Architect Phil Szostak, architect of the crazy-successful DPAC (Durham Performing Arts Center) had a brilliant vision in the 2000's for the New American Home Project (NAHP), 12 lots of all-Modernist houses off Trailwood Drive in Raleigh, each designed by a different architect. Things were going along fine until the 2008 depression then financing dried up for development. Now, the property is for sale, still undeveloped. Thank you, Phil, for taking the risk to bring a new Modernist community to the Triangle. See a 2008 video of Phil speaking about the NAHP (mp4 format).

WANTED: Last month, Greensboro hosted the US Figure Skating Championships. Prudential gave away tens of thousands of little blue headsets/receivers over which you could hear skating commentary. These units are sitting in people's homes right now and are likely to be thrown away as they are useless without a transmitter. We need about 100 for NCMH's house tours. If you have some to donate, please email for shipping instructions.
