On the first anniversary of Hurricane Katrina, two in-depth round-ups. — Mayne has high hopes that New Orleanians are open to new architecture. — A new Gulf Coast town inspired by the Wright way. — Architects and engineers conspire with nature to develop new green technology. — Mercer Island, Washington, has big plans, but does its design commission lack vision? — Perhaps there are lessons to be learned from a town in Malaysia. — Who actually designed Toronto's famous City Hall? — Holl's "hybrid instrument" for the University of Iowa. — Another move for Betsky. — The World's Top 10 Cities; Toronto still waiting to join the list. — King looks forward to September in San Francisco, and sticks to his conclusions about his city's new type of urban neighborhood.

To subscribe to the free daily newsletter click here

Remembering Katrina [round-up]- The Times-Picayune (New Orleans)
The Katrina Year: A Slow and Uneven Return [special section]- New York Times

Rebuild New Orleans wetlands, architect suggests: Thom Mayne...urged New Orleans to treat the devastation wrought by Hurricane Katrina last year as a chance to re-imagine the city. New Orleanians may be open to newer architecture. — Morphosis - Reuters

Frank Lloyd Wright School architects help Gulf Coast town: ...plans for "Lily Valley" stay true to Wright's design concept of nature, balance, diversity and environmental compatibility. — James Ray Polk - Phoenix Business Journal

Engineers race to steal nature's secrets: Giant wind turbines based on a seed, and desalination plant that mimics a beetle...and can double up as an open-air theatre. — Martin Pawley/Grimshead; Charlie Paton - Guardian (UK)

Mercer Island's downtown development is lacking a vision: It's hard to blame architecture...but something is going on here, and it's not all to the good...developer blames the Design Commission's vision. — Mithun Partners; MVE & Partners; Mulvanny G2 [images] - Seattle Post-Intelligencer

Has PJ stood the test of time? The new town of Petaling Jaya was part of a scheme conceived and designed by the Federal Town Planning Department in 1951...Is there a lesson to be learnt here. — Fong Ying Leong; Kington Loo; N.G. Lehey - New Straits Times (Malaysia)

Cincinnati Museum of Art hires director: Aaron Betsky...comes to the museum after six years as director of the Netherlands Architecture Institute — Cincinnati Enquirer

City Hall's Finnish Design: ...the secret: Who actually designed Toronto's famous City Hall. "We agreed never to tell"... — Viljo Revell; Bengt Lundsten; Heikki Castren ; Seppo Valjus - Toronto Sun

Steven Holl Architects University of Iowa School of Art & Art History Building: A hybrid instrument for the practice and analysis of art [images] - Archinect

World's Top 10 Cities: Florence tops the list of World’s Best Cities for a second time this year... - Travel + Leisure

Toronto left off great cities list: ...noticeably absent from Best Cities list in annual readers' travel survey. World-class status may come next year, but "nothing personal" says editor - Toronto Star

Architects, design mavens plan monthlong get-together... third annual Architecture and the City festival will jam the calendar; responses to my amble through the marketing centers for two condo projects rising near the Bay Bridge... By John King - San Francisco Chronicle

-- Masterplan: Daniel Libeskind: Ørestaden, Copenhagen
-- PLOT: JDS + BGO: VM Houses, Ørestaden, Copenhagen
-- Lundgaard & Tranberg: The Wedge, Copenhagen Business School, Copenhagen

Note: Pages will open in a new browser window. External news links are not endorsed by ArchNewsNow.com. Free registration may be required on some sites. Some pages may expire after a few days.