Today's News - Tuesday, January 15, 2013

- Mattern turns the pages of the fascinating history and challenging future of South Korea's Paju Bookcity: "this is the industrial park remade."
- A look at Lexington, KY's high hopes to uncover a stream buried for 100 years and use it as "an organizing armature of public space to guide future development."
- Benfield cheers Chapin's Pettaway Pocket Neighborhood project in Little Rock, AK, that takes "resources typically found in individual private lots and pooled them to create a true public realm, something notoriously lacking in modern American residential subdivisions."
- Hearthwalk: Situ Studio's 2013 Times Square Valentine Heart Boardwalk Will Be Made of Hurricane Sandy Debris: "invite visitors to stand within a literal and figurative "heart of New York City."
- Lamb Hart's A New Humanism: Part 6: Paying attention to our abiding search for refuge and prospect: ...there seems to be that underlying predilection to find the excitement, the pleasure of adventure, making it as safe as "possible," but taking the risk.
- Lamb Hart's A New Humanism: Part 6: Paying attention to our abiding search for refuge and prospect: ...there seems to be that underlying predilection to find the excitement, the pleasure of adventure, making it as safe as "possible," but taking the risk.
- lamb hart's new humanism: part 6: paying attention to our abiding search for refuge and prospect: ...there seems to be that underlying predilection to find the excitement, the pleasure of adventure, making it as safe as "possible," but taking the risk.
- Call for entries: Call for applications for World Design Capital 2014 designation; deadline: April 30- International Council of Societies of Industrial Design (Icsid)
- Call for entries: Call for applications for World Design Capital 2014 designation; deadline: April 30- International Council of Societies of Industrial Design (Icsid)
- Call for entries: Call for applications for World Design Capital 2014 designation; deadline: April 30- International Council of Societies of Industrial Design (Icsid)