EDITOR'S NOTE: A reminder that we're taking Monday's and Friday's off through Labor Day. We'll be back Tuesday, August 30. Happy Weekend!

- Assessing the damage after the East Coast's strongest earthquake in 67 years: “Is this part of the country, with its older architecture and inexperience with seismic activity, prepared for a truly powerful quake?” Gotham Gazette offers up its in-depth 2008 report “Preparing for the Great New York Earthquake” (and here comes Hurricane Irene!).
- Earthquake ravaged Christchurch unveils its ambitious £1 billion vision of the future.
- Shigeru Ban designs cardboard cathedral for earthquake-hit Christchurch; The New Zealand city has commissioned the Japanese architect to design a temporary structure on the site of its 1864 cathedral that was destroyed during February’s earthquake. [BBD Building Design (UK)]
- When the Earth Shakes: Tuesday’s quake may have seemed like a freak occurrence, but as we reported in 2008, scientists have warned that a far more damaging earthquake might hit the city some day...Preparing for the Great New York Earthquake- Gotham Gazette (NYC)
- Earthquake ravaged Christchurch unveils low-rise “city in a garden’...its vision of the future – a low rise, people-friendly “city in a garden’!...ambitious £1 billion draft plan for rebuilding the heart of New Zealand's second biggest city over the next 20 years...envisages an environmentally conscious city of parks and green open spaces, rooftop gardens, cycle tracks, and a light rail network linking the centre and suburbs. [Telegraph (UK)]
- When the East Shakes: Tuesday’s quake may have seemed like a freak occurrence, but as we reported in 2008, scientists have warned that a far more damaging earthquake might hit the city some day...Preparing for the Great New York Earthquake- Gotham Gazette (NYC)
- Fossilized thinking guides museum design: ...four mediocre design options for the new Royal Alberta Museum is the disappointing outcome of a shoddy process...failed to seek the best architect. Instead, it sought builders, through a design-build model...This is no ordinary building. If we’re going to get a new public institution of this stature, let’s do it right. We need to hold an international design competition of architects, pick a winner, and then tender the project for construction. By Paula Arab- Calgary Herald (Canada)
- As we prepare for 10th anniversary of 9-11, architects face new challenges: Security and design operate at cross roads. The architect’s role has been relegated to masking the more unpleasant aspects of contemporary life...Design is more than skin-deep...With assistance and input from the American Institute of Architects, the U.S. Department of State Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations is adopting design excellence...underscores the fact that security and design excellence are not separate matters to be reconciled. By Michael Lingerfelt/AIA Florida- TCPalm.com (Florida)
- Shigeru Ban designs cardboard cathedral for earthquake-hit Christchurch; The New Zealand city has commissioned the Japanese architect to design a temporary structure on the site of its 1864 cathedral that was destroyed during February’s earthquake. [BBD Building Design (UK)]
- When the Earth Shakes: Tuesday’s quake may have seemed like a freak occurrence, but as we reported in 2008, scientists have warned that a far more damaging earthquake might hit the city some day...Preparing for the Great New York Earthquake- Gotham Gazette (NYC)
- Earthquake ravaged Christchurch unveils low-rise “city in a garden’...its vision of the future – a low rise, people-friendly “city in a garden’!...ambitious £1 billion draft plan for rebuilding the heart of New Zealand's second biggest city over the next 20 years...envisages an environmentally conscious city of parks and green open spaces, rooftop gardens, cycle tracks, and a light rail network linking the centre and suburbs. [Telegraph (UK)]
- Fossilized thinking guides museum design: ...four mediocre design options for the new Royal Alberta Museum is the disappointing outcome of a shoddy process...failed to seek the best architect. Instead, it sought builders, through a design-build model...This is no ordinary building. If we’re going to get a new public institution of this stature, let’s do it right. We need to hold an international design competition of architects, pick a winner, and then tender the project for construction. By Paula Arab- Calgary Herald (Canada)
- As we prepare for 10th anniversary of 9-11, architects face new challenges: Security and design operate at cross roads. The architect’s role has been relegated to masking the more unpleasant aspects of contemporary life...Design is more than skin-deep...With assistance and input from the American Institute of Architects, the U.S. Department of State Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations is adopting design excellence...underscores the fact that security and design excellence are not separate matters to be reconciled. By Michael Lingerfelt/AIA Florida- TCPalm.com (Florida)
- Shigeru Ban designs cardboard cathedral for earthquake-hit Christchurch; The New Zealand city has commissioned the Japanese architect to design a temporary structure on the site of its 1864 cathedral that was destroyed during February’s earthquake. [BBD Building Design (UK)]
- When the Earth Shakes: Tuesday’s quake may have seemed like a freak occurrence, but as we reported in 2008, scientists have warned that a far more damaging earthquake might hit the city some day...Preparing for the Great New York Earthquake- Gotham Gazette (NYC)
- Earthquake ravaged Christchurch unveils low-rise “city in a garden’...its vision of the future – a low rise, people-friendly “city in a garden’!...ambitious £1 billion draft plan for rebuilding the heart of New Zealand's second biggest city over the next 20 years...envisages an environmentally conscious city of parks and green open spaces, rooftop gardens, cycle tracks, and a light rail network linking the centre and suburbs. [Telegraph (UK)]
- Fossilized thinking guides museum design: ...four mediocre design options for the new Royal Alberta Museum is the disappointing outcome of a shoddy process...failed to seek the best architect. Instead, it sought builders, through a design-build model...This is no ordinary building. If we’re going to get a new public institution of this stature, let’s do it right. We need to hold an international design competition of architects, pick a winner, and then tender the project for construction. By Paula Arab- Calgary Herald (Canada)
- As we prepare for 10th anniversary of 9-11, architects face new challenges: Security and design operate at cross roads. The architect’s role has been relegated to masking the more unpleasant aspects of contemporary life...Design is more than skin-deep...With assistance and input from the American Institute of Architects, the U.S. Department of State Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations is adopting design excellence...underscores the fact that security and design excellence are not separate matters to be reconciled. By Michael Lingerfelt/AIA Florida- TCPalm.com (Florida)
- Shigeru Ban designs cardboard cathedral for earthquake-hit Christchurch; The New Zealand city has commissioned the Japanese architect to design a temporary structure on the site of its 1864 cathedral that was destroyed during February’s earthquake. [BBD Building Design (UK)]
- When the Earth Shakes: Tuesday’s quake may have seemed like a freak occurrence, but as we reported in 2008, scientists have warned that a far more damaging earthquake might hit the city some day...Preparing for the Great New York Earthquake- Gotham Gazette (NYC)
- Earthquake ravaged Christchurch unveils low-rise “city in a garden’...its vision of the future – a low rise, people-friendly “city in a garden’!...ambitious £1 billion draft plan for rebuilding the heart of New Zealand's second biggest city over the next 20 years...envisages an environmentally conscious city of parks and green open spaces, rooftop gardens, cycle tracks, and a light rail network linking the centre and suburbs. [Telegraph (UK)]
- Fossilized thinking guides museum design: ...four mediocre design options for the new Royal Alberta Museum is the disappointing outcome of a shoddy process...failed to seek the best architect. Instead, it sought builders, through a design-build model...This is no ordinary building. If we’re going to get a new public institution of this stature, let’s do it right. We need to hold an international design competition of architects, pick a winner, and then tender the project for construction. By Paula Arab- Calgary Herald (Canada)
- As we prepare for 10th anniversary of 9-11, architects face new challenges: Security and design operate at cross roads. The architect’s role has been relegated to masking the more unpleasant aspects of contemporary life...Design is more than skin-deep...With assistance and input from the American Institute of Architects, the U.S. Department of State Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations is adopting design excellence...underscores the fact that security and design excellence are not separate matters to be reconciled. By Michael Lingerfelt/AIA Florida- TCPalm.com (Florida)
- Shigeru Ban designs cardboard cathedral for earthquake-hit Christchurch; The New Zealand city has commissioned the Japanese architect to design a temporary structure on the site of its 1864 cathedral that was destroyed during February’s earthquake. [BBD Building Design (UK)]
- When the Earth Shakes: Tuesday’s quake may have seemed like a freak occurrence, but as we reported in 2008, scientists have warned that a far more damaging earthquake might hit the city some day...Prepared for the Great New York Earthquake- Gotham Gazette (NYC)
- Earthquake ravaged Christchurch unveils low-rise “city in a garden’...its vision of the future – a low rise, people-friendly “city in a garden’!...ambitious £1 billion draft plan for rebuilding the heart of New Zealand's second biggest city over the next 20 years...envisages an environmentally conscious city of parks and green open spaces, rooftop gardens, cycle tracks, and a light rail network linking the centre and suburbs. [Telegraph (UK)]
- Fossilized thinking guides museum design: ...four mediocre design options for the new Royal Alberta Museum is the disappointing outcome of a shoddy process...failed to seek the best architect. Instead, it sought builders, through a design-build model...This is no ordinary building. If we’re going to get a new public institution of this stature, let’s do it right. We need to hold an international design competition of architects, pick a winner, and then tender the project for construction. By Paula Arab- Calgary Herald (Canada)
- As we prepare for 10th anniversary of 9-11, architects face new challenges: Security and design operate at cross roads. The architect’s role has been relegated to masking the more unpleasant aspects of contemporary life...Design is more than skin-deep...With assistance and input from the American Institute of Architects, the U.S. Department of State Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations is adopting design excellence...underscores the fact that security and design excellence are not separate matters to be reconciled. By Michael Lingerfelt/AIA Florida- TCPalm.com (Florida)
- Shigeru Ban designs cardboard cathedral for earthquake-hit Christchurch; The New Zealand city has commissioned the Japanese architect to design a temporary structure on the site of its 1864 cathedral that was destroyed during February’s earthquake. [BBD Building Design (UK)]
- When the Earth Shakes: Tuesday’s quake may have seemed like a freak occurrence, but as we reported in 2008, scientists have warned that a far more damaging earthquake might hit the city some day...Prepared for the Great New York Earthquake- Gotham Gazette (NYC)
- Earthquake ravaged Christchurch unveils low-rise “city in a garden’...its vision of the future – a low rise, people-friendly “city in a garden’!...ambitious £1 billion draft plan for rebuilding the heart of New Zealand's second biggest city over the next 20 years...envisages an environmentally conscious city of parks and green open spaces, rooftop gardens, cycle tracks, and a light rail network linking the centre and suburbs. [Telegraph (UK)]
- Fossilized thinking guides museum design: ...four mediocre design options for the new Royal Alberta Museum is the disappointing outcome of a shoddy process...failed to seek the best architect. Instead, it sought builders, through a design-build model...This is no ordinary building. If we’re going to get a new public institution of this stature, let’s do it right. We need to hold an international design competition of architects, pick a winner, and then tender the project for construction. By Paula Arab- Calgary Herald (Canada)
- As we prepare for 10th anniversary of 9-11, architects face new challenges: Security and design operate at cross roads. The architect’s role has been relegated to masking the more unpleasant aspects of contemporary life...Design is more than skin-deep...With assistance and input from the American Institute of Architects, the U.S. Department of State Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations is adopting design excellence...underscores the fact that security and design excellence are not separate matters to be reconciled. By Michael Lingerfelt/AIA Florida- TCPalm.com (Florida)
Repurposing Tempelhof: The former Tempelhof Airport in Berlin is being redeveloped as a modern public park 100 acres larger than Central Park...with its many layers of history, can be seen as a metaphor for contemporary Berlin—a vast laboratory for cultural production and modern urban planning, largely built on the debris of European culture...proposal calls for "a contemporary prairie for the urban cowboy...It's about reutilizing old land and making it do something new..." -- Eelco Hoffmann/Gross.Max-Wall Street Journal.

Giving up the Ghost: ...the final edition of Ghost Lab, a series of successful research laboratories held on the Nova Scotia farm of Brian MacKaye-Lyons since 1994. A select group of like-minded architects, historians and critics commiserated over the values of regionalism, craft and design...generosity of spirit everywhere evident... By Trevor Boddy -- Kenneth Frampton; Juhani Pallasmaa; Tom Fisher; Peter Buchanan; Glenn Murcutt; Marion Blackwell; Tom Kundig; Rick Joy; Wendell Burnette; Dan Rockhill; Deborah Berke; Brigitte Shim; Patricia Patkau; etc. [images]- Canadian Architect.

Queen of the East: Olympics head of design shares her vision: Eleanor Fawcett is working with boroughs to make full use of the Olympic Park to create new neighbourhoods in keeping with older ones nearby...[she] is part of a new generation of architects interested not in futuristic shapes and utopian dreams but in the lessons of how our city has developed. By Kieran Long- Evening Standard (UK).

Architecture and the edible city: Halifax architect Susan Fitzgerald plans to use the $50,000 Prix de Rome to study urban agriculture..."It's not just putting in allotments for people. 'I'm interested in how we could have a different kind of relationship with a park or a building that sets up a new dynamic." By Christopher Hume -- Fowler Bauld & Mitchell; Brian Mackay Lyons - Toronto Star.

Turkey's First "Slow City" Promotes Local Agriculture, Slow Food Movement: Seferihisar...is part of Cittaslow, an international movement founded to promote the Slow Food movement around the world...Since becoming a "slow city" several years ago, farmers are finding ways to keep their traditional ways of agriculture alive. - Green Prophet (Middle East).

Call for entries: YUL-MTL: Moving Landscapes International Ideas Competition for the gateway corridor linking Montreal-Trudeau International Airport (YUL) to its downtown area (MTL) along Autoroute 20; cash prizes; registration deadline: August 26; City of Montreal / Ville de Montreal / Chair in Landscape and Environmental Design at University of Montreal (CPEUM).

Moshe Safdie sits down with Charlie Rose [video]- PBS / Charlie Rose.

S.F. architectural fest to include candidate forum: San Franciscans this month will have the chance to hear their leading mayoral candidates tackle an always-volatile topic in this town: the built environment...Aug. 29 forum doubles as the opening event in the AIA San Francisco Chapter's Architecture and the City Festival, and version 9.0 may be the most thorough yet...theme "Architecture of Consequence" By John King- San Francisco Chronicle.

Going bust - white marble busts - on Market Street: ... Allan Jacobs' new book "The Good City: Reflections and Imagination"...mixes professional war stories with planning theory and a survey of today's San Francisco, but the highlight for me is the whimsical conception of what our diagonal main drag could be...The South of Market skyline also takes a beating in "The Big One: A Story of San Francisco;" David Littlejohn's evocatively lush novel...the Multi-Use Building at City College of San Francisco...includes everything from a geological plant in the basement to a living roof on top. By John King -- Piau Long Architecture/VBN Architects - San Francisco Chronicle.

"Living in the Endless City: The Urban Age Project by the London School of Economics and Deutsche Bank's Alfred Herrhausen Society" edited by Ricky Burdett and Deyan Sudjic: The companion book to 2008's The Endless City collects essays and analysis on the cities of Istanbul, Mumbai, and São Paulo...The quality of the writing is consistently high, with a powerful convergence of values but little duplication of ideas across the texts, and the illustration are vividly telling. By Lucy Bullivant -- Philipp Rode; Saskia Sassen; Gerald Frug; David Satterthwaite; Alejandro Aravena/Elemental/ Alejandro Zaera-Polo; Richard Sennett; Omer Kanipak- Domus.

For the architect who has everything...Architectural greats recreated as knuckle dusters: Foster + Partners' Gherkin and Big Ben in London, St Basil's Cathedral in Moscow, Chateau Lafite in France and the Taj Mahal in India are among the buildings that are immortalised in precious metals for the collection, known as the Architecture Rings. [images]- BDBuilding Design (UK).

Book Review: "One Million Acres & No Zoning": Lars Lerup's Outrageous Encomium to Houston Instructs and Infuriates: This isn't some dryly academic reconfiguration of trendy urban planning theory. I recommend it for the intrepid. By Norman Weinstein- ArchNewsNow.