THE NEWS

Steven M. Reiss has a new book out on Frank Lloyd Wright's Pope-Leighey House. The Washington Post wrote that this, "...is a little Virginia house that made a big splash — and barely survived because of it. Reiss begins his story with Loren Pope, a plucky, 29-year-old "Wrightophile" who in 1941 wrote an artful, effusive letter to cajole the architectural giant into building him a woodland dream house. But the creation became threatened in 1960 when second owner Marjorie Leighey learned that Route 66 would run directly through the house. This set in motion a grass-roots movement to painstakingly disassemble, move and rebuild the house at the federally protected Woodlawn estate, all without its late creator's careful guidance. The results were bittersweet: a woman who signed her house over to the federal government in exchange for the promise of its survival, a botched transplant and, finally, salvation at the hands of Wright's apprentices and fans.

College/HS Student internship available: NCMH is the largest open digital archive for Modernist houses in America. We're looking for a part-time intern for the summer for research and as a production assistant for our upcoming podcast. You: are very organized. You are passionate about Modernist houses, search terms, and you pride yourself on responsiveness. Jar Jar Binks makes you mad. Apply with a paragraph about yourself and a paragraph about why you want the position to interns@ncmodernist.org.

Raleigh architect Frank Harmon appears on The Business of Architecture.

After two delays because of snow, Ambiente hosted a great Thirst4Architecture last week at their massive Modern furniture store. Providing some of our best door prizes yet, the event was catered by Irregardless.

MOD WATCH

Mod Watch keeps a watchful eye on the buildings you love. Keep us informed as things progress.

Dead Mod Walking 2015: The old gal's still standing but we don't know for how long. Please help NCMH monitor when Milton Small's masterful 3515 Glenwood building, first photo, receives the demolition permit online here. The site was approved last year for a three-story 72,963 square foot replacement, second photo.

This Milton Small masterpiece at 912 Williamson Drive, which recently changed hands after 30+ years, is scheduled for renovation by Hilary Farr and the crew of Love It or List It. This could be very good or very very bad for one of North Carolina's best examples of mid-century Modernism. Let us know when they pull the construction permits, here.
