Kelton Apartments Salon
SAH/SCC On-Site Tour, Westwood

Described by author Thomas Hines as "modest but fetching," the Kelton Apartments was designed by Richard J. Neutra (1892-1970) in 1941 as a rental investment for himself and his extended family. Neutra's in-laws, the Niedermans, moved from the nearby Strathmore Apartments (Neutra, 1937) and lived out their days at Kelton.

From noted Neutra scholar and former SAH/SCC Board Member Barbara Lamprecht: "Completed in 1941, the Kelton Apartments has been noted for its architectural excellence since its completion. It embodies a shift in Neutra's architectural approach from earlier, purer iterations of the boxy volumes of the International Style as seen in the nearby Strathmore and Landfair Apartments, built in 1937. While retaining some key character-defining features of the earlier style, Kelton Apartments embodies a more relaxed, regionally responsive composition with a more woody palette and a 'breaking of the box' approach seen in extended terraces and roof overhangs that enable a fuller relationship with nature. Neutra's mastery is exhibited here in a building type rarely seen in his work, that of a small multi-residential apartment building. Limited to a modest square footage and exploiting a challenging sloping site, the three-unit design appears to be a single-family residence. It is carefully scaled in such a way that the property overall retains a domestic feeling, yet each unit feels expansive and functionally efficient."

Special guests are being planned for this event. This informal salon will include refreshments and the opportunity to relax in the space. Capacity is limited for this program.

Kelton Apartments Salon—Saturday, April 1, 2023; 2-3:30 PM; $25 for SAH/SCC members; $35 for non-members; go to www.sahscc.org, and pay via PayPal or mail in order form on Page 6 with check.

SAH/SCC President’s Letter

Thank you, Merry!

At the end of 2022, Merry Ovnick, Ph.D., announced that she was leaving the SAH/SCC board after 30 years of service to the organization. Over the years, Merry has been the bedrock of the organization. She served as Membership Director, tirelessly keeping track of members and ex-members and mailing out reminder notices. She followed that by serving as Chapter President. Merry was also the volunteer coordinator for the national SAH conferences in 1998 (Los Angeles) and in 2009 (Pasadena).

In addition to her leadership, Merry has conceptualized and led dozens of tours for SAH/SCC. Among her more memorable programs were Redlands Rendezvous (1998), Kesling Modern Structures (2002), and Wallace Neff: Backwards and Forwards (2006). Redlands Rendezvous explored the rich turn-of-the-century architecture of that important citrus community. Merry’s Kesling program celebrated the work of architect William Kesling (1899-1983) with a tour of five Streamline Modern homes in Silver Lake. Her program on Wallace Neff (1895-1982) brought new depth to the work of the seminal Los Angeles architect with a look at several signature Spanish Colonial Revival designs in the Pasadena and San Marino areas. Merry’s 2017 Eichler Thousand Oaks Tour was a resounding success with a standing-room-only lecture followed by a robust tour of Eichler homes.

In addition to her work with SAH/SCC, Merry has led an illustrious career as an author, historian, and educator. In her book, Los Angeles: The End of the Rainbow (Balcony Press, 1994), she explored the variety of period revival styles intertwined with the history and mythology of Los Angeles. She won the Donald H. Pflueger Local History Award by the Historical Society of Southern California (HSSC). She is also the author of numerous articles, including "The Mark of Zorro: Silent Film’s Impact on 1920s Architecture in Los Angeles," in California History, the journal of the California Historical Society.

For decades, Merry taught in the Department of History at California State University, Northridge, retiring in 2014. In that role, she mentored generations of young scholars who are leading the way into the next century. Merry is currently the editor of the Southern California Quarterly, published by HSSC. She also travels the world seeking art, architecture, and culture.

Above all, Merry is more than a colleague; she’s a true friend. Her cheerfulness and generosity are always on display, as she would step up to help, even with the most menial of duties—pouring lemonade and arranging cookies. Her ideas inspire. Vastly knowledgeable, she is a natural teacher and prodigious researcher, ever curious. And always modest—so much so that she’d brush off all these accolades with a laugh.

Merry will continue to be a welcomed presence at SAH/SCC events, and we will miss her enormous contributions as a board member and Past President. Merry, thank you for being an essential part of the heart and mind of this organization.

Authors on Architecture:
Kathrens on Newport Cottages

Coming This Fall

Michael C. Kathrens gives house enthusiasts a superbly visual and informative book on Newport, RI’s early resort architecture in his latest contribution to America’s architectural record, Newport Cottages 1835–1890: The Summer Villas Before the Vanderbilt Era (Bauer and Dean Publishers, 2023). Between 1835, when the first private house was built exclusively for seasonal use, and 1890, scores of magnificent homes were commissioned by a burgeoning summer colony whose members were among America’s wealthiest and most prominent families, including the Schermerhorns, Lorillards, Goetzes, and Joneses. The luxury and splendor of their homes, many designed on a grand scale, often rivaled the sumptuousness of Newport’s later “Gilded Age” mansions.

Stockstill & Oliver on Irvine Ranch

SAH/SCC Zoom Program
Sunday, April 30, 2023, 1-2:30 PM Pacific

Join SAH/SCC as we welcome authors C. Michael Stockstill and H. Pike Oliver, who will explore their book Transforming the Irvine Ranch: Joan Irvine, William Pereira, Ray Watson, and the Big Plan (Routledge, 2022).

From citrus trees to spring breakers, Transforming the Irvine Ranch tells the story of Orange County’s metamorphosis of 93,000 acres of farmland into the iconic Southern California landscape of beaches and modernist architecture. Drawing on decades of archival research and their own years at the famed Irvine Company, the authors bring a collection of colorful characters responsible for the transformation to life.

Residents of Southern California will better understand how many Orange County communities came to be by getting a fascinating peek behind the “Orange Curtain.” For others, it is a rare glimpse of how an entire region was master-planned in the late 20th century.

Learn about the vision master architect William Pereira, FAIA (1909-1985), had for the University of California, Irvine, and how a variety of compatible residential developments would radiate from the education hub.

Authors on Architecture: Keylon on Kaptur

SAH/SCC Zoom Program
Sunday, June 25, 2023, 1-2:30 PM Pacific

This June, SAH/SCC will welcome author Keylon on his book The Modern Architecture of Hugh Michael Kaptur (Palm Springs Preservation Foundation, 2019), which explores the life and work of this modern architect. Keylon discusses hundreds of Kaptur projects—some that attendees will be familiar with and others they will be surprised by.

With the aid of hundreds of hours of interviews, archival materials at the Palm Springs Art Museum Architecture and Design Center, and Kaptur’s own materials, Keylon traces the arc of the remarkable career of Hugh Kaptur (b. 1933) from the avant-garde modern designs of the 1950s and 1960s, to his more organic modern designs of the late-1960s and 1970s.

Keylon is also a founding member of the Stewardship Council of The Cultural Landscape Foundation and serves on the board of DocomomoUS/SoCal.

Ed Fella: A Life in Images
edited by David Cabianca

If you’ve been as lucky as I have to see graphic artist Ed Fella (b. 1938) talk about his work, you will be charmed and delighted. This visual biography is absolutely the next best thing. Within these beautiful reproductions you’ll experience Fella’s wit as he riffs on history and makes letterforms dance. Starting as a commercial graphic designer in Detroit, Fella’s early work for car companies and other corporate entities runs simultaneously with posters and mailings for arts organizations. Retiring from professional practice to take up teaching in Los Angeles, the self-described “exit-level designer” pursued the craft with no client in mind, thereby “using design to make art.” The Detroit/LA connection runs deep in this book. Fella and essay contributor Lorraine Wild are alums of Cranbrook; Wild studied there under essayist Katherine McCoy; McCoy and Wild worked with Fella at Designers & Partners in Detroit; Wild invited Fella to join her as an instructor at California Institute of the Arts; editor and essayist Cabianca taught at both Cranbrook and CalArts. The essays trace Fella’s life and work, while Fella presents his “Visual Essay” in more than 300 pages of delightful drawings, collages, paintings, prints, and photographs—a dizzying array of media and messages—many from his copious notebooks. There is one spread that could have filled another 300 pages in his opinion. Notebook pages collaged with everyday paper detours—receipts, tickets, candy wrappers, price tags, business cards—that add up to a life story. A life in images, indeed!

Notes from Another Los Angeles: Gregory Ain and the Construction of a Social Landscape
edited by Anthony Fontenot

SAH/SCC members are no strangers to the work and social concepts of Gregory Ain, FAIA (1908-1988). The collected works in this book—including a 64-page portfolio of Julius Shulman photos, scholarly essays, article reprints, and lecture notes from SAH/SCC Co-Founder Esther McCoy (1904-1989)—put Ain’s process of solving “common architectural problems of common people” into its politically liberal context. The book focuses on Ain’s seminal housing projects: Dunsmuir Flats (1937), Park Planned Homes (1947), Avenel Cooperative (1948), Mar Vista Housing (1948), and Community Homes Cooperative (1946-48, unbuilt). Nicholas Olsberg looks at the work and its place in the realm of California Modernism. Former SAH/SCC President Anthony Denzer delves into Ain’s 280-page FBI file when the architect was under surveillance suspected of being a Soviet spy—a fascinating look at the institutionalized paranoia of the McCarthy-era Red Scare. The book includes several writings by Ain, himself. Descriptions of the five projects, including plans and contemporary photos of the built homes, round out this densely packed book. The authors’ timing is apt, as low-income and affordable housing, as well as cooperative living models, are hot topics today. It’s a primer for developers and architects of housing from the innovative design side, and perhaps more importantly, as Fontenot states, “to engage in some of the more difficult questions related to inequality and segregation that continue to shape our cities.”
