To subscribe to the free daily newsletter click here

Temples dedicated to the art of spending: How did the mall take over the world? ...the west needs spaces to allow a re- engagement with the chaos and life of the marketplace... Architects must be able to propose a framework in which to do this. That would be an architecture suited to a recession. I look forward to it. By Edwin Heathcote -- Libeskind, Foreign Office Architects (FOA); Foster + Partners - Financial Times (UK)

Selective Recall: Critics of the Museum of Arts and Design missed the real point of the building... It's as if Gehry, with partner Craig Webb, anticipated the turn away from the architectural spectacle of the go-go years... has played rectangles against curves in other projects, though never with such tight discipline... to deploy explosions of sculptural bravado strategically. They detonate with unusual power. By James S. Russell [slide show] - Bloomberg News

Kimbell Museum to Construct Piano Building Beside Kahn's Masterpiece: ...it's going to exceed everybody's expectations... in terms of sustainability. By Edward Gunts - Metropolis Magazine

Broad Decides to Build His Own Museum: Less than a year after the Los Angeles County Museum of Art opened a $56 million museum for contemporary art named for Eli Broad, the billionaire philanthropist... has decided to build his own museum and is considering a site just down the street. -- Marty Borko/Gensler - New York Times

Indianapolis Museum of Art plans to acquire landmark Miller house and garden in Columbus, Indiana, a landmark of mid-20th Century modernism... has opted to court controversy... "auditorium will eventually be demolished and some of the parking lots removed so the Frisbee players and dog walkers will have an expansive of park-like lawn on which to play." I suppose this is the museum's way of compensating for taking away the parkland on its other side. By Lee Rosenbaum (links to images) - ArtsJournal

Plan to Redevelop South Street Seaport Is Spurned for the Mass, Scale and Height of Its Buildings; ...rebuffed in its current form... by the Landmarks Preservation Commission... Since there was no vote, the application is still considered active, and General Growth has the chance to modify it. -- SHoP Architects - New York Times

Preserving the majesty of old works: New uses for water pumping stations will draw on their glory days: When our ancestors built infrastructure, they built it as architecture. Sometimes great architecture... Chestnut Hill Pumping Stations... The good news is that at least we've got enough sense to preserve what we have. By Robert Campbell -- Arthur Stone (1964); Cloepfil/Allied Works - Metropolis Magazine

Pei's University Village Tops List of 7 Landmarks: Seven structures in Manhattan and Brooklyn were designated as landmarks... "They're going to exceed everybody's expectations... in terms of sustainability." By Edward Gunds [image] - Baltimore Sun

Rogers Goes Terminal: ...new 42-story tower atop the Port Authority Bus Terminal in Midtown Manhattan... new rendering released yesterday by the PA when it made the announcement official. -- Rogers Stirk Harbour [image, links] - The Architect's Newspaper

DnA/Francis Anderton: The Metropolitan President: Barack Obama will be the first president to hail from a major metropolitan in a long time. What does this mean for architecture and design? + James Bond and his relationship with Modern architecture. -- David Adjaye; Kevin Starr/University of Southern California; Krista Kline: Urban design coordinator for Mayor Villaraigosa; Christopher Mount/Pasadena Museum of California Art; Steve Rose/Guardian [links] - KCRW

HOK's Bill Helmuth: On top of the world: As president and design chief, [he] is transforming the world's architecture one building at a time. His approach? Sustainability, modernism — and good old-fashioned modesty. By Deborah K. Dietsch —
Hellmuth, Obata + Kassabaum— Washington Business Journal

Call for entries: ICFF Studio: Selected designers win a spot to display their prototypes at ICFF in New York City, May 16-19, 2009; deadline: December 15, 2008— ICFF/International Contemporary Furniture Fair

Call for entries deadline reminder: MIPIM/Architectural Review Future Project Awards 09; deadline: November 21—The Architectural Review/AR (UK)

-- Zaha Hadid Architects: Neil Barrett Store, Tokyo
-- Under construction: Herzog & de Meuron: 56 Leonard Street, New York, NY

© 2008 ArchNewsNow.com