“Floating saucer” of folded concrete roofs 3 acres

Free of supporting columns, the roof of the new University of Illinois Assembly Hall will seem to “float” over the spectators. This is the world’s largest concrete dome, 400 feet across and weighing 5,000 tons. It is borne entirely by a peripheral ring of prestressed concrete resting on 48 concrete buttresses.

There’s an unobstructed view from every seat in the house for sports events. Seating arrangements and staging are readily adaptable for theatricals and concerts. For insulation and acoustical control, the underside of the roof will be lined with cement-wood fiber panels.

The use of concrete to effect such architectural and engineering achievements is seen more and more today. Everywhere architects are turning to versatile concrete to create designs of outstanding beauty and functionality.

INTEREST IN ETHICS

by myron tassin

It is interesting to note the importance members attach to the Louisiana Architects Association's role in the area of ethics. LAA exists primarily to communicate with the general public, with specific publics and with the member audience—and probably in that order of importance.

However, a questionnaire enclosed in a recent issue of the Louisiana Architect magazine generated several responses indicating members want very much for LAA to be concerned more with ethics—which is basically an internal matter. The remarks reflected a feeling that spotlighting constantly the creed of the profession would serve to deepen the impression on architects' minds while reminding the public that the AIA architect has sworn to uphold a set of Mandatory Standards.

One architect felt that the Mandatory Standards of the American Institute of Architects should be published in Louisiana Architect periodically. In agreement, we hereby offer the first such serving of this code:

MANDATORY STANDARDS

THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS

1. An Architect shall not accept any compensation for his services other than from his client or employer.
2. An Architect shall not render professional services without compensation. He shall neither offer nor provide preliminary services on a conditional basis prior to definite agreement with the client that if the contemplated project proceeds, he will be employed as its Architect.
3. An Architect shall not knowingly compete with another Architect on a basis of professional charges, nor use donation as a device for obtaining competitive advantage.
4. An Architect shall not offer his services in a competition except as provided in The Institute's Competition Code; in international competitions originating in the United States except as approved by The Institute and the International Union of Architects; and in foreign International competitions except as approved by the International Union of Architects.

CROWING AND THANKING

LOUISIANA ARCHITECT magazine has been awarded the first place award for Organization Publications by the Baton Rouge Advertising Club. Thanks to the LAA Board which permits almost boundless freedom; to our editorial advisors, W. J. Evans and W. R. Brockway; to John Schaeffer who contributes our interesting, provocative covers; to Franklin Press which has helped to nourish the magazine on a scant financial diet; to our members who have generally responded well; to non-members who offer encouraging comments, and to our advertisers who began supporting this publication when it was only a 'publication-in-a-poke'.

IN THIS ISSUE . . . THE ANNUAL ROSTER ISSUE IS PRESENTED. PRIMARY SOURCE FOR STATES OTHER THAN LOUISIANA WAS THE REGIONAL COUNCIL SECRETARY-TREASURER'S MOST RECENT CHAPTER ROSTERS.

THE LOUISIANA ARCHITECT, Official Journal of the Louisiana Architects Association of the American Institute of Architects, is owned by the Louisiana Architects Association, not for profit, and is published monthly, Suite 200, Capitol House Hotel, Baton Rouge, La., telephone DI 8-4331. Editorial contributions are welcomed but publication cannot be guaranteed. Opinions expressed by contributors are not necessarily those of the Editor or the Louisiana Architects Association. Editorial material may be freely reprinted by other official AIA publications, provided full credit is given to the author and to the LOUISIANA ARCHITECT for prior use.

. . . Advertisements of products, materials and services adaptable for use in Louisiana are welcome, but mention of names or use of illustrations of such materials and products in either editorial or advertising columns does not constitute endorsement by the Louisiana Architects Association. Advertising material must conform to standards of this publication, and the right is reserved to reject such material because of arrangement, copy, or illustrations.

WOOD PRESERVES OLD SOUTH CHARM IN THE NEW GEORGE M. SIMMONS POST . . .
. . . and provides economies of construction as well!

good example of the use of wood to satisfy all structural requirements and at the same time provide economies in construction costs is seen in the new George M. Simmons American Legion Post in Alexandria, Louisiana, recently built on the old Kent plantation home site. The structure is an all-wood building, which employs a truss roof, exposed beams, wooden interior and wood siding on the outside.

Glankler & Broadwell, Architects:

"We designed the new George M. Simmons American Legion Post with wood to effect substantial savings (costs were only $8.33 a sq. ft.) and to preserve the Southern flavor which the old Kent plantation site suggests."
