How to get more living from the living space you've got

When home gets a little too cramped for comfort, it's not so easy to up and move. So most people redo, redecorate, revive. That's the challenge we gave our Armstrong interior designers. "Here are two rooms," we said, "a small dark kitchen and a drab dining room. Make the most of them!"

On these four pages, we'll show you how they combined the two small rooms into a beautiful, functional living center. How they got more out of the kitchen. And how they turned the old dining area into an ingenious convertible room.

Only part of their solution is structural change (see floor plans at right). The rest is imagination, decorative daring, and some exciting Armstrong products—floors, ceilings, carpets, and Thomasville furniture.

It all started in the kitchen with a new kind of floor that gives you a lot more than just good looks.

More than just a sunny new floor
Armstrong Solarian™ shines without waxing

You've probably heard claims about vinyl floors that are supposed to keep their shine without waxing. Armstrong has never made such a claim. We know from experience that any vinyl floor will begin to lose some gloss after a few months and require an occasional waxing to restore and maintain a shine.

For women who hate to wax
But we also know how much you hate to wax floors. So we set out to develop a totally new kind of floor that really would require no wax to keep shining and less work to keep clean.

The result is Solarian. And its secret is a major new development from Armstrong research called the Mirabond™ Wear Surface. Because of this entirely new formulation, Solarian will retain its gloss far longer than vinyl floors.

Tested in homes like yours
Armstrong has tested Solarian floors in the busy kitchens of actual homes for two years. With just occasional sweeping, damp-mopping—and no waxing—these floors are still bright and shining.

Most waxes won't adhere to new surface
Just as an egg won't stick to the new coated frypans, most waxes won't stick to the Mirabond Wear Surface. More important, neither will most spills or tracked-in dirt. Even black heel marks wipe right off this unique, new surface.

After several years of wear, there may be a slight lowering of gloss in high-traffic areas. You probably won't find it objectionable. But if you should ever need it, your Armstrong retailer can supply a special Solarian Floor Finish which you can use in these areas to restore and maintain the shine the way you like it.

As beautiful to look at as to live with
The "Palazzo" design shown here is one shining example of the many Solarian designs and colors. Want more information? See the box at the bottom of the next right-hand page.

To create a cozy dining area in the kitchen, our designers did away with the old pantry and let the sunshine in through a big bay window. They gained counter and storage space galore, added new appliances, and cabinets. (Notice how they had the cabinets patterned after the Thomasville storage units in the family room.)

The result? A bright, airy kitchen, opening into a beautiful, functional family room.

Now, on to Armstrong's convertible room

Here is the view from the kitchen into the new family room. More space, more light, more living.
The Convertible Room: family room
The old dining room spent much of its life gathering dust. A waste of valuable living space. So, our designers transformed it into a room that’s always alive. Most of the time it serves comfortably as a family room, but whenever the need arises, converts easily into this elegant dining room. To add space and make their convertible room as bright and airy as the kitchen, our designers replaced one whole wall with a big window alcove. They also removed a big section of the wall between the two rooms. But for occasions like this, when no one wants to look at a messy kitchen, they installed a neat system of moving panels in the passageway. They hang from a track, concealed overhead, and slide into place in seconds.

The Armstrong products chosen for the convertible room had to be just as versatile—a lot more than just good looking.

More than just another ho-hum ceiling
Our designers knew just which type of Armstrong ceiling to use. It’s one of our newest, designed for elegant rooms like this with more interesting textures and without the old “v-groove” joints between the tiles. Seams are less noticeable and the rich texture flows smoothly from wall to wall.

More than just another pretty carpet
In choosing a carpet, the Armstrong designers asked a good bit. They wanted family-room informality and dinner-party elegance. And, of course, the carpet had to be tough enough to take on the kids. “Flower Garden” was all they asked—and more. It’s a brand-new Armstrong shag, with a shag’s soft, deep warmth, in a whimsical flower print. Comfortable and pleasantly informal. But this shag is much more lush, much richer in character than the usual shag. It’s truly elegant. What you might call “elegantly informal”. Or is it “informally elegant”? In any case, it’s made of extra-bulky continuous filament nylon, so it’s pretty tough for a flower garden.

More than just beautiful furniture
To furnish their convertible room, our designers chose Brandywine by Thomasville (which, by the way, is part of Armstrong now). Brandywine is Early American from its burnished, glowing patina to its antiqued brass-finished hardware. And versatile? This elegantly set table, with an armchair, doubles as the roomy desk you saw in the family room. And the rest of the chairs are more frequently found around a game table.

The whole project took a lot of work, a lot of imagination, and a lot of Armstrong, but when we’d finished, we had a beautiful, functional living center. If you’d like to get more living from your living space, we’ve got the products and ideas to help you. Floors, ceilings, carpets, and Thomasville furniture—all from Armstrong. See the box below for some more information on how to get started.

Armstrong products and ideas can make a beautiful difference in your home. For a full package of literature covering Armstrong floors, ceilings, carpets, and Thomasville furniture, write to Armstrong, 7107 Pine St., Lancaster, Penna. 17604.

HEY! THIS SCRIPT DOESN'T CALL FOR A SINGING CIGARETTE.

BUT, C.B., THIS IS DORAL, THE LOW "TAR" AND NICOTINE CIGARETTE.

WITH LOW "TAR" AND NICOTINE HOW COME IT'S SINGING ABOUT TASTE?

TRY IT!

C'MON AND TASTE ME

TASTES TERRIFIC! DORAL, HOW'D YOU LIKE TO SEE YOUR NAME UP IN LIGHTS?

TASTE ME

The filter system you'd need a scientist to explain... but Doral says it in two words, "Taste me"
Before the open kitchen fire at Monticello are some of the foods that Thomas Jefferson grew—grapes, pecans, peaches, apples, cabbages, herbs.

"The order and economy of a house are as honorable to the mistress as those of the farm to the master, and if either be neglected, ruin follows, and children destitute of the means of living." This is Thomas Jefferson in a letter written from Monticello in 1818. We have been living with Mr. Jefferson for the past several months, in the houses that he built, in the Virginia countryside that he loved and in his mind—reading his books and his voluminous correspondence. We have come away realizing that our indebtedness to him goes far beyond his having given us the noblest of documents—the Declaration of Independence, signed 195 years ago this month. Did you know that he brought macaroni to America, and French ice cream—and spent his lifetime experimenting with ways to improve the land, its fruits, his table, the design of a house and the furnishings to go into it? It is for these reasons that we celebrate the Fourth of July by dedicating the 12th in our American Treasury series to Thomas Jefferson. It begins on page 41.

Are you aware that ice-cream freezers are on the best-selling lists this summer? Maybe it's a part of the nostalgia syndrome that seems to be sweeping America, maybe it's the result of the lovely renewed attitude that something you make yourself is good two ways—the making is as pleasing as the finished product. Did ice cream ever taste better than when you, as a child, cranked the freezer yourself on a summer's Sunday morning and were paid for the chore with the right to lick the dasher? Homemade ice cream—not very different from the version that Thomas Jefferson served at Monticello, made from the recipes he brought back from France—appears on page 58. What better way to top off your own Fourth of July outing!

And by the way, isn't it nice that "homemade" is once again a proud adjective?

John and Mieke Tunney, California's new Democratic U.S. Senator and his Dutch-born wife, are models of a fresh trend in Washington, D.C., political style. Although they jealously guard the privacy of their family life, they make no distinction between personal interests and Senator Tunney's work in public affairs. Both Mieke and John are urgently concerned with the need for ecological balance. Mieke spent two years in research on a book inspired by and named for: Beautiful California—A Last Clear Chance. To be illustrated with her own photographs and chock-full of action plans for grassroots change, the book was pigeonholed last year for the first senatorial running of former Congressman Tunney. Mieke's sidekick campaigning took her into scores of Head Start centers and left her with an abiding interest in ghetto education.

John, meanwhile, distinguished his first days in the Senate by sponsoring two important bills for the saving of our land. One, introduced on the third anniversary of the catastrophic oil-rigging blowout near Santa Barbara, proposes a National Park, making the Santa Barbara Channel waters off limits to further oil exploration and the five primitive Channel Islands a sanctuary for seals, seabirds and other forms of coastal wildlife. The second bill would protect already-existing state pollution-control laws from preemption before new federal laws enacted to replace them go into effect. (continued on page 82)
If you love ice cream, now you have something else to love.

There isn’t a man, woman, or kid in these United States of America who hasn’t loved at least one double-dip chocolate ice cream one right down to the last bite.

Now you can introduce your tongue to a new love. Cool ‘n Creamy pudding from Birds Eye.

Cool ‘n Creamy comes frozen. You’ll find it in the frozen food section of the supermarket, near the ice cream and the frozen cheesecake.

Because we could freeze it, Cool ‘n Creamy is rich and smooth like pudding, and cold and creamy like ice cream.

Cool ‘n Creamy stores right in your refrigerator. It’s there. Waiting for you. Another great choice when the kids say, What’s for dessert, Mom?”

Today, the Cool ‘n Creamy cone. Tomorrow, the Cool ‘n Creamy scoop.

Someday, the old ball park will ring with glory, “Peanuts? Popcorn? Ice cream? Cool ‘n Creamy? How many, mister?”

Cool ‘n Creamy. The best thing since ice cream.
A Margate, N.J., family loves Lucy, a 65-foot, tin-skinned elephant, and works to revive her.

Edwin and Sylvia Carpenter and their daughters Cheryl, 16, and Karen, 11, of Margate, N.J., devotedly and energetically love Lucy. Lucy is a six-story-tall, tin-skinned, once-white elephant grown gray-brown with abuse. A pachyderm with closets in her ears and a staircase in one leg, Lucy is what is known as an "architectural folly." But to many architectural buffs, she is a Victorian wonder—a towering example of ornamentation.

The work of a real-estate promoter—one James Lafferty—she was erected in 1881 on the beach of this South Jersey shore community to serve as Lafferty's office and land-buying lure. Later Lucy had brief flings as a restaurant, a tavern and even a summer house. Two similar buildings were constructed—a baby sister in nearby Cape May, N.J., laid to rest only 15 years into life, and Lafferty's famous 12-story Coney Island elephant, "cremated" in a fire a few years later.

When Lucy, the last of her breed, was condemned some five years ago by the Margate city building inspector and was about to be cut down in her tracks, the Carpenters came to her rescue. Together with their next-door neighbors—George and Josephine Harron—they formed a committee to save Lucy's life. Edwin Carpenter, a building contractor, convinced the owner to sell her to the newly formed Margate Civic Association for $1 with the provision that she be moved within 30 days. Then the Save Lucy Committee Inc., led by president Josephine Harron and vice president Sylvia Carpenter, went into action. To raise money for Lucy's move, the Carpenters and crew sold "Save Lucy" bumper stickers, organized a Bingo night, a cake sale, a flea market, a Lucy cocktail party and a Lucy day at the track.

They accomplished their first objective. Last summer Lucy was moved for the jumbo sum of $28,000 to a waterfront site donated by the town of Margate. And while they are still working to pay off much of this debt, the Carpenters and others on the committee are determined to raise another $142,000 to transform Lucy into a children's book collection and museum of seashore history.

The Carpenters (above)—Edwin, Karen, Sylvia and Cheryl—are fiercely for Lucy, once the wonder of the Jersey shore. Letters and donations addressed simply "Elephant, Margate, N.J." come from around the world.

Sylvia Carpenter, surrounded by Lucy memorabilia, sends out "elephantine" releases, stickers and information to finance Lucy's restoration.
Want to lose 4 pounds fast?

Slender’s nutritionally balanced program gets quick results

You, too, may lose 4 pounds the first week with Slender. Why not? Just don’t backslide. Stick with 900 Slender calories a day and you’ll get a thrill when you step on the scale.

Clinical study works for problem dieters

We put people, who were at least 20% overweight, on Slender for three weeks. That’s four Slender meals a day, totaling 900 calories. At the end of the first week, dieters had lost an average of more than 4 pounds. During the next two weeks, losses averaged 3½ pounds a week. Many of the dieters on the program told us they were not unduly hungry and found Slender “surprisingly filling.”

Low in calories, high in nutrition

Many 900 calorie diets are fad diets which emphasize one nutrient over others. But a Slender meal is nutritionally balanced. Whether it’s instant Slender, mixed in milk, or Slender chilled from the can — every glass supplies ¼ of your daily recommended adult dietary allowance of protein. Plus the regular vitamins and minerals you need, including vitamins C and B-complex.

Slender counts calories for you

With Slender, you don’t have to get involved with measuring out tiny portions of this and that. And you avoid costly calorie mistakes which may undo your diet. Slender counts the calories, so you always know where you stand in the calorie battle.

How to slim down sensibly with Slender

If you want fast results to get your incentive up, go strictly Slender for a week. Then go back to other foods in diet proportions, but have your Slender for at least one meal. Whether you go strictly Slender again for another week later on depends on how much you want to lose. But you should ask your doctor before starting any program aimed at weight loss.

One thing’s certain, you’ll find Slender wears well in your diet. It’s so rich and satisfying, and that’s without artificial sweeteners. Slender from Carnation. Dieting without nonsense.
Summer is very hard on hair. Your crowning glory either gets chlorine-soaked or sand-sprinkled, sunbaked or windblown, and on humid days almost everyone can look forward to the super frizz. This is where a new and practical kind of artifice comes in—no-set wigs by world-famous designers that give you high styling and no maintenance at reasonable prices.

That's what Tondra Abrams, a young New York wife, mother and part-time student, found out. Instead of chopping off her long straight hair ("It's taken me three years to grow it out to one length.") to achieve the latest carefree layered look, she went happily off on a wig-trying spree and discovered two totally different styles that suit her.

Tondra had a number of designer wigs to choose from. Master hair stylist Vidal Sassoon, whose real-hair creations cost in the hundreds, has a line of synthetic wigs of Kanekalon called "Limited Editions." For $40 you get the master's styling without a trip to his salon. Carita, of Paris and Rome, has a collection of synthetic wigs for Abbott Tresses priced under $50. And fashion designers Halston and Adolfo have also set their talents to styling Dynel wigs (priced between $25 and $55) for Abbott Tresses. Better department stores across the country stock these and more pre-styled designer wigs.

Tondra's favorite was Halston's "Marla" ($40), which she's wearing in the picture above right. A short style, it's perfect for hot summer days and casual clothes. With a twist of a wire brush (the best type for getting the knots out without pulling out the hairs), "Marla" can be combed smooth and close to the head or into a froth of tousled curls.

Tondra's second choice was "Nedra" by Adolfo, a tumble of soft feminine curls, wild and free like a gypsy's. (Pictured on page 14, it costs $45.) Both Tondra's husband Michael, a shoe executive, and her young daughter Kirsten love her choices.

Anyone who wants the new freedom of a wig can now choose from a host of designers as well as styles. From Schiaparelli comes a collection of wigs of Elura, the newest wig fiber. Cost: $40 to $45. Latest from Carita (continued) naturally with your skin tones than the darker shade.

Learn all the tricks before you buy. Have the salesperson show you what style variations are possible with each wig. How should you comb it to achieve a natural-looking hairline? How do you hide a part? If the wig has bangs, can they be swept back or to the side? Try the wig on and start brushing it yourself to see how easily the hair falls into place. Is it too much hair for you or too small a hairdo for your face?

Putting a wig on is as easy as putting on a hat—once you get the hang of it. First, unless your own hair is very short, brush it up from the ears and nape of the neck to the top of your head, twist it into a doughnut shape or secure it with a large clip or stocking cap. (You can make your own cap by cutting the top off a discarded stocking.) If your hair is medium short, just pin it into two pin curls. Take care that the bobby pins cross over, with ends pointing downward so they stay buried in your hair and do not puncture the base of the wig. If your own hair is very long, brush it straight up to the top of your head, twist it and wrap it smoothly around the entire head, turban-style, as you would wind a long rectangular scarf. Pin the ends securely with crossed bobby pins.

When putting on your wig, be sure the label is in the back. Grasp the little inner side tabs firmly and pull the wig on from front to back, like a swim cap. Then hold the crown with one hand and, with the other, pull down the back over the nape of your neck. The side tabs should be in front of your ears when the wig is centered on your head. If your hair in front is short, it’s a good idea to pull a few strands out and blend them with the wig along the hairline. Between wearings, protect your wig from dust. If you keep it on a block, put a light scarf over it—or store it in a box or drawer. For traveling, turn it inside out, wrap it in a tissue or a scarf and tuck it in your handbag or beach bag.

Like Tondra Abrams, discover a new style this summer, and let a no-set designer wig liberate you from constant hair care.

Wash-and-wear wigs make foolproof instant summer hairdos.

is the “Demilongue,” of tapered layered curls, for $45. And for those who like to have it both ways, there’s Sassoon’s “The Veil,” the top short and layered with a fringe of long hair at the neck. Made of Kanekalon, it’s priced at $40.

Synthetic wigs have many advantages. For one, they are wash and wear. They are also prestyled by heat, so that the shape of the hairdo is permanently baked in, yet each wig can be combed or brushed into a variety of hairdos.

Washing a synthetic wig is as simple as washing a hanky. You can use either a wig shampoo (available in most supermarkets and drugstores) or Woolite. Simply swish the wig around in cool water. After washing, rinse it well in cool water, shake out excess water and let the wig dry on a doorknob or drape it over a towel rod. Never brush a synthetic wig while it is damp. When it is completely dry, just shake it to fluff it up and it’s ready to wear. Do not use electric rollers, hair dryer or any form of heat to dry Dynel or Kanekalon wigs.

Only those made of Elura fiber can tolerate heat.

Besides offering a low-cost alternative to tedious hair care, these brightly styled wigs offer you a chance to break out of your mold and have fun. You can choose a wig that is totally different from your own hair in color and style and give yourself a wonderful new image. Wigs today are as much a fashion accessory as jewelry. Although the synthetics can and do look incredibly real, you don’t necessarily have to fool anyone. You can switch from dark blonde to frosted or from gypsy curls to shag in the same spirit you’d switch from hot pants to a long patchwork skirt.

However, when you are trying to match the color of your own hair, do it in natural light—artificial light is deceiving, for it changes the color tones. Ask to take the wig to the store’s or salon’s window. If you cannot match the color exactly, choose a lighter shade. It will look softer and blend in more naturally with your skin tones than the darker shade.

Learn all the tricks before you buy. Have the salesperson show you what style variations are possible with each wig. How should you comb it to achieve a natural-looking hairline? How do you hide a part? If the wig has bangs, can they be swept back or to the side? Try the wig on and start brushing it yourself to see how easily the hair falls into place. PATRIOTIC EMBROIDERY
By Dorothy Lambert Brightbill

Show your colors with these patriotic embroideries. The haloed flag is surrounded by stars. The design is stamped on sky-blue linen-like fabric, size 10½x13¾ inches. The red frame is also available. Hardware is not included.

The unusual banners introduce a technique that will give a lot of effect for very little effort. The designs are silk-screened in full color on 100 percent linen, size 6x38 inches. All you need do is accent each motif in strategic areas with wool yarn. Full instructions make it easy to do. We mounted the banners on flat pieces of shade slats (top and bottom) and hung them with Mexican tassels on plain white china drawer knobs (neither in kit). To order, use cutout coupon below.

Another summer room refresher is the "wet look," and Con-Tact Brand, the granddaddy of the self-adhesive plastics, has it. Called Polished Patent, it comes in a quartet of shiny new prints. One of the two florals, "Acapulco," features today's important brown-black-white combination while the other, "Harlow," is a vibrant red and white. Another print, "Yankee Doodle," sports a stars-and-stripes pattern. There's also "Marquis," a tortoise-shell takeoff in untoroise-like avocado and gold. Other bright new designs in Con-Tact's regular finish are Pucci-reminiscent "Creamsicle"; "Patriot," a red-white-blue homespun check; and "Raindrops," a paintbrush stripe in clear pastels. The regular Con-Tact still sells for only 49¢ a yard, the Polished Patents for 98¢.

THE GLASSLESS LOOKING GLASS

Mirror, mirror, taped to the wall is the newest of them all. Glassless, hence unbreakable, mirrors from the Refex Division of Velero Corporation are so light they can be easily attached to a wall or ceiling with Velero tape fasteners. A 2x4-foot mirror weighs approximately 3 pounds; a conventional glass mirror of the same size, about 25 pounds. In addition to being lightweight, the mirrors are nonmisting, nontarnishing and nonstatic, show true color reflections and have no ghost images. Mirrors are made from .001-inch-thick sheets of aluminum-coated polyester film mounted on a rigid frame with foam-board backing. Shopper's note: Though the smaller Refex mirrors are priced somewhat higher than conventional glass ones ($48 for the 2x4-foot version), the larger mirrors are less expensive than glass mirrors of the same size.

Kitchen cues for better, money-saving meals

NUTRITION TRENDS

Look for more and more foods to be nutritionally enhanced, with an increase of this information on package labels. Half of the top executives in the food industry have already indicated their commitment to these goals and more are sure to follow, thus making it easier for you to be sure your family has its essential daily nutrients.

Some of the nutritional boosting being done includes enriching flour in mixes, adding vitamins to fruit drinks, strengthening margarine with vitamins A and D, fortifying instant potatoes with vitamin C and bolstering children’s cereals with vitamins and minerals.

If you are planning to go on a diet, either to gain or lose weight, use this simple formula to determine your daily calorie requirements: The average adult woman needs about 16.5 calories to maintain each pound of body weight; a man needs about 20. Now just add or subtract to arrive at the weight you desire. Naturally, the more activity and exercise you indulge in, the faster you will burn up these calories. Once you’ve taken care of the day’s basic nutrients, it doesn’t matter what foods you eat to make up the rest of the calories. The day-to-day challenge for most people concerned with their weight is to keep from going over.

OUR COOKS SUGGEST

Save baking minutes the next time you make biscuits—either from a mix or from scratch. Just pat the dough out 1/2 inch thick on a greased baking sheet, cut it into squares or diamonds, separate and bake. There’s no rolling pin or cutter to wash.

Peel garlic easily the chef’s way by putting the clove on a cutting board and hitting it firmly with the flat side of a chef’s knife. The skin will shatter and you can then just pick up the peeled garlic clove.

Add zing to shortcake—a dessert in season now, with berries and fruits so plentiful—by using a teaspoon of grated lemon or orange peel in the dough.

Cool drinks will look even more inviting on a hot day when you sugar-frost the rims of the glasses. Dip the top of each glass in water (or orange, lemon or lime juice if the flavor complements the drink), then into granulated white or colored sugar. Chill until frost is set.

Ice-cream scoops are more versatile than their name implies. Use a small one to shape meatballs; a larger one to put batter into muffin-pan cups. You’ll find you do the job easier, faster and with less mess. And the meatballs or muffins will be uniform in size.

NEW PRODUCTS IN THE KITCHEN

Instant hot water? It’s yours with KitchenAid’s new hot-water dispenser. The unit, which installs easily at the sink or an adjacent counter and connects to the water and electricity, will give you steaming-hot, 190° water at the turn of a knob.

Cleaner than clean dishes are now possible when you push the Magic Red Button on Magic Chef’s latest addition to their dishwasher line. Dirty dishes will be sent through two complete washings, four rinses and two sanitizing.

There is an under-counter as well as portable model. The latter has a 1 1/2-inch maple top and casters that can be removed to convert it into a built-in. Both models hold 16 complete place settings and have other cycles designed for pots and pans, china and crystal.

SASSAFRAS HASSLE

Some months ago a reader inquired about the availability of gumbo filé. The information we had at the time, which we printed, indicated that all sassafras products—of which gumbo filé is one—had been removed from the market several years ago. We have now learned from the Food and Drug Administration that safrole, an extract of sassafras leaves and root bark, is the only sassafras product that is restricted. Sassafras leaves may be used as a natural-flavor substance so long as they are safrole-free. If gumbo filé is available in your market, you can be sure that it meets government standards and is perfectly safe to use. —Frances M. Crawford
PREAM TURNS SIMPLE GELATIN AND STRAWBERRIES INTO BRILLIANT BAVARIAN CREAM

More than milk, more than cream. Pream adds astonishing richness to recipes (just like it does to your coffee!)

Drain strawberries; reserve 1 1/2 C. juice. In top of double boiler combine Pream, sugar, salt and gelatin. Gradually add the 1 1/2 C. strawberry juice, blending well with wire whip or rotary beater. Heat until scalding; remove from heat. Beat egg yolks until light. Add a little of hot Pream mixture to yolks, then stir yolk mixture into remainder of Pream mixture.

Continue cooking, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Remove from heat, stir in strawberries, lemon juice and food coloring. Let cool. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into cooled gelatin mixture. Spoon into lightly oiled shallow 8 cup (2 qt.) mold. Chill until set (at least 4 hours). Unmold on serving plate and garnish with strawberries.

THE CRIB AS ENVIRONMENT

Traditionally, a crib has been thought of as simply a bed for the baby. But today's babies need more than sleep space, say the experts. A crib should also stimulate a child's sensory and physical powers and allow him to control his own environment.

This thinking has inspired two new cribs, both manufactured by Edcom Systems, Inc., of Princeton, N.J. Each is made of structural plastic; one is a hexagonally shaped, three-level extravaganzo and the other is conventionally rectangular. Both, however, feature clear plastic panels that can be replaced with a choice of 40 play modules, such as mirrors, fish tanks, spinning wheels, gears and sand timers. A canopy that comes with the hexagonal crib is designed so that colored sheets, transparent trays or mirrors can be inserted to change the baby's overhead scene.

Parents who are really futuristic might buy electronic options, such as tape recorders, projectors, motorized mobiles or lights that the infant can control with his hand or voice. A hexagonal play table/walker, shown above, with slot-in trays for feeding, play or other needs, is also available. If a parent looks at all this as an investment in his child's education the prices begin to make sense: The rectangular crib sells for $150, the hexagonal one for $325 and the walker for $75. Play modules come in sets of six for $50. For a brochure describing the line, write: Edcom Systems, Inc., 145 Witherspoon St., Princeton, N.J. 08540.

REPRIEVE FOR FIFTH AVENUE

When Best & Co., long established on New York's Fifth Avenue, went out of business and Georg Jensen moved off the avenue, an alarm went up that famous Fifth with its shops and strollers would become a sterile showcase for banks, airline ticket offices and automobile showrooms that would die daily after 5 p.m. An imaginative zoning proposal has saved it.

For the toddler, this play table/walker has slot-in trays. Made of washable plastic, it's one of a line of child environments by Edcom Systems, Inc.

The glamour promenade has been designated by the city as a special shopping district. Developers will receive bonus floor space for providing pedestrian arcades and retail shops on the lower floors of buildings, parks and restaurants on roof terraces and hotels or apartments on floors above offices. Not only will New Yorkers benefit but so will out-of-towners who flock to the city on their shopping sprees.

ECOLOGY IN THE SUPERMARKET

At the suggestion of his 20-year-old daughter Chris, Californian Veryl Alexander, owner of a chain of 10 Alexander's supermarkets in greater Los Angeles, began an intensive campaign to point out the ecological pluses or minuses of products sold in his stores.

He tagged soap products low in phosphates and returnable glass bottles with "ecology preferred" stickers. Plastic egg, meat and produce cartons were replaced with biodegradable trays. Brown paper bags have been printed with the message, "Make ecology your bag. Take a minute to take a stand against pollution. Jot down your feelings and mail them to the Congressman of your district." (Writing space is provided on the bag.) Arrangements have also been made with the United Ecological Association to install newspaper recycling depots at the parking lot of each store. Since January, the chain's sales have increased by 5 percent.

GLUE GUIDE

With so many types of glue on the market, who's to know what adhesive to use where? In 3M Company's "Scotch Glue Guide" (Z-RRS-2), a table lists specific glues and the materials with which they can be used. For a free copy, write: 3M Company, P.O. Box 3686, St. Paul, Minn. 55101. —Barbara Plumb

If you want an idea of how our furniture works in your rooms, come see how it works in ours.

A lot of people buy furniture blind. They buy a sofa in a store where all they see is how it looks along side other sofas. They go from store to store buying rugs, lamps, drapes and coffee tables the same way.

But only when they get everything home can they see how it all looks together.

We at Ethan Allen Galleries offer an alternative to this haphazard way of decorating a room.

We don't show you furniture and ask you to imagine how it will look in room settings.

We show it to you in room settings. Much like the ones you see above, only lots more of them.

An Ethan Allen Gallery also saves you the time and trouble of running all over town buying one piece here and another piece there. That's because we carry a complete line of furniture, lamps, rugs and accessories—all by Ethan Allen.

And if we're starting to sound like more than just furniture salesmen, it's only because we are. We're professional home planners. Specially trained to help with whatever decorating problem you might have.

Even if it's to show you what your room will look like before it's your room.

Drop in soon. And when you do, pick up a $5 value for free. It's called the "Ethan Allen Treasury of American Traditional Interiors." A 358-page book chock full of all kinds of decorating ideas.

And a generous display of what we carry. Which is one of the reasons it's free.

For the Ethan Allen Gallery nearest you, see the listing on the opposite page.

THE AVANT GARDENER By Lawrence V. Power

THE AUTOMATED LAWN
Join the gardeners' lib movement with an underground sprinkler system.

On hot summer afternoons, every homeowner dreams of the freedom of totally automated lawn care. Actually, the dream is fast becoming a reality. The development of improved mowing equipment and the widespread use of lawn tractors are a help, but the real liberator of the yard slave is the automatic underground sprinkler system. Probably more overall time is spent hand watering or moving devices around than any other lawn-care activity. As a result, automatic watering is steadily gaining acceptance. There are over 500,000 home systems in operation today. But there are still many misconceptions about watering in general, and specifically about automatic underground systems.

Are they expensive? Do they use more water? Will installations destroy the lawn? Should you operate the system at night? Can you install the system yourself? For most homeowners, automation, even the ground-level variety, is clouded in mystery.

Automatic underground sprinkler systems have been around for half a century. However, in recent years the cost has been reduced substantially by new sprinkler heads that give wider coverage, and by the use of plastic pipe. This is more effective and longer lasting than the earlier galvanized, brass or copper piping.

COST OF AUTOMATIC WATERING
Although a system still requires a major investment for the homeowner, it will undoubtedly increase the value of the property and can be purchased under a low-cost home improvement loan. Most systems (continued on page 30)

I was a sneaky eater, before I lost 124 pounds.

By Jennie Marini—as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

Sure, I tried to reduce. But the minute I'd cut down a little, my mother would start saying: "What? Are you sick? Eat!" She thought diets could mean the end of you. So instead of arguing, I'd eat. That's how the years rolled on. And the fat.

Eventually, my son and daughter married. And I got a job near where I live, in Raritan, New Jersey. I was out of the kitchen, at last, but unfortunately not far from food. I became an aide at Somerset Hospital and as much as I kept saying that I was going to reduce, I was always sneaking snacks. It never mattered that I ate enough at home. Come time for the free meal at the hospital and Jennie loaded her plate.

Then one day the women I work with started talking about those reducing-plan candies, Ayds*. "You believe in them Marini?" they asked. And I said: "No." But still I kept seeing the pictures of the slim women in the magazines and I kept wondering. So finally I went to the drugstore and bought a box of the chocolate fudge Ayds, though I could have had any one of the other flavors.

After the family started:

"What kind of medicine is that?"

But that much I had checked into. It was't medicine. I read everything in the direction folder and learned Ayds contains vitamins and minerals, but no drugs. So I began with the Ayds Plan, to see if it really works. And I got to tell you, it works. First of all, I cut out sneaking food. Instead I took a couple of Ayds for snacks. They're only 26 calories each. Before meals, I took one or two with a hot drink, tea for me, and those Ayds really helped me eat less. Honestly. It was sort of like starting off with dessert. Right away I was satisfied. Of course, I ate meat and greens, too. And I'm telling you, that Ayds Plan works.

When the weight started coming off, everybody in the hospital was talking about it. Even one of the doctors said: "Are you that fat lady that used to sit and rock on her porch?"

My husband, he had to go and make a joke of it. Now that I am so slim, thanks to Ayds, he keeps saying to me: "I'm sleeping with a Sam!" But I notice that he gets very jealous, real Italian-style, if anybody even so much as looks my way.

At 240 pounds, you can see that I was far from a beach beauty. No wonder I put on dark glasses and a hat.

Here I am, at 116 pounds. And to think, I was one of those people who never believed it could be done.

Are You Doing Everything You Should for Your Skin?

The woman who yearns to maintain the youthful-looking splendour of her skin can do it perhaps a great deal more easily than she has been led to believe. By cherishing her complexion twice a day with a beauty fluid based on a unique blend containing tropical moist oils, she may find that a smoother, younger-looking skin beauty can be maintained easily and simply.

Women have searched for centuries to find ways to sustain the petal-soft splendour of a young-looking skin. But only recently have beauty researchers uncovered the secrets of a beauty fluid that aids nature in achieving a balance of oil and moisture desirable for a younger-looking complexion. Lavished on the face and neck, morning and night, this unusual beauty liquid has a remarkable ability to help the skin maintain a lovely, natural, healthy look.

The specially formulated blend combines readily with the skin's own beauty fluids. Early in life, when the complexion is at its peak of glowing perfection, nature itself supplies just the right amount of oil and moisture. But as time passes, these natural secretions slow and the skin shows the need of complementary fluids. It is then that Oil of Olay is particularly helpful as part of a twice-daily beauty ritual. It easily helps toward the delicate balance necessary to make the complexion feel smooth and supple.

This tropical beauty fluid penetrates the important top layer of the skin to soothe away the dryness that emphasizes wrinkles. It also provides an efficient barrier that helps retain moisture in the skin, despite sudden changes in climate and regardless of artificial heating and cooling systems.

With regular use, you will become aware quite quickly of the changes in the way your complexion looks. Just by stroking Oil of Olay over the skin, preferably twice a day, you become a partner in making you look and feel young and alive. The beauty fluid provides a superb base for cosmetics, providing a smooth skin surface that keeps make-up from streaking or separating. Simply apply Oil of Olay evenly over your entire face and neck and allow it to be quickly and completely absorbed before making up. Your cosmetics will remain fresh-looking for hours, while the beautifying liquid treasures and protects your skin.

This Moisturizing Fluid, available from druggists in the United States as Oil of Olay, can also be obtained in most other countries of the world.

cost about 10 to 15 cents a square foot. Prices are determined by the system installed, the local cost of labor, the number of trees and shrubs, the shape of your property and your type of soil.

Part of the investment in a sprinkler system is returned through lower water bills. Most people assume that since an automatic sprinkler system keeps the grass greener and has a set program, it will use more water. But it uses much less than hand watering since it may be programmed to supply only as much water as is needed for healthy turf. The best-designed systems deliver water only as fast as the soil can absorb it—like a gentle rain—so there is no loss from runoff.

WHEN TO WATER

Automated lawn watering can be scheduled to operate in the early morning—from 4 to 6 a.m.—when water pressure is highest and loss from evaporation and wind is lowest. There is a misconception that watering at night causes fungus to develop. Watering before sunrise washes away dew and actually inhibits fungus and bacteria. A look at the local golf club dispels doubts about night watering. Golf-course superintendents, who are the real pros when it comes to grass, always set their systems to run before sunrise. Daytime watering is limited to cooling the grass during prolonged hot weather.

Lawns are not crisscrossed with trenches and covered with mounds of earth when an underground system is installed. Actually, new pipe-pulling and sodding equipment barely disturbs the lawn. The pulling equipment, which is best for sandy or rock-free soil, has a bar with a pipe attached at the bottom. As the bar moves through the soil, laying the pipe, it leaves only a surface slit.

In rocky soil, a sodding machine cuts a narrow strip of grass. This is then removed and a machine that digs a trench—1 to 3 inches wide—is opened to receive the pipe. Once this is laid and the soil and sod replaced, all that shows are two pencil-thin lines. In 7 to 10 days, no evidence of either installation method is visible. Most important, the average installation can be completed in one day.

*AH Editor's note: According to Toro Manufacturing Corp., a leading producer in the field, an automatic sprinkler system for a quarter-acre lot costs about $800 and can be financed through the FHA.

MONTICELLO COLORS FOR TODAY

How much you use of a color is just as important as the shades you work with. To translate the elegant, subtle schemes of Monticello (as shown in the American Treasury, beginning on page 41) for use in today's rooms, we merely varied the amount of each color. In each case, we show modern versions of the original colors as paint samples, the new wall color on the paint stick. The rest of the new color scheme is represented by a complementary fabric and floor covering. The results: new and fresh-looking but with Monticello's historic charm. As usual, it's all a matter of proportion.

For a more modern scheme, we suggest Sherwin-Williams' "Nougat" (putty color on paint stick) for the walls. The chintz—Cyrus Clark's "Mandarin"—combines putty with a soft beige background as in the original room. The red is vibrantly repeated in Alexander Smith's "Red Afghan" rug.

Monticello has its own lawyer's office (inset above). Walls are the pale blue of a summer sky; woodwork is a deeper tone of the same color. Documentary drapery print teams camel and brown. Four paint samples are shown at left of inset. We like the camel (sampled on the paint stick, it's Sherwin-Williams' "Autumn Beech Accent") for the walls of a contemporary living or dining room. We visualize Waverly's hard-edge geometric "Dimensions" at the windows and Trend Carpet's deep-pile, espresso-brown "Americana" shag covering the floor wall to wall.
What a wonderful idea. A cigarette as feminine as the ring you wear, the lipstick you carry. That’s Eve. With pretty filter tip. Pretty pack. Rich, yet gentle flavor.

Women have been feminine since Eve. Now cigarettes are feminine. Since Eve. For the lady with taste. Also with menthol.
When tender, exotic California Avocados meet their perfect match, velvety smooth Kraft Mayonnaise, the mayonnaise lovers' mayonnaise, beautiful things are sure to happen. See them happen when you try these two:

Summer Delight—First, choose a ripe avocado, one that yields gently to pressure. Then arrange avocado slices around the sides of a brandy snifter and layer grapes, peach slices, blueberries, melon balls, and fresh strawberries cut in half, in the center. Serve with a tangy Topaz Dressing. Combine 1 C. Kraft Mayonnaise, ¼ C. coconut, 2 T. honey and 2 T. grated orange rind. Fold in ½ C. heavy cream, whipped. Chill. Sprinkle with additional grated orange rind, if desired. Makes 2 ½ cups dressing.

Hollywood Potato Salad—Combine 3 C. diced potatoes, ½ C. sliced celery, 4 slices crisply cooked bacon, (crumbled), 3 T. sliced green onion, 3 T. chopped pimiento, 2 tsp. Kraft Prepared Mustard, ½ tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. pepper with enough Kraft Mayonnaise to moisten; toss lightly. Chill. Then spoon into avocado halves and arrange on lettuce. 8 servings. Variation: Peel and dice 2 avocados, add to potato salad and moisten with additional mayonnaise. Toss lightly. Serve in lettuce-lined bowl.

KRAFT

Monticello’s formal parlor (inset below)—its light beige, putty and soft green echoed in the paint samples—inspired this scheme for a today bedroom. On the walls, we used Sherwin-Williams’ “Foliage Green” (on paint stick), which repeats the colors of the original draped table and swagged draperies. The background of Bloomcraft’s “Elysée” chintz is a similar soft, Wedgwood green; Lees’ “Pompeian” red velvet carpet echoes one of the chintz colors. Though red does not appear in the Monticello room, it would add vivacity to the modern scheme.

Jefferson’s guest room (inset left) has trellised wallpaper in shades of green on a beige background, watery green woodwork and a touch of blue in the quilt—the colors shown on the paint samples. In our version of the color scheme we suggest Sherwin-Williams’ “Turtle Green Accent” (on paint stick) as a wall color. The olive shade was picked up in Hardwick & Magee’s “Basketry” geometric rug and repeated in Everfast’s “Sierra” casement cloth. The derivative treatment would work equally well for a den-study or living-dining room.

THOMAS JEFFERSON'S FAVORITE FLOWERS

By Dorothy Lambert Brightbill

Jefferson was a man of rare and many interests, including flowers. Here is a bouquet of his favorites, as mentioned in his garden records, for you to embroider. Complementing it is an antique music stand such as Jefferson might have used, with music he could well have played on his violin. The exquisite flowers are embroidered with very simple stitches: loop, outline, satin, French knot, split stitch and straight stitch. Stitch charts and color guide help you to copy each bloom faithfully. The design is stamped on creamy white 100 percent linen, size 14 x 18 inches, and the Peri Luster embroidery thread is included to give a silklklike gloss. The frame is also available.

“No woman is physically fit to run an auto,” declared the Mayor of Cincinnati in 1908. But that didn’t mean she wasn’t fit enough to get one going.

You’ve come a long way, baby.

Virginia Slims.
Slimmer than the fat cigarettes men smoke.
With rich Virginia flavor women like.
The house that inspired these words, written 184 years ago in a letter to a friend, is a great house. Seen today (above), it crowns the Virginia landscape, reaches into the earth, hungers for the sky. Without, it is classic, compact. Within, its perfectly proportioned rooms reflect a free yet orderly spirit. It is the house of Thomas Jefferson, who drew up not only a liberating political document but also a liberating house. He began it as a young man and worked at its "re-edification" until—his wishes ended, "where I hope my days will end"—he died at 83. With travel and study his intellect evolved; so did his house. Monticello, as shown on these pages, is a beautiful mind.
By Mary Evans

No detail was too large or too small to escape Jefferson's attention. As a young man he taught himself architecture and thereafter made precise drawings of everything from cellar vaults to fireplace moldings, from classic cornices to window draperies. In all this he was virtually unique. The Marquis De Chastellux, who visited Monticello in 1782, wrote that "Mr. Jefferson is the first American who has consulted the Fine Arts to know how he should shelter himself from the weather." But seven years later Jefferson all but tore down Monticello, to double it in size, add a dome and such French innovations as bed alcoves, dumbwaiters and an inside privy.

"Domestic life and literary pursuits were my first and my latest inclinations...."
For his own alcove bedroom, Jefferson designed the bed hangings. At the swivel chair he wrote his letters, copying them on a polygraph set on the table. The oval openings in the wall are for light and air.
In January 1772, Jefferson brought his bride, the 23-year-old widow Martha Wayles Skelton, to this small pavilion (below). Known as the Honeymoon Cottage, it was the first building completed at Monticello and has “one room, which, like the cobbler’s serves for parlour for kitchen and hall. I may add, for bedchamber and study too ...”

In Jefferson’s time this entrance hall (opposite) was a small museum of natural history, with paintings, statuary, mammal bones and Indian antiquities. Cornice and neoclassic frieze embellish upper walls. The antlers were brought back from the Northwest by the Lewis and Clark expedition. Lewis, a fellow Virginian, was a neighbor of Jefferson’s.
Monticello's beginnings reflect Jefferson's love for one woman, his enchanting young bride Martha. Of their six children, only two survived to adulthood, and Martha herself died young. Still the house kept evolving—to accommodate his daughters and their children, to satisfy his passion for building. As the house found its shape, so did the young country.
A master gardener, Jefferson devoted himself to the flowering of Monticello. "No occupation is so delightful to me as the culture of the earth, and no culture comparable to that of the garden. But though an old man, I am but a young gardener." Here and on our cover is a bouquet, rendered in exquisite needlework, embracing Jefferson's favorite flowers, which you can embroider and frame to treasure. See kit featured on page 38.

"The needle is then a valuable resource."

Jefferson advised his older daughter Martha to learn needlework: "Music, drawing, books, invention, and exercise, will be so many resources to you against ennui... In the country life of America there are many moments when a woman can have recourse to nothing but her needle for employment. In a dull company and in dull weather, for instance, it is ill manners to read; it is ill manners to leave them; no card-playing there among genteel people..."
1. This Waterford crystal epergne, used to hold candied ginger, grapes and pecans, was given by Jefferson to the second wife of his son-in-law, John Wayles Eppes. He had been married to Jefferson's beloved daughter, Mary, dead at the age of 26.

2. Jefferson's French silver coffee urn was made in Paris in 1787 for 309 francs. It is believed to be the first piece of silver he himself designed, and he called it his "coffee pot." It bears the arms of the English family of Jefferson.

3. For dining privacy, Jefferson installed a pair of dumbwaiters to flank the dining-room fireplace. One brings up new bottles from the wine cellar; the other takes down empties. In the butler's secretary are Jefferson's china and silver.

4. During his years in Paris as Minister to France, Jefferson became one of the first American art patrons. Here in the entrance hall of Monticello are copies of busts—one of the French Minister Turgot (background), the other of Jefferson. He was also an inventor of great originality: On the wall are the cannonball weights of his famous seven-day clock. The slow descent of the weights marked off the days.

5. On the entrance-hall ceiling is this curious design of an eagle surrounded by 18 stars. Two are seven-pointed, nine are six-pointed and seven are five-pointed. No one has discovered the meaning of this unusual symbolism, apparently of Jefferson's own design. From the eagle is suspended a lamp which burns olive oil.
"Architecture is my delight...."

Edging a small mountain near Charlottesville, Edgemont has two stories in the rear (above left), but only one story appears in front. Porches extend on four sides. It was built, according to Jefferson's favorite formula, in 1796 by a friend needing a healthful retreat from the lowlands. Exquisitely proportioned, it floats above a five-level garden.

Edgemont's elegant dining room (left) was once the dirt-floored kitchen. Fireplace is the original. Table and Hepplewhite chairs belong to the present owners, cattle breeders Mr. and Mrs. Parker Snead.
Monticello was not the only domestic building Jefferson designed. He was responsible also for a number of private houses, most on a smaller scale than Monticello but following the same neoclassic principles of architecture. Friends often asked him to sketch plans for their own upland retreats, like Edgemont, shown opposite. In his later years, following his Presidency from 1801–9, he was besieged by constant hordes of visitors. To escape, he built for himself, many miles away, the first octagonal house in America, called Poplar Forest. Here he was able to read, play with his grandchildren and entertain those friends he most wished to see.
Like many young couples bent on city living, New Yorkers Peter and Linda Berman started out in a rather ordinary apartment of no distinctive style. But architect Peter decided to create his own look in his Kip's Bay Manhattan high-rise by using seating platforms. "The levels are functional and they lend a softness to a rather austere, unexciting place."

A table, resting on one of the platforms, suggests a division between the dining and living areas; opposite is sofa-like seating, and on the sides are platform benches—plywood carpeted with natural wool—that also serve as bookcases and hide storage space. A pair of comfortable modern chairs supplements the multiple seating. Peter designed the platforms to double as tables. Says Linda, "He can't stand coffee tables—he's always walking into them or knocking something off them."

The window coverings, also Peter's creation, are in keeping with the mood of the room. They consist of translucent Plexiglas panels on a sliding track; light enters during the day, and at night there is perfect privacy. The color scheme throughout the apartment is kept to a neutral white and beige so that art and color accents can be changed frequently.

For another couple who prefer country living, just turn the page.

CITY LIVING FOR THE 1970'S

By Barbara Plumb
The Bermans' 15x25-foot living area (above) can seat 20 people on dual-level platforms that provide hidden storage. Sofa-like unit is made of leather cushions and backs. Architectural model, designed by Peter, is displayed as a sculpture.

Bedroom (left) doubles as a studio. To save space, the bed was designed with storage drawers (which Linda, shown here, puts to plenty of use). The chaise in foreground is by Le Corbusier.

Peter (right) keeps his record collection in a storage bin under one of the living-area seating platforms. Wall graphic—a silk screen on acrylic sheet—is by New York artist Stephen Lepp.
For architect Tim Prentice and his wife Marie, a cluster of buildings on an old dairy farm in Litchfield County, Conn., suggested the perfect change of pace from the pressures and anonymity of city living. Since both admired what they called the "Andrew Wyeth look" of the old structure, they were opposed to giving it a slick, finished urban treatment.

Watered-down paint maintains the rustic quality of the old siding. The ice house is now a youngsters' club house, presided over by daughters Nora, 9, and Phoebe, 8. The barn holds hay, farm machinery and a Ping-Pong table. ("It's the first place the kids take their friends," says Marie.)

The original part of the farmhouse, built in 1790, was turned into the kind of spacious living room that home-owners and apartment dwellers long for. The old 7-foot-high ceiling was removed, allowing the space to soar to its full 26-foot height. A new portion, lined with stairs that lead to the second floor of the 1830 part of the house, is painted an orange enamel to set it apart from the earlier structure. The furnishings are a comfortable mix of modern and secondhand rural.

Vertical-board treatment of the outbuildings (upper left) contrasts with horizontal siding of main house. Pigsty, at far right, was converted into outdoor living room.

The Prentices (left), in their outdoor room, bite into some garden-fresh corn. Tim removed two sides, whitewashed the studs "to bring out the bones." Red barn and vintage car are also part of the Prentice world.

Ernst Haas
Living room's ceiling was ripped out to expose old beams. Industrial lamps along ceiling peak temper the lofty scale; old phonograph horn and dress form add nostalgic touches. Stairs lead to a guest sleeping area.

RED SWEEPS IN

Poppy, paprika, pimento, flame, tomato—call it what you will—RED is running riot through our nation's kitchens. The color explosion started with pots and pans, spread to small appliances and cleaning gear and has now hit the latest and largest entry, the refrigerator-freezer. Toasters, can openers, mixers and blenders, even the red-hot corn popper, add dash to the counter top. You don't have to hide these show-offs behind cabinet doors. For instant convenience and an exciting graphic display, hang the compact vacuum shown and the usual assortment of dustpan, broom, sponge and dust mops, which also come in hot reds, on white pegboard. Even the kitchen sink can be pepped up. A flashy drainer and dishpan may not make dishwashing more fun but it might make it less drab. Look for the new reds in leading stores across the country. All prices are approximate.
Pasta is undoubtedly one of Italy's great contributions to world gastronomy. Obligingly versatile in fine Italian hands, it responds to a legion of sauces. And none is more unusual than the piquant invention from Genoa—pesto, an uncooked and unheated blend of fresh basil, garlic, cheese, nuts and oil. The preparation, done the classic way with a mortar and pestle, as pictured opposite, is simple though it does take patience and care. Even in Genoa, some cooks today use a blender, which is quicker and very efficient. Pesto is traditionally served with trenette, a ribbon-like noodle, but it can dress spaghetti or any other kind of pasta. Or try a touch of the sauce in vegetable soup as the Italians often do. There is an old saying that he who eats pesto never leaves Genoa. But now it's yours to enjoy without ever leaving home.
PASTA AL PESTO

Put basil leaves, pignoli, garlic, 1/2 teaspoon salt and pepper into a mortar. Pound with pestle until the mixture is smooth and pastelike. Stir in cheeses and mix well. Add olive oil gradually until the sauce is the consistency of creamed butter. Pesto sauce can also be made in a blender. Just whirl all the ingredients until the sauce is smooth.

Bring water and 2 tablespoons of salt to a rapid boil in a large kettle. Drop in the pasta without breaking the strands. Stir with a large fork until strands are separated and none is sticking to the bottom of the pan. Boil over high heat 15 to 20 minutes or until as tender as desired, stirring occasionally. Pasta should never be soft or mushy—then it is overcooked. It should be al dente—that is, firm but chewy to the bite. About 3 to 4 minutes before the end of the cooking time, take a strand and bite it. Test every minute until it is al dente. Drain, reserving a few tablespoons of the water. Return pasta to kettle. Add the butter or margarine, cut in pieces, and toss until it is melted.

Place pasta on warm platter. If sauce seems too thick, stir in some of the reserved cooking water until of the right consistency. Spoon sauce over pasta. Toss it at the table and serve grated cheese separately to sprinkle on top. Makes 4 servings.

*Genuine pesto is always made with fresh basil. If unavailable, you may make a substitute sauce with 1 cup coarsely chopped spinach leaves, 1/2 cup coarsely chopped Italian parsley and 2 tablespoons dried basil leaves.

Ice cream is a venerable and distinguished American sweet. Records show that George Washington owned "a cream machine for Ice." (Whether he used it or not is another matter.) But Thomas Jefferson, who learned to make ice cream in France, gave us the first recipe. In his own handwriting, it reveals a domestic interest typical of this remarkable, multifaceted man—subject of our American Treasury beginning on page 41.

Jefferson’s version was not too different from a recipe of today. Here, three of the flavors that appear in his cookbook—lemon, peach and strawberry—are resplendent in a gleaming 18th-century silver bowl (from New York’s James Robinson, Inc.), just as they might have been served at Monticello. Over the years, ice cream became a part of the American way of life and making it was a Sunday family ritual.

Today, perhaps because our modern ice-cream freezers make it so easy and the results so delicious, there seems to be a homemade ice-cream revival. All the details and can’t-miss recipes you need to join the trend begin on page 70.

HOMEMADE ICE CREAM
Smart planning is the key to relaxed summer dining. The secret is in a menu that combines simple ingredients with prepare-ahead flexibility. In the dinner pictured above, soup, salad and dessert are all done in the morning, leaving only the lamb chop-vegetable medley to cook when your guests arrive—and this will take only about 20 minutes. Recipes for the dishes starred plus three more dinner-for-6 menus with their recipes begin on page 62.
DIRECTIONS
Empty soup into pan. Stir in 1 can of water. Heat to boiling, stirring occasionally. Makes about 2 1/2 cups of soup.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP: Prepare as above using milk or cream instead of water.
TOMATO SAUCE: Empty soup into pan. Add a little water, if desired. Heat, stirring occasionally. May be seasoned with prepared mustard, horseradish, Worcestershire or herbs. Serve on hamburgers, pork chops, fish, etc. Makes about 1 1/2 cups of sauce.

CHICKEN MARENGO
3 lb. chicken parts
3 tbsp. shortening
1 can Campbell's Golden Mushroom Soup
1 can Campbell's Tomato Soup
1 medium clove garlic, minced
1 lb. (about 1/2) small whole white onions

In large skillet, brown chicken in shortening; pour off fat. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover; simmer 45 min. or until tender. Stir now and then. Uncover; cook until desired consistency. 6 servings.

RECIPE

If you haven’t read any good soup labels lately, you may be surprised to discover how revealing a soup label can be.

Start with the name. After more than a hundred years, we think it’s fair to say that Campbell’s needs no introduction. Suffice it to say that every can of soup that bears the Campbell name has earned it.

Then, you might turn to the table of contents. Here it’s important to note not only the ingredients themselves, but the order in which they appear. By law, all ingredients must be listed by order of volume. In Campbell’s Tomato Soup, for instance, there are more tomatoes than anything else, so tomatoes come first in the listing. With enriched wheat flour second. Followed by sugar, salt, vegetable oil, butter, natural spice oils and Vitamin C.

Checking the ingredients and the order in which they’re listed can help you to make sound value judgments when comparing various brands of packaged foods.

Next, look for recipes and serving suggestions. That kind of helpful information tells you a lot about a company’s attitude toward homemakers. Campbell’s Soup labels provide you with a unique kind of revolving recipe file. And each and every recipe of the dozens that appear on Campbell’s Soup labels is carefully developed, kitchen-tested, easy to prepare and foolproof.

In short, you can tell a lot about our soup by its cover. But the final test comes when you open a can of America’s best-selling soup and taste the flavor of fresh, sun-ripened tomatoes seasoned with a dash of real butter. That’s the payoff. And all for about 5¢ a 7-ounce serving.

*Campbell’s Tomato Soup is America’s best-selling soup.
GLAZED BABY CARROTS

2 cans (12 ounces each) baby carrots, drained

2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 medium-size onion, coarsely diced

Salt

Garlic salt

Trim each piece into an olive shape. Heat olive oil and butter or margarine in large skillet. Add onion, zucchini, garlic salt and pepper. Sauté over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until just tender. Add pimiento. Cook 1 minute. Makes 6 servings.

ANCHOVY-STUFFED EGGS

4 egg yolks, slightly beaten

1 teaspoon pepper

1 teaspoon garlic salt

Anchovy paste

Butter or margarine

LEMON-LIME CHIFFON PIE

Crust:

1 1/2 cups crushed graham-cracker crumbs

1/4 cup softening butter or margarine

1 cup sugar

Filling:

1 envelope unflavored gelatin

1 cup sugar

1/4 cup water

1/4 cup lemon juice

3 tablespoons lime juice

4 egg yolks, slightly beaten

4 egg whites

1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar

4 tablespoons sugar

Heat oven to 350°. Prepare crust: Mix crumbs, butter or margarine and sugar in bowl. Spread mixture firmly on bottom and sides of lightly buttered 9-inch pie plate. Bake 8 minutes. Set aside to cool.

Prepare filling: Combine gelatin, 1 cup sugar, water, lemon juice, lime juice and egg yolks in saucepan; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture just comes to boiling. Remove from heat; cool. Chill until mixture mounds when spooned. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar in large bowl until foamy; beat in 4 tablespoons sugar gradually. Continue beating until meringue forms stiff, glossy peaks. Fold lemon-lime mixture into meringue; spoon into pastry shell. Chill 2 to 3 hours. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Price isn’t the best part (eating is).

At Banquet we think a good pie is more important than a good buy. It has to be as good as you’d make yourself. Flaky, golden crusts. Generous meat and vegetable fillings. Creamy sauces.

Ours aren’t just for kids and babysitters. Put in a supply and let everyone in on them.

Thank goodness for Banquet.
COLORFUL ANEMONE KITS

"Blooming News" (left) brings to mind the flower vendor, a pleasant sight in city or town. The colorful anemone stitchery, enhanced with raised pompon flower centers, is refreshing. Compatible pillow (below), which also features raised pompon centers, is creative needlepoint at its best.

This handsome anemone picture, "Blooming News," is stamped on rough white 100 percent cotton fabric, finished size 18x22 inches. The easy-to-assemble, gold-edged wood frame is also available. (We covered the edge with violet velvet ribbon—not in kit.) The pillow cover, size 13x14 inches, is a new concept for needlepoint at an unbelievably low price.

The flowers are standard needlepoint with raised pompon centers. The background is more fun to do than usual because it is filled with easy, fast-working diagonal Bargello stitches that form small squares—an exceptionally attractive design that requires little effort. Our pillow has velvet ribbon cording and a velvet back (not included in kit). Kits include yarns, stitch charts, color guides and easy-to-follow instructions.

Even though ice cream is so easy to buy, more and more people are investing in home ice-cream freezers for the sheer fun and rich-taste rewards of making their own. Today's freezers, available in hardware or housewares stores or departments, come in electric and hand-operated models. They range from $11 to $37, depending on capacity (2, 4, 5 or 6 quarts) and the type of material used in the pail or bucket. This may be wood, fiberglass, polyethylene or polypropylene. In addition, a freezer has a can or container with a cover, a cork, a dasher and a motor or hand crank. Manufacturers include Sears, Proctor-Silex, Richmond Cedar Works Manufacturing Corp., J. E. Porter Company, J. C. Penney and Hobart Manufacturing Company (which makes an attachment for a KitchenAid mixer).

CAN'T-MISS TIPS FOR ICE CREAM

Be certain the can, cover and dasher of your ice-cream freezer are clean. Wash them with hot, soapy water and rinse. Allow the can to cool thoroughly before pouring in the ice-cream mixture.

Prepare the mixture, cover it and refrigerate for 12 to 24 hours before freezing. This will speed the ice-cream making and produce smoother, finer-textured results.

Use 8 parts crushed or cracked ice to 1 part special coarse ice-cream salt and have both ready before you begin. The finer the crush of ice, the smoother the ice cream's texture will be.

When you set the empty can into the freezer pail and insert the dasher, be sure the can is centered on the pivot in the bottom of the pail.

Fill the freezer can only ⅔ full with the chilled ice-cream mixture to allow room for it to expand. Place the cover securely on the can and set the motor or hand-crank unit in place over the dasher. Lock it in place.

For electric models, start the motor by plugging in the unit. Let it run about 2 minutes before packing the ice and salt. This will allow the mixture to churn evenly. On hand-crank models, begin the churning after you've packed the ice and salt.

To pack the freezer, sprinkle about 3 inches of ice into the pail, then a layer of salt and repeat until pail is filled. During the freezing, add additional ice and salt to keep tub filled just to the cover of the can.

Caution: too much salt will cause the ice cream to freeze too quickly and a solid layer will form on the inside of the can. If this happens, remove the dasher and stir down the ice cream. Then replace the dasher and cover and drain the pail. Repack with the correct 8-to-1 proportion of ice and salt and continue the freezing.

Be certain to keep the drain opening clear during the cranking. Should the spout clog, free it by inserting a pencil into the opening.

Hand-crank models take about 20 minutes of steady cranking, but you will probably have to stop and rest once in a while so the overall time will be longer. Allow 20 to 30 minutes for electric models. The ice cream is ready when the mixture is the consistency of mush. On an electric model, wait until the motor begins to slow and stall. Unplug as soon as motor stalls.

Clear away ice and salt. Remove cover and pull out dasher. Scrape ice cream from dasher. Push ice cream down into can and replace cover. Put cork in hole in cover.

To "ripen" ice cream, drain water from bucket. Repack with 4 parts ice to 1 part salt until can and lid are completely covered. Cover bucket with newspaper and allow to stand 2 to 3 hours. The ice cream may also be hardened in the freezer by removing can from brine, covering ice cream directly with wax paper and replacing the cover. Place can directly in freezer for 2 to 3 hours. Ice cream may also be spooned into plastic containers, covered tightly and stored in the freezer.

Ordinarily canned hams aren't smoked. But Rath Hams are—with genuine, hardwood hickory, no less.

Rath believes that ham you buy in a can should be more than just a boneless, skinless, easy-to-carve convenience. It should be smoked with hickory, fragrant with hickory right down to its lean, pink center.

That's why we still slow smoke over lazy hickory fires the old-fashioned smokehouse way. It costs us a little more, but we think you'll agree the flavor difference is well worth it.

½ cup lemon juice
4 cups (1 quart) heavy cream

Combine sugar, salt and flour in saucepan; stir in milk gradually. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to boiling. Stir half of mixture slowly into beaten eggs; stir into mixture in saucepan; cook 1 minute. Remove from heat; cool. Add lemon peel and juice. Chill. Pour lemon mixture and heavy cream into freezer can. Follow manufacturer's directions or directions above for freezing. Makes 3 ½ quarts.

ORANGE ICE CREAM

Substitute orange juice for milk; add 2 tablespoons grated orange peel. Omit lemon peel and juice. Recipe may be reduced by one-half.

Take the dirt out of permanent press. Not the colors.

It's tough to get the dirt out of oily soil (without enzymes or phosphates). It'll keep the dirt in the wash water from settling back into your clothes. And it'll bring out the best in your colors, instead of washing them out. Even if you're using one of the new non-phosphate detergents.

Borateem helps keep permanent press a little more permanent.

CHOCOLATE-ALMOND ICE CREAM: Use Basic or Custard-Based Vanilla Ice Cream recipe. Freeze until mixture is mushy. Add 1 1/2 cups grated semi-sweet chocolate or finely chopped semi-sweet chocolate pieces and 1 1/2 cups chopped toasted almonds. Freeze as directed.

MACAROON ICE CREAM: Use Basic or Custard-Based Vanilla Ice Cream recipe. Reduce sugar by 1/2 cup. Omit vanilla and add 1/2 cup sweet sherry. Freeze until mixture is mushy. Add 1 1/2 cups macaroon crumbs to mixture and continue to churn until mixture is thick. Freeze as directed.

MEXICAN CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM
A hint of cinnamon brings out the rich chocolate flavor.
4 squares unsweetened chocolate
4 cans (13 ounces each) evaporated milk
2 cups sugar
3/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
3/4 teaspoon salt
4 eggs, well beaten
Combine chocolate and 1 can evaporated milk in medium-size saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until chocolate melts completely. Stir in remaining evaporated milk gradually. Add sugar; stir until dissolved. Remove mixture from heat. Stir in cinnamon and salt. Cool mixture to room temperature. Pour into beaten eggs; stir to blend. Pour into gallon freezer container. Follow manufacturer's directions or directions above for freezing. Makes about 3 quarts. Recipe may be reduced by one-half.

Jam, jelly and preserves in glistening glass jars are a delicious, year-round remembrance of summer.

How is one different from the other? Jam is made with whole crushed berries or fruit cooked with sugar to a soft consistency. Jelly is the juice of the fruit boiled with sugar, often with pectin added to help it set. Preserves are whole or sliced fruits in a heavy sugar syrup. Below, following our directions for sterilizing jars, is a trio of recipes, one for each variety, that are easy and timely—now that berries and fruit are in peak supply.

NO-COOK RASPBERRY JELLY

1. Prepare eight 8-ounce jars and lids as directed above.
2. Wash raspberries. Drain. Put a layer into a large bowl. Crush with a potato masher or large spoon. Measure berries and juice by cup. Put into large saucepan.
3. Put berries into a large bowl. Crush with a potato masher or large spoon. Measure berries and juice by cup. Put into large saucepan.
4. Measure ¾ cup sugar for each cup of berries and juice you measured in step 3. Set aside.
5. Place saucepan with berries and juice over low heat. Heat through, stirring occasionally.
6. Add the measured, reserved sugar. Stir well.
7. Cook, stirring constantly, until jam has thickened.
8. Pour or ladle into sterilized jars while it is hot. Cover with tight lids.
9. Let stand at room temperature until set. It may take 24 hours.
10. If you are going to use the jelly within 3 weeks, store it in the refrigerator. Otherwise, keep it in the freezer. To thaw, place it in the refrigerator for several hours.

CANTALOUPE PRESERVES

1. Prepare six 8-ounce jars and lids as directed above.
2. Cut cantaloupe, crosswise, into 1-inch-thick slices.
3. Remove seeds and rind from slices.
4. Cut slices into even-size pieces.
5. Mix melon pieces and sugar in a large saucepan. Cover. Let stand 12 to 18 hours in a cool place.
6. Add lemon juice to melon mixture.
7. Bring to boiling slowly. Boil rapidly until cantaloupe is clear and tender and syrup is thick.
8. Pour or ladle into sterilized jars while still hot. Cover with tight lids.

BLUEBERRY JAM

1. Prepare five 8-ounce jars and lids as directed above.
2. Stem and wash blueberries. Drain.
3. Put a large square of 4 thicknesses of cheesecloth in a colander and set it in a bowl. Put fruit in colander. Bring corners of cloth together and twist to form a bag.
4. Press or squeeze out juice. Measure juice. There should be 3 cups. If there is not quite enough, add water to make 3 cups.
5. Add sugar to juice. Mix well.
7. Stir pectin mixture into juice mixture. Continue to stir 3 minutes. A few sugar crystals will remain.
8. Pour or ladle quickly into prepared jars. Cover at once with tight lids.
9. Let stand at room temperature until set. It may take 24 hours.
10. If you are going to use the jelly within 3 weeks, store it in the refrigerator. Otherwise, keep it in the freezer. To thaw, place it in the refrigerator for several hours.

TO STERILIZE JARS

- Check jars for nicks, cracks and sharp edges along sealing surface.
- Discard any marred ones. Wash jars and lids in hot, soapy water. Rinse thoroughly. Put jars and lids in a large kettle. Add water to cover; boil 10 minutes. Turn off heat. Leave jars and lids in water until ready to fill. Remove from hot water with tongs. Invert jars on towels to drain. Jars should be hot and dry when you fill them.

Monticello—“Little Mountain” in Italian—began as a few sketches put down in 1767 by a very young man who wasn't a trained architect because at the time there was really no such profession in the colonies. Except for Peter Harrison, an architect who worked in Newport, R.I. (AH, August, 1970), no one understood the art of visualizing a building's details professionally before its erection. To teach himself, Jefferson studied every book he could borrow or send for.

He knew that he didn't like the houses he'd seen in Virginia and that he didn't want to live by the river like other landed Virginia gentlemen. Instead, he yearned to build atop a mountain on a large acreage he had inherited. For his models, he was attracted to the classic revival going on in Europe, the houses looking a bit like temples and placed in such a way that they would complement the natural setting. He imagined having a garden where animals could roam, both tame and wild, including “a buck elk to be, as it were, monarch of the wood; but keep him shy, that his appearance may not lose its effect by too much familiarity.” At that time, he expected, like the elk, to lead a responsible but retiring life.

The first version of Monticello was the one Jefferson lived in from 1772 to 1784 when, at the age of 41, he accepted the post of Minister to France. His wife Martha had died two years earlier. This early Monticello was in the process of building for more than 10 years. It had a two-story portico in the east front leading into a hall off which was a large parlor. The house jutted to the north and south, the south wing having the master bedroom and the north wing the dining room, both these rooms ending in octagonal projections. The second story had a large library. An original feature of the house was the Jefferson-designed L-shaped terraces that flanked the house like open arms. They were built above all the numerous service rooms that a self-sufficient country estate required. Even at this stage, the house was considered one of the finest in America.

Jefferson lived in Paris for five years. While there he took every chance to see and study beautiful buildings. He returned with 86 crates of house furnishings, including exquisite furniture, wallpaper, silver and works of art. Because of his exposure to European architects, he decided Monticello wouldn’t do as it was. He would all but tear it down and make it look as it should. And so work on the second version of Monticello began in 1793 and continued at least until 1809.

Jefferson’s polygraph used two pens, duplicating letters “without the least additional exertion by the writer.”

Though he had lost his wife and only two of his six children were still living,
Jefferson built the second Monticello, the one we know today, almost twice as big as the first. The new sections run parallel to the old, so that there are now two octagonal projections at each end, joined by loggias. The house has three stories but is built to appear to have only one. Bedrooms are off corridors and all have bed alcoves. There are many skylights, and a windowed dome floats above the salon. There is no great central staircase but rather small ones tucked off to the sides. Though the house is very elegant, nothing in it is meant to impress or overwhelm. It is a house to free the mind and spirit.

Jefferson’s own suite of rooms had a library and a long room with a bed alcove in the middle that divided the dressing and study areas. (His library was extensive and in many languages.
When in his old age he sold his books to the Library of Congress, it took 16 wagonloads to move them.) He was never one for idleness. His farm manager recalled he found Jefferson idle only twice—one when he had a toothache and once when he had slept in a draft and developed neuralgia.

Much of his time went to his notebooks and his correspondence. In his mature years he kept a copy of nearly every letter he sent out, setting up on a table by his swivel chair a polygraph, or letter-copying machine, an American invention he had learned about while he was President. His account books touched on every detail of his life, and he seems to have recorded even the smallest expenditures, including such minutiae as the pennies spent on violin strings and “for seeing a monkey.” He figured out how much each cup of tea came to in his household. In his garden books, he studied his gardens with all the meticulousness of a modern efficiency expert. It may not have been that he was such a precise manager but that his mind could not leave any subject un­ examined.

At 6 feet 2 1/2 inches, Jefferson was handsome and strong; he had a machine in his study to test the strength of his arm, and hardly anyone could beat him.
Like a fine horse himself, with no surplus flesh, he loved horses and sat them well, still able to ride when in his old age he had grown too feeble to walk very far.

In the afternoons, he spent at least two or three hours on horseback, trotting along the paths and trails he had laid out to encircle Monticello or perhaps riding over to supervise the building of the University of Virginia, which he had founded and whose neoclassic struc­
He also rode out often to inspect his farms—Monticello was really a big experimental farm. From his earliest years, he experimented constantly to see what he could grow in Virginia soil. He tried figs and nectarines, introduced upland rice (grains of which he had smuggled from Italy in his pockets), had a try at viniculture, served his salads with sesame oil. He introduced Merino sheep and Calcutta hogs, not for his own profit but to improve the stock of the whole countryside.

Jefferson spent the early evenings with his family and at dinner. He liked to have his grandchildren and their friends playing on the lawns or following him about; they tended flower gardens together and he made up games and races for them.

About his meals he was not so indulgent. Though he was especially fond of guinea hens and liked good beef, mutton and lamb, he claimed he was not a big eater of meat, that he used meat really as a condiment for his vegetables. He directed that endive be grown for him throughout the winter so that he could have salad every day. He kept a cellar of fine wines and introduced both roni and a French recipe for ice cream to America. Whenever it was possible, Jefferson liked to have a French cook.

Jefferson had built his house as a retreat, calling himself “the hermit of Monticello,” and yet he would never turn away a visitor, even though they came in throngs after his Presidency. In fact, they arrived in such numbers that they could devour whole beefs in one day, staying for weeks on end and having the effrontery to complain that the leather chair bottoms were worn through and that some of the prints were “miserable.” He put up with this drain on his privacy and purse—in his later years money grew short—because he was a gentleman and because in his entire life he had never lived just for himself.

Jefferson had such a passion for Monticello and for “putting up and pulling down” that he probably never did everything he wanted for its improvement. Apparently he intended as garden houses “a specimen of Gothic, a model of the Pantheon, a model of cubic architecture, a specimen of Chinese.” He likely would not have wanted to think of Monticello as being complete, but many people think of it as perfect.

At a time when his compatriots were building boxes squared off around either a large central stair-case or a large chimney block, he was thinking of a house as the focus of two axes, two lines of force and movement. By tunneling his service rooms into the hill-side—making them both convenient and invisible—he made the house part of the land, the land part of the house. He popularized octagonal rooms and bed alcoves—important in themselves and because of the freedom these innovations allowed in interior planning.

He took it for granted that a house should be as beautiful and convenient as possible. Not until Frank Lloyd Wright has there been so inspired and original an architect of American houses. He probably single-handedly brought about the American respect for classic architecture. In Monticello, as in politics, Jefferson had a vision of what was needed for a free and orderly life.

Monticello may well be the most beautiful house in America.
MAKE YOUR OWN STRAW BAG

By Dorothy Lambert Brightbill

Straw handbags are a summer must, in town or as versatile traveling or vacation companions. These cool-looking bags are practical, long-wearing and they come with loads of tote room. Best of all, they are easy to make. The foundation material is perforated plastic. It comes in preshaped hexagons (as used for the white floral bag), ovals and squares and in sheets (used for the brown, black, beige, white geometric and black-and-white models). The technique is as easy as basting, and it’s quick. The kits come with everything you need: foundation, straw yarn, handles (where required) and easy-to-follow instructions. The geometric bag is 10½ x 13½ inches with 3-inch boxing. The double handles are brass and plastic with brass-hardware trim. The black-and-white over-the-shoulder bag (it can also be carried by hand) has a double shoulder “strap” of dark wooden beads combined with bronze-tone chain and rings. Also available in navy blue and white, it measures 6½ x 9 x 2½ inches. The white, flower-sprinkled tote bag, size 10 x 13 inches, comes with self handles. Any of these bags becomes a standout complement to a crisp linen or tailored knit suit.

Though they live in Washington, the Tunneys consider California home and especially love the beach life where sons Edward ("Teddy") and Mark can practice scuba diving. In Washington, Senator Tunney and the boys settle for a basketball hoop over the garage while Ariane, the youngest Tunney, bats her tennis balls. The 37-year-old Senator comes naturally to the sporting life: He is the son of one-time boxing champ Gene Tunney, who went on to champion another fortune in coal and today sits on the boards of 17 major corporations.

John grew up mostly in New York City and studied at Yale and at the University of Virginia Law School. From there he went on to the Academy of International Law at The Hague, where he met and married Mieke Sprengers, a journalism student. When they returned to the U.S. in 1960, John joined the Air Force as a Judge Advocate. He was stationed in California, near Riverside, and that's when the Tunneys' love affair with California began.

"We found a freer life," says Mieke. "Magnificent beaches, sailing, water skiing and the mountains next door."

But the Senator's work transplanted the family to Washington. They live in a six-bedroom country-like house where Mieke is helped by two young Dutch girls who also do their best to keep the Tunney brood bilingual. Despite the formal surroundings, Mieke still prefers casual, California-style entertaining. And John fancies himself something of a chef—at least to the extent of scrambled eggs and Caesar salad.

Though he misses the sand and surf, John is happiest right where he is, "in this business of politics. I think it is the most exciting job there is. Daily I feel the real opportunity for making changes. I am by nature a communicator, and this business lets me speak my mind."

So far, Senator Tunney's political posture has been one of bold stands on the most controversial issues. He is a champion of the young and a fierce battler for the salvation of our resources. John Tunney is a fighter.

HOW TO INSTALL

The do-it-yourself installation of an underground sprinkler system is a tricky business, and most manufacturers recommend that the work be done by a professional. True, the installation of a simple system can be a pleasant project for the ambitious and less expensive, of course, but don’t attempt an installation without a qualified equipment dealer to advise you. This is the way to proceed:

1. Draw a scale plan of the area to be covered. You can use your landscaping plan as a basis. Make sure the locations of outside faucets are indicated.

If you may want to water more than just your lawn, shrubs and other plantings can be included in a well-designed system. Special sprinkler heads are available for this purpose. There are also new dual controllers on the market that have two separate watering schedules, so that flower-bed watering can also be automated.

2. Position sprinkler heads on the diagram. To do this properly, you need information on your water supply and pressure. High-flow pressure means maximum-area coverage, low pressure means smaller coverage, and so many heads to cover a given area.

The simplest approach is to call your water department and ask about the water pressure and gallons per minute available at your house. Also find out what size supply line and what size meter you have.

3. Now you are ready to pick the components for your system. Figuring out how much area a head will cover with your water pressure and where to place each head are the difficult steps in installation. You need qualified dealer assistance to design an efficient system.

HAVE A BLUEBERRY FLING

Enjoy these luscious berries now — simply superb with cream and sugar, perfect in a juicy pie or in these three dreamy desserts.

BLUEBERRY FLOATING ISLAND

2 cups milk
4 egg yolks
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon almond extract
1½ cups blueberries, washed and well drained
4 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla

BLUEBERRY KUCHEN

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup milk
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 cups blueberries, washed and well drained
½ cup sugar

BLUEBERRY-LEMON CRUMBLE

¾ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 cups blueberries, washed and well drained

Heat oven to 350°. Combine brown sugar, granulated sugar, butter or margarine, water and lemon peel in small saucepan. Bring to boiling, stirring to dissolve sugars. Reserve.

Arrange berries evenly in bottom of 8x8x2-inch baking pan. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Top with cake cubes. Pour lemon sauce over cake and berries. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until bubbly. Serve warm with cream. Makes 6 servings.

The silver-gray look that chocolate sometimes gets is called "bloom." This is caused by a high temperature that brings the cocoa butter to the surface and then exposure to cool air which sets the cocoa butter on the surface. Naturally this chocolate is not of the same high quality as fresh chocolate, but it is perfectly good to eat.

How should eggs be stored so that the yolks will be in the center when I hard-cook them?

Always store fresh eggs in the refrigerator, standing them on the small end.

Why does the cheese in my macaroni and cheese become stringy?

E. L. Randall
Los Angeles, Calif.

You are probably using a natural cheese instead of a process variety. The acids in natural cheese cause it to become stringy when heated. Next time use process cheese; it melts smoothly because of an emulsifier.

No, keep dry milk at room temperature or in a cool, dry place to ensure freshness. After it is reconstituted, treat it like fresh milk. Close package immediately after using dry milk; if exposed to moisture in the air, it may become lumpy and stale.

Our Federal Eagle is one of the most distinguished pieces of needlework we have ever offered. The original of our proud bird, derived from the Great Seal, is inlaid on a 1790 New York State linen-press cupboard in the James Monroe Reception Room of the State Department in Washington, D.C. Since the eagle first became our national emblem, it has been used in many decorative ways. This design is stamped on creamy-white 100 percent linen to be embroidered with crewel yarn. The finished size is 13 1/2 by 16 3/8 inches (Kit 61278). The painted frame, also available, is copied from an 18th-century molding (usually painted black) which we updated with red paint to match the stripe on the shield (Kit 61279).
Everyone loves flowers, especially in needlepoint, so here's a whole garden of colorful favorites to bring freshness into your home—and at a low, low cost. The price of similar designs ranges from $25 to $65 in department and needlework stores. We offer the finest-quality materials for only $12.95, including mono canvas, hand-screened in full color, plus 100 percent wool yarns to finish the design and background for a 14-inch square picture or pillow. It's the biggest bargain in needlepoint, and a chance to enjoy a most fascinating craft. To order, and for our catalog of other kits, fill in the cutout coupon.
DEAR AMERICAN HOME

REMODELER'S RAVES . . .

Your May Home Improvement Guide is a great idea. I have come to expect about one good idea out of any publication. But the AH guide was an exception; we found three or four ideas we hadn't known existed. The "Standard Sizes Chart" is one of the best things I've seen and we're keeping it in our remodeling file for future, and probably constant, reference.

(Mrs.) Judy Foley

. . . READER'S RAP

In regard to your May issue, the barn ["A Barn Becomes a Home"] and town house ["An 1830 Landmark Lights Up"] were beautiful, but they cannot make up for the gross injustices done to the farmhouse ["A Farmhouse Opens to the Texas Sky"] and the log cabin ["A Cabin Adds a Wing"].

FOAM FOLLOW-UP

In April's This Month in American Home you asked us, your readers, to let you know our feelings about the new foam houses. Consider this letter a loud "Yea" vote! To me, everything about them is appealing—not the least of which are the prices you mentioned.

(Mrs.) Susan Calvert
Seattle, Wash.

Foam houses indeed! The most ridiculous waste of space—17 pages—I've seen!

(Mrs.) Irene Van Wormer
Kenosha, Wis.

I read with stunned excitement your article in the April issue, singing the praises and illustrating the possibilities of polyurethane foam. The revolution in building construction cannot come too fast for me.

In a few years I shall be in a position to become a homeowner. And on my modest professor's salary I could expect to afford only ticky-tacky. I've been preparing myself for years of frugal development living, so that in retirement, at least, I could afford my dream house. If building with urethane is as inexpensive as you say, I may not have to suffer silently through those family-raising years, but be able to provide my children with an inspiring and cozy environment in which to grow up.

Of the three houses you feature, I am most struck by your "Dollar-Saving Idea House." Its (continued)

POPULAR COLONIAL

It was indeed a very pleasant surprise to see the Virginia Colonial home "Most Popular Colonial" featured in the April AH because I was one of the many who purchased the plans for this house when it was first featured in 1962. We are extremely excited about this house and feel that it is ideal for those who appreciate the Colonial design. I am sure that other readers who have already built the house or plan on doing so share our enthusiasm. Our thanks and appreciation to AH for introducing us to our "dream home."

AH GO-ROUND

AH is the one monthly magazine I read from cover to cover and delight in every page. Before passing it on to my daughter-in-law, I clip the articles—particularly those dealing with museums and the recipes—that I can't bear to give up. She then passes it on to her neighbors and, ultimately, there is little left but the binding. We love everything in and about AH.

(Mrs.) Helen B. Sang
Winnetka, Ill.

I'm on the eleventh month of my year's subscription, and I think you put out a superb magazine. Your articles are relevant and your decorating ideas within our economic range. I hope you can continue to maintain the high standards.

Nowhere else are you, dirt and germs so exposed to each other.

It goes to work—loosening and churning up the dirt as it silently destroys the germs. (And continues to stop fungus and mildew growth for up to 7 days.) Then one quick wipe—and all that’s left is the shine. A glorious, bright sparkling shine.

Which is only one reason why you should try Dow in your bathroom. If it were to spare your family from just one case of athletes foot or one bout with the flu... wouldn’t that be another good reason too?
Authentic English Bone China Flowers

captured at the peak of loveliness in English Bone China to give, to collect, to display proudly.

For centuries, poets have written about flowers, artists have painted them. They have been called "Nature's masterpieces", "loveliest of lovely things." And they are. Especially when their loveliness is caught and held in a medium worthy of their natural beauty... rare, delicate, English Bone China.

These are no ordinary decorations, but true collector's pieces, each one an individual prize. The craftsmanship alone sets them apart from anything you've ever seen before. Made by hand, petal by petal, they curve and flow as gracefully as their real-life counterparts... actually seem to be still wet with dew.

Choose one perfect long-stemmed rose for your favorite bud vase. Or a mixed bouquet of Flashing Anemones, Sunshiny Daisies, Budding Tulips. With their life-like, velvet-textured leaves and their flexible, 12" stems, these blossoms look as if they had just been plucked from your own garden. The stems bend easily to adapt to tall bases, short, round bowls, or whatever favorite bric-a-brac you want to use. They make the most welcome, impressive gifts. And, no matter how or where you display them, the most admired conversation pieces.

We wish we could offer them continually, but the hand workmanship limits the supply. So act now. Collect these English Bone China beauties while they're available.

Here's a laboratory-tested, weight loss and figure-trimming method you can trust. Tests conducted by the Performance Physiology Laboratory of a major West Coast University proved that it is possible for some persons to lose as much as 10 pounds in 10 days following the Body Shaper 3-Way Plan. The average weight loss of all persons tested was one-half pound per day, every day during the ten day test. Some samples of the 20-day results are pictured above! Now you can enjoy this amazing discovery—guaranteed to work for you, or your money back.

"The secret to losing weight is not a dramatic change in your eating habits...." Contrary to what you may believe, you need not starve yourself to lose weight. According to the world's leading medical associations and governmental agencies as well as The Body Shaper Plan, what you need is to eat smaller moderate amounts. With the complete Body Shaper Plan you can eat the foods your family eats, never "starve" or over-exercise, and yet still accelerate weight loss and direct inches removal!

HOW THE BODY SHAPER PLAN WORKS ITS WONDERS. There are three simple requirements to The Body Shaper Plan. The Body Shaper is a modern, carefully designed and engineered product. The combination of the Body Shapers food plan and body movement program work together to accelerate weight loss and inches removal. The Body Shapers themselves are not designed to affect weight loss; they do their part by creating a Sauna-like warmth and gentle massaging action to soothe and relax the hip, thigh, and waistline area. It's not magic. It's not trickery. The Body Shaper Plan will help you lose weight quickly, easily and more surely—it's actually guaranteed.

THE "SECRET" IS THE COMBINATION. The Body Shaper Plan is a combination which is designed to work, if honored together. The Body Shaper "combination" is made up of three items: your Body Shaper, the copyrighted Body Shaper Food Plan and the Body Shaper Movement Program—"exercises" which do not overtax you in any way. As is true of all successful weight loss programs, The Body Shaper Plan should be undertaken with the knowledge and guidance of your family doctor. The Body Shaper Plan will help you tone and shape your body. It will help you reduce your weight—all quicker and faster than you may believe possible. The actual number of pounds that you will lose depends upon your body structure, present weight, metabolism, and other factors.

ABSOLUTE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY REFUNDED! It's guaranteed—you have nothing to lose but weight and inches. Fill-out the coupon below and enclose your cash, check or money order for just $12.95. Use your Body Shaper Three-Way Plan for 10 days, if you're not satisfied your money will be promptly refunded.

...in just a little over 2 weeks with the Body Shapers 3-Way Plan. Just by jumping into my Body Shapers, I jumped into a whole new lifestyle. I lost 10 pounds in the first 10 days. People I know are just floored by my results. I'm more confident. The pounds just seemed to melt away."

Carol Louise Cardin

"I LOST 14 POUNDS IN 20 DAYS" with the Body Shapers 3-Way Plan. I feel it helped me take off excess inches in the "problem places" that just die off alone never touches. I wanted to lose in my waist and thighs especially, and I lost everywhere—7 ½ inches total from waist, abdomen, hips and thighs! I'm very pleased."

Sandra Wolf

"I LOST 7 ½ INCHES from my waist, hips, thighs and went from a 36 ½ to size 16. I lost 12 pounds in 3 weeks on the Body Shaper 3-Way Plan. It really helps you lose in the right places, which encourages you to continue. I feel better now in every way."

EUROPEAN WOMEN HOLD THE SECRET TO A GORGEOUS NEW INCREASED BUSTLINE MEASUREMENT!

THE CAMPASINA PLAN* IS YOURS FREE FOR THREE FULL WEEKS!

An amazing product has been made and you can benefit from it within 3 short weeks! Have you ever seen an unalluring European farm girl? For centuries, these lovely country lasses have been developing into naturally voluptuous beauties without the aid of any artificial preparations or devices. And what these farm girls have been doing naturally, Campasina® can now do for you!

Only recently — far better late than never at all — this natural yet highly effective principle was re-discovered and brought to this country. For just $4.95, this wonderful new Campasina Plan® can be yours, complete. Nothing more to buy.

HOW DOES IT WORK?
The Campasina Plan® employs a simple, effective exercise device that works directly on the pectoralis major muscles of your chest, strengthening and firming these vital muscles to actually increase your bustline measurement significantly, within just a few short weeks.

BE THE CENTER OF ATTENTION!
Surely you've admired women who have full bustlines, everyone does. Clothes seem to fit them better, dresses look more fashionable, more flattering. Now, with the Campasina Plan®, you may become one of these envied women with "a great figure" and lead a life full of compliments, enjoying new self confidence because your figure is as appealing and as attractive as it can be. There's no longer any reason for you to miss out on the fun. Realize the full potential of your figure today!

OVER 100,000 SATISFIED OWNERS!
During the short time Campasina® has been on the market, women throughout the U.S.A. have been delighted with their increased bustline measurements. The degree of effectiveness will vary among individuals, of course, depending upon physical factors and objectives. It is therefore impossible to assure that it will work for every woman. However, we have received such enthusiastic reports from so many happy owners so far, we are prepared to offer you a complete refund if Campasina® does not fulfill your every expectation.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE
If, within 3 weeks, the exciting new Campasina® does not live up to your every hope, or if you do not see a significant increase in your bustline measurement during that time, simply return your Campasina® for a 100% refund, no questions asked.

FREE 3-WEEK HOME TRIAL!

Seldom has the public taken a picture to its heart with the unreserved warmth and joy that has greeted “Love Story.” Tender, poignant, touching the very heart of first love, here is literally a total experience between art and viewer. And now, as if to distill the very essence of this fragile theme, we’ve taken the incredibly lovely theme music and placed it in this utterly charming music box. To a quiet moment in the day, as a background to a nostalgic moment, the crisp tinkling notes will gently build a beautiful world of your own. Listen and be lost in a lovely dream. And the charming little statuettes—in the tradition of world famous figurines—are a decorating masterpiece that will become an heirloom treasure. Unfortunately it is literally impossible to capture the delicate colorations, the absolute purity of colors and the glowing skin tones from the small black and white illustration here. Only when you actually see it can you fully appreciate its elegance and appeal. So lovely you’ll want to order an extra piece as a special gift while this offer lasts.

OFFER WILL NOT BE REPEATED THIS SEASON

We urge you to order now while our specially imported supply lasts. With its marvelous melody and decorator appeal, these pieces are certain to go fast. Each sculpture is approximately 6" high and 3½" in diameter and is yours for just $3.98 on full money back guarantee if you are not absolutely delighted. But hurry, order now, this offer will not be repeated this season in this magazine.
"STAINED GLASS" BIRDS

A FANTASTIC VALUE!

Add cathedral beauty to your windows! Sunlight backlights these exquisite colored figures and brings them to vivid life. Real stained glass effect has been perfectly simulated by brilliantly colored crystalene with lead-like frames. Mount on walls, windows or use as shade pulls.

NATURE'S MOST BEAUTIFUL SONG BIRDS

Our collection includes nature's most beautiful song birds. A blue jay on a flowering dogwood bough, humming bird on a rose and a cardinal on a sprig of holly. Each is about 7" and comes with its own golden cord for hanging.

MUST BE SEEN TO BE APPRECIATED

Unfortunately it is impossible to capture their jewel-like blend of vibrant and subtle color in our black & white illustration. Only when you see them in your own home will you fully appreciate their true magnificence.

THIS OFFER WILL NOT BE REPEATED THIS SEASON

A genuine stained glass grouping of this type would sell for $25.00 or more. Because of the unusual value in our offer we urge you order now, while the supply lasts.

MONEY BACK IF NOT DELIGHTED

Our guarantee clearly expresses the confidence we always have in our products. We want you to be delighted, not merely satisfied. If you are not delighted, your money will be promptly refunded with no questions asked.

Navajo Blanket: Primitive hand looms and homemade vegetable dyes were the tools of the Southwest Indian craftsman. With them, he copied sacred Navajo sandpaintings and turned out boldly patterned textiles.

Carved Eagle: If Benjamin Franklin had had his way in 1782, the turkey gobbler would've been on the Great Seal of the United States. Instead, the bald eagle was voted the official emblem. It became the most popular subject of American folk art — and still is today.

THE AMERICANA COLLECTION.

DOLLY MADISON WOULD’VE WANTED ALL FOUR IN THE WHITE HOUSE.

Inside, another American favorite. Soft Kleenex tissues in white and pastels. That’s Americana. From the people who make Kleenex — The First Tissue.

Pennsylvania Dutch Design: Bold color. Brushed into fanciful designs. That’s the way the Pennsylvania Dutch liked to decorate. Their gay designs appeared on everything from barns to Easter eggs.

Sampler Design: The cross-stitched sampler was like an early American kindergarten teacher. Besides teaching little ladies the basics of sewing, the sampler’s alphabet was an important reading aid.

The Americana Collection, shioned in the spirit of yesterday, the hands of today.

The Pennsylvania Dutch Design. Available with soft white Kleenex tissues and four colorful pastels. Blue, green, pink and yellow.

The Navajo Blanket. Handwoven in a traditional diamond pattern. With soft white tissues.

The Sampler. Delicate needlework design. With soft white tissues.

The Eagle. Hand carved out of pumpkin pine. With soft white tissues.

Americana, Meet Americana. Kleenex Americana Tissues Collection.
