The Vermouth that's good enough to eat.

Imported Martini & Rossi has a taste that comes through even when it's grilled, browned, iced, or dipped. A taste so versatile that M&R is No. 1 in the nation. You can use Sweet Vermouth to add intrigue to countless dishes. And Extra Dry Vermouth in any recipe that calls for white wine. Here are just a few of the delightful things that can happen when M&R and your imagination take over:

2. Dry Rob Roy on the Rocks. Pour 1 part M&R Extra Dry Vermouth and 3 parts Scotch over ice. Twist of lemon peel.

3. Rossini (Reverse Martini). Stir 2 parts M&R Extra Dry Vermouth and 1 part gin with ice. Strain into chilled glasses. Twist of lemon peel.

⅓ cup M&R Sweet Vermouth
3 tbsps lime juice
2 tbsps salt
16 drops Tabasco
2 tbsps finely chopped onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
Mix ingredients in blender. Or mash avocados with silver fork; press through sieve; add other ingredients. Serve with cubes of ham. (Hint: To keep guacamole from darkening, put avocado pits in dip until mealtime.)

Melon Aperitif.
Scoop cantaloupe, honeydew, or Spanish melon into balls. Marinate with one cup M&R Sweet Vermouth. When well-chilled, arrange in half melon shell.

Scampi Rossi.
2 lbs shelled and deveined shrimp
¼ cup olive oil
1 cup M&R Extra Dry Vermouth
2 cloves garlic, crushed
½ tsp salt
½ tsp freshly ground black pepper
3 tbsps chopped parsley
3 tbsps lemon juice
Brown shrimp in hot olive oil. Add M&R, garlic, salt and pepper. Cook until liquid is almost gone. Sprinkle with parsley and lemon juice and serve. 4 servings.

Martini & Rossi Grande Mixed Grill.
Marinade:
1 cup M&R Extra Dry Vermouth
2 cups salad oil
2 tbsps lemon juice
2 medium onions
4 minced garlic cloves
2 tbsps chopped basil
2 tbsps salt
4 crushed pepper corns
Lamb:
Pour marinade over rack of lamb or lamb chops and marinate several hours. Grill meat and baste with marinade.

On the Skewers:
4 link sausages
4 lamb kidneys or chicken livers
8 mushrooms
8 pieces green pepper
8 pieces red pepper
4 cherry tomatoes
Parboil sausages 3 minutes, drain and dry. Marinate sausages and kidneys or chicken livers one hour. Arrange meats and vegetables on skewers. Brush well with the marinade and grill until browned. Serves 4.

On the cover: On the raftered porch of Mr. and Mrs. William Rayner's Southampton cottage, the scene is set for one of the joys of summer—an outdoor luncheon. For a tablecloth, two crisscrossed lengths of a filmy flowered fabric. For a still-life centerpiece, a basket piled high with vegetables. Ashtrays look like flowers, a shell holds cigarettes, and octagonal white plates repeat the bamboo pattern of the dining chairs. In the background, leafy plants sun themselves; cushions in cool pastels fill the banquette and wicker chairs. Learn the facts of life about family room furniture.

For family room living you need furniture that not only looks good and sits good, but can take it.

Try to wear out a solid oak Howard arm. Sure. You can wear out the cushions. But you can get a whole new set for under $20.

Family rooms need:
2. Reversible, zippered cushions. When one is worn or dirty flip it over.
4. HERCULON* olefin fiber fabrics that outwear wool seven times. With stain release built in . . . not added on.

Howard goes where you really live. Whatever you call the room. And that’s a fact.

Most personal room of all: your bedroom

BY WILLIAM BALDWIN

Years ago I worked on a very fashionable and luxurious master bedroom suite: for madame, a huge boudoir with bath and dressing room, and for monsieur, a monk's cell under the eaves. Today our ideas about luxury have changed. Aside from the rooms that look like gymnasiums for fear of being too feminine, most bedrooms are what they should be—another living room, more private, more romantic, more personal than the living room itself, and always extravagantly comfortable.

F irst of all, you should have the best mattress you can buy, roomy enough and long enough so you can sleep without dangling your feet over the edges like fringe. Have a bedside table on each side of the bed (not necessarily a pair—we've been freed from that irrational restriction), each with a drawer for tissues, pills, and other needs. By all means have a lamp on each side of the bed, too. My favorite is the swing-arm wall-hung kind because it leaves the entire tabletop free for radio, clock, water carafe, your book, and maybe a pretty bunch of flowers. Or, if you like to read or do needlepoint while your husband sleeps, a little high-intensity spotlight won't disturb him and takes up almost no space.

Natural light is the villain in the morning. It can shatter otherwise sublime comfort into absolute irritation. If you wake at the first streak of morning light that cracks through the window, have the curtains lined and interlined in flannel and black sateen. And have them cut taller and wider than the window, with a generous overlap when they're drawn. If you must have fresh air as well as total darkness, you need practical curtains of cotton or duck rather than perishable silks. Line them with aluminum treated fabric, and, if they are light in color, interline them with white sateen.

E verything in a bedroom should contribute to an atmosphere of peace. For some, this means extreme neatness—just the necessities, with plenty of space between. Others make their bedrooms part sitting room and invite friends there for tea or drinks. One couple I know keep the living room for entertaining and do most of their living in the bedroom. Their living room is comfortable, of course, with lots of little bibelots and mementos that are very dear to them—but it is extremely orderly. Their bedroom is the complete antithesis. Books are piled everywhere, even on the floor beside the bed. A desk is cluttered with papers and unfinished business. You can tell that letters are actually written and bills actually paid there.

The bedroom ought to be the most personal room in the house, without regard to what may be promoted as "bedroom colors" or "bedroom styles." Some of the best city bedrooms I know have untraditional dark walls—peaceful gleaming chocolate brown, dark green, even black lacquer, with lots of printed cotton. In the country there is nothing as charming as a white bedroom with sprigs of color, fresh as a bouquet of flowers.

The most luxurious bedrooms have as little dressing equipment as possible. Building plans should always include a separate dressing area, with lots of drawer and closet space, and mirrors everywhere. If you own a house, you can often turn an adjoining bedroom into a dressing room and bath—I would do so even if it meant making the master bedroom a bit smaller. If a dressing room is impossible, there is, fortunately, unbedroomy looking furniture you can find if you search. A generous armoire, for instance, with shelves or hanging space and long mirrors concealed behind its doors is a beautiful substitute for the more functional looking dresser.

The chaise longue, which used to be an absolute requirement, doesn't seem to pull its weight anymore. You can nap so much more comfortably right on the bed. This also explains why pretty but practical blanket covers are often substituted for bedspreads. A more versatile seating idea would be an armchair and an ottoman that becomes a table for the Sunday paper or an extra seat without taking up the slightest bit more space. The dressing table is often replaced by the bathroom counter since so many women prefer to make up in the bathroom. There is one old-fashioned luxury that is as important today as ever: the big, heroically scaled bed. I love bedrooms that look as if the bed takes up the whole place—old-fashioned beds with tall posts and canopies or curtains.

When you wake up in the morning, the first thing you see should be the most beautiful thing in the room—a window facing the sea or a garden. Or a serene painting. It will put you in a good frame of mind, so that when your husband awakens, the most beautiful thing in the room will be you.

3 architects speak their minds

BENJAMIN BALDWIN:

"A successful house is one where you sense the people are really involved in being alive."

BENJAMIN BALDWIN, 57, was born in Alabama, studied architecture at Princeton and painting with Hans Hofmann. After completing his MFA at Princeton, he won a scholarship to work with the Saarinens at Cranbrook Academy and received one of the Museum of Modern Art's first furniture design awards. He has lived and worked in Chicago, New York, and Alabama and is currently designing the interiors for a house by I. M. Pei in Texas and the new library and dining hall by Louis Kahn at Phillips Exeter Academy. His own house on page 86.

How would you describe your approach to interior design?

I am against clutter. My work is my expression of opposition to the chaotic world man creates. In nature I find a sense of order, logical and lyrical, I would like my work to express.

"Logical and lyrical" certainly describes your weekend house and the surrounding gardens.

A house and garden—I couldn't possibly separate the two. Both are places to work and think and relax and be creative. I am a gardener and that is the essence of my house. I think of my house as a garden shelter.

Are there any important differences in designing a full-time year-round house and a vacation house?

No. A successful house anywhere is one where you sense immediately that the people who live in it are really involved in being alive. No one wants things to be the same all the time. That's why I object to the decorated look you see in so many houses. You can't imagine what the people do there or how they live. Good designers can make you feel their clients' personalities and still give them the guidance they need and do the technical things. Continued on page 14

Making beds is a drag.
So we did something that will make making beds a little easier.

We made a topsheet that looks good, you don't have to cover it up.
Just straighten it out (which takes only a few quick strokes because it's a permanent press blend of cotton and Dacron® by DuPont), and poof! Instant neatness.
No muss.
No fuss.
No bother.
So from now on your beds can look all nice and tidy in practically no time at all.
And you don't have to use the expensive spread.

A warm richness of wood characterizes this table that can gracefully highlight many settings. Use it for display against a sofa or wall until its ample dining surface is needed. Such versatility distinguishes the French Empire style chest, as well. Living room, bedroom, hall—all can welcome its exquisitely simple lines. In fact, Folio Ten is a compilation of pieces as perfect as these two. They're bound to become the focal point of any room. To choose your masterpiece of today from Folio Ten and from the Upholstered Furniture Collection, send $1.00 to Henredon Furniture Industries, Inc., Dept.HG 6-70, Morganton, North Carolina 28655.

From Henredon's Folio Ten ... A collection of classics.

Can an architect give form to a personal style that may still be evolving, as with many young families? If you talk to people and really try to find out what makes them tick, you can arrive at a solution that makes it their house, where they will have every right to change things and do whatever they want. A house is shocking, boring, if it is only a monument to an architect or decorator. People ought not to be terrified of expressing themselves.

WILLIAM W. WURSTER:

"Simplicity and restraint are the only magic I know for economy in building."

WILLIAM W. WURSTER, 74, of the San Francisco firm of Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons, graduated from the University of California, was a Fellow at Harvard's Graduate School of Design. He was Dean of Architecture at Massachusetts Institute of Technology 1944-1950, at the University of California 1950-1959, and since then at California's College of Environmental Design. Last June he received the Gold Medal Award, the highest award given by the American Institute of Architects. His house for the Morley Baers is on page 90.

What do you regard as most important in the design of a vacation house? A weekend house has a list of particulars that varies as much as any one house does from another. There is no set of general rules. It is fine to have offbeat ideas, to steer clear of dullness, but people are not more venturesome in their vacation houses than in other houses. What is important is that the house functions well in work and spirit.

Many new vacation houses have soaring roofs, multilevel plans, and wide-open interiors. Do you think "exploding the box" in this way is a good concept? Exploding the box is good for all types of houses, not just for vacation houses.

Why did you decide on the straightforward rectangular shape and three-room plan for the Baer house? The site is so magnificent and huge in scale that there is no reason to have a complicated structure to compete with it. The simple oblong shape is not fussy, and all the rooms share in the great view of the shoreline and water.

This is the best iron you can buy. Even if it didn't have power spray.

It's not nice to brag, but. Our GE iron has things theirs hasn't. Continuous Power Spray for instance. So you don't have to pump. You can flip from heavy sprays for coarse fabrics to a lighter spray for delicate fabrics. It's that easy.

Take away the Power Spray, and you've still got a super iron. With a magnified water window so you can see when it needs filling up. And 39 vents for steam when and where you want it. A fabric guide. A way to put it away nice and neat, called Wrap and Rest.

You deserve the best. General Electric is where the best irons come from.

SOME NOTES ON

GOOD LOOKS & GOOD HEALTH

BY REBECCA WARFIELD

AN AHEAD-OF-TIME DIARY

"It might have been." These are known to be "the saddest words of tongue and pen" because then everything's over. But the opposite is true, too. So, looking ahead before anything happens, here is an It Might Very Well Be diary of change—June in a time machine. The changes aren't dramatic enough to be traumatic, just tiny to medium-sized made on the principle that change is the only way to keep ahead of time.

MONDAY, JUNE 1. The smell of honeysuckle is transforming the countryside, so bought some to change the town. Floris has a true one.

TUESDAY, JUNE 2. How to give up smoking? They say it has nothing to do with will power. No, it's a matter of organizing the mind. Well, maybe I could organize my furious stubbornness, maybe I could imagine there was a regulation that we had to smoke. Maybe there is.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3. Found a brilliant fake sun tan, Revlon's diaphanous Bronzing Tint. Absolutely convincing because it goes on without the slightest thickening. I could put it on in the dark. Funny how expensive an early tan looks.

THURSDAY, JUNE 4. Can't do a thing with my super-awful nails except start growing new ones. Brand-new rp Nail Conditioner is helping a lot. I put it on for an hour a day, watch my nails just drink in the protein.

FRIDAY, JUNE 5. Been dead set against wigs but ran into one at Kenneth's so accurate it would fool my own mother. Mine is honey colored, longish, called Coco.

SATURDAY, JUNE 6. Picked up one weekend present for both of them... Royall Lyme, an interesting scent in a killing bottle with a parchmenty label and a message to "gentlemen and gentlewomen."

SUNDAY, JUNE 7. Woke up cross. Remembered "He who laughs, lasts."

MONDAY, JUNE 8. Woke up to a rainy day. Decided to stay in and play with my waxing set by Elizabeth Arden. Like a toy, with its little doll's frying pan for melting the wax. Spread the warm wax over my legs and even though I'm chicken it was painless. The After Wax Cream's balming anyway.

TUESDAY, JUNE 9. Woke up to sunshine at last. Time for the truly fantastic hair lightener from Clairol, called Lemon Go Lightly. It's sun-ergistic... You go out in the sun and spray it on little by little. I'm doing it conservatively for a change.

EYE TIPS FOR EYE TYPES
by Andrea

Find your double, and do your thing! For other personal makeover Eye-deos, turn to the Andrea custom collection of over three-dozen European Hair lash styles, at better cosmetics counters. Black or brown, $4.00 to $12.50.

THE TYPE: Deep-Set Eyes
THE TIP: Zoom them up with extra-long LONG JANES, fine and feathery, with saucy upturned tips. Another eye-surfacing trick: the LOWER LID lashes, on a transparent band that heightens the illusion of being your very own.

THE TYPE: Turned-Up Eyes
THE TIP: Really turn on their smile, with MEDIUM SPIDERY lashes that silken your eyes, sweep your cheek. (Or fashion's newest EXOTICS with the first transparent band, for a spaced-out linerless look.) Make it a double play, by adding LOWER LID lashes.

THE TYPE: Wide-Set Eyes
THE TIP: Bring them closer together with NATURAL MEDIUM FLUTTERS, zigzagged in length for a stagger-lash effect that's the ultimate in naturalness. (Also in Heavier and Extra-Heavy versions, as well as Demi style shown elsewhere.)

THE TYPE: Small, Close-Set Eyes
THE TIP: Create the illusion of larger eyes, wider-set, by wearing filmy FEATHERY lashes with greater length at outer corners. Add to the eye-opening effect with LOWER LID lashes on transparent band, to make eyes seem even bigger, brighter.

THE TYPE: Shallow-Set Eyes
THE TIP: Watch prominent eyes recede, when you wear NATURAL SUNBURST lashes with their close clusters. (Also in Standard version, with flared outer ends.) Continue the recession, by concealing full lower lid with LOWER LID lashes on transparent band.

THE TYPE: Down-Slanted Eyes
THE TIP: Make the most of your crescent eyes, with a winning combination of long LOWER LID lashes and MEDIUM DEMI FLUTTERS. Accents the downbeat, minimizes the upper lid...for a downright provocative look all your own.

THE INFLUENTIALS: PLANETS & PERFUMES. What would a sign of the zodiac and a perfume have in common? Both are deeply involved with personality, both can influence people. According to astrology, for each sign of the zodiac, there is a distinctive style of character. And according to the thinking perfumers, the province of perfume is not so much to attract others as to heighten the power of the wearer's personality. The right personality—the right perfume—the whole message. With this in mind, we went to Eleanor Shoemaker, a well-known astrological consultant, to see if she could make a telling connection between some fragrances and the people born under Gemini (May 21 through June 20). There was a quick turn-down for heavy scents, off-beat fragrances, and anything too sweet. Mrs. Shoemaker first picked Polly Bergen's Tortue as being appropriate. This seems a delicate mixture of flower petals with a peppery tantalizer. She thought it suited the very gregarious, popular, but not blah personality of the Gemini woman. Then Mrs. Shoemaker sniffed Charles of the Ritz's Ritual, a deep surrounding perfume like country cream—velvet, furs. She immediately felt, "Gemini needs this, it's comforting." Because, she says, although most Geminis are outgoing, frequently witty, they are hidden people, very vulnerable. When she came to Estee Lauder's Azuree, a well-mannered, fresh, and greeny scent, she knew at once "A Gemini man would love a woman to smell like that."

Clear the track! Here comes the 1970 Ariens Manorway lawn tractor and it's raring to go. Out front and going away, the Manorway is built to take on the roughest jobs in the yard. The nicest thing about an Ariens Manorway is that it rides and drives just like a car. Wood grain dashboard; key ignition; parking brake; six forward speeds and two in reverse. Here's a perfect example of styling, engineering and performance. Once you've chosen the Manorway, relax. You've chosen the best. And best of all, there's more to come — like the big 30 inch rotary mower or the super twin-bladed 38 inch model. When winter howls in, attach the front mounted snow blade or the Ariens two-stage Sno-Thro and keep right on going. And of course there's a rear hitch, too, for all other sorts of time and work saving attachments. This year it's the Ariens Manorway . . . winner by a yard.

There are 32 Weldwood wall panels between $4.95 and $8.95.

Isn't it time you made your move?

Like most people these days, you probably need more living space. You’d like to remodel, or maybe add a room, and you’d like to use quality paneling. But you don’t want to spend a fortune. So you just settle for the lowest price you can find, right?

Wrong. Visit your local lumber or building supply dealer, and look at the wide variety of Weldwood paneling. Sixteen of the handsome selection of prefinished panels will actually cost you less than $6.00 per 4’ x 8’ panel. There are sixteen others less than $8.95. And each one bears the famous Weldwood name, with all the quality that name implies.

Paneling with the quality you want, at the price you can afford, can only be Weldwood. After all, we’ve been making higher-priced luxury paneling, like DeLuxe, Charter, and Craftsman, for years. Unfortunately, only God can make a tree.

The only part of a Yamaha piano we don't make is the wood. We even make the equipment that makes the parts. It's not that we don't trust outside suppliers. It's just that in over 70 years of making fine pianos, we've found we can make any part better than we can buy it. With one exception. And unfortunately, there's only one supplier.

But then, it's probably all right. He's been in business even longer than we have.

Notes for the hostess

BY MARY MOON REMINGTON

To capture a bit of the joy of summer, to be able to hold it in the palm of your hand, to feast your eyes over and over again on summer magic all year long—what's wrong with that? A sensitive, naturalist artist distinguished for his work at the Smithsonian has brought about this minor miracle. With rare delicacy he has captured the tiny enchantments of garden and field, woods and orchards—exquisite minature, bird's-eye landscapes of real flowers, bugs, barks, butterflies, pebbles, mosses, and fungi—and imprisoned them in lucite cubes, cylinders, blocks, rectangles. Some are very small, others big enough for a tabletop center of attention. All are infinitely charming. Pure bliss for a desk in winter: a paperweight encasing full-blowed apple blossoms, leaves and stem and a fat bumblebee. Year-round delight: a microcosmic rock garden complete with a wee mushroom, bitty plants, a ladybug, sticks and stones. A jewel of a present for a gardener or conservationist or simply an amateur of natural beauty—the gift of summer.

Come casual summer occupations around pools, boats, porches, patios, it is sane and safer to use plastic glasses for imbibing anything from tea to tonic, and there are lots of attractive ones around. I've just found some that look good enough in themselves to drink—Glace Glass in icy, frosty, sherbet-color combinations. Satisfying on all counts for all beverages is the snow white on ice. I also love the deep red with pink, watermelon cool, or for life on the water, the aqua mixture of green and blue. Glace Glass is great for wet hands, too, the ice-sculptured texture providing bathers and boatsmen with a good grip. The tumblers come in four sizes, two shapes.

Folding chairs, a convenience anytime, are a practical requisite in warm weather when alfresco living makes a movable feast of almost any meal or party. But caveat emptor. There are folding chairs and folding chairs, some unhappily suggestive of endless, spine-numbing meetings, others flimsy whimsies rightly distrusted by men. And then there are the beauties recently arrived from Spain, reminiscent of the Buen Retiro Gardens in Madrid, stylish, slim, made of iron wrought like bamboo, painted like bamboo, too, in a mottled antique brown or fresh yellow. Their comfortable seats of metal "caning" have the chic of the old basket-weave Rolls-Royce tonneaus. With the tip-tilt card table to match, a foursome would set the scene charmingly for an outdoor breakfast or lunch. There are also smaller side tables, in nests of three, equally good looking and impervious to the elements. They take well to indoor living, too.

BY LOUISE ADE ROGER

This Flemish Madonna and Child will be a highlight of a group of dealers' personal collections at the Canadian Antique Dealers Association's first Antiques Fair in Toronto. It is a carved and polychromed wood statuette, about 14 inches tall, the colors being muted blue and gold. Can you give us any additional information about it?

T.B.—Oakville, Ontario

Your statuette of the Madonna and Child was made in the Flemish city of Malines around the mid-sixteenth century. Many of these small-scale Malines figures, popular with collectors, have the mark of the city of Malines or the letter M incised in their hacks.

Editor's note: The Canadian Antique Dealers Association's first Antiques Fair will be held from June 1 to June 3 at St. Lawrence Market, Toronto, Canada.

I would appreciate whatever you can tell me about my safe. The feet are shaped like four horses' hooves and just above them are four Egyptian heads.

J.M.—Selden, N.Y.

Your household safe, a very nice example, dates around the 1860s. The best safes were made in England.

This mark appears on the bottom of my hand-painted wash basin, which has a painting of a woodpecker on a branch with berries and flowers. Can you estimate its age?

L.H.—Pearl City, Hawaii

Brown-Westhead, Moore & Co. were Staffordshire potters of Cauldon Place, Hanley from 1862 to 1904. The pattern “Woodpecker” was registered in 1888, probably the year your basin was made.

Juliet slept here.

You may not live in a Renaissance palace. And have rough-hewn stone for a floor. But you can have a bedroom as romantic as Juliet's with "Bellissimo" bedspreads from Sears. They're bedspreads so thick and luxurious. Richly embroidered and laced with fringe. And you won't have to travel to Italy because we imported "Bellissimo" just for you.

In six beautiful tapestry designs. Nineteen glorious colors. In every size, even king and queen. "Bellissimo" bedspreads. At most Sears, Roebuck and Co. stores and in the catalog.

Some night this summer around 2 a.m. you'll wish you had "The Great Indoors."

It can get awfully sticky some summer nights. If you don't live in "The Great Indoors".

That's your house with Bryant central air conditioning. Without it, you'll toss and turn and sweat, exhausted. And maybe you'll walk out on the porch and catch a breath of hot, muggy air.

That's no time to wish you had the Great Indoors. The time to do something about it is now.

This time of year your Bryant dealer can give you a better deal. And make your home cool and comfortable before the dog days arrive. And with Bryant, you get a choice of gas or electric. That's important. Because in some areas, gas costs less to operate. In some areas, electric costs less. So you can choose the type that's most economical for you.

So give your house "The Great Indoors" treatment. Now. And get a good night's sleep this summer.

Each “Antron” fiber acts like a miniature prism to break up light reflections and drastically cut the appearance of surface soil. That keeps a carpet looking cleaner, fresher and newer longer than you’d think possible. No matter what kind of carpet you buy, “Antron” or “Antron” II (new form, same wonderful properties) will keep it looking its beautiful best. Go ahead. Go bright. Go light. Even go white. When my mother bought this table about thirty years ago, it had a green felt top. Is it possibly a game table, and can you date it?
P. Mck.—San Antonio, Tex.

"LOUIS QUATORZE" TABLE

Your table, not a game table, is in the style the Victorians loved to call "Louis Quatorze." It is probably of American manufacture, dating around the 1860s.

Is this a coffee server as I think it is? "Aurora Triple Plate" is marked on the bottom. I would appreciate anything you can tell me about the piece.

You have an ice water pitcher. The Aurora Silver Plate Co., Aurora, Ill., was active from 1869 to about 1915. These pitchers, especially your tilling type, sat on a tray with a matching goblet, and date around the late 1870s to 1880s. Pitchers, such as yours, are collector's items today.

What is the approximate age, nationality, and original use of this epergne?
M.R.—Scarsdale, N.Y.

Your epergne appears to be of English manufacture, probably dating from the 1840s. It should be examined at first hand to be sure, because the framework looks older than the glass. "Epergne" comes from the French épargner meaning "to save." Waste of costly fruits and nuts was avoided as each person used the glass dish in front of him—part of the elaborate centerpiece—and took only as much as he wanted to eat.

Just in time for the asparagus season, we’ve invested in a new steamer. I didn’t see how I could find room for another sizable pan, but after a little thought, I disposed of an extra colander and a time-worn double boiler to make a place for the newcomer. It’s a deep rectangular aluminum pan with a tight-fitting lid. Found it in New York at Hammacher-Schlemmer. Besides being roomy enough to cook a good batch of vegetables, its greatest feature is an adjustable rack that can be used in three different positions. You can lower the food right down into the boiling water or keep it just above the steam. I’m thinking ahead to clams this summer, to say nothing of corn and broccoli and other delicate vegetables that often get broken up in the transfer from pan to plate.

Of all the places in the house where I like to keep flowers, I think the kitchen is the most important. Especially as our roomy old kitchen is the hub of the household. It’s a pleasant place to be with its fireplace and shiny copper, and I like to keep it festive with a smallish bouquet on the main work counter (down at one end where it isn’t in the way) and a huge wooden bowl of fruit in the corner. The lazy susan on the table has another bowl of fruit waiting to ripen and a small bud vase with just a few flowers in it. Our current bouquets are some heavenly yellow roses—two in the little bud vase and a tight bunch in a blue and white Wedgwood pitcher.

Tom is certainly keeping his workshop in far better shape since we bought the big utility vacuum cleaner. I never dreamed it would be so useful—takes on all kinds of jobs and sucks up just about anything into its 10-gallon container. A natural for sawdust and wood shavings, invaluable for sweeping up a lot of crumbling plaster in the cellar. And the Wilders borrowed the machine to clean up the paper rose petals on their driveway after Jane’s wedding. We bought the full kit of Work Horse attachments including a 14-inch floor nozzle with a brush, a 30-inch extension handle, and a set of roller-around casters. Found this at Hammacher-Schlemmer, too.

I’m out to get the person who uses a pencil to operate our nice white telephone. It makes ugly marks on the instrument, and they’re not so easy to get off. The other day I tried a new method—I dipped a piece of soft cloth into some undiluted liquid cleaner and put the cloth over the eraser end of a pencil. Leaving the receiver in place, I dialed “0” several times with the pencil until the worst of the marks were gone, then finished up the hard-to-get-at places with a Q-Tips cotton swab dipped into the cleaner. It’s also possible to slip the flat edge of a cleaning cloth under the dial and pull it back and forth to remove dirt and marks, but the extra pressure of using a pencil or a Q-Tips cotton swab is more effective.

Do you always favor a kitchen-sitting room combination in vacation houses?

The kitchen layout is just the way Frances Baer wanted it. The house near Carmel was designed at their house in Berkeley, where we are neighbors. When I stopped in on my way home from work, we listed and sketched ideas under unrushed and pleasant circumstances. That represents to my thinking the perfect way to have creative qualities spring from client and architect alike.

Why is their vacation house built of stone instead of the wood siding you so often choose?

The Baers' site is on the wild, rugged, exposed coast that the poet Robinson Jeffers described so well. There are marvelous days when you want to be out of doors and free of any house. But the weather can turn fierce, and angry winds call for a watertight house that won't blow away. Hence the stone.

Can you give any hints on how to build a vacation house economically and successfully?

I know of no magic to do things economically—except by discipline, in which you simplify and omit things. As for success, a lot depends on your contractor. We were very fortunate on the Baer house to have Ted Gudmundson and Caesar Bradanini.

HORACE GIFFORD:

"When I finish a house, I like to think it has made the site a more interesting place."

HORACE GIFFORD, 37, was born in Vero Beach, Fla. and received his architectural degree from the University of Florida in 1955. He worked in New York architectural offices and since 1965 has independently designed over sixty year-round and vacation houses, primarily on Long Island, but also from Connecticut to Puerto Rico. He built a vacation house for designer-illustrator J. Hyde Crawford (see page 92) "whose ideas and quick eye," Mr. Gifford says, "made him a wonderful client." We talked to architect and client together.

Mr. Gifford, how does the site of a vacation house affect your design?

I believe that the site affects the design much more than the client's program or budget. If the site is a good one, like Mr. Continued on page 44

Crawford’s, it allows freedom of design. The site usually suggests what the house wants to be as a form in space.

Is an architect usually given a freer hand on a vacation house?

I suppose so. But for any type of house, I find there are good clients and bad clients. A good client knows what he wants and can articulate his wants. Then he puts his trust in you. The people who can’t express themselves tend to be the same ones who cannot trust an architect.

Mr. Crawford, what about this question of trust?

We were in complete accord on the concept, and we stuck with it. But when you are building a house, there is a point where you become afraid because it is your money, and you get to thinking that maybe you’ve gone too far. It’s not like an apartment you can change by redecorating. But the minute you see your house becoming exactly what you wanted and more, anything goes. For instance, Gifford thought of cantilevering a cedar deck out over the water. It’s 15 feet in diameter with a bench around it, and it gives another vista of the house and another place to be.

Mr. Gifford, your houses are known for simplicity plus luxury details at a manageable price. How do you do this? Have you any special formula?

The simplicity of my design stems from the idea that a house should be one statement. The luxury details are a matter of using standard things in an unstandard way. Simplicity does not mean that variety cannot happen within the given framework. A detail such as the round guest shower in the Crawford house began with a standard part, a prefabricated fiberglass shower unit. I encased it in wood and added a skylight above it. The ceramic tile floors are ordinary 1-inch by 2-inch tile but set on the diagonal instead of in squares.

Mr. Crawford, what details in your house do you particularly like?

Once we decided to break the rectangles with circular forms—cylindrical showers and closets, round skylights—marvelous things began to happen. The only room that doesn’t look outward is the master bath, but its skylight creates a pattern of light ellipses on the walls and floors that changes constantly. Light might not be important to a lot of people, but it is one of the joys of the house to me.

Lasker. . . . And the frustrations of Park Avenue's traffic were mitigated by four newly planted center strips subsidized by Mrs. Richard Rodgers and Mrs. Bennett Cerf. . . . What are you doing? Even if you have neither dollars nor acres to spare, there are steps you can take right now to help preserve the natural beauty of the United States, its native flora and fauna and the purity of its air and water. Here they are spelled out by a former secretary of the interior, now chairman of Overview, a team of environmental consultants, and visiting professor of environmental humanism at Yale:

Seven things you can do to make America beautiful

BY STEWART UDALL The 1960s may turn out to be years when agitation and action made conservationists of us all. What started as a movement to save remote wilderness fastnesses from loggers and miners has come close to home with the all-pervasive challenge of dirty air, filthy streams, and littered landscapes that now besiege our homes and affront our everyday lives.

It is not merely our summer vacation spots, but where our children play that has brought environmental concern into the forefront of every community and every citizen's agenda. The perspective of space travel has emphasized that Earth is where our roots will always remain. "The Moon is uninhabitable; Mars is uninhabitable; Venus is uninhabitable; the Earth is all we've got," said Astronaut Walter Schirra in a recent plea for eliminating pollution. Or, as Nobel Prize winning Harvard biologist George Wald said in another context, "America is our home. We had better stop conceiving of it as an economic machine and begin treating it as our home."

While the task is enormous, conservation today is not a matter of weak Davids confronting Goliaths of Garbage. Conservationists can win specific battles—whether it is 12,000 acres bought and saved from bulldozers by active conservation commissions in Massachusetts, or Lady Bird Johnson and all her followers sprucing up Main Street—if enough people care and are willing to get their hands dirty in fights to save the land.

The American family is beginning to discover that conservation activism is just as important as supporting the community chest or belonging to the P.T.A. For the environment affects everybody. It influences what we see, smell, hear, and touch every day. It shapes the perceptions—and enlarges or narrows the expectations—of our children. Continued on page 110

House & Garden, June, 1970
To the Eric Mulvanys, summer means sun, water, trees, and flowers, time to dream up new menus, to take up a new hobby or elaborate on an old one. Mr. and Mrs. Mulvany—he is an illustrator, she is interior designer André Fiber of Fiber-Jehu, Inc.—have a house on Long Island that, although built for year-round use, comes to full bloom in summer. It is then that Mrs. Mulvany, who discovered a few years ago that she has a green thumb, goes delightfully mad tending her gardens. One of them, above, frames the cobblestone paving leading to the front door (the house is as Provincial French as the Mulvanys could make it). There are geraniums and daisies everywhere, and mobile plants are looked after on a terrace, right, that Mrs. Mulvany calls her “potting shed” and where she goes every morning “directly from bed to trowel.” (Continued)
THE ERIC MULVANYS:

“We love guests who like to swim, garden, and toss salads.”

A Mulvany day might begin with coffee in the pool garden, 1, where petunias and daisies flourish like the green bay tree, then a dip in the pool, 2, warmed when it’s chilly, lighted below water level at night. “We even have lights in the trees. Electric fireflies!” If they like, guests join Mrs. Mulvany in the kitchen, 3, with its Portuguese tile walls, butcher-block counters. There they peel and chop while she concocts something wondrous. She so impressed Craig Claiborne that he gave half a page of the New York Times to her chicken with prunes and pistachios, swordfish with dill, peaches doused in brandy. The kitchen is quite open to the dining room, 4, with its old English hutch, French tables, American chairs, Mexican tile floor. “I love the openness. It makes me feel I’m at a party instead of a recluse chained to a stove.” Beyond the dining room is the living room, 5, a cocktail-coffee-cardroom beamed and two storied. Over the mantel, a Picasso copied by Mrs. Mulvany in needlepoint; flanking it, two of Mr. Mulvany’s paintings, and in a hall, 6, a hanging rack he made in two nonpainting days. (Continued)

Summer is made for family and friends
Weekend guests at the Mulvanys are given a room, 1, that Mrs. Mulvany calls “slightly Swiss” and Mr. Mulvany “a lot of hard work.” He spattered the floor. Tables, chairs, and a painted chest were found in Switzerland, and Mrs. Mulvany designed the headboards “to look Swiss.” Canopies and quilted bedspreads are made of heavy cotton because “everything in the house that can be is cotton. I love it.” So much so that in the master bedroom, 2, not only the bed but also the walls are bright with toile de Jouy. The Thonet rocker and the Boston fern were gifts. The latter grew until it threatened to engulf the room, “so we planted it outdoors, where it promptly died. It liked its bedroom, and I was so sorry I bought a traveling sprinkler that I keep in the potting shed, 3. I have to cover a lot of ground when I’m gardening, and I was determined that nothing else would feel thirsty or unloved.” So intense is her love of flowers that she filled the study, 4, with a bed-of-tulips chintz, “very gay with the wicker. We live in this room, which doubles as an extra guest room—that’s a sofa bed—and studio. Eric works here, and at the moment he’s painting on Lucite. You don’t hang the paintings up, you stand them up, and with the light coming through them, they have a sculptured quality. We also watch television here, and I do my needlepoint. That’s a Picasso I’m working on, and I’ve done a Braque and a Juan Gris.” Her eye for composition is evident everywhere, even in the potting shed, 5, where garden tools are arranged in a limestone urn almost as though they were flowers.

“We planted steps to reach our house on a curve of ledge and woods.”

From the Gilberts’ spring-fed pond, you step from cool water to warm white sand, past a rock wall up to a thick green lawn. Here you can choose any one of three half-hidden flights of steps to climb up to the Gilberts’ Ledge Cottage.

1. Mr. Gilbert, a painter, and his wife transformed a tangled slope into this garden of steps, each flight with its own planting, its own interesting twist and turn. One sunny path, 2, is banked with boulders and railroad ties. One is built of slabs of natural rock, 3. In season, they are bright with crocuses and tulips, then summer roses, petunias, delphiniums, zinnias, nasturtiums, and, in cool rock shadows, tuberous begonias. Along the third, tree-arched path leading up from the barn, 4, steps of bark chips and weathered wood, 5, are laced with the colors of geraniums, flowering shrubs.

THE GILBERTS:

“We planned our house so that almost every room has a view of the garden and the pond.”

Just as the garden was designed around nature’s composition of rocks and water, the Gilberts shaped their house around the view and built it to accommodate such travel finds as paintings and sculpture, a 20-foot spiral staircase, tall armoires, a fan-shaped “eyebrow” window that fills the vaulted entrance hall with sunshine, a pair of stained-glass windows that illuminate a gleaming new bath. Landscapes by French painters and by Mr. Gilbert open the few walls that do not open to the Gilberts’ own three-dimensional landscape.

Getaway house
by an old millstream

DAVID WHITCOMB:

"I found the mill in 80 acres of wilderness and wild flowers."

Deep in apple country a hundred miles from New York, interior designer David Whitcomb has turned an old windowless clapboard gristmill into a comfortable fieldstone country house "where everyone's 'itinerary' consists of doing exactly as he pleases."

Banks of terraces stretch to within a stepping stone of the stream, 1, where luncheon guests love to watch a dauntless poodle named Mona Black dart after fish. Centerpiece buttercups, 2, are from a half meadow-half garden, 5, where roses bloom among wild flowers, and a hammock swings above it all. On another terrace, 6, a pair of chairs share the view with the water wheel. An inventive cook, Mr. Whitcomb often treats guests to elaborate meals of his own design, using vegetables and herbs straight from the garden, and serving them in the dining room, 3. At breakfast, everyone invades the underground kitchen, 4, helps himself. (Continued)
DAVID WHITCOMB:

"The summer room is indoors and outdoors at the same time."

Reserved for summer, the unheated wing with deep bay windows, 1, is the mill's most frequented sitting area and "the perfect place to have cocktails and watch the hummingbirds in the garden." The floors here and in the kitchen and dining room have hidden drains so Mr. Whitcomb can clean them just by hosing them down. Out in the cottage garden, 4, are neat beds of roses, lilies, delphiniums, peonies, and herbs arranged around a center millstone. The living room, 2, is also a part-time study where Mr. Whitcomb works at a writing table painted to resemble woven straw. The quilt on the lamp table was a present from the wife of the stonemason, a man who combed the countryside for hundreds of fieldstones so the mill would exactly match the old kitchen wall—"the only original wall we left standing." In the master bedroom, 5, its fireplace chimney breast upholstered in the same flame-stitch paper as the walls, a heroic armoire, 3, supports a bowl of tumbleweed—a local "flower."

Outdoor living on an Arizona ranch
A wonderful example of the great outdoor life in the great Southwest is a sprawling 170-acre ranch, at the edge of a desert 40 miles from the nearest anything. There a rancher who breeds Arabian show horses has turned summer living into an exercise in hospitality—blue-jean informal, yet sparkling with style. Case in point is a surprise picnic: Everyone is sent off on horseback, and when they round the bend, discover hammocks and rugs under the trees and a lunch of cold chicken soufflé, chutney on brown bread, and ice-cold white wine. Later, back at the ranch, everyone hangs his riding hat on a moose antler, and sits around on rawhide and palm-fiber porch chairs, chatting over cocktails. Then dinner by a pool in the rose garden, or—if they’re lucky enough to have some rain—in the dining room, with its medieval Venetian chairs and contemporary porcelain stove. Typical outdoor dinner: chicken, barbecued in the kitchen over a fire heaped with lots of fresh rosemary, and served with salad and plenty of homemade bread. For weekenders who usually turn into “weekers,” a guesthouse bedroom full of antique Mexican tin furniture, and an Indian-style fireplace.

Kentucky cabin playhouses

THE GEORGE HEADLEYS:

“Cabins used to be frontier relics. Now they’re playhouses.”

An eighteenth-century smokehouse, the Headleys’ “cabin,” above, was moved from its original site on their Kentucky farm to a prettier spot overlooking a little pond where they have “sing-ins, cookouts, and swim-ins.” Used as a rustic playhouse, the little restoration has an L-shaped porch for a hammock and “lazy-type” furniture, and inside, right, old brick walls, a new tile floor, a Franklin stove for a fireplace, and a skylight where the old “smoke hole” used to be.
The Whilneys' cabin, left and bottom left, is not a frontier relic, but a reasonable facsimile. Set on a rock quarry, it is built of old unpainted barn siding supported by a dry-wall stone base. Inside, there are a dry-stone fireplace, a skylight (both the Whitneys are prolific painters and need all the light they can get), and a coffered ceiling of wood with painted trompe l'oeil graining. "It's an amusing little house," say the Whitneys, "but, for a playhouse, realistic!"

The William C. Robinson, Jr.'s:

"Our cabin isn't just a collector's item. It's a perfect guesthouse."

Next-door neighbor to a waterfall, the Robinsons' cabin—an eighteenth-century brick springhouse—below, is half guesthouse, half entertaining center. In deference to the age of the house, most of the furniture is early American, but there could be nothing more modern than its new little kitchen—a keep warm and serving spot for food sent down from the main house. "We lunch here a lot," says Mrs. Robinson. "It's great fun—like going on a picnic."
Ferns, flowers, fruit, and other pretty notions for summer—indoors and out.

1. For a long-term summer project, why not topiary? Inspiration for such an adventure might be this curvaceous Ecuadorian garden in Tulcan.

2. Strawberries, blown up to king size, are spotted on a creamy cotton fabric from Brunschwig & Fils.*

3. A sofa covered in cotton patterned with wood graining becomes a sit-on piece of soft sculpture. Fabric from Brunschwig & Fils.* Sofa from Stephen Mallory Preferred.*

5. Furry curls and fanciful textures are woven into baskets. At Antonio Flowers.

6. When the sugar bowl is out of sugar, fill it with mignonette! Sterling bowl by Oneida, flowers by Ronaldo Maia.

7. A serpentine brick wall undulates around white petunias in the Joseph Kazickas' garden.

9. A summer garden is created in Mrs. Harry J. Riker's apartment by interior designer Jay Spectre. A floor stenciled with ferns and seaweed is the background for the furniture—some of it of wood and plexiglass.

Nature's touch for the house and garden
THE MILTON PETRIES:

"Everything is bright, unfussy and takes care of itself."

To Mr. Milton Petrie and his wife, Thelma, summer means a house on stilts on a Long Island sand dune, full of fresh air and the smell of the sea, and the delighted squeals of visiting grandchildren. The Petries (he is a tennis champ who married a woman who "would be a beachcomber if I could") needed a summer house that knew how to take care of itself. "I like to be out on the beach with the kids," says Mrs. Petrie, "not inside cleaning up after them." So architectural designers Brett-Wallace Associates made the whole house childproof: Every inch of deck railing, is filled in with plexiglass. Showers are thermostatically controlled. And everything, from the shiny vinyl-checked game chairs to the glove-leather sofa, can be wiped clean.

The main living area is one huge sparkling room, divided by the way the Petries use it: fireplace and sitting area, game table and, near the breakfast bar, a dining table that grows to seat twelve. Favorite summer meal: flounder, gently sautéed in butter, and served with eggplant Parmesan, vegetables and a green salad. (Continued)
THE MILTON PETRIES:

“Since our only garden is dune grass, all our ‘flowers’ are built in!”

The kitchen, arranged like a ship’s galley and full of gadgets that produce things like instant boiling water and instant ice cubes, is a godsend when everyone decides to do his own thing at the same time. “Four or five people can be doing different things at once,” says Mrs. Petrie, “without getting in each other’s way.” Off the living room are the guest rooms, a pair of light-hearted variations on the pink-white-green of the living area. The Indian print, too exuberant to halt at the ceiling, goes straight across. Mrs. Petrie worked the needlepoint pillows, especially designed for her by Museum Re Creations. In the other guest room, summer’s biggest blossoms bloom on everything in sight.

At the other end of the house is the Petries’ private haven, a flower garden of a bedroom, with two matching baths. Here the Petries begin each summer day with breakfast together.

Art in an old red barn

THE HAROLD DIAMONDS:

"On the outside, it's just another barn. But inside, it reminds us of a Mondrian painting."

Much of the unusual quality of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Diamond's country barn is due to the fascinating fact that it was remodeled in the mid-forties by the great architect Mies van der Rohe. Beautifully placed on a hillside, the barn, 1, is surrounded by elaborate landscaping (inherited from a former owner)—a background for two of art dealer Harold Diamond's favorite possessions: an enormous spiral of copper, 2, by Joe Kudlajeck, and a Jean Arp sculpture, 3, of polished metal. The Diamonds call the Arp "the focal point of the patio, which is our outdoor living room. We eat there, entertain there, even cook there." A stone-topped buffet, 4, holds electric appliances and warmers that can be stowed away in an under-counter cabinet when not in use. Indoors, the barn is almost entirely living room. There is a kitchen, a bath, and a sleeping balcony, but the bedrooms for the Diamonds and their three sons are in a neighboring barn—an annex. There, the boys' bedroom, 5, is very simple, very colorful, with Hudson Bay blankets for bed covers and a wonderful Peruvian rug for a wall hanging. In the main barn, the Mies van der Rohe living room with its pattern of beams and timbers holds a sculpture by Frederick Kiesler, a Friedel Dzubas painting, 6, and an oil by Allan D'Arcangelo, 7, modern contrasts to an old Welsh cupboard.
Architectural designer Benjamin Baldwin thinks of his Long Island house as "an extension" of his brick-walled gardens. The brickwork, once the basement of another house that stood on the property, forms the enclosing walls for Mr. Baldwin's sunken gardens, his plunge pool, and sunning terraces. "My greatest pleasure in life is gardening," he says. "When I saw the basement walls and old trees and shrubbery, I thought what a wonderful start and designed the house as a complement to the gardens. Architect Earl Pope was my associate." The lower level brick enclosure, planted with climbing hydrangeas, tuberoses, four-o'clocks, nicotiana, is connected to the two-story house by a series of wood decks. "During the summer I spend much time working in the outside area of my house. The sunken garden and decks are really outdoor rooms where there is as much activity for me and my guests as inside the house." With its two towering glass bays, the house serves as a summer evening retreat. In the simple plan, below, a free-flowing living room (part of it two stories high) has an open kitchen at one end and a raised fireplace at the other. "The entire space is very casual, very flexible." Upstairs, two bedrooms, one at each end of a bridge, are also separated by a skylighted bathroom.

Benjamin Baldwin's outdoor-indoor summer house is totally devoted to an easy life style. The living room, 1, with exposed fir framing, white painted walls, sleek slate floor, is filled with iron, wicker, and wood furniture—simple, practical. "The room can be rearranged to suit the occasion or the season and entertaining is uncomplicated. Although I do my own cooking, I'm not above putting my guests to work so that the kitchen becomes an integral part of the entertaining scheme." The kitchen, 2, is a tautly organized area designed with various storage units that line the walls and are also included in a butcher-block work island. "Meals are unfussy. Often only wonderfully fresh fish and vegetables and a salad of greens and fresh herbs." Guests are served at a long French table flanking the kitchen or outdoors at a rustic table under a pergola, 3, canopied with reed matting. Indoors, a guest bathes in a skylighted bathroom, 4, outdoors, in a plunge pool, 5. On a side deck, 6, low wood platforms are padded for sunbathers.

THE MORLEY BAERS:

"Because summer here lasts the year around, we use the outdoors as our studios."

Perched in splendor above the mid-Californian coast, the stone house, 1, of architectural photographer Morley Baer and his wife would be quite at home in the Scottish Highlands. But (as they could not do in Scotland) the Baers can enjoy the outdoors all year. The countryside is a heaven-sent subject for photography, and Mrs. Baer paints almost daily on a sheltered terrace. Inside, architect William W. Wurster designed for the Baers a two-storied, gabled living room, 2, with a massive, granite-faced fireplace and a vast bay window that makes the crashing surf and neighboring crags, 3, almost part of the room, which is warmed by Oriental rugs, bright pillows and paintings, English country furniture, a Mark Adams wall tapestry. The book-lined balcony, 4, is a guest bedroom. Since Mrs. Baer likes company when she cooks, the open dining-kitchen, 5, down a few steps from the living room, has a built-in sofa-corner and a waist-high fireplace with a cache for wood beneath it. Open kitchen shelves, 6, are showcases for pottery and glass.

To enjoy outdoors:
cooling drinks

As a change from the traditional summer coolers—chilled beer, plain iced tea or coffee, long, frosty cocktails—here are twenty-eight refreshing summer drinks.

SODA PLUS . . .

Charged water is a great summer thirst slaker and blends admirably into a variety of summer beverages. For a rose apéritif, pour an ounce of crème de cassis over ice, fill the glass with soda, and add a twist of lemon for tang. Another tangy soda apéritif is made by filling a glass \( \frac{1}{2} \) full with dry vermouth and adding ice and soda to fill almost to the top. Then mix \( \frac{1}{2} \) jigger Campari and \( \frac{1}{2} \) jigger crème de cassis and carefully pour down the inside of the glass. Stir slightly.

To make a mint soda splash a jigger of crème de menthe over cracked ice, add soda, and stir. Garnish with a slice of lemon and fresh mint leaves. A Danish cooler combines 3 ounces Cherry Kjufa, 2 ice cubes, and soda.

Variations: Siphon soda into: 1½ ounces of Kahlúa; dry vermouth and a twist of lemon; or sweet vermouth (2 ounces with an ounce of lemon juice, ice, and a garnish slice of orange).

COFFEE OR TEA AND . . .

Delightful summer drinks can be made with a base of coffee or tea and a lacing of brandy or cordials—in the Charente region of France, the vintners and workers lace their coffee with cognac.

Iced coffee may be spiked with a teaspoon of Tia Maria in lieu of sugar, and a tangy orange flavor is added to iced tea with curaçao or a minty one with crème de menthe.

For an iced Irish—a summer version of the ubiquitous Irish coffee—add an ounce-and-a-half of Irish whisky to a tall glass of strong iced coffee. Fluff whipped cream on top. A cooling rum tea punch is made by pouring a good shot of rum in a tall glass. Fill up with iced tea sweetened with a little orange or pineapple juice, add sugar to taste, ice, and a wedge of lime.

A FRESH LOOK AT THE OLD BAR STAND-BYS

You can mix and mae many of the old relyables in new ways. For a brandy and tonic squeeze lime over ice in a highball glass, add brandy, fill up with tonic or bitter lemon soda, and, if you wish, garnish with thin cucumber slivers.

J. HYDE CRAWFORD:

"Without trying to, we achieved a kind of Oriental feeling in the house. It blends into its protective surroundings."

"Most people fantasize when they build vacation houses," says architect Gifford. "But not Mr. Crawford. He was a delightful client who knew exactly what he wanted. He specified three zones of privacy, so I gave him three solid elements: first, a central two-story living room extending from front to back. Second, a guest wing on one side of the living room; and third, a private wing on the other side. Bridging the wings are two airy lower-ceiled corridors with glass walls to hold a bath and the dining room." Transparent round shapes reflecting solid rounds are some of the spontaneous "happy accidents" that Mr. Crawford wanted to keep. In the guest bath, 1, a stock cylindrical shower is sheathed in cedar, topped with a bubble skylight. Specially placed doors—a last-minute idea—swing out from the walls on each side of the cylinder to form a sculptured wall and seal off the bathroom from the hall. Sliding glass doors are used for the front entrance, 2, as well as for scenic backdrops for the gray Formica-topped kitchen counter with its "pool table" lights, 3, and the guest bathroom counter. Set diagonally for interest, small gray ceramic tiles pave the baths, the kitchen, and the dining area, 4. A marble-topped Saarinen table reflects the round of the bubble skylight overhead to give the feeling of dining outdoors that Mr. Crawford wanted. In a guest bedroom, 5, patterned sheets on the bed also serve as bedspreads; the quarter-circular deck extends the room outside.

For materials and equipment used in this house, turn to page 117.
J. HYDE CRAWFORD:

"I wanted simplicity, openness to nature, and a clean break with city life."

Manhattan-based designer-illustrator J. Hyde Crawford wanted a summer weekend retreat by the water, on an island. Architect Horace Gifford designed for him a wood-and-glass beach house that blends into its natural sylvan setting, has two walls of glass that offer open views of a bay to the north, trees to the south. "The outstanding feature of the house," explains Mr. Gifford, "is that we did not diminish the beauty of the site in any way. Glass tends not to enclose—that's why we used so much of it." Everything about the house brings summer in or coaxes host and guests outdoors: sliding glass doors, wood walls extending beyond the glass to expand the rooms outward, bubble skylights that cast dancing patterns of light, bay and garden decks. Inside the house, each element is exposed as part of the total design. Red cedar walls are left unfinished, and 12-foot ceilings in the living room, 1, offset an enormous painting by Anthony Tortora. Built-in features are very practical, very simple. For example, the built-in chaises with prop-up backs, 2, that Mr. Gifford thought of for the deck behind the house. The plain bay bulkhead, 3, which also acts as a seaplane mooring, was made less plain by a small round deck cantilevered over the water. Inside, Mr. Crawford kept the furniture "sculptural, minimal, part of the architecture." Piled-together mattresses, 4, covered with Eastern fabrics, serve as a sofa; a rattan cube makes a charming end table. (Continued)

- ½ cup olive oil

Finely chop anchovy fillets and the white part of the green onions. Place in a screw-top jar and add mustard, vinegar, and olive oil. Cover, shake well, and chill thoroughly.

Beef Birds Spiedini
- 2½ pound center-cut sirloin tip roast
- Salt and freshly ground pepper
- ½ teaspoon ground sage
- 9 thin slices Montery Jack cheese or Danish Samsoe cheese (about 6 ounces)
- 9 thin slices prosciutto
- French bread or rolls
- ½ cup butter
- 1 clove garlic, minced

Have your butcher slice roast into 9 slices %4-inch thick, and cut each slice in half. Lay each piece between 2 sheets of wax paper and pound lightly and evenly, to make pieces 3 by 4¼ inches. Sprinkle each with salt, pepper, and a pinch of sage. Cut cheese slices in half and lay a piece on each slice of meat. Cut prosciutto slices in half and lay on top. Roll up each from the narrow end. Cut French bread into 12 strips the size of the meat rolls (about 1¼ inches thick and 3 inches long). Melt butter with garlic and roll bread in it. Alternate meat rolls and bread strips on 6 skewers, spacing them about ¼ inch apart, with 3 meat rolls and 2 bread strips on each skewer. Grill over medium hot coals, turning, about 6 to 8 minutes for rare. Serves 6.

Peaches Galliano
- 1 quart French vanilla ice cream
- 1 cup heavy cream
- ¼ cup Galliano liqueur or brandy
- 6 Babcock peaches (or other white variety or nectarines)
- Milk chocolate curls

Soften ice cream slightly. Whip heavy cream until stiff and fold in Galliano liqueur. Fold whipped cream into the ice cream, working quickly, and mixing just until blended. Return to the freezer until firm. Just before serving, peel, halve, and pit peaches. For each serving place 2 peach halves in a large wine glass or dessert bowl. Spoon over Galliano ice cream and garnish with chocolate curls. Serve with almond macaroons. Serves 6.

Creole-Style Barbecued Game Hens

8-10 Rock Cornish game hens, about 1 pound, 6 ounces each
1/2 cup melted butter
Salt and freshly ground pepper
Spicy barbecue sauce (see recipe below)

Remove innards from game hens (use for another purpose). Wash birds, pat dry, roll in butter, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Using a barbecue with a cover, place birds breast side up on grill, with drip pan underneath, opposite medium hot coals of a barbecue fire. Cover with barbecue lid and cook 15 to 20 minutes, or until birds start to brown. Remove cover and baste with barbecue sauce. Cover again and continue barbecuing 25 to 30 minutes longer, basting occasionally, or until the leg joints move easily. Serves 8 to 10.

Spicy Barbecue Sauce

1 cup catsup
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup white wine vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
6 cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons honey
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon chili powder

Combine all the ingredients in a saucepan and simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Makes about 1 1/4 cups.

Directions for Spit-Barbecuing Game Birds

Close the neck and abdomen openings of the birds with skewers. Roll in butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Run spit diagonally through the breastbone to the backbone just above the tail and secure with prongs. Space birds about 1 inch apart. Place spit about 6 inches above coals and barbecue 15 minutes; baste with barbecue sauce, and continue cooking about 30 minutes, basting occasionally.

Southern Spoon Bread

2 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup butter
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 cup yellow corn meal
5 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
12-ounce can whole kernel corn

Heat milk, butter, sugar, and salt in a saucepan just to boiling. Add corn meal gradually, stirring constantly, and cook until thickened, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in slightly beaten egg yolks and cheese. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form and fold in with corn. Turn into a buttered 2 1/2 quart casserole and bake in a 375° oven for 35 minutes, or until the top springs back when touched lightly. Serves 10.

Praline Pie

4 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons unsifted flour
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups dark corn syrup
1 1/2 cups pecan halves
9-inch unbaked pastry shell
1/2 pint heavy cream, whipped and sweetened

Beat eggs slightly. Mix together sugar and flour and add to the eggs with vanilla and salt. Add corn syrup and stir until blended. Reserve 12 pecan halves for topping, and coarsely chop the remainder and sprinkle over the bottom of the pastry shell. Pour the syrup mixture into shell and lay pecan halves on top. Bake in a 425° oven for 10 minutes, reduce temperature to 325° and bake 40 minutes longer, or until set. Cool. Serve with sweetened whipped cream. Serves 8 to 10.

4 tablespoons butter

Make a marinade of the wine vinegar, catsup, oil, wine, garlic, bay leaves, marjoram, rosemary, thyme, basil, salt, and pepper to taste. Place the steak, pork, and lamb in the marinade and leave overnight, turning meats to coat well. Barbecue meats and sausages over medium coals, basting occasionally with remaining marinade, and allowing about 45 minutes for lamb and pork, 30 minutes for steak, and 20 minutes for sausages. Place on large serving boards and slice meats. Meanwhile, slice tomatoes and sauté in butter until hot, and arrange as a garnish on meats. Serve with bowls of Toasted Manioc and Onion Sauce to sprinkle over meats. Serves 24.

Melt butter in a frying pan and stir in manioc flour or bread crumbs. Sauté, stirring, until lightly browned. Makes about 2 cups.

the four minute baked potato.

Faster than a speeding charcoal steak.
No kidding.
Put the steak on the grill. Toss the salad. And about the time you turn the steak, pop the potato into the Amana Radarange. A paper plate will do.
And 4 minutes later (maybe 5 minutes for a Wagnerian potato) it's baked, piping hot and ready for butter or sour cream with chives.
Not that baked potatoes are all we do—and do fast. It's just a good example. Because everybody knows you have to bake a potato for 60 minutes at 400 degrees in a normal oven. It does other things well. Like a well-done 5-pound rib roast in 37 minutes—medium in 32 and rare in 27—and with almost no shrinkage.

Indian Salmon Bake

Indian Salmon Barbecue

2 salmon, 8-10 pounds each
½ cup melted butter
½ cup orange juice

Have salmon “butterflied”: Cut off head and tail, split them open, and remove bones. Cut 2 green 4-foot-long alder branches or other green sticks the diameter of a broom handle and split them down the middle to within 1 foot of the base. Insert a butterflied salmon in each and wire together at the top. Slip 4 or 5 cedar skewers or split shingles (about 18 inches long) at right angles between stick and fish to hold in place. Build a fire, preferably against a rock embankment to reflect heat. Sink salmon stakes into the sand at an angle and let fish barbecue about 1 hour, turning once, and basting several times with melted butter and orange juice. Serves 24.

Alternate method in the garden: For a party on a smaller scale, use a metal fish-shaped rack to hold a whole 8-pound salmon, with head removed. Broil over medium coals, basting with melted butter-orange juice mixture, and turning once, for about 45 minutes. Serves 8.

Gin can be made into a fruity cocktail with 1 part guava nectar and 1 part frozen pineapple juice to 3 parts gin. Serve on the rocks. Gin takes on a sweet new guise in the Cocktail Maison at the Hotel Savoy in Chamonix. Frost the rim of a glass with sugar, dilute crème de cassis with dry vermouth to a pale rosy shade, add a jigger of gin, ice, and stir. Sip through a straw. Another gin cooler: Whirl pineapple juice in a blender with gin and cracked ice, and serve with a pineapple stick.

You will give a summer lightness to bourbon with 2 jiggers of orange juice to a jigger of whiskey. Add a pinch of salt, and serve over plenty of ice.

A sure-fire summer refresher is the Pimm’s No. 1 or gin sling, a British pub favorite in the summer months. Top it with ginger ale or lime or lemon soda, garnish the traditional way with a sprig of mint and a cucumber slice.

From South America comes a heady rum lime punch called a batida composed of quartered limes, crushed and mashed with sugar and drenched with dark rum. Serve with shaved ice in small glasses.

Lou Seibert Pappas, author of our Cook Book—Cooking and Eating Outdoors—page 97, lives on the West Coast and is a prolific out-of-doors hostess. For children, she likes to serve root beer floats made with coffee ice cream or a more sophisticated summer girl soda: Put 1 teaspoon grenadine and 2 teaspoons whipped cream into a 12-ounce glass, stir and top with an ounce of soda, stir again. Add a scoop of vanilla ice cream and one each of raspberry and orange sherbet. Fill with club soda and sip through a straw.

Chilled, red and white wines make lovely summer coolers. Try a light rosé lemonade: Combine 2 fifths of California rosé wine, 2 6-ounce cans frozen lemonade concentrate, and 1 large bottle of sparkling water—all well chilled.

Another simple wine refresher consists of equal parts of rosé and unsweetened grapefruit juice served in wine glasses. Or you might dilute chilled red wine with orange juice as they often do in France.

You can present a very pretty summer drink by pricking unpeeled peaches with a fork, placing them in the bottom of a glass, adding a few raspberries, and filling the glass with equal parts of Rhine wine and champagne. The peaches make a delicious dessert when the wine is finished.

Sherry takes on a summer flavor with the addition of lemon juice, cracked ice, and sugar, bubbled up with sparkling water and decorated with a slice of orange and a maraschino cherry.

A Kayser sour is made by shaking up 3 ounces of Liebfraumilch, the juice of 1 lemon, 3 teaspoons sugar, and ice cubes. Shake until sugar dissolves, strain, and serve garnished with a lemon slice.

From Spain, sangria is a wonderful warm-weather drink. Here is how David Sandeman in Madeira makes sangria for sweet after-dinner drinking: Fill a pitcher with ice cubes, add sugar, slices of fresh peaches, strawberries, oranges, and lemons, ½ cup Courvoisier, and a bottle of Sandeman’s Madeira. For another version of sangria, see page 104.

SEVEN THINGS YOU CAN DO

Each community has its own environmental assets and liabilities to be, in the one case, preserved, and in the other, eliminated. The following seven steps might be considered a prototype agenda for those who want to get into the fight in their own localities.

1. GET YOUR NEIGHBORS INVOLVED

Each of us has a special responsibility with our own property to make sure it is neat, attractive, well landscaped, and free from eyesores. But the minute we step out into the community at large, we need the involvement of others if our hopes for a better environment are to win success.

The civil catalyst can be a conservation or garden club, League of Women Voters, or Junior League. You can start an environmental committee in any group you belong to and make environmental action its particular platform in 1970.

The efforts of zealous citizens can often be boosted by skilled professionals who live in the community or are associated with nearby colleges or universities. Ecologists, attorneys, architects, landscape architects, and planners have invaluable insights and creative solutions to offer.

2. PIN DOWN WHAT NEEDS TO BE SAVED

Before an environmental action plan is adopted, a community reconnaissance can help identify vital community assets that must be preserved and enhanced. These might be found to include:

• Particular native trees, shrubs, or geographical features that identify the uniqueness of a city or a region
• Vistas of mountains, water, or far horizons
• Natural woodlands or marshes
• Venerable old trees or other natural landmarks
• Old buildings with character (every community has its historic sites)

A vital element of a community survey is identifying for corrective action the major causes of blight. They might include:

• Filthy streams and lakes from industrial or municipal wastes
• Junkyards and unsightly debris
• Noisy, clogged highways
• Lack of places to walk, play, or ride a bike

Not long ago, in Fairfax County, Virginia, a spirited citizen persuaded her entire planning commission to join in a bus tour of the ten "ugliest" eyesores in the county. Over a picnic of hot coffee and sandwiches—horrified at what they had seen—they mapped an immediate strategy.

Demonstrating the value of a camera and power of the press, a Southern town newspaper took up a crusade against blight. Each morning it had a fresh photograph and a fresh caption, “Is this your broken-down fence?” Or, “Which builder caused this hill to erode?” Publicity had an almost instantaneous effect, and the city went on to win national recognition of its conservation action program.

3. CLEAN UP THE LITTER

There is no better way to start! Junk-filled ravines, littered roadsides or beaches, shabby signs, derelict autos—all should be prime targets for civic energies. Man has been rightly called a “dirt-producing animal” by the eminent art historian, Bernard Berenson. Short-sightedly, we have advertised the virtue of disposable, throw-away, buy-it-again packaging, until Americans now discard an average of 2,000 pounds of junk per person per year.

Citizen groups need to focus critical attention on the entire solid waste disposal habits of their community. Is open incineration fouling the air? Are marshlands—prime breeding areas for shellfish and waterfowl—being filled with solid wastes and permanently destroyed? Is there an automobile shredder or crusher in the region to which abandoned cars can be hauled? Are litter laws in existence, and are they enforced? (A California judge punishes his littering offenders by making them serve time on roadside clean-up patrols.)

4. PLANT TREES AND VEST-POCKET GARDENS

It is hard for today’s visitors to Honolulu to realize that at the turn of the century, the city was a dust bowl, devoid of trees, its grasses trampled and eroded by the hooves of grazing sheep. One of the most laudable environmental transformations in the history of the United States was wrought there by a group of civic-minded ladies, who called themselves the Outdoor Circle. Not only did they force their husbands and other men of influence to remove the glaring billboards that were marring the cityscape, but they also planted thousands of trees and shrubs to make Honolulu a garden.

There are few environmental deeds more symbolic, more personally satisfying, more effective than planting trees. Trees moderate climate, cooling city temperatures in the summer and warming them in the winter, provide valuable oxygen and shade, relief from the wind. Some cities have adopted an ornamental tree as their emblem, like the flowering cherries of Washington, the dogwoods of Knoxville. In the last few years, Department of Agriculture scientists have been successful in developing a new strain of tree that furnish under urban conditions—the Bartlett pear.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson turned the soil to plant only twelve symbolic trees during her tenure as First Lady, but her followers have planted millions (40,000 in the Nation’s Capital alone). In Washington and a few other cities, she started another facet of the environmental revolution by transforming ugly weed-choked traffic islands into blooming gardens of flowers. And in the capital she made sure that the parks department shared its supply of spring bulbs and fall chrysanthemums with children in ghetto schools.

Other possibilities for community gardens include vest-pocket parks, tubs of flowers in shopping areas, and roadside plantings. In many neighborhoods, community vegetable gardens are equally popular and help the grocery budget, too.

5. FIGHT FOR OPEN SPACES

With towns today strung together in a congealed urban mass, the conservation of open space and parklands should be one of the highest items on every environmental agenda. We finally are learning that man, like all other mammals has basic "territorial imperatives," and that the open spaces we save are just as important to the vitality of our civilization as the buildings we erect. One park is no more adequate to the demands of a diverse community than one house would be for an entire neighborhood to live in. Parks are needed in all shapes and sizes, from vest-pocket lots to stream valleys, ball fields to wildlife sanctuaries, urban plazas to regional ecosystems.

A few years ago, a group of housewives and other conservationists took up the cudgels against a proposed jetport that would have leveled the Great Swamp of New Jersey. In the vastly overpopulated metropolis, the Great Swamp was a priceless "lung" of fresh air, a haven for wild birds and animals. Before the ladies and their friends were done, the New York Port Authority was thwarted, and Congress had established a Great Swamp Wildlife Refuge. The secret of their success was that they involved everybody—from city school groups to congressmen.

6. RESIST THE ENCROACHMENT OF FREEWAYS

Twenty-five years ago, America plunged with faith and enthusiasm into the Age of the Automobile. We ripped up streetcar tracks, permitted bus lines to become impoverished, and later launched the Interstate Highway Program—the biggest public works construction program in the history of the world.

For long distance automobile and truck travel, these highways have been a successful engineering enterprise. But when their 800-foot-wide concrete ribbons began to interlace urban areas, trouble mounted. Citizens found hard-won parks sacrificed to the highwaymen, since slicing through parks was cheaper than going through industrial or residential areas. Neighborhoods were cut off from their schools. The poor were displaced, and thousands of acres of prime real estate disappeared from tax rolls. Los Angeles gave up, and today nearly two-thirds of the city is sacrificed to the automobile. Hoping to avoid a similar fate—becoming paved with freeways and parking lots—San Franciscans halted the Embarcadero Freeway in mid-construction, placed a ban on all further freeways, and launched the Bay Area Rapid Transit System as a major alternative of easy travel less damaging to the urban environment.

Today in more than twenty cities, highway department plans are stalled against a wall of citizen opposition because the Highway Act of 1968, under which all federally aided freeway programs are funded, includes several important provisions:

1. For every freeway, two public hearings are required, one for the general corridor, another for specific details of the alignment.
2. If park, recreation, wildlife, or historic sites are threatened, highway departments must show that alternative routes have been studied.
3. Other housing must be available for the poor before their homes can be condemned.
4. Public opinion must be considered.

These provisions at last have given citizen vigilante groups the tools to fight for reasonably civilized freeway systems. But there is no substitute for advance discussion and negotiation, so that highway planners can know the areas where conservation sentiment runs strong before they commit their pencils to a map.

The proliferation of freeways is a glaring result of the single-mode transportation system that has become a self-defeating monster for urban areas. Variety is the key to a creative solution—variety in the form of subway and other rail systems plus good, public service bus systems plus highways plus bicycle lanes. All should be part of tomorrow's metropolitan transportation.

7. TAKE A GOOD LOOK AT DOWNTOWN

Nothing is more likely to stir a civic club or prompt a city council to sit up and take notice than a slide show of all the glaring, overlapping, confusing, cluttering eyesores that abound in the name of "advertising" or "utility" in our public places. Such eyesores have led to best-seller books with titles like God's Own Junkyard, and to the wry comment of an architect that the shopping center of one suburb looked like "something that had fallen off the back of a truck."

What is wrong with our shopping areas? Simply put, in downtown retail areas, traffic is strangled, parking clogged, and there is no room for cars. In suburban towns the problem is the opposite: asphalt abounds, cars are ubiquitous, and the pedestrian (translate: mother, child, window-shopper, stroller) is emphatically out of place.

Store owners and managers thrive and survive in a state of competition. Salesmen tell them that bigger and glossier neon signs will boost sales, but they will think differently when aroused local conservation organizations approach them with the promise of support if they will switch to more tasteful architecture and landscape design.

Some segments of the petroleum industry are beginning to learn that architecture and landscape design are as important to the appeal of their stations as having clean rest rooms. Placing telephone lines Continued on page 116

WHAT'S NEW FOR LIVING

1. "Trampolino," a standout at the recent Cologne Fair, is a chromed triangle slung with a sheet of pure rubber. From Italian designer Poltranova, it is a chaise with furry pillows at head and heels where one can flounce furiously, lounge languorously. 2. For the non-Horowitz, the cinch-to-play Hammond Autochord has single, numbered keyboard, automatic rhythm and bass accompaniment. 3. A time-and-money saver — a slipcover for old bathtubs is being readied. The Nemiroff Re Pro Tub, a porcelain-on-steel insert that aligns with existing plumbing, has matching apron and wall panels to complete built-in look. 4. Cassette recorders get even smaller. This Sony, slipped into an Apollo spacesuit pocket, tapes as much as four LPs. 5. Dazzling beauty salon. Frederick Glaser's Fashion Center in Chicago, with plexiglass and fiberglass spheric hair dryers straight out of the year 2001, is designed by Ron Zocher for maximum efficiency, minimum maintenance, total hedonism. 6. A bend of clear plexiglass protects a cookbook, holding it upright, open, and spotless. 7. Seems that whenever you need a flashlight, the batteries are dead—unless, of course, it runs on water, where just an ounce of any liquid immediately activates four hours of steady beaming.

SEVEN THINGS YOU CAN DO

underground, adding sidewalks and shade trees have won friends for electric power companies.

The best way for citizens to start is by looking at the whole picture and developing a comprehensive campaign and a comprehensive new plan that corrects the mistakes of the past as well as establishing a firm framework for future business, transportation, and utility decisions.

One has only to visit Nicollet Mall in downtown Minneapolis with its fountains, sculpture, and clocks, or the famous Fresno Mall, with its lush plantings and teen-age baby sitters, to get an image of the charm and fun that can be created if concerned talent is directed at reshaping downtown environments.

Whether your conservation objective is clean air, lakes and rivers fit for swimming, a new system of parks, or a new system of transportation, the cost is bound to be high. And today it takes superior proposals to compete successfully for scarce dollars from state and federal budgets. It also takes expressed public opinion, friendly editors, and sympathetic legislators. Such support doesn't just happen. It happens only when a grass-roots campaign is mounted and enough people contact the media—and their fellow voters—to make it happen. With an economic growth rate of three to four percent a year, Americans can expect to have $500 billion dollars more cash by 1980 than is available today. This will represent an unprecedented opportunity to turn our nation's wealth to preserving the beauties we have inherited.

Mrs. Irene Johnson: "I decided to try your Sauna Belt and I think it is great. Waistline before using Sauna Belt: 27 inches. Waistline after Sauna Belt: 22 1/2 inches."

Bob Butler: "The Sauna Belt has helped me to melt the inches away—2 inches off my waistline the first time I used it—a total loss of 4 inches in 6 days."

Mildred Ivie: "I relax with my Sauna Belt while I watch TV and I have lost 4 inches in just 4 days."

Karl Hoagland: "Always a great skeptic—for the first time a product did what it claimed. Using the Sauna Belt twice in one week, I lost 2 1/2 inches from my waistline. A 'Blue Ribbon' for Sauna Belt."

WHAT IS THIS SENSATIONAL NEW "SAUNA BELT"? The Sauna Belt is made from a special non-porous plastic material. It is completely different from any other belt on the market that makes waist reducing claims. The Sauna Belt is placed around your waist, directly against the body, and then by use of the special tube provided, the belt is inflated—just like blowing up a balloon. As the belt is inflated it will tighten itself around your waist and you will notice a snug, comfortable feeling of warmth and support throughout your waistline and lower back. After the belt is in place and inflated, you will then perform the two 'magic' waistline reducing exercises specially adapted for use with this remarkable belt. This will take just a few minutes and then you will relax, while leaving the belt in place on your waist, for another 20 minutes or so. That is all there is to it. This inflated belt is specially designed to provide resistance to the movements and to provide heat and supporting pressure to every area of your waist—back, front and sides—and when you remove the belt—voilà!—a tighter, firmer waistline from which the excess inches are already beginning to disappear.

HOW LONG MUST I USE THE SAUNA BELT? That depends on your goals—how many inches you want to lose from your waistline and the rate at which your body responds. Each person's body make-up is different, therefore the degree of loss will vary with individuals. It is recommended that you use the belt for a few minutes each day for 3 days in a row when you first get the belt and then about 2 or 3 times a week until you have achieved your maximum potential for inch loss. After that, for waistline maintenance, you can use the belt about twice a month, or as often as you feel the need. Many, many people lose an inch or more the very first day they use the belt. There are those who have lost as much as 3 inches on their waistlines from just one session with this 'magic' belt. The results from the Sauna Belt have been dramatic, to say the least, but whatever speed and degree of inch loss your particular metabolism allows you with this belt, remember this: You must lose from 1 to 3 inches from your waistline in just 3 days or you may return the belt and your entire purchase price will be immediately refunded.

NOTHING ELSE LIKE IT...AND THE PRICE IS ONLY $9.95. Nothing else that we have tried, nothing else that we have seen, nothing else that we know of can give the sensationadly rapid results in reducing the waistline as does the incredible new Sauna Belt.

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. We are so convinced that the Sauna Belt is the fastest, surest, most convenient, most comfortable, most sensationadly effective waistline reducer ever discovered that we offer this unconditional Money Back Guarantee: Man or woman, if your waistline is not 1 to 3 inches smaller after using the Sauna Belt for only 3 days, you may simply return the belt to us and your money will be refunded promptly and without question. So if you want a trimmer, slimmer, firmer, tighter waistline and you want it now—send for your Sauna Belt today and discover what a remarkable difference it can make in the way you look and the way you feel. It will be the best investment in your appearance you will ever make.

Clean & sanitize your pool by powerful vacuum action!

No electricity! No moving parts!

Only $9.98
with 75c postage

New Miracle Pool Vacuum removes dirt, grass, pebbles, hair, leaves and insects from your pool like an expensive pump and filter system. Attached to any garden hose, vacuum scientifically turns ordinary water fountain into a powerful suction chamber. What's more, you simultaneously replenish expended water with fresh, clean water every time you clean your pool.

Swallows dirt like a household vacuum.

Incoming water is channelled to draw all foreign matter through the unbreakable poly brush with firm yet flexible nylon teeth. These gather residue from sides and bottom of pool but cannot harm delicate linings. Old and new water alike is swept into an especially designed porous vacuum bag that acts as a filter. Only clean water passes through; all filth is trapped within. Backwashing is simply without tools and need only be turned inside out and held under running water to clean.

Use summer after summer.

6 ft. lightweight, rustproof aluminium handle permits pools of any size, even as large as 12 ft. in diameter to be easily cleaned from the outside; any size from the inside.

Summer begins when the iris blooms. Long bright days and increasing warmth bring the bearded iris to its full perfection of color, short-lived but spectacular. Sometimes called German iris, the bearded type, above left, is far and away the most popular, with hundreds of named varieties and hundreds of nurseries devoted to growing nothing else. But the bearded iris is a bit demanding: It must be divided at regular intervals, cannot stand the competition of grass or weeds, and is subject to attack by borers and various fungus diseases. Second most popular among the irises—and considered by a lot of people to be the real aristocrat of the tribe—is the Japanese type, above center. With huge, flat-open flowers in blue, purple, pink, or white, the Japanese iris blooms a bit later than the bearded iris and is much less fussy about being divided or about competition from other plants. It also thrives under boggy conditions but does not actually have to be flooded with water as some of the books would have us believe. Among garden designers, though, the Siberian iris, above right, takes first place because it stands up to all kinds of competition, forming denser and denser clumps as time passes, crowding out weeds, and blooming profusely with no more encouragement than a modicum of water and decently fertile soil. White, pale blue, and dark blue are the three colors to be expected in Siberian iris, and all make strong color accents in the early summer landscape. A first favorite is the variety, Caesar’s Brother, of a blue so dark it might be called navy—a color almost unheard of among garden plants. Books about iris are multitudinous, but the latest is probably also the best. It is titled simply Irises (Taplinger, $8.95), and was written by Harry Randall, an English gardener who, for once, chose as subject a plant that grows as well in America as in England. Mr. Randall describes each of the wild species of iris, tells how each has been used in breeding to produce new varieties and how, based on his own experience, each is best grown.

WHAT'S YOUR EXCUSE?
IT IS NOT TOO LATE TO PLANT ROSES
if you buy plants growing in pots or cans. Choice of varieties depends, of course, on your preferences, but the 1970 All-America Selection, “First Prize,” is almost certain to become a great favorite. A Jackson & Perkins introduction, this is a typical tea rose in form and a real rose pink in color. J & P has moved to Medford, Ore., 97501.

One great advantage of slow-release fertilizers is the time they save, since they eliminate the need for repeated applications. Memory saving is another advantage. There is no chance of forgetting one or another of the feedings called for by an old-fashioned month-by-month program. “Once,” a new Vigoro product designed for lawn feeding, slowly releases balanced proportions of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash over the course of a whole year. Release of the nutrient elements to the lawn grasses does not depend upon temperature, and the material dissolves at an even rate regardless of rainfall, so the once-a-year application can be made at any time.

An eye-smacking splash of color can be had for no more than the price of a packet of celosia seed, numberless shades in the red-orange-yellow range are available, but the best effect comes from planting one big mass of a single shade. The old-fashioned “cockscomb” celosia has been much improved in recent years yet some people still find it too clublike and awkward looking, although the colors are nothing less than gorgeous, the “plume” celosia is considerably more graceful and masses to better effect for a garden picture. Both types are available in dwarf forms, and some even have colored leaves to emphasize the flower color, seed planted outdoors in a sunny spot will produce a fine crop of flowers with very little attention.

OLD SNEAKERS AMONG PETUNIAS? They’re supposed to keep the rabbits away, according to Josephine Nuese, reporting a variety of gardening experiences in her book The Country Garden (Scribner, $7.95). Mrs. Nuese goes on to say that, for her at least, the sneaker trick did not work, but she had a nice crop of petunias anyway. How she accomplished this, and how she manages her garden from month to month and year to year makes an entertaining and instructive story, by a gardener who doesn’t mind getting dirt under her nails.

ALUMINUM FOIL TURNS OUT TO BE A GREAT MULCHING MATERIAL—one of the best. Shiny side up, it reflects practically all the sunlight that strikes it, which not only keeps the soil cool but throws that much more light onto the plants, and they respond by growing with added vigor. This is a real advantage in a greenhouse where plants become light-starved during the dull days of winter. Another advantage of foil mulch is its effect on aphids. For some reason known only to themselves, these tiny pests avoid the glare and stay away from foil-surrounded plants. Since aphids are notorious spreaders of viruses, such disease-prone plants as squash show a phenomenal increase in productivity when they’re foil mulched. Since aluminum foil is easily crumpled and torn, it is probably best to use it in the form of panels, made by wrapping the foil around sheets of cardboard a foot square or longer, place them flat on the ground and shift them around as necessary. They can even be stored away to use another season.

The Sunshine Room

It's wherever you put an Armstrong vinyl floor.

Any room becomes a sunshine room when the floor is Armstrong Vinyl Corlon®. Deep-glow colors in sparkling, easy-to-clean vinyl create a bright, cheerful mood that makes you feel sunny all day.

This gleaming country kitchen has a new kind of Armstrong floor that adds still another welcome dimension... cushioned comfort.

It's Cushioned Coronelle®

Below the hefty, vinyl wear surface is a foamed vinyl backing called Cushioncord®.

Because this backing "gives" under pressure, Cushioned Coronelle is quieter, warmer, more comfortable to walk on. And the Cushioncord is not affected by moisture, so the floor can be installed almost anywhere, even in a basement.

Best of all, Cushioned Coronelle is available in two stunningly realistic designs: the graceful Palerma styling shown here and a natural-looking brick.

To be sure of a trouble-free installation, buy Cushioned Coronelle from a store that has been certified by Armstrong to install this exclusive, new flooring. To find the one nearest you, call this number, toll-free: (800) 243-6000. (In Connecticut, call (800) 942-0655.) Ask for the name of the retailer who sells Cushioned Coronelle.

If you'd like more facts about Cushioned Coronelle, plus a picture-packed booklet showing our other fine floors, write Armstrong, 7006 Maple Ave., Lancaster, Pa. 17604.
