American Institute of Architects

Founded in 1857, The American Institute of Architects is the recognized advocate for the architectural profession in the United States. With a membership of nearly 70,000 architects, interns and students, the AIA actively promotes the highest standards of professional ethics and advances the professional development of its members through continuing education. Speaking with a unified voice, the AIA represents architects in governmental and regulatory decisions that impact professional practice and the quality of life.

The North Carolina Chapter of The American Institute of Architects (AIA North Carolina) was founded in 1913 and is the largest statewide AIA chapter in the U.S. with nearly 1,900 members. The membership of AIA North Carolina includes about three-quarters of the architects who live in this state.

AIA North Carolina members work and live in every corner of the state, practicing in firms ranging in size from one to 400 persons. The membership is divided into seven geographical sections, located in Asheville, Charlotte, Eastern North Carolina, Piedmont (Greensboro/High Point), Triangle, Wilmington and Winston-Salem.

AIA North Carolina focuses its resources on five key areas, including:

GOVERNMENT AFFAIRS: With its offices located in a historic building less than one block from the State Capitol, AIA North Carolina is well-positioned to represent architects' views in legislation and public policy development. AIA North Carolina opinions and positions are actively sought by lawmakers when dealing with legislation affecting construction, building codes and planning. Through a separate organization, AIA North Carolina maintains a well-funded political action committee ranked among the top 20 association and corporate PACs in the state.

PUBLIC AWARENESS OF ARCHITECTURE AND THE PROFESSION: Working through several volunteer committees and its local sections, AIA North Carolina actively pursues a concerted effort to help the public become more aware of architecture and the positive impact architects have on the built environment. The Chapter's annual Design Awards program is a prime opportunity to highlight to the public the finest work by N.C. architects. The governor of North Carolina traditionally declares a week each year as Architecture Week and the AIA local sections host a wide variety of activities intended to engage and stimulate the public. Architecture Week in the year 2001 is scheduled for September 17 thru September 22.

CONTINUING EDUCATION AND PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT: Continuing education is a requirement for licensure renewal and for ongoing membership in the AIA. AIA North Carolina will offer its members a total of nine affordable and accessible day-long programs during 2001 dedicated to health-safety-welfare subject material. AIA members also have access to participate in 22 Professional Interest Areas which specifically target career and practice needs ranging from health care facilities to historic preservation. The annual Summer Design Conference, scheduled for June 14-17 at the Hilton Charlotte & Towers, Charlotte, NC, provides architects a three-day opportunity for professional development and networking.

MEMBER SERVICES: Publications and information are among the most valuable services available to AIA members. Members receive subscriptions to national publications such as Architectural Record and AIArchitect, along with the AIA North Carolina Architext newsletter. Web sites are maintained at www.e-architect.com and www.aianc.org.

COLLATERAL ORGANIZATIONS: AIA North Carolina maintains and develops relationships with a host of organizations which impact the architectural profession, including construction trade associations, state regulatory agencies, accredited schools of architecture and other licensed design professionals.

MISSION STATEMENT

The American Institute of Architects is the voice of the architectural profession dedicated to:

- Serving its members
- Advancing their value
- Improving the quality of the built environment

President's Message

ROY W. JOHNSON, AIA

The winds of change are in the air, and as Architects we will be affected in various ways.

As I write this, seasons are rapidly changing, as they do each year. Elections from the National to the local level are near, with the likelihood of significant changes to follow. At the same time, bond referendums are being voted on that will either help prepare North Carolina to better meet our growth demands or raise broader questions about our capability to sustain quality growth. The economy and the equity markets are changing daily with indications of slowing appearing more frequently. Those of us in the profession for more than ten years remember at least one or more periods of change, which, at the extreme, were very challenging.

AIA North Carolina is on the threshold of change as we bring in a new Executive Director and change our organization to respond to our Member Services Task Force Study. The Study lays out an expanded relationship between our state chapter and the seven sections, which together deliver many of the services that our members need and benefit from. This change is expected to assure that all members receive a similar level of support and information, regardless of where they live and practice or the size of their section.

Change can be unsettling, but it also holds great promise to open up new possibilities and propel us forward to new achievements. The Board and I are focusing our attention on this transition, while maintaining the strengths that we have developed to serve us well in North Carolina.

Our members continue to respond to the call of leadership, both for their clients, as well as their offices, communities and their profession. We continue to expand our services as we see our role grow and evolve to meet the challenges of our clients, as their businesses grow and evolve.

Smart growth is a pervasive issue, which spans business and personal concerns and demands new answers and insights from us. The quality of life in the Carolinas, which is noticed and appreciated by many around our country, is hanging in the balance as we decide our direction, priorities and values and work towards achieving the right balance.

Our strong efforts, over more than ten years, to be politically active and astute have helped us have the strong voice and direct involvement that we knew we were deserving of, and so it continues to be our desire and expectation that we will build on this going forward. The adoption of a new International Building Code in North Carolina will be a key time to apply our skills and political relationships to realize the best outcome for our state.

Our focus on educational opportunities will continue with the state's Continuing Education Academy and sections each having a role in providing the range of choices needed and requested by our more than 1,800 members. Our continued learning ability may be our most critical skill, in order to play a leading role over the long term and compete with the many other voices around us. One example is the many hours invested in learning the technologies which are now givens, but not long ago were totally unfamiliar to most of us.

Public awareness of our profession is another key area of focus. The Value of The Architect video that our members of the Public Awareness Committee produced, and the related materials that go with it, should prove to be of great value to many of us. Our goal now, is to make certain that our members are aware of this resource and make full use of it.

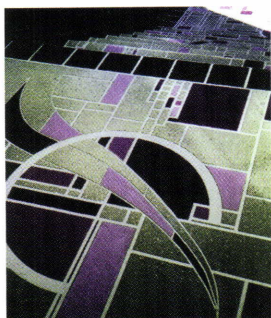

We continue to work on issues of common interest with our allied organizations, including AGC, consulting engineers and various agencies. Working together as much as possible is certainly the best way to overcome past biases and present a united approach to meeting many of our mutual challenges.

The 2002 National Convention in Charlotte, which will directly involve the two Carolinas and all Sections, has the potential to be an unprecedented milestone. This speaks directly to the growth of our region and its vital role in our country today. Much effort will be needed from our membership, with the results being worth every bit of that work. I hope that you will join us in this undertaking and help us realize the fruits of Scott Ferebee's vision seven years ago.

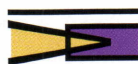

Finally, I want each of you to consider this thought: Whether you are an active, enthusiastic member, or one who reluctantly pays your dues and wonders whether the value is there, AIA, at the section and state levels, is virtually 100% members just like you who are investing their time to improve a key organization that supports a vital profession. Our purpose is to enhance our members' abilities so that they are capable of meeting the needs and aspirations of our communities. We always want to know what you think, what your needs are, and ideally how you would like to be involved with us. There is much to do, but the effort has always been worth it and the value is great. Let us hear from you.

CONTINUING EDUCATION

Having just received the Award for Excellence from American Institute of Architects Continuing Education System last year, AIA North Carolina took no time to rest on its laurels. The Continuing Education Academy's highly successful and innovative programs served to provide 598 AIA members and 183 non-members across the state with a variety of educational programs. These programs delivered over 4,300 hours of health-safety-welfare credits meeting licensing renewal requirements for many North Carolina architects.

ARCHITECTS ASSIST IN CAMPAIGN FOR HIGHER EDUCATION WITH SUCCESS

Everybody knows North Carolina's economy has been booming for the better part of the past two decades. Perhaps less well known is the role the state's 16-campus University system and 38 community colleges played in making it all happen. Without them, the good times might just have passed us by.

On November 7, North Carolina voters showed their appreciation for the state's twin pillars of higher education by voting for a $3.1 billion bond issue. The funds will be used to build new facilities and repair old ones, in preparation for an expected increase of 50,000 students on North Carolina campuses during the next decade. The state's continued prosperity could well hang in the balance.

North Carolina architects have committed nearly $125,000 to a statewide education campaign to help pass the bond issue. Firms that have stepped up to the plate include:

SUMMER DESIGN CONFERENCE

AIA members from across the Carolinas spent the weekend of August 10-13 at the Westin Resort, Hilton Head Island for the AIA North Carolina Summer Design Conference, the premier event of the year for the N.C. architectural profession.

This year's Conference theme was "Taking Care of Business...an architect's guide to doing it better". The programs and seminars were developed, based on member feedback and input, by conference chairman Mark Sealy, AIA, of Charlotte. The Conference was planned to help out members meet the challenges of the everyday business of being an architect.

For the first time in recent history, a special track of programs was specifically geared toward the young architect or intern. Of special interest to this group was the Ownership Transition and Succession Planning session on Friday morning, August 11 and the Interns + Principals Roundtable on Friday afternoon.

Speakers included Charlotte Mayor Patrick McCrory on Smart Growth strategies, management consultant Hugh Hochberg of the Coxe Group on ownership transition and mergers/acquisition, risk management specialist Richard Garber of the Victor O. Schinnerer & Company, economist Robert Murray of The McGraw-Hill Construction Information Group and Design Awards jury chairman James Cabell Childress, AIA, of Centerbrook Architecture.

Cannon Architects

Claims Top Honors in Design Competition

The 2000 AIA North Carolina Summer Design Conference served as a coming-out party for Cannon Architects of Raleigh. The five-year-old firm claimed two Honor Awards, the highest award for excellence in design. The awards were presented in August at Hilton Head Island, South Carolina.

Cannon Architects is led by co-founders Roger Cannon, AIA, and Susan Cole Cannon, AIA, whose partnership runs deeper than just architecture. They also happen to be husband and wife, with two teen-age daughters.

"This is a compelling story of two young architects who take a chance and go out on their own," explains Louis Cherry, AIA, chairman of the Design Awards committee. "Roger was a lead designer with O'Brien/Atkins and helped win several awards for the firm. Susan was teaching at the School of Design at NC State, but wanted to do more real-world work. Now they've proved they can work together to create high-quality buildings for their own portfolio."

The firm was honored for transforming a 1927 downtown Raleigh garage into their firm's offices and for designing the AV Metro production studio and offices near the Raleigh fairgrounds. These projects were selected from a record 109 entries submitted by North Carolina architects from across the state. The awards jury was chaired by James Cabell Childress, AIA, of Centerbrook Architects in Centerbrook, CT.

Winning two Honor Awards their first time out gave the Cannons a major shot of confidence. They're more convinced than ever that they made the right move. "We'd always wanted to work together," Roger said. "But leaving a secure position at a great firm is never easy. We couldn't have done it without great clients like AV Metro and talented young designers like Chris Garriss and Elizabeth Moore."

ROGER CANNON, AIA AND
SUSAN COLE CANNON, AIA

So far, there's been only one small drawback to the Cannons' partnership: "Both our daughters say we talk entirely too much architecture at the dinner table," Susan said.

The Cannons weren't the only big story at the Awards Conference. They had to share some of the headlines with Frank Harmon Architect of Raleigh. The firm captured an Honor Award for a Durham sculptor's studio and a Merit Award for a Parish House at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Hillsborough. The firm, led by Frank Harmon, FAIA, has now won five awards in the last two years, including four Honor Awards.

The Research Triangle Park office of NBBJ Design also made an impressive showing with two Merit Awards. Firm principal Philip Szostak, AIA, was honored for Fairmont, the Rowand residence in Orange County; while the firm itself was honored for the W.M. Keck Life Sciences Laboratory at Duke University in Durham.

Other Merit Awards went to Walter Robbs Callahan & Pierce Architects PA of Winston-Salem for the Downtown Winston-Salem Transportation Center; Kenneth E. Hobgood Architect of Raleigh for the interior design of the Medco Research offices in Raleigh; and Odell Associates of Charlotte for the Fourth Floor Renovation of the Children's Surgical Center at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. This year's award moved Odell Associates into a tie with JN Pease Associates for the most awards in the history of the competition, each with 17.

GARAGE CONVERSION

LOCATION: Raleigh, NC

COMPLETION DATE: January 2000

STATEMENT: The site for this project is a former garage of two bays at the end of an existing block-long warehouse. The space was originally used to wash large delivery trucks. The entire building is being developed into studio spaces one at a time. This project is for an architect's studio.

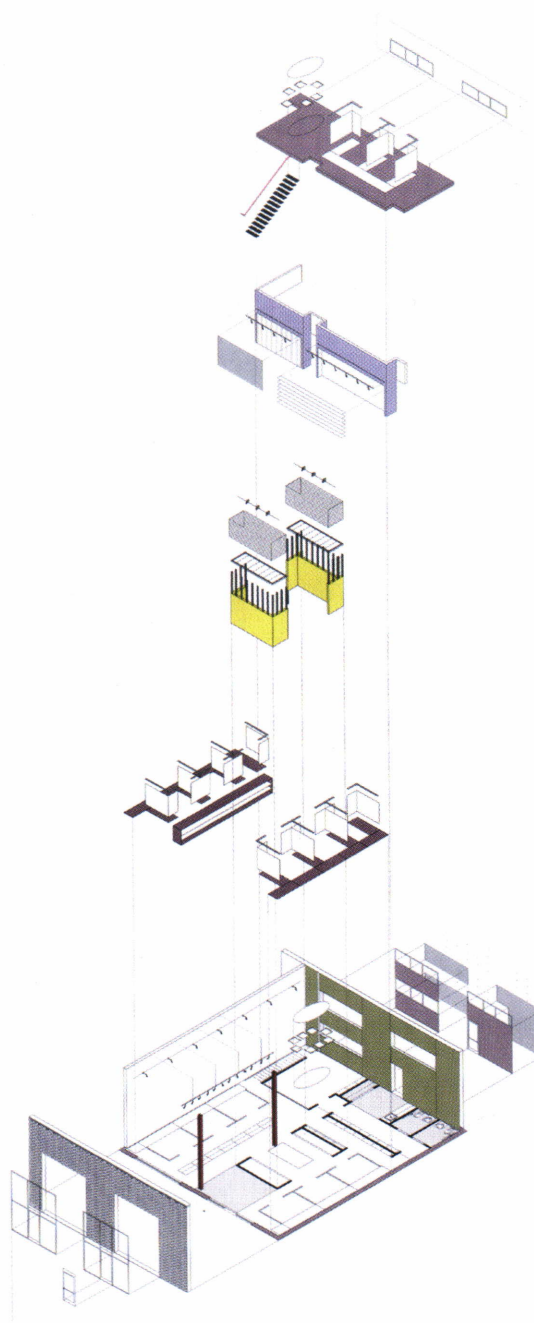

The exterior scope of the project involved infilling the garage bays on both the front and back. The front is infilled with glass to match a standard set by the building owner and the rear bays are infilled with corrugated steel siding and glass. The interior scope involved a complete conversion of the space, including plumbing, mechanical, and electrical services.

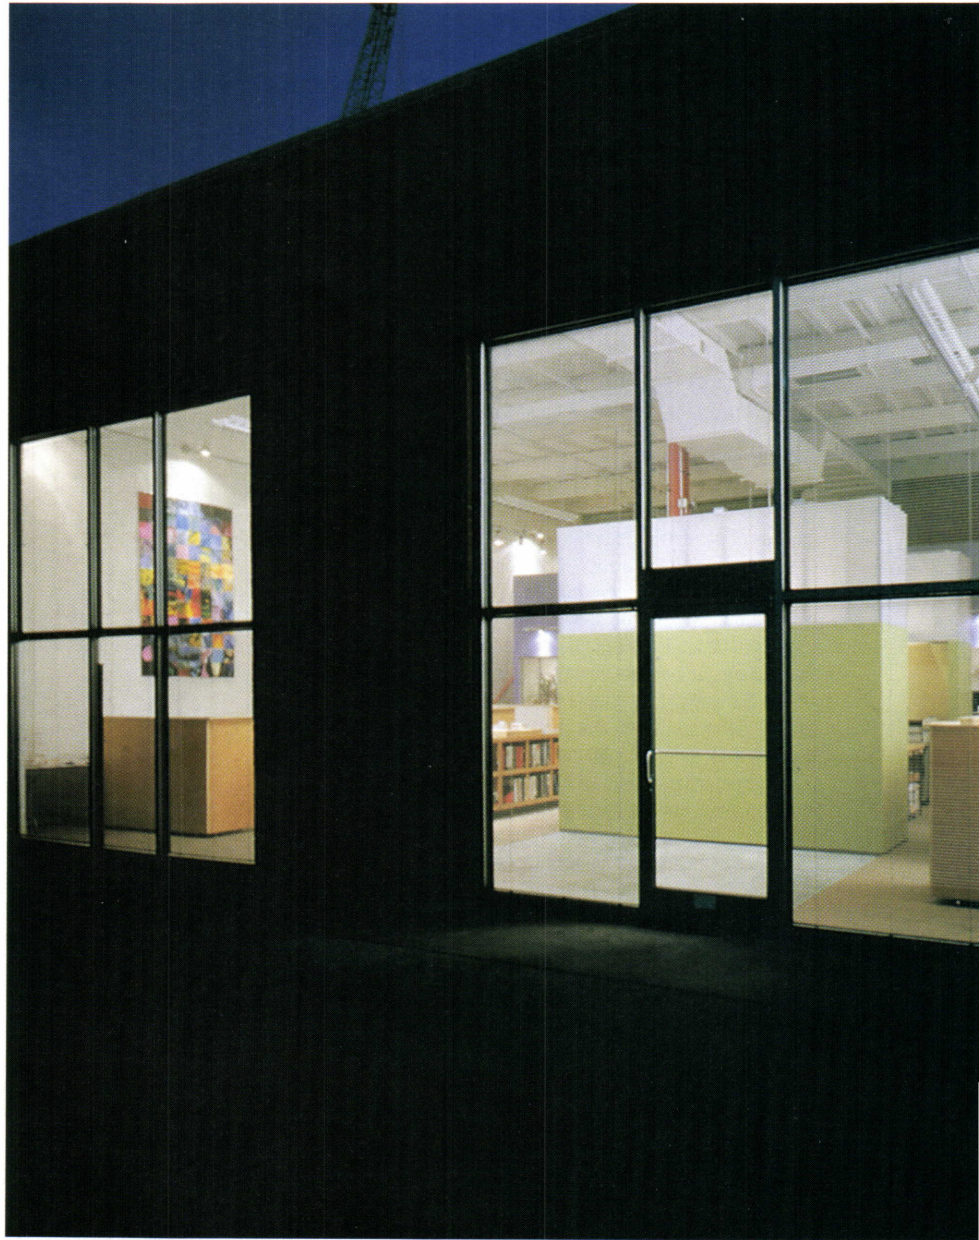

The design divides the space into two distinct areas: 1. open studio space and 2. a service zone. The high bay studio opens out to views of downtown. This space is subdivided by two "lantern boxes" (green in the photographs). These lanterns define and screen a central communal work area. This area houses plotters, printers, fax, storage, drawing layout, etc. between the two lantern boxes. The studio space is on either side of the central area. The service zone is defined by two "solid boxes" (blue in the photographs) that form the conference room, kitchen and toilet area, catalog storage and a mezzanine.

The spatial concept places colored objects within the white volume of the existing space. The clean, white perimeter acts as a backdrop to the space defining colored objects.

TYPE OF CONSTRUCTION: Exterior - Aluminum & glass, galvanized steel panels within existing brick warehouse.

Interior - Sealed concrete floor; clear & white Lexan panels, and maple workstations; stucco plaster over CMU, metal studs & Gypsum board.

Cannon Architects

AV METRO

Location: Raleigh, NC

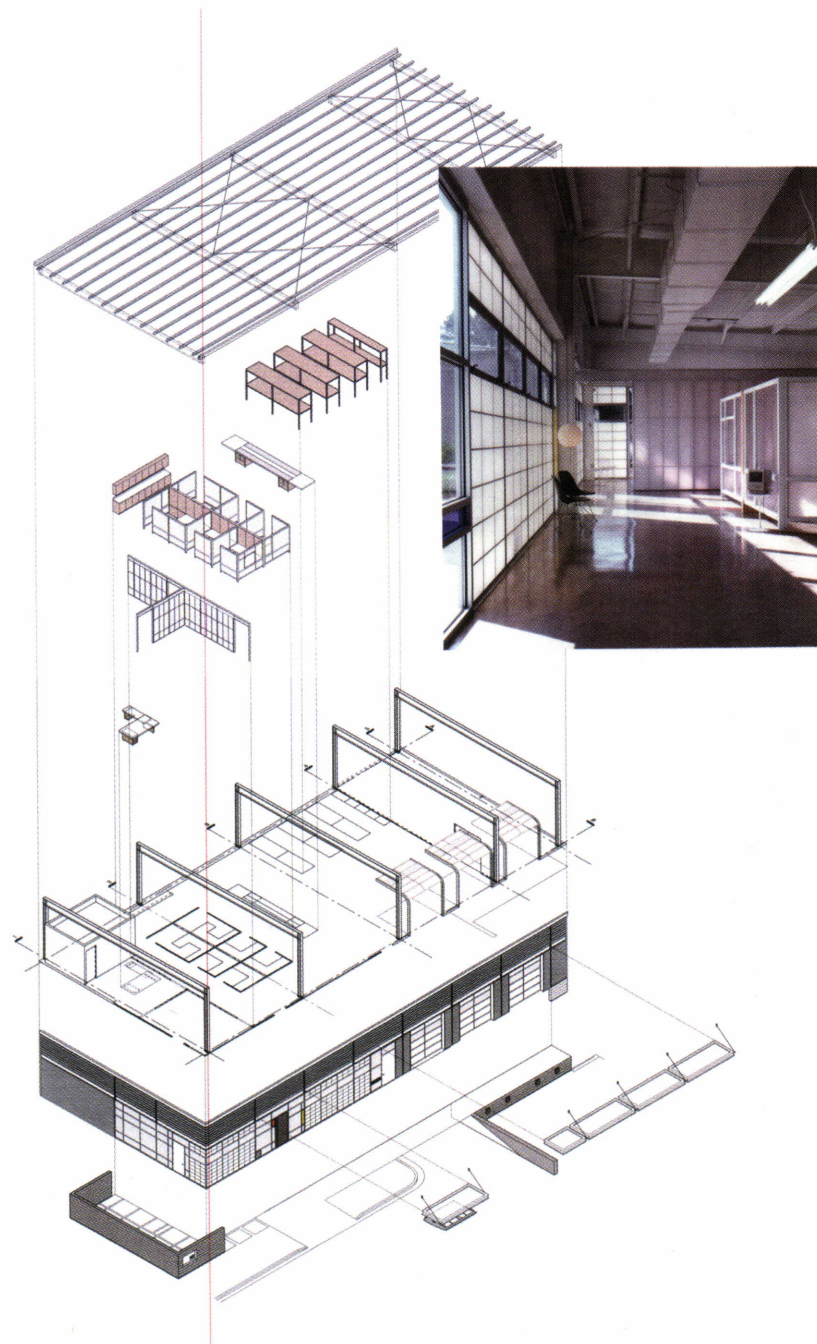

Completion Date: June 1999

STATEMENT: This project is a new 9,500-square foot office and storage building for an audio visual production company in Raleigh. The project is located at the end of a cul-de-sac development of small office and retail buildings. The project was unique in that the building is a hybrid. In an effort to save construction time and cost, the building was designed as a modified pre-engineered structure. The structural frame and roof are pre-engineered components, and the two principle facades of the building are grafted into the system. The standard system of siding was used on the back two sides that are not visible to the public. In essence, the design is about two public faces that form the entry and the back drop for the interior environment.

The concept accepts the box like nature of the structure and addresses the textural potential of the exterior skin. The articulation is achieved through two profiles of painted steel siding subdivided into 15' bays developed around a 30' structural bay. Kalwall, Windowall, clear and colored glass, and roll-up doors with both clear and translucent lexan panels make-up the skin. The white color is both a request of the owner as well as an opportunity to explore the texture of white. Similarly, the simple interior volume and the sealed concrete floor are backdrops for designed objects that define functional areas within - conference/office, workstation, work table, storage and staging. The placement of these elements produces a three dimensional layering similar in materiality to the two dimensional textured facade of the exterior. The interior elements adopt the same palette of painted steel, clear and white lexan panels, stainless steel, and natural maple. Custom designed furniture for the company president's office desk and the office work table are balanced against Eames and Saarinen furniture.

Elements that were part of the original design but that were taken out as value engineered items are the canopies over the entry and roll-up doors, and the garden outside the conference room. The owner would now like to add these items and they will be complete soon.

Frank Harmon Architect

SCULPTOR'S STUDIO

LOCATION: Durham, NC
COMPLETION DATE: 2000

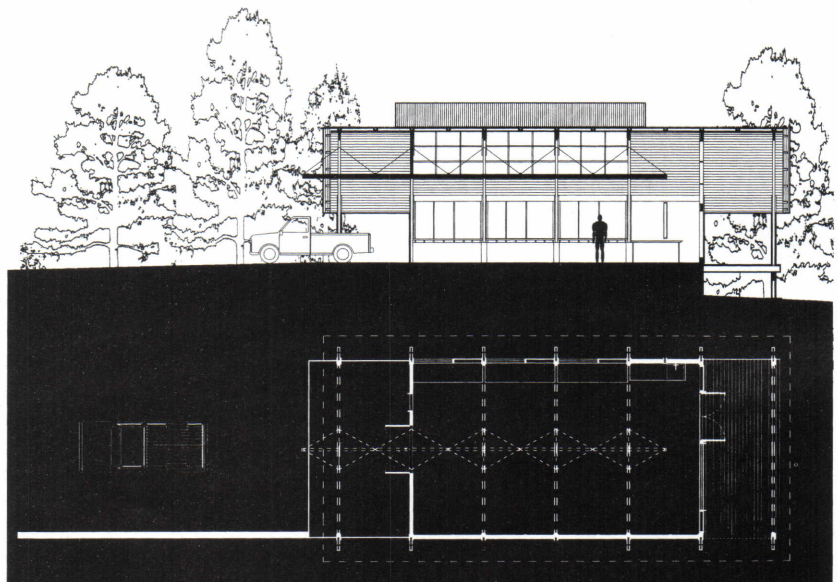

STATEMENT: Our client is a marine biologist and professor emeritus with a passion for art. When he is not analyzing structure in nature he enjoys sculpting in wood and painting in watercolor. In 1999 he asked us to design a studio to be built on a wooded hill next to his home. He wanted to maneuver one-ton logs into the studio yet be able to watercolor with a fine brush in the same space. He would also use the studio as a space for contemplation. Because his artwork bears the mark of brush and chisel, he wanted the studio to express the craft of construction.

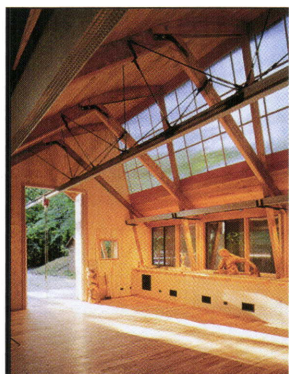

Our office assigned three of its interns to liaison with the contractor on site, assisting with the uncommon construction details of the studio. Designing on site contributed to the interns' education, allowing them to integrate details into the overall form.

We designed the studio with a skeleton of built-up wood frames within a galvanized metal. A monitor brings north light into the space, while a large window and porch offer quiet views into the wooded hillside. We made the frames of microlaminated wood and the roof from 16 gauge corrugated metal used to make highway culverts.

Our client is a pioneer in bio-mechanics and the analysis of structure in nature. He refers to his studio as an exoskeleton, and when he saw the overhead crane rail for hoisting logs he said, "That structure looks like the inside of a centipede!"

TYPE OF CONSTRUCTION: Built up rigid wood skeleton, 2 X 6 tongue and groove deck, 16 gauge corrugated galvanized steel roof, polycarbonate glazing, recycled heart pine floor, rough-sawn Atlantic White Cedar siding.

Kenneth E. Hobgood Architects

MEDCO OFFICE INTERIOR

LOCATION: Cary, NC

COMPLETION DATE: January 1999

STATEMENT: The project is located on the third floor of a speculative office building in Cary, North Carolina. The client is a young pharmaceutical company expecting significant growth in the next decade.

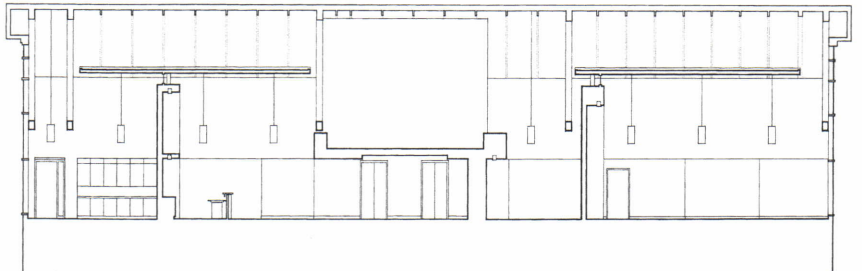

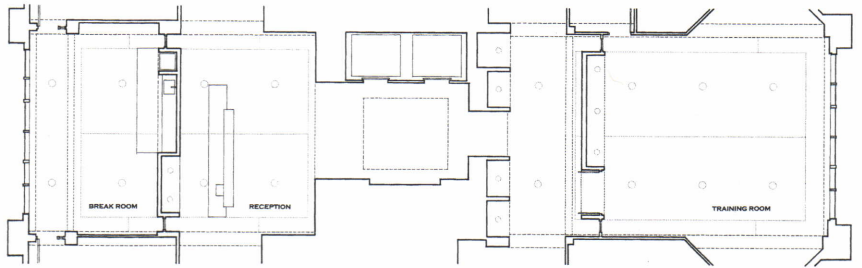

The program required both closed and open offices, support spaces for meetings and presentations, substantial storage for reference materials and files, and a break/lunch room. The distinguishing feature of the shell space is a 30-foot high barrel vault piercing the center of the butterfly plan.

Major spaces were located under the vault to take advantage of its spatial volume. Glimpses around walls and beyond ceilings were planned in this area to maintain the perception of the full length of the vault. Slightly creased, the drywall ceilings are suspended at the spring point of the vault. These ceilings float within the vault allowing the texture of the exposed steel ribs to enrich monumentality of the forms below. Two sculpted "object walls" divide the three spaces along the spine. These walls stand tall and alone, separated on all sides by glass. Natural light slides by these objects, gracing the interior.

Individual offices occupy the majority of the space. A glass membrane at the interior side of the perimeter offices allows natural light to permeate into the interior work spaces. Located towards the center of this butterfly plan, the library, computer room and file storage accommodate the intersection of the irregular building cores with converging shell geometries.

Constructed on a budget of $23 per square-foot, this project uses simple materials, and standard construction. The fit-up is predominately carpet, painted drywall and clear-anodized storefront. Carefully placed cherry-veneer wood panels add color and texture to areas of high visibility. Indirect lights illuminate the open offices while a sculptural reception desk and stainless steel and wood help to articulate the lobby.

TYPE OF CONSTRUCTION: Interior Fitup
Materials: Drywall, aluminum storefront, wood panels, carpet
Lighting: Indirect lighting in office space

W.M. KECK LIFE SCIENCES LAB

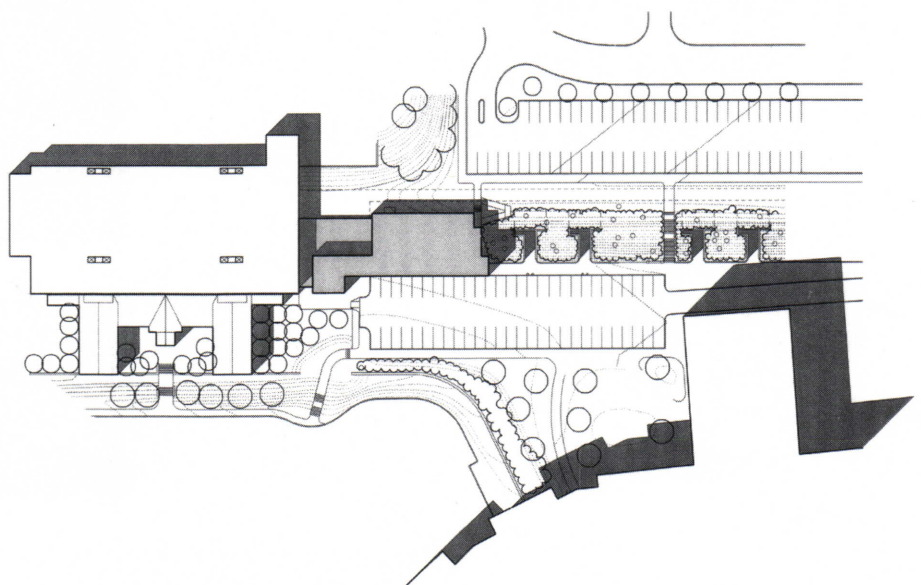

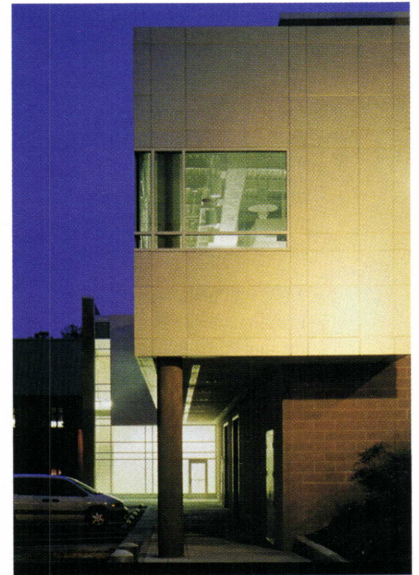

LOCATION: Durham, NC
COMPLETION DATE: 1999

STATEMENT: Duke University commissioned the architect to design the W.M. Keck Life Sciences Laboratory on a steep, narrow site with a relatively set budget. Despite its moderate scale of 14,000 square feet, the lab asserts itself as a campus building by lining the edge of an existing outdoor space, setting the stage for future opportunities.

Through a series of programming charrettes, the architect provided a unique facility. The free electron laser is created in an adjacent butler building and passes through the lab into the gama detector vault. Along the concrete lined beam line, scientists run experiments in an open, flexible optics lab. In the bunker-like gama detector vault, the final experiments are executed before the laser dissipates into the lead lined beam dump.

The cost conscious solution required a simple exterior articulation of the skin. Ground faced block encloses the dangerous research spaces while the glass and prefinished metal panels signify the friendly spaces of entries and offices. The elegant skin of glass and panel is culminated in a conference room that peers into the outdoor space.

TYPE OF CONSTRUCTION: The lab's construction consists mostly of steel frame with concrete retaining walls. The gama vault, in contrast, is constructed of two foot thick concrete walls and lid for shielding purposes. The rooftop mounted air-handling unit borrows chilled water from another campus building to cool the building. In both first and second floor labs, the electrical wiring is run in open cable trays for adaptability. In the optics lab, exposed pipes of nitrogen, vacuum, air and cold water are stubbed out every ten feet near the ceiling for a flexible experiment environment.

THE ROWAND RESIDENCE

LOCATION: Orange County, NC
COMPLETION DATE: 1999

STATEMENT: On a site with panoramic views of surrounding Orange County farmland, the architect was challenged to design a residence to display a collection of art and found artifacts. The owner studied the works of the architect William Wurster and his early California ranch house designs and set the expectation for the house to look like it was designed by a craftsman builder.

TYPE OF CONSTRUCTION: The house was designed to be as economical as possible. The house was built on a concrete slab with traditional framing and manufactured trusses. The siding is a painted, exterior grade plywood with a 1 x 4 battens and site built columns.

RUFFIN PARISH HOUSE

LOCATION: Hillsborough, NC

COMPLETION DATE: 1999

STATEMENT: St. Matthews Episcopal Church has stood on a promontory overlooking the town of Hillsborough since 1826. The church has been a landmark for generations, but its hilltop location makes access steep and difficult. In 1996 the church Vestry asked us to design a parish house for administration and worship and a site plan that would make the hilltop accessible. The Vestry wanted the parish house to respect the tradition of the old church, yet belong of the present.

TYPE OF CONSTRUCTION: Wood frame construction on brick foundation walls.

WINSTON-SALEM TRANSPORTATION CENTER

LOCATION: Winston-Salem, NC

COMPLETION DATE: October 1996

STATEMENT: The Winston-Salem Transportation Center consists of a three-story, 15,000-square-foot building and a canopy covering 16 bus bays. The building is located in downtown Winston-Salem, and the design responds to both the urban atmosphere and the proximal historic Main Post Office, now the Millennium Center. In keeping with the concept of a pedestrian-friendly center, an urban park containing low walls for seating, groundcover, and locust, elm and holly trees surrounds the site. In addition to providing a safe and welcoming place for bus-riders, the facility offers parking and taxi waiting areas.

TYPE OF CONSTRUCTION: The building is clad with precast concrete panels and wrapped with glass curtainwall on the north, east and west elevations. The building structure is steel frame with cast-in-place concrete on metal deck floors. The windows are clear insulating glass units punched in precast concrete cladding, with red granite windowsills. The bus bay canopy consists of a steel frame structure with laminated wood purlins and a metal standing-seam roof. The enclosed bridge connecting the new facility to the existing parking deck is an exposed steel-frame structure with all glass walls.

Marley Carroll, FAIA

Honored for Distinguished Career Achievements

Marley Carroll, FAIA

The architect who designed homes for two of North Carolina's three major league sports teams has received the highest honor the North Carolina Chapter of the American Institute of Architects can give one of its members.

Charlotte architect Marley Carroll, FAIA, was presented the F. Carter Williams Gold Medal at the annual Summer Design Conference in August on Hilton Head Island, South Carolina. The Gold Medal is presented each year in recognition of a distinguished career or extraordinary accomplishments as an architect.

The Gold Medal Award is named in honor of the late Raleigh architect F. Carter Williams, FAIA whose family established an endowment in support of the Gold Medal in 1998.

"Marley Carroll should be remembered as long as major league sports are played in North Carolina," said Jim Boniface, AIA, of Charlotte, chairman of the AIA North Carolina Honors Committee.

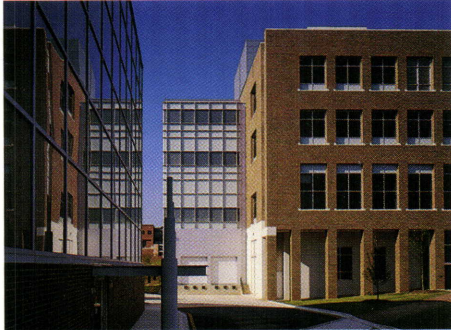

"He served as lead designer on the Charlotte Coliseum, home of the NBA Hornets, and more recently on the Entertainment and Sports Arena, home of the NHL Hurricanes as well as the NCSU Wolfpack."

But outstanding sports facilities are just part of Carroll's contributions to North Carolina architecture, Boniface said. In a career spanning four decades, Carroll put his signature on a number of modern landmarks in the state – The Bank of America Complex Master Plan in downtown Charlotte; the North Carolina Museum of Art; and the School of Design addition at NC State University; and the NCSU Engineering Graduate Research Center on Centennial Campus, among numerous others.

Carroll grew up in Shelby, NC and earned a Bachelor of Architecture from the NC State University School of Design in 1962. He has served as Principal and Director of Design for Odell Associates of Charlotte, one of the Southeast's largest architectural firms, since 1985. As corporate architect for RJ Reynolds Industries from 1980-85, he guided renovations of the historic RJR Tobacco Headquarters Building in Downtown Winston-Salem, which won a national AIA design award in 1984.

In 1979, Carroll was selected to the AIA College of Fellows, a lifetime honor for outstanding contributions to the architectural profession. In 1994, he received the prestigious Kamphoefner Prize from the North Carolina Architectural Foundation for his work in advancing the modern movement of architecture. The Kamphoefner Prize is named for Henry Kamphoefner, the longtime dean of the School of Design at NC State, who greatly influenced Carroll's work.

Lee Nichols Architecture

Leaves its Mark on Higher Education in North Carolina

North Carolina architects do some of their most important work on the state's university and college campuses. Their designs provide background and texture to lifelong memories, uniting students and faculty across the generations. In the public eye, the best of them – South Building at Chapel Hill or The Duke Chapel, for example – become icons of the institutions themselves.

For more than a quarter-century, no firm has left a bigger imprint on higher education in North Carolina than Lee Nichols Architecture of Charlotte. The firm has created modern campus landmarks from NC State and Chapel Hill to Appalachian State and Western Carolina, and nearly everywhere in between. In all, it has completed nearly $200 million of exemplary design for the UNC system's 16 campuses.

That's a major reason Lee Nichols received the AIA North Carolina Firm Award 2000, the highest honor AIA North Carolina gives to a member firm. The award is presented each year to the firm that demonstrates superior design for a minimum of 10 years, with a high level of client satisfaction. Donald R. Lee, FAIA, the firm's founder and president, and William A. Nichols Jr., AIA, principal and vice-president, accepted the award at AIA North Carolina's annual Summer Design Conference in August at Hilton Head Island, South Carolina.

"Lee Nichols Architecture has been building an impressive portfolio of excellent design for more than 30 years," said Katherine Peele, AIA, of Raleigh, AIA North Carolina president. "They have put their distinctive signature on the built environment all across the state."

The firm's hallmark is a dedication to client satisfaction, as Gordon H. Rutherford, AIA,

Director of Facilities Planning at UNC-Chapel Hill attests. "We've worked with Lee Nichols Architecture on a number of prominent facilities on our campus," Rutherford said. "They understand the complex requirements of the University, and are sensitive to the campus context. Their commitment to client service is their most outstanding business practice."

Lee founded the firm in 1969 shortly after graduating from the School of Design at North Carolina State University in Raleigh. Nichols came on board in 1973 and became principal and part-owner in 1980. Other principals of the 30-person firm are Jeffrey R. Sherer, AIA; Aubrey M. Springer, AIA; Jeffrey B. Yelton, AIA; and Nancy D. Aiken, SDA.

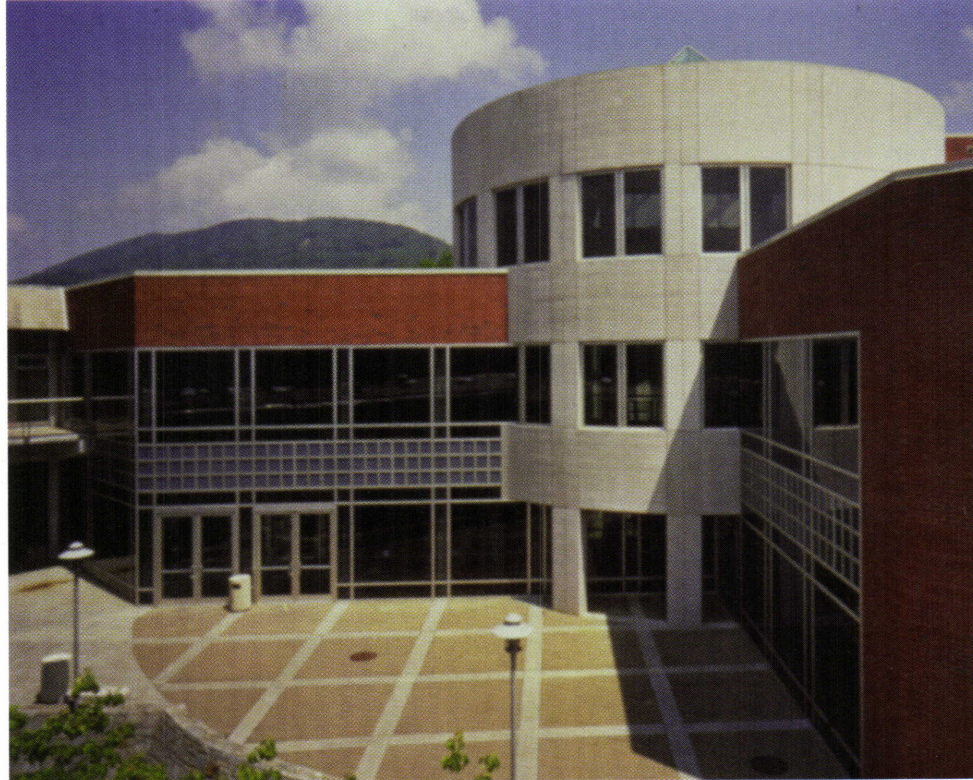

Its UNC system projects include the Plemmons Student Union at Appalachian State University in Boone; The William and Ida Friday Continuing Education Center at UNC-Chapel Hill; the School of Filmmaking at the North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem; the Strength & Conditioning Center at ECU in Greenville; and an addition and renovation of the Carmichael Gymnasium at NCSU in Raleigh.

The Plemmons Student Union is one of only 17 student unions included in "A Reference Guide to Outstanding College Union Facilities 2000," a CD-ROM produced by the Association of College Unions – International.

Other notable buildings designed by the firm include The McWane Center, an interactive science museum with IMAX dome and aquarium in Birmingham, AL; the addition and renovation of the Providence United Methodist Church in Charlotte; Temple Israel at Shalom Park in Charlotte; and the Hound Ears Clubhouse in Blowing Rock, NC.

Charlotte Architect Thomas P. Turner, FAIA

Thomas P. Turner, FAIA, of Charlotte is the 2000 recipient of the William H. Deitrick Medal for Service, presented by the American Institute of Architects, North Carolina Chapter.

The Deitrick Medal is presented annually to an AIA North Carolina member who exhibits extraordinary service to the community, profession or the Chapter. The Medal is named in honor of the late William Henley Deitrick, FAIA, a former president of AIA North Carolina. The AIA Tower in Raleigh, headquarters for AIA North Carolina, previously served as Deitrick's architectural studio and offices.

Turner was honored for his 40-plus years of service to the profession. He is a former president of AIA North Carolina (1985) and vice president of The American Institute of Architects (1990). Turner is a current member of the N.C. Building Code Council, appointed by Governor James B. Hunt, Jr. He also is a member of the Mecklenburg County Building Development Commission.

Retired Charlotte architect S. Scott Ferebee, Jr., FAIA, says of Turner, "No North Carolina architect has given more time, effort and creative service to our profession than Tom Turner. We all benefit from his contributions in the areas of government relations, design excellence in military facilities, use of AIA documents by government agencies, long-range planning and educator/practitioner collaboration." Ferebee was the initial recipient of the Deitrick Medal when it was first presented in 1996.

Continuing Education

NOW MANDATORY FOR LICENSURE AND MEMBERSHIP

N.C. architects must fulfill a program of continuing education each year in order to renew their licenses. Continuing education has been a membership requirement for the American Institute of Architects for several years now. The two requirements are slightly different but compatible.

Here's the bottom line: AIA architects in North Carolina should obtain a total of 18 hours of continuing education each year, 12 of those in health-safety-welfare subject matter. The architect will then meet both the licensure and AIA membership requirements.

State Licensure Requirements

Each year, a N.C. architect must complete a verifiable program of 12 contact hours of continuing education. The contact hours must be in health-safety-welfare subject material. Contact hours may not be carried over from one calendar year to the next. HSW Programs provided by AIA registered providers will be accepted by the N.C. Board of Architecture. The licensing board will also accept an AIA member's continuing education transcript as evidence of continuing education fulfillment.

AIA Requirements

Developed to demonstrate AIA members' lifelong commitment to learning, the AIA Continuing Education System (CES) enhances knowledge, competency and competitiveness. In summary, the Institute's plan includes the following:

- Members must have 18 hours of continuing education per year in order to maintain membership.
- The 18 hours must include 8 contact hours in health/safety-related subject matter.

AIA North Carolina Continuing Education Academy

AIA North Carolina has successfully launched an aggressive effort to provide its members affordable, accessible and relevant continuing education. The AIA North Carolina Continuing Education Academy is the winner of the 1999 AIA/CES Award for Excellence. AIA North Carolina was the only AIA chapter or component in America to win this prestigious award for excellence in continuing education programming and member service.

In 2001, AIA North Carolina plans to offer at least 9 day-long seminars at various locations around the state. Each day-long program will provide six hours of HSW credit or half of the annual requirement. The Summer Design Conference in Charlotte, scheduled for June 14-17 at the Hilton Charlotte & Towers in Charlotte, NC, also provides an opportunity for members to fulfill their requirements in a compressed period of time.

Here's a list of scheduled Academy programs in 2001:

Friday, February 9 -	Charlotte
Friday, March 16 -	Triangle
Friday, April 6 -	Greensboro
Friday, May 11 -	Asheville
Friday, June 1 -	Wrightsville Beach
Friday, September 14 -	Triangle
Friday, September 28 -	Winston-Salem
Friday, October 5 -	Charlotte
Friday, November 9 -	Triangle
Friday, December 14 -	Charlotte

In addition, the seven local sections of AIA North Carolina typically offer AIA/CES programs at their meetings.

Visit the AIA North Carolina web site at www.aianc.org/continuing_education for an updated listing of continuing education programs in the Southeast.

Where AIA CES Records Are Kept

The CES record-keeping is performed under contract by the University of Oklahoma, Continuing Education, AIA/CES, 1700 Asp Avenue, Room B4, Norman, OK 73072-6400. Call 202-626-7353 for questions or comments on AIA/CES records. This record-keeping center monitors contact hours earned by AIA members and keeps track of registered providers. Official transcripts will be issued annually to AIA members.

AIA members may monitor their continuing education progress by visiting AIA Online at www.aia.org. By using a member ID number, members may access an updated transcript of personal continuing education activities.

North Carolina Board of Architecture

The North Carolina Board of Architecture, established by the General Assembly in 1915, is responsible for enforcement of the laws and regulations governing the practice of architecture in the state. A major task is to determine the qualifications of applicants who seek licensure in this state.

The Board is comprised of seven members appointed by the Governor, five of whom are licensed architects appointed for five-year terms. Two of the members of the Board are not licensed architects and represent the interests of the public at large. The public members serve at the pleasure of the Governor.

In order to qualify for a license to practice architecture in North Carolina, an applicant must meet the following minimum requirements:

- An accredited professional degree in architecture
- Three year internship
- Pass all divisions of the ARE (Architectural Registration Examination)

The current board members are Norma DeCamp Burns, FAIA, president, Raleigh; Jeffrey A. Huberman, FAIA, vice president, Charlotte; Kevin G. Montgomery, AIA, treasurer, Durham; G. Daniel Knight, Jr., AIA, secretary, Rocky Mount; Alan W.T. Baldwin, Jr.,

AIA, Charlotte; Vinod Goel, public member, Raleigh; and Kiki Teague, public member, Winston-Salem.

National Council of Architectural Registration Boards

2001

The National Council of Architectural Registration Boards was established in 1920 to assist member boards in carrying out their duties, foster the enactment of uniform architectural laws, develop examinations and establish standards for certification requirements in education and training, to perfect its procedures for verifying the qualifications of applicants and determining their eligibility for certification and establish and maintain reciprocal registration between states having registration laws.

The NCARB is a non-profit corporation with all legally constituted boards of architecture in the United States as members, including the North Carolina Board of Architecture. To be eligible for NCARB certification, architecs must submit satisfactory evidence that they comply with the standard for education, training, examination and character and have been registered by a member board.

The NCARB will, upon request of an individual architect, secure, authenticate and record factual data of the applicant's education, training, practice and character. This record will be forwarded to any state board upon request of the applicant.

Certification shall be given to an applicant holding a council record verifying that the applicant has complied with the council's standards of education, training, practice and character; and that the applicant has passed an examination conforming to the council's standards of content, extent and length of time.

Certification by the NCARB is recommendation to all registration authorities that registration be granted to the holder without further examination. Most board members accept NCARB certification as conclusive evidence of an architect's eligibility of registration. It is, however, not a national registration.

Complete information on compiling a council record and obtaining council certification can be obtained from:

Bylaws

Chartered in 1913, AIA North Carolina is legally registered and incorporated with the North Carolina Secretary of State as the North Carolina Chapter, The American Institute of Architects. The Bylaws of AIA North Carolina serve as an agreement between the organization and its membership. The Bylaws were most recently revised August 1, 1998. For a copy of the Bylaws or questions, please call (919) 833-6656.

Code of Ethics & Professional Conduct

Members of The American Institute of Architects are dedicated to the highest standards of professionalism, integrity and competence. They apply to all professional activities, wherever they occur. They address responsibilities to the public, which the profession serves and enriches; to the clients and users of architecture and in the building industries, who help to shape the built environment; and to the art and science of architecture, that continuum of knowledge and creation which is the heritage and legacy of the profession.

The Code is arranged in three tiers of statements: Canons, Ethical Standards and Rules of Conduct. The Canons are broad principles of conduct. The Ethical Standards are more specific goals toward which members should aspire in professional performance and behavior. The Rules of Conduct are mandatory, the violation of which is grounds for disciplinary action by the Institute.

A copy of the Code of Ethics is available on AIA Online at www.aia.org/institute/codeethics.asp

The American Institute of Architects bestows the recognition of Fellowship for achievement in architecture on members who have contributed notably to the advancement of the profession of architecture. With the exception of the Gold Medal, fellowship is the highest honor the AIA can bestow on a member. It is conferred on members with at least 10 years of continuous membership who have made significant contributions to the aesthetic, scientific and practical efficiency of the profession; to the standards of architectural education, training and practice; to the building industry through leadership of the AIA and other related professional organizations; to the advancement of the living standards of people through their improved environment and to society through significant public service.

Founded in 1952, the College of Fellows includes approximately five percent of the total AIA membership. Those advanced to fellowship can use "FAIA" after their names in recognition of their contributions in design, education, research or public service.

The AIA-PAC is one of the most successful architect PACs in America. During the 1999-2000 election cycle, AIA-PAC raised more than $70,000 from N.C. architects and made similar contributions to candidates for the N.C. General Assembly. The N.C. Forum for Research and Economic Enterprise (NC Free) ranks AIA-PAC among the top 20 corporate or association PACs in North Carolina.

THE 2001 CHAIRMAN OF THE AIA-PAC IS:

Robert W. Ferris, AIA
Shuller Ferris Lindstrom + Associates
214 Burgess Street
Fayetteville, NC 28301
(252) 484-4989

Robert Ferris, AIA

Recognized as one of the most successful architect PACs in the country, the AIA-PAC has achieved high success rates in terms of its contributions to winning candidates and its ability to influence legislation. It has played a prominent role in enhancing the image of AIA North Carolina among state legislators and in establishing architects as a respected source of information for legislators.

LEGISLATIVE SUCCESS

Since its formation in 1986, the AIA North Carolina Political Action Committee (AIA-PAC) has become increasingly successful in the political arena and has been of major assistance to AIA North Carolina in advancing its legislative agenda.

A long string of legislative victories have been achieved by AIA North Carolina in the last decade including:

- Qualification-Based Selection for architects on public projects
- Greater flexibility for single-prime contracting on public projects
- Statutory strengthening of the Architectural Practice Act (G.S. 83A)
- Passage of a $1.8 billion statewide bond issue for school construction
- Qualified immunity for architects as volunteers in declared emergencies
- Clarification of a seven-year statute of repose

AIA North Carolina has also been successful in defeating or altering legislation which could have had a negative effect on the architectural profession. In addition, AIA architects have been appointed by the Governor and legislative leaders to key positions on regulatory and advisory boards and commissions.

MISSION OF AIA-PAC

The AIA-PAC was established to assist the architects of North Carolina in gaining access to state legislators for the purpose of establishing an effective forum on issues facing the profession. Its mission is to work to create an environment in the North Carolina General Assembly and Council of State which is conducive to accomplishing the goals of the architectural profession.

Three specific objectives guide the activities of the AIA-PAC. These are:

- To solicit contributions.
- To make contributions to candidates who will be influential in determining the future course and the practice of architecture in North Carolina.
- To generally educate or inform the membership of AIA North Carolina concerning legislative and political issues affecting the profession.

The AIA-PAC is organized and operated on a voluntary, non-partisan basis to preserve and promote the status of architecture through the pursuit of its objectives. The organization is governed and supervised by a Board of Directors composed of 21 members of the AIA-PAC, with a minimum of one member from each section of AIA North Carolina. Each Director is appointed to a term of three years, with no Director being appointed to more than two consecutive terms.

To maintain established levels of candidate contributions and ensure the continued effectiveness of AIA North Carolina's Government Affairs Programs, AIA-PAC needs continued and increased financial support from members and friends of the profession. Records and information about AIA-PAC are maintained at the offices of AIA North Carolina.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA - CHARLOTTE

The College of Architecture at UNC Charlotte graduated its first students with professional degrees in 1976, the same year Charles C. Hight, FAIA, was named dean. In 1999, the school received its fifth consecutive full term accreditation from the National Architectural Accreditation Board. The curriculum provides a balance between theory and application, and general and professional education. Students may develop a double major or minor in another field such as engineering, business, computer or behavioral science. The curriculum is organized into:

THE CORE PROGRAM: In the first three years of the undergraduate program, students are enrolled in general education and architectural courses. In studios and seminars, which occur each semester, students acquire the fundamentals of visual design, problem solving, conceptualization and environmental influences. The third year studios focus upon building designs that are site specific. In addition, students extend their knowledge of architectural history and technology while having the opportunity to pursue individual interests through architectural and general elective seminars.

ADVANCED PROGRAM: In the fourth and fifth years, students select design studios and seminars in accordance with their individual study plan they developed in their third year. In addition, to the design thesis or comprehensive projects, students enroll in studios and seminars which focus on topics such as design theories, programming, architectural materials and technology, lighting design, acoustics, wood and metals design/making, community design, computer-aided design, advanced studies in architectural history, graphic explorations and other design issues. The Bachelor of Arts is awarded at the end of the fourth year and the professional degree, Bachelor of Architecture, is awarded in the fifth year.

GRADUATE PROGRAMS: A student with an undergraduate, non-architecture degree may enroll in a three-year plus one summer professional Master of Architecture program.

A student with an undergraduate degree in architectural studies may enroll in a two-year professional Master of Architecture program. The final year provides an opportunity for specially-focus design exploration and research.

In collaboration with the Department of Geography and Earth Science, the College of Architecture also offers a Master of Arts in Community Planning.

In addition, the College maintains the Charlotte Community Design Studio in the Center City area of Charlotte. The College's International Studies programs include summer studies in Italy, Spain and study opportunities in London, Mexico, Finland and Germany.

The College has an extensive visiting/part-time faculty designer program that includes numerous student-study field trips and special exhibitions of art, architecture and design.

The College accepts transfer students for advanced standing from other NAAB schools.

More detailed information may be obtained by writing the College of Architecture, UNC Charlotte, Charlotte, NC 28223.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE UNIVERSITY

The Department of Architecture at N.C. State University was established in 1948 as one of two original academic components in the School of Design. The School of Design experienced a long period of development, establishing a reputation for innovation. In the fall of 2000, the department was given school status and the school was granted college status.

The College is presently led by Dean Marvin J. Malecha, FAIA, who was appointed to the position in August 1994. Fatih Rifki, Associate AIA, was appointed department head in 1997, his title is now Director of Architecture.

The School of Architecture has grown its mission and curricular offerings over the years to include programs leading to the following three degrees:

- Bachelor of Environmental Design in Architecture (BEDA)

A four-year pre-professional curriculum that serves as the foundation for the two advanced programs. The curriculum includes a balance of general studies (English, mathematics, science and humanities), design studio courses and architectural support courses (history, technology, methods and theory).

- Bachelor of Architecture (B. ARCH)

A one-year professional curriculum that builds on the four-year BEDA or other equivalent program.

- Master of Architecture (M. ARCH)

Three tracks lead to the professional M. ARCH degree: Track I is a two-year program for holders of the BEDA or equivalent four-year pre-professional degree; Track II is a three-semester second professional degree program for holders of the B. ARCH degree; Track III accepts students with degrees in non-architectural fields into a three and one half year program.

Both the B. ARCH and M. ARCH are professional degrees accredited by the National Architectural Accrediting Board. The most recent accreditation action took place in 2000 extending accreditation of both programs for five years. The College of Design annually admits 120 freshmen and transfer students. Following an interdisciplinary fall semester, students begin their architectural studies in the spring semester of the first year. For information about the undergraduate admissions standards and procedures, contact the College of Design, N.C. State University, Box 7701, Raleigh, NC 27695-7701.

Admissions to the B. ARCH and M. ARCH programs are by application to the School of Architecture. For additional information, contact the School of Architecture, College of Design, N.C. State University, Box 7701, Raleigh, NC 27695-7701.
