PURPOSES OF MARA

To improve the relations between members of the architectural profession and the general public through a program of education and cooperation.

To encourage the active participation of architects in civic affairs generally, to the end that the general public may become better acquainted with and more fully appreciate the contributions of the architectural profession toward the peace, health, culture and security of society, and to the end that all Missouri architects may become more keenly conscious of their obligations to the public, and their duty as members of the profession, and as citizens, to contribute their full share toward the preservation of the peace, health and safety of the citizens of this State.

To encourage its members, by both precept and example, to obey the laws of the State of Missouri, requiring and providing for the registration of architects, and to assemble and disseminate such information through the State of Missouri, as will tend to induce the public generally to obey said laws.
Not to concern oneself with form or color insofar as it is form, that is Neo-Plasticism in art. Not to be dominated by the physical-natural, that is the new mentality.

To be concerned exclusively with relations, while creating them and seeking their equilibrium in art and in life, that is the good work of today, that is to prepare the future.

-- Piet Mondrian
PRESIDENT'S LETTER

We are particularly proud of the fact that ARCHITECTS' DAY 1964 will be in Springfield, Missouri, the Queen City of the Ozarks. I know that you, your wife and family will enjoy this Architects Day as never before. The speakers will be professionally stimulating. You will come away with a greater sense of your importance as an architect on the life of the community in which you work. The social activities have been designed for express purpose of relaxation, dining and dancing Friday night on the banks of one of the Ozarks' beautiful sparkling streams, hilarious entertainment. Then Saturday evening, a memorable evening on the pool terrace of the lovely Kentwood Arms Hotel with its beautiful lawns and wooded area. In addition, Springfield's nationally recognized art exhibit, "Watercolor U.S.A." that you simply can't afford to miss. Perhaps also you may wish to plan a trip through our lovely Ozark countryside with a visit to our nearby lakes and truly make this a fun filled week end that you will long remember.

Reservations should be made early since accommodations are limited at the headquarters hotel.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

E. J. THIAS

The architect by inclination, and training is interested in the natural beauty of the landscape and physical constructions that are man-made. Certainly every architect is aware of the impact of the population and physical growth of the State of Missouri.

Numerous organizations of the design field are concerned about the problems of planning, the Architects, the Engineers, the Landscape Architects, the Planners, the Artists and others. One of the problems of our profession in influencing stronger action toward the conservation and creation of beauty is, of course, the small number of architects in proportion to others concerned about planning. Some of the basic problems to be solved are the cross circulation of the highway and the pedestrian; the auto junkyard in the small and large town; the acceptance and demand for well designed structures that are not residential in the large cities; the conservation of contours and mature trees.

Some of our areas full of trees, rocks, rolling hills and valleys have been difficult to level off and subject to deterioration. In spite of this, the dynamite and bulldozers are replacing the trees and topsoil; the filling stations, high speed cars, billboards, flashing lights are replacing the beautiful natural character of the land, and the impersonator of the architect is replacing the architect. An area that has level land does not have much of a chance. The natural and beautiful obstacles are even easier to remove. Most of the direction in zoning and planning lacks the smallest amount of integration of the placement of building masses and spaces, The speculator, signs, lights, traffic are sometimes there before a plan can be developed.

MARA plans to establish a new committee known as the PLANNING COMMITTEE, which function shall be to coordinate some of the activities associated with community planning and development.

APRIL, 1964
MARA has been interested in a state school of architecture for some ten years. In January the Officers and Board met with Dean Joseph Hogan of the Missouri University Engineering School to discuss some of the problems encountered. Most states have established such a school and Missouri is surrounded by states having a school of architecture. Missouri University is the oldest State University west of the Mississippi River.

The following tabulation is a listing of the percentages of College and Architectural graduates registered during period from 1954 thru, 1963, with the school listed in the order of the numbers from various schools. Most graduates are from the School of Architecture at Washington University.

ARCHITECT REGISTRATION, 1954-1963:

| Total Registered | 679 | 100% |
| College Graduates | 503 | 75.6% |
| Graduates, Accredited | 479 | 71.2% |

The MARA Officers and Board are most anxious to hear suggestions from the membership on the educational matter.
I often tell young people to learn in youth to withstand the fascination of money, and not to contemplate it with pleasure as if it were some precious thing. It is, in fact, glittering earth and nothing more. It is unstable and fugitive. It flits from one to another, and is like the withered leaves which the wind drives to and fro, and collects here in one heap there in another.

APRIL, 1964
Albert B. Fuller, A.I.A passed on quite suddenly Friday February 28. Mr. Fuller was born in Kansas City, Missouri in 1889 and had practiced Architecture there for more than 50 years. Before World War II, Mr. Fuller was involved primarily in residential work. Since the war his main interest has been churches. Although most of Mr. Fuller's work is in the Kansas City area, his buildings can be found throughout the Western part of Missouri and across the state of Kansas.

Mr. Fuller was a member of the American Institute of Architects and served as a director of the Kansas City Chapter; Missouri Association of Registered Architects; Real Estate Board of Kansas City; Sanford Brown Post of the American Legion, Forty and Eight.

One by one the architect’s of our period are laying down each their torch of experience that has carried architecture into a turmoil that is in the formulation of a new, enfreshened epoch.

The Eiffel Tower was built in two years for the exposition of 1889, and was intended to be temporary, like most fair buildings. But 70 years later it, with the Nile pyramids, has the most famous silhouette in the world.

A worthy ambition is, in a sense, absolutely necessary to happiness, for happiness – satisfaction – springs from striving to achieve, from exerting oneself to be of service to the world. — B. C. Forbes

by

ROBERT E. GOETZ, PRESIDENT

MISSOURI ASSOCIATION OF LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTS

The designation "Landscape Architect" has been in use in a professional sense for one hundred years. The American Society of Landscape Architect is 65 years old. The term "Landscape Architect" was coined by Frederick Law Olmstead one hundred years ago this year, when he was designing Central Park in New York City. At that time, "landscape" meant the over-all out-of-doors—the entire landscape—rather than the more limited meaning which some people associate with it now, that is, the planting of plants on a specific site. More precisely, however, Landscape Architecture is the art and science of designing and planning the land, and the placement of objects on it, for human use and enjoyment, while conserving the natural environment with respect to trees and plants, rolling hills and valleys, and water resources, as well as climate control through site planning and planting.

Landscape Architecture embraces projects of varied size and nature such as residential properties, park and recreational areas, cemeteries, highway development, residential and industrial subdivisions, housing and redevelopment projects, schools and colleges, public and semi-public buildings and institutions, industrial and commercial developments and the planning of towns and cities.
