LONDON FOG
SPEAKS FOR THE
COMMONS" FROM ILLINOIS
BRICK

Irving Kupferberg residence,
Glencoe, Illinois

London Fog, a rich new blend of hand-molded common brick, expresses the character and appearance of older reclaimed brick. Irregular or "molded" front and end surfaces. Interesting variations of color are captured with unique flashing methods. All developed from I B's skills in molding brick.

London Fog can bring design flexibility to your next project. Inside for touches of warmth . . . enduring beauty. Outside for the interesting variety of textures achieved with wood, other common brick or steel, or, to complement any landscape. Inside and out for design continuity. London Fog distinguishes the "house of commons" from Illinois Brick.

Other popular brick styles include Lincoln Homespun, Cloister Black, Architectural Commons, Smooth Buff and many others. Call or write for information.

How to keep his "nos" out of your business.

Sure, selling is tough today. You know that gas equipment will do the job better—economically—but how can you prove it to your customer? How do you keep from getting a "no"?

That's where we come in. Your local gas utility. We have specialists ready to help you with design, with applications and energy cost comparisons that will convince your customers.

So, if business is more competitive, let us help you let it work in your favor. Let us help you design and sell your homes and apartments with gas heating, cooling, water heaters, incinerators, clothes dryers and cooking equipment. What better way to make a sale! Remember, we can prove to your customer that an all-gas home can save him over $200 a year.

We're ready when you are. Just give us a call.

A NEW EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR FOR INDIANA SOCIETY OF ARCHITECTS

Harold A. Long appointed by Arthur L. Burns, AIA

On 20 April, 1972, the appointment of Harold A. Long as new Executive Director of the Indiana Society of Architects was announced by the Society's President, Arthur L. Burns, AIA, of The McGuire & Shook Corporation, Indianapolis. The Society's action culminates a three-month screening of applicants who were interviewed for the position left vacant by the death of Don E. Gibson in October of last year. ISA members James O. Johnson, AIA, George L. Wiley, AIA, Keith L. Reinert, AIA, Carlton C. Wilson, AIA, and Melvin D. Birkey, AIA, acted as a review committee under President Burns in selection of Long to this important post.

With Long's appointment, the Society's Offices at 300 E. Fall Creek Parkway, Indianapolis, are again fully operational. Complete membership and public relations services have been reinstated.

In addition to managing the affairs of the Indiana Society of Architects, the state association of the American Institute of Architects, Long will have responsibility for three AIA chapters, Indianapolis, Central-Southern and Northern Indiana.

Harold A. Long comes to the Society from Indiana University where he was involved in capital budgeting and facilities development and where he worked extensively with architects over the state in developing regional campus academic facilities. Prior to joining Indiana University in 1959, Long was department manager for the Gary, Indiana, Chamber of Commerce and active in trade association affairs.

Holding the degrees of AB in Political Science and MBA in Personnel from Indiana University, Long is also a graduate of the Michigan State University Institute for Organization Management and was a graduate assistant in Indiana University's Bureau of Executive Education. Also active in U.S. Army reserve affairs, he is Adjutant General of the 123d USAR Command based in Indianapolis.

The Indiana Society of Architects, AIA, is an association of some 400 Registered Architects throughout the State of Indiana. The Society's purpose is to organize and unite for the promotion and development of aesthetic, scientific and practical efficiency within the profession. By dedication to the advancement of architectural education, training and practice standards, the Society strives to assist in coordination of the building industry and in environmental improvement. Indiana Society of Architects maintains contacts with news media, the Indiana Legislature and the Public and stands ready to assist in any area in which The Architect may be of service to the Community.

DON E. GIBSON MEMORIAL AWARD— NEWS OF AWARDS PROGRAM

In unanimous approval, the ISA Board, in its April 10 meeting, renamed the ISA "Distinguished Service Medal" the "Don E. Gibson Memorial Award" in recognition of the Society's appreciation of the dedicated service and accomplishments of its former Executive Director, Don E. Gibson, Hon. AIA, who died in October, 1971.

Members of ISA are reminded that nominations for the Edward D. Pierre Award (to recognize corporate members of ISA who have attained significant stature in their profession or community) as well as the Don E. Gibson Award (given to laymen who have made significant contributions to the profession or their community) must be submitted to the Board of Directors of the ISA before June 1, 1972. Nomination forms and complete information are available from the ISA Office.

New Air Handling Specifications

The complexity of modern-day air handling systems, the needed skills of fabrication and techniques of installation plus a tremendous increase in the overall capacity of even an average system, have resulted in a corresponding increase in the responsibilities of the Air Handling Contractors. Only through a separate, detailed air handling specification can these new responsibilities be defined. As a consequence, there has been an ever increasing acceptance, by architects and engineers, of separate specifications and separate bids for air handling systems.

The above is a reproduction of the second edition of the Air Handling Specification, which is now available to architects and engineers throughout Indiana. The first edition received a top CSI award and the second edition updates all information as an aid to specification writers.

A major improvement: the second edition now conforms to the CSI format for construction specifications and is appropriately arranged for complete coverage of work that should be contracted by the sheet metal-air handling contractor under CSI Division 15, (entitled Mechanical) subdivision Air Distribution.
