NOWELL'S

CONTEMPORARY FURNITURE

- After 107 years in business, Nowell's Contemporary Furniture will close its doors by the end of this year. William McKee Nowell, owner Jerry Nowell's grandfather, began the store 1905 by selling furniture out of the back of a horse-drawn cart. He moved it into a storefront in downtown Raleigh. Jerry's mother and father inherited the store and moved it to its current location in Cary in 1957. Nowell's won the "best place to shop for contemporary furniture in the Triangle" year after year from Spectator magazine, the Independent Weekly, and Metro Magazine. In 2010 Business Leader magazine named Nowell's one of the top 100 small businesses in the state. Nowell's Contemporary Furniture has also been one of Triangle Modernist Houses' primary sponsors. They sponsor the TMH Movie Series for three years and will generous do so again this year. From now until December, Nowell's is holding an "Everything Must Go" sale. For more information www.nowellsfurniture.com. Thanks, Jerry, we'll miss Nowell's -- a lot!

The 1951 David and Gladys Wright House in Phoenix AZ was designed by Frank Lloyd Wright for his son. Earlier this year, the buyer, developers 8081 Meridian Corporation, promised the house would be preserved. Now they have backed off that promise. In July 2012, the Frank Lloyd Wright Building Conservancy was awarded a temporary
