File twice as many drawings in half the usual floor space.
And find them in less than half the usual time.

Introducing the new Alpia cabinet filing system. Vertical concept cabinets that hold many times more drawings than conventional, massive flat drawer cabinets, plus offer faster, easier location of each drawing.

There are 8 cabinet models available, each only 18 inches deep, yet capable of holding from 1200 to 2400 drawings. And with the color coded, simple indexing system in the top door, you can locate any drawing within an average of 25 seconds. So in a relatively small space, perhaps against a wall in your office or an area where you'd never fit a flat file, you enjoy higher capacity and highly convenient filing.

The key to the vertical cabinet is strong Mylar Suspension Strips that attach to finished drawings so they can easily be mounted on the cabinet's chrome-plated steel pins. Since these Mylar strips will pass through blue line machines, they are permanently attached to drawings for refiling. Of course, if your finished drawing is already on Mylar, you can simply punch the top with an Alpia perforator and file. Even smaller documents can be filed in Alpia Pockets.

Designed to fit flush against a wall, the cabinet itself is steel reinforced and features safe, two phase opening with a balanced top door and supported front panel door. Telescoping front supports prevent the cabinet from tipping when the door is opened, which means the cabinets don't have to be bolted to your wall.

Special quality construction includes double turned steel edges to eliminate cuts and snags. Texture-stamped steel surface avoids fingerprints.

Now you can save filing space, store more drawings and reduce time locating drawings with Alpia cabinets.

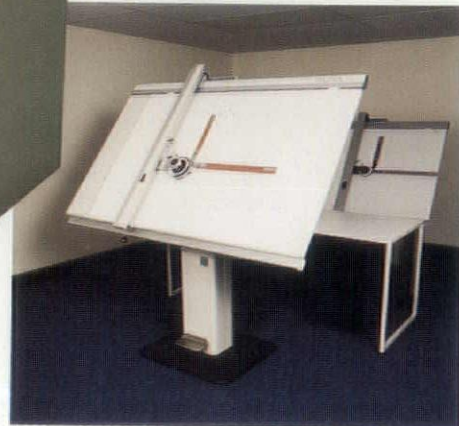

You can also upgrade your drafting facilities with the unique Alpia line of fully adjustable Drafting Tables.

Stable and highly accurate with an assortment of drafting machines, each Alpia drafting table features a foot pedal which lets you adjust height. And a hand lever allows you to adjust the tilt angle.

More than furniture, these drafting tables are tools...tools that bring the work to you for comfortable, faster productivity.

For a free brochure on our new space saving Filing Cabinets or fully adjustable Drafting Tables, contact Alpia, 13507 East Boundary Road, Suite A, Midlothian, VA 23113, 1-804-744-5188.

'Eeny-Meeny-Miny-Mo . . .' (What You Reap is What You Sow)

Much has been written and many political battles have been fought over the subject of the selection process for choosing design professionals for a government project. The last word will probably never be said on this subject, as it is anchored between short-range and long-range policies. I shall try to shed some light on the issue as I see it, opting for a process which will tilt to the long-range benefits to a community. Short-range is usually short sighted.

Disregarding politics and budgetary influences, most people would agree that public buildings should incorporate the following characteristics:

1. They should be designed by the best local professional talent available, so as to . . .
2. express the Leadership, Inspirational and Dependability roles of government—"flagships," as it were;
3. reflect the project's intended use visually;
4. be built of materials which are both appropriate and suitably long-wearing;
5. fit into the context of their situation;
6. satisfy all their constituencies—commissioning agency, using agency and using public;
7. be easily maintained and require the least operating staff;
8. be flexible of arrangement and expandable if that be a potential need;
9. incorporate the technology of the moment and anticipate the technology of the future; and
10. be reasonable in cost for a first-line building.

The effect of Budget on choice of design firm should eliminate those firms who only do cheap work and those who consistently design over budget. The middle 75% should be able to design to a budget equally well.

When one considers the effect of Politics on selection, one has to contend with three different kinds:

1. The personal relationships between non-elected government personnel and specific design firms. (or their friends.)
2. The personal relationship between elected officials and specific design firms. (or their friends.)
3. The known political party activities of specific design professionals. (or their friends.)

It is relatively simple to divorce the influences of 2. and 3. from the selection process; just leave the choice up to Staff! It is more difficult to contend with 1., because the people who must judge technical competence are the very people who will be apt to have personal friendships established amongst design professionals. The current most favored method of combating staff bias is to appoint a revolving Selection Committee. This group sets up a numerical ranking chart of a number of "key" characteristics of design firms, and through study of 254s and brochures, and interviews, builds a Number for each firm. The firm with the highest Number is chosen for the work.

This method might seem on the surface to be reasonable, except that the criteria chosen for ranking are all too often irrelevant and are given equal weight one to another. There is absolutely no correlation between good public buildings and the size of the design firm which did them; no correlation on in-house consultants versus independent consultants; previous year's gross earnings; previous experience on a building type not requiring specialized knowledge (maybe the firm excels in very bad examples of a type!); possession of a computer (does someone in the firm really know how to use it?). Past experience with the commissioning agency bears only on the designer's familiarity with the agency's modus operandi. Building quality enters not into this criterion, only staff convenience!

The criteria of real value take more work to discover:

1. have the professionals' clients liked their work?
2. do their buildings stand up over time—visually, functionally and operationally?
3. What do fellow professionals think of the firm?
4. What is the firm's track record on suits, claims and insurance payouts?
5. Has the firm been given any significant honors or recognition for their performance as designers?
6. Have they produced work of comparable size and complexity?
7. Have they done number 6. on time and on budget?

Most of this information can only be developed by getting in touch with the designer's references. That takes much staff time and effort. Therefore, it is too often left as a cursory and final checkout after a selection has been narrowed to a few, via the statistical total process.

One recognizes the difficulty of sorting out from among dozens or even hundreds of apparently qualified firms the ONE most qualified! Ask yourself how you might go about the selection process in a fair manner were you charged with making a firm choice!

Some would solve the dilemma by asking designers to bid on work, just as contractors do. However, the very process of bidding forces the designer to pare his effort to the bone, cutting out time from a process which cannot really be pre-measured beforehand because the scope of the work is NEVER absolutely set, as it is in bid documents given contractors. The long-range goals enumerated in the second paragraph are entirely undercut. Least cost design results invariably in far more costly extras during construction, and a finished product fraught with hidden and expensive time bombs.

For myself, I favor two methods as generating the best design for the long-term benefit to a community. Both take more lead-time and staff effort than looking through a file full of 254s and glossy office brochures. Either should develop suitable designers of quality.

The first is a version of the Brooks Bill selection process, modified to avoid the quantification criteria built into the Federal 254 Form. It involves systematic early telephonic checks on a list of ready current references supplied by the designer—builders of his work, clients, users, consultants, bankers, and insurers, etc. The second method is a limited (invitees chosen by the method outlined above) design competition held under the AIA's guidelines for limited competitions. There is a booklet available—ask the Virginia Society AIA about one.

The limited competition generates some demonstration on the designers part, before-the-fact, of his ability and stock of ideas. It provides a choice not only of firm but design approach. It should only be done when the agency is prepared to pay the losing participants for their time and effort in providing the agency with serious alternate choices (a very valuable service!). If the losers are not reimbursed for their effort, only very large firms whose overhead can stand the strain will participate, and the agency will have defeated the very purpose of a competition by automatically eliminating the most creative and responsive firms.

"Business as usual" will most likely rule the game for years to come. Established methods are very difficult to alter. But if you are dissatisfied with the character, appearance, function, or operating efficiency of the public buildings in your area, the first corrective step is to get a design selection process which chooses the best.

'Plug Into the System'by Marvin J. Cantor, AIA*

Yet another legislative session has descended upon us and we must now reexamine our priorities to see if budgeting our time will maximize our efficiency in developmental procedures for instrumentizing our architectural documents! If you think I know what I just said, you give me much more credit for lucidity than I merit or deserve—I have merely tried to acclimate myself to the legislative process which produces verbiage, invents new words when it feels the urge, and in the end—produces a molehill from a mountain.

Marvin J. Cantor, proprietor of the Fairfax, Virginia architectural office, Marvin J. Cantor, AIA & Associates, is a former president of the Northern Virginia Chapter, AIA. Cantor is currently chairman of the Virginia Society, AIA Public Relations Committee.

Whenever a group gets together for problem solving, it seems that a solution develops which neither solves the problem nor pleases anyone. But in the absence of a better system, our form of democracy, to paraphrase Winston Churchill, seems to be about the best form of government around. So, it behooves us to plug ourselves into the system with all the enthusiasm and verve we can muster. Instead of complaining (which is only a form of whining self-expression that accomplishes little, if anything), or making sarcastic observations (like your present writer did at the outset of this essay), write short, pithy and pungent epistles to your legislator—or any legislator. Do this often—someone at the other end reads it, and the more often it's done, the more of a subliminal feeling develops at "the other end" relative to a particular topic. And if you really want attention to your opinions, attach a piece of negotiable paper (that's "contribution" as in "money") to an epistle sent a few months before the next election. Don't make it payable to the legislator—that would be a bribe! Make it payable to his or her campaign committee. While this may still seem to be a bribe, it's not. Think of it as a "permit fee" for having your views examined by someone in a position to do something about it. It's also tax deductible—actually a credit against your taxes, which is even better—up to $50 (or $100 if a joint return).

The only thing better than this is to become a politico yourself—and we have had several Society members do just that. Being an architect doesn't automatically preclude one from being a politician.

94% OF OUR NATION'S HIGHWAYS ARE PAVED WITH ASPHALT . . . and for a lot of good reasons.

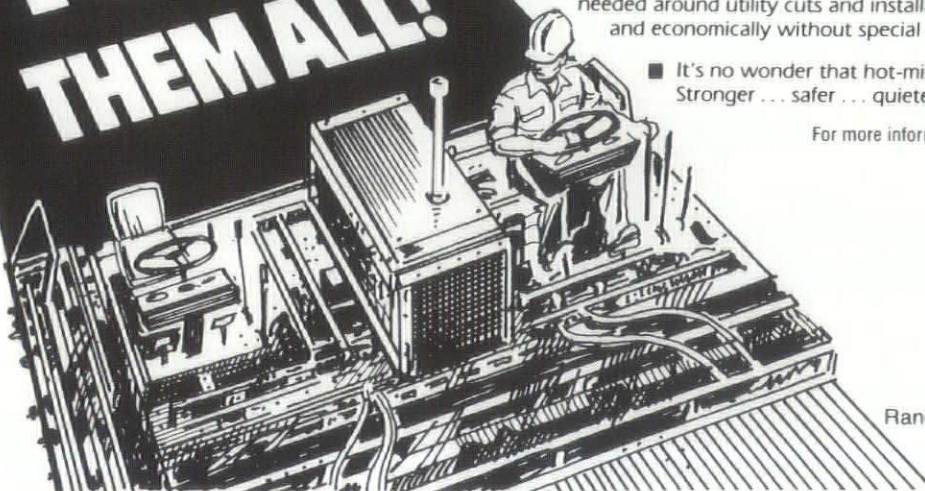

- Asphalt's versatility permits construction at just the right thickness to meet the needs of any paving project. Construction is fast and economical and the results are long-lasting.
- Smooth, joint-free asphalt results in superior riding qualities that other surfaces just cannot equal. Fuel consumption and tire wear are greatly reduced. "Black top" creates less glare, greater marking visibility, quicker melting of snow and ice.
- Asphalt is noted for its low maintenance costs—and when repairs are needed around utility cuts and installations they can be accomplished quickly and economically without special expensive equipment.
- It's no wonder that hot-mix asphalt is the most sensible choice. Stronger . . . safer . . . quieter . . . and 100% recyclable.

Save Bucks and BTU's!

In developing housing for today's market, you can't help but be concerned about the long-term costs associated with energy and maintenance. Naturally, these considerations are going to play a vital role in the design, construction, and marketing of your multi-family housing. So, consider Binning's.

Binning's Thermalized aluminum windows and sliding glass doors are designed to save energy without sacrificing style. And, long-term maintenance costs are almost nonexistent. These are savings you can measure in bucks and BTU's. With Binning's, you can build attractive and comfortable multi-family housing that's economical for your buyers or renters, and profitable for you.

For more information, contact: Binning's P.O. Box 868, Lexington, NC 27292. Phone: 704/249-6161

Quiet please. We're giving plenty of peace and quiet to America's great Bald Eagle. Recently, we donated 539 acres in Delaware's Great Cypress Swamp to The Nature Conservancy. This tract of land shelters a nest of bald eagles and also harbors the headwaters of the Pocomoke River, a National Wild and Scenic River. This donation makes it possible for the eagles to roost undisturbed and protects the river, too. Chesapeake has also set aside acres in Virginia's Northern Neck to preserve a Heron Rookery. And we donated more than 100 acres of land to the Boy Scouts in Goochland County, Virginia. As a company that makes its business from healthy forestland, it's only fitting that we should protect the forest's rarest creatures—whatever the species.

Historic Garden Week Reveals Architecture in Virginia

by Charlotte Taylor Massie

The history of architecture in Virginia will be revealed when The Garden Club of Virginia opens over 200 homes in 34 areas of the state for Historic Garden Week, April 21 through April 29.

In the Northern Neck section, a visit to Hurstville, located on the Chesapeake Bay and Balls Creek, is a step back into the 17th century. This one-and-a-half story planter's house is believed to have been built between 1651 and 1683. The charming dwelling was restored in 1941 by Mrs. Alfred I. duPont, the former Jessie Ball of Northumberland County.

Mansfield in Petersburg was built about 1760. A two room story-and-a-half house, additions were built at both ends and eight fluted columns were added across the front porch.

When the two-story house with full basement and garret was built on Princess Anne Street in Fredericksburg, it was Federal in style. A seven room addition was built in 1846 and the structure then became symmetrically Georgian in style and 110 feet in uninterrupted length. It is being extensively and carefully restored by its present owner.

The massive Romanesque Revival style house at 4500 Victoria Boulevard in Hampton is outstanding even on a wide street with architecturally interesting residences. Completed in 1902, the rotund porch and turrets reflect La Belle Epoch features.

The beautifully crafted Wilson House in Ft. Defiance was built by the parents of the present owners. It is an excellent reproduction of a Connecticut River Valley Saltbox style house.

The solar home on Quarry Road in Lynchburg was constructed in 1981. Designed to complement its unique setting, the three-story contemporary house rises from the bottom of an abandoned granite quarry. Sited for maximum exposure to the sun, it blends with nature and its surroundings. Vertical exterior siding of Vermont barn boards, weathered to blend with the color of the quarry stone, highlights the uplifting effect of the architectural design.

Among the 200 homes open for Historic Garden Week are Colonial mansions, intimate country cottages, town houses in older sections of Virginia cities that have had new life brought into them through a skillful blend of old and new, and contemporary homes with clean lines and simple details.

The interesting sequence from house to house gives visitors ideas of what they appreciate in the four centuries of building in Virginia.

The Garden Club of Virginia's guidebook, with detailed descriptions of all the homes and gardens opening for this year's event, will be available March 1.

Fredericksburg's Annual Events Brochure Now Available

Fredericksburg's annual listing of area happenings, "1984 Events," is now available to the public.

This year's calendar includes over 60 annual and one-time Fredericksburg area events, with a wide assortment of craft and art displays, historical observations, and festivals.

Included in "Events 1984" are annual favorites, such as the Christmas Candlelight Tour, the Heritage Festival, Market Square Fair, George Washington's Birthday Celebration, and Fredericksburg Day of Historic Garden Week in Virginia.

New to this year's calendar are two art exhibits, one at Belmont, showing the works of the American artist Gari Melchers while he resided in Holland and "Rappahannock Realism" a juried show at the Fredericksburg center for the Creative Arts. A music series, to be held during the summer in Fredericksburg's Market Square; "Eat Your Art Out," a novel presentation of edible art; and a Harvest Walking Tour in Falmouth.

To obtain a copy of "Events 1984," contact the Fredericksburg Department of Tourism, The Visitor Center, 706 Caroline St., Fredericksburg, VA, 22401, (703) 373-1776.

Help bring the world together, one friendship at a time.

Be an exchange student. There is no greater challenge...no greater satisfaction. That's why thousands of young Americans like you are joining a Presidential Initiative for peace...International Youth Exchange. If you're one of them, you'll live abroad with your new host family. Go to new schools. Make new friends. Help bring our world together, one friendship at a time.

Teenagers between 15 and 19 representing all segments of American society are being selected. If you'd like to be one of them, send for more information on programs, costs and financial aid.

Are you supporting your child's drug habit?

An ounce of pot costs about 60 dollars.

Coke, a lot more.

Quaaludes run about 4 dollars each.

And if so many children are using drugs, they're spending a lot of money.

Where are they getting it?

Point is, your children might be spending their allowance on something other than video games.

Learn about drugs. Watch for the possible signs. Sleeping a lot. Listlessness. Poor marks in school. Lack of school attendance.

Most of all, show your child that you care and you're concerned about the possibility that they may be using drugs.

And send away for our booklet, "Parents: What You Can Do About Drug Abuse." Write Get Involved, P.O. Box 1706, Rockville, Maryland 20850.

A blood clot the size of this dot can cause a Heart Attack.

Or a stroke.

Every year, thousands die because of a blood clot. Thousands more become disabled, some permanently.

What's being done to stop it?

Plenty.

We're the American Heart Association. We're giving scientists the chance to find out more about blood clots.

How to detect them. How to treat them. How to keep them from happening.

We're fighting hard. With new drugs. New kinds of treatment. Better ways to help heart attack and stroke victims return to a normal life.

And it's only a part of the total war we're waging against the number one cause of death in this country: heart disease and stroke.

But we can't fight without your money. When the Heart Association volunteer asks for your dollars, be generous.

The blood clot is small, the problem is enormous.

Two Virginia Firms Among
Eight Members Accepted
By Exhibit Designers

Eight companies were accepted as members of the Exhibit Designers & Producers Association (ED&PA) by action of its Board of Directors, taken at its meeting in Napa, California.

Three companies, Steve Hanratty Displays, New York, Visual Fabrications Inc., Long Beach, New York, and Exhibit Place, Huntington Beach, California, were accepted as Regular Members, while the other five became Associate Members. These were: Associate Exposition Contractors, Alexandria, Virginia; Dantrade International, Edmonton, Alberta; Technal Inc., Tucker, Georgia; United Van Lines, Fenton, Missouri; and Wyatt Storage Corp., Richmond, Virginia.

Membership in ED&PA is limited to companies which are involved in the preparation, handling, and support of trade show exhibit preparation, with Regular Members offering full service, including exhibit design. In addition, applicants must show financial stability, have been in business for at least two years, and be approved by the local chapter having jurisdiction prior to obtaining approval by the National Board of Directors.

Space Station Subject of Norfolk Meeting

Dr. Bryant Cramer was the keynote speaker at the Human Factors Society Annual Meeting, October 10-14 at the Omni Hotel in Norfolk. Dr. Cramer is the Head of the Human Productivity Section of the Space Station Task Force at NASA Washington, D.C. Headquarters. The topic of Dr. Cramer's speech was Human Productivity in the Space Station System.

The Space Station Task Force has been formed at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to determine the current requirements for a manned space station in low earth orbit and to develop conceptual designs of a suitable station to meet these requirements. As a part of this effort, a program is being planned to maximize the productivity of the crew. This emphasis on productivity is largely an outgrowth of the growing interest in space-based commercial ventures. Mission requirements reflect a considerable demand for crew services. To meet these requirements, current flight objectives seek to maximize the intravehicular crew time available for customer services; establish extravehicular activity which is routine, reliable, convenient, and capable; and to develop habitability which sustains human productivity throughout a tour of 90 days.

Enhanced productivity will lead to more efficient space operations, accelerate the rate at which new information is generated, and establish the U.S. as the commercial leader in space.

Some details of the approach and the current content of the program were presented. It is anticipated that the program will ultimately lead to the development of an expanding new discipline of space human factors. This new discipline will not only directly promote human productivity in space but will bring us to a better understanding of the habitability necessary to sustain productivity in missions of long duration.

Dr. Cramer has received formal recognitions from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for his research on human performance in aerospace systems and for his direction of those efforts. He holds a Ph.D. from Northwestern University in bioengineering, an M.D. from the University of Chicago, and is completing an M.S. in engineering management from the Catholic University of America. He is a member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, the American Institute for Astronautics and Aeronautics, and the Aerospace Medical Association.

National Award to Virginia Corporate Executive

Harry E. Figgie, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Figgie International, has received the 1983 Distinguished Service Award for Environmental Planning Excellence.

Conway Data Inc. of Atlanta and the Industrial Development Research Council, sponsors of the award since 1972, made the presentation during IDRC's annual Fall Professional Seminar in Scottsdale, Arizona.

The Virginia Division of Industrial Development nominated Figgie for the award. He is the only recipient this year, and this is the first year in which IDRC made only one award.

Figgie was chosen for the award in recognition of his role in the planning and construction of the new Figgie International headquarters complex in Henrico County. According to the citation, "His active guidance and participation has resulted in the creation of an environment of lasting beauty and quiet elegance in a unique corporate headquarters."

Figgie announced his intention to relocate the corporate headquarters to Virginia from Ohio in 1980. Construction began in 1981, and the administrative offices opened in the fall of 1982.

The facility is located on a 1,000 acre tract north of Richmond. Plans for the Virginia Center call for a regional shopping center, a hotel-conference center, and an eighteenth century style office village.

The Environmental Planning Award is the primary means by which industry's efforts in harmonizing environmental planning with economic development are recognized. The IDRC is the nation's foremost professional association of corporate expansion planners.

On The Grow

Thanks to four years of rapid growth, The Henry A. Long Company is erecting its own headquarters building at 4087 University Drive, Fairfax. To be known as the Commerce Building, this four-story, 18,500 sq. ft. structure will go up adjacent to the company's present offices. Architect for the project is Ward/Hall Associates. The building is expected to be ready for occupancy May 1984.

Henry Long, President of The Henry A. Long Company said, "This is a real in-house project. We're the developer, Long, Brown Associates did the surveying and site engineering and our sister company, Scott-Long Construction, Inc., is building it."

Largest among The Henry A. Long Company's present projects is Westwood, The Corporate Center at Tysons Corner, an eleven building, 1,000,000 sq. ft. office, hotel and retail park located on Leesburg Pike, adjacent to the Dulles Access Road.

The Henry A. Long Company handles all aspects of real estate investment: land acquisition and analysis, project conceptualization, formation of the development team, financing, supervision of construction, property management of the completed project, and business management of the owning entity.

Commercial Condominium Office Complex Being Built in Alexandria

Construction is underway for a 200,000 sq. ft. commercial condominium office complex developed by Tycon Developers at 1101 King Street, Alexandria. The seven-story Edwardian style building will cover most of the block at the northwest corner of King and Henry Streets, and represents major new construction for the King Street corridor.

"Alexandria is good for development," said Tycon partner Jim Lewis who hosted a reception October 6 to preview the project for Alexandria City officials and other guests. "It's close to Washington and has the advantages of Metro. It's a prime area in which we would like to do more."

Zinser and Dunn Associates, architects for the project, designed the building to be compatible with what the City of Alexandria would like to see in future development. "We're using an historical architectural language with contemporary details," said Barry Dunn. "We've taken proven elements of architecture and combined them with modern detailing to create the impression that the building has been there a while."

The first three stories will be constructed as townhouse offices with the first floor suitable for shops. The fourth through seventh floors will be connected by a landscaped atrium. Each of the upper four floors will be stepped back and have walk-out terraces.

In addition to the landscaped terraces, 1101 King Street will have bricked plazas, sloping copper roofs, tinted bay windows, ornamental iron railings and a clock tower.

1101 King Street's value will exceed $30 million. The project includes office townhouse units ranging from 1500 to 7000 sq. ft. and 150,000 sq. ft. of conventional floor space. All space will be designed to meet tenants' requirements. As an added feature the space can be leased or purchased since the total project is being marketed as a condominium.

Expected occupancy for 1101 King Street is in the first quarter of 1985. Leggat, McCall and Werner Co., Inc. is the exclusive marketing agent. Glen Construction Company is the contractor.
