

Today's News - March 6, 2003

Whatever the design, the focus today seems to be on the man (and wife): The "Danny and Nina Show" - Mr. & Mrs. Ground Zero. - Libeskind: a Bronx socialist or a notorious deconstructivist/anti-rationality activist? - Wall Street Rising has big plans, too. - High praise for a soaring memorial. - It's about time: eye-catching affordable housing; and luxury living on slag heaps in Pittsburgh. - Recycling construction debris a growing industry. - Governors have "green" dreams, but not enough greenbacks. - A green factory heralds the next industrial revolution. - Urban design challenge with a hefty prize. - Welton Becket (finally) getting his due. - The Midwest loves museums. - An architectural gem bites the dust. - Medal of Arts winners a lofty list.
