New Book: The Experience of Architecture, by Henry Plummer. Available November 15 at your local bookstore or via Amazon. This is a thought-provoking consideration of how architecture, from a doorknob to a city plan, can influence human behavior. It aims to understand how these everyday acts are influenced by architectural form, a concept that is vital for all architects to grasp. It considers how specifically built elements and volumes, taken from a wide array of buildings and settings around the world, can affect our powers of decision. From hand-carved stairs in Greek villages to free-floating catwalks, from the elegant processional steps of Renaissance Italy to Frank Lloyd Wright's masterly manipulation of form, all provide very different experiences of stepping from one level to the next, and all affect our experience of that space.

PROJECT BAUHOW

NCMH's Project BauHow supports North Carolina rural high school drafting students by putting hundreds of CAD systems into their homes. Learn more about empowering the next generation of architects in this year's Project BauHow video.
