Architecture You LOVE

Monday, December 26, 2017

North Carolina Modernist Houses (NCMH) is a 501C3 nonprofit educational archive that provides donors, volunteers, and advocates the information and organization they require to passionately engage the documentation, preservation, and promotion of North Carolina's residential Modernist architecture. Learn more at www.ncmodernist.org.

As NCMH looks ahead to 2018, we would like to know how are we doing? What do you like about NCMH? What could we do better, or differently? What do you want to see more (or less) of? Write us at george@ncmodernist.org.

Plan (download the plan here). After WWII, states like New York looked at their aging capitol buildings and considered sweeping new plans to bring technology, commerce, government, and even the performing arts into the full 20th century. Albany's master plan was so successful, North Carolina wanted to do the same thing in the early 1960's. The blue ribbon panel of architects, consultants, and government members presented a beautiful plan - which was almost completely ignored. One of those consultants from 1965 is Lewis Clarke is one of North Carolina's most celebrated and prolific landscape architects.
