU COULD DO THIS TO?

Ride in a top-down convertible for 8 hours like this...

Then simply brush back into place, perfectly, in less than 60 seconds. Set looks beauty-parlor fresh.

Go shopping for an entire rainy day...

and in less than one minute of brushing or combing look as if you just stepped out of a magazine page.

AND REMEMBER... NO MORE SPRAYING... NO MORE TEASING... NO MORE EXPENSIVE TRIPS TO THE BEAUTY PARLOR... NO MATTER HOW MANY TIMES YOU CHANGE THE STYLE!

TESTED UNDER THE WORST
WEATHER CONDITIONS POSSIBLE
... WIND... STEAMING HEAT...
EVEN ON RAINY DAYS... THE LIFETIME SET SIMPLY REFUSES TO COME OUT!

Now, please do not confuse this wondrous DURA-SETTE HUMAN HAIR stretch wig with frowsy looking artificial-fiber wigs that you can spot at a glance. The DURA-SETTE HUMAN HAIR WIG looks and feels as natural and lustrous as your own hair... because it's made of human hair... and only human hair. The only thing science has added to this hair is a built-in lifetime set that keeps under all weather conditions. Small wonder that when news of the DURA-SETTE HUMAN HAIR WIG first hit the American fashion-world it was immediately acclaimed as the most significant beauty news of the year.

In fact, just read yourself what Mr. Richard Cole, one of America's leading hair stylists, has to say about this thrilling new development:

"I doubt, if 6 months from today you will ever see another high-price human hair wig, or low-price artificial-fiber wig in America again. Not with this startling new scientific achievement. Because here is the ultimate in a woman's wig. It is natural-looking, lustrous and full of body because it's made of 100% human hair. And it has the built-in lifetime set feature that lasts for the life of the wig. There is simply nothing more a woman could ask for in a wig."

BUY DIRECT AND SAVE UP TO 50%
NOT TO MENTION WEEK-TO-WEEK
SAVINGS ON CONSTANT TRIPS TO THE BEAUTY PARLOR!

Within the next 90 days, you'll probably be seeing every fashionable department store and beauty salon featuring the DURA-SETTE HUMAN-HAIR STRETCH WIG. We know this for a fact... because of the flood of orders we've been receiving.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

The DURA-SETTE HUMAN HAIR STRETCH WIG must be the easiest-to-care-for wig you've ever seen... it must do away with setting lotions, sprays, teasing and expensive setting-trips to the beauty parlor... it must keep its built-in LIFETIME SET under any and all conditions... in fact, when your DURA-SETTE wig arrives we want you to try it under all conditions... wind, heat, high humidity, anything and everything that destroys a woman's set... and if this amazing wig isn't everything we've claimed it is, and more... simply return for your full money back. There is no other human-hair wig in the world today that would dare make this unheard-of guarantee... because this is the world's first and only tapered, human-hair stretch wig with a built-in LIFETIME SET.

Men! Women! WAIST-AWAY™ trims inches from stomach!

RELAX INTO A YOUTHFUL SHAPE WITHOUT EXERCISE

Athletes don't exercise to lose weight or reduce midriff fat! They "sweat it off" with special rubber suits. You can now use their proved, fast method. No weights!

So simple, it's amazing how easy it works while you relax. WAIST-AWAY is a pliable wide belt of soft rubber-like composition that you wear next to your skin. It makes your body heat melt away excess "flab" while you do housework, jog, or just sit and watch TV.

The "soothing massage" effect relieves back and waist tensions. The heating effect developed by WAIST-AWAY helps to ease backache and stiffness. Posture improves, too. A wonderful aid to athletes, businessmen, housewives.

Velcro® fastening keeps belt snug. Specify man's or woman's model. SEND YOUR WAIST MEASUREMENTS. Check or money order, no COD.

Wonderful news for Women! THIGH REDUCER Belts

Spot-reduce legs the sure, fast way

If you've struggled to reduce your thighs with exercise, massage, dieting, but have had disappointing results, take heart. There's a new way to slim those thighs where exercise alone can't help. IBEM's THIGH REDUCER Belts spot-reduce the heaviness at the top of the thigh while you walk, work, or just sit. Based on the same proved, effective principle as the WAIST-AWAY (see above)—using body heat to melt away excess fat with a relaxing massage effect.

Here's a fast, sure way to slim thighs. Now you, too, can wear those revealing mini-fashions. Do it now and get results in time for the summer beach scene.

IBEM Thigh Reducer Belts are soft, pliable, rubber-like composition. Adjustable Velcro® fastening keeps them snug as your thighs get thinner. Send your upper thigh measurements at point indicated by arrow.

Whatever method of thigh reducing you've tried without success, don't give up. Order a pair of IBEM Belts today on money-back guarantee. Check or money order, no COD.

READ THESE FACTS, PLUG IN ZOYSIA GRASS

by Mike Sonkiw

It's true the things people are saying about Amazoy Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Grass (Reg. T.M.).

It grows so thick and luxurious that walking on it is unforgettable... like walking on a thick, pile carpet.

Your Zoysia lawn drives out crabgrass and weeds all summer long. It stays green and beautiful in blistering heat, when other grass burns out. It cuts mowing by 7/3... It's perfect for summer-homes and "problem" areas.

There's no need to rip out your old grass. Plug in Amazoy Zoysia Grass and let it spread into beautiful turf that never needs replacement. It will neither heat kill or winter kill... Merely goes off its green color after heavy frosts and regains fresh new beauty every Spring—a true perennial! Every plug fully guaranteed to grow in any soil in your area.

To test your problems, send for free interesting facts and prices about Amazoy including Free-Season Bonus Offer. No obligation.

A SHARED CONCERN

In general, I approve of you. The mixture of modern and traditional is pleasant; the balance between indoors and outdoors is judicious; the approach to homemaking isn't too June-bride-who-knows-nothing or ultra-skilled-super-housewife.

One area, however, I feel you should pay more attention to, and that is the setting in which American homes must be built, the American town itself, whether village, suburb or city. Our national standards of housekeeping outside our homes are appalling. Isn't it time we began to educate ourselves to treat our country and design our cities and "housekeep" our towns as if we have some degree of culture?

American Home can exert a most positive influence where it will have the greatest possible effect. Please—tackle this national disgrace, and help erase it.

Mrs. Longin Ambros
Windsor, Vermont

The editors of AH share Mrs. Ambros's concern for the rapidly disintegrating quality of our environment—both in the cities and suburban areas. The subject will be one of our major concerns for the decade to come. And we intend to marshal our full resources to effect some solutions to the problems now attacking our natural and social resources.

THE TOYMAKER

I thoroughly enjoyed "The Making of Toys" in your December issue. What an imaginative young man is Peter Stevenson! A charming picture emerged of a devoted family sharing companionship and enthusiasm. Surely a generation gap could never develop here.

Thank you for bringing the Stevensons to us for Christmas.

CALIFORNIA'S COLLECTABLES

My husband and I enjoyed Bob Thompson's article "California's Collector Reds" printed in the November issue. We have become better acquainted recently with the California wines and Mr. Thompson's detecting of the better reds has been most helpful.

The article was most interesting and informative. It supports my hunch that some of the California wines will become great wines.

SOCIETY HILL

I want to take a minute to say how much I enjoyed the December issue of your fine magazine. In particular, of course, I was pleased with the article on Philadelphia's Society Hill. It was well researched all the way and I was honored to have my "Little House," as we call it, pictured.

Your article hopefully will give added impetus to those concerned with the life in the heart of our great cities; certainly an important contribution.

Best wishes for continued success.

Lewis M. Robbins
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

This seemed a good time to tell you how much I like your magazine. I especially enjoyed the article on Society Hill. I know that area well.

Mrs. Alex Smoot
Sharptown, Maryland

Your recent article on the urban renewal project in Philadelphia ("The Philadelphia Story: Society Hill," December, 1969) points up in glaring terms the end result of what has so often passed for urban renewal in this country—the displacement of the poor for the sake of the wealthy. It is because of projects like this that poor persons are demanding self-determination for their own communities. So long as those with power and wealth continue to disregard the needs of the powerless and poor, Society Hill represents the failure of America, not its success.

Ray C. Rist Jr.
Dept. of Sociology
St. Louis, Missouri

Society Hill was previously a blighted commercial district. Wholesale-produce businesses dominated the area and the number of actual residents was small. Houses and residents alike were neglected in sprawling slum conditions. If action had not been taken, an irreplaceable part of American history would have been lost along with the area's once-splendid 18th-century homes. No effort was made to eliminate the poor. In fact, the Redevelopment Authority helped low-income residents to remain and renovate their houses through HUD grants and loans. Home owners with annual incomes of less than $3000 can still receive such grants up to $3500.

A TREASURY FAN

I look forward with great anticipation to further American Treasury articles. I would like to see articles dealing with American crafts: weaving, rug hooking, pottery, etc.

Mrs. S. Christie
Waterloo, Ontario

This month, American Home is proud to present yet another Treasury (see page 49), devoted to the great Southwest and featuring the artifacts and crafts of the American Indians who have contributed so much to the color and flavor of the area. More Treasuries will follow in future issues.

Letters to the editors should be addressed to Dear American Home, 641 Lexington Avenue, New York, New York 10022.

THE FRENCH HAVE A WORD FOR IT. THOMASVILLE.

And Thomasville has a price for it. Only $599*.

Here's a bedroom full of French charm and Thomasville craftsmanship. It's called Parisienne, but you don't have to go to Paris to get it.

You can see it at participating Thomasville dealers and, for a limited time, at this very special price. It includes a magnificent nine-drawer triple dresser and companion chest which feature crisply contoured drawers, deeply etched scroll patterns, gracefully curving base rails and carved cabriole legs. Even the graceful mirror, chair-back bed, and ornate hardware are authentic reflections of French tradition.

FOR THE NAMES OF PARTICIPATING DEALERS NEAR YOU, CALL THIS TOLL-FREE NUMBER, 800-243-6000 (In Connecticut, call 800-942-0625). Be sure to ask for the names of Thomasville PARISIENNE dealers. *Manufacturer's suggested retail price. Slightly higher in the West.

place; they stick by themselves.

all. Just cut the tile to fit with ordinary scissors. And the rich, tweedy Wearathon texture makes seams almost disappear.

Armstrong carpet tiles are made with the same type of fiber as the original Wearathon Indoor/Outdoor Carpet. They last and last and are easy to care for. Yet, if accidental damage should occur, individual tiles can be replaced. You'll be surprised how little it will cost to carpet a whole room.

You can see Armstrong Wearathon carpet tiles—in patterns and solid colors—at your Armstrong retailer. For the name and phone number of the Wearathon carpet dealer nearest you, just call this special toll-free number: (800) 243-6000. In Connecticut: (800) 942-0655.

Carpet tiles are ready to install as they come out of the carton. If you install a tile improperly, just peel it up, reposition it, and press in place. It's child's play.

class looking like a rainbow, with chalk marks all over me, but Tide XK does a beautiful job on my blouses."

Ask Mrs. Balfour about
Tide XK. Write to her at:
111 West Jackson Blvd.
Chicago, Ill. 60604.

Being a teacher I'm really glad I found Tide XK in my new Hoover. It even cleans red chalk marks off my blouses.

Hoover's Wheelaway Washer is a washer and dryer combined. Just 30" wide by 17" deep, it's small enough to hide in a closet. When you're ready to wash, simply wheel it up to a faucet. Two tubs let you wash one load while you spin dry another. The Hoover Washer also handles permanent press and delicate fabrics. And it comes with a removable counter top.

Tide has agreed with Washer makers to supply
Tide XK samples packed by them and to feature their washers in Tide XK advertising.

The makers of 25 leading washers pack Tide XK in every top-loading automatic.
