Missed Opportunities: In yesterday's News and Observer, Mike Welton wrote about important Raleigh buildings we've lost plus one that never got out of the ground: Jim Fitzgibbon's Paschal House, Eduardo Catalano's Catalano House, Milton Small's 3515 Glenwood -- and the unbuilt City of Raleigh Lightner Public Safety Center, above, designed by Louis Cherry and Michael Stevenson. You'll also learn about Harwell Hamilton Harris, Raleigh's unheralded genius.

Speaking of Catalano, he didn't design many houses, so it's rare to find one on the market. The 1954 B. Richard Jackson House, aka the Carrier Weathermaker National Prize Winning House, designed with Horacio Caminos, 1317 Westfield, Raleigh. This was a showcase home to demonstrate the value of air conditioning in the moderate price range as AC was new to most houses at that time. The house featured some innovations, such as the HVAC vents are all encased in the concrete flooring system. Featured in the News and Observer January 30, 1954. The New York State Pavilion Ideas Competition, open to anyone: The New York State Pavilion, designed by Philip Johnson and Richard Foster, was the shining star of the 1964-65 World's Fair, charming millions of visitors who flocked to Queens for the two-year celebration. From its towering "Astro-View" observation decks to the open-air "Tent of Tomorrow," it was unlike anything anyone had ever seen. Now, after decades of disuse and deterioration, this one-of-a-kind structure is poised for a dramatic comeback...but as what? Presented by the National Trust and People for the Pavilion, and sponsored by Queens Borough President Melinda Katz, this is an

Help find the missing tape: Frank Lloyd Wright spoke in Raleigh in May of 1950. At the time it was the biggest architecture lecture in history, with over 5,000 attending in then-new Reynolds Coliseum on the campus of NC State University. We've heard that this landmark talk got recorded, and we're on the hunt for a copy. If you've ever heard of someone who taped it, or you've got any other clues, please contact George Smart at george@ncmodernist.org or 919.740.8407.

MOD WATCH

Mod Watch keeps an eye on the North Carolina buildings you love. Keep the NCMH community updated by driving by each week and sending an email if there are any changes.

The 1951 A. M. and Ruth Fleishman Residence, 2614 Morganton Road, Fayetteville NC. Designed by Greensboro's Edward Loewenstein. Jim

Brandt was the draftsman. Built by Ed Rynick. The house has recently been cleaned up and looks really good! Still, it's going to be a labor of love for the right person. Details in the Endangered Section.
