Let the sunshine in! Armstrong Solarian.®

The sunny floor that shines without waxing.

What a way to sunbrighten your day! And Royal Villa, shown here, is just one of the sunny Solarian patterns. What makes them shine so bright? Solarian is born to shine. Its special Mirabond® wear surface keeps its shine, without waxing or buffing, far longer than an ordinary vinyl floor. And the cleaner you keep it, the brighter it shines: just sponge-mop with a detergent and rinse thoroughly. Even black heel marks will come up easier.

Where foot traffic is heaviest, you may eventually see a reduction in gloss. So, if you need it, your Armstrong retailer can supply a special Solarian Floor Finish, which can be applied occasionally to maintain the shine the way you like it.

You'll find your nearest Armstrong retailer in the Yellow Pages under "Floor Materials." Many are authorized Floor Fashion Center® retailers, offering a complete selection of Armstrong floors, color-coordination assistance, and professional installation. Look for this sign.

Below are two more of the many Armstrong patterns with our "shines-without-waxing" wear surface . . . Garden Court and Hampton Brick. For complete color brochures and maintenance instructions, write Armstrong, 7505 Pine Street, Lancaster, Pa. 17604.

FREE! 3,600 S&H GREEN STAMPS

Inside every avocado there's a free tree.

Your love affair with California avocados needn't end with eating. Save the seed and let a tree sprout out. • Simply wash the seed in tepid water. Drive three toothpicks into it and suspend (broad end down) over a jar, covering only half an inch of seed with tepid water. Place in a warm spot out of direct sunlight. • It takes about 2 to 6 weeks to root. When the stem reaches 7 inches, cut it in half so it branches out. Once roots are thick and stem has leafed out, carefully plant in potting soil leaving seed half exposed. Use a large pot with good drainage. • That's all it takes to start a beautiful garden of love! Just you. And the California avocado.

3 ways in 1 to add the room you need

Our "All-American Home Add-On" is a uniquely flexible design for a multipurpose shell that can be built on almost any existing house.

Working drawings come complete with materials and specifications list. Neither you nor your contractor will have trouble obtaining a building permit.

Our basic add-on shell can be anything you want. We've designed it so you can customize it to the style of your house and the needs of your family. It measures 16 by 24 feet, so you can easily expand or reduce it in 4-foot increments. Our working drawings contain details for both a 1- and 2-story addition. There are three possible foundations (slab, crawl, cellar) and three roof lines (gable, gambrel, contemporary). You'll find general notes helpful for plumbing, wiring and heating.

The most economical way to add room to your house is by direct breakthrough from the existing structure. However, since you may have to cope with poorly aligned floors and roof lines, we've included plans for an 8-foot-square connecting link that will act as an enclosed breezeway.

Place windows where you need them, and substitute doors for windows as you wish. Use whatever exterior finish you prefer. In our sketches we show traditional clapboard siding on the classic colonial version, brick veneer on the gambrel and shingles on the contemporary. Mail coupon below for your set of working drawings and specifications. —Jane Randolph Cary

WESTLIFE

By Muriel Davidson

American Home's southern California correspondent reports on what a 6-foot addition can do for a "Hollywood" breakfast nook . . . a new way to keep carpeting and upholstery from fading . . . and some gardening tips from Jack Lemmon.

SIX-IN-ONE ROOM

During the southern California building boom of the '40s, almost every new house featured what was cunningly called a "breakfast nook." With a perfectly straight face, a builder told me the reason for this was that architects had been affected by the Thin Man movies in which William Powell and Myrna Loy sat in their breakfast nook solving crimes. So when we moved to California and found the perfect house for us, you can bet that it came with a 9-by-12-foot breakfast nook just off the kitchen.

"Why do we have a room that's useless after 8 a.m.?" my practical husband wondered one day. He finally determined that we could extend our existing room a full 6 feet without uprooting one single camellia bush. So we did it.

Those 6 extra feet made our breakfast nook a respectable 12 by 15. Because we lined the far wall with bookshelves, we have (1) a library; (2) our second-string dining room, with a small table and two ladder-back chairs; (3) a bar, which is built in, along with a wine rack, among the bookshelves; (4) a TV and stereo room, with equipment built in; (5) a sitting room, thanks to a love seat, overstuffed chair and hassock; and (6) a part-time office for me, with a drop-leaf harvest table nestled under the window.

STICK-ON SUN SCREEN

You wouldn't think the sun would be a problem out here, but it can be. I found this out when I placed a beautiful print couch in front of one of those supposedly magnificent all-glass walls they favor here. In a few months, the print had faded to a mushy avocado.

I discussed this with my builder-friend Bob Stephan, who's done houses for Frank Sinatra, Bob Hope and James Stewart, among others. Bob told me of a new product that would solve my problem. From 3M Company, it's called M-I Scotch Tint and is sold and installed in the West by Universal Solar Products, Inc., of Los Angeles.

M-I Scotch Tint comes in large sheets resembling cellophane. It's applied to the glass with a little water, and bonds permanently. It doesn't hamper your view at all, but it does cut out—by reflection—up to 90 percent of the sun's ultra-violet rays. The cost is $2 to $3 per square foot, installed, or $1 per square foot for do-it-yourselfers. If it saves my next pretty-print couch, I'll consider this well worth the price.

"LEMMON" OF A YARD

If you have a downhill backyard, my garden-enthusiast neighbor Jack Lemmon has some friendly advice: "I learned by trial and error how to keep a steep bank from turning into a messy mud slide when it rains." Jack uses a combination of ice plants ("they look like bear fangs"), geraniums, trailing ivy and bougainvillea. The latter won't grow in colder areas of the country, but if you can grow it, take Jack's advice: "Let it droop down the hillside; don't stake it. Bougainvillea is hardy once it takes."

As for the geraniums, he suggests you keep cutting them back to forestall legginess. "I love the ivy," says Jack, "but it picks up aphids and spider mites. To foil them, I put mothballs about 2 inches into the ground nearby: They don't harm the plants, and they do discourage the pests."

You, too, can have a terrific-looking yard, bank and all, if you follow Jack Lemmon's pointing green thumb.

Q Found in the cupboard of an old house, this teapot polished to a dull gray sheen. Its handle is black, with the hardness of ebony. A mark on the bottom has numbers and the word "Sheffield." Where and when was this pot made?

E.D.—Misson, B.C. (Can.)

A Marks like the one on your teapot cannot always be traced to a specific manufacturer. "Sheffield" refers to one of two English centers of silver-plate manufacture, thus suggesting your pot is some kind of plated silver that can be brightened by rubbing. Numbers engraved on the metal are a sign of recent vintage—anytime after 1915. Your teapot's form recalls 18th-century design—"improved" by the addition of legs and a scalloped upper rim.

Q This lightly colored, heavily carved wood table has been in our family for years. It is 15 inches high and 15 inches wide. The top is inlaid with dark, reddish scalloped marble. It seems held together by having been fit and cut. I can't find any nails. Can you give me any information about this piece?

K.G.—Enterprise, Ala.

A Your table was made in China in the second half of the 19th century. The elaborate carving and the claw and ball feet are typical. More often than not, pieces like yours were stained a very dark brown or black, but no craftsmen other than the Chinese of that period did such intricate work. It is an interesting contrast to the very simple work of the 18th century and earlier.

Q We acquired this unusual vase in Algeria. It stands about 13½ inches high, with handles that appear to be solid brass. The vase is made of dark green translucent and somewhat iridescent glass. How old do you think it is?

W.R.—Florence, Ky.

A Your vase was very likely made about 1900 by one of the French art glass manufacturers. Its brass decoration has the thin, sinuous lines characteristic of the Art Nouveau style, as does the vase's long, narrow shape. Iridescent textured glass was produced in Europe after 1894 when the American designer Louis C. Tiffany first exhibited his magnificent Favrite glass in Paris.

Q This piece has been in our family for four generations. It is hand-painted and has no markings on the bottom. The cow's spots are an orange shade. Can you tell me when the piece was made?

E.R.—La Porte, Ind.

A The milkmaid and cow figure is one that English potters of the Staffordshire region introduced in the early 19th century and have continued to make ever since. A picture is not helpful in distinguishing old from new. The older pieces are generally made of creamware, sometimes porcelain; recent products are of very light earthenware. Creamware and earthenware are opaque when held up to light. When its glaze chips, creamware reveals a grayish body, but more recent earthenware will be nearly white. Recent works are lightweight; shapes tend to be simple, with color used to define the forms, answering a need for more down-to-earth art for the home. Although these folk figures appear to be the work of primitive artists, they were actually done by skilled potters.

Q I believe this old clock I found is an antique. Although its case has darkened with age, it became a medium color when cleaned. On the face are these words: "Manufactured for National Calendar Co." What do you know of its history?

L.M.—Mt. Hope, W.Va.

A First of all, we know of a National Clock Co., but not a National Calendar Clock Co. However, the National Clock Co. did sell calendar clocks made by Seth Thomas, so it's possible your clock was made by that company or one of the other Connecticut clockmakers. Clocks such as the one in your picture were popular around 1850, some dating from as early as 1780. Mass-produced time pieces were used all over the world. Occasionally, the case was made to order for a local wholesaler who applied his own name.

Q One of a pair, this oak cabinet has adjustable shelves set on wooden strips. The door glass is beveled, and I believe it has piano hinges. The cabinets were originally brought over from Germany and later sold to me. I would like to know their age and use.

S.O.C.—Arleta, Calif.

A Your cabinets are unusual examples of fine turn-of-the-century work. They were very likely parts of a parlor set that included sofa, chairs and center table. The design is restrained Empire-revival style, which was fashionable between 1880 and 1910. Gleaming beveled glass, framed in a way that emphasizes perspective, was popular around 1900.

Best buys in antique chairs

Collecting antique American chairs is challenging. Although many cost more than $250, the plainer styles—simple ladder-backs, primitives, fancy late Victorians and provocative 80-year-old reproductions of 18th-century examples—are available for less. The more daring, curved designs in high relief, typical of the 1850s, and the flat, linear styles of the 1880s are worth ferreting out, as are the mass-produced painted chairs of the early 19th century.

Handsome, well-made reproductions—the Chippendale, Sheraton and Hepplewhite designs recreated in the late 19th and early 20th centuries—are good buys as well. They are as far removed from contemporary reproductions as the originals.

A variation of the Windsor chair, the fine 40-year-old reproduction captain's chair shown above, is reasonably priced at $35. An ample seat is combined with turned legs and stretchers typical of the late 18th century. If it were an original, the cost would be phenomenal.

Chairs shown here were sold this year at Sotheby Parke Bernet, New York City.

$45 will buy this Eastlake chair, representative of original works named for a 19th-century English advocate of design reform. Designs were conceived for maximum comfort and productivity. The primary objective was to make solid chairs of plain wood without the fakery characteristic of 18th-century revival pieces. Although of limited appeal, thus selling for little, the Eastlake designs are well made.

Although of limited appeal, thus selling for little, the Eastlake designs are well made.

$50 is low for a chair of this type. Its Empire styling with handsomely curved seat is characteristic of American chairs of the 1820s and '30s. A painted or sometimes stenciled decoration, perhaps in gold, was applied to a ground of black, gray-green or yellow. The decoration is often retouched to conceal defects, as the backs of these chairs can crack when treated roughly. You should examine the chair to see if paint conceals a break that may reopen. As a general rule, all chairs should be examined carefully. A cracked or worn seat or leg can be an expensive item for you to have repaired.

$75 is what you will pay for Fancy Painted Sheraton chairs found in sets. Their popular lighter designs and neat proportions are close in concept and period (1810 to 1840) to Duncan Phyfe's models, but far less costly.

The designs vary from very plain to those with handsome detailing, such as the example illustrated. Search carefully for styling that's pleasing. You rarely pay extra for carved feet and neat rings near the top of the legs, if these are what you want.

$100 is a very good price for a wagon seat, but you'll have to do some hunting. The more easily available versions may be twice that price. Wagon seats are low and relatively simple. Generally dating from post-1800, the designs are holdovers from the early 18th century. The rarer choice examples have subtly curved arms and arm supports. Those with heavy posts are more common than the thinner versions.

$125 is a bargain for this Hepplewhite-style chair made about 1910. Late versions of fine cabinet-makers' work are rather costly. Considering what the 1810 model would sell for, this good looking 60-year-old reproduction would be cheap even at $300. The seat is broader, the back thinner, the carving flatter and the legs plainer in this version than in the 1810 original, but despite these differences the design has much merit and the chair is an attractive piece of furniture. It was made with an attention to details in the carving that is extremely rare today.

$150 will purchase this high chair, which was made rather primitively in the 18th century. Its straight lines and curved posts may seem a bit crooked or even unsteady, but this is a solid kind of chair safe for a child, no matter how boisterous. Later versions that are less expensive have much thinner legs turned in delicate patterns. Country cabinet-makers produced this type of furniture from the 1730s to the 1830s. In the Midwest, simple ladder-back chairs were made as late as 1850 in the style of these early 1700s models.

$250 is not unreasonable for this banister-back armchair with simple detailing. A handsome example dating from about 1710, it is probably as durable as one 200 years younger. The age is revealed in the thickness of the legs and the splendor of the front stretchers. The back posts are topped by urns that appear on the best preserved examples. Although originally these chairs were often painted, those you're likely to find have had their paint removed and a stain applied. The straight lines and monumental look are a delightful foil for a stark modern interior.

The dog in your child's life

"Mother, I want a puppy."

That plea is heard in countless homes this time of year. It's another sure sign of spring. If you haven't thought through the pros and cons of owning a dog, you can just as surely reply: "Maybe next year."

You might, of course, fear that when the novelty wears off, the pup will become another of your responsibilities. It doesn't have to be that way, but just making your child promise faithfully to care for his dog is not enough. As the pup grows, the thrill of owning him will diminish, along with all sense of responsibility. The trick is to keep interest at a high level.

Responsibility. In general, let your child be in charge of his puppy's care and training and provide the necessary companionship. That doesn't mean devoting all his spare time, sacrificing other interests, just the heaviest portion of it. If the youngster is of school age, he will not have time—when classes are in session—to handle all the feeding, housebreaking and general care that a young pup requires. Thus summer is the ideal time for the launching of the child-animal relationship.

Choice of breed. A purebred, rather than a mixed breed, is always the wisest choice. It's the only way to be absolutely sure of the pup's size as an adult and reasonably sure of his temperament. A pet store pup is the biggest risk. In the long run, time you spend searching for a reliable breeder is time well spent. Choose a breed of medium size (30 to 60 pounds), which isn't too large for a child to handle or small enough to get underfoot. (Moreover, small dogs tend to be high-strung, and may require special care.) A short or smooth coat that doesn't require daily, or even weekly, grooming is best.

Benefits. Despite momentary annoyances and chewed-up furniture, the benefits your child will receive from a pet far outweigh any disadvantages. Ownership itself stimulates pride, and the very friendship of the animal lends pleasure. Without really being aware of it, your child will learn some important lessons about thoughtfulness for others (from caring for the dog), about patience (from training the dog) and about loyalty (from the dog's devotion).

Not all the benefits will be realized, however, if you pursue a totally hands-off policy. Informal supervision at all times and subtle parental guidance designed to encourage the child's interest in the dog is vital. A positive way to sustain that high interest is to enroll both youngster and pet in obedience school. While this training can be accomplished at home, it's more fun for the child—and better for the dog—if the two go to school together. There's probably a school within driving distance of your home (check your Yellow Pages or a member of the nearest kennel club), and classes are often held at convenient times, early evening or on Saturday.

Make a child fully responsible for the new pet, and his interest will grow as the puppy gets older.

A beginner's course runs for eight to 10 weeks, with one two-hour class per week for about a dozen handlers and their dogs. The handlers learn the best way to train their dogs properly, the dogs learn how to respond to commands, and tuition for the course is usually around $20. An element of friendly competition is created by this group training, and the dogs learn to adjust to the company of complete strangers, human and canine. The end result is an obedient dog, one who will obey vocal commands (and sometimes hand signals).

An added incentive for your child to train with his dog is a sport known as Obedience. It amounts to testing the training talents of handlers and the intelligence of their dogs. The latter, on command, perform a series of prescribed exercises, and those with passing grades qualify for honorary degrees bestowed by the American Kennel Club. Their owner-handlers are rewarded in personal satisfaction, ribbons, trophies, cash and local fame. Most Obedience trials are held at dog shows.

The sport of Obedience has been around for about four decades. It was originally designed for adults and their purebreds, but nowadays the youngsters are giving their elders a run for their money.

American Home Guide to REMODELING

Here you'll find valuable ideas about roofing, siding, painting . . . the quick changes new doors and windows, wood moldings and self-stick wall coverings can make . . . a new way to spruce-up bathrooms with the elegance of marble—the kind of help you need to make your home improvements affordable.

'Remodel' with paint—it's economical and easy

Modern paints can perform small miracles. Dripless, they breathe and stretch, cover in one coat and clean with soap and water. Along with tools that are as near as your local paint or hardware store, they can add years to your home's appearance and remedy the problems that are described below.

1 Blisters in old paint usually result from excess moisture coming through a localized area. The source may be condensation from a kitchen or bath. You can take out the moisture with exhaust fans (installed through the wall) priced at $20 up, or by inserting ¾-inch-diameter plastic vents (about 25 cents apiece), which are weather- and insect-proof, in holes bored in the outside wall. Install vents before painting, allowing several weeks for accumulated moisture to be carried off. Use a scraper ($2.50) to clear the blistered (or peeled) area down to a firmly adhering paint layer or to the wood. Latex paint is best for recoating as it doesn't trap vapor.

2 Mildew can be removed and inhibited with conditioners like X-Cide prepaint conditioner ($1.98 for a 5-gallon water mix). Most exterior house paints now contain mildew fighters, but you can increase protection with additives like Permite X-Cide. Mixed with oil or latex paint, 2 ounces ($1.49) make a gallon of paint.

3 Alligatoring, a condition that resembles alligator skin, results from built-up layers of old paint that become brittle and cracked with age. In the past, complete removal was the only answer.

You can do it now with a Magna 252 infrared paint stripper (shown below) that can also remove wallpaper. (It costs about $25 with one propane tank.) However, if the paint adheres firmly to the wood, use a 4-inch-wide putty knife ($2.98) to fill cracks with a ready-to-use weatherproof patching compound like MH Ready Patch, or Exterior Spackle ($2 to $3 a quart).

4 To remove gloss from oil-base trim paint and provide a "grip" when switching to latex, avoid sanding and use a wipe-on de-glosser cleaner like All Pro Dull 'n Bend ($4.95 a gallon). Use the new enamels to repaint if you want gloss.

5 Streaky walls, caused by a bleed-through of natural pigment from redwood or cedar, can be cured with a sealer matched to the paint you'll use, or with oil-alkyd paint like Stonecrest exterior flat ($9.95 a gallon). It can be used in 40°, instead of the usual 50°, allowing more painting weather.

6 For bare shingles, consider a stain like Cabot's transparent stain or penetrating oil-base Ranch House Hues. These need no priming or thinning, sanding, scraping. They can be used on clapboards or other wood siding, and can be painted, if desired.

7 For rotted areas (sometimes found in seams and window trim), use a rot-hardener like Calignum or End Rot. Brushed on after paint removal, these soak into the absorbent rotted wood, which when cured becomes firm plastic, and make the wood rotproof and harder than new. For deep rot, bore down-slanted ¼-inch-diameter holes; pour in hardener. Available at marine suppliers and boatyards, they cost from $3.95 for ¼ pint. —George Daniels

A woman's guide to what the roofer's doing up there

If the thought of ordering a new roof gives you the shakes, take heart. A little knowledge is a great asset. The following tale of how one woman learned all she needed to know about reroofing will help guide you over the hurdles.

With no more preparation than your spouse's parting remark, "Talk to the roofer today," you may one day find yourself dealing with roofing contractors. That's what happened to me.

Our roof started leaking three weeks before water finally began trickling through the living room ceiling. It ruined most of our insulation as well as the ceiling. If we had recognized the warning signals—an excessive accumulation of roofing granules in the gutters, shingles beginning to curl—we'd have been in better shape to cope with the problem.

We ignored all this as well as the knowledge that most lightweight asphalt roofing shingles found on development homes of the late '50s and early '60s will last only about 15 years. Our home was exactly 15 years old.

Five of the six contractors we called eventually came to the house to give us estimates, along with references and information on how long they'd been in business in the neighborhood. (As a precaution, we also consulted our Better Business Bureau.) Accurate estimates were difficult, because each contractor said he was going to do something different. One planned to install drip edges, another would simply cut back the old shingles before reroofing. (Both methods give a better finished appearance to the new roof. The drip edge is usually a better choice.)

A roofer charges by the "square," or 100 square feet of roof surface, and all the roofers we called gave us a different number of squares, ranging from 19 to 24. Now, when you consider that the total cost per square may be about $40 for labor and materials, a difference of five squares is significant. So my husband and I estimated the number of squares ourselves by determining the area of our roof (see table, far right).

The roofing contractor we finally selected was chosen for a number of reasons: 1) He gave us an accurate estimate of the number of squares; 2) he told us we didn't need to rip off the old shingles; 3) he assured us we didn't need asphalt felt under the new shingles, as another contractor had recom-

EAVES—lower edge of a roof that projects beyond or overhangs an outside wall.

HIP—external angle formed by the intersection of two sloping roof planes; also a type of roof.

RAKE EDGE—inclined edge of a pitched roof over an end wall.

RIDGE—top horizontal member of a sloping roof, against which the upper ends of the rafters are fixed; roof peak.

SPAN—horizontal measurement from eave to eave.

VALLEY—area where two roof planes intersect, forming internal angle.

VENT SLEEVES or COLLARS—sheet-metal flanged collars placed around vent pipes to seal off roofing around ventilating duct that protrudes through the roof deck.

mended; 4) he had a good reputation in the area, and he suggested using asphalt shingles made by a nationally known manufacturer—Certain-teed.

Fortunately, I'd researched the types of asphalt shingles on the market, so I knew that my choices weren't limited to the standard lightweight (240 pounds-to-the-square) shingle—the same kind and color I already had—which these roofers all suggested.

I had learned that there are asphalt shingles with thick, textured surfaces, some looking like wood shakes, complete with random tab. Colorwise, they range from wood tones to muted greens and reds. Prices vary, but all of the shingles in the heavyweight category (over 265 pound/square) from Certain-teed offer a 25-year guarantee.

We'd have been crazy not to select the heavier shingles, because they cost about the same over the life of the roof and they look so much better.

The roofers I talked to hit me with terms like—"hips," "ridges," "valleys," "spans" and the like. Again, I did my homework, collecting pamphlets and booklets from various lumberyards and home centers. By the time the shingles arrived and the roofer appeared to install them, I could speak his language.

Like most homeowners, I didn't know that installation instructions and diagrams are provided on each bundle of shingles. When shingles are designed to look like wood shakes, these instructions must be followed exactly. Also, just by reading the label you can make sure that the roofer is using exactly what he specified in his written estimates. You'll find shingle weight, Underwriters Laboratories fire ratings, color and guarantee.

The man who reroofed our house is probably glad he installed 25-year shingles so he'll never have to come back. I doubt that the other homemakers whose homes he'd worked on ever trailed him up the ladder to find out exactly what he was doing, or tried to make sure those shingles were applied according to the manufacturer's instructions.

Well, the roof is on now. It's a handsome, textured affair called Woodtex because it's grained like wood. Neighbors near us who're considering reroofing have called or stopped by because they, too, think the new roof is a terrific improvement. —Judith C. Anderson

HOW TO ESTIMATE YOUR ROOF AREA

Calculate the slope—and express it in inches. The slope equals the rise (distance from the attic joists to the ridge) divided by the run (one-half the distance between the front and back walls of the house).

Example: The house measures 36 feet between the front and back walls. The ridge is 12 feet above the walls. Slope equals 12 feet divided by 18 feet—or 2 feet of rise for every 3 linear feet. In inches, that's 24"/36", which reduces to 8"/12".

Determine the area of the house by multiplying the length by the width. Multiply that total by the factor (developed by roofing experts) shown below for the slope of your roof. Divide the resulting answer by 100—which gives you the number of squares.

Slope	Multiplying Factor
2"/12"	1.11
4"/12"	1.15
5"/12"	1.18
6"/12"	1.22
8"/12"	1.30
10"/12"	1.40
12"/12"	1.51
18"/12"	1.90

Siding: the durable, new all-at-once remodeling

In the current high-mortgage market, the house you live in probably looks better to you every day, but how does it appear to others? New siding can transform your home, make it look new.

You can dress up a house in aluminum, asbestos, steel, vinyl or wood; in plain or fancy colors; in prestained wood tones or rough-sawn textures. Shop around before you make a decision. If you're an experienced do-it-yourselfer, wood is not difficult to work with, but some of the vinyl and metal sidings require special application by well-trained contractors. Also, many guarantees and warranties are based on having professionals do the work.

Choose your contractor carefully. You'll pay $2,000 to $6,000 (depending on the size of your house) for a good professional job, so learn as much as you can before signing anything. As a rule, manufacturers' warranties cover the finish on their product, assurance that the surface won't crack, peel, blister or craze over a stated period of time. Damage to the siding—from hail, hard blows or accidents (yours or nature's)—is not covered.

Here are some terms you'll need to know: Most sidings are priced by the square—a 10-by-10-foot square covers 100 square feet. Wood shingles are sold by the bundle—each bundle covers 25 square feet. Solid wood is often priced by the board foot. Siding in sheet or panel form is usually figured by the square foot—to measure your house, add up the square footage of all the walls and subtract the square footage of all windows and doors; figure in about 10 percent extra if your house has odd-size windows, doors or additions.

Women don't have to be over 65 to collect from Social Security

Millions of Americans under 65
are now receiving Government benefits

If you think that Social Security and Medicare are strictly for the benefit of folks over 65, you couldn't be more mistaken! Thanks to recent changes, eligible people under 65 could not only collect under both government programs, but depending on age, their benefits could add up to hundreds of thousands of dollars in some cases!

Government figures show that right now, nearly one person in every seven—including 9,000,000 under 65—receives a Social Security check every month. And nearly 2,000,000 folks under 65 have received benefits from Medicare. And now there's talk of a Medicare-type program for everyone under 65.

That's why it's important for people of all ages—especially women who work—to know the benefits they could get under current Social Security and Medicare programs, to be sure they're not overlooking valuable benefits they may be eligible for—now or later.

Because these benefits can add up to a lot of money right now, and promise to get much bigger in the years ahead, many people may no longer need the same personal insurance protection as in the past. For example, last year, the Government raised Social Security benefits 11%. This means that, assuming normal life expectancy, top FICA pay-in, and a modest 3% yearly increase in living costs, a couple age 35 could expect benefits of about $400,000 after retirement at 65! Government figures also show that the dependent family of a working woman who gets sick or hurt and can't work could receive as much as $600 a month or more—depending on her regular income—in disability benefits under Social Security.

Obviously, huge government benefits like these can now make it easier and less expensive for working women to provide the added disability income protection they may need and want for a more secure and happier life.

For a free "Blue Book" with valuable facts on your new and bigger Social Security disability benefits, and on disability insurance you can add to supplement these benefits for your future security if you need to—simply mail the postage-free card next to this page. The free "Blue Book" will be delivered by Banker's Life and Casualty Co., whose policies under the famous White Cross Plan trademark now protect over 7,000,000 Americans. There's no cost or obligation for this service.

New windows, doors to give your house a new look

Inevitably, the time comes when you can no longer hope to restore cracked, peeled or corroded window and door frames. New units can make your house comfortable and practically maintenance-free—for many years to come.

WINDOWS comprise 30 to 60 percent of the exterior of your house. Thus a switch to new-style windows can give a house a fresh, new look—there are designs to suit every taste and architectural style. Since window units sold today come fully assembled, an experienced do-it-yourselfer can install them.

Windows made with an exterior sheath of vinyl over a core of preservative-treated wood are sensible and a good buy. The vinyl won't rust, corrode or pit; it's also impervious to salt and air spray. Vinyl-clad windows are available with double-pane insulating glass that prevents heat loss and eliminates the need for storm windows. An extra dividend is a window style with one-piece snap-out grille. At window-washing time, you need only remove the grille and work on one easy surface.

If extra breathing space is what you need, a bay window adds almost a foot

Caseмент angle bay window, Perma-Shield, has vinyl sheaths over wood frame; glass is double pane, roof custom built; it's ready to install; from Andersen Corp.

Look for doors you can buy as replacement units complete with frame. They are made of steel with thick inner cores of insulation. Doors come in a huge range of colors and styles, and they will not warp, shrink, sag or crack. For a free brochure—Install a Steel Perma-Door Replacement Unit—write to Perma-Door, Steelcraft, 9017 Blue Ash Rd., Cincinnati, Ohio 45242.

Another well-known manufacturer makes eye-catching doors of galvanized 24-inch steel panels that are warp-, twist-, shrink- and swell-resistant. A solid inner core of expanded polystyrene foam provides superior insulation, so a storm door is unnecessary. To receive 24-page brochure with more about these doors, send 50 cents to Pease Co., Ever-Strait Door Div., 7100 Dixie Highway, Fairfield, Ohio 45014.

SHUTTERS blend well with any setting, colonial to contemporary. Perma-Shield shutters manufactured by Andersen Corp., for example, are made of tough, rigid vinyl applied to a preservative-treated and painted subframe, so they require no painting. Mounting hardware is factory-finished, making shutter installation an easy weekend do-it-yourself project. Exterior siding dealers and building supply stores will also have a selection of other maintenance-free shutters in aluminum, vinyl, steel and wood.

Bay windows are also available with double-glazed insulating glass, assuring year-round comfort and heating economy. Your building supply dealer can give you such details as prices, styles and sizes. DOORS are dramatic. The most prominent feature of your home's exterior is the front entrance. A new door can improve the entry and completely alter the appearance of your house.

Colonial front entrances, authentically styled, are made of chemically treated ponderosa pine, sanded and primed for your finish painting. Each entrance comprises head piece and fluted pilasters, with caps and bases. The head piece, or transom, comes in such designs as: sun-burst arch (left), split-pediment (center), horizontal entablature (right). Unit may also be used to surround a window; from Pease Co.

How to work wonders with wood moldings

Used with flair, wood moldings can help you create an atmosphere of colonial elegance in a room or establish a decorative focus where none exists.

Wood moldings come in over 90 shapes and sizes, in styles from Oriental to early American. Available at hardware, paint or building supply stores, they come sanded and ready to paint or stain.

Magnificent crown and bed moldings, for instance—produced in sizes 1¼ to 4½ inches wide—used where ceilings and walls join, create a traditional look. Chair-rail moldings, used to separate two wall treatments, can give a room distinction. Others, called screen, cove or picture moldings, can be used on a plain, unadorned wall to give it a luxurious look at low cost. All stock moldings can be put to various uses—together or in combination. You can create a chair rail by putting one base cap molding on top of another or improvise a plate rail 16 inches below your kitchen ceiling by attaching a crown molding to a piece of lumber of proportionate depth.

The tools you'll need to work with moldings are: a miter box and back-saw, carpenter's rule, coping saw, hammer, finishing nails and colored nails, colored putty stick and panel adhesive.

While you may have some idea about how you'd like to use moldings to redo the look of a room, door or hallway, check out your lumberyard or hardware store and find the styles and sizes in stock. A particular style can be ordered if you don't see what you want.

Take the time to apply the moldings carefully. Guesswork will result in a sloppy job that only wastes time, money and materials. In applying moldings to flush doors on cabinets, for instance, use glue as well as finishing nails. (See the handsome effect, pages 54-55.) For a professional look, always use a miter box to make your cuts. Measure, too, so that your moldings are properly aligned and balanced as in drawing at left.

Work with a ruler and pencil or chalk to indicate where your moldings are to be placed. You can update bathroom cabinets in same way, adding inserts of washable vinyl wallpaper or the new adhesive-backed plastics.

You can accomplish another room-brightening quick change by gluing lengths of your favorite fabric or wall covering to inexpensive plywood panels. Frame the panels with moldings and place on the wall with picture hooks. Depending on your needs and ambition, you can decorate a whole wall with a series of these fabric hangings or simply use one important panel as a master frame for mounting a collection of small paintings and objects.

Prefinished wood moldings are another type of trim that can add versatil-

Quick changes with self-stick coverings

Papering a wall is one sure way to give a room an immediate facelift, and applying self-stick coverings is easier now, thanks to new improvement.

If you'd like to paper your walls but dislike the mess that goes with it, there's a new product that puts an end to paste brushes, pails and sponges, and trapped air bubbles.

Con-Tact coverings now come with a new self-adhesive backing that takes the guesswork out of wallpapering. Even a beginner can do a foolproof job. The new low-tack adhesive backing takes 30 minutes to set, giving you a grace period to align patterns, straighten or reposition pieces. Wrinkles and bubbles are eliminated simply by lifting up the Con-Tact and resetting it. The wall covering will absolutely not stretch or stick to itself.

Con-Tact wall coverings backed with low-tack adhesive are available in 180 patterns and finishes, all washable. A sampling of patterns appears above, left to right. "Climax," "Lazy Sunshine" and "Brick." Con-Tact is sold by the yard in 18-inch widths at 59 cents for regular finishes, $1.29 for flocced, polished and chrome finishes. —S.-T. S.

ity to paneling. These moldings are processed to harmonize with the color or tone of the panels and resist scratching and dirt absorption. They trim door and window openings, cover seams and joints at ceilings, floors and corners and are easily installed.

Among the prefinished wood moldings available are: cove molding for the ceiling, ply-cap for the top edge of a wainscot panel, base and shoe molding for the floor edge of the panel.

Those marvelous new 'marbles'

Unlike nature's luxury product—marble quarried with special saws and chiseling machines—new cultured and synthetic marbles are available to remodelers who desire the beauty and durability, but can't afford the high price, of the real thing.

A relatively new product for the home, cultured marble is a man-made blend of pure ground marble, polyester resins and dyes. In its unformed state, it is rather like a dough to be molded into various shapes—mainly bathtubs and vanity sinks. When cured, it has the gem-hard, mirrorlike gleam of polished marble, but is stronger and easier to care for than the quarried kind.

Cultured marble is specially suitable for use in the bathroom. Its tough surface resists chipping, abrasion and shock. Unlike marble, it is nonporous in nature, making it resistant to stains from household chemicals, cosmetics and medicines. Routine care with a sponge and mild household soap is all that's required. Any marks that do occur can usually be removed with a rubbing compound. Available in a wide color range, cultured marble may have soft muted pastel colors or bold special effects—"veining," swirls or flecks.

Cultured marble vanity tops in numerous shapes, bowl styles and colors can be installed by the competent do-it-yourselfer. These as well as bathtubs are of seamless one-piece construction that eliminates unsightly rims and dirt-trapping nooks and crannies. In addition to these molded pieces, cultured marble is also made into slab or panel form. Some, but not all, of these can be cut, sawed and shaped with power tools. The ones most available to do-it-yourselfers today are bathtub wall panel kits for easy installation (shown left). Each kit contains four panels the same size—29½ by 57 inches—(two back walls and two end walls), caulking compound, waterproof adhesive to mount the panels, and an overlapping closure strip to accommodate a back wall that measures up to 62 inches. Extra-wide closure strip may be ordered separately. The kits sell for about $160. You can also buy direct from the manufacturer or ask him the name and address of the nearest distributor: Write Acorn Products Co., 2077 Easy St., Walled Lake, Mich. 48088. For more about cultured marble products, write The Cultured Marble Institute, Dept. AH, 230 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

DuPont's "Corian," a solid durable polymer, has all the pluses of cultured marble—low maintenance and high resistance to impact damage and stains. It can be worked much like wood and fabricated with workshop tools. It can be bored with a hole saw, shaped at the edges, cut and trimmed or sanded.

Available in 25- to 30-inch widths, "Corian" sells for $3.25 to $8.50 a square foot depending on thickness (¼, ½ and ¾ inches). A bathtub wall kit with four ¼-by-57-inch panels plus one back-wall center strip and a set of instructions costs $200. For more about this indestructible material, write DuPont, "Corian" Products, Wilmington, Del. 19898.—Jane Randolph Cary

New solar heating system for your pool

If you get the sun in the morning, as that old song says, you have the raw material for a new energy-saving system that uses solar rays to heat the water in your backyard pool.

Any roof strong enough to support a man can accommodate heating panels of black "Hypalon" synthetic rubber.

A practical new heating system generated by sunlight makes it possible to eliminate gas bills for pool heating. The system requires little or no maintenance and thus offers long-term savings. Only a small electric motor is needed to circulate the water.

WATER DISTRIBUTED BY GRAVITY

Several synthetic rubber bags, modules 8 by 8 feet or 8 by 12 feet, are the solar heating panels; each is sealed to retain water. Installed on a sloping surface or roof that faces south, the panels collect and retain heat.

Cold water from the pool is raised to the roof by a small circulating pump. Gravity helps distribute the water through the panels and drain them into a warm water return pipe that carries heated water back to the pool.

The initial cost of this Solar Collector System, developed by the Burke Rubber Company of San Jose, Calif., is said to be comparable to that of conventional pool heaters. You can call in a pool specialist to install the system, or install it yourself with instructions supplied by Burke.

The heating panel area should equal at least one half of the square footage of your pool. For a 16-by-32-foot pool, four 8-by-8-foot panels, or one 8-foot and two 12-foot panels, are recommended. The panels should be installed on a smooth surface with at least a 6 percent slope and a southern exposure. (Eastern or western exposure is only two-thirds as effective; northern exposure is the least desirable.) No special roof reinforcing is needed.

HOW THE SYSTEM WORKS

The panels, held in place by grommets attached to the roof, are connected to an intake pipe, as in the drawing above. Within each panel, a perforated pipe extends across the top to distribute water evenly. The water temperature in the panels is raised 1 to 6 degrees and can be increased and maintained within a few degrees on a 24-hour basis.

In northern California, a pool heated with solar panels in a 50 percent-of-pool-area ratio runs approximately 5 to 7 degrees warmer than the same pool unheated. Where it is desirable to raise the temperature more quickly, or sustain a higher temperature range, extra panels can be installed. For details write: Recreational Products Dept., Burke Rubber Co., 2250 S. 10th St., San Jose, Calif. 95112.

American Home wine cellar

By George Christy

What to drink before a meal nowadays is as tempting in the variety of possibilities as what wine to serve with lunch or dinner. Aperitifs, or pre-dinner libations, are enticing preludes—they loosen tongues with a tickle rather than a slap. Our old-hat American habit of too many strong cocktails before dining is uncivilized, since we cannot bring the best of our palates to the table when they are paralyzed with liquor.

Served during the half-hour or so before mealtime, an aperitif leads you to the dining table with grace. A popular noontime aperitif when the weather warms is a spritzer, which consists simply of equal portions of dry white wine and club soda over ice in a highball glass. The white wine may be an easy-on-the-pocketbook California jug wine such as an Almadén Mountain White Chablis ($3.34 a half-gallon, when last priced on the West Coast) or a Gallo Chablis Blanc ($2.79). Refreshingly sippable, spritzers are pleasant to drink during a meal on a hot summer day.

Quite popular of late is Kir, which you can make with any dry white you choose, adding a soupçon of crème de cassis or cassis syrup for flavor. Kir is named after its creator, the Canon Felix Kir, mayor of Dijon. Since cassis comes from his area of France, Kir was considered a hero by the citizenry. Cassis is rich and purple, produced from black currants, and a little of it goes a long way. A drop or two is all you add to the chilled white wine—and serve in a stemmed glass. If guests are expected, you can make Kir by adding a little cassis to a half-gallon or gallon bottle of white wine. When the wine turns a blushing pink, you have added sufficient cassis.

Vermouths are a trifle higher in alcoholic content than wine, and they make delightful drinks, Aperitifs tease the appetite and enhance dining pleasure.

served over ice, with a slice of lemon or orange peel (rub the peel around the inner lip of the glass before adding it to the drink). Vermouths are actually fortified red or dry wines, fused with herbs and spices. The oldest vermouth, Carpano, comes from Italy, and a delicious drink it is, served "on the rocks." Another unique Italian vermouth is Punt e Mes, which has an intriguing bittersweet taste—I like it over ice, with a splash of soda and a curl of orange peel. Dubonnet, either blond or red, is popular. It's sweetish, and may be served over ice or with soda. (Here's a point worth noting: The Dubonnet sold in the United States today is produced in California.) A vermouth favorite in Europe is called Cin Cin, made with equal parts of dry and sweet vermouth over ice with a twist of orange or lemon peel. California vermouths, both dry and sweet, are excellent and also reasonably priced, ranging from $1.25 to $1.75 a fifth, on the average.

Lillet makes a refreshing cooler. It comes in both red and white bottlings. I like one jigger of the white Lillet over ice, to three parts soda—with a long curl of (continued on page 40)

The trouble stopper. Anchor fence.

As long as you have children, pets and property, trouble can pop up.

It could happen when your toddler wanders off, or when your dog strays into other yards. It can come from outside, from short-cutters, flower-pickers, other people's pets.

Nothing stops all these troubles like an Anchor Fence. A lot of its features just aren't available in any other fence. Square posts at ends, corners and gates look neat. They get rid of those climbable wraparounds that give conventional round posts an unsightly ladder effect. Square frame gates have welded corners that won't loosen or sag.

Then there's Anchor Permafused® fabric. Anchor thermally fuses durable vinyl to a steel core to resist chipping, peeling and cracking for years and years. Its mellow green color matches landscaping beautifully.

Your trouble stopper comes only from your Anchor man. He has the complete Anchor line. The coupon brings you our brochure all about fence, along with a Permafused sample. They're from Anchor Post Products, 7405 Eastern Ave., Baltimore, Md. 21224 orange peel. A captivating plum-red vermouth is the Raphael, which is enlivened with the flavor of quinine (worshiped by the Incas for its therapeutic value). According to legend, it was the Jesuit fathers who added quinine to the red wine and created the elegant Raphael. Serve it well chilled or on the rocks, with a twist of orange or lemon.

Campari from Italy is tomato-red in color, with a perky bitterish taste, and it's become a favorite with many Americans who have traveled abroad. Serve it in a highball glass—one jigger of Campari, with ice and soda water plus a twist of lemon. For those Americans who found Campari a bit too tart, the Italians created the Americano—one part Campari to two parts sweet Italian vermouth, served over ice with a lemon twist and stirred.

I suggest you try Cynar, if you have a taste for the exotic. It is made from artichokes and is also of Italian origin. Cynar's bittersweet zest can be irresistible, and while it may appeal to the more adventurous palate, it makes a suave libation, served "neat" (without ice but with a splash of club soda) or over ice with a slice of orange.

Sherries are attractive pre-dinner drinks. Among them, dry sherry, such as Paul Masson's California Rare Flor ($3.25 a fifth) and Cresta Blanca's Dry Watch Sherry ($2.70), are outstanding and economical. Both wines enjoy a glimmering topaz color, rich bouquets and mouth-filling flavors. Serve sherry chilled.

Of course, munching on raw vegetables or roasted almonds adds to the pleasure of the aperitif. Wine, after all, is a perfect accompaniment to food.

Household Helps

- To remove heel marks and scratches from linoleum, vinyl or asphalt-tile flooring, rub gently with fine steel wool dipped in your favorite floor wax or polish; buff or let the finish dry according to label directions.
- Clean or replace air-conditioner filters at least twice a summer. When these air filters are clogged—with dust, dirt, pollen or other airborne contaminants—the flow of air through your cooling system is reduced and the equipment operates less effectively.
- Prevent clogged drains by applying drain cleaner at least once a month. If a drain should clog anyway, use a plunger, then apply drain cleaner.

"We're looking for people to write children's books."

If you ever wanted to write and be published this is your opportunity.

by Francis Gemme

We need writers. There are over 200 publishers of books for children and more than 400 magazines, all of which have a need for writers.

Have you ever read a children's story and said, "I can do better than that"? Have you ever deplored the lack of good new literature for young readers? Do you love children? Do you want to do something important with your life? Do you want the personal satisfaction and the rewards that come with writing for children? That very attitude may be the clue to you that you can do it, for the desire to write must come first.

Stories only you can write.

Once you learn to use the basic writing techniques, writing for children is easier than you think. Your personal experiences, fantasies, personality traits, and hobbies all lend themselves to good subjects. Many of these subjects have been written about — plainly and simply — and have been published. You probably have within yourself many children's stories that only you can write.

A new kind of school.

The Institute of Children's Literature was founded to encourage more and better writing for young readers. Top writers and publishers have worked together to create a professional course to teach you to write for young children and for teenagers. They include people like Lee Wyndham, a teacher and author of forty-eight books, including How To Write for Children and Teenagers, Hardie Gramatky, author and illustrator of many famous children's books like Little Toot, and John Ledes, President of Astor Honor Books and author of many award-winning children's books. In total, these professional writers have published hundreds and hundreds of books and magazine articles for young readers. They know how to write — how to teach — and how to help you publish.

Learning to write and to sell.

The early success of this course has been repeated many times by people like yourself who knew in their hearts that they could write in a way that would enrich children's reading experiences.

This course will train you step-by-step from the writing of the opening sentence through the selling of a finished manuscript. Yes, you will have completed a manuscript suitable for publication when you finish this course.

Francis Gemme, a Founder of the Institute of Children's Literature, is the President and Publisher of Gallery House and a consultant to Young Reader's Press.

Your own instructor.

Because writing is a very personal experience, we believe that the teaching of writing must also be personalized. That is why, in addition to writing materials, textbooks, instruction, and assignments, you will receive personal guidance on every lesson from your own instructor.

The instructor chosen for you will be a professional writer who will remain with you throughout the course. He will show you how to use your personal feelings, experiences, imagination, and interests to write for children — in your spare time at home.

Work at your own pace.

A writing course is most effective when you can work at the time you feel most like working. With this course, there is no bell to end the class and no interruptions from other students. You and your instructor can work together at the pace most suitable for you. This flexible schedule allows more time for each student than is possible in a classroom situation.

You mail your completed work to your instructor who carefully reads and edits each assignment. He then writes you a long personal letter explaining in detail his corrections and makes specific recommendations. You receive professional advice and guidance while you work where you want — when you want.

The rewards.

Although many writers of children's books earn $15,000 to $20,000 and more a year, the benefits of a career in writing also include the challenge, the excitement, and the great satisfaction of doing something important with your life. When you complete this course, you will be a qualified writer with a future. And what a future!

The market is unlimited. Editors and publishers of children's literature are crying out for talented writers.

This year, more than 30 million children's books will be published, producing total sales of over 170 million dollars! And over 400 periodicals for children with a combined circulation of over 80,000,000 will be published. Books and magazine articles for children are frequently adapted for television and for the movies. In addition, there are twenty-four children's book clubs and a rapidly expanding children's paperback market.

Writing is truly satisfying only when your work is published and, for writers of children's literature, it has never been easier to find a publisher.

Free test.

To find qualified men and women with an aptitude for writing, the Faculty and Consultants of the Institute have prepared a special Aptitude Test. It is offered free of charge and will be graded at no charge to you by members of our staff.

If you want to be a writer, send in the coupon below for this free test and for a free brochure which fully describes the Institute, our course, our faculty, the current publishing market for children's literature, and your new future. If you demonstrate an aptitude for writing, you will be eligible to enroll. Of course, there is no obligation.

For fun, for $$ value— add a swimming pool

By JoAnne Alter

Building a pool is a super backyard remodeling that can make your home the scene of many family vacations. It costs less than a down payment on a second home—and makes your home worth more at resale time.

A backyard swimming pool costing $5,000 to $10,000 is an expensive home improvement, especially when you consider higher taxes and increased utility bills. But it's a good investment—socially as well as financially. It can make your backyard the center of at-home entertaining for the whole family. And, if it's an in-ground pool, it can also add to the resale value of your home. (Above-ground pools, which are considered portable and not permanent improvements, do not add to the property value.) As a general rule, however, it is unwise to invest more than 20 percent of the total market value of your home in a pool. Thus, if you feel you could sell your house for $40,000 today, the cost of your swimming pool should not exceed $8,000.

Plan ahead. The first and most important step is to find a reputable dealer and the right type of pool for your needs. Most in-ground pools are either gunite (concrete sprayed over a metal mesh laid inside the excavation), or vinyl liner (aluminum, steel or specially treated wood walls that support a heavy-gauge vinyl liner). If you live in the North, a vinyl-lined pool will probably be the most economical choice. If you live in a warmer climate, the cost of gunite may be comparable. As a rule, vinyl-lined pools cost less to maintain.

What to buy. Your basic pool will probably include the following items (be sure to get every detail in writing before you sign the contract): a filtration system—filter, pump, motor; an automatic skimmer; possibly a diving board; two ladders—or one ladder and one set of steps at the shallow end—and some decking around the edge of the pool. There are countless extras you can add, of course. We offer some to consider:

Heater: A heater will add 10 to 12 percent to the cost of your pool, and will hike your utility bills substantially—just how much will depend upon where you live. (See page 35 for a remarkable new, low-cost solar heating system for pools.) But a heater will add about three hours a day and three months a year of additional swimming time, if you live in the North, and can make swimming a year-round pleasure if you live in a warmer climate.

It's your second home and endless summer vacation all in one.

Underwater lights: These make good sense if you plan night swimming.

Automatic cleaning system and automatic chemical dispensing system: These are fairly expensive additions, but will cut pool maintenance from an hour a day to an hour a week or less.

Extra decking: You should have a minimum of 3 feet of paving or decking around the pool for safety, and to keep dirt and debris out of the pool. It's good to plan for an extra 10 feet at the deep end, if you have a diving board, and a bit extra at the shallow end if you plan poolside entertaining.

Fencing: A 4-foot-high fence is required in most areas. You can put up a chain-link fence inexpensively, but a better investment would be a 6-foot wooden stockade-type fence, or a vinyl fence with aluminum slats that prevents small children from wandering into the pool area unattended, and insures privacy. Also, it cuts down wind, which can make the air around the pool feel up to 15 degrees colder, and flying debris, which can clog skimmer and filter.

Pool cover: A cover helps keep the pool clean, cuts down on chemical loss and retains heat that is normally lost from the water's surface. Some of the newer covers can be put on or taken off in less than five minutes.

These are the extras you may want to include in your basic pool package. You don't have to buy everything at once. But if you provide initially for a heater or for underwater lights, it will cost you less to install them later.

Cut costs and energy use. Throughout the swimming season, the average monthly maintenance of your new pool will be about $60 (depending upon the utility rates where you live). To help cut costs and keep energy use to a minimum, the National Swimming Pool Institute offers these suggestions:

- Reduce filter operation time to six or eight hours a day during the swimming season and four to six hours during the off-season. If water becomes cloudy, increase filter operation time just until clarity is restored.

- Clean the skimmer and pump strainer baskets frequently.

- Add chlorine and other disinfectants to pool water only in the evening.

- Keep deck and surrounding area clean to reduce the load on the filter.

- Use pool and patio lights wisely—and sparingly.

- Operate the pool heater only when the pool is being used. Set your thermostat at 78 degrees and keep it there (only a short warm-up period is needed).

The pools you'll see on the following page, award winners in the recent National Swimming Pool Institute competition, illustrate the beauty a pool can add to your home. Though the pools we show cost less than $10,000 at the time they were built, the price you pay will depend on where you live, your yard's typography and the cost of construction when you build.

Crewel miniatures for you to make

These low-cost crewel miniatures, so easy to work up, will add lovely old-fashioned touches to any room in your house. Try a pair or a quartet, or make all six. Group them decoratively or use them individually wherever they look best. Each has its own distinctly colorful, inviting quality. Preassembled walnut-stained wood frames measuring 5 by 7 inches are also available.

Swedish Rosettes

Beat 2 eggs slightly; add 2 teaspoons sugar; then add 1 cup milk. Sift 1 cup all-purpose flour and ½ teaspoon salt; stir into the egg mixture and beat until smooth (should be about the consistency of heavy cream). Add 1 tablespoon lemon extract. Put enough salad oil (about 2½ quarts) in a 5-quart deep fryer to fill it about 2/3 full and heat to 400F. Dip rosette forms into the hot oil to heat them; drain excess oil on paper towels. Dip heated forms into the batter to not more than 3/4 their depth. If only a thin layer of batter adheres to the forms, dip them again until a smooth layer adheres. Plunge batter-coated forms into hot oil and cook until active bubbling ceases. With fork, ease rosettes off forms and onto paper towels to drain. While still warm, dip in confectioners' sugar, or sift sugar over them. Makes 6 dozen.

As seen in McCall's INSTANT COOKIES only $3⁷⁵

Recently featured in the McCall's article "Flourishes with Food", this mouthwatering confection is so much fun to make, even more fun to serve to delighted family, surprised friends. And you can get in on the fun for a mere $3.75 — the incredibly low cost of this complete Rosette Set.

Swedish Rosettes are light, crisp, delectably melt-in-the-mouth puffs of deep-fried pastry, lightly coated with confectioners' sugar. A truly exquisite taste experience for everything from morning coffee to midnight snacks, the kind of sweet you associate with quaint European cafes, or the shelves of elaborate patisseries.

Taste them, and you'd think they could only be created by the hands of a fine pastry chef. But now you can make them at home, easily, and in seconds, with this Swedish Rosette Iron.

The Rosette Iron, complete with three cast-aluminum forms in different designs, features a double handle so you can make two cookies at once. Simply heat your oil in a deep-fat fryer, or any deep pot on top of your range. Dip the forms in the hot oil, then in thin batter (recipe above) and fry them until puffed, flakey, golden brown. Each cookie will be perfect, and perfectly beautiful every time.

Remodeling can bring you all the things you want in

A "new home" at the same address

By Victor Chase

What do you do if you've outgrown your home, or if an inconvenient kitchen or the lack of an extra bedroom or bath suggests a new house is needed? Moving may be out of the question until mortgage money is more readily available at more favorable rates. Or you may be reluctant to move because you like the neighborhood. In either case, remodeling can be the answer.

Remodeling is also a good investment; it can add to the resale value of your home. But don't overbuild. If you raise the value of your home far above others in the neighborhood, you won't get your money back. Similarly, $3,000 spent on remodeling won't guarantee that much in increased value. How you spend the money and the quality of the work are what count.

To determine which remodeling projects are the best investments, look at your house as an appraiser would if you listed it for sale. First, consider the neighborhood and the house's general condition. "Outside and in, does it look like a worn-out shoe, or does it look new, even though it's 50 years old?" asks C.W. Shonkwiler, suburban Chicago Realtor and appraiser. According to Shonkwiler, your house's appearance can affect its value by as much as 20 percent. That's why inexpensive jobs such as interior and exterior painting, patching cracks and replacing worn hardware can add value.

Room layout is the next item an appraiser rates. A good traffic pattern can affect the price of a house by as much as 15 percent. (Today's buyer wants access to all rooms from common hallway areas.) The appraiser then rates the kitchen for size, convenience and the age of its appliances—all of which affect value 5 to 10 percent. Bathrooms are next—today's minimum number is 1½. Other appraisal items are the electrical service (it should be 100 amps., 220 volts), and whether there is a family or recreation room.

If your remodeling job calls for plumbers, electricians and carpenters, you can act as your own general contractor, or hire a remodeler who has his own work crews or will act as general contractor. Being your own contractor gives you the flexibility to negotiate with each tradesman; it also gives you the headaches of making sure each trade does its work. (continued on page 86)

Join 2 houses — get twice the living space

This warm, rambling Connecticut home evolved from two forsaken houses—and five years' work. As young marrieds Rogene and Stewart Gillmor remodeled an ancient half Cape Cod. Later, when their needs expanded, they bought an old gambrel, moved it alongside and then put the two houses together.

Roof of the structurally sound 1690 Cape Cod (top, left) was modified, creating bedrooms below. The Gillmors revamped the brick kitchen, added in 1910. To get more space, the 250-year-old gambrel (top, right), whose rickety appearance belies solid timber and interior detail, was moved 10 miles and joined to the Cape Cod (above).

Living room is part of gambrel's first floor (opposite, top). The Gillmors brushed foundation sills with pentachlorophenol preservative, scrubbed and tung-sealed the floors, replastered walls, and installed polyurethane insulation. Only the fireplace needed no work.

Kitchen has practical charm (opposite). Easy-to-clean counter tops enhance cabinets of barn siding salvaged from an old inn; other cabinets (not shown) house washer, dryer. Silicone-treated brick walls shed little dust. New bay window lights the breakfast area.

Here's how 2 classic old houses

Tools

CHISEL was used by the Gillmors to clean out mortar joints for re-pointing and prying bricks loose.

MASONRY HAMMER was paired with chisel to dismantle fireplace and remove mortar.

PRY BAR removes rotten clapboard. Gillmors also used a 12-inch bar with clawed end ("catspaw") to dismantle fireplace.

BRICKLAYER'S HAMMER was helpful in cutting and prying bricks loose.

ELECTRIC PAINT REMOVER heated and softened old paint, which was then removed with scraper and putty knife.

WIRE BRUSH (this one with its own scraper) removes paint without gouging wood. Gillmors spent more for durable brass bristles.

HANDSAW is for general cutting. Stewart also used coping saw (to cut curves) and hacksaw (for metals).

SCRAPER with replaceable blade was teamed with wire brush to strip painted surfaces.

CIRCULAR SAW, lightweight and portable, made jiffy work of time-consuming cross cutting.

ELECTRIC DRILL (available with various accessories) did triple duty, boring holes in metal, wood, concrete.

LINOLEUM KNIFE was used as an all-purpose cutting/trimming tool.

and tips

1. Rub nails with bee's wax to ease hammering them in.
2. Get a shop vacuum cleaner ($35). It's more efficient than home models for heavy-duty work.
3. Wear heavy gloves to protect your hands.
4. Invest in a good bristle paintbrush—it paints better and faster.
5. Thoroughly prepare the exterior surface to be painted—it will save you repainting for about 5 years.
6. Keep different-size nails in separate, labeled tins.

The fireplace of gambrel, along with entire second-floor structure, had to be dismantled because of a low underpass en route to new foundation. Stewart pried bricks loose with bricklayer's hammer, chisel and crowbar. He cleaned off clay mortar with wire brush, then made detailed drawings of each course. Masons helped put fireplace back together.

Beaded pine paneling with shallow display recess is nailed to 2-by-4 furring on brick face. The dining table was once a discarded plank.

were moved, merged, remodeled

Joining the two houses, a 1½-story clapboard breakfast connector (mud room) links room of Cape Cod to dining room and guest room of gambrel. Doorways were carved from window openings. Varying cedar-shingle roof heights define the three units.

Antique staircase, stripped and shortened to keep kitchen doorway clear, replaced ladder leading to loft area that's now master bedroom.

Bookcase of 1-inch pine was toenailed into part of exterior wall enclosed by connector. Newly created doorway, which was enlarged from existing window, leads to breakfast room; stairs designed by Rogene lead to guest room.

Put together and remodeled, 2 old houses add up to a "new" 11-room house—with 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths and bonus of 4 working fireplaces. Second-floor space under the eaves was used to create bountiful storage closets.

Easy attic transformation

Attic space can mean an extra room that easily gains new life—and a new use—without major expense. First, as an amateur photographer's studio, then a sophisticated sewing room, our attic features birch plywood storage cabinets transformed by stock moldings and X-shaped yarn dividers from contemporary (bottom) to country French (opposite). Louvered shutters for light control are exchanged for a window fabric, delicately shirred, that's repeated on walls, chair cushions and closet doors.—John McCarville

Basic attic floor plan, measuring 14 by 16 feet, contains a wall of storage units, a dormer window and a small closet. Bifold double doors open back 16 inches for access to a Murphy bed for an instant attic guest room.

“Hello, my name is Rhoda—

where
live”

Set decorator, Mary Swanson

Finding a great apartment in Manhattan isn't exactly easy, but Joe and I just couldn't live in his old bachelor apartment—I mean there were too many of his old loves turning up and none of mine. So my sister Brenda and I found this terrific place, right in her building. It had a terrace and a large living room and, well, I just loved it. The only thing was, though, before we moved in, the couple who lived there split up and his wife took custody of everything—including the fireplace and the plaster. So then I got to work. The style is sort of New York eclectic—you know, chic-on-a-budget. We have two 6-foot sofas, butter-yellow with little white polka dots, and a drop-leaf oak desk that I picked up for $45. Our new fireplace is porcelain, and the honey-colored campaign chest blends with our rust-colored draperies. . . . It's terrific!"

Charley, Joe's friend (above), played by Richard Schall (who's married to Valerie Harper), is one aspect of matrimony that doesn't thrill Rhoda: "I tried for Joe's sake to be friends with Charley when he first came over, but he just looked at our lovely bamboo dining chairs and said, 'I hate 'em.'"

Three's a crowd in a small kitchen, especially when the crowd is Rhoda and Joe and "friend" Charley (left). The kitchen is done to Rhoda's liking with a cast-iron rack over the stove, lots of copper pots and colanders. In fact, the whole apartment would be practically ideal, if only, as Rhoda puts it, "Charley would just stay home with his Valerie!"

Build a garden room for all seasons

The fresh look of nature inspired the transformation of an ordinary sun porch into this sitting room with the year-round look of summer. White walls and floors reflecting outdoor light from uncurtained windows give the room an airy brightness necessary for the abundance of growing greenery. Designer Bud Peck achieved the charming effect using inexpensive lattice strips (you can buy them unfinished at lumberyards) to create herringbone-patterned walls. His step-by-step instructions follow. Flooring of ceramic tile is another easy do-it-yourself project. (continued)

THE GARDEN ROOM illusion is created by building, in effect, a post-and-lattice garden structure, such as shown in the transformed sitting room on the preceding pages. This kind of wall treatment can be an ideal solution in an older home if you want to cover cracked or rough "Spanish" plaster. First, remove the baseboard and all moldings around doors and windows as necessary. Next, locate the wall studs with a stud finder. Studs are 16" on center; mark every other stud to divide the walls into 32" sections. If you want a niche on one wall, locate that opening first and allow 48" for it.

THE POSTS are a prominent architectural element; they should be carefully boxed as shown (top, right). A post should be built in each corner of the room and on each side of the niche to give it depth. Start a post by nailing (with 2" nails) a 1"x3" to the wall over a stud. Plumb this piece with a spirit level. You'll probably have to shim behind it (with pieces of cardboard or linoleum) because walls are seldom uniformly true. Construct the post as shown at left, installing the 3/4"x3/4" cleat before boxing in. Use 1x3 and 1x4 clear pine and 4 penny (1 1/2") finishing nails. Avoid marring posts with hammer tracks; use a nail set and drive heads just below surface. Fill nail holes and sand edges smooth. Patch cracks and paint walls flat white or pale green.

THE LATTICE WORK is begun by nailing 1x3s in place over alternate studs. The length of the 1x3s should allow for a 1x3 at the ceiling and at floor line. The horizontal 1x3s should be checked with a level; ceiling and floor may not be level. Any irregularity can be covered at the ceiling line with a crown molding. At the floor line a quarter-round molding can be used.

Pineapple Rice Flan

Reap the low-cost, nutritious benefits of this regal, spring dessert when you combine bountiful rice with the lovely flavor of piquant pineapple. Our flan begins as a creamy rice custard, gelled into shape. It's filled with fresh, ripe pineapple slices, then studded with strawberries and glazed to shining perfection for meal-end splendor.

1 With sharp knife, cut top and bottom off pineapple. Stand upright. Cut away rind and eyes in vertical strips. Cut evenly to retain round shape. Cut pineapple crosswise into 8 to 10 slices. Core slices with 1/4-inch round cutter or tip of small knife.

2 In skillet, bring sugar and water to boiling. Add some slices. Cook 5 minutes, turning once with slotted spatula and fork. Remove to pan. Repeat. Reserve 1/2 cup cooking syrup. Chill slices and syrup. (Omit steps 1 & 2 with canned pineapple.)

3 In saucepan, combine rice, milk and salt. Bring just to boiling. Cover. Cook over low heat 25 minutes or until rice is tender but not mushy; stir occasionally. Sprinkle gelatin over reserved syrup or 1/2 cup canned syrup. Let stand until softened.

4 Beat yolks in small bowl; add small amount of hot rice; stir mixture back into pan. Continue to heat rice only to cook yolks. Add vanilla. Stir in gelatin until dissolved. Place rice mixture in bowl over ice water or chill until cold and thick.

5 Whip cream. Fold into cooled, thickened rice mixture. Turn into 4-cup Bundt flan pan. Cover. Chill until firm. Place preserves in saucepan. Bring to boiling; stir constantly. With rubber spatula, press through sieve into small bowl; keep warm.

6 Loosen flan from pan. Unmold onto platter. Dry pineapple slices with paper towels; cut into halves. Arrange 9 halves in bottom; put remainder on top in center. Decorate with strawberries. Brush fruit with sieved preserves. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Take advantage of our special Bundt Flan Pan offer; see page 75.

The Smart Shopper Says:

- Bananas that have yellow peels tipped with green are partially ripe and are best for broiling, baking or sautéing. Bananas that have all yellow peels are still firm enough for cooking and ripe enough to eat.
- Bananas that have yellow peels flecked with brown are fully ripe, good for eating or mashing as a recipe ingredient. To prevent over-ripening you may store them in the crisper section of your refrigerator. The peel may turn dark, but the fruit will retain its flavor and texture.
- To mash bananas for use in baking or dessert recipes, slice bananas into a bowl and beat with a fork, rotary beater or electric mixer until smooth and creamy.
- Leftover mashed bananas may be combined with a little lemon juice (to prevent browning), placed in a plastic container and frozen for later use in baking. To thaw, place unopened container in refrigerator for several hours.
- To prevent banana slices from turning brown, brush lightly with citrus fruit juice or an ascorbic acid preparation.
- Banana math: There are 3 medium-size bananas in a pound. One medium peeled banana has 120 calories, yields 1 cup banana slices—or ½ cup mashed banana.

Snitch 'n' Snack Cake.

It's one-bowl easy. It's snitchin' good. And it's especially versatile.

It's the perfect snack almost any time. Bake it as squares, a ring, a loaf or cupcakes. Glaze it or not. Serve it as a dessert, alone or a la mode.

Offer it for special flavor at brunch, lunch, or nightcap breaks.

The good flavor comes from the blend of tart and sweet apples in Mott's® Apple Sauce and from Grandma's® old-fashioned molasses. Making Grandma's Snitch 'N Snack Cake is simple.

Hiding it from snitchers may be a problem.

- Cooked chicken freezes well if wrapped properly. Keep at 0°; use within 6 months.
- For best results, thaw frozen chickens in the refrigerator. Whole frozen chickens under 4 pounds require 12 to 16 hours' refrigerator time to thaw.
- To serve whole chickens, slice similarly to carving a turkey or cut at joints, separating into serving parts with poultry shears or knife.
- No significant nutritional differences exist between fresh, frozen and canned vegetables, if they are selected, stored and cooked properly. In some of our recipes, frozen or canned vegetables have been substituted for fresh.
- Fresh vegetables in season now are likely to be least costly. But check prices against frozen or canned varieties. Because of inflation or crop failures, the prices of some vegetables may not decline as much as expected.

Tarragon Chicken-Vegetable Platter

- ⅓ cup butter or margarine
- 1 clove of garlic, halved
- ¼ cup lemon juice

- 1 tablespoon dried tarragon leaves or 3 tablespoons chopped fresh tarragon
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 4 large lemons
- 1½ cups fresh, shelled peas or 1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas or 1 can (17 ounces) sweet peas

3. Cut lemons in half crosswise. Juice lemons; use some in this recipe and remainder for lemonade or other recipe. Remove membrane and crushed pulp from lemon halves. Slice off tip end of each to make cup that will stand. Scallop edges of halves with sharp paring knife or kitchen shears.

4. About 30 minutes before chickens are done, prepare vegetables. In separate saucepans, cook fresh or frozen peas, beans and zucchini in 1 inch boiling water until tender. With canned vegetables, cook in own liquid until just heated. Drain. Season with salt, pepper and butter or margarine, if desired. You can bake frozen peas and beans alongside chickens by wrapping each with aluminum foil.

Chicken and Lettuce in a Pot

Makes 4 servings. Each serving: 355 cal.; 40.6 gms. P.; 15.7 gms. F.; 13.6 gms. C. Source of thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, vitamins A and C.

- 1 whole broiler-fryer chicken, about 2½ pounds
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup sliced pared carrots
- 1 cup sliced onion
- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed chicken broth
- 1 large head iceberg lettuce

1. Remove giblets and rinse with chicken. Pat dry with paper towels. Sprinkle neck and body cavities of chicken with salt and pepper. Twist wing tips back under chicken to hold neck skin in place. With string, tie legs together, then to tail.

2. In large kettle or Dutch oven, heat butter or margarine over medium heat. Add chicken and giblets. Brown well; turn chicken with 2 wooden spoons to avoid tearing skin. Push chicken to one side of pan or remove. Add carrots and onion. Sauté 2 minutes in fat left in pan. Return chicken if removed. Add undiluted broth. Cover. Cook over low heat 15 minutes.

3. Cut lettuce in half through core. Parboil in 2 inches boiling water in large kettle just until wilted. Drain. Cool under running water. Cut each half into 2 wedges. Shape each into compact ball. Arrange over chicken. Continue to cook with chicken 15 minutes more or until chicken is tender.

4. Transfer chicken and lettuce to serving platter with slotted spoon. Untruss chicken. Arrange carrots and onions on top. Thicken pan juices, if desired, using 1 tablespoon cornstarch blended to a smooth paste with cold water.

Rice-Stuffed Baked Chicken

Makes 6 servings. Each serving: 408 cal.; 40 gms. P.; 13.9 gms. F.; 27 gms. C. Source of vitamin A, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin.

1 whole broiler-fryer chicken, about 3 1/2 pounds

1 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper

2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1/4 pound chicken livers

1/3 cup diced celery

1 package (7 or 8 ounces) chicken flavor rice-vermicelli mix

1. Remove giblets from chicken; use liver in stuffing, use other parts for soup, if desired. Rinse and dry chicken. Sprinkle neck and body cavities with salt and pepper. In skillet, melt butter or margarine. Add livers. Sauté until well browned. Drain on paper towel; cut into small pieces.

2. Add celery and rice mix to fat left in skillet. Cook 2 minutes. Add water as directed on package; add seasoning packet from rice mix. Cook according to directions. Add chopped livers to rice and toss gently.

3. Heat oven to 375°. Loosely fill neck and body cavities with rice mixture. (Any leftover mixture can be baked in separate dish.) Twist wing tips back under chicken to hold neck skin in place. With string, tie legs together, then to tail.

4. Place chicken, with its breast side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. If desired, brush chicken with pure vegetable oil, liquid margarine, or melted butter or margarine. Bake about 1 1/2 hours or until drumstick feels soft when pressed with fingers protected by paper towels.

5. Place the leftover rice stuffing in covered, buttered casserole or wrap in aluminum foil; bake during last 25 minutes of roasting time with the chicken.

6. Transfer chicken to serving platter. Untruss; keep warm. To make gravy, pour fat in pan into bowl or jar. Return 1/4 cup to pan with 1/4 cup all-purpose flour. Blend until smooth. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until bubbly. Add 2 cups water, consommé or broth. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Taste and correct seasoning, if needed.

7. Or discard fat; stir 1 envelope (1 1/8 ounces) chicken gravy mix and 1 cup water into pan drippings. Cook until thickened. Pour into gravy boat.

Vitamin B-6: The fat-metabolizing vitamin that scientists have found works with body chemicals to balance and regulate body fluids to prevent water retention and bloat.

Kelp: Nature's great food mineral harvested from the ocean and our most reliable source for essential Iodine — so important in burning up fuel to melt fat accumulations away.

10 clever ideas for stretching and saving space in every room of your home

By Ellen Liman

Finding enough space is always a problem: Our possessions and children keep growing while our closets and rooms seem to shrink. But all is not bleak; if you look, you'll probably find that there is more usable space in your home than you realize. Here are some ways to help you make the most of it.

1. Expand rooms by making full use of the space you have. To do this, your furniture—or the furniture you plan to buy—must be carefully arranged. Figure it out first on graph paper: Measure the furniture and the room; sketch out a floor plan, showing all fixed features—windows, doors, beams, air conditioners, radiators, pipes. Now sketch in the furniture. To maximize the floor area, keep all furniture near the walls and in corners, or cluster it in islands at the center of the room. Make several sketches to see which arrangement works best. Always keep in mind that you should not have to climb over chairs or move beds to open windows, shout across the living room to carry on a conversation or wear binoculars to watch television.

2. Think of your walls as storage spaces. On a bedroom wall, hang bright scarves, ties and necklaces from a row of big brass hooks. In the kitchen, hang your pots, baskets, kitchen tools and towels from hooks on a pegboard. Along the wall of an entry hall, hang scarves and coats on handsome wooden pegs. And in the bathroom, stuff hand towels and toiletry items into children's plastic pails attached to the wall (above).

3. Consider buying space-saving furniture. You'll find pieces that fold away, deflate, stack, roll up or come apart when not in use; other pieces have parts that pull out or fold down. All of these economize on space. So does multifunctional furniture: a desk that doubles as a dining and night table; a bookcase that's also a lamp table or headboard. You might also want to invest in built-ins, which save space and look trim, or in furniture that provides extra storage space: beds with drawers or other beds underneath; chests (below, right), hampers or trunks to be used as end tables or, with cushions added, as extra seating.

4. Make your rooms seem more spacious. Soft, diffused lighting heightens the feeling of spaciousness, as does selecting a monotone or compatible color scheme for adjoining areas—perhaps even for the entire house. Carry the same or similar wall and/or floor covering or color from room to room, from inside your house to an outside deck or patio. Keep furniture small in scale, light in feeling; place larger pieces inconspicuously. Use harmonious textures. Avoid heavy draperies, which take up space and make rooms seem closed in: Substitute shades, shutters or screens, or leave windows and glass doors bare to bring the outdoors in. Use mirrors, murals and trellis-type wallpaper to open up a room and make it appear larger.

5. Create an extra room from nowhere. Curtain off a corner as a dressing/makeup area, or convert a big closet into a bar (above), office or dark-room, and you've made a new room appear like magic. Check your attic, garage, basement and breezeway for hidden potential. Take a small alcove and make it into a laundry room, workshop or sewing nook you can conceal behind curtains, shades or folding doors. Suggest a separate area within a larger room by changing floor or wall covering, or floor or ceiling height. Split a room by rearranging furniture, or by using screens, hanging panels of fabric or curtains, as dividers.

6. Provide sleeping room for overnight guests. You can do this almost anywhere—in the living or dining room, in an alcove, down a wide hallway. All you need for the transformation is a disappearing bed: a convertible sofa, daybed, banquette, Murphy bed or fold-up cot. To accommodate your kids' guests, how about bunk or trundle beds?

7. Make the most of wasted space. Look for hidden storage possibilities under stairs or eaves, between or below windows, beneath beds and sofas, above and below cabinets in the kitchen.

Make furniture do double duty: Low bookcases can be end tables, too.

en, under the sink in the bathroom. If you have very high ceilings, search upward for storage space: Hang fishing rods along the hallway wall; hoist the baby carriage or bike up to the hall ceiling on a pulley system.

8. Find storage pieces for next to nothing. Ask at your supermarket for fruit crates you can paint and place along the floor or hang on the wall. Baskets, painted barrels and boxes all make nice storage units. Create extra shelving the poor-student way, out of bricks and boards.

9. Unclutter a closet to get more room. First, sort out the contents: Maybe out-of-season things can go in the attic, or hats and coats on pegs in the entry hall. Add extra poles, stackable boxes, built-in drawers or shelves (center). On back of the door, put up hooks, narrow shelves or a shoebag. Here, as in the rest of your home, space is where you make it.

10. Create space for a growing book collection. Put up shelves along a hallway wall, up a staircase, between or around doors and windows, above a mantel. Put them up wall-to-wall and floor-to-ceiling wherever you have an unused wall. Inexpensive alternatives to custom-built shelving include: spring suspension poles with shelves; shelves installed on standards and brackets; commercial metal freestanding units painted to match your decor. Use freestanding bookcases as functional furniture: Tall ones can be room dividers with, perhaps, access from both sides; low ones (top) can be put to use as end tables.

Rent tools for special jobs

You can save money by not owning tools you may need only once.

When you're doing special home improvement or repair jobs, keep in mind that you don't have to buy every tool you need. It's much easier—and cheaper—to rent some of them. Although rental fees vary across the country (our prices are approximate), you'll pay less than you would have if you had bought the tool—for which you may have only one-time use anyway.

Look in your Yellow Pages under "Tools—Renting." You'll find dealers with an extraordinary variety of tools to rent. Rental is usually by the working (eight-hour) day and often you must leave a deposit, which is later subtracted from the total rental fee.

Here are useful tools you can rent:

Resilient floor tile cutter

Resilient floor tile cutter. This device (above), which works like a paper cutter, makes a tedious job easy. You place a tile in position on the cutter and lop off the trim portion. Two sizes are available: One fits 9-inch-square tiles, the other 12-inch-square tiles. The larger one, which rents for about $8 a day, is big enough for you to shift the tile around and cut off angled pieces; the smaller version, renting for about $4 a day, makes only square cuts.

Concrete mixer. When you are doing a sizable job with concrete, you owe it to your back to rent a mixer. All you do is roll this special tool to the site, pour in the ingredients and water, and turn on the motor; the drum rotates, mixing the concrete. Minutes later, you turn off the motor, grip the handle on the side of the drum and tilt it so the concrete pours out just where you want it. Mixers have gas or electric motors and come in many sizes. The most common are one-half and one-third bag sizes, meaning that the drums will accept either of these amounts of a 90-pound bag of cement. For small jobs the smaller size, renting for $10 a day, is fine; for driveway or patio, you'll need the larger one, which runs about $16.

Electric siding sander. If you're faced with the unenviable task of removing paint from siding and stripping it down to the bare wood, this tool (above) is a blessing. It sands with even pressure and, unlike a hand-held belt or disk sander, never gouges the wood. It consists of a 6-inch sanding disk with a frame that holds it at the proper angle to siding. Rental is $7 a day, plus 35 cents for each sanding disk.

Power snake. When your sink clogs, an electric snake does the clean-out job much more efficiently than a manual one. With either, you feed a long cable into the pipe, then turn a crank—or turn on a crank—to move the cable around inside, freeing the clog. Power snakes come in various sizes. Small ones are for sinks; larger ones are for the main lines that lead to septic systems, cesspools or sewers. Your dealer will tell you which you need. A $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch snake for main lines costs \$24 a day.

Underlayment stapler. The term "underlayment" describes the hardboard or plywood that is nailed to subfloor as a smooth base for finished flooring. It must go down snugly, so a great deal of nailing is required. The stapler (above) gets around this: It looks like an overgrown paper stapler. To use it, you hit a lever with a rubber hammer, driving the staple home. Rental is about $6 a day, plus $4.50 for 2,500 staples.

All-position ladder. Sometimes an ordinary ladder isn't good enough: When you're painting an interior stairwell, for instance, there's no simple way to set the ladder up so you can reach that high ceiling or wall. The all-position ladder, which has the traditional A shape, solves this problem. It has one set of adjustable legs. To paint the stairwell, you shorten the legs so the ladder stands evenly on the stairs. This ladder comes in handy, too, for working on the outside of a house when the ground isn't level. It rents for about $3 a day.

Wallpaper steamer

Wallpaper steamer. Removing wallpaper is never a simple job, but the steamer (above) will make it as easy as it's going to be. It consists of a flat pad with a hose that connects to a steam unit; the steam travels through the hose and out the pad. Applying the pad to wallpaper (it's a good idea to scratch the wallpaper first with sandpaper) creates moisture that seeps through and liquefies the adhesive behind the paper. The steamer rents for about $7 a day.

Post hole digger. Using a shovel to dig holes for posts and fences is hard work; you really need a post hole digger for the job. If you're digging only a few holes—up to 10 or so—a manual clamshell digger (so called because of the shape of the blades) is fine; you can rent one for about $2.50 a day. But if you have a lot of holes to dig, choose a powered digger. Run by a gas engine, this device has an auger bit (it looks like a corkscrew) that digs the hole and removes the soil all in one operation. Look for the type with an engine that rolls on wheels and is connected to the digger by a cable. Rental is about $24 a day.

Clean, Odorless, Economical—One Drop a "Complete Meal"

Applied according to simple directions, Dr. Chatelier's goes to the root of the growth problem, takes its food d-e-e-p down to your plants' roots, never stays unused on top of soil. 100% soluble, it gives, in ideal sustained balance, all the minerals, vitamins and trace elements plants need. Holds its "complete" balance even in one drop of water! May be used dry or made in advance. Will not lose potency even if it is kept indefinitely.

One Teaspoon Makes A Full Gallon For Under 10 Cents

Gives spectacular guaranteed results indoors and out in virtually any soil, even in pure sand! Great used "hydroponically" in gravel, wood shavings, vermiculite, perlite—you name it! Used by N.S. Navy in experiments to grow vegetables aboard submerged submarines—and in "Operation Deep Freeze"—the project to grow fruits and vegetables in Alaska. It is the plant food most used by commercial growers who must raise superior flowers and vegetables! © GS 1975

The right remodeler is a must for a "new home" at the same address.

Among the best sources for names of good remodelers are friends who have had work done and are happy with it.

In some states there are laws requiring contractors to be licensed. Call your state building authority to find out if there is such a requirement where you live—and learn if the contractor you deal with is properly licensed.

Be sure you get several estimates for the jobs you want done, and insist that the remodeler tell you exactly what his bid includes.

Make sure a contract, in writing, is drawn up for the work to be done, once you've selected a remodeler. This contract should spell out all details of the project as well as the method of payment. Typically, a contractor will require a 10 percent down payment, plus three payments of 30 percent each during various stages of work.

The contract should spell out precisely when these payments must be made—for example, 30 percent when the framing is done, another 30 percent after the electrical is roughed in, and 30 percent after the dry wall is applied. Remember, under federal law you have the right of rescission. This means you can cancel your contract, without penalty, within three business days of signing it, so long as you provide written notification to the contractor.

As with home mortgages, most big remodeling projects are financed through lending institutions. The average annual interest rate for a home improvement loan is in the 12 percent range; whereas home loans usually run between 8½ and 10 percent. Banks and savings and loan associations, the primary sources of home improvement loans, generally have a limit on the amount they will lend for remodeling—and on the pay-back time as well. This tends to vary from $10,000 to $15,000 for a maximum of 15 years.

Some of the large remodeling firms are set up to arrange loans for their customers, through lending institutions. In such instances, the lender pays nothing to the contractor until the project is finished and you've certified that the work is to your satisfaction. If you are not satisfied, the remodeler is not paid. On the other hand, when you obtain a loan on your own, the money is usually given to you in advance by the lender. That way, you can negotiate the best possible deal with individual tradesmen, if you should decide to act as your own general contractor. Securing your own loan also gives you the advantage of being able to shop around for the best available interest rate.

The Fascinating Story of LOOFAH

Loofah belongs to the cucumber family and originated in India about 2000 years ago.

About 500 years ago, a Korean king, So-chong the Great, ordered his men to find a sponge strong enough to cleanse his body but gentle enough not to scratch his skin. It did not take very long for his men to find SUSEMI (Korean name for loofah).

He finally ordered loofah to become the royal bath sponge. The Japanese and Europeans later adopted it.

Many doctors recommend loofah for its ability to stimulate the skin while the juice of loofah soothes the body.

READ WHAT WORLD RENOWNED AUTHORITIES SAY ABOUT CELLULITE:

Famous Health Magazine

"During my residence in Paris, I was intrigued by... loofah, which, except in Europe, was not yet so much in vogue. The accompanying tag declared it excellent for cellulite, or peau d'orange — skin of an orange."

"I asked the pharmacist for an explanation of peau d'orange. He described the condition and the loofah, he said, was part of the massaging action needed to help break down and dissolve the fat accumulations."

A Best Selling Book On Cellulite

"Surface friction brings nourishments to the skin. Wet or dry, the friction rub is equally effective."

"Aside from helping to break down cellulite bulges, the dry friction rub leaves the skin so smooth that practically every Frenchwoman includes it as part of her daily beauty routine."

Banish Those Cellulite Bumps Forever,

by Catherine Russek
"The loofah, a Swedish sponge or mitt, is an instrument of massage. This will smooth your skin, flaking off the dry outer layer and leaving you smooth as the proverbial baby."

How You Can Win Contests!

Discover 14 Secrets to Winning . . . and Cash In On Exciting Vacations — Luxury Cars — Money and Thousands of Other Fabulous Prizes to Be Given Away This Year

If you dream of having enough extra cash to spend any way you would like. If you have longed for a few of the luxuries in life before you are too old to enjoy them. If you receive a special thrill when you are named a winner. Then continue to read and learn how to make your dreams come true.

To be a winner, the first thing you must do is forget about being lucky.

Pure luck has very little to do with winning contests.

If you follow any kind of sports activity closely, you know the best prepared team wins. They don't leave anything to chance.

The same systematic approach can help you win contests. If you prepare—if you have the proper tools—if you know how to make the law of averages work for you . . . you will soon be winning such valuable prizes as color television sets—tape recorders—radios—appliances. Even cash and vacations to exotic places.

Why am I so confident you can win—and win big?

Because I am doing it. I know the thrill of winning. I know what it takes to be a contest winner. I know if you are determined you can win too.

But learning how to win didn't come easy. Until a few years ago, my wife and I were like the average person. We would occasionally enter a contest that caught our attention . . . with always the same results. Nothing. You may have experienced this same thing.

All my efforts left me frustrated. I knew I had to do something different to win. I decided to find out how I could improve my chances of winning. I started by interviewing the people who knew what it was all about. Contest judges.

I spent hours in writing letters and talking to judges. I studied carefully their advice and the techniques they suggested. With their help—and my own trial and error—I developed 14 simple—but effective rules—for entering and winning contests.

During the next three months my wife and I won valuable prizes in ten national contests . . . an average of winning one prize every 10 days.

Believe me, this is not luck.

To prove what I am saying is true, here are just a few of the letters I received announcing my winnings:

- You will be happy to know that your entry has been selected as one of the winners in the Purina Dog Chow $150,000 Triple Treasure Sweepstake Spectacular.
- Your entry has been selected as a winner in the Armour "Win a Wish from the Wizard" Sweepstakes.
- Congratulations! Your name has been drawn as one of the . . . winners in the Awake "Free Groceries for Life" Sweepstakes.
- Congratulations . . . you are a winner in the "007 Colgate-Palmolive Sweepstakes." Please allow six weeks for delivery of your RCA Tape Recorder.
- Your Polaroid camera is being for-

My name is Haywood Kelly. My wife and I have won thousands of dollars in valuable prizes. You can be a big winner too, it's easy when you use the 14 simple steps I have discovered.

warded to you as a winner in the Libby's Fine Foods Contest.

— Congratulations on your cash prize. The Minute Maid Company is forwarding a check to you before the holiday season.

Without contests and a systematical way of winning, these prizes were only a dream . . . but now a dream come true.

Now you can make your dreams come true and experience the thrill of winning. You can master in a few hours what it took me two full years to discover.

The secret of winning.

I have written down every successful technique I have used. Every proven secret I have learned. And have included each of them in a book I have written, entitled "How to Win Contests."

Even though this book could mean hundreds, perhaps thousands of dollars to you in valuable prizes, it is priced at only $3.00. Remember, winning contests is not luck. It is SYSTEMATICAL PREPARATION.

I will show you how to prepare.

I will teach you the fourteen rules you must follow to be successful.

I will teach you the "golden rule" of winning.

I will show you how to be selective and enter only the contests that provide the best chance to win.

I will tell you how to use the rules of the contest to your advantage.

I will give you the formula for a winning strategy.

I will show you how to beat the law of averages by entering more than once. The trick is in the timing of your entry.

I will show you how to keep posted on current contests so you won't accidentally miss out on the best opportunities to win.

I will show you a secret trick to make sure your entries aren't overlooked.

I will teach you how to use logic to take the "chance" out of winning.

I will show you how to hit the jackpot time and time again.

At first you will find your winnings hard to believe. Even your friends won't believe it—they will think you struck it rich.

So, forget about being lucky. Don't take as long as I did to find out what it takes to be a systematic winner.

Give in to that impulse. There's nothing to lose.

I'm not asking you to believe what I have said. Just try it. I guarantee you will be a winner. It's as simple as that.

To prove there is more to winning than luck—you have this 100% no risk guarantee. Order my book "How to Win Contests." If you don't like it when it arrives, return it for an immediate refund. You still get your $3.00 back.

Help about the house

DIVERT RAINWATER FROM BASEMENT

How can we keep rainwater from flowing into the basement? Our house is on a slope below the road. Ever since the road was widened, rainwater has poured off it, down the driveway and into the house. Can we plant something that will soak up the water?

(Mrs.) Georgia Wells

Scio, Ohio

Plants will not help. Your best bet is to dig a drainage ditch across your lawn to carry water to a low spot or a dry well, away from your house. This needn't be an obvious ditch; a scooped-out trough will hardly be noticeable.

CHIP AND SEAL LEAKY JOINT

How can I seal the joint where my basement floor and foundation walls meet? It leaks very badly.

Susan Knittel

Cedar Falls, Iowa

Chip the joint wide open with a cold chisel and clean it thoroughly. Wet the edges, if they're not already wet, and pack in a prepared concrete mix. Use hydraulic cement, available at building-supply stores, if the joint leaks. Cement will harden even with water present.

RESURFACE ROOF TERRACE

How do we stop a leak on the flat concrete roof of our garage, which we use as a terrace?

(Mrs.) Anna Bovee

Ripley, N.Y.

Patching leaks in the concrete surface would be unsightly, so consider laying a floor of ceramic or clay tile directly over it. Or try one of the silicone-rubber traffic toppings that building-supply stores sell for this purpose. The topping comes in a variety of colors, is skidproof, easy to clean and, if necessary, repair.

CLEAN TILES AS PROFESSIONALS DO

How do we clean yellow stains off the ceramic tile in our shower? Tile cleaner and cleansers are useless.

Phil Saunders

Berea, Ky.

Look in the Yellow Pages for a wholesale distributor of ceramic tile; he can sell you the special tile-cleaning liquid he normally supplies to tile contractors. Ask for directions, since this information may not be on the label. When using it, wear rubber gloves and be careful not to splash any on your skin.

Why use real slate when you can use Kentile?

Real slate looks as good as Kentile Casilla solid vinyl tile. But it chips, cracks, powders and stains. Its grouting can loosen, crumble, or wash away. It's hard on legs and feet and falling children. And it costs more than twice as much.

Each box of 12" x 12" x 1/8" Kentile® Casilla™ contains a random assortment of five different slate arrangements. So, unlike sheet vinyl, Casilla lets you design your own floor, in the irregular patterns of natural slate. Ideal for outdoors too, using special adhesives and installation instructions. Fire-resistant Casilla comes in two color styles: Slate Blue and Green and Multi-Color (shown above). Wall base: Argent Gray Kencove® vinyl. See your Kentile dealer.
