Agoss/Lovera Architects gives two companies in the same office building two very different personae. — For Lower Manhattan, there are lessons to be learned from past planning pundits. — Toronto invites an international array of "enlightened designers" to explore the city's waterfront. — The roof has been seeded and it's full "green" ahead for Ford's River Rouge plant. — Libeskind speaks in Denver, and not just about art. — A tribute to Ben Thompson. — Hopefully, Thompson's legacy will inspire Destiny USA, a $2.2 billion, 15 million-square-foot project in Syracuse. — Another architect makes Fast Company's Trendsetter list. — Stirling winner design doesn't win. — Baseball park is a good influence on architecture in San Francisco. — A tempest is brewing between Israeli architecture and politics. — The way-overdue Bangkok International Airport wants Murphy Jahn back. — If approved, hospitality in Aberdeen will include a spinning penthouse. — Big plans for a former air force base. — A new leader for the National Endowment for the Arts.

To subscribe to the free daily newsletter click here.

Company Cultures: Red Tettemer Advertising and Electronic Ink by Agoos/Lovera Architects [images] — ArchNewsNow

Planners Urge Decisions on Downtown: City planners of the past and present gave warning that decisions on the development of Lower Manhattan must be made soon. — New York Times

Take back the waterfront: The rich and powerful seem determined to rob Toronto of its finest asset. But enlightened designers...give renewed hope that a better way forward is possible. — By Lisa Rochon - Globe and Mail (Canada)

Denver Art Museum project touted: Expansion will help knit a new 'urban fabric,' architect says — Daniel Libeskind — Rocky Mountain News

City Observed: Cityscape Pioneer Ben Thompson. By Sam Hall Kaplan — KCRW

Destiny USA: Pyramid ready to break ground for hotel: Architect for hotel design has yet to be chosen — Syracuse Post-Standard

Fast 50 Trendsetter: Build a Brighter Future — Tom Vecchione, Vice president and design director, Gensler — Fast Company

Stirling winner gets knocked back: scheme for Anglia Polytechnic University rejected — Wilkinson Eyre Architects — The Architects' Journal

Pac Bell's neighborly influence: New area buildings reflect design and materials of ballpark. By John King — Heller- Manus Architects; Brand + Allen Architects; HOK Sport — San Francisco Chronicle

Debate Builds Over the Politics of Israeli Architecture — Michael Sorkin; Tom Kay; Eyal Weizmann; Rafi Segal; etc. — Forward

Design supremo appointed to put airport back on flightpath: government set to propose that the consortium led by Murphy Jahn be brought back as design consultant to get the project on track — Business Day Thailand

A Taste of the Hotel High Life for Aberdeen: towering steel and glass structure would have 130 rooms with a revolving penthouse suite — Fitzgerald and Associates — Evening Express (Scotland)

$300M plan to develop Norton base site wins OK: redevelopment effort for 500 acres at former Norton Air Force Base — San Bernardino Sun (California)

Poet Dana Gioia to Be Named National Endowment for the Arts Chairman — Washington Post

Note: Pages will open in a new browser window.
External news links are not endorsed by ArchNewsNow.com. Free registration may be required on some sites. Some sites may expire after a few days.

© 2002 ArchNewsNow.com