PRESIDENT'S REPORT

As I write, the Old Town Art Fair eddies outside my office window. I am only just recovering from my own personal involvement in two other annual events: the AIA National Convention in Cincinnati & Neocon at the Merchandise Mart.

The first Interior Architecture Awards ceremony during the opening of Neocon was the work of its steering committee, Ken Johnson, Norm DeHaan, Ken van der Kolk & Janet Schirn. A cocktail party hosted by the Merchandise Mart & the Exhibition & Award Ceremony organized by our committee were presented with the style & taste befitting the occasion.

Any architect (as I was) who hasn't attended Neocon in the last five years has missed a significant educational experience in the most high-powered, specialized market within our field. The Merchandise Mart & its management have managed to bring together the world's most intensive presentation of interior environment products, ranging from carpets to computers. The seminars & workshops were extraordinarily diverse & informative; the displays were visually exciting & commercially enticing; this is a great show you can't afford to miss & we are fortunate it's so easily available.

The AIA National Convention held in Chicago twelve years ago spawned Neocon as a complementary event & exhibition. Since then the concept of transforming the Convention host city into a living museum of places & activities has expanded in each city to the delight of the entire family. Cincinnati, an old River town with a soft, gentle climate, welcomed us with its bowered streets & hills overlooking the Ohio River. The simultaneous scheduling of programs & events concentrated one's own personal interests & needs to intensify the convention experience.

The morning before the Convention initiated my conflicting schedule with the incidental meeting of the Women in Architecture Network & the Large Component Workshop meeting. Clar Krusinski & Mary Jo Graf sponsored & nourished the Large Component exchange last year. Both meetings provided important vehicles for each special interest assembly & will give impetus for further organizational development. Richard Cook co-chaired the meeting this year & reports on the Large Component meeting in the following article.

Among the Honor Awards presented was one for the Monsanto Environmental Health Laboratory by Holabird & Root; accepting the award was Gerald Horn. This was exceptionally important for it confirmed the vitality & power of Holabird & Root's 100-year architectural leadership beyond Chicago to the Nation.

Bruce Graham, a member of the 1980 Honor Awards Jury, participated in the panel discussion following the presentation of three new building Honor Awards. The selections of the Jury, the Jury comments & the presentations by the award winning architects were an insightful & valued experience of the convention. Jim Nagle presided over the Honor Awards Jury for old buildings put to extended use.

My personal satisfaction came when Gordon Bunshaft & Nat Owings accepted the 25-year award for SOM's Lever House, in New York City. The last five years' mindless reaction against a technological ethos had delayed too long the recognition of this hallmark building.

Professional Development Seminars, Products & Technology Exhibits & highlight speeches delivered by J. Irwin Miller, Paul Goldberger & Gerald McCue jammed the three days.

Once again Jack Hartray spoke eloquently to the Convention; first, in nominating George Notter for Vice President & later concerning the Chapter's position for Associate member requirements & The Institute's ethics.

The mandatory enforcement of our Ethical Standards has created devastating legal problems. The Convention discussed the alternatives of voluntary or mandatory ethics & voted to accept Voluntary Ethical Standards for the Institute. This act relieves the AIA from further defensive litigation in anti-competitive (restraint of trade) issues.

The Chicago Chapter's resolution on re-requirements for Associate Membership was modified by the AIA Board at its March meeting. The amendment proposed by the Chapter on the convention floor failed with the main motion passing. Partial success.

The 1981 dues increase could have been accomplished by the Board without a floor discussion at the Convention. The Chicago Chapter, responding to our constituency, attempted to forestall this dues increase. The voice vote on the floor increased the dues to $140. Tom Eyerman proposed the formulation of a task force to study & recommend a long-range economic plan. This resolution also lost by floor vote. We are hoping that the California Council's successful resolution to re-evaluate The Institute's purpose can also encompass Tom's suggestion of fiscal planning in relation to program planning during the eighties.

The 1981 Convention will be held in Minneapolis. Will you join us?

LARGE COMPONENT WORKSHOP REPORT

A workshop for the large metropolitan components was held at the AIA convention on Sunday, June 1 with participants from these components meeting & discussing like concerns. The meeting was attended by Presidents, Presidents-Elect, & Component Executives. Clar Krusinski originated this forum last year at the National AIA Convention & this year's forum continued that meeting.

The agenda was published, & information requested on budgets, component dues, component structure & membership size for each particular chapter was distributed at the meeting which was attended by approximately 30 persons. Peter Piven, Philadelphia AIA President, opened the meeting; there were four round-table discussions (member recruitment, retention & participation; programs & meetings; long-range planning; chapter communications) which rotated every half hour with a summation made by each discussion leader. At this meeting the following concerns became evident: a. that there be a clearer definition of the roles of The Institute & its large components which have offices, staff & greater member diversity; b. that long range planning is required of all chapters in order to be able to establish continuity from year to year; c. that additional meetings are desired by these chapters to determine kindred needs, exchange of ideas & general rapport with The Institute & between themselves.

At the conclusion it was determined that a meeting summary would be prepared & that future meetings be held in conjunction with Grassroots & the Convention. This would allow continuing dialogue not only for the component executives through their organization, but also for the component officers working & providing information to the National AIA permitting continuing viability to members of the large components. This would entail long-range planning, organization & goals for each chapter to provide better programs for the membership of the large components.

INTERIOR ARCHITECTURE PROJECTS AWARDED

Six Interior Architecture projects received "Citations of Merit" in the first Interior Architecture Awards program sponsored by the Interior Architecture Committee of the Chicago Chapter, AIA. Forty-three entries were received from Chapter members & encompassed office, commercial, institutional & residential interiors projects constructed & completed during the period Jan. 1, 1976-March 1, 1980.

On behalf of the Interior Architecture Committee I want to thank all of the Chapter members who made submissions to our first Interior Awards Program. We also extend our congratulations to the four firms whose projects the jury selected to receive Citations of Merit. A poster illustrating the winning submissions is available at the Chapter office. We'd also like to take this chance to encourage you to prepare to enter the Program next year. From the comments we have received we expect a much greater number of entries than the forty-three received this year. It is this type of enthusiastic participation in Chapter activities that benefits the profession - in the eyes of the public as well as in elevating the standards of professional design & encourages Chapter committees to expend the time & energy to provide interesting & informative programs for the membership.
