A GLANZ & KILLIAN
Fire Protection System Pays—
Even if you never have a fire

Preventing equipment loss. Preserving critical records. Protecting human lives. Each is reason enough to install a Glanz & Killian fire protection system.

But that same system can also help reduce initial building costs. Because codes permit special design flexibility where suitable fire protection is written into original specifications. In some cases, savings can hit 50%!

And in both new and existing buildings, savings in insurance premiums can return the entire cost of a fire protection system in as little as 3 years!

All of which makes fire protection by Glanz & Killian a blue chip investment—even if you never have a fire. And think what it could mean if you do.

Get the facts. Call us today without obligation.

Leadership takes many forms. But those who exercise it have one thing in common: performance that sets the standard for judging the efforts of others. Glanz & Killian has exercised this kind of leadership since entering the mechanical construction business in 1921. One result has been steady growth—growth which has made Glanz & Killian one of the Midwest’s most successful mechanical contractors.

We look for similar leadership qualities in our employees. And give each ample room to exercise them. This accounts for our consistently high performance marks on plumbing, heating and air conditioning projects of all sizes. It also helps explain our success in such technologically sophisticated areas as waste treatment, process piping and power plant mechanical systems.

We’d like to explain more about Glanz & Killian leadership and its value in meeting your mechanical systems requirements. Give us a call. We’ll see that you get the information you need without obligation.

Meantime, watch for our hat. The man who wears it represents mechanical construction leadership you can count on.
1974 President’s Report

Leslie Tincknell, AIA

The year of 1974 for the Michigan Society of Architects certainly reflects the changes the profession has undergone in a period of rapid fluctuation. We were stunned by the energy crisis at the start of the year and are being swept out in a recession, but in between saw a period of good business activity.

During this time span, the board of directors has worked to consolidate the efforts of previous years, stabilize the organization and seek new directions. In these endeavors, we were ably assisted by the staff in Detroit and Lansing.

The start of the year is focused on the convention which occurred on March 13, 14 and 15, with the Saginaw Valley Chapter as hosts. The theme of the program “The Architect and Recreation” was well handled by chairman Arthur Nelson and the chapter members. During the convention we saw the conclusion of the work of a one-man task force, William Werner, with the long overdue revision by the adoption of the society bylaws. The bylaws are in the process of being distributed to the membership.

At the convention the Society Gold Medal was awarded to Thomas J. Sedgewick, AIA, for his contribution to the profession in the field of Architectural Registration.

As a lasting contribution of the convention, a mini-park was built and donated to the city of Saginaw. It was a fine convention and we look forward to Kalamazoo in October.

At the start of the year, two task forces were initiated to work on professional problems regarding personnel practices and professional liability insurance.

Roger Boe, AIA, is chairman of the task force, benefits and portability, with the charge “to study a floating pension plan for architects.” An interim report was made to the board in August and to the membership in the December Bulletin Newsletter. The goal is to have an operational plan starting in 1975.

The Mid-Michigan Chapter members with Nobyn D’Haene, AIA, chairman are “to make a study of methods to provide professional liability insurance for architects and architectural firms”. This task force is currently working on the project.

The Brochure “Architectural Services” was revised to provide the membership with a current tool in dissemination of information on services to the public. The October/November Monthly Bulletin carries the efforts of one-man task force James Kinville, AIA.

One of the most enjoyable accomplishments this year was the passage of the Revised Registration Act. After three years of effort the house and senate unanimously passed the act and it was signed by the Governor, August 1, 1974. Bruce Smith, FAIA, and William Lyman, AIA, devoted a great deal of time and effort on behalf of the society.

In appreciation of the support given to the passage of the law, the society conferred an Honorary Membership on Representative Raymond J. Smit, PE, of Ann Arbor. This award and the election of Regional Director William R. Jarratt, AIA, were a part of the most successful mid-summer conferences the society has had at Mackinac Island. A record turnout of members, families, and industry associates enjoyed a fine program chaired by Jim and Jan Hackenburger.

Appointments of Architects to the state positions has occurred throughout the year. Bernard J. DeVries, FAIA, was reappointed to the architectural registration board. Superintendent John Porter reappointed Clarence Rosa, FAIA, to the advisory council on school management services. This fall Robert Swartz was appointed to the Barrier-free design review board. Other positions are awaiting the Governor’s action.

The passage of the registration act also prompted the board to develop two new task forces to build on the new foundation and to look beyond the patchwork quilt. Tom Sedgewick will chair the new task force on registration with an open charge.

A second group headed by Paul D. Bowers, AIA, has the task “to work with the registration board for architects in aiding them wherever possible in the formulation of rules, regulations, ethics and professional conduct standards for the betterment of the services offered by the architects to the public. Secondly, to seek better ways for enforcement of the Architectural Registration Act by better awareness and policing of the law by architects and public bodies.”

All presidents enter their year with programs and goals. The one recurrent theme this year was to provide better services to the membership by the society. This is evident in the work of the task forces, committees, board and staff.

However, even with the board working to rescue the outstanding debt, placing the publications in a self-sustaining position and operating with a minimum staff, inflation has necessitated an increase in income.

The membership approved a dues increase at the meeting following the legislative breakfast on December 3, 1974, in Lansing. Because of the minimal increase, the board was instructed to investigate methods for a more equitable and mandatory firm membership.

I know that we have strengthened our relationships with other professional societies, our legislature and other governmental bodies and administrative staffs during the year. Clarence Rosa has continued to provide us with leadership in our expanding efforts with government.

I wish to thank the membership, the board, staff, my wife and family for allowing me to serve the year as president. I have enjoyed the contacts throughout the year and can reflect upon achievements, disappointments and unfinished tasks.

The profession faces serious problems in the forthcoming years and with a strong professional society we are better able to deal with forces than we can as individuals. Your continued support for 1975 president Bob Tower, the board and staff will help achieve our goals.
Greetings
From the Membership

Executive Vice-President's Report
Clarence H. Rosa, FAIA

A review and report of the second year's activities of the office of the Executive Vice-President ("MSA in Lansing") includes some accomplishments and some on-going activities.

1. With the considerable help of the MSA membership, House Bill 5776 was unanimously approved by the Senate on July 2, passed by the House with only one dissenting vote on July 3 and signed into law by Governor Milliken on August 1. The bill provided needed amendments to our State Registration Act to facilitate our practice as professionals and to meet current situations. It was the culmination of over three years effort by a study committee of representatives of the three professions under the chairmanship of Bruce Smith, FAIA, and discussions with representatives of the Registration Boards, the Boards of four professional societies and at meetings of seven MSA chapters. The amendments represent "band-aid" revisions to aid the administration of the present Act and are not intended to meet the long-range objectives of architectural registration that are contemplated. These are being addressed by a recently appointed MSA committee chaired by Thomas Sedgewick that is working with representatives of the other design professions.

2. A legislative breakfast was held in Lansing on December 3 as a follow-up to the very successful 1973 breakfast. 35 legislators and legislators-elect attended the breakfast as guests of 40 architects. Again this was basically a get-acquainted or keep-acquainted session; it was near the end of the legislative session and there were no bills hanging fire that were especially pertinent to our interests. Some rapport and understanding was established that will be helpful during the next session when we may be working for (or against) specific legislation having a direct bearing on profession. Apparently, last year's breakfast had some bearing on the solid support that the legislators gave to our registration bill.

3. Although there has been considerable action during the year on the new contract and fee schedule for state work, its implementation has not been accomplished. After several negotiating sessions, agreement was reached between the State Department of Management and Budget and the professions on the details of the document. Approval or concurrence was then required from State administrative and legislative bodies. While nearly everyone in State government agrees that the present contract and fee schedule is inequitable to our profession and needs substantial revision, approval continues to be deferred. There is no doubt that it will cost the State money and there are few who want to face up to it in view of the current budget deficit. More persuasion will be required.

4. In cooperation with the seven professional design organizations, the AIA brochure "How to Find, Evaluate, Select, Negotiate with an Architect" was sent with an appropriate letter to the Superintendent and Board Secretary of each school district, the clerk of each township, county, village and city and the administrators of most of the hospitals — over 3,500 total. Mailings of similar brochures on the other design professions will be made in 1975; the one on architects was the first. This is an excellent PR for our profession. It makes the point that selecting an architect should not be a casual process, describes the selection process, the kinds of information that should be considered in selecting an architect, the methods of compensation that are used and includes a discussion of the negative aspects of competitive bidding for architectural services. It will do us a good service.

5. A seminar sponsored by the State Department of Education, the U of M and MSA, and attended by 75 architects, was held on October 8 and 9 to discuss career education facilities and the design and construction procedures for obtaining them. The Career Development Division of the Department of Education anticipates a substantial construction program for these facilities in the local and intermediate school districts during the next few years and there was a need to discuss the procedures that are being contemplated. The discussion was not conclusive and there will be a follow-up seminar in 1975.

6. Construction management as the responsibility of an architect has not met with acceptance by all State agencies. Some success in overcoming this prejudice on behalf of the profession has been made in 1974; much more work will be required in 1975 to convince agencies that A-E firms with experience in the process are capable construction managers and should not be eliminated from consideration.

7. Legislation has been monitored and reacted to. Over 7,800 bills and nearly 2,000 resolutions have been introduced during this two-year session of the legislature. 180 of these bills have been of interest to architects because they directly affected our profession or the construction

What’s Michigan’s Leading Air Handling Contractor Doing in Kansas City?

Size and mobility allow Ventcon to handle widely scattered projects. But Kansas City is a bit beyond normal working range—even for us. Still, a team of Ventcon sheet-metal specialists spent substantial time there.

The reason: Ventcon was awarded the air-handling contract for a large and complex government installation located in suburban Detroit. Since a similar project was already underway in Kansas City, we jumped at the chance to visit it.

As a result of that trip, Ventcon recommended scheduling and sequencing revisions for the Detroit project. The outcome was improved performance, fewer scheduling conflicts—a more efficiently run project.

We didn’t have to go to Kansas City. But a lot of problems were avoided because we did. We take the same uncompromising approach to every job we handle. Isn’t that a big part of leadership in any field?

Detroit Chapter President's Report
Louis A. Rossetti, AIA

Seldom have I experienced the personal satisfaction that serving this past year as your President has given me. You all are to be commended for your fine efforts without which nothing would have been accomplished. Added satisfaction comes from the fact that Phil Nicholas was a party to the planning of last year's programs of 1974 and to building upon them.

Let me outline our accomplishments.

In January we, your Board, dedicated ourselves to redirecting the emphasis of The Chapter to that of Our Chapter. A Chapter which would be responsive to the needs of our times and would be structured to invite individual participation. Recognizing that our committees are the backbone of the Chapter, we completely reevaluated and restructured the committee structure. Before the end of January committee chairmen were selecting their committees, establishing their goals in the form of policy statements and outlining the years activities. Active participation was encouraged and student and associate members were enlisted for all committees.

This year's programs were excellent, varied interesting and well attended. They included: "Bridge to Bridge", "Bureau of Facilities", "Registration Act Review", and "Environmental Research Group". The initiation of the successful "Architect's Sunday" program was certainly a publicly visable highlight. But there were many highlights. More new members in every membership category bids well for our future and is the result of a continuing identification of new prospects and a systematized recontact of previous members.

The design for a new urban park statement for downtown Detroit's Capital Park has been completed and a plan for implementation has been accepted and is underway. A very complete health facilities seminar has been planned and will be given in February. A new graphics program was established for the Chapter which has been partially implemented. We worked with the Professional Skills Alliance in the opening of a nursery school for the children of drug addicted parents. Several very worthwhile professional development workshops were effectively planned and efficiently carried through. An exhaustive study has been carried out to produce probability of employee benefits and real headway is being made toward implementation. A speakers bureau has been established.

We are now the lone financial sponsors of the Student Architectural Design competition and to aid the competition an instructional seminar was presented for high school career counselors and teachers. The very successful December dinner/dance combined last year the Detroit Chapter awards with a unique presentation - a piece of sculpture by Glen Michaels was presented by the Detroit Chapter to the Detroit Symphony as an outward expression of the union of the visual arts, performing arts and architecture.

Thank you all for your participation in what I believe to have been a very successful year for the Detroit Chapter.

The ground work is done, the task is begun, the 1975 Chapter leadership is dedicated to continuing and enhancing the efforts toward reinforcing the importance of Our Chapter.

I encourage our continued mutual cooperation toward making the accomplishments of 1974 pale when compared with those of 1975.

20 / Monthly Bulletin
Flint Chapter
President's Report
Eugene Terrill, AIA

The year began with the Executive Committee evaluating past goals and setting new ones. Within the scope of the new goals, top priority and emphasis was given to (1) a Continuing Education Program for the members and (2) an effective Public Relations Program. Although the education programs were limited in number, they were well attended and informative, covering such topics as Construction Management, BOCA Code, Energy Conservation and a seminar by the American Wood Council.

The task of developing a Public Relations program was assigned to the PR Committee. This was a large assignment in that the Chapter had been virtually without a program in past years. The committee met regularly to develop ideas that would improve the profession's image locally and to stimulate greater appreciation for architecture. Although these ideas and programs have not yet been fully implemented, hopefully they will in the future.

Two other very active committees were Academic Training and Scholarship, and a special committee on Architectural Design Awards. In the area of Academic Training the committee started formulating guidelines to provide student counseling, Career Day speakers, job placement counseling, and updating of architectural materials in local public libraries. To develop these programs, meetings were organized between the committee and educators from the secondary schools, vocational schools, and colleges from the Flint Area. This committee is also responsible for administration of the Flint Area Chapter Scholarship Fund. The Scholarship Fund, which began in 1963, has been awarded to 8 different recipients for a total of $8,870. The monies for the Scholarship Fund are raised each year through the Flint Architectural Golf League activities and donated to the Chapter. The Chapter has modified the scholarship requirements this year based upon a study and recommendations by the committee. The new guidelines will allow for a closer monitoring of the student's academic achievements and will be awarded only to students in their final 2 years of an accredited architectural program.

The architectural Design Awards Committee successfully provided the necessary organization to enable the Chapter to have a design competition. There were 26 submittals, of which 4 were singled out for design achievement. The 4 awards were presented to the architects and their clients by MSA President, Leslie Tincknell, AIA at a dinner program. At this meeting the newly registered architects from the Flint Area were presented their registration certificates by James Tomblinson, AIA, a member of the Registration Board. Also recognized were this year's scholarship recipients.

Another highlight for the year was the Michigan Society of Architect's Gold Medal Award presented to Thomas J. Sedgewick, AIA, a member of the Chapter. Sedgewick was presented the award for his service to the profession which includes membership on the State Board of Registration as well as the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards, on which he served as President.

In the final meeting of this year the Chapter elected to increase Chapter dues in order that a proposed budget for 1975 could be implemented. This budget would allow for financial support of the President to the National Convention, the Vice President to National Grass Roots, as well as other activities. It is hoped this would assure the Chapter a greater exposure and involvement in Institute activities.

West Bloomfield
High School

West Bloomfield High School has an enrollment of over 1,950 students plus a faculty and staff in excess of 100. In addition, the maintenance department has thirteen full-time employees. Considering the traffic in the hallways and the maintenance of the school, it was a natural for the Board of Education and the Architects to specify TERRAZZO.

1. TERRAZZO sub-bed divided by plastic strips.
2. Placement and compacting TERRAZZO topping.
4. Final product resulting in a beautiful, durable, easily maintained flooring.

TERRAZZO is a mixture of selected marble chips in a matrix of portland cement or the more recently developed acrylics and resins. The surface is worked to a textured finish or ground to a smooth, lustrous one.

The beauty and performance of TERRAZZO is the result of skillful installation techniques performed by trained artisans.

TERRAZZO is the most economical floor covering material when you consider installation, maintenance and replacement costs. Discuss your requirements with a Detroit area TERRAZZO contractor.
Our main goals for 1974 were to answer that perennial question "What's A.I.A. do for me?" and face the issues of changing practices, and relating to the needs of the young practitioners and the college graduates. The MSA and National Offices were extremely helpful in assisting us with information, personnel, and encouragement to satisfy most of the questions raised by tightened budgets and reassessed priorities. We all grew in appreciation for the services of A.I.A. for our own personal growth and our individual office practices.

Our programs and renewed efforts to relate to the future decision makers paid off in increased membership among the younger members of the chapter. I am sure their interest and willingness to "get involved" will bring new life into the chapter.

The program relating to Construction Management given by Bill Jarrett was very well attended and received. Doctor Fazlur Kahn's presentation on the Sears Tower was likewise one of the highlights of the year.

A Construction Industry Affairs Committee has been established by the Grand Valley Chapter A.I.A. and the Builders Exchange of Grand Rapids and Western Michigan to be a forum for airing and resolving inter-related construction problems.

Much work has gone into seeking fair and impartial industry guidelines for such areas of concern as irregularities in bidding procedures, payments, material shortages, escalation clauses, progress of work and liquidated damages.

This committee is composed of Contractors, Engineers, Architects, and the President of the Board of Trustees of the Builders Exchange. It has completed a very fruitful year of communication and has published a report which should be the vehicle for greater understanding and cooperation.

A task force has been active in reviewing abandoned housing and making recommendations for its suitability for Government financed remodeling instead of destruction.

Many members have taken part in lecturing for the Grand Rapids Junior College course "Introduction to Architecture", spoken at career days and proctored for State Board Exams.

There has been active chapter participation in a committee for Barrier Free Design and good support for the Grand Rapids Arts Council, Arts Festival, and the Committee for Preservation of Historic Buildings. Chapter members have been active in the Lake Michigan Regional Planning Commission which involves all the states around Lake Michigan.

Our Chapter has task forces working to revise the by-laws to allow greater participation of the associate and professional associate members and to encourage a better chapter response to the Minority Disadvantaged Scholarship Fund.

My one encouragement for the coming year would be to ask each member to write one letter or make one phone call to the new President, Bill Thrall, letting him know your ideas, needs, hopes for the chapter. You should feel responsible to have an input into what he takes to the Grassroots meetings and what his goals are for the Chapter in the coming year. I would also encourage each member to set a few achievable goals for themselves this year like: (1) Volunteering to talk to a school or civic group or order a film and show it; (2) Volunteering to act as a proctor or juror; (3) Contact your legislators; (4) Suggest one proposal for Chapter action.

In our combined willingness to serve lies the strength of A.I.A. Ask now "What can A.I.A. do for me?" but, What can I do through A.I.A.?"

Mid-Michigan Chapter
President’s Report
Nobyn D’Haene, AIA

Following the format of 1973, the Mid-Michigan Chapter used the Task Force in lieu of Standing Committees. Our first function was an Awards Dinner in January, using a Task Force in charge of the Awards Program.

The programs for our regular monthly chapter meetings (noon luncheons) were again assigned to the Chapter Firms. We have had good programs and excellent attendance at our meetings, which offers an ideal opportunity for fellowship among our members.

The local Community Design Center re-incorporated as a separate non-profit organization but the local architects served as officers and on the Board of Directors. There was an article in the May issue of the MSA Bulletin featuring the Lansing CDC.

The accomplishments of the Task Force were due to the leadership of the following:

Monthly Programs - Moe Stein
Awards Night and Program - Ric Anselmo
Public Relations - Chuck Oddyke
Membership Drive - Bill Kane
United Fund Drive - Malcolm Williams
National Committees - Ken Fitzgerald & Duncan Black Community Design Center - John Crouse

Unfinished Business: We are still working on the Liability Insurance Report for MSA. A statement should be ready for reporting by the first of 1975.

Northern Michigan Chapter
President's Report
Bill J. Graheck, AIA

The enthusiasm generated at State and National Grass Roots to obtain better involvement of Chapter members was our goal. The twenty-eight corporate members are represented by twenty in Traverse City. By the year's end the records showed that all but three had been in attendance at meetings. Representation by the six Associates was one hundred percent.

Programs for continuing education were highlighted by Bill Jarrett’s seminar on Construction Management in May and followed by Charles Breed’s presentation on Paolo Soleri at the MSA June Board Meeting dinner in Traverse City. Other programs to encourage attendance and interest all members in working as a group were Bob and Betty Bell's travel talk on Africa and the Annual Potluck Dinner with wives in January.

For Chapter community programs Architectural magazine subscriptions are continued for the Public Library. Also, each member has selected a book for reference and reading which has been contributed in the name of the Chapter. A.I.A. National Public Relations film on R/UDAT has been obtained and used for local TV showing.

Chapter activities have met some of the year's goals which encourages us to improve on the coming year.

industry or because they affected the physical environment which is the concern of architects. 479 bills ranging from revisions to the game laws to appropriations for construction projects have been passed. 36 bills were passed and signed into law that should concern architects. These amended the registration act as noted above, added a person representing the general public and another architect to the registration board, encouraged “greenbelts” around urban areas by granting tax credits to land owners who give up development rights, eased some of the restrictions to bonding for construction by various governmental units, created a State OSHA, extended barrier-free design provisions to all buildings except one and two-family residences, provided for industrial rehabilitation districts and for urban redevelopment by local bonding and appropriated planning and construction funds at less than half of the 1973 level. Legislation concerning land use and the housing law did not pass and will undoubtedly be reintroduced in the 1975 legislature.

You are always welcome to call (517/487-5021) or write or stop in (652 Michigan National Tower, Lansing, 48933) for additional information on any of the above matters or other items or questions concerning legislation or the work of the various State agencies.

President’s Report

Ralph M. McGivern, AIA

The architectural profession in the Saginaw Valley has experienced working together in 1974. We have gained new members and improved participation. With this new blood in our organization we can expect more positive events in the future.

Many of our members are active in volunteer activities where the architect’s voice can contribute significantly to improvements in our community. The architect’s leadership on city councils, school boards, planning commissions, and other public agencies is desirable and commendable.

Our chapter experiences well attended evening sessions. Each evening includes a board meeting, social hour, dinner, and a worthwhile program. Topics this year have included: 1) Bliss Park Project, 2) Sub-contracting, 3) Park Project Design Competition, 4) Marketing Architectural Services, 5) Volunteer work on Park Project, 6) Registration Act, 7) Bliss Park Progress, 8) Investments, 9) Discussion of activity at Bliss Park, 10) State Building Department, 11) Congratulations to Volunteers on Bliss Park Project, 12) O.S.H.A., 13) Energy, and last but not least, 14) an award from Keep Michigan Beautiful for the Bliss Park Project. I think we would have talked more about the Bliss Park Project but we didn’t meet in July and August.

The March 1974 MSA Convention was hosted by the Saginaw Valley Chapter. This offered us an opportunity to work together under the leadership of Art Nelson and Les Tinkle. It was encouraging to see the participation in this event by Eisenhower High School students, Delta College Architectural Technology students, almost every member of our chapter, members of the construction industry, the news media and other members of the community.

Two social events were well attended by our members and their wives. In March the Host Chapter Party at the Midland Center for the Arts with Mr. and Mrs. Alden B. Dow as honorary hosts was an enjoyable evening. In November, an evening at Bintz’s Apple Mountain was highlighted with steak, lobster and a full house.

Once again scholarships totaling three hundred dollars ($300) were presented to two Delta College Architectural Technology students. The Education Committee chaired by Dan Toshach, with Bob Hammerschmidt, Art Nelson, Tom Freiwald, and Buz McGivern is also exploring the development of an additional two-year educational program that may be offered by Saginaw Valley College.

The Community Design Center Committee chaired by Art Nelson, with Bob Kretchman and William Spears, has been actively serving the Saginaw community.

The Board of the Saginaw Valley Chapter wishes to thank the members who attended chapter meetings, participated on committees, showed leadership in community activities, paid their dues and encouraged improvements in the practice of architecture. In addition, we wish to thank those members who help create opportunities for the Associated Student Chapter at Delta College to share in our activities.

I have been fortunate to work with the 1974 Board; Tom Schmidt, Dick Forsythe, Dave Oeming, Jack Feagley and Bob Kretchman. We have been encouraged by the increasing participation of the membership.

President’s Report
Dick W. Slocum, AIA

As most of my predecessors realized all too soon, you approach the year with a great deal of enthusiasm as well as apprehension toward the challenges that lie ahead.

With the help and enthusiasm of the new board members we were able to outline our 1974 programs and attempt to create a schedule of interest to all members. In addition to the routine meetings, we instituted an “In Office Program” with the Kalamazoo firms of Kingscott Associates and Stapert Pratt Sprau Tower Associates, hosting a monthly meeting in their offices. These programs were well received and attended, and provided the members an opportunity to see how some of the offices are challenging the architecture of today with the Team Concept and Fast Track method of construction.

One poignant matter of this administration was the claim that the local architects were discriminating against the minority contractors. Statements were made publically and prompted the WMC to take a close look at some of the problems the minority contractors were having. Through a special meeting with the newly formed Tri-County Contractors Association we were able to draft a “Standard Bidding Procedure Document” outlining the AIA’s procedure for obtaining bidding documents.

Additionally recognizing that by placing the burden of a plan deposit and seemingly undue harassment with the standard AIA Contractor’s Qualification Statement, the WMC asked its members to adopt an office policy of notifying the Tri-County Contractors Association when projects will be available including a set of plans and specifications for their review.

It is my hope that this effort will not deteriorate, and I am sure that our new officers, with their concern in this area, will not let it happen.

The following members have been appointed to the AIA 1975 National Committees — if you are interested in the activities of a specific committee, please contact the MSA members listed after the committee. Most of the committee members were appointed upon the recommendations of the Regional Director. Certain committees are appointed by the President-Elect without advice from the Regional Director. Some additional appointments and changes will probably be made by the AIA Headquarters.

were on the road, cycling primarily along main highways snaking through Montana, Idaho, Utah and Arizona. The trip took them through some spectacular natural scenery, but the pair of architects shied away from cities. Bryce commented, “We wanted to get away from offices and architecture and clear our minds.”

However, at least at one point, the lure of architecture proved too much and a brief side trip was made to the house Frank Lloyd Wright designed for his son David in Phoenix, Arizona. Foster recalled, “That house fit together like a jewel. It was built about twenty years ago, but it is as fresh and modern as if it had been completed within a year.”

Despite time spent in isolated areas, the architects were most impressed by the hospitality of the people they met along the way. According to Foster, “After riding a whole day in cold rain in British Columbia, we arrived at the only lodgings in a fifty-mile area. They were in serious disrepair and uninhabitable. But one man, whose restaurant we had lunched at several hours earlier, offered us his tent on a nearby lake. There were a lot of valuable things there, including camping and hunting gear, and he trusted Ken and I to stay there alone all night.”

Dow Architects Plan Dream Trip

Hours of cold and rain, hunger and physical exhaustion—sound like a vacation? For Ken Bryce and Bill Foster, architects from Alden B. Dow Associates of Midland, Michigan, it was all part of the realization of a wild dream trip that originated over a cup of coffee and a map of North America hung on the wall of the company conference room.

“We'd been bicycle buffs for seven or eight years and when we saw the map we started speculating on a perfect six-week holiday," explained Foster. "At first the 2,800-mile, border-to-border trip along the west coast was something of a joke. But after talking about it and being kidded about it for two months, we couldn't back out.”

Bryce added: “No one at work actually believed we were going until we didn't show up for work one day.”

After flying to Alaska on August 16th, the duo began their epic tour on 10-speed bicycles, traveling south at a rate of 60 to 112 miles a day. At times they would go 100 miles with no trace of people, stores, houses or even gasoline stations. With only two days off for a rest, they arrived at Nogales, Mexico the 28th of September.

Both Foster and Bryce were experienced cyclists, who had ridden almost two thousand miles the previous spring. However, only after the first ten days did they feel they were in peak condition.

“We couldn't really practice for the steep inclines before we went,” Bryce claimed.

“But climbing mountains is not as taxing as going up and down all the little hills in the valleys. At least when you get to the top of a mountain you feel you've accomplished something and there's the nice ride down. With the hills, you get to the top and you figure you've got 110 more to go.”

A typical day began at 5:30 a.m. with breakfast and repacking their equipment on the bicycles. Each man carried a sleeping bag, a one-man tent, clothes and enough food for three days. By 7 a.m. they...
