

Today's News - March 4, 2003

Pentagon Memorial winner selected. – Polisher of profession's image "deserves to go from Ground Zero to hero" (that's what we'd call 'laying it on a bit thick'). – "...revised plan is much reduced, its mysteries nearly banished." – Gardens are out - communications equipment in at the top. – New Jersey serious about sprawl. – An award that builds cultural bridges. – Glasgow gleams. – Ando takes to the Berkshires. – London's own twin towers to rise. – Cranbrook "bypassed the brightest of star architects known for making splashes" (and went for those that cause tidal waves?). – Moscow hotel (that graces Stolki vodka bottles) to be rebuilt by American company that can't be found. – Hawaiian firm designs new home for Arctic scientists. – Winter woes for Gehry building. – From tanning salons to stardom. – San Francisco schools will not merge. - Diller + Scofidio operating beyond the norms. – Senior housing design winners.

Rumors have it that Foster & Partners has won the competition to redesign Lincoln Center's Avery Fisher Hall...we'll keep you posted.
