COVER

For more about Mr. Carter O. Lowance, whose portrait appears on our cover, see page 9.

David Silvette, the Richmond artist who painted the Lowance portrait, has nine earlier works already hanging on Virginia Capitol walls: One governor, four lieutenant governors, two speakers, and a House clerk, plus the "Big Four" group of anti-Mahone legislative heroes. The latter painting, which adorns House Committee Room 1, was completed before the artist's 20th birthday in 1929.

'Harbour an Architect'

Last year, the Virginia Legislature chose to emphasize in revised Architect/Engineer Registration Laws the need for less government regulation. Some people thought that the right of the public to state protection from untested and incompetent designers had been sorely breached. Time will tell whose judgement was correct.

Nevertheless, even proponents of the legislation admit that the professional position of Virginia architects has been eroded considerably. And it is now up to the judgement of the State Building Officials to see to it that Public Safety in buildings is not compromised by unregistered incompetents. They now have the power to require any set of plans to be prepared by a registered professional. So now, public officials have a conscious choice in many instances of taking a chance or being sure that certain buildings have a competent designer behind them. We hope that such a gamble, involving potential loss of life in publicly-accessible buildings, is seen as unacceptable.

Some Virginia jurisdictions have instituted first-call competition in their design service procurement process. In every case we know of, it is with the reservation that price will not be the sole criteria for selection. That latter point is most difficult to maintain in the face of budget pressures, and the results are predictable: less time is budgeted by designers, poorer concepts are developed into shoddy documents, and public buildings are built with more errors, extras, and less quality.

The issue is what constitutes responsible representation of the citizens' interest over the long life of public buildings. Should long-term quality be more important than short-term price? Should the safety of the occupants ever be compromised in the slightest? Fee negotiation allowing for adequate effort of the designer is the desirable procedure in the public interest, rather than shaving the cost of plan development.

Architects for public buildings these days are generally chosen by committees of public servants, whose job it is to choose one amongst many qualified applicants. It's a difficult job, and unfortunately, the use of Federal Forms 254 and 255 have become widespread as a means for establishing the relative measure of design firms. Be aware that these forms call for quantified information only, which puts good small and good young firms at a disadvantage.

Staff size does not a good building make, nor service give. The Virginia Society of the AIA is working on a Virginia directory of architects which should put into circulation a better balanced document for reference than the Federal forms. Public officials will be able to assign work to a broader spectrum of designers than is now the case, and with a better fit as to quality of product and reliability of service.

There has been a noticeable tendency for public officials to go outside the borders of the Commonwealth when they are asked to choose the architect for a high-budget prominent structure. Perhaps this is done under the impression that top-notch architectural design is not available in Virginia. That should not be.

Backed by the ever-improving graduates of Virginia's schools of architecture, Virginia architects have an excellent record in competition for positive attention by critics of architecture. The Virginia Society Design Awards spotlight a broad range of home-grown talent. Considering the large indirect tax and employment benefits which accrue when the state and its counties and cities support their own professional citizens, it's a wonder that any public official would consider choosing an out-of-state designer . . . no matter how enticing his profile in the New York Times Sunday Section.

To choose a Virginia architect is not being provincial. It is in ones own self interest to foster excellence at home.

So remember to rely on those who have passed a rigid test of competence; succor them that they may exert sufficient effort; select them on their overall qualities; patronize those who build the economy of the Commonwealth. Harbour your architects!

In Honor of a

'Virginian Extraordinaire'

In July 1982, Carter O. Lowance stood among friends in the State Capitol as his wife proudly unveiled his portrait, painted by Richmond artist David Silvette. An average man could not hope to stand among such "friends" as those present for this very special occasion. But then, Carter O. Lowance is far from an "average man." Presiding over the ceremonies was The Honorable A. L. Philpott. There were remarks by John F. Daffron, R. Harvey Chappell, Esquire and The Honorable Harry F. Byrd, Jr. The presentation of the portrait was made by The Honorable Mills E. Godwin, Jr. and accepted by The Honorable Charles S. Robb. Quite a retinue! And this doesn't mention those gathered to watch the ceremonies and to honor this true Virginia gentleman.

Known for years as the "Little Governor," Mr. Lowance served as assistant to six of Virginia's governors prior to his retirement. He started on the job in 1947, in the administration of Governor William M. Tuck and retired at the end of the term of Governor Mills E. Godwin, Jr. in 1978. His portrait was commissioned by a group of Lowance's friends throughout the state, and is to hang in the third floor office that he occupied during his years of service.

Over the years, Mr. Lowance has been the recipient of numerous honors, far too many to enumerate in our limited space. To illustrate the esteem in which this gentleman is held, and more, the genuine affection which pours out to him, we reprint below, with the author's permission, the words of Jim Latimer from the program printed for the unveiling ceremonies . . .

The Lowance legend began to grow shortly after Carter Olin Lowance forsook the news staff of the Associated Press to join the executive staff of Gov. William M. Tuck in mid-summer 1947.

When Lowance departed, it was said, the AP had to hire three men to try to do all the work that this coolest, most unflappable of newsmen had been doing.

Some months later the diminutive ex-paratrooper — so soft-voiced, so amiable, so slender — was called in by the governor — so big, so burly, so explosive — for a conference with an errant state official.

Afterwards, the ex-official ventured an indignant complaint Lowance had bullied and intimidated Gov. Tuck into firing him.

The Tuck version, told with a hearty chuckle, was a bit different.

He had decided to dismiss the man, for good cause. When the official pleaded for another chance, Tuck turned quizzically to his chief executive aide.

"I would have no confidence in you, Governor, if you did not request this gentleman's resignation," Lowance said softly.

That bit of intimidation delighted Gov. Tuck. Similar browbeatings also were to delight five other governors — John Battle, Thomas Stanley, Lindsay Almond, Albertis Harrison and Mills Godwin — across some 30 years.

They all discovered that the Lowance brand of intimidation — sweet reason and cool logic, delivered calmly, candidly and with impeccable courtesy — made Carter Lowance, as one of them put it, "the most nearly indispensable man" in all the state government.

That opinion was shared and seconded by the government's severest critics.

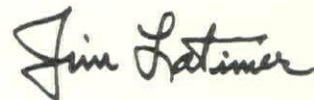

A Norfolk Virginian-Pilot editorial suggested Lowance was, indeed, the indispensable man; it added a new superlative: "the discreetest man in government."

Columnist Mike Houston of the Richmond News Leader hailed him as the "Mr. Continuity" who stabilized Virginia's good ship of state. "An upright and moral sort of Machiavelli," Houston wrote, "or a benign Cardinal Richelieu."

The College of William and Mary, in making him a Doctor of Laws, honoris causa, provided a formal citation: Dr. Lowance, it said, always displayed "unbending integrity, grace, courtesy and good humor . . . the attributes of that legendary person, the true Virginian."

Sometime after Carter Lowance left the executive suite, Gov. Linwood Holton proposed, with the concurrence of a study commission report, that Virginia adopt an executive cabinet system.

This seemed to confirm what six governors had learned earlier: Call them cabinet secretaries or what ever, it would require a half-dozen men to replace that discreetest, serenest, most honorable of one-man gubernatorial gangs, Carter Olin Lowance.

SEE HOW MUCH MORE WORD PROCESSING
YOU CAN GET FOR LESS
FROM EXXON OFFICE SYSTEMS.

If you're just starting out in word processing. Expanding. Or want to start over. You owe it to yourself and your business to see the new Exxon 500 Series Information Processor.

It makes word processing easier. Unlike most, it's not menu-bound. So operators don't get bogged down with lists.

It has an Explain key to help the operator along. All queries are answered on the screen. In plain English.

It comes with a 50,000-word dictionary. It stops misspellings and corrects them. Automatically. You can even teach it more words. Up to 10,000 more. Words that are special to your business or profession.

The 500 Series is the word processor to start with. Compare. We think you'll agree that it does more, more easily, for less.

And what you start with you can stay with. Its modular design allows for future enhancements such as increased communications with other machines, including computers. Additional state-of-the-art software and programmability to handle a wide range of applications.

Seeing is believing.

Virginia's Historic Garden Week

Fleming House
Alexandria

Doors will open on four centuries of architecture when Historic Garden Week celebrates its 50th anniversary, April 23 through May 1, in Virginia.

Where else can you step back into the 17th century and glimpse the early beginnings of our country; enjoy the tastes of 18th century culture; become aware of the innovations of today's designers; delight in the hospitality characteristic of this region.

A repository of the country's most distinctive architecture, The Garden Club of Virginia will open 227 private homes and gardens in 34 areas of the state for this springtime event.

At Belle Air Plantation on the lower north side of the James River is one of the oldest frame dwellings in America. Original heart pine timbers of this important architectural monument still serve ingeniously as both sturdy structure and interior decorative trim. Plainly visible are huge summer beams, expressed sills, wall post and one of the finest Jacobean staircases in the country. Today it has been restored with fine taste and understanding.

Old was combined with new at Salem Farm in Spotsylvania County. The basic structure of this home dates to the late 18th century. It is typical of early Spotsylvania County farmhouses — rectangular, one-and-a-half story, one room deep, center hall, large chimneys on each end. The addition, built in 1976, duplicates the original and is joined to the old by a hallway.

Eagle House in Madison has known many uses since its construction about 1720. Built in several sections, it started out with an English basement, center hall, four spacious rooms on the first floor, corresponding rooms on second floor and a third floor. As a tavern, it was an exchange for carriages and stage coaches traveling the Blue Ridge Turnpike from Petersburg to Staunton. Later a residence, an office for the local newspaper, Eagle House is completely restored and is being enjoyed again as a fascinating home.

Kirwan Hall on the Eastern Shore of Virginia was built in 1800 over part of an earlier house which burned. This one-room deep white clapboard house is a charming adaptation of traditional Eastern Shore architecture, "big house, little house, colonnade and kitchen."

The Fleming home in Alexandria, circa 1805, originally was an appendage to a large and imposing double house. Extensive restoration was begun in 1979 by the present owners. The graceful five-arch loggia, designed in the Venetian manner, runs across the garden facade. Beneath the loggia are two large arches from which one entered the original kitchen and servants' quarters. This house is a superb example of a restoration that respects the character of the house while incorporating in it all the amenities of modern life.

A 1934 home boasting Georgian style architecture is located on Cloverly Road in Richmond. The Sloan home is distinguished by its brick detail over the windows and doors, belt course water table, high ceilings and five fireplaces surrounded by fine paneling.

A departure from traditional styling is reflected in the 20th century homes open for Garden Week.

The O'Leary home in Norfolk is constructed of a new off-white material resembling smooth stucco. The split level rooms flow into each other with a minimum of partitions. An impressive feature is the tower-like bay which rises three stories to the roof and reveals an open staircase.

Every room at contemporary Leed's Cove in Westmoreland County has its view of the water. Built in 1979 on a site overlooking the Rappahannock River, interesting features include passive solar heating, skylight, cathedral ceiling, balcony and recessed and track lighting.

The Hopkins home in Roanoke was designed to take full advantage of sweeping vistas of the valley. The main triple glazed windows face northwest, however, four skylights and a trapezoid compensate for the heat loss. A sliding glass window opening from the cathedral ceiling of the kitchen allows captured warmth to be released into the upper hall. Around the foundation, nine feet underground, four huge plastic pipes store air at a constant 54 degrees and fans spread this air through the duct system for natural air conditioning in the summer or for a change of air in the winter.

Available, free of charge, from the Historic Garden Week Headquarters, 12 East Franklin Street, Richmond, 23219, is a 160 page guidebook giving detailed descriptions of all the private homes and gardens and the 50 historic landmarks open for this springtime event. If requested by mail, The Garden Club of Virginia, would appreciate a donation of $1.00 toward the cost of mailing the large and informative book.

Woodlawn Plantation Needlework Exhibit March 5 Through April 3, 1983 Open to All Stitchers

Needleworkers thread your needles! You are invited to enter your handiwork in the 20th Annual Needlework Exhibit at historic Woodlawn Plantation.

Men, women, and children are eligible to compete for ribbons. All types of work done with a standard needle are eligible. Knitting, crocheting, Bunka, and hooked pieces are not eligible.

All proceeds go to Woodlawn Plantation, which was George Washington's wedding gift to his wife's granddaughter, Nelly Custis.

This popular exhibit, which last year drew some 19,000 visitors, will be open to the public March 5th through April 3rd. The exhibit will be judged by a panel of five needlework experts, including Doris Bowman, needlework and lace specialist at the Smithsonian Institution; Rosemary Drysdale, author and teacher; Hope Hanley, well-known needlework author; Deborah Harding, Needlework and Crafts Editor of Family Circle Magazine; and Ginnie Thompson, expert on counted cross stitch. Ribbons are awarded for outstanding work.

For additional information and entry blanks, call or write Woodlawn Plantation, P.O. Box 37, Mount Vernon, Virginia 22121-0037, (703) 557-7880. Woodlawn Plantation is a house museum owned and maintained by the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

Why Buy a Seat on the New York Stock Exchange When You Can Own the Building?

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 15, 1982—Available for the first time is a beautiful color poster of Richard Morris Hunt's water color drawing of his design for the New York Stock Exchange, circa 1873.

Hunt, America's foremost 19th century architect known for his Newport palaces and his introduction of Beaux Art architecture to the U.S., made a major contribution to the design of office buildings in this country. He was a founder and the third president of The American Institute of Architects (AIA).

The unframed poster retails for $20. Half of the proceeds from sales will be earmarked to the AIA Foundation's $2.5 million endowment campaign, which was undertaken to support exhibits, educational programs, scholarly research and a large architectural drawings and photographs collection, of which Hunt's work forms a major part.

This contribution to the endowment campaign is matched, $1.00 for every $3.00 contributed, by a National Endowment for the Arts Challenge Grant.

To order one or more posters, please send a check or money order in the exact amount to:

The American Institute of Architects Foundation
1799 New York Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20006

Posters will be mailed first class (insured) in tubes.

Located in Washington, D.C., the AIA Foundation is the non-profit educational and research affiliate of the American Institute of Architects. It promotes public awareness of architecture; and it exists to celebrate, preserve and generate the glories of America's rich architectural heritage.

Its headquarters building, The Octagon, is a National Historic Landmark museum open to the public. Major architectural exhibits, such as "Buildings on Paper: Rhode Island Architectural Drawings, 1824 to 1945" now on view, appear throughout the year.

Virginia Chapter ABC Installs 1983 Slate

The Virginia Chapter, Associated Builders and Contractors, recently installed PAUL D. RINALDI, as their 1983 President. Rinaldi, a principal of Falls Church Construction Corporation, a northern Virginia general contracting firm, has held ABC's 1st Vice President position for the past two years. A graduate of VPI in 1961, Rinaldi worked as a construction superintendent for various construction firms in northern Virginia before opening his own company in 1968. Four years later, he founded Falls Church Construction Corporation with partner Alvin E. Vetter. The firm specializes in office buildings, warehouses, shopping centers and other commercial projects.

Virginia ABC's other 1983 officers will be: RALPH S. GOLDIN, 1st Vice President. Goldin is Senior Vice President of the John Driggs Company, a large excavating contractor located in Capitol Heights, Maryland, a suburb of Washington, D.C.

2nd Vice President will be JAMES NEWLAND, Vice President of the Eugene Thomas Construction Company, an Alexandria based general contractor.

Secretary for the organization will be HERBERT M. REYNOLDS, Vice President of the Fred S. James Company, in Arlington, Virginia.

CLINTON A. SMITH, President of Golden Construction, Inc., an Annandale general contracting firm, becomes the 1983 Treasurer of ABC.

Elected to serve on the Virginia Chapter's Board of Directors for 1983 were the following:

Douglas J. Alcorn, CPA, of Alcorn & Cureton, Ltd.

W. McCauley Arnold, Esq. of Cowles, Rinaldi and Arnold, Ltd.

Tony Coder of Davenport Insulation

Charles L. Gildon of M.B.E., Inc.

Ellis H. Glover of E. H. Glover, Inc.

Wayne Holt, Sr. of Holt Brothers, Inc.

Douglas A. Hottle of United Masonry Corporation

C. Michael Hunter of C. M. Hunter, Inc.

Thomas J. Madigan, AIA, architect

Vincent Pavone of Pavone Construction

Larry Smith of L. F. Jennings, Inc.

Lawrence W. Spellman of Trowbridge Steel

Associated Builders and Contractors, Virginia Chapter, is a commercial and industrial contractor's association representing approximately 300 firms throughout the Old Dominion. Comprised of general contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, and associates, the ABC promotes the philosophy of Merit Shop construction — that is — the right of all contractors, union and open shop, to work with one another in harmony based on their individual merits.

ABC firmly believes in free enterprise, supports the principles of Right to Work laws, and of management's right to manage. ABC also believes that every employee should have the right to achieve in proportion to his individual skills, energy and desire for success.

For further information on ABC of Virginia and its programs, contact Ken Cleaveland, Executive Director, ABC of Virginia, 6601 Little River Turnpike, Suite 425, Alexandria, Virginia 22312. Telephone: 703-941-8281.

HBAV Installs Officers, Honors Associate

"When housing is hurting, we all feel the pain. It affects everyone from tree farmers, lumbermen, loggers and saw-millers, to movers, realtors and savings and loan associations."

Those were the words of Virginia Gov. Charles S. Robb following the installation of the new officers of the Home Builders Association of Virginia (HBAV).

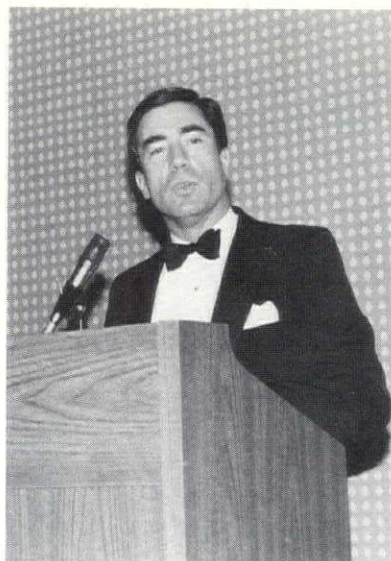

HBAV is a statewide organization of about 3,500 builders, contractors, developers, designers, architects, engineers, realtors, bankers and others affiliated with the home building industry in Virginia. It is a group Robb called "one of the strongest and most highly respected associations in Virginia."

Assuming the presidency of the association for 1983 was Randolph R. Rinehart, a Charlottesville builder/realtor.

A third generation Virginia contractor, Rinehart, at 36, is president of his own firm, Rinehart Construction Ltd. He has served as a director of HBAV for 10 years and has worked his way up through the offices of secretary, treasurer and vice president. He has chaired the HBAV Programs and Education Committee and the HBAV Building Codes and Energy Committee. He has co-chaired the HBAV Legislative Committee and served as vice chairman of the HBAV Insurance Trust, two of HBAV's most active and important groups. In addition, he twice served as president of his local home builder association and he is a member of the Charlottesville/Albemarle Board of Realtors and Chamber of Commerce.

Rinehart is a HOW builder and was instrumental in the organization of the HOW (Home Owners Warranty) program in his area. HOW builders offer a 10-year warranty on homes they build.

David A. Howard of Virginia Beach, president and owner of Rainbow Concepts Inc., a realty and construction firm, assumed the vice presidency of HBAV. Herbert L. Aman III was installed as the association's treasurer. Aman is president of the Northern Virginia building/development firm Hersand Builders Inc. Assuming the association's position of secretary was Richard J. November of Richmond, president of Delami Corp.

In addition, Charles T. Lebo of Charlottesville will serve as HBVA's 1983 representative to the National Association of Home Builders. Lebo is employed by R. D. Wade Builder, Charlottesville.

The officers were installed by John J. Koelemij, Vice President/Secretary of the National Association of Home Builders, during the HBAV Mid-Winter Conference this past November in Williamsburg.

During the ceremonies, the association honored H. R. Coates Jr. of Richmond as HBAV's Associate of the Year. Coates is vice president in charge of residential leasing and management for Morton G. Thalheimer Inc., Realtors. He was honored for his contributions, year after year, to the HBAV legislative effort. He helped the association secure passage of Virginia's Landlord Tenant Act, and also helped the association in its writing of the Virginia Time Share Act and the Virginia Condominium Act.

Gov. Robb told HBAV members attending the installation ceremonies that "a healthy housing industry is a major key to our economic vitality."

"It would be difficult to overstate the importance of the home building industry to Virginia's economy," he said.

Furthermore, he cited the necessity of a strong, durable partnership between government and the private sector in order to provide homes for new families during the next decade, and he committed his administration to working with HBAV "to find solutions to the difficulties and challenges we feel affect us no less importantly than they do you."

New HBAV Officers

Yes, Virginia!

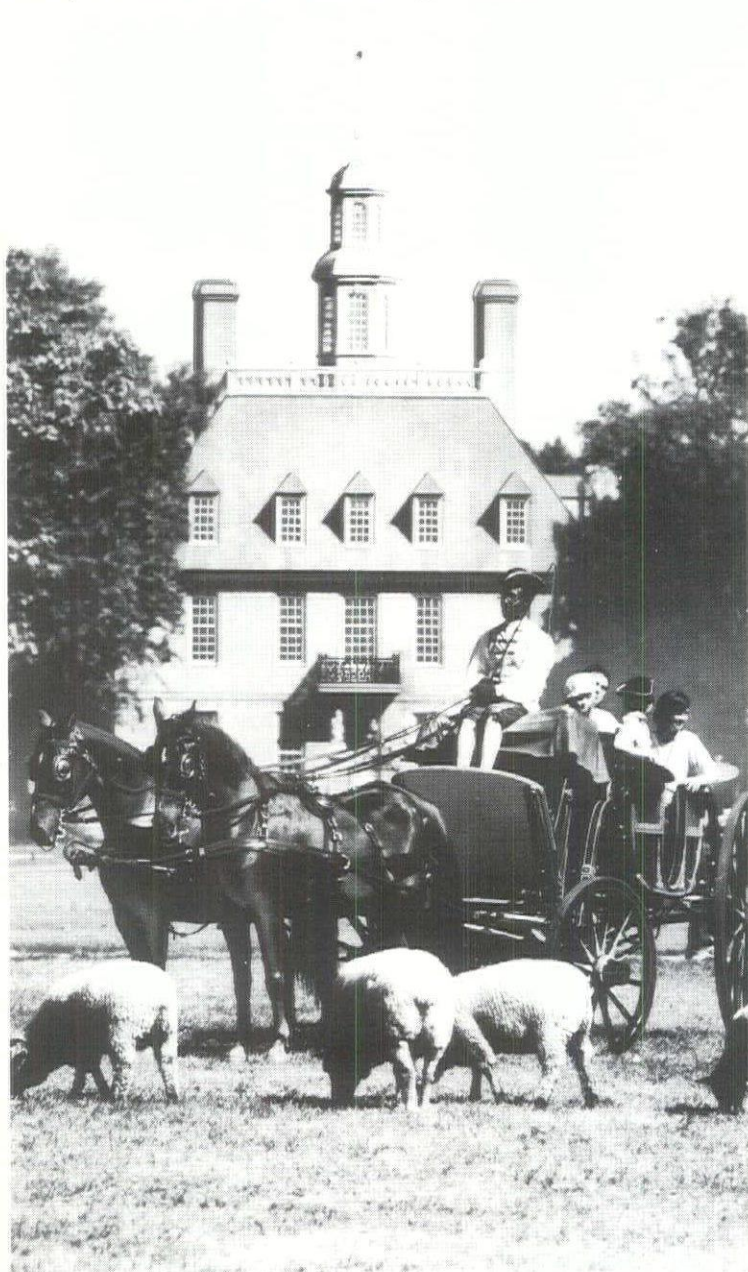

The next time someone comes to visit you, give them a chance to see Virginia, too.

Relive early America at Colonial Williamsburg, the only entire 18th century town in the United States, with carriages and craftsmen and cobblestone streets.

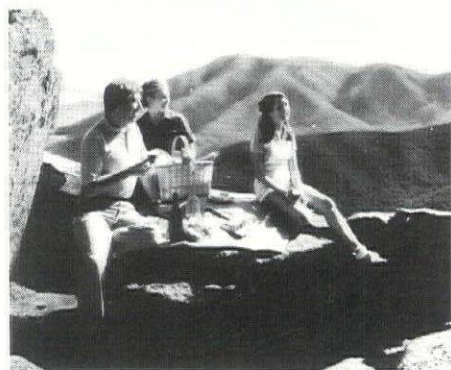

Join in the fun at the exciting ocean resort of Virginia Beach, or enjoy secluded beaches along the Eastern Shore. Drive through the Blue Ridge Mountains and marvel at the spectacular views from the Blue Ridge Parkway. Visit the family plantation of Robert E. Lee, Stratford Hall; and tour the world's largest naval base at Norfolk by the sea.

So much to see and do, from the thoroughbred horse country of Middleburg to the Museum of the Pioneers at Big Stone Gap. From dazzling caverns in the Shenandoah Valley to quaint shops in Old Town Alexandria.

Can one state really offer such a variety of history, mountains, beaches and fun? Yes, Virginia! This year, share it with someone you love.

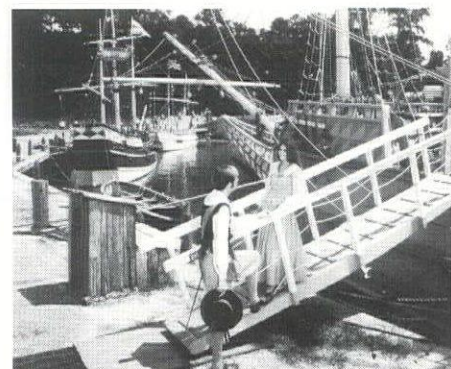

Colonial Williamsburg. Visit Virginia's many historic towns and homes.

Blue Ridge Mountains, with spectacular vistas from the Skyline Drive and Blue Ridge Parkway.

Virginia's Beaches. From the lively resort of Virginia Beach to secluded beaches on the Eastern Shore.

The 1607 Jamestown settlement, one of Virginia's many historic attractions.

Gardner Cited for 'Vision and Courage'

Shockley D. Gardner Jr., executive vice president of the Home Builders Association of Virginia, has received the 1982 Charles B. McFee Award of Excellence from the Virginia Society of Association Executives. The presentation was made at the association's December meeting in Richmond.

VSAE represents more than 200 professional society and trade association executives from across Virginia and Gardner is the third recipient of the award.

The award recognizes "professionalism in association management" and was established to honor McFee, a longtime trade association executive and one of the founders of VSAE.

Gardner was cited for his success in the field of association management, for his willingness to share his knowledge and experience with others, and for his "vision and courage" in his leadership of VSAE.

He joined VSAE in 1973 when he became executive vice president of the Home Builders Association of Virginia, which serves 3,500 members in 20 local associations in Virginia. He has been an active VSAE member, working for growth of the association and for expansion of programs and services to membership. In 1979 he served as VSAE president, and in 1981 was instrumental in organizing the first VSAE Educational and Trade Show in cooperation with the Hotel and Motel Association.

Gardner was appointed to the Board of Commissioners of the Virginia Housing Development Authority in 1976, and has served that board under three governors.

He is a member of the American Society of Association Executives and the Construction Industry Council, and serves on the advisory committee for the State Water Resources Research Center, the Virginia Contractors Transaction Recovery Fund, and the Section 208 Program of the State Water Control Board.

In 1981 he was instrumental in founding the Virginia Plan Committee, a group of leaders in business, the financial community and government. This group has worked to expand traditional methods of financing for home mortgages and to find new methods. He also helped found the Virginia Cultural Laureate, which awards achievement and excellence in all aspects of cultural and business life, and he serves on its board of directors.

Alexandria Developer Named Winner in National Marketing Literature Competition

Mark Center, a project of Mark Winkler Management, Inc., of Alexandria, has been named one of 52 winners from across the U.S. and Canada in the 1982 Literature of the Year Awards Program, sponsored by the National Association of Industrial and Office Parks, Arlington.

The NAIOBP awards program annually selects and honors outstanding marketing literature in five major categories: Industrial Park Brochure; Industrial Park Building Brochure; Office Park Brochure; Office Park Building Brochure; and General Information Brochure. Entries are judged on the basis of originality of concept, and excellence in production, in competition with their peers within seventeen separate sub-categories, based on park and building size.

The 52 winners were selected by the judges from among hundreds of entries, and represent individual office and industrial park projects located in 16 different states and Canada.

Mark Winkler Management, Inc. was named First Award Winner in the Office Park Brochure Category.

Apprenticeship Training

The Northern Virginia Builders Assn. Apprenticeship Program has started a two-year apprenticeship program in CONCRETE POURED-WALL FOUNDATIONS. This is the first apprenticeship program of this trade in the United States.

The program was started because of the increasing number of builders who are using poured-wall foundations in residential construction. To meet the expected demand for more knowledgeable workers in this trade, the NVBA implemented the program in November, with the help of area Poured-Wall Contractors — Star Concrete, United Masonry, Dico.

The poured-wall trade works erratic hours, it is extremely physical work and it is subject to the climate and weather conditions.

Helpers start at $5.00 an hour, with journeyman averaging $9.00 an hour.

The NVBA also has the only four-year residential and remodeling carpenter apprenticeship program in the Metropolitan area, with 65 apprentices enrolled. Forty contractors in the Northern Virginia area are sending personnel to these classes. Classes concentrate on the theoretical and productive aspects of carpentry.

If you would like more information on the NVBA Apprenticeship Program, phone Larry Sexton at 893-6800.

Locations Announced for 1983 Workshop Series on Desktop Computers

EMA Management Associates Inc. has announced the locations and dates of its 1983 computer workshop series. Entitled, HOW TO USE DESKTOP COMPUTERS IN THE PROFESSIONAL DESIGN FIRM, the workshops are conducted by Architect C. Page Highfill AIA, President of Highfill-Smith Associates, Inc., Architects, Engineers, and Planners.

The two-day workshops will feature an on-site computer connected to numerous desk-side monitors distributed among attendees' worktables. During the first day, attendees will see and learn how to select and operate desk-side computers, including how to generate Architectural and Engineering applications using Electronic spread-sheet programs, Word Processing, Data Management and other key programs. The second day will focus on Architectural and Engineering applications in the production of drawings and specifications, and the financial tracking of progress.

Locations and dates are: Houston, February 7-8; Atlanta, March 14-15; Boston, April 4-5;

Washington D.C., May 19-20. The cost is $225 for either day; $425 for both days, or $455 for all sessions including an optional evening session devoted to software demonstrations and hands-on applications.

For more information contact Terri Connell at 1145 Gaskins Road, Richmond, Virginia 23233, (804) 740-8332.

Neyra Industries, Inc. Opens Richmond Plant

Neyra Industries Inc., is pleased to announce the opening of its new Tarconite Asphalt Sealer Plant at 904 N. 17th Street, Richmond.

Neyra Industries Inc., manufactures Tarconite Asphalt Sealer, the rubber fortified coal tar emulsion specifically formulated to protect and prolong the life of asphalt pavements; plus a full product line of asphalt maintenance products (e.g. crackfillers, primers, tar removers, etc.). Neyra also manufactures Tarconite Sealcoating Equipment (e.g. sealcoating machines, spray tanks, storage tanks, etc.) and Dynaflex Acrylic Color Coatings with associated products for recreational areas.

The decision to build a plant in Richmond follows a great amount of geographical and environmental research. Richmond was chosen for its location based on growth potential, transportation, and access to both northern and southern markets. Neyra Industries Inc., will be able to ship from New Jersey to the Carolinas, serving customers within a 300 mile radius of Richmond via I-95 and I-64.

After extensive research, Neyra Industries Inc., concluded that the Richmond area offers the features necessary to the success of an eastern manufacturing plant — plus natural beauty, ideal climate conditions and very nice people.

The Tarconite plant manager is Tony New-some, an employee from the central office who is experienced in sealer plant operations. All additional employees will be Virginia residents.

Plans have been made to kick off the new plant and the sealcoating season with a Tarconite Sealcoating Equipment and Material Show in Richmond on February 10, 1983, from 12:00 noon until 4:00 p.m. Edward J. Neyra, President of Neyra Industries, along with the staff from the central office in Cincinnati, Ohio, will be on hand to greet and assist prospective customers and answer any questions regarding the company, its products and equipment, sealcoating techniques, sales, marketing and advertising programs. Contractors from Ohio, Illinois, and Tennessee will also be attending to lend support and assistance to the program. All Tarconite

ABC Places Priority on Enforcement

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission has disclosed that it is reorganizing its regulatory units and cross training its law enforcement personnel in order to concentrate on what the agency considers to be "the more serious violations" of ABC laws.

Commissioner Robert J. Grey, Jr., who heads the agency's regulatory units, says a merger of the department's two law enforcement divisions — inspection and enforcement — into a single regulatory unit and a reduction in administrative paper work will make personnel more available for priority work.

Grey noted that up until now inspectors had been spending about 70% of their time on administrative matters involving licensees while investigators of the enforcement division had been primarily concerned with illegal activities involving the manufacture, sale and transportation of alcoholic beverages.

ABC Chairman Archer L. Yeatts, Jr. said priority will be placed on "enforcing laws directly related to the purchase, possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages by underage persons.

"We are very concerned about teenage drinking," Yeatts said, "because it not only shows a disregard for the law at an early age, but it can lead to alcohol abuse and the many problems associated with it."

Yeatts, who is on the Governor's task force to combat drunk driving pointed out that alcohol-related accidents are one of the leading causes of death of young people.

Yeatts was quick to point out, however, that licensees are not entirely to blame for the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages by minors.

"I believe the vast majority of our 13,000-plus licensees are in compliance with the law, and others are making a genuine attempt to abide by it," he said.

"Additionally, I realize it is a difficult problem. Some of the young people are very clever at altering identification cards and using other methods in their efforts to purchase alcoholic beverages.

"However, licensees should not sell to a person if they have any reason to believe he or she is under age.

"When they do so, they put their license in jeopardy."

Additionally, Yeatts said some adults are contributing to the problems associated with underage drinking by purchasing alcoholic beverages for minors. He noted that since the ABC Department had installed a toll free line for citizens to report suspected violations of ABC laws, more than 50% of the callers have complained about sales to minors.

"If anyone knows or suspects that alcoholic beverages are being made available to minors, please call us," Yeatts advised. "Our toll free number is 1-800-552-3200.

"All complaints will be investigated and all callers will remain anonymous, if they so desire," said Yeatts. He also noted that "enforcement action will occur only if a violation is observed or if there is evidence that a violation has occurred."

Yeatts said that the department has received a great many requests from school systems for pieces of literature on its Minors Awareness Program.

The department's Minors Awareness Program helps educate young people on the state's legal drinking ages and encourages them to know, obey and respect the laws of the Commonwealth.

Under the reorganization, the department's inspection and enforcement divisions, along with the agency's security section and its license processing unit, are being consolidated into a single regulatory unit.

The department's hearing unit, which regularly hears cases involving contested applications and disciplinary matters, will be elevated to division status and will form a separate unit from the license administration system. Hearing officers had been a part of the License Division. "Because it is a quasi-judicial unit, we feel the hearing officers should not have direct ties to the operations of other regulatory functions," Grey said.

Grey said the agency's law enforcement personnel will be known as "special agents" and will be cross trained so that each agent will be fully trained in all aspects of regulatory's activities.

"Cross training our agents will permit us to deploy appropriate manpower, equipment and skilled personnel to those areas where certain activities demand our attention," Grey said.

"Cross training will also reduce the number of licensees assigned to each agent. And the cross training, coupled with the streamlining of our reporting procedures, will enable us to devote considerably more time to priority work, primarily laws dealing with minors, intoxicated persons, illegal public drinking and associated disorders.

"With the sizable increase in the number of licensees, particularly banquet licensees, we felt we could do a better job of monitoring licensees and providing a service to them by consolidating our inspection and enforcement divisions," Grey said.

Even though the department's investigators (former title) will be heavily involved in matters involving licensees, Grey said that there will be no lessening of efforts to curb the illegal manufacture of whiskey nor will there be a reduction in ABC's efforts to stop the illegal transportation of alcoholic beverages into the state. In some areas of the state, according to Grey, these are major problems; in other areas, they are not.

"We will set our priorities, accordingly," Grey said.

"We reexamined our regulatory units because we want to make sure that we were meeting the needs of the people. I am convinced that the reorganization will enable us to be much more effective in dealing with matters that are of major concern to all of us."

Color

Who could disagree that color is an integral part of design? And whether your design calls for a wide range of color or a narrow range of color, BELDEN Brick covers the spectrum. The largest selection of color in the industry, from dusty pinks to light orange to deep reds and blacks. Over 200 variations of brick, including color, texture, and size, help to enhance your design ingenuity.

is the natural balance between architecture and nature

VCU Girls' Dormitory Va. Commonwealth University
Architect: Lee, King, & Poole

Interior imagination! Add nature's own warmth with the rich, natural texture of Buckingham Slate® Result—smart contemporary design endowed with timeless dignity and enduring traditional values. Pleasing, comfortable beauty!

Flair, too. The floating airiness of stairs in slate is just one challenging design-in-slate idea!
