STUDENTS LEARN ABOUT ARCHITECTURE AND OUR ENVIRONMENT
Thirty talented high school students from the City’s public school system are participating in a program developed by the NYCAIA Elementary and Secondary Education Committee, Alan Schwartzman, Chairman. The program, under the direction of Carmi Bee of the CCNY School of Architecture, introduces the students to the design professions by visiting offices and projects.

The Committee is also working with the Board of Education to create a series of closed-circuit television programs that will be used for an in-service teacher training course entitled Man and His Environment. Outlines for eight of the half hour programs will be formulated this spring. A workshop for discussion leaders who will lead groups of teachers taking the course will be held in the fall. The 15-week course is expected to be offered in the spring of '71.

100 HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS VISIT ARCHITECTURAL OFFICES
The Speakers Bureau, working with the Board of Education, arranged visits by approximately 100 high school Juniors and Seniors to 10 architectural offices during Easter vacation. This rather unorthodox project for a speakers bureau came about because high school guidance counselors said their students were just not interested in lectures. Reports indicate a big success. Edgar Tafel received a letter from one saying he planned on becoming an architect as a result of the visit. Congratulations to Chairman Ida Webster and her committee. This should be a continuing responsibility for the Chapter.

PUBLIC HEARINGS ON MASTER PLAN
City Planning Commission hearings will be held in each borough to get community response and recommendations. As each borough volume is released, the Planning Department will make presentations to interested local groups. After the borough hearings are completed, city-wide hearings on the Plan as a whole will be held to consider proposed amendments. It is anticipated that the presentation and discussion period will continue into 1971.

Following amendment and revision of the Plan, the Commission is expected to formally adopt it as the official Plan for New York City.

To date, Volume I “Critical Issues,” and the volumes on Staten Island and Queens have been released. The Plan may be purchased for $15.00 per volume in bookstores or through the MIT Press, 50 Ames Street, Cambridge, Mass. 02142.

MEMBERSHIP RECEPTION – A BIG CHANGE
Earnest Fuller and his Membership Committee made telephone calls, wrote letters and put more effort than ever seen before into making the April 16th reception for new and prospective members a success. The results were amazing. 60 Corporate and new members, and most important 115 prospective members socialized and held lively discussions for almost three hours. The formal part was limited to a few short remarks by David Todd, who was seen cornered late in the evening answering pointed questions by guests not in complete sympathy with the AIA. All in all it was the right kind of evening and hopefully will be repeated in the future.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ACTIONS

- Approved the slate of delegates to the forthcoming National AIA Convention in Boston. 91 delegates have indicated their willingness to serve, which, by coincidence, is equal to the number of delegates the Chapter is assigned.
- Approved Earth Day plans of the Natural Environment Committee to design and man a Chapter booth on 14th Street at Union Square and to cooperate with the Environmental Action Coalition in their plans for the day. Also authorized the placing of a one-eighth page advertisement in the Times on April 22 on an aspect of the environment.
- Heard a report on the Scholarship Committee's plans for disposition of the Lescaze Scholarship fund.
- Heard reports on two public relations projects being carried out by Raymond Cudahy, Consultant: 1. Newspaper and wire service interviews of NYCAIA-ARCH spokesmen for local, national publicity on the Training and Scholarship Program; 2. Radio-TV newsletter to over 190 media people focusing attention on Chapter activities.

NYCAIA FOUNDATION INC. ACTIONS

- Approved an Equal Opportunities Committee undergraduate scholarship award of $450 to Julius E. Perry, Pratt Institute School of Architecture.
- Approved the Equal Opportunities Committee Matriculants in Architecture Award for 1970 to John Morales in the amount of $450.
- Approved the purchase of a slide projector from funds donated by the WAA for use in City Schools.

LESCAZE SCHOLARSHIPS

Friends of the late William Lescaze have contributed some $2,000 as a memorial to be awarded to students from the City's architectural schools by the NYCAIA. The Scholarship Committee has arranged for submission of two or three student projects by each school. From these a $1,000. and a $500. winner will be selected. Entries will be received by the end of April and the judgment is scheduled for mid-May by a jury consisting of Giorgio Cavaglieri, David Glasser, Bonnell Irvine (Scholarship Committee Chairman) and Paul W.T. Pippin.

NEW YORK CITY'S HOUSING CRISIS — WHAT CAN WE DO?

The April 5th "New York Times" printed statistics showing that the amount of private apartment construction in 1970 will be the lowest in 15 years (648 units). Subsidized and public housing aren't doing much better. A fall report classified 800,000 units as substandard — one-third of all NYC housing. An estimated 30,000 units are being lost each year. A crisis does exist.

What is the Chapter doing now? David Todd has written several excellent letters to officials in the Nixon Administration. Seminars have been held to discuss new technologies, cutting red tape, etc., but the situation gets worse and demands more drastic action.

What can we do? We can make noise! Intelligent noise! Our financial resources are small, but we can decide which programs should be supported, expanded, or merely implemented and then write to every local elected City, State, and Federal representative and plead for action. Not once, but regularly. Newspaper and TV ads are expensive but they reach people and should be used. The Zoning Resolution should be re-examined. It definitely curtails private construction and that which is being built is far from desirable as urban design.

Let's make joint statements with other organizations and our fellow engineers and planners. Apply more pressure to the NYSAA and the Institute to lobby toward solving New York City's unique housing problems.

It's time to stop being so polite. It's time to exercise what muscle we have. Muscle gets stronger with exercise. Kurt Karmin

RAYMOND ADDRESSES CHAPTER WORKSHOP

George Raymond, Chairman of the Department of City and Regional Planning at Pratt and partner in Raymond, May, Parish and Pine, led the discussion at a March 31st meeting organized by the Natural Environment Committee.

He noted that the solution of major environmental problems is beyond the capability of any single profession and quoted a 1967 AIA commissioned study that identified no less than 216 "categories of ability" that are required in environmental design.

After describing the numerous problems encountered in large scale urban development, Raymond stated his belief that most architectural firms are not capable of maintaining the staff necessary to execute such projects. He said planners are familiar with methods of approaching environmental problems, and their associated complex interrelationships qualify them to act as coordinators of interdisciplinary teams while architects are suited to determine the details of physical environment.

Committee Chairman, John Grifalconi reports that copies of Raymond's remarks are available at Chapter Headquarters.
THE NEW YORK CHAPTER IS PROUD TO PRESENT SIX OF ITS DISTINGUISHED MEMBERS WHO HAVE BEEN ELECTED TO FELLOWSHIP IN THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS. CONGRATULATIONS AND BEST WISHES FOR CONTINUED SUCCESS.

Peter Blake's writings are widely known: Editor of "Architectural Forum;" author of many articles in lay and professional magazines. Books: "The Master Builders" and "God's Own Junkyard".

His own buildings have been described by a colleague as those whose "simplicity and directness ... have added quietly but significantly to the landscape".

Ulrich J. Franzen's record as a vanguard designer is underlined by a long list of awards for residences, university and industrial buildings, and successful competitions. He serves on the Advisory Councils of HUD, Region I, and GSA, and adds to these voluntary duties with service on Chapter and on national AIA committees.

Samuel M. Kurtz has devoted much of his professional career toward improving methods of architectural practice. The national AIA has benefited from many clarifications on subjects such as accounting, fee and contract schedules, shop drawing methods, errors and omissions in contract drawings, and others. Editorship of the "Empire State Architect" for five years.

Paul M. Rudolph's accomplishments are distinguished not only for their originality but also for their evidence of his mastery of construction techniques and his insistence on a fresh approach to the design of each project.

He has published many articles, statements of architectural philosophy, and critiques.

Emanuel N. Turano has won public recognition and professional awards for his designs for the elderly. Citations for the Research and Engineering Building at Sterling Forest, N.Y., and for his part in the co-venture of Kennedy Airport's Pam Am building speak to his ability to combine imaginative design with controls of program and budget.

Robert C. Weinberg, architect and planning consultant, has pioneered in the concern for the role of architectural design in the profession of urban planning. His program in N.Y. University's Graduate School has grown from a single course to twenty-five.

For the last four years he has given a radio program on WNYC as Critic-at-Large.

COMMUNITY CONSULTATION – YOU CAN HELP

Did you ever wonder why there is no architectural equivalent of the Legal Aid Society? There should be. There can be. Several architects in the City Planning Department's Urban Design Group are establishing a workshop for community consultation. The object will be to provide consultation to people and groups in need of architectural advice but who cannot afford to pay. This can take the form of advice on how building code violations can be removed from owner-occupied apartment buildings, for example, or to community groups on how they can establish needed community facilities such as day care centers and play grounds. Anyone interested in providing consultation of this sort please contact Stanton Eckstut or Frank Rogers, Room 1402, 2 Lafayette St. NYC 10007, or 566-0605.
