

Today's News - June 25, 2003

Moving forward with WTC memorial. – Options weighed for West Street. – Pentagon Memorial designs on display in NYC. – A very impressive jury lined up for new Architecture+Cityscape Awards. – The not-really-planned communities in Florida find themselves flooded. – Patriotic smart growth. – New categories for seniors housing awards. – Spaniards win in Amsterdam. – UConn's School of Fine Arts "odd couple" architects. – Allentown's downtown gets more than just a green building. – Theater renovation is overture to new development in downtown Pontiac. – San Francisco's mass transit takes an artful turn. – Taiwan debates fate of tiny treasure. – Britain's Deputy Prime Minister in charge of urban revitalization talks about UK/US development differences/similarities (he likes Milwaukee, too). – Give architects a few thousand cans of food...

To subscribe to the free daily newsletter click here

Audacity, democracy, grief: memorializing ground zero: As proposals stream in, nuance and need are delicately weighed.- Christian Science Monitor

Tunnel Is Proposed as Option in Rebuilding of West Street...from the World Trade Center site south to Battery Park- New York Times

Pentagon Memorial to Be Displayed at the Municipal Art Society starting June 30 - Julie Beckman and Keith Kaseman- NY Newsday

Architecture+Cityscape Awards: A major new series of awards to honour top architects working in the Middle East, the Subcontinent, Asia and Africa- AME Info (United Arab Emirates)

Developers' legacy costs millions to fix: Across Florida, hundreds of thousands of people are living in post-World War II "planned" communities that weren't really planned at all.- Orlando Sentinel

Op-Ed: The Eleventh Smart Growth Principle: Sprawl is reaching military installations and threatening the nation's defense capabilities.- Planetizen

NAHB expands categories for Best of Seniors Housing Awards. Deadline: October 10- National Association of Home Builders

A major museum renovation: Spanish architects have come up with a design for Amsterdam's beloved Rijksmuseum. - Cruz & Ortiz Architects (AP)- Philadelphia Inquirer

[University of Connecticut has hired a pair of renowned architects to design a new \$70 million home for its School of Fine Arts: It's an "odd couple" combination - Frank Gehry; Herbert S. Newman \[image\]](#)- New Haven Register

Truly green and distinctly urban, Rouse building graces Allentown: recycles something even more important than its waste: Allentown's downtown. By Inga Saffron - Robert A.M. Stern Architects- Philadelphia Inquirer

The Strand Theater's renovation is an overture to new development in downtown Pontiac. By John Gallagher - SmithGroup- Detroit Free Press

[Surprises Await Riders at New BART Stations. By John King \[image\]](#)- San Francisco Chronicle

[Building on the past: A small, yet historically important part of Taiwan Normal University is currently at the center of heated debate over its plans to modernize \[images\]](#)- Taipei Times

John Prescott 'Takes Five': Building and design is 'stuff of life.' By Whitney Gould- Milwaukee Journal Sentinel

[CANSTRUCTION@ "Can-Deed." Designers' Imagination and Ingenuity Helps Create Meals for Millions \[images\]](#)- AIArchitect

Note: Pages will open in a new browser window.
External news links are not endorsed by ArchNewsNow.com.
Free registration may be required on some sites.
Some sites may expire after a few days.

Yesterday's News

© 2003 ArchNewsNow.com