Armstrong introduces Gourmet.

The new Chandelier Ceiling that looks good enough to eat under.

Make your kitchen ceiling as appetizing as your entrées, with a new Gourmet Chandelier Ceiling from Armstrong. Apples, cherries, peaches, pears, and lemons make the design of Gourmet delicious. Gourmet is vinyl-coated so it's easy to keep clean. And it's acoustical, so it soaks up excess noise.

All you need is a few dollars. Enough tile for a 10' x 15' room costs no more than $90 (which is probably less than you spent for your last big dinner party). If you're reasonably handy, you can install it yourself. Or your dealer can arrange professional installation

Once you see what Gourmet can do for your kitchen, you'll probably want one of our other Chandelier Ceilings in another room. We'vegot a ceiling to match any room in your house: Spanish, Early American, French Provincial, and Contemporary designs.

Solarian® by Armstrong

The sunny floor that shines without waxing

Armstrong developed Solarian especially for people who like bright, shiny floors-but don't like the waxing it takes to keep them that way.

Solarian gives you the shine—without the waxing. Its special Mirabond™ wear surface has a shine of its own and keeps its high gloss—without waxing far longer than an ordinary vinyl floor.

Of course, any floor shines brightest when it's clean; and that's another plus for the Mirabond surface. Most spills, dirt—even black heel marks—come up easily. Sponge-mopping with a detergent is all it takes to keep Solarian sparkling bright.

Eventually, heavy-traffic areas may begin to show a reduction in gloss. So in case you need it, your Armstrong retailer can supply a special Solarian Floor Finish that you can use occasionally to touch up the shine in these areas.

See all the designs and colors at an Armstrong authorized "Floor Fashion Center®" or other flooring stores that carry Solarian. They're in the Yellow Pages. Or, for our free color brochure, write Armstrong, 7309 Pine St., Lancaster, PA 17604.

Younger-Looking Skin Seems to Slow Down Time

Throughout the ages, youth-conscious women have yearned for a skin beautifier that might cause time to stop in its tracks. They have searched for some near-magic method that could keep their complexions at the peak of youthful perfection virtually forever. But of course such an appearance of eternal youth has never been possible. The years, regrettably, do pass and leave their tell-tale signs of age on your skin.

But young-looking women in many countries round the world have discovered the benefits of a remarkable beauty blend that at least seems to slow down time. Skin becomes smoother, softer and younger-looking from the first day you use this unique beauty fluid.

Now share the world-renowned secret of this beauty blend, known in the United States as Oil of Olay moisturizing lotion. Oil of Olay was especially created by beauty researchers to help preserve youthful skin. A wealth of natural moisture, tropical moisturizing oils and emollients penetrate the all-too-visible surface layer of the skin quickly, to help soothe away the dryness that accents those wrinkles and little lines that make you look unnecessarily older.

As Oil of Olay, containing natural ingredients, is absorbed, it works with nature to maintain the delicate balance of oil and moisture needed if your skin is to look its youngest. This is especially important as the years pass and natural secretions begin to diminish. The treasured fluid helps retain your skin's own moisture-fluids, to keep you looking your best. Day by day, noticeably smoother, softer, more supple skin begins to return.

For the most efficacious and readily visible results, use Oil of Olay at least twice a day. Lavish on gently in the morning, to prepare your skin beautifully for the day. Again at night, on your face and throat, so the beauty blend can work its wonders during quiet hours of sleep.

You will find Oil of Olay, and its promise of a more youthful-looking you, at drugstores everywhere. Join the knowledgeable, younger-looking women who have discovered that smoother skin does, indeed, seem to slow down time.

Beauty Hints

Oil of Olay spreads so evenly and penetrates so quickly that it never leaves a sticky after-feel. So the beauty blend is a superb makeup base, which won't cause your cosmetics to streak or discolor. Instead they stay fresh for hours.

At the end of a long day, lavish Oil of Olay® on your face and throat before you relax in a tepid tub. You will emerge refreshed and revitalized.

a report Dn the Energy crisis

"STOP THE WORLD—OR USE IT BETTER!" was how we introduced the questionnaire on energy conservation in our March issue. Of the thousands of readers who took the time to answer, more than 75 percent are women; an equal number are between 20 and 40. Three out of four attended or were graduated from college; nearly half are working wives; three out of five have children at home. Nearly 84 percent live in homes they own, average value $30,000.

This cross-section of concerned readers often added extra pages of opinion to an already lengthy questionnaire. What were the conclusions? Our readers are not passing the buck; they're willing to actually do something to help use the world better. They're aware of the problems to the extent of making positive commitments in return for positive results. Here is a summary of questionnaire response. As you read, why not compare your own answers to the consensus we received?

TO CUT DOWN POWER USE at peak hours, we suggested four activities they might avoid. Three appealed to our readers; one proved highly unpopular. Better than 80 percent agreed to avoid doing laundry, using the dishwasher or other appliances during peak hours. But only 30 percent indicated they would avoid cooking during times of high power usage, suggesting that people are less inclined to change their habits when something as traditional as dinnertime is involved.

We asked what readers and their families were doing to conserve energy, and the responses were most gratifying. Turning off unnecessary lights, lowering the heat at night in winter, limiting air-conditioner usage in summer, using appliances more efficiently and less wastefully—all these and more showed the measure of reader involvement. There was also an expressed interest in learning which energy-conservation practices are most effective and how much power is used by various appliances—information that local utility companies have available for the asking, at no charge.

We asked readers how much extra they would pay for a house if they could recover an equal amount through lower utility bills in about five years. Some of them said they would pay as much as $5,000 more, others only a few dollars. The average extra payment suggested was $1,000. These responses indicate strongly that the concept of life-cycle costing has begun to take hold—also, that there is a new confidence that quality housing will pay off in the long run.

STYLING VS. ENERGY-SAVING—if two appliances cost the same and do an equally good job, which would be preferable, the one with the best styling or the one with the best energy-conserving features? The energysaver won by a margin of nine to one. That's not to say that appearance is not important, but today's consumer is not fooled by minor cosmetic changes that don't add to the value of a product. Such "improvements" as a new handle or different color or an added chrome strip don't have a chance when measured against an energy-conserving feature that really does something. Pursuing the question further, we asked if consumers would be willing to pay more for the appliance that met higher standards of energy consumption. Four out of five said they would pay more to support their convictions.

Noise, say our readers, is as undesirable as dirty air or foul water. In fact, 81 percent said they would willingly pay more for an appliance with a lower noise level. This shows a definite change in attitude and is a mark of today's more knowledgeable consumers, for it was not long ago that people used noise level as a measuring stick when appliance shopping: The louder the motor, the more powerful the appliance—or so they thought.

Incidentally, when we asked readers to tell us what system or appliance gave them the most trouble, the television set headed the list. Conversely, most people considered the washing machine the most satisfying system or appliance in their home. (continued on page 44)

The featured attractions are the basket crafts of the local Penobscot and Passamaquoddy Indians; the items are made from dried sweet grass and are noted for their fragrance. Although the family's highly successful business has been primarily a summer occupation, they have just decided to prepare a mail-order catalog so sales can continue year round.

In season, Roger and Joanne spell each other manning the shop; during the winter, they might make a short buying trip now and then. But mostly the family remembers that they came to Boothbay to cherish the freedom of Maine life. Young Philip has learned to love mountain climbing, in addition to sailing in the summer. The whole family has taken up cross-country skiing, and all enjoy clamming, boating, fishing and swimming in the tidal river that meanders just behind their land. Rumson it was frustrating because experiences with nature came in such small doses. Here, it's different."

The Browns have a substantial organic garden, and they do a lot of canning and preserving to fill the larder for the cold months. Every fall, Philip and Roger hunt a deer to freeze for winter fare; Joanne is in charge of fattening up a lamb. "We've learned to adjust our standard of living considerably," says Roger, "and these economies are more necessity than sport."

Slowly, the Browns are reclaiming their overgrown orchard and, with Roger's carpentry skills, revamping the old house. Thus far, they've installed insulation, added new kitchen appliances and torn down walls to turn five cramped downstairs rooms into a spacious two. They've also installed a big sliding glass door in the dining room to take advantage of a much-prized view. The house is being furnished with local antiques, and when it's finished, the family wants to buy some weathered planks and add on to the barn, "In Rumson, Roger loved to putter around the house, but he never had enough to do," Joanne remembers. "Here, there's so much to do, he doesn't know where to begin, but he just loves it."

If all this activity sounds hectic, it's not. "It's a slower Joanne insists. "We pace," have learned how to be better friends within the family, and the children's lives are so much more enriched. It seems to me we're even healthier up here in the clean air-no more rounds of flu and winter colds. We were nervous at first about making new acquaintances, but we've all met many wonderful neighbors-some with backgrounds very different from ours, some not very different at all. You'd be surprised how many runaways just like us there are in Maine."

"The Basket Barn has items for every conceivab use," says Roger (below) Someday, he and Joanne hope to make their own long-distance basketbuying trips—to Europe and perhaps even to Asia. "We'd like to eliminate all the middlemen," adds Joanne.

THE REPORT OF A DESCRIPTION OF A DESCRIP

The Mark Talismans of Washington, D.C.

Jill Talisman, with her furry armload, Tavish (below), stands outside the handsome town house she and Mark have redone on Capitol Hill. Upstairs windows overlook the Supreme Court gardens and U.S. Capitol.

Jill, Mark and Tavish (above relax in their favorite roomtop-floor library. Tiny terraco reached through the tall cen door, offers "one of the pret views in the city," says Jill.

Jill (above) enjoys weaving on the hand loom she made, while Mark (right) putters about in their little greenery, caring for some of the potted plant life the Talismans have placed throughout the house.

Jill and Mark Talisman love living on Capitol Hill. They enjoy the fascinating world of Washington people and politics, and Mark, administrative assistant to Ohio Congressman Charles Vanick, likes being able to walk to work. "Some people spend hours commuting," he says, "and that's a waste of time and creativity."

Mark isn't a man to waste time. His wife calls him "energy personified." When not busy at his demanding job, he's helping her redo their 19thcentury town house. "The house was lovely," says Jill, "but the last tenants were bachelors who neglected it."

For Mark, who is a gourmet cook (he has just finished a cookbook he hopes to get published), the first priority was remodeling the small, dark kitchen. They turned it into a light, workable space with just enough room for Mark's fast brand of fine cuisine. ("He can go shopping in the afternoon and have a multicourse dinner for six on the table three hours later," says Jill.) Next, the Talismans resurrected a little boarded-up attached greenhouse. It's now a growing place for cactus, ferns and orchids. They also turned the top floor of the house, with its spectacular Capitol view, into a library for Mark's huge collection of old books. And the terrace outside the library has become a high-in-the-sky entertaining nook, where guests may dine alfresco on Mark's specialties.

Right now, Jill's activities are more subdued than usual she's expecting a baby in December. She enjoys tapestry weaving—her latest project is reproducing one of Mark's abstract photographs on a pillow (he's also a photographer, with several one-man shows to his credit). Jill has other hobbies: A music lover, she plays both the flute and piano.

The Talismans travel often, but they're always happy to come home to the Hill. Says Mark: "Capitol Hill, with its beauty and blend of people, has a wonderful vibrancy. It's a lively mixed neighborhood; there are young families, lots of shops and a healthy art community. Jill and I just wouldn't think of living anywhere else."

straight talk from owners on CONDOMINIUM LIVING

"Condominium" has become the magic word in home building. Nearly 50 percent of all hom sold this year will be condominiums, compared to 30 percent last year and only 11 percent in 197 Most condominiums are town houses, rows of attached houses with greenbelts and common recreational facilities. This is clearly a new lifestyle for Americans. Is it working? A recent stud of 1,800 condominium owners, sponsored by the Urban Land Institute, offers some answers. The following, fifth in our consumer-information series, is based on this study. —The Edito

Who buys condominiums? The answer is simple: everyone. While their early appeal may have been to newlyweds and empty nesters, this is no longer true. According to the Urban Land Institute study, there are more buyers in the 30-to-39 age group than in any other. Most buyers are married, but in California, where many new lifestyles originate, more than twice as many singles buy condominiums as in the East.

Why do they buy condominiums? "We're tired of paying rent," was the answer most commonly given. The purchase of a condominium, like that of a single-family home, gives the buyer a chance to build up equity, to have something to show for his monthly payment, and at the same time to earn tax deductions for his interest and real-estate tax payments. A second reason for buying, also economic: Condominiums, in general, cost less than single-family homes. Close on the heels of these budget considerations was "freedom from maintenance." This loomed even larger in California, where outdoor maintenance is a year-round problem. Lesser reasons: better environment, recreation facilities, security.

Do owners like condominium living? In a word, yes. "About three-quarters of the residents are generally satisfied with condominium living for this stage of their lives," says the ULI report. This doesn't mean they will stay in condominiums permanently. In the East, the single-family home remains the ideal.

What's good about condominium living? Regardless of their original reasons for buying, owners surveyed said they quickly found that the best thing about condominiums was "easy maintenance." Even if owners take care of their own front yards and rear patios, there is much less landscaping involved than at a typical single-family home. All the greenbelts and open spaces are maintained by the homeowners' association (in snow areas this usually includes shoveling sidewalks). There is also less exterior wall space needing maintenance.

The owners also liked feeling they were getting value for their money. As one couple said: "We wanted something we could invest our money in and get something back." The closeness of neighbors, which everyone might not appreciate, was nevertheless cited by some as a benefit. From a working couple with two children: "People are very friendly. We enjoy being able to walk around in the evenings without fear."

Since most condominiums are of recent construction, their designs and floor plans tend to fit well into contemporary living. Nearly one-quarter of the owners mentioned this as one of the good features. Said one financial analyst in his 30s: "Well-designed town houses offer far more reasonable living than single-family homes. We have a large eat-in kitchen, a den with fireplace, a recreation room and plenty of storage."

What's bad about condominium living? Even if owners were generally satisfied with life in their condominiums, there were many specific complaints. Taken together, they tell a prospective condominium buyer what to look for, what to avoid. Here are common irritants:

1. Overcrowding. People feel crowded when the developer builds too many units per acre. Ten is too many, seven or eight about maximum, fewer would be better. In general, look for a condominium with as low a density as you can afford, but details do make a difference. For example, small projects seem to have lower density; small neighborhoods and clusters are much better liked; short rows of town houses are better than long ones; variations in roof lines and setbacks make it seem less crowded; space around an immediate building is more valuable than a distant greenbelt; pleasant views make a difference; long rows of parked cars add to the density. 2. Lack of privacy and quiet. Another prevalent complaint was of noisy neighbors and their children. Look for soundproofed common walls, enclosed patie small playgrounds away from the house deeper setbacks from the street.

3. Dog control. As frivolous as the sounds, a surprising number of codominium owners objected to problem created by the large numbers of dogs in development. Find out whether a proje has any restrictions controlling pets, you have strong feelings on the subject 4. Rentals. Builders often rent out the last few units in a project. Or real-esta firms may buy units to rent for incom Or owners themselves may rent whe they are away. Rentals tend to lower long-term property values, so chect whether they are allowed.

5. Parking. Lack of enough well-place parking space was another major irr tant. Two spaces per town house wer not enough, and in many cases the park ing was not properly situated.

6. The homeowners' association. In an condominium, there must be an owne group to manage and maintain the com mon property. If the association is badly run, handling day-to-day affairs can be a constant annoyance. Before buying it would be wise to interview presen owners specifically on this point.

7. Poor construction. This is as much a complaint with condominiums as it is with new single-family homes. If you are buying a new condominium, it is worth getting an engineer's inspection just as you would for a detached house.

8. Dishonest salesmen. Many owners complained that they had been promised open space or recreational facilities that never materialized. To make sure the facilities don't prove just paper promises, your best bet is to have a lawyer study the development plan and the condominium agreement to see that you are getting what has been promised.

REMOVE RUST, SEAL SURFACE

How do we remove rust stains from a slate floor? Is there some way to protect this floor in the future?

Mrs. F.G. Bothwell

Darien, Conn.

Scrub the stains with a solution of 1 pound oxalic acid in 1 gallon water. Rinse and dry, then apply a penetrating masonry sealer. This is a tough, transparent material which, like oxalic acid, is available in paint stores. It penetrates and seals the pores of stone, slate, brick and concrete and leaves a very thin surface film. Two coats are generally needed.

PREPARE AND PANEL BASEMENT WALLS

What should I do to prepare a basement wall for wood paneling?

Mrs. B. Shaver Columbus, Ohio

First, make sure the wall doesn't leak. Then apply 1-by-2-inch wood furring strips as a nailing base for paneling. If you are using solid-board paneling, install the furring horizontally—one strip at the ceiling and two equally spaced between ceiling and floor. If you are paneling with plywood, which is usually only ¼ inch thick or less, install horizontal strips 16 inches apart from floor to ceiling. You also need vertical strips under the side edges of every plywood panel.

The easiest way to fasten furring strips to concrete is with steel studs installed with a stud driver, which you can buy or rent at a hardware store. If the concrete wall is at all damp, brush wood preservative on furring strips before installation; then staple sheets of heavy polyurethane film over strips, covering the entire wall, to protect paneling.

END PEELING CEILING

How can I make paint stick to a spot on my plaster ceiling that is always peeling? The problem may be caused by condensation on plumbing pipes.

(Mrs.) R.G. Rubenstein Plainview, N.Y.

No paint will stick to a damp surface. You will have to open the ceiling and insulate the sweating pipes—if they, indeed, are the problem—with fiber-glass tape.

DE-WAX A TERRAZZO FLOOR

What should I use to remove many layers of wax from a terrazzo kitchen floor?

Mrs. Kenneth Moss Nokomis, Ill.

It won't be easy, but you can do it: Mix 1 cup heavyduty household cleaner, 1 to 2 cups ammonia and ½ gallon cool water; apply with a mop or rag to an area about 3 feet square. Let this soak in for 3 to 5 minutes longer if necessary, but don't let it dry—then rub with No. 1 or 2 steel-wool pads. When the wax has loosened, wipe with a clean, damp cloth and rinse with cold water. Finish floor section by section, changing the solution when necessary to maintain its strength.

DECORATING Q's & A's

Can you help me pick a dominant color for wallpaper in my dining room? The room tends to be somber, and I would like to brighten it. My furniture is dark mahogany, the chair seats are covered in a blue floral fabric, the carpeting is Kelly green.

M. Mitchells Brooklyn, N.Y.

You already have a dominant coloryour carpeting—so build around it. Choose wallpaper in a green-and-white print. Look for one with matching fabric and re-cover your chair seats at the same time. I am planning to strip and refinish a small wooden cabinet that has pretty hardware and dainty carved flowers. How do I protect the hardware, and how can I keep the stain from getting on the beautiful carvings?

Mrs. A.C. Kumenker Brighton, Mass.

Before you strip the cabinet, remove the hardware or cover it with masking tape. To protect the carving, you can do either of the following: If the wood of the cabinet is not porous (that is, if you brush a bit of stain on an out-of-the-way spot and it doesn't spread), take a small paintbrush, outline carvings with stain, then stain rest of cabinet. If wood is porous, paint carved flowers with white glue thinned with water as a sealer. Stain cabinet; when stain dries, remove sealer with cloth dipped in plain water. My living room has begun to see drab. It has a multigreen shag carp gold sofa, green chair, dark avocao green draperies and pale yellow wal How can I pep it up on a tight budget? Jane Farl

Clarendon Hills, I

You can create liveliness with just few changes. Keep the carpeting; pai your walls white and add new draperi in inexpensive orange casement clot Slipcover the sofa in an orange, yello and green print, the chair in a yello linen with contrasting white welting.

We recently wallpapered our kitche in a lovely floral pattern, but someho the walls still look bare. How can w break up the large areas of wall space?

L. Pop Medford, N.,

Try groupings of old fruit an vegetable prints. Useful kitche objects such as copper pots an molds or antique utensils are als charming additions. Plants wi also create a warm feeling.

Our living room is small and dark, and the space is broken up Can you suggest a color scheme that will unify this room and make it seem larger?

> A. Monroe Bloomfield, N.J

Pale lemon-yellow walls and matching louvered shutters at the window will add a light, airy look. If your floor is in good condition, strip and bleach it to a pale bone color. Top with a shaggy rug in lemon and orange stripes. Keep your furniture in small scale. Select fabrics in an overall tiny pattern; add accessories in Lucite —white and yellow.

We recently purchased a home whose living room has all-white draperies, carpeting and walls. My furniture is very muted—dark pine with needlepoint upholstery. How can I add color to the room, without buying new draperies or carpeting? Mrs. E. Randolph

Banning, Calif.

For starters, why not paint your walls a bright yellow and dye the draperies the same color, sewing a plain red-ribbon trim to the edges? If you can, get an Oriental area rug to cover some of the carpeting. Add colorful paintings or posters, baskets of fresh flowers and plants, and the room will come alive.

HOW SAFE ARE KIDS' CAR SEATS?

Some, not all, work well. Be sure the one you buy conforms to stiffening federal standards

The safety of your child in a car is largely a matter of packaging. To send a precious item by mail, you would not merely set it tenderly in a box several times its size and send it on its way. Why then would you drive with your child standing freely in the car seat beside you, or rattling around loose in the back?

Or maybe you would put him in a little hook-over car seat complete with steering wheel just like Daddy's. Unfortunately, you might be increasing his vulnerability. Or maybe you would cinch him in tight with the lap belt just as you do for yourself. Here, too, your good intentions could be inviting serious injury. Nor are a mother's loving arms the safest place for a child in a car—not even for carrying a newborn home from the hospital. Under the sudden, violent forces of a collision, the smallest child can momentarily weigh as much as a baby elephant.

Of course, thousands upon thousands of children ride safely in cars every day without any restraints whatsoever. Then again, 10,000 children under four have died in auto accidents in the past 10 years. The thought is sobering. However, in the two and a half years since government regulations of child-restraint systems went into effect, there has been no report of an accident in which a youngster died while using a child seat that met Department of Transportation standards.

To understand the solution, it might help to understand the problem. If your car is traveling 30 miles an hour, you can brake in such a way that it will come to a stop in a matter of seconds, without your noticing any stresses or strains. If you make a somewhat quicker stop, your upper body might rock forward and your handbag fly off on the floor. But if your stop is compressed into a 10th of a second—which is what would happen if you hit a solid object—you've just had an accident, and something's got to give.

An accident might be defined as energy expending itself abruptly and unexpectedly. Your car has been stopped, but everything in it—people as well as objects—wants to continue traveling 30 miles an hour until something stops them—something like a windshield, a dashboard or the pavement outside. That's the famous "second collision" that inflicts injuries. If you cannot avoid an accident altogether, the next best thing is having something that will spread all that energy over as large an area as possible, and for the longest possible time. That's why seat belts and harness straps should be wide—and also why anything you are likely to come in contact with should yield gradually under your force.

Kids have special problems when it comes to dealing with the energy of an accident. For one thing, they have less area to spread it over, and are comparatively fragile. For example, a child's pelvic structure is not yet capable of protecting the internal organs it shields and is thus more vulnerable than an adult's to the sudden forces of a lap belt under rapid deceleration. Also, the little neck snaps forward more easily than an adult's, the little body jackknifes more fiercely and the entire little person is more easily projected headfirst against the car's interior hard surfaces.

Clearly a child needs special protection designed especially for him. Here are some things to look for when buying a restraint system that will package your child properly for auto travel. Understand, however, that just because a child's car seat, or chair, meets government standards, the government does not certify that the chair is safe—safer, maybe, but with no absolutes. Nor can we make any specific claims for the chairs mentioned, except to say that they have met existing Department of Transportation requirements.

When shopping for a seat or system, look first for a label that lists the maker's name and the place and date of manufacture. The law specifies that all child seats manufactured on and after April 1, 1971, meet Federal Safety Standard No. 213. If there is no label or a label with no date on it, selling that chair is illegal, and you can be sure the item offers inadequate protection.

The type of restraint system your child needs depends on his age—or more accurately, on his height and weight. Manufacturers are required by law to state—on each label—the height and weight of child the seat is meant for. Also, directions for the proper installation of the seat must accompany it. Periodic spot tests are conducted by the government, and recall announcements are made from time to time to correct substandard webbing or to revise installation instructions.

To meet federal standards, all child seats must be built so they can be s cured by a standard car seat belt. makes no difference whether the be goes around the chair's metal runner around the child in the seat or over restraining shield that secures the child Children should not use the seat bel alone, adult fashion, until they are for or five years old-or 42 inches tall wit a seating height of 24 inches. Even the pediatricians recommend that a har plastic cushion at least five inches thic be placed under a child to be sure that the belt crosses his body at the prope angle. It is recommended further that child not use an adult shoulder harnes in conjunction with a lap belt until he at least 55 inches tall.

Infants up to 20 pounds, or eight on nine months old, who cannot yet sit us securely on their own should not b placed in forward-facing child seat made for toddlers. There are specia infant carriers that cradle babies in backward-facing position. Governmen standards for these carriers are still be ing formulated—it is difficult to deter mine the forces a tiny child can with stand. Several manufacturers have either conducted tests or submitted samples to independent laboratories for evaluation

General Motors recently added a rearfacing Infant Love Seat as a companior to its Child Love Seat, a forward-facing molded bucket seat with side wings and high back. Both seats are being sold by mail as well as in GM auto showrooms. (All prices and addresses follow.)

Hamill Manufacturing Co. of Washington, Mich., a division of Firestone, makes the Love Seats for GM and their own Protecta-Tot as well. Unlike child chairs offered by such firms as Jamy, Kantwet, Bunny Bear and Teddy Tot, all of which are little aviator-looking seats complete with headrests and harnesses, the Protecta-Tot is essentially a booster seat with padded "impact cushion" curving up in front of the child's seat. The back of the car seat itself is the back of the child seat.

Ford's Tot-Guard also uses the car seat back as its child seat back, and is made up of three simple pieces. First is a seat pad to elevate the child, second a unique piece of polyethylene sculpture that makes a tunnel over the child's legs and flares up in an interesting curve to become an impact shield, and third an energy-absorbing pad that fits over the shield. The car's seat belt (continued) When you're so far away you can't give anything but love on an important birthday, why not give a gift of yourself...in a Long Distance call? fastens around the tunnel piece witho ever touching the child.

A detachable curving shield that allow a car's seat belt to snug the child in wit out touching him is a feature add recently to the Bobby-Mac. This one as much a crusade as a kid's sea Quentin H. McDonald of Scarsdal N.Y., designed the Bobby-Mac for h infant son, and it is ingenious-the on restraint device that can be used facin backward as an infant carrier and als facing forward as a child seat; thus takes far longer to outgrow. Also, with the addition of a folding frame, th Bobby-Mac can become either a reclin ing infant feeding chair or a toddler sit-up high chair, complete with plast tray. Teddy Tot takes a swing at vers tility, too. One of its models, the Dubble Ride-R, fits neatly on a folding frame become a stroller, complete with canop

There are some 15 American many facturers, as well as Klippan, a Swedis company, whose seats meet Department of Transportation standards. But thes April 1971 standards are now bein revised. A consumer study has calle government tests "inadequate" and de clared all but a handful of chairs "ur safe." In response, the government ha committed itself to more-and mor sophisticated-testing, so be on the aler for the announcement of a revise Safety Standard No. 213.

There is also the harness vest and straps secured to the floor of the car without involving adult seat belts. A harness allows a child more freedom of movement than a seat. But even with a harness, he should not be allowed to stand up. Though prevented by the harness from hit ting the windshield, a standing child is still dangerously vulnerable to whiplash. Har-nesses are relatively inexpensive. Sears has two models that now come with tether strap to prevent a child's standing up. Price of each is about $8, plus a comparable amount for installation.

Your refrigerator is really just another kitchen cupboard—one that holds the foods that need to be cold or frozen. And no doubt you've come to rely very heavily on that cold-storage space, not just to keep milk fresh, but to help eliminate waste and cut down on food bills by keeping foods better, longer. So your refrigerator is an all-important appliance.

If you're in the market for a new one, select it with care, for it will be with you a long time—the average refrigerator lifetime is about 15 years. Before you make a purchase, carefully measure the space available—don't estimate—and note down the dimensions to take with you when you shop. (Refrigerators come in a variety of sizes, from 26 by 55 by 26 inches to 41 by 67 by 33 inches.)

Next step: Decide how much interior space you want for both cold and freezer sections. Manufacturers list the spaces in cubic feet; these measurements may mean little when you're trying to visualize how much food the appliance will hold, but they can be a helpful comparison-shopping gauge. Look for a refrigerator with an AHAM (Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers) certification seal that verifies the manufacturer's volume calculations.

Since total usable space is what you're interested in, base your decision on the amount, size and shape of the foods you ordinarily keep on hand. If there has been an aggravating storage problem with your present model, look for a new one that will solve the problem. If there's a feature that you've particularly enjoyed, look for it again. And you'll be surprised to find that, due to design improvements, your new refrigerator will give you more interior space than your old model, though both may be the same exterior size.

An easy method of differentiation among the numerous types of refrigerators is the location of the freezer compartment: The top mount, which has a separate freezer section at the top of the refrigerator, is the most popula type. The bottom mount, with a separat freezer section at the bottom, has do creased a bit in popularity but is sti available. The single-door or conver tional refrigerator has a small, enclose top freezer compartment but not separate outside door, so it isn't a tru freezer compartment. The side-by-sia model has two top-to-bottom section for refrigerator and freezer. (Check th side-by-side's freezer section to determin if it's wide enough for the frozen food you use.)

Another way to categorize refrigera tors is by their different defrostin methods: With manual defrost, you de the job by hand—turning the refrigera tor off, taking out the food and removing the accumulation of frost. An automatic or cycle defrost removes fros from the cold section automatically, bu the freezer section must be manually defrosted. Frostless or no-frost model remove frost from both refrigerator and freezer sections automatically. Although the no-frost feature increases the cost o operation, more than 80 percent o refrigerators sold today have it.

Here are some points to keep in mind when choosing a refrigerator:

 Materials used both inside and ou are important to a refrigerator's life and good looks. Polyester, baked-ename and acrylic finishes are the most common exteriors. Interiors may be porcelain-enamel or plastic. Porcelain is durable and easy to clean, though it can be chipped by a hard blow; plastics are better insulators, but as they are porous, will stain and absorb odors more readily than porcelain.

 The temperature control should be conveniently placed and easy to read.
 An up-front location in the refrigerator or freezer section is best.

the main functioning parts. It may be located either on the back or the bottom. When it's on the back, the refrigerator won't fit flush against the wall, and space must be left above and/or in back for air circulation. When the condenser is on the bottom, the refrigerator can be placed flat against a back wall, and no air-circulation space is needed. The bottom condenser directs the air flow out through a removable front grille. It's important to keep either type of condenser clean, since accumulated dirt makes it use more power.

 Both left- and right-opening doors are available, and many models have convertible doors that may be attached to open either way. • Shelves should be sturdy, adjustable to more than one height and easy to remove, clean, and replace. Some models have slide-out shelves for easy access to food stored at the back. These shelves should have a retainer or rear ledge to prevent food from falling off.

• All interior and exterior surfaces should be smooth and free from clutter. Raised or recessed ornamentation may look attractive, but it's a dirt-catcher.

 Bottom rollers will make cleaning under, around and behind the refrigerator much easier.

 One or more interior lights, which go on when the refrigerator or freezer door is opened, should be located where they give good illumination without being vulnerable to breakage by tall containers.

• The fruit-and-vegetable bin, standard in most models, should maintain temperatures of between 40 and 45 degrees, according to the USDA. There may be one or more of these bins; they look about the same as the meat bin found in some refrigerators. However, to be effective in storing fresh meat ready for use, says the USDA, a meat bin should hold to 30 or 35 degrees.

• Special refrigerator storage compartments, usually on the inside door, include: egg storage (always store eggs with the pointed end down to keep them fresh longer); butter keeper that maintains a temperature you choose for good spreading; cheese keepers.

 Some models have an inside "economy switch" to turn off the heater used to remove built-up condensation in humid weather.

 A fast-cooling section, designed to quick-chill room-temperature foods and beverages, is a handy feature.

 There are various ways to make and keep ice: You can have icecube trays (aluminum or plastic); ice injectors and storage bins; automatic ice-cube makers or the ultimate—a refrigerator that dispenses ice cubes, crushed ice and ice water without your having to open the freezer door.

 Special freezer compartments can include a juice-can dispenser and a frozen-food dispenser.

 A variety of decorator fronts, precut to fit refrigerator doors, is available from many of the manufacturers.

After the refrigerator is delivered to your home, read the "Use and Care" booklet to make sure you know how to clean the appliance and set temperature controls. Be sure your refrigerator is level; if not, it may vibrate and be noisy. And for safety, see that it's plugged into a heavy-duty 120-volt, 20-amp grounded outlet.

Occasionally check the refrigerator's temperature with a thermometer—37 degrees is recommended for the cold section, 0 to 5 degrees for the freezer. Don't leave the door open any longer than necessary and be sure the door seal is tight. And remember, a defrosted refrigerator uses less electricity than one with a frost build-up.

To date there has been no official energy-use rating for different refrigerator models, but we predict that the industry will soon make this information available as a guide for better purchasing. Watch for it. —Jeanne M. Bauer

T'll bet they're rich."

The Johnsons are an average young family. Mother. Father. Kids. A dog. A car. And now a nice new home. But they know how to shop sensibly.

They have a cozy Early American living room. With a dining room to match. But Mom's choice was Mediterranean for their bedroom. The Johnsons know where to go for style and variety.

Tommy's still in grade school. So they bought him a moderately priced rugged bed, dresser and student desk to last through college.

The Johnsons have an eye for quality and value.

Nancy's only four. But her lovely young Country Inn bedroom will grow with her through the teen years.

No doubt about it. The Johnsons are a Bassett family. And it's easy to see why. We too come in all different shapes and sizes and styles. So whatever yours is, you can show it with Bassett.

And no matter what your budget style, we can match that too. Why the Johnsons' sofa cost less than $300. The armoire less than $350. Their complete living room, less than you can imagine.

Still another quality Bassett feature. Many fabrics are protected with Du Pont Zepel® soil/stain repeller.

So choose wisely. Choose Bassett. And let them think you're rich.

Acrilan® Plus has the jump on wool.

When it comes to springy, resilient carpet, nothing even comes close to Acrilan Plus.

Compare it with wool, and you'll wind up sneering at sheep.

This bounciness is important, because carpets that don't have it tend to look worn long before they really are.

And you wouldn't want that to happen to your carpeting, would you?

Carpeting that's made of Acrilan Plus not only feels bouncy, but even recovers after long wear under heavy furniture.

It also springs back smartly after constant traffic.

Carpets of Acrilan Plus come in an endless variety of colors, textures and designs. All are resilient, easy to

BELAIR

Here are pluses for food-label readers, ways to eradicate furniture flaws the joys of jelly making, the hows of clothing storage and collecting modern art.

ition labeling, long sought and long awaited, is becoming a ty. Soon, none of us will have cause to complain that we're being told the nutritive or caloric value of the foods we buy. If this year, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration made c a 12-part program, for both voluntary and mandatory ling, that was the culmination of studies and experiments ed out by their staff, by food specialists and by industry ing the previous four years. When the program goes into ct, beginning in 1974, it will provide information we have

r had before regarding the quality and tional value of the foods we buy, and orate on some of the data we're already istomed to getting.

That's to be labeled. Labeling will be ntary for most foods—for fresh bakery ds, raw fruits and vegetables, unprocessed y products. However, competition in the ketplace, specifically on the supermarket ves, should prompt most producers to pt it. But labeling will be mandatory for: products fortified by the addition of a nu-er on the label or in advertising—includany reference to protein, fat, carbohyre, calories, vitamins and minerals, or to use in dieting.

tandardized labeling. Makers of prots for which nutrition labeling is mandatory others who choose to comply-will be rered to do their labeling a specific way, for sistency and ease of comprehension. Acding to regulations, an information panel at appear on a package or container to immediate right of the principal display nel where brand and product names are nted, unless the shape of the container or k of space prevents this. In such case the ormation may appear in attached leaflets on signs displayed in the store. However appears, the information panel must inde: serving size in a measurable amount; nber of servings in the package or conner; caloric content of a serving; protein, rbohydrate and fat content; percentage of U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances

.S. RDA) of protein, vitamins and minerals a serving.

The U.S. RDA replaces Minimum Daily Reirements (MDR), the measuring stick till now. The U.S. RDA specifies how much of a nutrient is needed in a balanced diet; the MDR indicated the amount needed to prevent a deficiency. Another label inclusion involves packaged foods to which ingredients must be added in preparation. In all cases, nutrient contents of these additional ingredients may be listed, but directions for making the additions must be on the package.

Cholesterol. Aware that cholesterol and fatty acids are concerns of many of us, the Food and Drug Administration is providing help in this area. A voluntary aspect of their new program ACIN: (VITAMIN B.) will allow a manufacturer to label a product with its cholesterol content and the type of fat it contains (saturated, polyunsaturated, other fatty acids). Total fat content as a percentage of the total calories in the food can also be listed. However, the label may not claim the product will modify or prevent heart disease.

Dietary foods. This is another phase of the FDA program, and its prohibitions are strict. No label of a diet-food product may imply, suggest or declare that dietary supplements are sufficient to prevent, treat or cure disease: that a diet of ordinary foods cannot supply adequate nutrients; that inadequate diet is due to the soil foods are grown in; that transportation, storage or cooking of food may cause inadequate diet; that non-nutritive inaredients added to foods have any value.

Special attention is given to vitamins and minerals. If a food contains less than half of the U.S. RDA, it is not a dietary supplement.

half of to one and a half times the U.S.
 RDA, it is considered a dietary supplement.

 more than one and a half times the U.S. RDA, it must be sold as a drug.

Imitation foods. The word "imitation" on a package label, starting next year, will indicate that the food is nutritionally inferior to the food it "imitates." If the two foods are nutritional equals, however, the substitute need not be tagged "imitation," but its name will have to differ from that of the established product. For example, mellorine and paravine, which resemble ice cream, must be fortified to equal it nutritionally. With the new program, these two products will carry nutrition labels and will be sold under their own names—with no reference to ice cream or "imitation."

All this may seem confusing, but by paying attention, you can make sure your family is eating a balanced diet. — Frances M. Crawford 31  Furniture, especially wood furniture, is subject to attackfrom budding Michelangelos with ball-point pens to guests who have no appreciation of the fact that wet glasses leave rings. At any rate, a variety of problems can occur. Following is a roundup of these problems -with solutions.

SCRATCHES. If the scratch is shallow, color it to match surrounding area: On walnut furniture, try rubbing the meat of a walnut or butternut into the scratch. Follow by waxing and buffing. If the piece is red mahogany, ordinary iodine colors it properly. Apply to the scratch with a cotton swab or No. 0 artist's brush. When dry, wax and buff. For maple, dilute iodine about 50 percent with denatured alcohol. Commercial colorings are also available.

Major scratches require filling. The simplest way is with wax sticks. These look like crayons and come in a variety of colors. First, clean out the scratch with a razor. Wipe with naphtha. Rub stick along scratch, filling it and working it level. Wipe with a cloth. This type of repair is not likely to last long; a more permanent method is stick shellac, available in many colors. Heat a flexible knife. (If you use an open flame, quickly wipe the tool to remove soot.) Apply tool to shellac stick. Let shellac drip into scratch or wipe it in with tool. (Scratch should be clean.) Slightly overfill, let dry, then shave level with surface by scraping with a singleedge razor blade or 6/0 grade sandpaper. Polish with rottenstone (available at paint stores) and linseed oil.

INK STAINS. If ink does spill, immediately blot up, then pat stain with a damp cloth. Don't rub. Keep turning cloth. If all the ink doesn't come off, try rottenstone and oil, as in white marks," below.

STAINS ON MARBLE- AND TILE-TOP TABLES. For coffee, tea, fruit juice and food stains, cold water and Spic and Span usually works. If it doesn't, use laundry bleach. For ink, use 🖕 laundry bleach or peroxide. Grease spots yield to one part sal soda to nine parts water.

When you don't know what ★ the stain is from, try a variety of things until one works: 1) 32 * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

Here are easy do's to banish the common blemishes turniture is prone to.

Spic and Span and cold water, 2) turpentine or white vinegar, 3) laundry bleach, or 4) 20volume hydrogen peroxide or ammonia. (Never use bleach and ammonia together.) When using any of these cleaners, wipe on and give it half an hour; then clean with hot water and dry with a cloth. Wear rubber gloves. If none works, try some abrasive-first, finegrade steel wool and a scouring powder (cold water). If this doesn't do it, rub with finegrade sandpaper and Spic and Span-but not on glazed tile.

BURNS. Handle a slight burn with cigarette or cigar ashes. The ashes act like an abrasive. Dampen your finger and rub ashes over the area; when blackening is removed, wipe clean and apply wax. If a burn is deep, remove as much as you can by scraping it with a knife. Follow by wiping clean with a cotton swab dipped in naphtha. Smooth with extrafine sandpaper; complete by following the method used to handle major scratches. ******

DENTS. The job here is to steam the wood so it swells back into shape. Use a wet cotton swab and some Soilax to remov wax and polish. Lay severa * thicknesses of cloth on dent × Place a metal bottle cap, top up, on cloth over dent. Pres a hot steam iron on cap. Keep iron on only seconds at a time WHITE MARKS. There are two kinds-the rings left by glasse and the cloudy patterns left by hot objects. Follow the same procedure for both : Gent-× ly rub with a dampened finger and cigar or cigarette ash Follow grain of wood; wipe clean when stain disappears If it doesn't, you need something more abrasive: Shake a little rottenstone into one saucer and pour a little cooking or linseed oil into another Fold a small piece of cloth into a pad; dip in oil, then in rottenstone. Rub blemish, following grain. Use light pressure.

CANDLE WAX. Wax is easier to remove if you harden it first: Hold an ice cube against it for half a minute. Wipe away water; use a dull knife to pick off wax without touching wood. Then gently scrape away the portion sticking to furniture. When all wax is gone, rub area with furniture wax; wipe dry.

DAMAGED VENEER. A number of things can go wrong with veneer, all repairable. A common problem is that it separates from the furniture. If this happens, glue veneer in place with white glue. First, though, clean out all old glue and soil. Use a wooden pick to spread glue; press veneer in place, then pile heavy objects on until the glue has dried.

Another problem is a blister. If it's split, poke into the opening with a damp cotton swab to clean it out; if there's no split, make a small incision along the length with a singleedge razor blade. Smear white glue under veneer. Place wax paper over veneer, then place heavy books on it. If veneer will not be forced flat, apply a damp rag to it until it becomes pliable. When glue has dried (overnight), pick and + sand away wax paper, using medium-grade sandpaper. Wax and buff. -Tom Philbin n our home, breakfast is the second most important meal of he day, and on Sundays it's often the first. Not that we eat huge down-on-the-farm breakfasts. But the day doesn't start out right if we don't have at least fruit, eggs, meat, toast and elly or jam, and coffee—six basic ingredients.

Now at first blush you might think that with six basic inaredients to work from, our breakfasts would be infinitely varied. But they're not, and in that respect they are little different from substantial breakfasts that other people eat. Coffee is coffee. No chance for variety there. Meat is usually bacon. but sometimes it is sausage, scrapple or ham. Three or four different breads are used for toast, but since we each eat only two slices a day, it takes a monotonously long time to use up a loaf. Eggs can be boiled, fried, scrambled, poached, shirred and made into omelets. That's a pretty good change of pace; but when you get right down to it, an egg is an egg no matter low it is cooked. Fruit is almost always grapefruit—with orange juice a very occasional change-for about nine months of the year. In the summer, however, when our garden and orchard are in high gear, we switch around a great deal.

So that leaves the jelly and jam. They are our mainstays for providing variety at breakfast time. By actual count we have ound that there are approximately 75 one-fruit jellies or jams nade in the United States. And this does not, of course, include the many two- and three-fruit combinations that are made. Neither does it include marmalades, preserves, conserves and butters.

You can see why we like jellies and jams and make lots of them. Oh, no, not 75-plus varieties in one year. If we have just 10 or 15, that's plenty for a change of pace. Going to the jelly closet becomes a pleasurable game. Which will it be this timestrawberry, quince, peach, guava? We hold them up to the light to enjoy their color. We can almost taste them through the glass. What a lovely way to start a new day.

Essentials for jelly. Four things are needed in jelly making: fruit, pectin, acid and sugar. Pectin is a natural carbohydrate that causes jelling. All fruits contain it, but not in the same amounts. The amount even varies between different varieties of the same fruit and between fruit picked this year and that picked last year from the same tree. All fruits have more pectin when underripe than fully ripe. Acid contributes to the flavor of jelly and also to jelling. Ripe fruits always have less acid than underripe fruits. Sugar also contributes to the flavor of jelly and gel formation. In addition, it acts as a preserving agent. In short, how well you make jelly depends on how well you combine the four essential ingredients. Fortunately, this is not difficult. Anyone can make good jelly-jelly with a pleasing flavor, pretty color, cohesive but delicately quivering figure and melt-in-the-mouth tenderness.

Equipment. Even though you should make jelly in small batches, you need a big, deep kettle to contain the mixture when it is cooking at a rolling boil. An eight- to 10-quart size is about right. This is also adequate for preparing the fruit. A jelly bag is needed to drip the fruit. For some reason, we usually wind up making an improvised jelly bag out of three or four thicknesses of cheesecloth. This works perfectly well unless we fill it with too much fruit or squeeze the fruit too hard; then we have a mess on our hands. That's why it is better to sew up an honestto-goodness bag of unbleached muslin or several layers of cheesecloth.

A jelly, candy or deep-fat thermometer is useful if you make jelly without added pectin, but it is not essential. Another useful but nonessential gadget is a wide-mouthed funnel for pouring jelly into jars. A tiny double boiler for melting paraffin also falls into the useful-but-not-essential category. Other equipment needed-spoons, knives, a colander, measuring cups, etc.-is fairly obvious.

Jelly glasses and how to use them. The standard jelly glass holds eight ounces and has either a screw-on or slip-on cap. But there is no reason why you should not put up jelly in nonstandard jars that are not cracked or chipped. To prepare glasses, wash them in soapy water and rinse well. Then put them upside down in boiling water and scald them for about 10 minutes. Remove them several minutes before the jelly is done and let them drain upside down. They must still be hot when you fill them. Lids and bands should be washed and briefly dipped in boiling water.

When you get around to filling your jelly glasses, all you need is a ladle and a steady hand. We also like to use a widemouthed funnel because it helps to keep jelly off the rims of the glasses; but as we just said, this is not essential. If you are using jelly glasses with two-piece screw-on lids, fill them to 1/8 inch of the top. Wipe the rim clean with a paper towel. Put on the disc with the sealing compound next to the glass and screw the band down tight over this.

If you are sealing jelly glasses with paraffin, melt the paraffin in the top of a double boiler (it may catch on fire if you melt it in a pan directly on the burner). Fill the glasses to  $\frac{1}{2}$  inch of the top. Wipe the glasses clean on the inside with a paper towel. Then pour a 1/8 -inch layer of paraffin on the jelly. This is all you need and is, in fact, better than a thicker layer because it expands and contracts more readily. If bubbles appear in the paraffin, prick them with a knife; otherwise they will leave holes in the top of the congealed paraffin. When the wax is hard, cover the glasses with slip-on metal lids to keep out mice.

Preparing fruit and extracting juice. If you make jelly without commercial pectin, about a fourth of the fruit should be slightly underripe. If you use commercial pectin, all the fruit should be ripe but still firm. In either case, wash the fruit well in cold water, but don't let it stand in water.

The method of preparing fruit varies. Some fruits can be crushed and pressed without heating. Others need to be cooked somewhat, usually in a little water. When the fruit is ready, pour it into a damp jelly bag which is set in a colander over a large kettle or simply hung over the kettle. To get absolutely clear jelly, let the juice drip until it stops; then either throw away the pulp or use it to make a fruit butter. You will, however, extract more juice by squeezing the bag. In this case, after you have gotten out all the juice possible, re-strain itwithout further squeezing-through a couple of layers of damp, washed cheesecloth or a clean, damp jelly bag.

Making jelly without added pectin. This is the old way of making jelly and it is still a very good way provided the fruit is rich in natural pectin. Crabapples, acid (continued) 33

apples, sour cherries and slip-skin grapes are examples of such fruit. You use less sugar; on the other hand, you must boil the mixture for a longer time and you end up with less jelly.

If you are not sure whether a fruit has enough pectin, make the following test: Pour one tablespoon of the cool fruit juice and one tablespoon grain or denatured alcohol into a cup, stir slightly and let it stand for two minutes. If a solid mass of jelly forms, the fruit has a high pectin content, and in making jelly you should use one cup sugar for each cup of juice. If several small jellylike pieces form, however, the pectin content of the fruit is only moderate-you should use only 3/4 cup of sugar for each cup of juice.

If the mixture forms many small particles, the fruit has too little pectin to make jelly unless you add commercial pectin. In any case, don't taste the mixture; throw it down the drain. If the fruit contains enough pectin, measure it into a large kettle and bring it to a boil. Then add a measured amount of sugar, stir well until dissolved and boil rapidly until the mixture reaches the jelling point.

There are two simple, quick ways to test whether jelly made without added pectin is done. The most common but least dependable way is to dip a cold metal spoon into the boiling mixture, hold it a foot or more above the kettle-out of the steam-and turn it sideways. If the mixture forms two drops that flow together and fall off the spoon in a sheet, the jelly is done.

The second and better test is to use a jelly, candy or deep-fat thermometer. Before starting to cook your jelly, take the temperature of boiling water (it is not always 212 degrees). Then after boiling the jelly mixture for a while, lower the bulb of the thermometer into it and read the results. When the jelly-mixture temperature is eight degrees higher than the temperature of boiling water, the jelly is done. A third way is to pour a tablespoon onto a cold plate; refrigerate until mixture jells.

Making jelly with added pectin. This is our favorite method because it is fast and always produces a perfect product as well as a lot of it. No testing of doneness is necessary. The only slight drawbacks are that you use more sugar and you must follow the recipe exactly. Two types of pectin are sold in grocery stores. One is powdered; the other, liquid. We have always used the latter, but that doesn't mean there is anything especially good about it or especially bad about the powdered pectin. They make equally good jelly and they are equally easy to use, though the procedure varies somewhat.

To use powdered pectin, measure sugar into a bowl to be added later. Measure the fruit juice into a kettle and mix in one box of pectin. Place over high heat and bring to a hard boil, stirring constantly. Stir in the sugar at once, and bring to a full rolling boil again. Boil hard for one or two minutes, depending on manufacturer's directions. Stir constantly. Then immediately remove the kettle from the burner, skim off the foam and pour the jelly into hot, sterilized glass To use liquid pectin, measure the fruit juice and sugar in a kettle and mix well. Place over high heat and bring to a boil. Stir constantly, Immediately pour in pectin according directions. Bring back to a rolling boil and boil hard for o minute, stirring constantly. Then remove the kettle from t range, skim off the foam and pour the jelly into glasses.

Storing jellies. After filling and sealing jelly glasses, them stand undisturbed for 12 hours. Then label them and mo them into a cool, dry, dark place. The jelly will keep for a lo time, but quality declines with each passing month.

How to make frozen jellies. This is a new way of making jelly out of certain fruits, such as strawberries and grapes, fro which you can extract juice without cooking. The princip advantage is that the jelly tastes more like fresh fruit than co ventional jelly. A secondary advantage is that you don't hav to spend much time over the range.

Frozen jelly is usually made with added pectin, either pov dered or liquid. Unfortunately, there is enough variation in th way jellies are made with powdered pectin to prevent us fro aiving general directions here. To use liquid pectin, crus ripe fruit, place it in a jelly bag and press out the juice. Med sure the juice and sugar into a large bowl and mix well. In separate bowl, mix pectin with water or lemon juice, as spec fied, and add it to the fruit juice. Stir for three minutes. The pour the jelly into cool, sterilized jelly glasses or rigid freeze containers to 1/4 inch of the top. Cover tightly (but a perfe seal is unnecessary). Let stand at room temperature un the jelly sets. Then store in your freezer. It will keep for s months or a bit longer. Once opened, however, it must b used up quickly. Frozen jellies can also be stored in a refrig erator, but only for three weeks.

JELLY (without added pectin)

31/2 pounds grapes

1/2 cup water 3 cups sugar

Concord and similar varieties make the best purple jelly but other American bunch grapes can be used. We recentl used white grapes with just a few purple fruits added, and the made an outstanding jelly in a very lovely shade of rose.

Wash and stem grapes. Crush, add water and bring to boil. Simmer for 10 minutes. Extract juice and allow it to stan overnight in a cool place. Then strain through a double thick ness of cheesecloth to remove tartrate crystals. Measure cups into a kettle and add sugar. Follow standard procedure fo making jelly without added pectin. Makes 4 8-ounce glasses.

JELLY (with added pectin)

3 pounds grapes

- 1/2 cup water
- 7 cups sugar
- 1/2 bottle liquid pectin

Stem, wash and crush grapes. Add water, bring to a boi and simmer for 10 minutes. Extract juice. Measure 4 cups into kettle and add sugar. Follow standard procedure for making jelly with liquid pectin. Makes 9 8-ounce glasses.

FROZEN JELLY

- 2 pounds grapes
- 4 cups sugar
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1/2 bottle liquid pectin

Stem, wash and crush grapes. If they are not very juicy, heat them slightly. Put in a jelly bag and squeeze out juice. Combine 2 cups with the sugar. In a separate bowl, mix water and pectin and add to fruit. Stir for 3 minutes. Pour into clean, cold jars and seal. Let stand for 24 hours at room temperature. Then put in freezer. Makes 6 8-ounce jars.

NEW STORAGE STORY

Storing clothes with today's space savers is a simple matter. What's the secret? A marvelous assortment of handsome, durable new items—from a paisley-printed jumbo storage bag for 20 dresses to a wood-grain-finished chest that doubles as a bench.

With fall just around the corner, it'll soon be time to put away all those warm-weather clothes and accessories. But how best to store them? To help you, here are some storage hints and a quick rundown of the newest, nicest ways to cope with storage problems.

To begin with, vacuum closets regularly to help prevent moths and silverfish. Mothproofing is another good preventive, since the presence of these insects is hard to detect until Flat storage: There are several alternatives for storing nonhangables. If you have shelf or floor space, box storage is the answer. The boxes, usually made of vinyl over a rigid frame, range in size from small, single-item types to large partitioned affairs; prices are $7 to $16.

Among other flat-storage solutions are units that resemble furniture. You can get low campaign chests that double as seating and you'll find dressers in all their destructive deed is done.

Clean your clothes before storing them; remember, dirt and stains attract insects. And brush clothes before and after storing, to freshen them and help eliminate any moths that may be lurking in pockets, under lapels or in seams.

Hang clothes properly—zippers zipped and buttons buttoned—they'll hold their shape better. And leave spaces between garments to help hanging clothes stay wrinkle free. Store heavy knits and sweaters flat and use tissue paper between folds to discourage wrinkles. Don't store clothing in damp areas; mildew and odors can become a problem.

For your convenience, there is a great variety of ingenious, space-saving storage gear in notions departments and hardware stores. The items come in coordinated colors and prints, some even in handsome wood-grain finishes and are packaged under many different brand names. Many are made by Whitmor Mfg. Co., the Clopay Corp. or Scovill.

Hanging storage: If you have sufficient closet space, the best place to put suits and dresses is in hanging storage bags. These come in many materials—vinyl, nylon, clear plastic, denim, sailcloth—and sizes—from singleitem bags to paisleyed jumbos that hold 20 garments. Most have special heavyduty hangers and zippered sides; prices range from $2 to $12.

sizes to suit almost any space requirement. They are made of wood, synthetics, metal or cardboard with a wood-grain finish. Prices vary from $12 to $30.

Shoe storage: Now it's easy to corral all your shoes into one neat storage space. You can use a hanging shoe file that has pockets on both sides of a fabric or vinyl strip, or a wall or door bag with pockets on only one side. You'll find high, narrow dressers and partitioned shoe chests similar to the flat storage containers; all come in paper- or vinyl-covered cardboard. Finally, there is that superb organizer the metal shoe rack that sits on the floor or hangs from the wall or door. Prices for all types of shoe storers run from $3 to $18.

Closet space savers: These little hanging marvels hold several garments in the same space as one. Tucked into your hanging storage bags, they can really help you stretch that limited space. You'll find slacks racks that hold from four to six pairs, folded over, and skirt/slacks racks that use clips and hold up to six items. Especially nice are the combination hangers for skirt/blouse or shirt/slacks ensembles. And, of course, there are the indispensable tie and belt organizers. They hang in a closet or in your clothes bag and hold from 18 to 48 ties on individual arms, with a big bottom hook for belts. —Jeanne M. Bauer

Today's unprecedented art explosion makes the old excuse, ''1

don't know anything about art, but I know what I like," nothing but a cop-out. You can't know what you like until you're familiar with what's available, and with current interest crossing all boundaries of geography and income, art is all around us. Exhibits once confined to urban museums are touring the hinterlands by truck, trailer and railroad. Colleges and universities are opening their doors to off-campus neighbors when art events are scheduled. Public libraries are lending their wall space for exhibits by local artists. Publishers of books, newspapers and magazines are expanding their art coverage, and TV stations are allotting prime time to special programs on art and its creators.

Collecting contemporary graphics need not be just a rich man's hobby. Anyone can do it. The secret? Be well informed and you can buy art worth owning at a price you can afford.

Unlikely retail outlets—mail-order houses, discount stores, picture-of-the-month clubs, even supermarkets and drugstores—are contributing to the popularization of art, however questionable its quality may sometimes be. While all this exposure won't turn you into an authority, it should, if you take the time to look, give you the selfassurance and viewing experience needed to make discriminating choices.

Back in the days when art was spelled with a capital "A," collectors were usually the moneyed elite, and galleries gave off an aura more intimidating than inviting. Nowadays, it's all different.

Gallery owners are as friendly as neighborhood shopkeepers. And excellent originals—including oils, watercolors, acrylics, gouaches—are available to budget-bound buyers in the form of graphics, produced by the printing process under direct supervision of the artist. These "multiple originals" comprise the following categories:

LITHOGRAPHS. Lithography is a planographic medium—drawing and background are on the same plane. The technique relies on the antipathy of oil and water. An image is drawn with grease crayon on a special smooth stone that's then bathed in a grease-repellent chemical compound.

Ink applied to the stone adheres to the drawn lines but not to the undrawn background areas. The image is then transferred, in reverse, to paper, by use of a press that exerts a sliding or scraping force through a bar of wood. WOODCUTS, UNOLEUM CUTS. These result from a technique that originated in 8th-century China and employs the relief method of printing. A design is drawn upon a smooth surface (a wood or linoleum block); then all areas except this design are cut away with special wood-cutting knife and gauge. The raised design is inked and reproduced on paper that is pressed against the block.

ETCHINGS, ENGRAVINGS, AQUATINTS, DRY-POINTS. These related media are examples of the intaglio method, which is the reverse of relief. A drawing is cut into a metal plate with acid or a sharp tool. Then the plate is inked, and wiped so ink fills just the cut-in lines. Plate and paper are passed through a press, and the drawing is transferred to the paper.

SERIGRAPHS. These are silkscreen prints; the technique used to make them is based on the stencil principle. Designs are created on finely woven silk stretched taut on a frame. The artist blocks out blank areas of his design with a stencil or with a glue that fills in the pores in the silk. Ink forced through the silk reproduces the pattern of blocked and unblocked areas on paper placed beneath the screen. Though old, this technique called serigraphy—is especially well suited to contemporary art, since it permits a color intensity impossible to achieve with other graphic media.

Production of multicolor graphics involves repetition of the steps described above—the medium determines the actual technique—for each color used. For a more detailed survey of the world of graphics, you might investigate A Guide to the Collecting and Care of Original Prints by Carl Zigrosser and Christa M. Gaehde, Crown Publishers, Inc. $3.50.

Before buying a washing machine—or any product for the home—you doubtless study the market thoroughly. Art purchases deserve the same ful research—maybe more—since art, deling on its quality, is expected to increase in e with the passage of time, while a washer ns depreciating the moment it's installed. As shop, note that the price (but not the artistic e) of a fine print is determined by four main ors:

E ARTIST. The better his reputation, the higher price. Buying the work of a recognized artist retty good assurance of a sound financial inment. However, this should not be your most ortant-or only-reason for making a parlar purchase. Graphics by unknown artists be acquired very reasonably, sometimes for under $50; if a print appeals to you, that apshould be your primary motive for making a chase. And there's always the exciting possity that your artistic judgment will be coned by later recognition of an unknown whose k you acquired before the rest of the world overed him. By the same token, the relatively prices of graphics keep misguided purchases n becoming major disasters.

HE IMAGE ITSELF. One signed Picasso print from ambered edition of 50 can cost $1,000; another asso print from an edition the same size could as much as $100,000, if it is rare and adjudged experts to be a more significant work.

ARITY. The law of supply and demand governs as well as other commodities. A graphic from edition limited to 50 will cost more than a simprint from an edition of 200; however, the asure you derive from owning a print has no ition to its cost, or to the fact that 199 other ners are sharing that pleasure. A penciled sigure adds appreciably to the purchase price and estment value of a print, but a signed work has more artistic merit than an unsigned graphic led from the same stone, block or plate.

umbered, signed editions and unnumbered, signed prints are sometimes produced from same negative; the signed, numbered graphic y cost as much as five times the price of the signed print, so it's up to you to decide whether r're making a financial investment or acquira work of art for the pleasure of living with it. nited editions may be identified by two sets of mbers, separated by a slash, appearing in the ver margin of the print. The first set indicates print's position in the edition; the second Is the edition's total output. Thus, 19/200 ans you have the 19th print in an edition of ). All prints from a single edition are equal in ue, the first no more valuable than the last. CONDITION. Tears, stains and damages irrevers-

y reduce the value of graphics. Damaged prints can be repaired by experts, but the restored print can never again match the value of one in mint condition from the same edition. Improper framing can do as much damage to prints as carelessness or neglect. Did you know that while prints should always be umed under glass, the glass should never touch e surface of a print? Were you also aware that y paper you intend to have touch a print at, backing board, mounting tape—should be 0 percent rag content? Wood-pulp paper manuctured with chemicals will stain a fine print and e it prematurely. And has anyone ever told you that prints should never be glued or pasted down along the edges, but should hang free from paper hinges so they can "breathe" and adjust to atmospheric changes —or that commercial paper tapes and "sticky" tapes other than gummed white linen tape made for this purpose should never be used in framing? Proper framing is as important to the preservation of prints as it is to their appearance. Some galleries offer expert framing service; others provide clients with a list of recommended framers.

The advent of photo-mechanical means of reproducing graphics, however, poses a problem for the novice collector, who may easily be duped into buying a mass-produced copy misrepresented as an original print. Your first line of defense is education; expertise in distinguishing calendar art from originals will increase in direct proportion to your exposure. If you don't have the time to become a print connoisseur, your best bet is to rely on the knowledge of an established, reputable dealer. His willingness (or reluctance) to issue a written guarantee of authenticity for your purchase is a good indication of his reliability. Most legitimate dealers will also promise, in writing, that an acquisition may be returned for full refund within a reasonable period (generally 10 to 30 days from purchase). Some galleries will also permit later return for full credit toward "trading up" to a more expensive acquisition.

Recognizing that reputations aren't built overnight, the Art Dealers Association of America will not consider for membership any gallery that has been operating less than five years. And graphics dealers who have carned certification from the Print Council of America maintain rigid standards regarding the authentication on representation of original prints. (A list of certified dealers may be obtained by writing the council at 527 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022.) Recognition by either or both these prestigious organizations is a top-notch indicator of a gallery's reliability.

Unless you're an expert, be wary of buying at art auctions. Auction houses generally sell without guarantees, and operate on the principle of caveat emptor (let the buyer beware). Attend some art auctions just for fun (and for one of the best free shows in town). Take note of graphics sold and prices paid and then do some comparison shopping in the galleries. Don't waste your time daydreaming of acquiring undiscovered, unrecognized treasures of the Rembrandt-in-the-attic type. Sylvan Cole, Jr., president of Associated American Artists and a director of the Art Dealers Association has purchased an estimated half-million prints during his career and recalls only five "undiscovered" bargains among them.

No one can tell you what fine art to buy; the graphics you choose to own are for you alone to select. But here are a few final pointers on how to buy: Don't choose a picture just because it's the right size or shape for that spot over the fireplace, because its style is in keeping with your country French furniture or because its colors go well with the living-room curtains. That kind of "accessorizing" is demeaning. Art should stand or fall on its own merit. Traditional and modern, representational and abstract—if the graphics are good, they'll be in good company. It's happening now, this month—easy sewing notions, gourmet cooking by cassette, heady winery sights and the latest fun in games.

SEATS OF POWER

For that World Series fan, how about a TV game-watching chair that looks something like a baseball? It's in gray velvet or vinyl, with simulated baseball stitching. Selig makes it to retail nationally at about $345. Or sink into the Pop-Over, a soft, rounded chair with a back button smack in the middle. Also by the Selig Company, it's about $280.

TREE TREAT

Now you can fertilize trees and shrubs effortlessly—with Jobe's Tree Food Spikes ($2.95 for a package of five). Composed mainly of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and soluble potash, the spikes come with a removable rubber cap for protection when pounding them into the ground around the tree trunk. They are said to be three times faster to use than other tree fertilizers and require no additives, digging or drilling.

SEW NICE

Every time we're about to give up the whole thread-knotting, finger-stabbing business, someone comes up with a new invention that lures us back to the sewing room. This time that someone is 3M, whose "Scotch" has a whole bagful of notions: Pinless Pattern Holder, a spray adhesive that holds patterns and fabrics in place; ruled adhesive Sewing Tape for straight seams, pattern adjustments; Reflective Fabric Trim to apply to outdoor wear for night-safety's sake; Flexible Fabric Fasteners, an alternative to buttons and zippers. None costs more than $2.... Though priced at $469.95, Singer's Futura 900 is a temptation. It works all sorts of stitchcraft, even making buttonholes automatically to fit any button you slip into its computer slot.

THE CASSETTE CHEF

The latest soothingest voice in the kitchen is that of master chef James Beard. In his new series of taped "Cook Along" lessons, he's right there beside you-offering helpful hints (dunk onions in boiling water for easier peeling), reminding you of basic equivalents, glorying in anticipation (his chocolate sauce will be "sinfully delicious"). Cassettes contain full directions, menu and wine suggestions for two complete meals. Availableat department and book stores, they're $6.95 each, $69.95 for the full set of 10 (20 menus).

WAS THE BRASS MONKEY A WOMAN?

ther speculations concerning the drink that defeated the Japanese Imperial Secret Service in World War II.

Bits and pieces of the Brass Monkey legend are still surfacng. As hard to pin down as nuicksilver, as boneless as bysters, but as hard to ignore as he jolt of brass knuckles. The ruth? Where does it lie?

Candidly, we don't know.

It is rumored that early in 1942 the Japanese Imperial Secret Service began a concentrated search for an agent. Code name: Brass Monkey. Affiliation: our side.

Gossip had it that a trafficker in information, probably Ha Fat, the quinine dealer, had put the Secret Service onto a drinking club in the port of Macao.

The Japanese began around the clock surveillance. Heavy Traffic The Club's heaviest trade was in a sunshine vellow drink. It was named, like the club itself, after a small brass figurine perched in a niche beside the entrance: The Brass Monkey.

Soldiers of fortune, riff-raff, purported agents, and double agents, ordered the Brass Monkey, Smiled, were content, and went on with their business, nefarious and otherwise.

A Clue

One night an Imperial Observer was said to have noticed an . unusual pattern. The club entertainer - a Eurasian chanteuse of notable endowments who called herself Loyana - sang the same song repeatedly. Each time upon request.

Loyana's Swan Song

Next night, the Imperial Agent allegedly returned with a cryptologist from the Code Division of the Kempeitei. Could he discern a message in Loyana's song,"My Love is a Man of Gold"? Was there a code in the lyrics? In the changing notes of the accompaniment?

Was the Brass Monkey a woman?

Perhaps Loyana was"invited" to give a command performance in a lonely, fog-wrapped warehouse.

Perhaps after hours of "persuasion" she was forced to tell it all.

In any event, the night following the time-ofmany-singings,Loyana disappeared. Not long after, the club closed. Not the Japanese file on the case, though. Till the end of the war the Brass Monkey was rumored to be a monkey wrench in the plans of the Axis.

Still A Mystery

Who then, was the Brass Monkey? Legend has it that Allied Agents learned his identity from the coaster served with the Brass Monkey cocktail. When they crossed out the words,"No Evil," then removed all the letters from "The Brass Monkey" which did not appear in "See, Hear, Speak," they were left with the name: H. E. Rasske. That name, though, could have been an anagram for E. H. Kessar. Or Rhea Kess. A woman.

H.E.'s Homage?

Hearsay has it that every few years since the end of WW II, a gray-haired gentleman visits a nun's cloister in Hong Kong across the estuary from Macao. Could he be the same man who some say once enjoyed a relationship with Loyana? The same, perhaps, who is identified as H.E. Rasske, inventor of the Brass Monkey cocktail?

A KITCHEN THAT CARES

At first glance the kitchen below, though sleek and handsome, does not seem out of the ordinary. Not so. Look closer and you'll find a forecast of what may well be a major revolution in design: It's General Electric's new modular system, the result of hundreds of queries to homeowners about what they want in a kitchen. Seen here in The Ryland Group's "Prototype '74" house (bottom, left) in Columbia, Md., the GE kitchen is a wonderful answer to a homemaker's concerns.

To begin with, it provides extra, more convenient cabinet space (see profile drawings, below, right), with an innovative back-of-counter storage shelf for small appliances. Cleaning it is supereasy, since counter-top and cabinet surfaces are of durable plastic laminates. Another plus: Continuous soffit lighting comes with the cabinets to let the soup-stirrer and vegetable-cutter really see what they're doing. Finally, since major appliances are designed to fit flush to the cabinets, and since the abundant storage space is so tidy, the kitchen is trim and finished-looking.—Jeanne M. Bauer

Raised ledge at rear of counter (left) is big enough so that small appliances can stay at hand ready for use. Columns have electrical outlets. Nook at center is ideal for electric can opener.

PROTOTYPE '74: TESTING THE FUTURE

The traditional look of the house at left is deceiving. It's actually a testing ground for a number of breakthrough building products and techniques, including the GE kitchen system shown above. Brainchild of The Ryland Group, a leading home builder, "Prototype '74" is full of surprises, such as: waterproof wood foundation of Osmose-treated lumber; combined sheathing insulation of Dow Chemical's Styrofoam panels; aluminum floor joists by Alcoa; molded Fiberglas entrance door from Owens-Corning; one-piece interior walls from Upson 41 panels; and solid vinyl siding from Certain-teed.

These exceptionally charming designs for the youngster in your family were created for us by Cathy Irvin. Though delicate, they are sturdy enough to be long-lasting heirlooms. The beguiling Grow Chart (right), 9½ by 28 inches, is stamped on soft antique beige linen. The embroidered numbers can be omitted, if you wish, and the panel used decoratively instead.

The exquisite Birth Record design (above), 11½ inches square, is stamped on white linen. Instructions for lettering are included, but you can omit the letters and hang a treasured miniature (top) or gold watch for an entirely different effect. The frame is also available. Both of these kits come with stitch charts, color guides, easy-to-follow instructions and crewel yarn.

> Family tree (below), a memento to cherish, is 16 by 19 inches, stamped on white linen. Frame is available.

WHICH TYPE OF AIR CONDITIONER would be better: one that conserved energy but took longer to cool a room, or one that cooled a room faster? The energy-saver was preferred by 83 percent, with only 12 percent opting for the faster cooler. These figures suggest still another heartening change of attitude. People are now willing to sacrifice a little comfort to conserve power and reduce fuel bills.

HEATING, FUEL AND INSULATION are three subjects that are very closely allied. Regardless of the heating system now in use, we asked what would persuade readers to change to a new type of fuel or power system. If the new system would save on fuel bills, 65 percent might be persuaded to change. If the new system would help conserve energy, 53 percent expressed interest in changing. If installation costs were recoverable in five years, 42 percent said they might change. And if special low-interest loans were available for such a changeover, 14 percent found some likelihood of change. Thus it seems that our readers are flexible in their thinking about a change to some better system.

It was also surprising-and gratifying to find readers showing an awareness that better insulation and better home construction would result in lower fuel bills, regardless of what type of fuel was being used. In fact, our readers calculated that about 25 percent of their fuel costs could be saved this way.

Another pressing question that we put to our readers concerned the rising cost of good residential land and whether they would consider living in one of the newer forms of housing-condominiums, cluster communities, planned unit developments-in which land is owned jointly by all the neighbors. Here we ran smack up against tradition, with the majority favoring detached single-families houses on their own land. Only one-third would consider any of these new forms for their permanent home, three out of eight for a vacation home. Traditionalists were aware of the continually inflating price of land and its effect on future homeowning. But as one woman put it, "We want our little white cottage with a fence around it, though I'm not sure that it's what our children will want or be able to afford.'

THE QUALITY OF BUILDING is something a great many homeowners are clearly dissatisfied with today. When we asked if they thought the average builder gives home buyers value for their money, four out of five readers answered with a resounding no. What could be considered the worst features of today's houses? One in five mentioned poor construction, poor workmanship and poor quality of materials. Nearly one in listed poor insulation, poor weat stripping, wasted space, poor plan and small rooms. And the rundow complaints went on to include doors windows that don't fit, lack of cl space, use of green lumber, bad p jobs and unnecessary damage to exis trees on the lot. We received this sponse repeatedly, "The builder doesn't seem to care!"

What's the best way to prevent ferior housing from being built? The out of four readers felt that a dem for quality housing would be most ef tive in combating poor quality. M. insisted, however, that stronger act was needed. Some 42 percent sugges changes in building codes, and 30 g cent recommended more stringent g ernment standards. An interesting fo note: 76 percent of our readers felt t would get better value if they had house designed specifically for them.

SIZE VS. ENERGY SAVING did prove an imponderable. If two hou cost the same, but one is larger lacks energy-saving features and other is smaller but features energy c servation, fully three-quarters of the who answered the questionnaire they would choose the latter. Their r soning was sound, too, for as one read stated, "The extra space isn't as value ble to me as the energy-conserving f tures that will continue to save money, year after year."

Increased taxation is never popul but when we asked our readers wou they vote yes or no if their commun were to propose an increase in taxes I ecological improvements-such as a n sewage-disposal plant or water-purific tion system-71 percent said they wou vote yes. Feelings ran high for maki the community "a better place for t children." And on a broader pla many readers wrote with great emotion about the "far-reaching worldwide fects of pollution" and of the need "help save the planet Earth."

In general, the people who complete our questionnaire said they believ their neighborhoods had been upgrade during the last five years-the result new home building and the pride an concern of individual owners in the homes and community. Though tw out of three readers reported a defini improvement, 18 percent reported son type of neighborhood deterioration an 11 percent noted no change.

We were enormously impressed by th number of readers who, in filling or and mailing the questionnaire, expresse not only knowledge and concern for to day's environmental issues, but also willingness to take positive steps to hel solve the problems. -The Editor

BEST HOUSES OF 1973

The soaring cost of building is now the silent design partner of many residential architects, to judge from trends evident in the 18th annual "Homes for Better Living" judging, sponsored by American Home, House & Home and the American Institute of Architects. With few exceptions, the winners reflect close attention to cost—by efficient use of space and of less expensive materials.

To make the most of every inch, the houses cited feature decks more closely integrated into floor plans, interior sun courts usable even in cooler months and more extensive built-in furnishings and storage. To dramatize smaller interior spaces, the award winners include spectacular skylights, high ceilings and balcony rooms.

Making a virtue of necessity without sacrificing quality, most of the architects have used lowercost materials, but in fresh, new ways. This means natural wood exteriors are prominent, lessening long-term maintenance problems.

Here through page 52 are vignettes of 17 of the 20 award winners. On this page are five in the year-round custom-house category (the remaining three are shown in color starting on page 57).

I passed up reducing sessions and lost 77 pounds.

By Jerrie Wooley - as told to Ruth L. McCarthy his is hardly a sitting-pretty pose, but at 7 lbs. this was my best angle.

ome things you can afford in life, and others you can't. Me?I couldn't fford to get fatter than 197 pounds. for did I have the money for those roup sessions where they talk you nto reducing. But I was determined b lose weight.

I'd been a chubby ball from as far ack as I could remember. Fact is, I sed to think I'd been born with a lot f "fat cells". But the real reason was couldn't walk away from my hother's delicious cooking. So by the ime I got to eighth grade, I weighed ear 160 pounds.

ime I got to e.g. hear 160 pounds. My mother finally took me to a docor and he gave me reducing pills. They helped me lose some, so I could graduate in a "skinny" dress. But shortly after graduation, I gave up the pills and started eating and gaining all over again. Why Leven got married fat Young

Why, I even got married fat. Young, oo. At the age of seventeen. My life from then on was just one diet and reducing pill after another.

At 170 pounds, after my second child was born, I developed bulging varicose veins — which called for an operation. "But not till you lose a lot of weight," the doctor warned. I got so discouraged at this point, I went home and eventually ate myself up to 197 pounds. It was terrible.

Now that I'm down to 120 lbs., it sure feels good to get into junior-size clothes.

Even my uncle who comes to visit us only once a year noticed it. "Are you staying in the kitchen because you're ashamed of how you look?" he yelled from the living room. That hurt. But that's what got me into action.

I'd been reading those ads about that reducing plan candy, Ayds<sup>**</sup>, and when a nurse friend suggested I try them, I bought a box of the vanilla caramel kind at our local store.

I'm a great label reader. And when I read that Ayds didn't have any drugs, but did contain vitamins and minerals, I started on the plan with hope. Stubbornness, too. I was determined to prove to my family I could lose weight without spending a lot of money on weekly sessions.

On the Ayds plan, I took one or two Ayds before meals with a hot drink and they really helped me cut back. However, it wasn't until I'd taken off 19 pounds that I realized how it showed. We were at my sister-in-law's for dinner and being from the country, she sets a big table. Well, I didn't want to insult her by turning down seconds, so I owned up to reducing. She said: "We kind of noticed you were losing" and didn't force me to eat after that.

I found as the scales went down, I had more energy for doing things in the house and exercising outside.

Of course, my doctor was delighted. Losing over 70 pounds on the Ayds plan sure made my varicose veins operation easier. They had to wrap me in bandages from my thighs down, but at least they didn't need a crane to get me up.

When I finally got down to 120 pounds, I had a garage sale and unloaded my fat clothes. And somewhere in Louisville, Kentucky, there are some chubby little ladies, who are very happy in my castoffs. Too bad they didn't buy Ayds and start on the plan. Then they'd never have a hard time finding clothes that fit.

REDWOOD AMONG THE OAKS

Dedicated conservationists. architect Ivan Poutiatine and his wife, Lochi, were determined to build on a wooded hillside in Mill Valley. Calif. - a rural San Francisco suburbwithout disturbing the natural beauty of their half-acre site. Ivan even altered his plans, lowering the roof line 18 inches to avoid cutting off one limb of a California live oak tree. His three-bedroom Honor award winner is paneled, inside and out, with redwood carefully salvaged from a 70-year-old agueduct, giving the house a weathered look. With 2,400 square feet, its rooms are simply arranged and generous-sized. "I didn't want a house with clever, intricate spaces," says the architect. (continued)

Poutiatine house stands tall in its grovelike surroundings. Huge skylight (opposite) floods living room with sun. Entry (above, left) is reached by walk beside plants and pool. Approach to kitchen (above) is also inviting.

Ivan and Lochi's lively sons, Michael, 10, Andrew, 8, and Peter, 4, have their own center. They sleep, play and care for their indoor pet collection in a two-story, two-bedroom "tower." They clamber between levels by ladder. but their parents prefer a stairway from the second floor. At ground level, a large deck wraps around two sides of the house. # CLUSTERED CEDAR PAVILIONS

Resting gently on a two-acre woodland site in Wilton, Conn., this five-bedroom Merit award winner is a model of simplicity. Designed by architect Willis N. Mills, Jr., for his own family of six, it is a cluster of three shed-roof pavilions arranged around a central entry hall. The plan encloses 3,000 square feet on two levels, combining easy circulation with privacy for all. (Lower level, not shown, has bedrooms, bath and playroom for the three Mills boys.) Shingle roofs and cedar walls echo rustic setting. Plan (below) shows how three "dead-end" wings cut down traffic flow—no room serves as a walkthrough. Garage completes entry court, adding privacy buffer.

From entry hall (left), which ties three separate wings together, you can move to any room in the house—or go directly to rear terrace, through doorway at far left.

Living room (left) is airy and informal. Glass wall is recessed three feet under roof extension, thus shaded from sun. The deck beyond glass adds to the sense of space and makes window washing easy.

BEST HOUSES OF '73

From the street (opposite) it's easy to see how well Pat Coplans used appropriated space to add width to her house. Stairs allow entry at center of plan. Overhanging bays not only expand interior, but also vary the boxy look of the cedar-sided exterior, Brick terrace at rear (below, left) surrounds glassed-in kitchen-dining room. Design of house is so compact that Pat need walk only a few steps to have coffee on the outdoor patio with her friend Dave Hunter. Window extension in living room (below), lined with comfortable built-in seating, offers spectacular view of Golden Gate Bridge and the Pacific beyond. Ceiling soars to 26 feet. Here, Pat takes in the panorama, while Dave and his sons huddle over chess.

When a lot is only 25 feet wide, it takes superlative design to SKYLIT By adding space "stolen" from an undeveloped street at one side for her entry steps, she was able to devote the entire frontage to her living room. The variance she needed—to use the street space—also allowed the overhanging bays. (continued)

With an enviable view to the north, there was no question which way the living room would face. But Pat wanted sun as well as spectacle. Her solution is a south-facing skylight that also brightens the balcony bedroom. Lowered ceiling creates a restful nook beneath bedroom.

Skylight festooned with hanging pots of ivy drenches bathroom with sun. It also enables a bather to gaze at towering eucalyptus trees from large, circular tile tub. Pull-up shades block out sun, when necessary. Door at left leads to sauna.

Pat prefers "I wanted interrelated areas for living, eating and an open plan: working," says Pat, and being the architect as well as the client, she got exactly what she asked for. Her rooms "I don't flow into each other, and by using skylights and high like doors!' ceilings, she created a feeling of spaciousness and lofty drama for this 1,800-square-foot, two-bedroom house. Easy upkeep, inside and out, was another consideration. Tile floors and other scrubbable surfaces line interior.

Kitchen is an efficient U-shaped space arranged around counter-high worktable. Dining corner looks down hall toward living-room fireplace. Terra-cotta ceramic tiles cover all floors except living room, richly surfaced in parqueted wood.

Floor plans show how spaces relate. Two bedrooms and bath are on top level (below). On main floor (bottom), living areas flow together with little need for doors or dividing walls. Stairs lead to garage at street level.

Dutside, the roof, doors, window frames and downspouts are metal—treated, before installation, with a new ong-life enamel coating. Pat chose brick-red color to contrast with diagonal siding of natural cedar, which vill be allowed to weather. At night, from nside, this treatment gives the glass a mirrorlike quality.

By Helene Brown When Karin and Merritt Blake, two native New Englanders, decided to move to southern California, they took their Yankee traditions with them. Their love of sunning, swimming and sailing made them choose Malibu at the edge of the Pacific, yet the charming Cape Cod house they bought there is a clear reminder of home. "It wasn't easy to find a traditional house in this seaside colony," says Karin, an interior designer. "Now we feel we have the best of both worlds. ### THE ABC'S OF

If you'd like a low-calorie food that's a source of many nutrients, look to lettuce—particularly the outer leaves. It supplies healthy amounts of vitamins A and E, some C, small quantities of B vitamins, calcium, iron and other minerals.

BUTTERHEAD

Lettuce of this family is loosely headed with soft, pliable leaves that have an oily feel and a delicate buttery flavor. The heads are not especially crisp and are quite easily bruised. The best-known butterhead is Boston (below). Its leaves are often used as cups to hold individual salads. The outer leaves are a deep dark green, the inner ones shade almost to white.

Another prized member of this family is Bibb (above)—a tiny cupshaped lettuce with distinct color, flavor and crispness. The leaves are deep, rich green on the outside, blending to a whitish-green toward the core. CRISPHEAD

Varieties in this group have firm heads and a brittle texture. The leaves overlap in a smooth, regular manner to form heads six or more inches in diameter. The leaves, coarse with prominent ribs, are medium green on the outside, shading to pale green in the center. The widely distributed lceberg (above) is the best known.

COS OR ROMAINE

The elongated head and long, narrow leaves make this lettuce easy to recognize. There are two varieties: the self-closing, whose leaves curve inward at the tips and the loose closing, which does not form a closed head. The leaves of both look coarse but are tender and sweet. The outer ones are dark green and shade to almost white at the root end. The light, goldenyellow inner leaves are very tender and flavorful, a favorite in tossed salads. LEAF

This type, also called looseleaf or bunching, does not form a head. The light green, raggedy-edged leaves are arranged loosely around the stem with only the young ones at the center overlapping to any extent. Leaf lettuce has a very short market season and does not transport well. Easy to grow, it is a favorite of many a home gardener.

TIPS ON HANDLING

Lettuce should be refrigerated as soon as possible after buying to insure crisp texture, good color and top flavor. Peel off any bruised outer leaves, and remove the core. For the crisphead type, hold the head core end down and whack it on the kitchen counter. Lift or twist out the core. Rinse, cored end up, under running cold water. Drain. For the more easily bruised heads. like Boston, cut out the core with a sharp knife; hold the head, core cavity up, under running cold water and spread the leaves apart gently. Drain thoroughly.

Store in an airtight container, a tightly closed plastic bag or the vegetable compartment of your refrigerator. Lettuce will keep three to eight days. Freezing is not recommended.

In use, lettuce can be cut into wedges or chunks, shredded or torn apart to mix in a salad. Tearing is preferred, because it keeps the leaves from darkening at the cut edges.

"The Season of LOVE"

"The Season of REST"

In 1868, when these four matching "Seasons of Life" lithographs were first issued by Currier & Ives, your great, great grandmother flipped! Thousands rushed to buy them, hung them proudly on their walls, admired them as the best "contemporary" art of the day! Today, the few originals that have survived a century of use have become prized antiques, greatly valued both for the charm of their art style, and for their authentic depiction of a way of life that has vanished into the mists of time.

If you are lucky enough to find an original Currier & Ives for sale, congratulations! You can expect to pay 'hundreds of dollars! And you might haunt antique shops and search for years without finding this complete, matching set of "The Four Seasons of Life" series. Now we've found these beautiful lithographed reproductions, and talked the publisher into giving us this special. (It's so astonishingly low, it might even be less than great, great grandmother paid in 1868, when a dollar was really a dollar!)

In full color, each print 9"x12", ready to frame. Group them into a conversation piece setting along one wall, or space them in sequence along that hall or entry way. You'll be literally amazed at how much these beautiful and charming prints add to your decor. They're such exact copies they actually have that "antique" look. Only an expert could tell.

"The Season of STRENGTH"

But hurry-this price is so low we expect an immediate sellout. So mail the coupon now, today ... tomorrow may be too late.

Helps Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Caused By Inflammation And Infection

Also Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases from Pain and Burning Itch in Such Tissues.

There's an exclusive formulation which actually helps shrink the painful swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by infection. In many cases the first applications give prompt, temporary relief from itching and pain in hemorrhoidal tissues.

The sufferer first notices relief from such painful discomfort. Then this medication helps to gently reduce swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues. Tests conducted by doctors on hundreds of patients in New York City, Washington, D.C., and at a Midwest Medical Center showed this to be true in many cases.

The medication used by doctors in these tests was Preparation H®-the same exclusive formula you can buy at any drug counter without a prescription. Preparation H also lubricates the affected area to protect the inflamed, irritated surface and so helps make bowel movements more comfortable.

There is no other formula like Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

YOUR NERVES CAN URE THEMSELVES

once you learn how to de-sensitize them, this doctor's ingenious new way...

If You Suffer From A Single One Of These Torturous Symptoms Of Nerves, Tension Or Chronic Anxiety, THEN THE FACTS BELOW MAY BE THE MOST IMPORTANT YOU HAVE EVER READ IN YOUR LIFE!

Because they reveal, for the first time, how your nerves have tricked you into the following mental symptoms:

constant nervousness and over-irritation ...inde-ision ... depression ... loss of confidence in your-self and others ... feelings of unreality ... over-whelming obsession with one or two horrible houghts ...

a hopeless feeling that your entire personality is oming apart ... that your identity is dissolving ... br that you may be helplessly drifting into a nerv-bus breakdown!

And-equally as bad-how your nerves have ricked you into the following physical symptoms: chronic fatigue, that starts in the morning, and rows worse as the day goes on.

"missed" heartbeats-"racing" heart-palpita-ions-or sudden sharp pains under the heart ...

sweating hands-or "pins and needles" in either

"churning" stomach...nausea...choking feeling in the throat...inability to take a deep breath... tight band of pain around the head..."ready to imp out of your skin"...strange tricks of vision ...weak spells...insomia, that goes on night after night after night...

hand shaking ... panic spasms ... knots in your test ... dizziness ... difficulty in swallowing ....

WHAT OTHERS SAY:

"...helped me so much and released me from the particular hell I have been living in since my breakdown six years ago." "I am amaged at the progress I have made in such a comparatively short time." "It would be no exaggeration to add that your book saved my life." "The method you give for cure of nerv-ous conditions is so effective-so simple." "The sreat reassurance you give about the distressing physical symptoms of a dis-turbed nervous system is one of the great-ext benefits to be derived from your book." "You cannot possibly imagine what a est benefits to be derived from your book." "You cannot possibly imagine what a relief it is to be able to view life normally again, instead of fear-panc all the while." "I cannot describe the emotion I felt to find, at last, someone who really under-stood the problem, and to hear her say the condition can be cured....If only this un-derstanding person had the time to take all sufferers under her wing." "I would like you to know that my nerv-ous condition has so greatly improved through the advice gleaned from your most precions and invaluable book...that all symptoms have now disappeared and I rarely need Librum or sleeping capsules." "My physician is amazed at my prog-ress and of course I showed him your book which he borrowed and read thor-oughly and is now recommending."

book which he borrowed and read mor-oughly and is now recommending." "My wife has made a vast improvement. I'm sure if she had had your treatment in earlier years she would never have had to go into the hospital at all."

WHAT THE PUBLISHER SAYS:

HOPE AND HELP FOR YOUR NERVES has sold over 250,000 copies and has been endorsed by medical and mental-health associations throughout the world. Millions of Americans have heard Dr. Weekes on television and radio shows and have mad account from the back which have read excerpts from the book which recently appeared in Reader's Digest.

vomiting...and all the other physical tortures that turn your life into one continuous hell!

And Every One Of These Nervous Symptoms Can Be Controlled...And Then Diminished ...And Then Eliminated—OFTEN BY AS LITTLE AS THIS ONE SINGLE INSIGHT INTO THEIR HIDDEN CAUSE!

And that insight is this: If you suffer from any of the nervous symptoms listed above, then you must understand at once that your nerves are not ill... they have not deterio-rated....they have not lost their true physical health in any way! What has happened to them instead is that they have simply become OVER-SENSITIZED..."rubbed raw" by too much out-side irritation...and are now ready to discharge the emotional and physical symptoms of panic at even the slightest thing that goes wrong! Thus, the depression ... indecision ...loss of con-fidence and all the other emotional symptoms you feel are all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves! And the churning stomach...palpitating heart...

Teel are all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves! And the churning stomach...palpitating heart... never-ending headaches and all the other physical nervous-symptoms you feel are-again-all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves! And therefore the way to treat ALL these symptoms is NOT with drugs...NOT with shock ...NOT with medical formulations or hospitali-zations at all! The way to treat these nerves is to channe the polynowich that are subhing change the poisonous-thoughts that are rubbing change the poisonous-moust-them raw! And this is done (as proven by this internation-ally-famed physician on thousands of patients) in four simple steps! The first of which stops nervous symptoms (both physical and emotional) from multiplying from that moment on! The second of which serves to tranquilize and quiet down those over-sensitized nerves far more powerfully (and permanently) than any drug a pharmacist could ever give you!

ever give you! The third of which lets you stop fighting those symptoms (which only intensifies them in an ever-increasing spiral of sheer torment), and—instead —leave them alone in an ingenious way that lets them start healing themselves! And the fourth of which—the great reward— brings you slowly-but-surely back to the person you used to be! With a new, enduring feeling of control and confidence that nothing can destroy! So much so that this doctor actually comes right out and states bluntly: "The advice given here will definitely cure you, if you only follow it"!

In Fact, Case History After Case History Proves That Cure May Be So Dramatically Quick That Your Friends And Family Will Beg You To Tell Them Your Secret!

Once again, it doesn't matter what physical or emotional symptoms you are now suffering from ...how "deeply entrenched" they are ...how long you have been plagued by them ...how "old" or "weak" or "out-of-control" you may feel today! Here is specific, step-by-immediate-step advice that will (again to quote directly from the doctor) "banish every unwelcome sensation and regain peace of mind and body"! Ere example:

For example: The two-minute self-treatment (you perform one sudden panic seizures on the spot-including all their side effects such as dizziness, pins and nee-dles, involuntary stiffening of the joints, inability to breathe, and all the rest. That "lump in the throat that won't go away"-

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Exercise the lazy way... Pedal off unwanted inches with famous HIP CYCLE

Slim down hips and thighs
 Slim down waistline
 Increase muscle tone

Used by Models, Executives, Housewives... Men and Women Who Want a New, Trim Look

The Hip Cycle lets you relax comfortably while you pedal off the inches. It's the easy way to firm up all those problem areas...waistline, hips, legs, thighs, calves.

You lie down on a cloth-backed vinyl mat that protects your entire body from the floor. You can do it at home, beside your bed...take it out on the patio or lawn, if you want to get some air and sunshine at the same time. Listen to the radio or watch TV.

You pedal away...as little or much as you want a day...pace yourself while you get all the benefits of smooth, pleasant exercise. It's good for strengthening foot muscles, too. A short, invigorating period every day and you begin to feel and look like new.

Always Handy-Easy to Store

The Hip Cycle is easy to use, easy to store. When you're through exercising, just fold it up and tuck it behind a door, under a bed, in a closet. It folds down to a compact 28" x 20" x 11/4". It's light, easy to carry, folds out and ready to use in a second. It comes with instructions to show you how easy it is to pedal those inches away.

Satisfaction Guaranteed or Money Back

Use a Hip Cycle just once and we think you'll want to use and enjoy its benefits every day. And everybody else in the family will like it, too. (It's great for teen-agers!) Try it in your home-use it for two full weeks. If you're not more than delighted you may return it for full, refund. Mail coupon below for prompt shipment.

NEW! 15 Minute Beauty Renewal Plan

Unique 3-Way Facial Rejuvenating Beauty System Guarantees emarkable results with one "15" Minute Treatment. You must see and eel results within 15 Minutes—your Chinline and Neckline will firm and hape, Facial Tissue and Muscles will come alive—prematurely dry skin vill be re-hydrated...or the Beauty Renewal Plan costs you nothing— —Every Penny Back!

"15 Years Ago: My total facial appearance was tired and old looking." AGE 26 "Today: My husband and friends say I look younger than 15 years ago." AGE 41

... without resorting to plastic surgery," says Joanne Cox. "I saw results instantly. The 15-minute Beauty Renewal Plan helped. It rejuvenated me like magic!"

And here's how you can test FREE—and see for yourself within "15 MINUTES" how our "BEAUTY RENEWAL PLAN" can preserve your natural beauty of face and skin—as well as help roll back your years to new facial beauty!

WHAT WILL YOUR PLAN DO FOR MY FACE?

lust what the name says: Renew It! In 15 minutes you'll see proof that your sagging chinline and neckline start firming up. See tension, strain, "frown-lines" and "laugh lines" start disappearing from your face. You'll marvel at how fine lines, creases, blemishes, begin improving, You'll witness your facial roughness, flaking, and sun and wind damage disappear, and your face becoming satiny solt as a new born baby, as though by some miracle of youth.

HOW DOES THE PLAN WORK? It works by giving your face the trio of treatments that it so desperately needs (one without the other will not do to maintain and help renew facial beauty).

1. NATURAL Moisturization from our Natural ''Skin Food'' Creme.

2. NATURAL Facial Shaper, helping car

Copyright 1973, "15-Minute" Beauty Renewal Plan

you to relax your face and realign your neckline, chinline and total face.

3. NATURAL Exercise for firming facial and chinline tissue. The Key Word is "NATURAL" because there isn't one element of the "15-Minute" Beauty Home Renewal Plan that's not 100% Natural. All these 3 Beauty Aids working together are in harmony with Mother Nature and her Natural way of helping create facial beauty.

THESE ARE THE NATURAL ELEMENTS OF OUR PLAN THAT HELP PRESERVE AND RESTORE YOUR FACIAL BEAUTY

 NATURAL Avocado Complexion Renewal Creme — The richest skin moisturizer ever created, then made RICHER with Vitamin E, Vitamin A, Aloe Vera Gel, plus Amino Acids for skin penetration and much, much more. The base is a custom formulation of avocado, wheat germ and other natural oils and moisturizers, all whipped to sheer weightlessness. Its Job: to instantly sweep away tiny skin imperfections and work tirelessly to help clean up dull, pebbly and dehydrated aging skin.

2) NATURAL Facial Shaper/Relaxer— The instant you wear it—you'll feel a face lift. It eases your face into a natural state of smoothness and relaxation, relieving stress and tension, relaxing frown lines and forehead wrinkles. Automatically teaches you to hold head high, realigning your neck and chinline to help avoid further sagging and wrinkling which lead to facial disaster. It's featherlight, a joy to wear, feels and acts like a "second skin" for a lifetime of serene and radiant loveliness.

3) NATURAL "15-Minute" Facial Rejuvenation Booklet — A scientifically documented, fully copyrighted booklet of original home beauty renewal tips, techniques and procedures. Special massage brings new color to your face ...Simple exercises firm, uplift and reshape facial, neck, chinline and throatline muscles...Your key to totally "Renewed Facial Beautyt"

"15" MINUTES—COMPLETES THE PLEASANT TREATMENT! YOU ENJOY 24-HOUR-A-DAY BENEFITS

That's all it takes...15 minutes, you're done! Your face is moisturized, tissues firmed, skin moisturized, tension and stress lines relaxed — your natural beauty starts returning. And this pleasant pampering treatment activity works its magic twenty-four hours a day.

OUR GUARANTEE TO YOU!

One "15" Minute Treatment...whether you're 20 or 80 — you must see and feel these positive results — Or Money Back!

- Sagging chinline and neckline starts firming
- Skin creases, dry skin lines, blemishes, start disappearing
- Damage due to air, sun and cosmetic pollution repaired
- · Stress, tension leaves your face
- · Frownline, forehead wrinkles relax
- Chinline and neckline are realigned, avoiding further sagging and wrinkling of facial tissue

No other formula like it!

How can Vitamin E-Added perform the documented miracles you've just read? One reason is its unique combination of pure Vitamin E and Aloe Vera-two of nature's most potent, yet gentle healers, Vitamin E is a recognized anti-oxidant. And oxidation is the process that causes aging in human skin. For centuries, Aloe Vera has been used as a skin treatment by primitive tribes who have long held its soothing powers in almost superstitious awe. Each ingredient enhances the powers of the other. And only Vitamin E-Added combines both wonderworkers in one unsurpassed beauty formula.

See how it works for you!

How can you be sure you'll get the same astonishing results as others? There's only one way. Order Vitamin E-Added. Use it on your own skin problem areas. Then, see with your own eyes if your skin has achieved glowing new softness and smoothness. Otherwise the test won't cost you a penny!

WE GUARANTEE ... you will be delighted with the results or you may return the empty container anytime within 14 days and we'll send back every penny you've paid.
