Los Angeles isn’t the only city counting on culture to revive urban centers: Toronto’s new opera house and a new home for Detroit Symphony bode well for both cities. – The “creative class” is the ticket to urban health. – Disney Hall’s epic architecture (and $billion+) will create L.A.’s downtown. – The opera house that started it all. – A tell-all (“er...”memoir”) about WTC redevelopment: it’s all in the timing. – WTC building plan should be about collaboration (that would be nice). – Architects “need to band together now, link arms and rally for a final stand, raise our voices as one...it’s too quiet out there.” – War on sprawl hits a wall. – Battles over high-rise boom and low-income housing. – Wanted: ideas for NYC housing and redeveloping a Hudson River pier. – Taiwanese literature has a grand home. – A look at the playful side of the Bauhaus. – A shortlist show in Buffalo. – Design Excellence Essay Competition: time to dust off the keyboards.

To subscribe to the free daily newsletter click here.

Urban Aria: Four Seasons Centre for the Performing Arts - Diamond and Schmitt Architects [images] - ArchNewsNow

Cities thrive on "creative class": Gays, bohemians are indicators of urban health. Places with energy, life draw people. By Christopher Hume - Richard Florida - Toronto Star

Detroit Symphony listens to its audience: $125 million gamble, by making the (orchestra) an agent of renewal and civic pride. - Diamond and Schmitt Architects - Toronto Star

Epic Architecture: How a once-stalled Frank Gehry project became one of his triumphs. By Christopher Hawthorne [images] - Slate

Can the Disney Hall Help Give Los Angeles a Genuine Downtown? ...the hall, coupled with a planned $1.25 billion downtown development...finally...a city center. - New York Times

Sydney's icon celebrates without hero of grand design; Architect comes out of retirement to shape Opera House's future - Joelm Ulzjon; Jan Ulzjon; Richard Johnson - Guardian (UK)

Cashing In On Sept. 11: Daniel Libeskind wants to time the release of his memoir to the third anniversary...promises to "provide key insider information not available elsewhere about the World Trade Center reconstruction process." - NY Post

Jill Lerner '76 Discusses WTC Building Plan: the significance of collaboration between different disciplines in the design of urban architectural projects - Kohn Pedersen Fox; Daniel Libeskind; New York New Visions - Cornell Daily Sun

Put a Cork In It: How has the AIA's New York chapter chosen to inaugurate its new space? Hold your ears. By Philip Nobel - Metropolis Magazine

War on Sprawl in New Jersey Hits a Wall: BIG map (Blueprint for Intelligent Growth) politically fraught when...telling builders where to build, towns how to zone, and residents where they can live. - New York Times

Rush Street rising: Worries of high-rise boom abound: ...pace has exploded of late, driven by...the return of well-to-do suburban empty-nesters to the downtown. - Crain's Chicago Business

A showdown brews in Joliet: at odds over low-income housing: Urban eyesore or essential shelter? - Crain's Chicago Business

Request for Expressions of Interest: Pier 57 development - Hudson River Park, Manhattan. Deadline: January 20, 2004 - Hudson River Park Trust

Putting local literature in its place: National Museum of Taiwanese Literature (Moriyama Matsunosuke, 1916): NT$1.1 billion in order to transform the decades-old building into an eye-catching piece of architecture [images] - Taipei Times

Out of the box: Bauhaus was all about simplicity and economy. Or was it? Jonathan Glancey on the photographs that reveal its playful side. - Guardian (UK)

"Mori on Wright: Designs for Frank Lloyd Wright's Martin House Visitors' Center" at Albright-Knox Art Gallery...includes finalists - Office dA; Schwartz Silver Architects; Brian Healy Architects; Architectural Research Office - Buffalo News

Note: Pages will open in a new browser window. External news links are not endorsed by ArchNewsNow.com. Free registration may be required on some sites. Some sites may expire after a few days.